T H E C O N T E N T S.

1. GRACE Abounding to the Chief of Sinners: In a faithful Account of the Life and Death of Mr. John Bunyan: Or, A brief Relation of the exceeding Mercy of God in Christ to him. Namely, in his taking him out of the Dunghil, and converting of him to the Faith of his blessed Son Jesus Christ. Here is also particularly shew'd, What Sight of, and what Trouble he had for Sin, and also what various Temptations he hath met with; and how God hath carried him thro' them, Pag. 1
2. A Confession of my Faith, and a Reason of my Practice: Or, With who, and who not I can hold Church-Fellowship, or the Communion of Saints. Shewing, by divers Arguments, that tho' I dare not communicate with the open profane, yet I can with those visible Saints that differ about Water-Baptism. Wherein is also discoursed, whether that be the entering ordinance into Fellowship, or no, 47
3. Differences in Judgment about Water-Baptism, no Bar to Communion: Or, To Communicate with Saints, as Saints, proved lawful. In answer to a Book written by the Baptists, and published by Mr. T. P. and Mr. W. K. entituled, Some serious Reflections on that Part of Mr. Bunyan's Confession of Faith, touching Church-Communion with unbaptized Believers. Wherein their Objections and Arguments are answered, and the Doctrine of Communion still asserted and vindicated. Here is also Mr. Henry Jesse's Judgment in the Case, fully declaring the Doctrine I have asserted, 71
4. Peaceable Principles and true: Or, A brief Answer to Mr. Danvers and Mr. Paul's Books against my Confession of Faith, and Differences in Judgment about Baptism no Bar to Communion. Wherein their scriptureless Notions are overthrow'n, and my peaceable Principles still maintained, 102
5. The Doctrine of the Law and Grace unfolded: Or, A Discourse touching the Law and Grace. The Nature of the one, and the Nature of the other: Shewing what they are, as they are the two Covenants: And likewise, who they be, and what their Conditions are, that are under either of these two Covenants. Wherein for the better Understanding of the Reader, there are several Questions answered, touching the Law and Grace, very easy to be read, and as easy to be understood, by those that are the Sons of Wisdom, the Children of the Second Covenant, 113
6. The Pilgrim's Progress: From this World to that which is to come: Delivered under the Similitude of a Dream. Wherein is discover'd, The Manner of his Setting Out, his dangerous Journey, and safe Arrival at the desired Country, part I. 199
7. Ibid. part II. 258
8. The Jerusalem Sinner Saved: Or, Good News for the Vilest of Men: Being an Help for Despairing Souls: Shewing that Jesus Christ would have Mercy in the first place offered to the Biggest Sinners. To which is added, An Answer to those grand Objections that lie in the Way of them that would believe: For the Comfort of those that fear they have sinned against the Holy Ghost, 314
9. The Heavenly Footman: Or, a Description of the Man that gets to Heaven. Together with the Way he runs in, the Marks he goes by: Also some Directions how to run so as to obtain, 351
10. Solomon's Temple Spiritualiz'd: Or, Gospel-Light fetcht out of the Temple at Jerusalem, To let us more easily into the Glory of the New-Testament-Truths, 367
11. The acceptable Sacrifice: Or, The Excellency of a Broken Heart: Shewing the Nature, Signs, and proper Effects of a Contrite Spirit, 416

C O N T E N T S.

12. Sighs from Hell: Or, The Groans of a damned Soul: Discovering from the 6th of Luke, the lamentable Estate of the Damned. And may fitly serve as a Warning-Word to Sinners, both old and young, by Faith in Jesus Christ, to avoid the same place of torment. With a Discovery of the Usefulness of the Scriptures, as our safe Conduct for avoiding the Torments of Hell, 451
13. The Holy War, made by Shaddai upon Diabolus, for the regaining the Metropolis of the World. Or, The Losing and Taking of the Town of Mansoul, 503
14. Come and Welcome to Jesus Christ: Or, A plain and profitable Discourse on John vi. 37. Shewing the Cause, Truth, and Manner of the Coming of a Sinner to Jesus Christ; with his happy Reception, and blessed Entertainment, 606
15. A Discourse upon the Pharisee and Publican. Wherein several weighty Things are handled: As the Nature of Prayer, and of Obedience to the Law: Together with the Way and Method of God's Free Grace in pardoning penitent Sinners; by imputing Christ's Righteousness to them, 669
16. The Life and Death of Mr. Badman, presented to the World in a familiar Dialogue between Mr. Wiseman and Mr. Attentive, 728
17. The Barren Fig-Tree: Or, The Doom and Downfal of the fruitless Professor. Shewing that the Day of Grace may be past with him long before his Life is ended. The Signs also by which such miserable Mortals may be known, 800
18. An Exhortation to Peace and Unity, 825
19. Mr. Bunyan's last Sermon: Preached July 1688. 837
20. One Thing is Needful: Or, Serious Meditations upon the Four last Things, Death, Judgment, Heaven and Hell, 840
21. Ebal and Gerizzim: Or, The Blessing and the Curse. Being a short Exhortation to Sinners, by the Mercy and Severity of God, 849
22. Prison Meditations, directed to the Hearts of suffering Saints and reigning Sinners, 858

GRACE Abounding to the Chief of Sinners:

I N

A Faithful Account of the Life and Death of JOHN BUNYAN:

O R,

A brief Relation of the exceeding Mercy of God in Christ to him.

N A M E L Y,

In his taking him out of the Dunghil, and Converting of him to the Faith of his Blessed Son JESUS CHRIST.

Here is also particularly shewed,

What Sight of, and what Trouble he had for Sin, and also what various Temptations he hath met with; and how God hath carried him thro' them.

Corrected and much enlarged by the Author, for the benefit of the tempted and dejected Christian.

Come and hear all ye that fear God, and I will declare what he hath done for my Soul, Ps. 66. 16.

A P R E F A C E, Or, Brief Account of the publishing this Work.

Written by the Author thereof, and dedicated to those whom God hath counted him worthy to beget to Faith, by his Ministry in the Word.

CHILDREN, Grace be with you, Amen. I being taken from you in Presence, and so tied up that I cannot perform that Duty, that from God doth lye upon me to youward, for your farther edifying and building up in Faith and Holiness, &c. yet that you may see my Soul hath fatherly Care and Desire after your spiritual and everlasting Welfare, I now once again, as before, from the Top of Shenir and Hermon, so now from the
do look yet after you all, greatly longing to see your safe Arrival into THE desired Haven.

N^o. I.

I thank

I thank God upon every Remembrance of you; and rejoyce, even while I stick between the Teeth of the Lions in the Wilderness, that the Grace, and Mercy, and Knowledge of Christ our Saviour, which God hath bestowed upon you, with Abundance of Faith and Love; your Hungrings and Thirstings after farther Acquaintance with the Father, in the Son; your Tenderneſs of Heart, your Trembling at Sin, your sober and holy Deportment alſo, before both God and Men, is a great Refreſhment to me; for you are my Glory and Joy, 1 Theſſ. 2. 20.

I have ſent you here incloſed, a Drop of that Honey that I have taken out of the carcaſe of a Lion, Judg. 14. 5, 6, 7, 8. I have eaten thereof myſelf, and am much refreſhed thereby. (Temptations, when we meet them at firſt, are as the Lion that roared upon Sampſon; but if we overcome them, the next time we ſee them, we ſhall find a Neſt of Honey within them.) The Philiftines underſtood me not. It is ſomething, a Relation of the Work of God upon my Soul, even from the very firſt till now, wherein you may perceive my Caſtings down, and Riſings up; for he woundeth, and his Hands make whole. It is written in the Scripture, Iſa. 38. 19. The Father to the Children ſhall make known the Truth of God. Yea, it was for this Reason I lay ſo long at Sinai, Lev. 4. 10, 11. to ſee the Fire, and the Cloud, and the Darkneſs, that I might fear the Lord all the Days of my Life upon Earth, and tell of his wondrous Works to my Children, Pſal. 78. 3, 4, 5.

Mofes, Numb. 33. 1, 2. writ of the journeyings of the Children of Iſrael, from Egypt to the Land of Canaan; and commanded alſo, that they did remember their forty Years Travel in the Wilderness. Thou ſhalt remember all the Ways which the Lord thy God leads thee theſe forty Years in the Wilderness, to humble thee, and to prove thee, and to know what was in thine Heart, whether thou wouldſt keep his Commandments, or no, Deut. 8. 2, 3. Wherefore this I have endeavoured to do; and not only ſo, but to publiſh it alſo; that, if God will, others may be put in remembrance of what he hath done for their Souls, by reading his Work upon me.

It is profitable for Chriſtians to be often calling to Mind the very Beginnings of Grace with their Souls. It is a Night to be much obſerved to the Lord, for bringing them out from the Land of Egypt. This is that Night of the Lord to be obſerved of all the Children of Iſrael in their Generations, Exod. 12. 42. My God, ſaith David, Pſal. 42. 6. my Soul is caſt down within me; but I will remember thee from the Land of Jordan, and of the Hermonites, from the Hill Mizar. He remembred alſo the Lion and the Bear, when he went to fight with the Giant of Gath, 1 Sam. 17. 36, 37.

It was Paul's accuſtomed manner, Acts 22. and that when tried for his Life, Acts 24. even to open before his Judges the manner of his Converſion: He would think of that Day, and that Hour, in which he firſt did meet with Grace; for he found it ſupported him. When God had brought the Children of Iſrael out of the Red Sea, far into the Wilderness, yet they muſt turn quite about thither again, to remember the drowning of their Enemies there, Numb. 14. 25. for though they ſang his Praise before, yet they ſoon forgot his Works, Pſal. 116. 11, 12.

In this Diſcourſe of mine, you may ſee much; much I ſay, of the Grace of God towards me: I thank God, I can count it much, for it was above my Sins and Satan's Temptations too. I can remember my Fears and Doubts, and ſad Months, with Comfort; they are as the Head of Goliath in my Hand: There was nothing to David like Goliath's Sword, even that Sword that ſhould have been ſheath'd in his Bowels; for the very Sight and Remembrance of that did preach forth God's Deliverance to him. Oh, the remembrance of my great Sins, of my great Temptations, and of my great Fear of periſhing for ever! They bring aſreſh into my Mind the Remembrance of my great Help, my great Supports from Heaven, and the great Grace that God extended to ſuch a Wretch as I.

My dear Children, call to mind the former Days, and Tears of ancient Times: Remember alſo your Songs in the Night, and commune with your own Heart, Pſal. 73. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12. Yea, look diligently, and leave no Corner therein unſearch'd for that Treasure hid, even the Treasure of your firſt and ſecond Experience of the Grace of God towards you. Remember, I ſay, the Word that firſt laid hold upon you: Remember your Terrors of Conſcience, and Fear of Death and Hell: Remember alſo your Tears and Prayers to God: yea, how you ſighed under every Hedge of Mercy. Have you never an Hill Mizar to remember? Have you forgot the Cloſe, the Milk-houſe, the Stable, the Barn, and the like, where God did viſit your Souls? Remember alſo the Word, the Word, I ſay, upon which the Lord hath cauſed you to hope: If you have ſinned againſt Light, if you are tempted to Blaſphemy, if you are drowned in Deſpair, if you think God fights againſt you, or if Heaven is hid from your Eyes; remember it was thus with your Father, but out of them all the Lord delivered me.

I could have enlarg'd much in this my Diſcourſe, of my Temptations and Troubles for Sin; as alſo of the merciful Kindneſs and Working of God with my Soul: I could alſo have ſtepp'd into a Style much higher than this, in which I have here diſcourſed, and could have adorn'd all things more than here I have ſeem'd to do, but I dare not: God did not play in tempting of me; neither did I play, when I ſunk as into a bottomleſs Pit, when the Pangs of Hell caught hold upon me; wherefore I may not play in relating of them, but be plain and and simple, and lay down the Thing as it was: He that liketh it, let him receive it; and he that doth not, let him produce a better. Farewel.

My dear Children,
The Milk and Honey is beyond this Wilderness. God be merciful to you, and grant that you be not slothful to go in to possess the Land.

JOHN BUNYAN.

Grace Abounding to the Chief of Sinners, &c.

IN this my relation of the merciful Working of God upon my Soul, it will not be amiss, if, in the first place, I do, in a few Words, give you an Hint of my Pedigree, and manner of bringing up; that thereby the Goodness and Bounty of God towards me, may be the more advanced and magnified before the Sons of Men.

2. For my Descent then, it was, as is well known by many, of a low and inconsiderable Generation; my Father's House being of that Rank that is meanest, and most despised of all the Families in the Land. Wherefore I have not here, as others, to boast of noble Blood, or of any high born State, according to the Flesh; though, all things considered, I magnify the heavenly Majesty, for that by this Door he brought me into the World, to partake of the Grace and Life that is in Christ by the Gospel.

3. But notwithstanding the Meanness and Inconsiderableness of my Parents, it pleased God to put it into their Hearts, to put me to School, to learn me both to read and write; the which I also attained, according to the Rate of other poor Men's Children; tho', to my Shame I confess I did soon lose that I had learned, even almost utterly, and that long before the Lord did work his gracious Work of Conversion upon my Soul.

4. As for my own natural Life, for the time that I was without God in the World, it was indeed, according to the Course of this World, and the Spirit that now worketh in the Children of Disobedience, Eph. 2. 2, 3. It was my Delight to be taken captive by the Devil at his Will, 2 Tim. 2. 26. being filled with all Unrighteousness: The which did also so strongly work, and put forth it self, both in my Heart and Life, and that from a Child, that I had but few Equals (especially considering my Years, which were tender, being but few) both for cursing, swearing, lying, and blaspheming the holy Name of God.

5. Yea, so settled and rooted was I in these things, that they became as a second Nature to me; the which, as I have also with Soberness considered since, did so offend the Lord, that even in my Childhood he did scare and affrighten me with fearful Dreams, and did terrify me, with fearful Visions: For often, after I had spent this and the other day in Sin, I have in my Bed been greatly afflicted, while asleep, with the Apprehensions of Devils, and wicked Spirits, who still, as I then thought, laboured to draw me away with them, of which I could never be rid.

6. Also I should, at these Years, be greatly afflicted and troubled with the thoughts of the fearful Torments of Hell-fire; still fearing that it would be my lot to be found at last among those Devils and hellish Fiends, who are there bound down with the Chains of Bonds and Darkness, unto the Judgment of the Great Day.

7. These things, I say, when I was but a Child, but 9 or 10 years old, did so distress my Soul, that then, in the midst of my many Sports and childish Vanities, amidst my vain Companions, I was often much cast down, and afflicted in my Mind therewith, yet could I not let go my Sins: Yea, I was also then so overcome with despair of Life and Heaven, that I should often wish, either that there had been no Hell, or that I had been a Devil; supposing they were only Tormentors; that if it must needs be, that I went thither, I might be rather a Tormentor, than be tormented my self.

8. A while after these terrible Dreams did leave me, which also I soon forgot; for my Pleasures did quickly cut off the Remembrance of them, as if they had never been: Wherefore with more Greediness, according to the Strength of Nature, I did still let loose the Reins of my Lust, and delighted in all Transgressions against the Law of God: So that until I came to the State of Marriage, I was the very ring-leader leader of all the Youth that kept me Company, in all manner of Vice and Ungodliness.

9. Yea, such Prevalency had the Lusts and Fruits of the flesh, in this poor Soul of mine, that had not a miracle of precious Grace prevented, I had not only perished by the stroke of Eternal Justice, but had also laid my self open, even to the stroke of those Laws, which bring some to Disgrace and open Shame before the Face of the World.

10. In these days the Thoughts of Religion were very grievous to me; I could neither endure it my self, nor that any other should: So that when I have seen some read in those books that concerned Christian Piety, 'twou'd be as it were a Prison to me. Then I said unto God, Depart from me, for I desire not the knowledge of thy ways, Job 21. 14, 15. I was now void of all good Consideration, Heaven and Hell were both out of Sight and Mind; and as for saving and damning, they were least in my Thoughts. O Lord, thou knowest my Life, and my Ways were not hid from thee.

11. But this I well remember, That tho' I could my self sin with the greatest Delight and Ease, and also take Pleasure in the Vileness of my Companions; yet, even then, if I had at any time seen wicked things, by those who professed Goodness, it would make my Spirit tremble. As once, above all the rest, when I was in the heighth of Vanity, yet hearing one to swear, that was reckoned for a religious Man, it had so great a stroke upon my Spirit, that it made my Heart ake.

12. But God did not utterly leave me, but followed me still, not with Convictions, but Judgments; yet such as were mixed with Mercy. For once I fell into a Creek of the Sea, and hardly escaped drowning. Another time I fell out of a Boat into Bedford River, but Mercy yet preserved me alive: Besides, another time, being in the Field, with one of my Companions, it chanced that an Adder passed over the highway, so I having a Stick in my Hand, struck her over the Back; and having stunned her, I forced open her Mouth with my Stick, and pluck'd her Sting out with my Fingers; by which Act, had not God been merciful unto me, I might, by my Desperateness, have brought my self to my End.

13. This also have I taken notice of, with Thanksgiving; when I was a Soldier, I, with others, were drawn out to go to such a place to besiege it; but when I was just ready to go, one of the Company desired to go in my room; to which, when I had consented, he took my Place; and coming to the Siege, as he stood Sentinel, he was shot into the Head with a Musquet-bullet, and died.

14. Here, as I said, were Judgments and Mercy, but neither of them did awaken my Soul to Righteousness; wherefore I sinned still, and grew more and more rebellious against God, and careless of my own Salvation.

15. Presently after this, I changed my Condition into a married State, and my Mercy was, to light upon a Wife, whose Father was counted godly: This Woman and I, tho' we came together as poor as poor might be, (not having so much householdstuff as a Dish or Spoon betwixt us both) yet this she had for her part, The Plain-Man's Path-way to Heaven, The Practice of Piety, which her Father had left her when he died. In these two Books I should sometimes read with her, wherein I also found some things that were somewhat pleasing to me; (but all this while I met with no Conviction.) She also would be often telling of me, what a godly Man her Father was, and how he would reprove and correct Vice, both in his House, and among his Neighbours; what a strict and holy Life he lived in his Days, both in Word and Deed.

16. Wherefore these Books, with the Relation, tho' they did not reach my Heart, to awaken it about my sad and sinful State, yet they did beget within me some Desires to reform my vicious Life, and fall in very eagerly with the Religion of the Times; to wit, to go to Church twice a Day, and that too with the foremost; and there should very devoutly, both say and sing, as others did, yet retaining my wicked Life; but withal, I was so over-run with the Spirit of Superstition, that I adored, and that with great Devotion, even all things (both the High-place, Priest, Clerk, Vestment, Service, and what else) belonging to the Church; counting all things Holy that were therein contained, and especially, the Priest and Clerk most happy, and without doubt, greatly blessed, because they were the Servants, as I then thought, of God, and were principal in the Holy Temple, to do his Work therein.

17. This Conceit grew so strong, in little time upon my Spirit, that had I but seen a Priest (tho' never so sordid and debauched in his Life) I should find my Spirit fall under him, reverence him, and knit unto him; yea, I thought for the Love I did bear unto them (supposing they were the Ministers of God) I could have laid down at their Feet, and have been trampled upon by them, their Name, their Garb, and Work did so intoxicate and bewitch me.

18. After I had been thus for some considerable time, another Thought came in my Mind; and that was, whether we were of the Israelites, or no? For finding in the Scripture that they were once the peculiar People of God, thought I, if I were were one of this Race, my Soul must needs be happy. Now again, I found within me a great longing to be resolved about this Question, but could not tell how I should: At last I asked my Father of it; who told me, No, we were not. Wherefore then I fell in my Spirit, as to the Hopes of that, and so remain'd.

19. But all this while, I was not sensible of the Danger and Evil of Sin; I was kept from considering that Sin would damn me, what Religion soever I followed, unless I was found in Christ: Nay, I never thought of him, nor whether there was such a one, or no. Thus Man, while blind, doth wander, but wearieth himself with Vanity, for he knoweth not the Way to the City of God, Eccles. 10. 15.

20. But one Day (amongst all the Sermons our Parson made) his subject was, to treat of the Sabbath-day, and of the Evil of breaking that, either with Labour, Sports, or otherwise: (Now I was, notwithstanding my Religion, one that took much Delight in all manner of Vice, and especially that was the Day that I did solace my self therewith) wherefore I fell in my Conscience under his Sermon, thinking and believing that he made that Sermon on purpose to shew me my evil doing. And at that time I felt what Guilt was, tho' never before, that I can remember; but then I was, for the present greatly loaden therewith, and so went home, when the Sermon was ended, with a great burthen upon my Spirit.

21. This, for that instant, did benumb the Sinews of my best Delights, and did imbitter my former Pleasures to me; but hold, it lasted not, for before I had well dined, the Trouble began to go off my Mind, and my Heart returned to its old Course: But oh! how glad was I, that this Trouble was gone from me, and that the Fire was put out, that I might sin again without Controul! Wherefore, when I had satisfied Nature with my Food, I shook the Sermon out of my Mind, and to my old Custom of Sports and Gaming I returned with great Delight.

22. But the same Day, as I was in the midst of a Game of Cat, and having struck it one Blow from the Hole, just as I was about to strike it the second time, a Voice did suddenly dart from Heaven into my Soul, which said, Wilt thou leave thy Sins and go to Heaven, or have thy Sins and go to Hell? At this I was put to an exceeding maze; wherefore, leaving my Cat upon the Ground, I looked up to Heaven, and was, as if I had, with the Eyes of my Understanding, seen the Lord Jesus looking down upon me, as being very hotly displeased with me, and as if he did severely threaten me with some grievous Punishment for these and other ungodly Practices.

23. I had no sooner thus conceived in my Mind, but suddenly this Conclusion was fastned on my Spirit (for the former hint did set my Sins again before my Face) that I had been a great and grievous Sinner, and that it was now too late for me to look after Heaven; for Christ would not forgive me, nor pardon my Transgressions. Then I fell to musing on this also; and while I was thinking of it, and fearing least it should be so, I felt my Heart sink in Despair, concluding it was too late; and therefore I resolved in my Mind to go on in Sin: For, thought I, if the Case be thus, my State is surely miserable; miserable if I leave my Sins, and but miserable if I follow them: I can but be damned, and if I must be so, I had as good be damned for many Sins, as be damned for few.

24. Thus I stood in the midst of my play, before all that then were present; but yet I told them nothing: But I say, I having made this Conclusion, I returned desperately to my Sport again; and I well remember, that presently this kind of Despair did so possess my Soul, that I was persuaded, I could never attain to other Comfort, than what I should get in Sin; for Heaven was gone already, so that on that I must not think: Wherefore I found within me great Desire to take my fill of Sin, still studying what Sin was yet to be committed, that I might taste the Sweetness of it; and I made as much haste as I could to fill my Belly with its Delicates, lest I should die before I had my Desires; for that I feared greatly. In these things, I protest before God, I lie not, neither do I frame this sort of Speech, these were really, strongly, and with all my Heart, my Desires; The good Lord, whose Mercy is unsearchable, forgive me my Transgressions.

25. And I am very confident, that this Temptation of the Devil is more usual among poor Creatures, than many are aware of, even to over-run the Spirits with a scurvy and seared Frame of Heart, and benumbing of Conscience; which Frame he stilly and sily supplieth with such Despair, that tho' not much Guilt attendeth Souls, yet they continually have a secret Conclusion within them, that there is no Hopes for them; for they have loved Sins, therefore after them they will go, Jer. 2. 25. and 18. 12.

26. Now therefore I went on in Sin with great Greediness of Mind, still grudging that I could not be satisfied with it as I would. This did continue with me about a Month, or more; but one Day, as I was standing at a Neighbour's Shop-window, and there Cursing and Swearing, and playing the Mad-man, after my wonted Manner, there sate within the Woman of the House, and heard me, who, tho' she was a very loose and ungodly Wretch, yet protested tested that I swore and cursed at that most fearful rate, that she was made to tremble to hear me; and told me further, That I was the ungodliest Fellow for swearing, that ever she heard in all her Life; and that I, by thus doing, was able to spoil all the Youth in the whole Town, if they came but in my Company.

27. At this Reproof I was silenced, and put to secret Shame; and that too, as I thought before the God of Heaven; wherefore, while I stood there, and hanging down my Head, I wished with all my Heart that I might be a little Child again, that my Father might learn me to speak without this wicked way of Swearing; for, thought I, I am so accustomed to it, that it is in vain for me to think of a Reformation, for I thought it could never be.

28. But how it came to pass, I know not; I did from this time forward, so leave my swearing, that it was a great Wonder to my self to observe it; and whereas before I knew not how to speak unless I put an Oath before and another behind, to make my Words have Authority; now I could, without it, speak better, and with more Pleasantness than ever I could before. All this while I knew not Jesus Christ, neither did I leave my Sports and Plays.

29. But quickly after this, I fell into Company with one poor Man that made Profession of Religion; who, as I then thought, did talk pleasantly of the Scriptures, and of the Matter of Religion; wherefore falling into some love and liking to what he said, I betook me to my Bible, and began to take great Pleasure in Reading, but especially with the Historical Part thereof; for as for Paul's Epistles, and such like Scriptures, I could not away with them, being as yet ignorant, either of the Corruptions of my Nature, or of the Want and Worth of Jesus Christ to save us.

30. Wherefore I fell to some outward Reformation, both in my Words and Life, and did set the Commandments before me for my way to Heaven; which Commandments I also did strive to keep, and as I thought, did keep them pretty well sometimes, and then I should have Comfort; yet now and then should break one, and so afflict my Conscience; but then I should repent, and say, I was sorry for it, and promise God to do better next time, and there get Help again, for then I thought I pleased God as well as any Man in England.

31. Thus I continued about a Year; all which time our Neighbours did take me to be a very godly Man, a new and religious Man, and did marvel much to see such a great and famous Alteration in my Life and Manners: and indeed so it was, tho' yet I knew not Christ, nor Grace, nor Faith, nor Hope; for, as I have well seen since, had I then died, my State had been most fearful.

32. But, I say, my Neighbours were amazed at this my great Conversion, from prodigious Prophaneness, to something like a moral Life; and truly, so they well might; for this my Conversion was as great, as for Tom of Bethlehem to become a sober Man. Now therefore they began to praise, to commend, and to speak well of me, both to my Face, and behind my Back. Now I was, as they said, become Godly; now I was become a right honest Man. But oh! when I understood those were their Words and Opinions of me, it pleased me mighty well. For tho' as yet I was nothing but a poor painted Hypocrite, yet I loved to be talked of as one that was truly Godly. I was proud of my Godliness, and indeed, I did all I did, either to be seen of, or to be well spoken of by Men: And thus I continued for about a Twelve month, or more.

33. Now you must know, that before this I had taken much Delight in Ringing, but my Conscience beginning to be tender, I thought such Practice was but vain, and therefore forced my self to leave it, yet my Mind hankered; wherefore I should go to the Steeple-house, and look on, though I durst not Ring: But I thought this did not become Religion neither, yet I forced my self, and would look on still: But quickly after, I began to think, How if one of the Bells should fall? Then I chose to stand under a mean Beam, that lay overthwart the Steeple, from Side to Side, thinking here I might stand sure, but then I thought again, should the Bell fall with a Swing, it might first hit the Wall, and then rebounding upon me, might kill me for all this Beam: This made me stand in the Steeple-door; and now thought I, I am safe enough; for if the Bell should then fall, I can slip out behind these thick Walls, and so be preserved notwithstanding.

34. So after this I would yet go to see them Ring, but would not go farther than the Steeple-door; but then it came into my Head, How if the Steeple it self should fall? And this Thought (it may for ought I know) when I stood and looked on, did continually so shake my Mind, that I durst not stand at the Steeple-door any longer, but was forced to flee, for fear the Steeple should fall upon my Head.

35. Another thing was, my Dancing: I was a full Year before I could quite leave that; but all this while, when I thought I kept this or that Commandment, or did, by Word or Deed, any thing that I thought was good, I had great Peace in my Conscience; and should think with my self, God cannot chuse but be now pleased with me; yea, to relate it in mine own way, I thought no Man in England could please God better than I.

36. But poor Wretch as I was, I was all this while ignorant of Jesus Christ; and going going about to establish my own Righteousness; and had perished therein, had not God, in Mercy, shewed me more of my State by Nature.

37. But upon a Day, the good Providence of God called me to Bedford, to work on my Calling; and in one of the Streets of that Town, I came where there were three or four poor Women sitting at a Door in the Sun, talking about the things of God; and being now willing to hear their Discourse, I drew near to hear what they said, for I was now a brisk Talker of my self, in the matter of Religion, but I may say, I heard, but understood not; for they were far above, out of my reach. Their Talk was about a new Birth, the Work of God on their Hearts, as also how they were convinced of their miserable State by Nature; they talked how God had visited their Souls with his Love in the Lord Jesus, and with what Words and Promises they had been refreshed, comforted and supported against the Temptations of the Devil: Moreover, they reasoned of the Suggestions and Temptations of Satan in particular; and told to each other by which they had been afflicted, and how they were born up under his Assaults. They also discoursed of their own Wretchedness of Heart, of their Unbelief; and did contemn, slight and abhor their own Righteousness, as filthy, and insufficient to do them any good.

38. And methought they spake, as if you did make them speak; they spake with such Pleasantness of Scripture Language, and with such Appearance of Grace in all they said, that they were to me, as if they had found a new World, as if they were People that dwelt alone, and were not to be reckoned among their Neighbours, Numb. 23. 9.

39. At this I felt my own Heart began to shake, and mistrust my Condition to be naught; for I saw that in all my Thoughts about Religion and Salvation, the new Birth did never enter into my Mind, neither knew I the Comfort of the Word and Promise, nor the Deceitfulness and Treachery of my own wicked Heart. As for secret Thoughts I took no Notice of them; neither did I understand what Satan's Temptations were, nor how they were to be withstood and resisted, &c.

40. Thus therefore, when I had heard and considered what they said, I left them, and went about my Employment again, but their Talk and Discourse went with me; also my Heart would tarry with them, for I was greatly affected with their Words, both because by them I was convinced that I wanted the true Tokens of a truly godly Man, and also because by them I was convinced of the happy and blessed Condition of him that was such a one.

41. Therefore I should often make it my Business, to be going again and again into the Company of these poor People, for I could not stay away: and the more I went among them, the more I did question my Condition; and as I still do remember, presently I found two things within me, at which I did sometimes marvel (especially considering what a blind, ignorant, sordid and ungodly Wretch but just before I was,) The one was a very great Softness and Tenderness of Heart which caused me to fall under the Conviction of what by Scripture they asserted; and the other was a great bending in my Mind, to a continual Meditating on it, and on all other good things, which at any time I heard or read of.

42. By these things my Mind was now so turned, that it lay like an Horseleach at the Vein, still crying out Give, give, Prov. 30. 15. which was so fixed on Eternity, and on the things about the Kingdom of Heaven (that is, so far as I knew, tho' as yet God knows, I knew but little) that neither Pleasures, nor Profits, nor Persuasions, nor Threats, could loose it, or make it let go his hold; and tho' I may speak it with Shame, yet it is in very deed, a certain Truth, it would then have been as difficult to me to have taken my Mind from Heaven to Earth, as I have found it often since, to get again from Earth to Heaven.

43. One thing I may not omit: There was a young Man in our Town, to whom my Heart before was knit, more than to any other, but he being a most wicked Creature for Cursing, and Swearing, and Whoring, I now shook him off, and forsook his Company; but about a quarter of a Year after I had left him, I met him in a certain Lane, and asked him how he did; he, after his old Swearing and mad way, answered, He was well. But, Harry, said I, why do you Swear and Curse thus? What will become of you, if you die in this Condition? He answered me in a great Chafe, What would the Devil do for Company, if it were not for such as I am?

44. About this time I met with some Ranters Books, that were put forth by some of our Countrymen, which Books were also highly in Esteem by several old Professors, some of these I read, but was not able to make a Judgment about them, wherefore as I read in them, and thought upon them, seeing my self unable to judge, I should betake my self to hearty Prayer in this Manner. O Lord, I am a Fool, and not able to know the Truth from Error: Lord leave me not to my own Blindness, either to approve of, or condemn this Doctrine; if it be of God, let me not despise it; if it be of the Devil, let me not embrace it. Lord, I lay my Soul in this matter, only at thy Foot; let me not be deceived, I humbly beseech thee. I had one religious intimate Companion all this while, and that was the poor Man I spoke of before; but about this time, he also turned a most devilish Ranter, and gave himself up to all manner of Filthiness, ness, especially Uncleaness: He would also deny that there was a God, Angel or Spirit; and would laugh at all Exhortations to Sobriety: When I laboured to rebuke his Wickedness, he would laugh the more, and pretend that he had gone through all Religions, and could never light on the right till now. He told me also, that in a little Time I should see all Professors turn to the Ways of the Ranters. Wherefore abominating those cursed Principles, I left his Company forthwith, and became to him as great a Stranger, as I had been before a Familiar.

45. Neither was this Man only a Temptation to me, but my Calling lying in the Country, I happened to light into several Peoples Company; who though strict in Religion formerly, yet were also swept away by these Ranters. These would also talk with me of their Ways, and condemn me as legal and dark; pretending that they had only attain'd to Perfection, that could do what they would and not sin. Oh! these Temptations were suitable to my Flesh, I being but a young Man, and my Nature in its Prime; but God who had, as I hope, designed me for better Things, kept me in the Fear of his Name, and did not suffer me to accept such cursed Principles. And blessed be God, who put it in my Heart to cry to him to be kept and directed, still distrusting mine own Wisdom; for I have since seen even the Effects of that Prayer, in his preserving me not only from Ranting Error, but from those also that have sprung up since. The Bible was precious to me in those Days.

46. And now methought, I began to look into the Bible with new Eyes, and read as I never did before; and especially the Epistles of the Apostle St. Paul were sweet and pleasant to me; and indeed then I was never out of the Bible, either by Reading or Meditation; still crying out to God, that I might know the Truth, and Way to Heaven and Glory.

47. And as I went on and read, I lighted on that Passage, To one is given by the Spirit the Word of Wisdom, to another the Word of Knowledge by the same Spirit; and to another Faith, &c. 1 Cor. 12. And tho' as I have since seen, that by this Scripture the Holy Ghost intends, in special, things extraordinary, yet on me it did then fasten with Conviction, that I did want Things ordinary, even that Understanding and Wisdom that other Christians had. On this Word I mused, and could not tell what to do, especially this Word [Faith] put me to it, for I could not help it, but sometimes must question, whether I had any Faith or no; but I was loth to conclude, I had no Faith; for if I do so, thought I, then I shall count myself a very Cast-away indeed.

48. No, said I, with myself, though I am convinced that I am an ignorant Sot, and that I want those blessed Gifts of Knowledge and Understanding that other People have; yet at venture I will conclude, I am not altogether faithless, though I know not what Faith is; for it was shewn me, and that too (as I have seen since) by Satan, that those who conclude themselves in a faithless State, have neither Rest nor Quiet in their Souls; and I was loth to fall quite into Despair.

49. Wherefore by this Suggestion, I was for a while made afraid to see my Want of Faith; but God would not suffer me thus to undo and destroy my Soul, but did continually, against this my sad and blind Conclusion, create still within me such Suppositions, insomuch that I could not rest content, until I did now come to some certain Knowledge, whether I had Faith or no; this always running in my Mind, But how if you want Faith indeed? But how can you tell you have Faith? And besides, I saw for certain, if I had not, I was sure to perish for ever.

50. So that though I endeavoured at the first, to look over the Business of Faith, yet in a little Time, I better considering the Matter, was willing to put myself upon the Trial whether I had Faith or no. But alas, poor Wretch, so ignorant and brutish was I, that I knew to this Day no more how to do it, than I know how to begin and accomplish that rare and curious Piece of Art, which I never yet saw or considered.

51. Wherefore while I was thus considering, and being put to my Plunge about it, (for you must know, that as yet I had, in this matter, broken my Mind to no Man, only did hear and consider) the Tempter came in with his Delusion, That there was no Way for me to know I had Faith, but by trying to work some Miracles; urging those Scriptures that seem to look that Way, for the enforcing and strengthening his Temptation. Nay, one Day, as I was between Elstow and Bedford, the Temptation was hot upon me, to try if I had Faith, by doing some Miracle: which Miracle at this Time was this, I must say to the Puddles that were in the Horse-pads, Be dry; and to the Dry Places, Be you Puddles. And truly one time I was going to say so indeed; but just as I was about to speak, this Thought came in my Mind; But go under yonder Hedge, and pray first that God would make you able. But when I had concluded to pray, this came hot upon me: That if I prayed, and came again, and tried to do it, and yet did nothing notwithstanding, then be sure I had no Faith, but was a Cast-away, and lost. Nay, thought I, if it be so, I will not try yet, but will stay a little longer.

52. So I continued at a great Loss; for I thought, if they only had Faith, which could do so wonderful Things, then I concluded cluded, that for the present I neither had it, nor yet for Time to come were ever like to have it. Thus I was tossed betwixt the Devil and my own Ignorance, and so perplexed, especially at some Times, that I could not tell what to do.

53. About this Time the State and Happiness of these poor People at Bedford was thus, in a kind of a Vision, presented to me. I saw, as if they were on the Sunny side of some high Mountain, there refreshing themselves with the pleasant Beams of the Sun, while I was shivering and shrinking in the Cold, afflicted with Frost, Snow, and dark Clouds: Methought also, betwixt me and them, I saw a Wall that did compass about this Mountain; now thro' this Wall my Soul did greatly desire to pass; concluding, that if I could, I would even go into the very Midst of them, and there also comfort myself with the Heat of their Sun.

54. About this Wall I thought myself, to go again and again, still prying as I went, to see if I could find some Way or Passage, by which I might enter therein; but none could I find for some time: At the last I saw, as it were, a narrow Gap, like a little Door-way in the Wall, thro' which I attempted to pass: Now the Passage being very strait and narrow, I made many Offers to get in, but all in vain, even until I was well nigh quite beat out, by striving to get in; at last with great Striving, methought I at first did get in my Head, and after that by a sideling striving, my Shoulders, and my whole Body; then was I exceeding glad, went and sat down in the Midst of them, and so was comforted with the Light and Heat of their Sun.

55. Now this Mountain and Wall, &c. was thus made out to me; the Mountain signified the Church of the Living God; the Sun that shone thereon, the comfortable Shining of his merciful Face on them that was therein; the Wall I thought was the World, that did make Separation between the Christians and the World; and the Gap which was in the Wall, I thought, was Jesus Christ, who is the Way to God the Father, John 14. 6. Matt. 7. 14. But forasmuch as the Passage was wonderful narrow, even so narrow, that I could not, but with great Difficulty enter in thereat, it shewed me that none could enter into Life, but those that were in down-right Earnest, and unless also they left that wicked World behind them; for here was only room for Body and Soul, but not for Body and Soul, and Sin.

56. This Resemblance abode upon my Spirit many Days; all which Time I saw myself in a forlorn and sad Condition, but yet was provoked to a vehement Hunger and Desire to be one of that Number, that did sit in the Sun-shine: Now also should I pray where-ever I was; whether at Home or Abroad; in House or Field; and should also often, with lifting up of Heart, sing that of the Fifty first Psalm, O Lord, consider my Distress; for as yet I knew not where it was.

57. Neither as yet could I attain to any comfortable Persuasion that I had Faith in Christ; but instead of having Satisfaction, here I began to find my Soul to be assaulted with fresh Doubts about my future Happiness; especially with such as these, Whether I was Elected? But how if the Day of Grace should now be past and gone?

58. By these two Temptations I was very much afflicted and disquieted; sometimes by one, and sometimes by the other of them. And first, to speak of that about my questioning my Election, I found at this Time, that though I was in a Flame to find the Way to Heaven and Glory, and though nothing could beat me off from this, yet this Question did so offend and discourage me, that I was, especially sometimes, as if the very Strength of my Body also had been taken away by the Force and Power thereof. This Scripture did also seem to me, to trample upon all my Desires; It is neither in him that willeth, nor in him that runneth, but in God that sheweth Mercy, Rom. 9.

59. With this Scripture I could not tell what to do, for I evidently saw, unless that the great God, of his infinite Grace and Bounty, had voluntarily chosen me to be a Vessel of Mercy, though I should desire, and long, and labour until my Heart did break, no good could come of it. Therefore this would stick with me, How can you tell that you are Elected? And what if you should not? How then?

60. O Lord, thought I, what if I should not indeed? It may be you are not, said the Tempter, it may be so indeed thought I. Why then said Satan, you had as good leave off, and strive no farther; for if indeed you should not be elected and chosen of God, there is no talk of your being saved; For it is neither in him that willeth, nor in him that runneth, but in God that sheweth Mercy.

61. By these Things I was driven to my Wits end, not knowing what to say, or how to answer these Temptations: indeed, I little thought that Satan had thus assaulted me, but that rather it was my own Prudence, thus to start the Question; for that the Elect only obtained Eternal Life; that I, without Scruple, did heartily close withal; but that myself was one of them, there lay the Question.

62. Thus, therefore, for several Days, I was greatly assaulted and perplexed, and was often, when I have been walking, ready to sink where I went, with Faintness in my Mind: But one Day, after I had been so many Weeks oppressed and cast down therewith, as I was now quite giving up the Ghost, of all my Hopes of ever attaining Life, that Sentence fell with weight upon my Spirit, Look at the Generations of Old, and see; Did ever any trust in God, and were confounded?

63. At which I was greatly enlightned, and encouraged in my Soul; for thus at that very instant, it was expounded to me: Begin at the beginning of Genesis, and read to the end of the Revelations, and see if you can find, that there was ever any that trusted in the Lord, and was confounded. So coming home, I presently went to my Bible, to see if I could find that Saying, not doubting but to find it presently; for it was so fresh, and with such Strength and Comfort on my Spirit, that it was as if it talked with me.

64. Well, I looked, but I found it not; only it abode upon me: Then I did ask first this good Man, and then another, if they knew where it was, but they knew no such place. At this I wondred, that such a Sentence should so suddenly, and with such Comfort and Strength, seize, and abide upon my Heart, and yet that none could find it (for I doubted not, but it was in Holy Scripture.)

65. Thus I continued above a Year, and could not find the Place; but at last, casting my Eye upon the Apocrypha Books, I found it in Ecclesiasticus, Eccles. 2. 16. This, at the first, did somewhat daunt me; but because by this time I had got more Experience of the Love and Kindness of God, it troubled me the less; especially when I considered, that though it was not in those Texts that we call Holy and Canonical, yet forasmuch as this Sentence was the Sum and Substance of many of the Promises, it was my Duty to take the Comfort of it; and I bless God for that Word, for it was of good to me: That Word doth still, of-times shine before my Face.

66. After this, that other doubt did come with strength upon me, But how if the Day of Grace should be past and gone? How if you have over-stood the Time of Mercy? Now I remember that one Day, as I was walking in the Country, I was much in the Thoughts of this, but how if the Day of Grace is past? And to aggravate my Trouble, the Tempter presented to my Mind those good People of Bedford, and suggested thus unto me, That these being converted already, they were all that God would save in those Parts; and that I came too late, for these had got the Blessing before I came.

67. Now was I in great Distress, thinking in very deed, that this might well be so; wherefore I went up and down bemoaning my sad Condition; counting my self far worse than a thousand Fools, for standing off thus long, and spending so many Years in Sin as I had done; still crying out, Oh, that I had turned sooner; Oh, that I had turned seven Years ago! It made me also angry with my self, to think that I should have no more Wit, but to trifle away my Time, till my Soul and Heaven were lost.

68. But when I had been long vexed with this Fear, and was scarce able to take one Step more, just about the same place where I received my other Encouragement, these Words broke in upon my Mind, compel them to come in, that my House may be filled; and yet there is room, Luke 14. 22, 23. These Words, but especially them, And yet there is room, were sweet Words to me; for truly, I thought that by them I saw there was place enough in Heaven for me; and moreover, that when the Lord Jesus did speak these Words, he then did think of me; and that he knowing that the time would come, that I should be afflicted with Fear, that there was no Place left for me in his Bosom, did before speak this Word, and leave it upon Record, that I might find Help thereby against this vile Temptation. This I then verily believed.

69. In the Light and Encouragement of this Word, I went a pretty while; and the Comfort was the more, when I thought that the Lord Jesus should think on me so long ago, and that he should speak them Words on purpose for my sake; for I did think verily, that he did on purpose speak them, to encourage me withal.

70. But I was not without my Temptations to go back again; Temptations I say, both from Satan, mine own Heart, and carnal Acquaintance; but I thank God these were outweighed by that sound Sense of Death and of the Day of Judgment, which abode, as it were continually in my View: I should often also think on Nebuchadnezzar; of whom 'tis said, He had given him all the Kingdoms of the Earth, Dan. 5. 18, 19. Yet, thought I, if this great Man had all his Portion in this World, one Hour in Hell-fire would make him forget all. Which Consideration was a great Help to me.

71. I was almost made, about this time, to see something concerning the Beasts that Moses counted clean, and unclean: I thought those Beasts were Types of Men; the Clean, Types of them that were the People of God; but the Unclean Types of such as were the Children of the wicked One. Now, I read that the Clean Beasts chewed the Cud; that is, thought I, they shew us, we must feed upon the Word of God: They also parted the Hoof, I thought that signified, we must part, if we would be saved, with the Ways of ungodly Men. And also, in further reading about them, I found, that though we did chew the Cud, as the Hare; yet if we walked with Claws, like a Dog; or if we did part the Hoof, like the Swine, yet if we did not chew the Cud, as the Sheep, we are still, for all that, but Unclean: For I thought the Hare to be a Type of those that talk of the Word, yet walk in Ways of Sin; and that the Swine was like him that parted with his outward Pollution, but still wanteth the Word of Faith, without which, there could be no Way of Salvation, let a Man be never so devout, Deut. 14. After this, I found by reading the Word, that those that must be glorified with Christ in another World, must be called by him here; called to the partaking of a Share in his Word and Righteousness, and to the Comforts and first Fruits of his Spirit, and to a peculiar Interest in all those heavenly Things, which do indeed forfeit the Soul for that Rest, and House of Glory, which is in Heaven above.

72. Here again I was at a very great Stand; not knowing what to do, fearing I was not called; for thought I, if I be not called, what then can do me good? None but those who are effectually called, inherit the Kingdom of Heaven. But Oh! how I now loved those Words that spake of a Christian's Calling! as when the Lord said to one, Follow me, and to another, Come after me: And Oh, thought I, that he would say so to me too; how gladly would I run after him!

73. I cannot now express with what Longings and Breathings in my Soul, I cried to Christ to call me. Thus I continued for a time, all on a Flame to be converted to Jesus Christ; and did also see at that Day, such Glory in a converted State, that I could not be contented without a Share therein. Gold! Could it have been gotten for Gold, what could I have given for it! Had I had a whole World, it had all gone ten thousand times over for this, that my Soul might have been in a converted State.

74. How lovely now was every one in my Eyes, that I thought to be converted Men and Women! They shone, they walked like a People that carried the broad-Seal of Heaven about them. Oh! I saw the Lot was fallen to them in pleasant Places, and they had a goodly Heritage Psalms 16. But that which made me Sick, was that of Christ, in Mark, He went up into a Mountain, and called to him whom he would, and they came unto him, Mark 3. 13.

75. This Scripture made me faint and fear, yet it kindled Fire in my Soul. That which made me fear, was this; lest Christ should have no liking to me, for he called whom he would. But Oh! the Glory that I saw in that Condition, did still so engage my Heart, that I could seldom read of any that Christ did call, but I presently wished, Would I had been in their Cloaths; would I had been born Peter; would I had been born John; or would I had been by and had heard him when he called them, how would I have cried, O Lord call me also? But, Oh! I feared he would not call me.

76. And truly, the Lord let me go thus many Months together, and shewed me nothing; either that I was already, or should be called hereafter: But at last, after much time spent, and many Groans to God, that I might be made Partaker of the Holy and Heavenly Calling; that Word came in upon me: I will cleanse their Blood that I have not cleansed, for the Lord dwelleth in Zion, Joel 3. 21. These Words I thought were sent to encourage me to wait still upon God; and signified unto me, that if I were not already, yet time might come I might be in Truth converted into Christ.

77. About this time I began to break my Mind to those poor People in Bedford, and to tell them my Condition; which when they had heard, they told Mr. Gifford of me, who himself also took Occasion to talk with me; and was willing to be well perswaded of me, though I think from little Grounds: But he invited me to his House, where I should hear him confer with others, about the Dealings of God with their Souls; from all which I still received more Conviction, and from that time began to see something of the Vanity, and inward Wretchedness of my wicked Heart, for as yet I knew no great Matter therein; but now it began to be discovered unto me, and also to work at that rate as it never did before. Now I evidently found, that Lusts and Corruptions put forth themselves within me, in wicked Thoughts and Desires; which I did not regard before; my Desires also for Heaven and Life began to fail, I found also, that whereas before my Soul was full of longing after God, now it began to hanker after every foolish Vanity; yea, my Heart would not be moved to mind that which was good; it began to be careless, both of my Soul and Heaven; it would now continually hang back, both to, and in every Duty; and was as a Clog on the Leg of a Bird, to hinder me from flying.

78. Nay, thought I, now I grow worse and worse; now I am farther from Conversion than ever I was before: Wherefore I began to sink greatly in my Soul, and began to entertain such Discouragement in my Heart, as laid me as low as Hell. If now I should have burned at the Stake, I could not believe that Christ had a Love for me; alas; I could neither hear him, nor see him, nor feel him, nor savour any of his Things; I was driven as with a Tempest, my Heart would be unclean, and the Canaanites would dwell in the Land.

79. Sometimes I would tell my Condition to the People of God; which when they heard, they would pity me, and would tell me of the Promises; but they had as good have told me, that I must reach the Sun with my Finger, as have bidden me receive or rely upon the Promises; and as soon as I should have done it, all my Sense and Feeling was against me; and I saw I had a Heart that would Sin, and that lay under a Law that would condemn.

80. These things have often made me think of the Child which the Father brought to Christ, who while he was yet a coming to him, was thrown down by the Devil, and also so rent and torn by him, that he lay and wallowed, foaming, Luke 9. 42. Mark 9. 20.

81. Further, in these Days, I should find my Heart to shut it self up against the Lord and against his holy Word: I have found my Unbelief to fet, as it were, the Shoulder to the Door, to keep him out; and that too even then, when I have with many a bitter Sigh, cried, Good Lord break it open: Lord break these Gates of Brass, and cut these Bars of Iron asunder, Psalm 107. 16. Yet that Word would sometimes create in my heart a peaceable Pause, I girded thee, though thou hast not known me, Isa. 45. 5.

82. But all this while, as to the Act of Sinning, I never was more tender than now; I durst not take a Pin or Stick, though but so big as a Straw; for my Conscience now was sore, and would smart at every Touch: I could not now tell how to speak my Words, for Fear I should misplace them. Oh, how gingerly did I then go, in all I did or said! I found myself as on a miry Bog, that shook if I did but stir; and was as there left both of God and Christ, and the Spirit, and all good Things.

83. But I observe though I was such a great Sinner before Conversion, yet God never much charged the Guilt of the Sins of my Ignorance upon me; only he shewed me, I was lost if I had not Christ, because I had been a Sinner: I saw that I wanted a perfect Righteousness to present me without Fault before God, and this Righteousness was no where to be found, but in the Person of Jesus Christ.

84. But my original and inward Pollution, that, that was my Plague and Affliction; that I saw at a dreadful rate, always putting forth itself within me, that I had the Guilt of, to Amazement; by reason of that, I was more loathsome in mine own Eyes, than was a Toad; and I thought I was so in God's Eyes too: Sin and Corruption I said, would as naturally bubble out of my Heart, as Water would bubble out of a Fountain: I thought now, that every one had a better Heart than I had; I could have changed Heart with any body; I thought none but the Devil himself could equalize me for inward Wickedness and Pollution of Mind. I fell therefore at the Sight of my own Vileness, deeply into Despair; for I concluded, that this Condition that I was in, could not stand with a State of Grace. Sure, thought I, I am forsaken of God; sure I am given up to the Devil, and to a reprobate Mind: And thus I continued a long while, even for some Years together.

85. While I was thus afflicted with the Fears of my own Damnation, there were two Things would make me wonder; the one was, when I saw old People hunting after the Things of this Life, as if they should live here always: The other was, when I found Professors much distressed and cast down, when they met with outward Losses; as of Husband, Wife, Child, &c. Lord, thought I, what ado is here about such little Things as these! What seeking after carnal Things by some, and what Grief in others for the Loss of them! If they so much labour after, and shed so many Tears for the Things of this present Life, how am I to be bemoaned, pitied, and prayed for! My Soul is dying, my Soul is damning. Were my Soul but in a good Condition, and were I but sure of it, ah! how rich would I esteem my self, though blessed but with Bread and Water: I should count those but small Afflictions, and should bear them as little Burthens.

A wounded Spirit who can bear.

86. And though I was much troubled, and tossed, and afflicted, with the Sight and Sense and Terror of my own Wickedness, yet I was afraid to let this Sight and Sense go quite off my Mind: for I found, that unless Guilt of Conscience was taken off the right way, that is, by the Blood of Christ, a Man grew rather worse for the loss of his Trouble of Mind, than Trouble. Wherefore, if my Guilt lay hard upon me, then should I cry, that the Blood of Christ might take it off: And if it was going off without it (for the Sense of Sin would be sometimes as if it would die, and go quite away) then I would also strive to fetch it upon my Heart again by bringing the Punishment of Sin into Hell-fire upon my Spirits; and should cry, Lord, let it not go off my Heart, but the right way, by the Blood of Christ, and the Application of thy Mercy, through him, to my Soul; for that Scripture did lay much upon me, without shedding of Blood there is no Redemption, Heb. 22. And that which made me the more afraid of this was, because I had seen some, who, though when they were under Wounds of Conscience, would cry and pray; yet feeling rather present Ease for their Trouble, than Pardon for their Sin, cared not how they lost their Guilt, so they got it out of their Mind: Now having got it off the wrong way, it was not sanctified unto them; but they grew harder and blinder, and more wicked after their Trouble. This made me afraid, and made me cry to God the more, that it might not be so with me.

87. And

87. And now I was sorry that God had made me Man, for I feared I was a Reprobate: I counted Man as unconverted, the most doleful of all Creatures. Thus being afflicted and tossed about my sad Condition, I counted my self alone, and above the most of Men Unblessed.

88. Yea, I thought it impossible that ever I should attain to so much Godliness of Heart, as to thank God that he had made me a Man. Man indeed is the most Noble by Creation, of all Creatures in the visible World; but by Sin he had made himself the most Ignoble. The Beasts, Birds, Fishes, &c. I blessed their Condition; for they had not a sinful Nature, they were not obnoxious to the Wrath of God; they were not to go to Hell-fire after Death; I could therefore have rejoiced, had my Condition been as any of theirs.

89. In this Condition I went a great while; but when comforting time was come, I heard one Preach a Sermon on these Words in the Song (Song 4. 1.) Behold thou art fair, my Love; behold thou art fair: But at that time he made these two Words, My Love, his chief and subject Matter; from which, after he had a little opened the Text, he observed these several Conclusions; 1. That the Church, and so every saved Soul, is Christ's Love, when loveless. 2. Christ's Love without a Cause. 3. Christ's Love, which hath been hated of the World. 4. Christ's Love, when under Temptation, and under Destruction. 5. Christ's Love from first to last.

90. But I got nothing by what he said at present; only when he came to the Application of the fourth Particular, this was the Word he said; If it be so, that the saved Soul is Christ's Love, when under Temptation and Destruction; then poor tempted Soul when thou art assaulted and afflicted with Temptations, and the Hidings of God's Face, yet think on these two Words, My Love, still.

91. So as I was going home, these Words came again into my Thoughts; and I well remember, as they came in, I said thus in my Heart, What shall I get by thinking on these two Words? This Thought had no sooner passed through my Heart, but these Words began thus to kindle in my Spirit, Thou art my Love, thou art my Dove, twenty times together; and still as they ran in my Mind, they waxed stronger and warmer, and began to make me look up; but being as yet between Hope and Fear, I still replied in my Heart, But it is true, but it is true? At which, that Sentence fell upon me, He wist not that it was true, which was come unto him of the Angel, Acts 12. 29.

92. Then I began to give place to the Word; which, with Power, did over and over make this joyful Sound within my Soul, Thou art my Love, thou art my Love; and nothing shall separate thee from my Love. And with that my Heart was filled full of Comfort and Hope, and now I could believe that my Sins should be forgiven me; yea, I was now taken with the Love and Mercy of God, that, I remember, I could not tell how to contain till I got home: I thought I could have spoken of his Love, and have told of his Mercy to me, even to the very Crows that sat upon the plow'd Lands before me, had they been capable to have understood me: Wherefore I said in my Soul, with much Gladness, well, I would I had a Pen and Ink here, I would write this down before I go any farther; for surely I will not forget this forty Years hence: But, alas! within less than forty Days, I began to question all again; which made me begin to question all still.

93. Yet still at times, I was helped to believe, that it was a true Manifestation of Grace unto my Soul, tho' I had lost much of the Life and Savour of it. Now about a Week or Fortnight after this, I was much followed by this Scripture, Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired to have you, Luke 22. 31. And sometimes it would sound so loud within me, yea, and as it was, call so strongly after me, that once, above all the rest, I turned my Head over my Shoulder thinking verily that some Man had, behind me, called me; being at a great distance me thought he called so loud: It came, as I have thought since, to have stirred me up to Prayer, and to Watchfulness: It came to acquaint me, that a Cloud and a Storm was coming down upon me; but I understood it not.

94. Also, as I remember, that time that it called to me so loud, was the last time that it sounded in mine Ears; but methinks I hear still with what a loud Voice these Words, Simon, Simon, sounded in mine Ears. I thought verily, as I have told you, that somebody had called after me, that was half a Mile behind me: And altho' that was not my Name, yet it made me suddenly look behind me; believing that he that called so loud meant me.

95. But so foolish was I, and ignorant, that I knew not the Reason of this Sound; (which as I did both see and feel soon after, was sent from Heaven as an Alarm, to awaken me to provide for what was coming) only I should muse and wonder in my Mind, to think what should be the Reason of this Scripture, and that at this rate, so often and so loud, should still be sounding and ratling in mine Ears; But, as I said before, I soon after perceived the End of God therein.

96. For, about the space of a Month after, a very great Storm came down upon me, which handled me twenty times worse than all I had met with before; it came stealing upon me, now by one piece, then by another, first, all my Comfort was taken from me, then Darkness seized upon me; after which, whole Floods of Blasphemies, both against God, Christ, and the Scriptures, was poured upon my Spirit, to my great Confusion and Astonishment. These blasphemous Thoughts were such as stirred up Questions in me, against the very Being of God, and of his only beloved Son: As, whether there were in Truth, a God or Christ? And whether the Holy Scriptures were not rather a Fable, and cunning Story, than the holy and pure Word of God?

97. The Tempter would also much assault me with this, How can you tell but that the Turks had as good Scriptures to prove their Mahomet the Saviour, as we have to prove our Jesus? And, could I think, that so many Ten Thousands, in so many Countries, and Kingdoms, should be without the Knowledge of the right Way to Heaven; (if there were indeed a Heaven) and that we only, who live in a corner of the Earth, should alone be Blessed therewith; Every one doth think his own Religion rightest, both Jews and Moors, and Pagans! and how if all our Faith, and Christ, and Scriptures, should be but a Think so too?

98. Sometimes I have endeavoured to argue against these Suggestions, and to set some of the Sentences of blessed Paul against them; but, alas! I quickly felt, when I thus did, such Arguings as these would return again upon me, Though we made so great a Matter of Paul, and of his Words, yet how could I tell, but that in very deed, he being a subtil and cunning Man, might give himself up to deceive with strong Delusions; and also take the Pains and Travel, to undo and destroy his Fellows.

99. These Suggestions (with many other which at this time I may not, nor dare not utter, neither by Word or Pen) did make such a Seizure upon my Spirit, and did so over-weigh my Heart, both with their Number, Continuance, and fiery Force, that I felt as if there were nothing else but these from Morning to Night within me; and as tho' indeed, there could be room for nothing else; and also concluded, that God had, in very Wrath to my Soul, given me up to them, to be carried away with them, as with a mighty Whirlwind.

100. Only by the Distaste that they gave unto my Spirit, I felt there was something in me, that refused to embrace me. But this Consideration I then only had, when God gave me leave to swallow my Spittle, otherwise the Noise, and Strength and Force of these Temptations, would drown and overflow; and as it were, bury all such Thoughts or the Remembrance of any such Thing. While I was in this Temptation, I should find often my Mind suddenly put upon it, to Curse and Swear, or to speak some grievous thing against God, or Christ his Son, and of the Scriptures.

101. Now I thought, surely I am possessed of the Devil: At other times, again I thought I should be bereft of my Wits; for instead of lauding and magnifying God the Lord with others, if I have but heard him spoken of, presently some most horrible blasphemous Thought or other, would bolt out of my Heart against him; so that whether I did think that God was, or again did think there was no such thing; no Love, nor Peace, nor gracious Disposition could I feel within me.

102. These things did sink me into very deep Despair; for I concluded, that such things could not possibly be found amongst them that loved God. I often, when these Temptations had been with force upon me, did compare my self to the Case of such a Child, whom some Gypsie hath by force took up in her Arms, and is carrying from Friend and Country: Kick sometimes I did, and also shriek and cry; but yet I was bound in the Wings of the Temptation, and the Wind would carry me away. I thought also of Saul, and of the evil Spirit that did possess him; and did greatly fear, that my Condition was the same with that of his, 1 Sam. 16. 14.

103. In these Days, when I have heard others talk of what was the Sin against the Holy Ghost, then would the Tempter so provoke me to desire to sin that Sin, that I was as if I could not, must not, neither should be quiet until I had committed it; now no Sin would serve but that: If it were to be committed by speaking of such a Word, then I have been as if my Mouth would have spoken that Word, whether I would or no: And in so strong a Measure was this Temptation upon me, that often I have been ready to clap my Hands under my Chin, to hold my Mouth from opening; and to that end also I have had thoughts at other times, to leap with my Head downward, into some Muckhill-hole or other, to keep my Mouth from speaking.

104. Now again I beheld the Condition of the Dog and Toad, and counted the Estate of every thing that God had made, far better than this dreadful State of mine, and such as my Companions was: Yea gladly would I have been in the Condition of a Dog or Horse, for I knew they had no Souls to perish under the everlasting weight of Hell, or Sin, as mine was like to do. Nay, and tho' I saw this, felt this, and was broken to pieces with it; yet that which added to my Sorrow was that I could not find, that with all my Soul I did desire Deliverance. That Scripture did also tear and rend my Soul, in the midst of these Distractions. The wicked are like the troubled Sea, which cannot rest; whose Waters cast up Mire and Dirt. There is no Peace to the Wicked, saith my God, Isa. 57. 20, 21.

105. And now my Heart was, at times, exceeding exceeding hard; if I would have given a thousand Pounds for a Tear, I could not shed one, no nor sometimes scarce desire to shed one, I was much dejected, to think that this would be my Lot. I saw some could mourn and lament their Sin; and others, again, could rejoyce, and bless God for Christ, and others again could quietly talk of, and with Gladness remember the Word of God; while I only was in the Storm or Tempest. This much funk me, I thought my Condition was alone, I should therefore much bewail my hard Hap, but get out of, or get rid of these things, I could not.

106. While this Temptation lasted, which was about a Year, I could attend upon none of the Ordinances of God, but with fore and great Affliction. Yea, then was I most distressed with Blasphemies: If I had been hearing the Word, then Uncleanneſs, Blasphemies and Despair would hold me a Captive there; if I have been Reading, then sometimes I had sudden thoughts to question all I read; sometimes, again, my Mind would be so strangely snatched away, and possessed with other things, that I have neither known, nor regarded, nor remembered so much as the Sentence that but now I have read.

107. In Prayer also I have been greatly troubled at this Time; sometimes I have thought I have felt him behind me, pull my Cloaths: He would be also continually at me in time of Prayer, to have done, break off; make haste, you have prayed enough, and stay no longer; still drawing my Mind away. Sometimes also he would cast in such wicked Thoughts as these; that I must pray to him, or for him: I have thought sometimes of that, Fall down, or, if thou wilt fall down and worship me, Mat. 2. 9.

108. Also, when because I have had wandering Thoughts in the Time of this Duty, I have laboured to compose my Mind, and fix it upon God; then with great Force hath the Tempter laboured to distract me, and confound me, and to turn away my Mind, by presenting to my Heart and Fancy, the Form of a Bush, a Bull, a Besom, or the like, as if I should pray to these; To these he would also (at some Times especially) so hold my Mind, that I was as if I could think of nothing else, or pray to nothing else but to these, or such as they.

109. Yet at times I should have some strong and heart-affecting Apprehensions of God, and the Reality of the Truth of his Gospel: But, Oh! how would my Heart, at such Times, put forth itself with inexpressible Groanings. My whole Soul was then in every Word; I should cry with Pangs after God, that he would be merciful unto me: But then I should be daunted again with such Conceits as these; I should think that God did mock at these my Prayers, saying, and that in the Audience of the holy Angels, This poor simple Wretch doth banker after me, as if I had nothing to do with my Mercy but to bestow it on such as he. Alas, poor Soul! how art thou deceived! It is not for such as thee to have Favour with the Highest.

110. Then hath the Tempter come upon me also with such Discouragements as these, You are very hot for Mercy, but I will cool you; this Frame shall not last always: Many have been as hot as you for a Spirit, but I have quenched their Zeal. (And with this, such and such who were fallen off, would be set before mine Eyes.) Then I should be afraid that I should do so too: But, thought I, I am glad this comes into my Mind: Well, I will watch, and take what Care I can: Tho' you do, said Satan, I shall be too hard for you; I will cool you insensibly, by degrees, by little and little. What care I, saith he, though I be seven Years in chilling your Heart, if I can do it at last? Continual Rocking will lull a crying Child asleep: I will ply it close, but I will have my End accomplished. Though you be burning hot at present, yet I can pull you from this Fire, I shall have you cold before it be long.

111. These Things brought me into great Straits; for as I at present could not find myself fit for present Death, so I thought to live long, would make me yet more unfit; for Time would make me forget all, and wear even the Remembrance of the Evil of Sin, the Worth of Heaven, and the Need I had of the Blood of Christ to wash me, both out of Mind and Thought: But I thank Christ Jesus, these Things did not at present make me slack my crying, but rather did put me more upon it, (like her who met with the Adulterer, Deut. 22. 26.) in which Days, that was a good Word to me, after I had suffered these Things a while; I am perswaded, that neither Height, nor Depth, nor Life, &c. shall separate us from the Love of God, which is in Christ Jesus, Rom. 8. 38. And now I hoped long Life should not destroy me, nor make me miss of Heaven.

112. Yet I had some Supports in this Temptation, though they were then all questioned by me; that in Jer. 3. at the first, was something to me; and so was the Consideration of Verse 5. of that Chapter; that tho' we have spoken and done as evil Things as we could, yet we shall cry unto God, My Father, thou art the Guide of my Youth; and shall return unto him.

113. I had also once a sweet Glance from that in 2 Cor. 5. 12. For he hath made him to be Sin for us, who knew no Sin, that we might be made the Righteousness of God in him. I remember that one Day, as I was sitting in a Neighbour's House, and there very sad at the Consideration of my many Blasphemies; and as I was saying in my Mind, What ground have I to think that I, who have been so Vile and Abominable, should ever inherit Eternal Life? That Word came suddenly upon me, What shall we say to these Things? If God be for us, who can be against us? Rom. 8. 13. That also was an Help unto me, Because I live, you shall live also, John 14. 19. But these Words were but Hints, Touches, and short Visits, tho' very sweet when present; only they lasted not; but like to Peter's Sheet, of a sudden were caught up from me, to Heaven again, Acts 10. 16.

114. But afterward the Lord did more fully and graciously discover himself unto me, and indeed, did quite, not only deliver me from the Guilt that, by these Things, was laid upon my Conscience, but also from the very Filth thereof; for the Temptation was removed, and I was put into my right Mind again, as other Christians were.

115. I remember that one Day, as I was travelling into the Country, and musing on the Wickedness and Blasphemy of my Heart, and considering the Enmity that was in me to God, that Scripture came in my Mind, He hath made Peace by the Blood of his Cross, Col. 1. 20. By which I was made to see, both again and again, that Day that God and my Soul were Friends by this Blood; yea I saw that the Justice of God, and my sinful Soul could embrace and kiss each other, through his Blood. This was a good Day to me, I hope I shall never forget it.

116. At another Time as I sat by the Fire in my House, and musing on my Wretchedness, the Lord made that also a precious Word unto me, Forasmuch then as Children are Partakers of the Flesh and Blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same, that thro' Death he might destroy him that had the Power of Death, that is, the Devil; and deliver those who through the Fear of Death were all their Life subject to Bondage, Heb. 2. 14, 15. I thought that the Glory of these Words was then so weighty on me, that I was both once and twice ready to swoon as I sate; yet not with Grief and Trouble, but with solid Joy and Peace.

117. At this time also I sat under the Ministry of holy Mr. Gifford, whose Doctrine by God's Grace, was much for my Stability. This Man made it much his Business to deliver the People of God from all those false and unsound Tests, that by Nature we are prone to. He would bid us take special heed, that we took not up any Truth upon trust; as from this, or that, or any other Man or Men; but cry mightily to God, that he would convince us of the Reality thereof, and set us down therein by his own Spirit in the Holy Word; for said he, if you do otherwise, when Temptations come, if strongly, you not having received them with Evidence from Heaven, will find you want that help and strength, now to resist, that once you thought you had.

118. This was as seasonable to my Soul, as the former and latter Rain in their Season; for I had found, and that by sad experience; the Truth of these his Words; (for I had felt no Man can say, especially when tempted by the Devil, that Jesus Christ is Lord, but by the Holy Ghost.) Wherefore I found my Soul, through Grace, very apt to drink in this Doctrine, and to incline to pray to God, that in nothing that pertained to God's Glory, and my own eternal Happiness, he would suffer me to be without the Confirmation thereof from Heaven; for now I saw clearly, there was an exceeding difference betwixt the Notion of the Flesh and Blood, and the Revelation of God in Heaven; also a great difference betwixt that Faith that is feigned and according to Man's Wisdom, and that which comes by a Man's being born thereto of God, Mat. 16. 15. 1 John 5. 1.

119. But, Oh! now, how was my Soul led from Truth to Truth by God! Even from the Birth and Cradle of the Son of God, to his Accession, and second coming from Heaven to Judge the World.

120. Truly, I then found, upon this account, the Great God was very good unto me; for, to my Remembrance, there was not any thing that I then cried unto God, to make known, and reveal unto me, but he was pleased to do it for me; I mean, not one part of the Gospel of the Lord Jesus, but I was orderly led into it: Methought I saw with great Evidence, from the four Evangelists, the wonderful Works of God, in giving Jesus Christ to save us, from his Conception and Birth, even to his second coming to Judgment: Methought I was as if I had seen him born, as if I had seen him grow up, as if I had seen him walk through this World, from the Cradle to the Cross; to which also, when he came, I saw how gently he gave himself to be hanged, and nailed on it, for my Sins and wicked doing. Also as I was musing on this his progress, that dropped on my Spirit, He was ordained for the Slaughter, 1 Pet. 1. 12, 20.

121. When I have considered also the Truth of his Resurrection, and have remembered that Word, Touch me not Mary, &c. I have seen, as if he had leaped out of the Grave's-Mouth, for joy that he was risen again, and had got the Conquest over our dreadful Foes, John 20. 17. I have also, in the Spirit, seen him a Man on the right Hand of God the Father for me; and have seen the Manner of his coming from Heaven, to Judge the World with Glory, and have been confirmed in these things by these Scriptures following, Acts 1. 9, 10, and 7. 56. and 10. 42. Heb. 7. 24. and 8. 38. Rev. 1. 18. 1 Thes. 4. 17, 18.

122. Once

122. Once I was troubled to know whether the Lord Jesus was Man as well as God, and God as well as Man; and truly, in those Days, let Men say what they would, unless I had it with Evidence from Heaven, all was nothing to me, I counted my self not set down in any Truth of God. Well, I was much troubled about this Point, and could not tell how to be resolved; at last, that in Rev. 5. came into my Mind, And I beheld, and lo, in the midst of the Throne, and of the four Beasts, and in the midst of the Elders, stood a Lamb. In the midst of the Throne, thought I, there is the God-head; in the midst of the Elders, there is his Man-hood: But, Oh! methought this did glister! It was a goodly touch, and gave me sweet Satisfaction. That other Scripture also did help me much in this, To us a Child is born, to us a Son is given, and the Government shall be upon his Shoulder: And his Name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace, &c. Isa. 9. 6.

123. Also besides these Teachings of God, in his Word, the Lord made use of two things to confirm me in this Truth; the one was the Errors of the Quakers; and the other was the Guilt of Sin; for as the Quakers did oppose the Truth, so God did the more confirm me in it; by leading me into the Scripture that did wonderfully maintain it.

124. The Errors that this People then maintained, were,

1. That the Holy Scriptures were not the Word of God.

2. That every Man in the World had the Spirit of Christ, Grace, Faith, &c.

3. That Christ Jesus, as Crucified, and Dying Sixteen Hundred Years ago, did not satisfy Divine Justice for the Sins of the People.

4. That Christ's Flesh and Blood was within the Saints.

5. That the the Bodies of the Good and Bad that are buried in the Church-yard, shall not arise again.

6. That the Resurrection is past with good Men already.

7. That that Man Jesus, that was Crucified between two Thieves, on Mount-Calvary, in the Land of Canaan, by Jerusalem, was not Ascended above the Starry Heavens.

8. That he should not, even the same Jesus, that died by the Hand of the Jews, come again at the last Day; and as Man, Judge all Nations, &c.

125. Many more vile and abominable things were in those Days fomented by them, by which I was driven to a more narrow search of the Scriptures, and was, through their Light and Testimony, not only enlightened, but greatly confirmed and comforted in the Truth; and as I said, the Guilt of Sin did help me much; for still as that would come upon me, the Blood of Christ did take it off again, and again, and again; and that to sweetly according to the Scripture. O Friends! cry to God to reveal Jesus Christ unto you; there is none teacheth like him.

126. It would be too long here to stay, to tell you in particular, how God did set me down in all the things of Christ, and how he did that he might do so, lead me into his Words; yea, and also how he did open them unto me, and make them shine before me, and cause them to dwell with me, talk with me, and comfort me over and over, both of his own Being, and the Being of his Son, and Spirit, and Word, and Gospel.

127. Only this, as I said before, I will say unto you again, that in General, he was pleased to take this Course with me; First, to suffer me to be afflicted with Temptations concerning them, and then reveal them to me: As sometimes I should lie under great Guilt for Sin, even crushed to the Ground therewith; and then the Lord would shew me the Death of Christ; yea so sprinkle my Conscience with his Blood, that I should find, and that before I was aware, that in that Conscience, where but just now did reign and rage the Law, even there would rest and abide the Peace and Love of God, through Christ.

128. Now I had an Evidence, as I thought of my Salvation from Heaven, with many golden Seals thereon, all hanging in my Sight: Now could I remember this Manifestation, and the other Discovery of Grace, with Comfort; and should often long and desire that the last day were come, that I might be for ever inflamed with the Sight, and Joy, and Communion with him, whose Head was crowned with Thorns, whose Face was spit on, and Body broken, and Soul made an Offering for my Sins: For whereas before I lay continually trembling at the Mouth of Hell, now methought I was got so far therefrom, that I could not, when I looked back, scarce discern it: And, Oh! thought I, that I were fourscore Years old now, that I might die quickly, that my Soul might be gone to rest.

129. But before I had got thus far out of these my Temptations, I did greatly long to see some ancient godly Man's Experience, who had writ some hundreds of Years before I was born; for, for those who had writ in our Days, I thought (but I desire them now to pardon me) that they had writ only that which others felt; or else had, through the strength of their Wits and Parts, studied to answer such Objections, as they perceived others were perplexed with, without going down themselves into the Deep. Well, after many such longings in my Mind, the God, in whose Hands are all our Days and Ways, did cast into my Hand (one Day) a Book of Martin Luther; it was his Comment on the Galatians; it also was so old, that it was ready to fall piece from piece if I did but turn it over. Now I was pleased much, that such an old Book had fallen into my Hands; the which, when I had but a little Way perused, I found my Condition in his Experience, so largely and profoundly handled, as if his Book had been written out of my Heart. This made me marvel; for thus, thought I, this Man could not know any thing of the State of Christians now, but must needs write and speak the Experience of former Days.

130. Besides, he doth most gravely also in that Book, debate of the Rise of these Temptations, namely, Blasphemy, Desperation and the like; shewing that the Law of Moses as well as the Devil, Death, and Hell, hath a very great Hand therein: The which at first, was very strange to me; but considering and watching, I found it so indeed. But of Particulars here, I intend nothing; only this methinks I must let fall before all Men, I do prefer this Book of Martin Luther upon the Galatians (excepting the Holy Bible) before all the Books that ever I have seen, as most fit for a wounded Conscience.

131. And now I found, as I thought, that I loved Christ dearly: Oh! methought my Soul cleaved unto him, my Affections cleaved unto him: I felt Love to him as hot as Fire, and now, as Job said, I thought I should die in my Nest; but I did quickly find, that my great Love was but little; and that I, who had, as I thought, such burning Love to Jesus Christ, could let him go again for a very Trifle, God can tell how to abase us, and can hide Pride from Man. Quickly after this my Love was tried to purpose.

132. For after the Lord had, in this manner, thus graciously delivered me from this great and sore Temptation, and had set me down so sweetly in the Faith of his holy Gospel, and had given me such strong Consolation, and blessed Evidence from Heaven, touching my Interest in his Love through Christ; the Tempter came upon me again, and that with a more grievous and dreadful Temptation than before.

133. And that was, To sell and part with this most blessed Christ, to exchange him for the things of Life, for anything. The Temptation lay upon me for the space of a Year, and did follow me so continually, that I was not rid of it one Day in a Month, no, not sometime one Hour in many Days together, unless when I was asleep.

134. And though in my Judgment I was persuaded, that those who were once effectually in Christ, (as I hoped, through his Grace, I had seen myself) could never lose him for ever; (For the Land shall not be sold for ever, for the Land is mine, faith God, Lev. 25. 23.) yet it was a continual Vexation to me, to think that I should have so much as one such Thought within me against a Christ, a Jesus, that had done for me as he had done; and yet then I had almost none others, but such blasphemous ones.

135. But it was neither my Dislike of the Thought, nor yet any Desire and Endeavour to resist it, that in the least did shake or abate the Continuation, or Force and Strength thereof; for it did always, in almost whatever I thought, intermix itself therewith, in such sort, that I could neither eat my Food, stoop for a Pin, chop a Stick, or cast mine Eye to look on this or that, but still the Temptation would come, Sell Christ for this, or sell Christ for that; sell him, sell him.

136. Sometimes it would run in my Thoughts, not so little as a hundred times together, Sell him, sell him, sell him: Against which, I may say, for whole Hours together, I have been forced to stand as continually leaning and forcing my Spirit against it, least haply, before I were aware, some wicked Thought might arise in my Heart, that might consent thereto; and sometimes the Tempter would make me believe I had consented to it, but then should I be as tortured upon a Rack for whole Days together.

137. This Temptation did put me to such Scares, lest I should at some Times, I say, consent thereto, and be overcome therewith, that by the very Force of my Mind, in labouring to gainsay and resist this Wickedness, my very Body would be put into Action or Motion, by way of pushing or thrusting with my Hands or Elbows; still answering, as fast as the Destroyer said, Sell him; I will not, I will not, I will not; no, not for thousands, thousands, thousands of Worlds. Thus reckoning, lest I should, in the midst of these Assaults, set too low a Value of him, even until I scarce well knew where I was, or how to be composed again.

138. At these Seasons he would not let me eat my Food at Quiet; but, forsooth, when I was set at the Table at any Meat, I must go hence to pray; I must leave my Food now, and just now, so counterfeit holy also would this Devil be. When I was thus tempted, I should say in myself, Now I am at Meat, let me make an End. No, said he, you must do it now, or you will displease God, and despise Christ. Wherefore I was much afflicted with these things; and because of the Sinfulness of my Nature (imagining that these things were Impulses from God) I should deny to do it, as if I denied God; and then should I be as guilty, because I did not obey a Temptation of the Devil, as if I had broken the Law of God indeed.

139. But to be brief, one Morning as I did lie in my Bed, I was, as at other times, most fiercely assaulted with this Temptation, to sell and part with Christ; the wicked Suggestion still running in my Mind, Sell him, sell him, sell him, sell him, sell him, as fast as a Man could speak: Against which also, in my Mind, as at other Times, I answered, No, no, not for thousands, thousands, thousands, at least twenty times together: But at last, after much striving, even until I was almost out of Breath, I felt this Thought pass through my Heart, Let him go, if he will; and I thought also, that I felt my Heart freely consent thereto. Oh, the Diligence of Satan! Oh, the Desperateness of Man's Heart!

140. Now was the Battle won, and down fell I, as a Bird that is shot from the Top of a Tree, into great Guilt, and fearful Despair. Thus getting out of my Bed, I went moping into the Field; but God knows, with as heavy an Heart as mortal Man, I think, could bear; where for the Space of two Hours, I was like a Man bereft of Life, and, as now, past all Recovery, and bound over to eternal Punishment.

141. And withal, that Scripture did seize upon my Soul, Or prophane Person, as Esau, who for one Morsel of Meat, sold his Birth-right: For ye know, how that afterwards, when he would have inherited the Blessing, he was rejected; for he found no Place of Repentance, though he sought it carefully with Tears, Heb. 12. 16, 17.

142. Now was I as one bound, I felt myself shut up unto the Judgment to come; nothing now for two Years together would abide with me, but Damnation, and an Expectation of Damnation: I say, nothing now would abide with me but this, save some few Moments for Relief, as in the Sequel you will see.

143. These Words were to my Soul like Fetters of Brass to my Legs, in the continual Sound of which I went for several Months together. But about ten or eleven a Clock on that Day, as I was walking under an Hedge (full of Sorrow and Guilt God knows) and bemoaning myself from this hard hap, that such a Thought should arise within me; suddenly this Sentence rushed in upon me, The Blood of Christ remits all Guilt. At this I made a stand in my Spirit: With that this Word took hold upon me, The Blood of Jesus Christ his own Son, cleansed us from all Sin, 1 John 1. 7.

144. Now I began to conceive Peace in my Soul, and methought I saw as if the Tempter did leer and steal away from me, as being ashamed of what he had done. At the same Time also I had my Sin, and the Blood of Christ thus represented to me, that my Sin, when compared to the Blood of Christ, was no more to it, than this little Clod or Stone before me, is to this vast and wide Field that here I see. This gave me good Encouragement for the Space of two or three Hours; in which Time also, methought I saw, by Faith, the Son of God, as suffering for my Sins: But because it tarried not, I therefore sunk in my Spirit, under exceeding Guilt again.

145. But chiefly by the aforementioned Scripture concerning Esau's selling of his Birth-right; for that Scripture would lie all Day long in my Mind, and hold me down, so that I could by no means lift up myself; for when I would strive to turn to this Scripture, or that, for Relief, still that Sentence would be sounding in me, For ye know how that afterwards, when he would have inherited the Blessing, he found no Place of Repentance, though he sought it carefully with Tears.

146. Sometimes, indeed, I should have a touch from that in Luke 22. 31. I have prayed for thee that thy Faith fail not; but it would not abide upon me; neither could I indeed, when I considered my State, find ground to conceive in the least, that there should be the Root of that Grace in me, having sinned as I had done. Now was I tore and rent in an heavy Case, for many Days together.

147. Then began I with sad and careful Heart, to consider of the Nature and Largeness of my Sin, and to search into the Word of God, if I could in any Place espy a Word of Promise, or any encouraging Sentence, by which I might take Relief. Wherefore I began to consider that of Mark 3. All manner of Sins and Blasphemies shall be forgiven unto the Sons of Men, wherewith soever they shall Blaspheme. Which Place, methought, at a Blush, did contain a large and glorious Promise, for the Pardon of high Offences; but considering the Place more fully, I thought it was rather to be understood, as relating more chiefly to those who had, while in a natural Estate, committed such Things as there are mentioned; but not to me, who had not only received Light and Mercy, but that had both after, and also contrary to that, so slighted Christ as I had done.

148. I feared therefore that this wicked Sin of mine, might be that Sin unpardonable, of which he there thus speaketh. But he that shall Blaspheme against the Holy Ghost, hath never Forgiveness, but in danger of Eternal Damnation, Mark 3. And I did the rather give Credit to this, because of that Sentence in the Hebrews, For you know how that afterwards, when he would have inherited the Blessing, he was rejected; for he found no Place of Repentance, though he sought it carefully with Tears. And this struck always with me.

149. And now was I both a Burthen and a Terror to myself; nor did I ever so know, as now, what it was to be weary of my Life, and yet afraid to die. Oh, how gladly now would I have been any body but my myself! any thing but a Man! and in any Condition but my own! for there was nothing did pass more frequently over my Mind, than that it was impossible for me to be forgiven my Transgression, and to be saved from Wrath to come.

150. And now began I to labour to call again Time that was past; wishing a thousand times twice told, that the Day was yet to come, when I should be tempted to such a Sin! concluding with great Indignation, both against my Heart, and all Assaults, how I would rather have been torn in Pieces, than found a Consenter thereto. But, alas! these Thoughts, and Wishings, and Resolvings, were now too late to help me; this Thought had passed my Heart, God hath let me go, and I am fallen. Oh! thought I, that it was with me, as in Months past, as in the Days when God preserved me! Job 29. 2.

151. Then again, being loth and unwilling to Perish, I began to compare my Sin with others, to see if I could find that any of those that were saved, had done as I had done. So I considered David's Adultery, and Murther, and found them most heinous Crimes; and those too committed after Light and Grace received: But yet by considering, that his Transgressions were only such as were against the Law of Moses; from which the Lord Christ could, with the Consent of his Word, deliver him: But mine was against the Gospel; yea, against the Mediator thereof; I had sold my Saviour.

152. Now again should I be as if racked upon the Wheel, when I considered, that, besides the Guilt that possessed me, I should be so void of Grace, so bewitched. What thought I, must it be no Sin but this? Must it needs be the great Transgression? Psalm 19. 13. Must that wicked one touch my Soul, 1 John 5. 18. Oh, what Sting did I find in all these Sentences!

153. What thought I, is there but one Sin that is unpardonable? But one Sin that layeth the Soul without the Reach of God's Mercy; and must I be guilty of that? Must it needs be that? Is there but one Sin among so many Millions of Sins, for which there is no Forgiveness; and must I commit this? Oh, unhappy Sin! Oh, unhappy Man! These Things would so break and confound my Spirit, that I could not tell what to do; I thought, at times, they would have broke my Wits; and still, to aggravate my Misery, that would run in my Mind, You know how that afterwards, when he would have inherited the Blessing, he was rejected. Oh! none knows the Terrors of those Days but myself.

154. After this I began to consider of Peter's Sin, which he committed in denying his Master: And indeed, this came next to mine, of any that I could find, for he had denied his Saviour, as I, after Light and Mercy received; yea, and that too, after Warning given him. I also considered, that he did it once and twice; and that, after Time to consider betwixt. But though I put all these Circumstances together, that, if possible, I might find Help, yet I considered again, that his was but a Denial of his Master, but mine was, a Selling of my Saviour. Wherefore I thought with my self, that I came nearer to Judas, than either to David or Peter.

155. Here again my Torment would flame out and afflict me; yea, it would grind me, as it were to Powder, to consider the Preservation of God towards others, while I fell into the Snare; for in my thus considering of other Men's Sins, and comparing of them with mine own, I could evidently see, God preserved them, notwithstanding their Wickedness, and would not let them, as he had let me, become a Son of Perdition.

156. But Oh, how did my Soul at this time prize the Preservation that God did set about his People! Ah, how safely did I see them walk, whom God had hedged in! They were within his Care, Protection and special Providence: Though they were full as bad as I, by Nature; yet because he loved them, he would not suffer them to fall without the Range of Mercy: But as for me, I was gone, I had done it; he would not preserve me, nor keep me; but suffered me, because I was a Reprobate, to fall as I had done. Now did those blessed Places, that speak of God's keeping his People, shine like the Sun before me, though not to comfort me, yet to shew me the blessed State and Heritage of those whom the Lord had blessed.

157. Now I saw, that as God had his Hand in all Providences and Dispensations that overtook his Elect; so he had his Hand in all the Temptations that they had to Sin against him; not to animate them to Wickedness, but to chuse their Temptations and Troubles for them; and also to leave them, for a time, to such things only that might not destroy, but humble them; as might not put them beyond; but lay them in the Way of the renewing his Mercy. But Oh, what Love, what Care, what Kindness and Mercy did I now see, mixing it self with the most severe and dreadful of all God's Ways to his People! He would let David, Hezekiah, Solomon, Peter, and others fall, but he would not let them fall into Sin unpardonable, nor into Hell for Sin. Oh! thought I, these be the Men that God hath loved; these be the Men that God, though he chastiseth them, keeps them in Safety by him; and them whom he makes to abide under the Shadow of the Almighty. But all these Thoughts added Sorrow, Grief and Horror to me, as whatever I now thought on, it was Killing to me. If I thought how God kept his own, that was killing to me; if I thought how I was fallen fallen my self, that was killing to me. As all things wrought together for the best, and to do good to them that were the called, according to his Purpose; so I thought that all things wrought for Damage, and for my eternal Overthrow.

158. Then again I began to compare my Sin with the Sin of Judas, that, if possible, I might find if mine differed from that which, in truth, is unpardonable: And Oh! thought I, if it should differ from it, though but the breadth of an Hair, what an happy Condition is my Soul in; and by considering, I found that Judas did this intentionally, but mine was against my Prayer and Strivings; besides his was committed with much Deliberation, but mine is a fearful Hurry, on a sudden; all this while I was tossed to and fro, like the Locust, and driven from Trouble to Sorrow; hearing always the sound of Esaú's Fall in mine Ears, and of the dreadful Consequences thereof.

159. Yet this Consideration about Judas his Sin was, for a while, some little Relief to me; for I saw I had not, as to the Circumstances, transgressed so fully as he. But this was quickly gone again, for I thought with my self, there might be more Ways than one to commit this unpardonable Sin; also I thought that there might be degrees of that, as well as of other Transgressions; wherefore, for ought I yet could perceive, this Iniquity of mine might be such, as might never be passed by.

160. I was often now ashamed, that I should be like such an ugly Man as Judas: I thought also how loathsome I should be unto all the Saints in the Day of Judgment: Infomuch that now I could scarce see a good Man, that I believed had a good Conscience; but I should feel my Heart tremble at him, while I was in his Presence. Oh! now I saw a Glory in walking with God, and what a Mercy it was to have a good Conscience before him.

161. I was much about that time tempted to content my self, by receiving some false Opinion; as that there should be no such thing as a Day of Judgment, that we should not rise again, and that Sin was no such grievous thing: The Tempter suggesting thus, For if these things should indeed be true, yet to believe otherwise, would yield you Ease for the present. If you must perish, never torment your self so much before hand; drive the Thoughts of Damning out of your Mind, by possessing your Mind with some such Conclusions, that Atheists and Ranters use to help themselves withal.

162. But, Oh! when such Thoughts have led through my Heart, how, as it were, within a step, hath Death and Judgment been in my View! Methought the Judge stood at the Door, I was as if I come already; so that such things could have no Entertainment. But methink, I see by this, that Satan will use any Means, to keep the Soul from Christ; he loveth not an awakened Frame of Spirit; Security, Blindness, Darkness and Error, is the very Kingdom and Habitation of the Wicked One.

163. I found it a hard Work now to pray to God, because Despair was swallowing me up; I thought I was as with a Tempest, driven away from God, for always when I cried to God for Mercy, this would come in, 'Tis too late, I am lost, God hath let me fall; not to my Correction, but my Condemnation: My Sin is unpardonable; and I know, concerning Esau, how that after he had sold his Birth-right, he would have received the Blessing, but was rejected. About this time I did light on that dreadful Story of that miserable Mortal Francis Spira; a Book that was to my troubled Spirit, as Salt, when rubbed into a fresh Wound; every Sentence in that Book, every Groan of that Man, with all the rest of his Actions in his Dolours, as his Tears, his Prayers, his gnashing of Teeth, his wringing of Hands, his twisting, and languishing, and pining away under that mighty Hand of God that was upon him, was as Knives, and Daggers in my Soul; especially that Sentence of his was frightful to me, Man knows the beginning of Sin, but who bounds the Issues thereof? Then would the former Sentence, as the Conclusion of all, fall like an hot Thunderbolt again upon my Conscience; for you know how that afterwards, when he would have inherited the Blessing, he was rejected; for he found no place of Repentance, though he sought it carefully with Tears.

164. Then should I be struck into a very great Trembling, infomuch that at sometimes I could, for whole Days together, feel my very Body, as well as my Mind, to shake and totter under the Sense of this dreadful Judgment of God, that should fall on those that have sinned that most fearful and unpardonable Sin. I felt also such a clogging and heat at my Stomach, by reason of this my Terror, that I was, especially at sometimes as if my Breast-bone would split asunder; then I thought concerning that of Judas, who by his falling headlong burst asunder, and all his Bowels gushed out, Acts 1.

165. I feared also that this was the Mark that God did set on Cain, even continual Fear and Trembling, under the heavy Load of Guilt, that he had charged on him for the Blood of his Brother Abel. Thus did I wind, and twine, and shrink, under the Burthen that was upon me; which Burthen also did so oppress me, that I could neither stand nor go, nor lie, either at rest or quiet.

166. Yet that Saying would sometimes come to Mind, He hath received Gifts for the Rebellious, Psal. 68. 18. The Rebellious, thought I; Why, surely they are such as once were under Subjection to their Prince, even those who after they have sworn Subjection to his Government, have taken up Arms against him; and this, thought I, is my very Condition: I once loved him, feared him, served him; but now I am a Rebel; I have sold him, I have said, Let him go if he will; but yet he has Gifts for Rebels, and then why not for me?

167. This sometimes I thought on, and should labour to take hold thereof, that some though small Refreshment, might have been conceived by me; but in this also I missed of my Desire, I was driven with Force beyond it, I was like a Man going to Execution, even by that Place where he would fain creep in and hide himself, but may not.

168. Again, after I had thus considered the Sins of the Saints in particular, and found mine went beyond them, then I began to think with my self, set the Case I should put all theirs together, and mine alone against them, might I not then find Encouragement! For if mine, though bigger than any one, yet should be but equal to all, then there is Hopes; for that Blood that hath Virtue enough in it to wash away all theirs, hath Virtue enough in it to wash away mine, though this one be full as big, if not bigger than all theirs. Here again, I should consider the Sin of David, of Solomon, of Manasseh, of Peter, and the rest of the great Offenders; and should also labour, what I might with Fairness, to aggravate and heighten their Sins by several Circumstances.

169. I should think with my self that David shed Blood to cover his Adultery, and that by the Sword of the Children of Ammon; a Work that could not be done, but by Contrivance, which was a great Aggravation to his Sin. But then this would turn upon me: Ah! but these were but Sins against the Law, from which there was a Jesus sent to save them; but yours is a Sin against the Saviour, and who shall save you from that?

170. Then I thought on Solomon, and how he sinned in loving strange Women, in falling away to their Idols, in building them Temples, in doing this after Light, in his Old Age, after great Mercy received: But the same Conclusion that cut me off in the former Consideration, cut me off as to this: namely, that all those were but Sins against the Law for which God had provided a Remedy; But I had sold my Saviour, and there remained no more Sacrifice for Sin.

171. I would then add to these Men's Sins, the Sins of Manasseh: how that he built Altars for Idols in the House of the Lord; he also observed Times, used Incantments, had to do with Wizzards, was a Wizzard, had his Familiar Spirits, burned his Children in the Fire in Sacrifice to Devils, and made the Streets of Jerusa- lem run down with the Blood of Innocents. These thought I, are great Sins, Sins of a bloody Colour, but yet it would turn again upon me. They are none of them of the Nature of yours; you have parted with Jesus, you have sold your Saviour.

172. This one Consideration would always kill my Heart, My Sin was point blank against my Saviour; and that too, at that height, that I had in my Heart said of him, Let him go if he will. Oh! methoughts, this Sin was bigger than the Sins of a Country, of a Kingdom, or of the whole World, no one pardonable, nor all of them together, was able to equal mine; mine outwent them every one.

173. Now I should find my Mind to flee from God, as from the Face of a dreadful Judge; yet this was my Torment, I could not escape his Hand: (It is a fearful thing to fall into the Hands of the Living God, Heb. 10.) But blessed be his Grace, that Scripture, in these flying Fits, would call as running after me, I have blotted out, as a thick Cloud, thy Transgressions; and as a Cloud, thy Sins: Return unto me, for I have redeemed thee, Isa. 44. 22. This, I say, would come in upon my Mind, when I was fleeing from the Face of God; for I did flee from his Face, that is, my Mind and Spirit fled before him; by reason of his Highness, I could not endure: Then would the Text cry, Return unto me; it would cry aloud with a very great Voice, Return unto me, for I have redeemed thee. Indeed, this would make me make a little stop, and, as it were, look over my Shoulder behind me, to see if I could discern that the God of Grace did follow me with a Pardon in his Hand, but I could no sooner do that, but all would be clouded and darkened again by that Sentence, For you know, how that afterwards, when he would have inherited the Blessing, he found no place of Repentance, though he sought it carefully with Tears. Wherefore I could not refrain, but fled, though at sometimes it cried, Return, return, as it did hollow after me: But I feared to close in therewith, lest it should not come from God; for that other, as I said was still sounding in my Conscience, For you know that afterwards, when he would have inherited the Blessing he was rejected, &c.

174. Once as I was walking to and fro in a good Man's Shop, bemoaning of my self in my sad and doleful State, afflicting my self with Self-aborrence for this wicked and ungodly Thought; lamenting also this hard Hap of mine, for that I should commit so great a Sin, greatly fearing I should not be pardoned; praying also in my Heart, that if this Sin of mine did differ from that against the Holy Ghost, the Lord would shew it me. And being now ready to sink with Fear, suddenly there was, as if there had rushed in at the Window, Window, the Noise of Wind upon me, but very pleasant, and as if I heard a Voice speaking, Didst ever refuse to be justified by the Blood of Christ? And withal my whole Life of Profession past, was in a Moment opened to me, wherein I was made to see, that designedly I had not: So my Heart answered groaningly, No. Then fell, with Power, that Word of God upon me, See that ye refuse not him that speaketh, Heb. 12. 25. This made a strange Seizure upon my Spirit, it brought Light with it, and commanded a Silence in my Heart, of all those tumultuous Thoughts, that before did use, like Masterless Hell-hounds, to Roar and Bellow, and make an hideous Noise within me. It shewed me also that Jesus Christ had yet a Word of Grace and Mercy for me, that he had not, as I had feared, quite forsaken and cast off my Soul; yea, this was a kind of Check for my Proneness to Desperation; a kind of threatening of me, if I did notwithstanding my Sins, and the Heinousness of them, venture my Salvation upon the Son of God, But as to my determining about this strange Dispensation, what it was, I know not; or from whence it came, I know not; I have not yet in twenty Years time to make a Judgment of it, I thought then here what I should be loath to speak. But verily that sudden rushing Wind was, as if an Angel had come upon me, but both it, and the Salvation, I will leave until the Day of Judgment; only this I say, it commanded a great Calm in my Soul, it perswaded me there might be Hope: It shewed me as I thought, what the Sin unpardonable was, and that my Soul had yet the blessed Privilege to flee to Jesus Christ for Mercy. But I say, concerning this Dispensation; I know not what yet to say unto it; which was also, in Truth, the Cause, that at first I did not speak of it in the Book; I do now also leave it to be thought on by Men of sound Judgment. I lay not the stress of my Salvation thereupon, but upon the Lord Jesus, in the Promise; yet seeing I am here unfolding of my secret things, I thought it might not be altogether inexpedient to let this also shew it self, though I cannot now relate the Matter as there I did experience it. This lasted in the Savour of it, for about three or four Days, and then I began to Mistrust, and to Despair again.

175. Wherefore still my Life hung in doubt before me, not knowing which Way I should go, only this I found my Soul desire, even to cast it self at the Foot of Grace, by Prayer and Supplication. But Oh! 'twas hard for me now, to have the Face to Pray to this Christ for Mercy, against whom I had thus vilely sinned; 'twas hard Work, I say, to offer to look him in the Face against whom I had so vilely sinned; and indeed, I have found it as difficult to come to God by Prayer, after Back-sliding from him, as to do any other thing. Oh, the Shame that did now attend me! especially when I thought, I am now a going to pray to him for Mercy, that I had so lightly esteemed but a while before! I was ashamed, yea, even confounded, because this Villany had been committed by me: But I saw that there was but one Way with me, I must go to him and humble my self unto him, and beg that he, of his wonderful Mercy, would shew Pity to me, and have Mercy upon my wretched sinful Soul.

176. Which, when the Tempter perceived, he strongly suggested to me, That I ought not to pray to God, for Prayer was not for any in my Case, neither could it do me good, because I had rejected the Mediator, by whom all Prayers came with Acceptance to God the Father; and without whom, no Prayer could come into his Presence: Wherefore now to Pray, is but to add Sin to Sin; yea, now to pray, seeing God has cast you off, is the next Way to Anger and Offend him more than you ever did before.

177. For God (saith he) bath been weary of you for these several Years already, because you are none of his; your Bawlings in his Ears hath been no pleasant Voice to him, and therefore he let you sin in this Sin, that you might be quite cut off, and will you pray still? This the Devil urged, and set forth that in Numbers, when Moses said to the Children of Israel, That because they would not go up to possess the Land, when God would have them, therefore for ever he did Bar them out from thence, though they prayed they might with Tears, Numb. 14. 36, 37, &c.

178. As 'tis said in another Place, Exod. 21. 14. The Man that sins presumptuously shall be taken from God's Altar, that he may die; even as Joab was by King Solomon, when he thought to find Shelter there, 1 Kings 2. 27, 28, &c. These Places did pinch me very sore; yet my Case being desperate, I thought with myself, I can but die; and if it must be so, it shall once be said, That such an one died at the Foot of Christ in Prayer. This I did, but with great Difficulty, God doth know; and that because, together with this, still that Saying about Esau would be set at my Heart, even like a flaming Sword, to keep the Way of the Tree of Life, lest I should take thereof and live. Oh! who knows how hard a thing I found it, to come to God in Prayer?

179. I did also desire the Prayers of the People of God for me, but I feared that God would give them no Heart to do it; yea, I tremble in my Soul to think, that some or other of them would shortly tell me, that God had said those Words to them that he once did say to the Prophet, concerning the Children of Israel, Pray not for this People, for I have rejected them, Jer. 11. 14. So, Pray not for him, for I have rejected rejected him. Yea, I thought that he had whispered this to some of them already, only they durst not tell me so; neither durst I ask them of it, for fear it should be so, it would make me quite besides myself: Man knows the Beginning of Sin (said Spira) but who bounds the Issues thereof?

180. About this Time I took an Opportunity to break my Mind to an ancient Christian, and told him all my Case: I told him also, that I was afraid that I had sinned the Sin against the Holy Ghost; and he told me He thought so too. Here therefore I had but cold Comfort; but talking a little more with him, I found him, though a good Man, a Stranger to much Combat with the Devil. Wherefore I went to God again, as well as I could, for Mercy still.

181. Now also did the Tempter begin to mock me in my Misery, saying, That seeing I had thus parted with the Lord Jesus, and provoked him to Displeasure, who would have stood between my Soul and the Flame of devouring Fire, there was now but one Way, and that was, To pray that God the Father would be a Mediator betwixt his Son and me, That we might be reconciled again, and that I might have that blessed Benefit in him that his blessed Saints enjoyed.

182. Then did that Scripture seize upon my Soul, He is of one Mind, and who can turn him? Oh! I saw, 'twas as easy to persuade him to make a New World, a New Covenant, or New Bible, besides that we have already, as to pray for such a thing. This was to persuade him, that what he had done already was mere Folly; and persuade him to alter, yea to disannul the whole Way of Salvation: And then would that Saying rend my Soul asunder, Neither is there Salvation in any other; for there is none other Name under Heaven given among Men, whereby we must be saved, Acts 4. 12.

183. Now the most free, and full, and gracious Words of the Gospel, were the greatest Torment to me; yea, nothing so afflicted me as the Thoughts of Jesus Christ, the Remembrance of a Saviour; because I had cast him off, brought forth the Villany of my Sin, and my Loss by it, to Mind; nothing did twinge my Conscience like this: Every Thing that I thought of the Lord Jesus, of his Grace, Love, Goodness, Kindness, Gentleness, Meekness, Death, Blood, Promises and blessed Exhortations, Comforts and Consolations, it went to my Soul like a Sword; for still, unto these my Considerations of the Lord Jesus, these Thoughts would make Place for themselves in my Heart; Ay, this is the Jesus, the loving Saviour, the Son of God, whom you have parted with, whom you have slighted, despised and abused: This is the only Saviour, the only Redeemer, the only one that could so love Sinners, as to wash them from their Sins in his own most precious Blood; but you have no Part nor Lot in this Jesus, you have put him from you, you have said in your Heart, Let him go if he will. Now therefore you are severed from him; you have severed yourself from him: Behold then his Goodness, but yourself to be no Partaker of it. Oh, thought I, What have I lost! what have I parted with! what has disinherited my poor Soul! Oh! 'tis sad to be destroyed by the Grace and Mercy of God; to have the Lamb, the Saviour, turn Lion and Destroyer, Rev. 6. I also trembled, as I have said, at the Sight of the Saints of God, especially at those that greatly loved him, and that made it their Business to walk continually with him in this World; for they did, both in their Words, their Carriages, and all their Expressions of Tenderneſs and Fear to sin against their precious Saviour, condemn, lay Guilt upon, and also add continual Affliction and Shame unto my Soul. The Dread of them was upon me, and I trembled at God's Samuels, 1 Sam. 16. 4.

184. Now also the Tempter began afresh to mock my Soul another Way, saying, That Christ indeed did pity my Case, and was sorry for my Loss; but forasmuch as I had sinned and transgressed, as I had done, he could by no means help me, nor save me from what I feared; for my Sin was not of the Nature of theirs, for whom he bled and died; neither was it counted with those that were laid to his Charge when he hanged on a Tree: Therefore, unless he should come down from Heaven, and die a-new for this Sin, though indeed he did greatly pity me, yet I could have no benefit of him. These Things may seem ridiculous to others, even as ridiculous as they were in themselves, but to me they were most tormenting Cogitations; every of them augmented my Misery, that Jesus Christ should have so much Love as to pity me, when yet he could not help me, nor did I think that the Reason why he could not help me, was, because his Merits were weak, or his Grace and Salvation spent on others already, but because his Faithfulness to his Threatnings would not let him extend his Mercy to me. Besides, I thought, as I have already hinted, that my Sin was not within the Bounds of that Pardon, that was wrapped up in a Promise; and if not, then I knew surely, that it was more easy for Heaven and Earth to pass away, than for me to have Eternal Life. So that the ground of all these Fears of mine, did arise from a stedfast Belief that I had of the Stability of the Holy Word of God, and also from my being misinformed of the Nature of my Sin.

185. But, Oh! how this would add to my Affliction, to conceit that I should be guilty of such a Sin, for which he did not die. These Thoughts did so confound me, and imprison me, and tie me up from Faith, that I knew not what to do: But Oh! thought I, that he would come down again! Oh, that the Work of Man's Redemption demption was yet to be done by Christ! How would I pray him, and intreat him, to count and reckon this Sin among the rest for which he died! but this Scripture would strike me down as dead; Christ being raised from the Dead, dieth no more, Death hath no more Dominion over him, Rom. 6. 9.

186. Thus, by the strange and unusual Assaults of the Tempter, was my Soul like a broken Vessel, driven as with the Winds, and tossed sometimes headlong into Despair; sometimes upon the Covenant of Works, and sometimes to wish that the New Covenant, and the Conditions thereof, might so far forth as I thought myself concerned, be turned another Way and changed. But in all these I was as those that juggle against the Rocks; more broken, scattered and rent. Oh, the unthought of Imaginations, Frights, Fears and Terrors, that are affected by a thorough Application of Guilt, yielding to Desperation! This is the Man that hath his Dwelling among the Tombs with the Dead; that is always crying out, and cutting himself with Stones, Mark 5. 1, 2, 3. But I say, all in vain; Desperation will not comfort him, the Old Covenant will not save him: Nay, Heaven and Earth shall pass away, before one Jot or Tittle of the Word and Law of Grace will fail or be removed. This I saw, this I felt, and under this I groaned; yet this Advantage I got thereby, namely, a farther Confirmation of the Certainty of the Way of Salvation, and that the Scriptures were the Word of God. Oh! I cannot now express what then I saw and felt, of the Steadiness of Jesus Christ, the Rock of Man's Salvation: What was done could not be undone, added to, nor altered. I saw, indeed, that Sin might drive the Soul beyond Christ, even the Sin which is unpardonable; but woe to him that was so driven, for the Word would shut him out.

187. Thus was I always sinking, whatever I did think or do. So one Day I walked to a Neighbouring Town, and sat down upon a Settle in the Street, and fell into a very deep Pause, about the most fearful State my Sin had brought me to; and after long musing, I lifted up my Head, but methought I saw, as if the Sun that shineth in the Heavens did grudge to give Light. And as if the very Stones in the Street, and Tiles upon the Houses, did bend themselves against me; methought that they all combined together, to banish me out of the World; I was abhorred of them, and unfit to dwell among them, or be Partaker of their Benefits, because I had sinned against the Saviour. Oh how happy now was every Creature over I was! For they stood fast, and kept their Station, but I was gone and lost.

188. Then breaking out in the Bitterness of my Soul, I said to my Soul, with a grievous Sigh, How can God comfort such a Wretch? I had no sooner said it, but this returned upon me, as an Eccho doth answer a Voice, This Sin is not unto Death. At which I was, as if I had been raised out of the Grave, and cried out again, Lord, how, couldst thou find out such a Word as this? For I was filled with Admiration at the Fitness, and at the Unexpectedness of the Sentence, the Fitness of the Word; the Rightness of the timing of it, the Power, and Sweetness, and Light, and Glory, that came with it also, was marvellous to me to find, I was now, for the time out of Doubt, as to that, about which I so much was in Doubt before; my Fears before were, that my Sin was not pardonable, and so that I had no right to pray, to repent, &c. or that if I did, it would be of no Advantage or Profit to me. But now, thought I, if this Sin is not unto Death, then it is pardonable; therefore from this I have Encouragement to come to God by Christ for Mercy, to consider the Promise of Forgiveness, as that which stands with open Arms to receive me, as well as others. This therefore was a great Easement to my Mind, to wit, that my Sin was pardonable, that it was not the Sin unto Death, (1 John 5. 16, 17.) None but those that know what my Trouble (by their own Experience) was, can tell what relief came to my Soul, by this Consideration: It was a Release to me from my former Bonds, and a Shelter from my former Storms: I seemed now to stand upon the same Ground with other Sinners, and to have as good Right to the Word and Prayer as any of them.

189. Now I say, I was in hopes that my Sin was not unpardonable, but that there might be hopes for me to obtain Forgiveness. But, Oh, how Satan did now lay about him, for to bring me down again! But he could by no Means do it, neither this Day nor the most part of the next, for this Sentence stood like a Mill-post at my Back: Yet towards the Evening of the next Day, I felt this Word begin to leave me, and to withdraw its Supportation from me, and so I returned to my old Fears again, but with a great deal of Grudging and Peevishness, for I feared the sorrow of Despair; nor could my Faith now long retain this Word.

190. But the next Day at Evening, being under many Fears, I went to seek the Lord, and as I prayed, I cried, and my Soul cried to him in these Words, with strong Cries; O Lord, I beseech thee shew me, that thou hast loved me with everlasting Love, Jer. 31. 3. I had no sooner said it, but with Sweetness this returned upon me, as an Eccho, or sounding again, I have loved thee with an everlasting Love. Now I went to Bed in quiet: also when I awaked the next Morning, it was fresh upon my Soul; and I believed it.

191. But yet the Tempter left me not, for it could not be so little as an hundred times, that he, that Day did labour to break my Peace, Oh, the Combats and Conflicts that I did then meet with, as I strove to hold by this Word: That of Esau would fly in my Face like Lightning: I should be sometimes up and down twenty times in an Hour; yet God did bear me out, and keep my Heart upon this Word; from which I had also, for several Days together, very much Sweetness, and comfortable hopes of Pardon: For thus it was made out unto me, I loved thee whilst thou was committing this Sin, I loved thee before, I loved thee still, and I will love thee for ever.

192. Yet I saw my Sin most Barbarous, and a filthy Crime, and could not but conclude, with great Shame and Astonishment, that I had horridly abused the Holy Son of God; wherefore I felt my Soul greatly to love and pity him, and my Bowels to yern towards him; for I saw he was still my Friend, and did reward me Good for Evil; yea, the Love and Affection that then did burn within to my Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, did work at this time such a strong and hot Desire of Revengement upon my self, for the Abuse I had done unto him, that, to speak as I then thought, had I a thousand Gallons of Blood within my Veins, I could freely then have spilt it all, at the Command and Feet of this my Lord and Saviour.

193. And as I was thus in musing, and in my Studies, considering how to love the Lord and to express my Love to him, that Saying came in upon me, If thou, Lord, shouldst mark Iniquity, O Lord, who should stand: But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared, Psalm 130. 4. These were good Words to me, especially the latter part thereof, to wit, that there is Forgiveness with the Lord, that he might be feared; that is, as then I understood it, that he might be loved, and had in reverence; for it was thus made out to me, That the Great God did set so high an Esteem upon the Love of his poor Creatures, that rather than he would go without their Love, he would pardon their Transgression.

194. And now was that Word fulfilled on me, and I was also refreshed by it, Then shall they be ashamed and confounded, and never open their Mouth any more, because of their shame, when I am pacified towards them for all that they have done, saith the Lord God, Ezek. 16. 36. Thus was my Soul at this time (and as I then did think for ever) set at Liberty from being afflicted with my former Guilt and Amazement.

195. But before many Weeks were gone, I began to despond again, fearing, lest, notwithstanding all that I had enjoyed, that I might be deceived and destroyed at the last; for this Consideration came strong into my Mind, That whatever Comfort and Peace I thought I might have from the Word of the Promise of Life, yet unless there could be found in my Refreshment, a Concurrence and Agreement in the Scriptures, let me think what I will thereof, and hold it never so fast, I should find no such thing at the end; for the Scriptures cannot be broken, John 10. 35.

196. Now began my Heart again to ake, and fear I might meet with a Disappointment at last. Wherefore I began with all Seriousness, to examine my former Comfort, and to consider whether one that had sinned as I had done, might with Confidence trust upon the Faithfulness of God, laid down in those Words, by which I had been comforted, and on which I had leaned my self: But now were brought to my Mind, For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted the Heavenly Gift, and were made Partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the good Word of God, and the Powers of the World to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto Repentance, Heb. 6. For, if we sin wilfully, after we have received the Knowledge of the Truth, there remains no more Sacrifice for Sin, but a certain fearful looking for of Judgment and fiery Indignation, which shall devour the Adversaries, Heb. 10. Even as Esau, who for one morsel of Meat, sold his Birthright. For you know how that afterwards, when he would have inherited the Blessing, he was rejected, for he found no place of Repentance, though he sought it carefully with Tears, Heb. 12.

197. Now was the Word of the Gospel forced from my Soul; so that no Promise or Encouragement was to be found in the Bible for me: And now would that Saying work upon my Spirit to afflict me, Rejoyce not, O Israel, for Joy as other People, Hos. 9. 1. For I saw indeed, there was cause of rejoycing for those that held to Jesus; but as for me, I had cut my self off by my Transgressions, and left my self neither Foot-hold, nor Hand-hold, among all the Stays and Props in the precious Word of Life.

198. And truly, I did now feel my self to sink into a Gulf as an House whose Foundation is destroyed, I did liken my self in this Condition, unto the Case of a Child that was fallen into a Mill-pit, who though it could make some shift to Scramble and Sprawl in the Water, yet because it could find neither hold for Hand nor Foot, therefore at last it must die in that Condition. So soon as this fresh Assault had fastened on my Soul, that Scripture came into my Heart, This for many Days, Dan. 10. 14. And indeed, I found it was so; for I could not be delivered, nor brought to Peace again, until well nigh two Years and an half were compleatly finished.

finished. Wherefore these Words, though in themselves, they tended to Discouragement, yet to me, who feared this Condition would be Eternal, they were at sometimes as an Help and Refreshment to me.

199. For thought I, many Days are not for ever, many Days will have an end, therefore seeing I was to be afflicted, not a few, but many Days, yet I was glad it was but for many Days. Thus I say, I could recall my self sometimes, and give my self an Help, for as soon as ever the Words came into my Mind, at first, I knew my Trouble would be long; yet this would be but sometimes, for I could not always think on this, nor ever be helped by it, though I did.

200. Now while these Scriptures lay before me, and laid Sin anew at my Door, that saying in Luke 18. 1. with others, did encourage me to Prayer: Then the Tempter again laid at me very sore, suggesting, That neither the Mercy of God, nor yet the Blood of Christ, did at all concern me, nor could they help me for my Sin; therefore it was but in vain to pray. Yet thought I, I will pray. But, (said the Tempter,) your Sin is unpardonable. Well, said I, I will pray. 'Tis to no Boot, said he. Yet, said I, I will pray. So I went to Prayer to God; and while I was at Prayer, I uttered Words to this Effect, Lord, Satan tells me, that neither thy Mercy, nor Christ's Blood, is sufficient to save my Soul; Lord, shall I honour thee most, by believing thou wilt and canst? or him, by believing thou neither wilt nor canst? Lord, I would fain honour thee, by believing thou wilt and canst.

201. And as I was thus before the Lord, that Scripture fastened on my Heart, [O Man, great is thy Faith,] Mat. 15. 28. even as if one had clapp'd me on the Back, as I was on my Knees before God: Yet I was not able to believe this, that this was a Prayer of Faith, till almost six Months after; for I could not think that I had Faith, or that there should be a Word for me to act Faith on; therefore I should still be, as sticking in the Jaws of Desperation, and went mourning up and down in a sad Condition.

202. There was nothing now that I longed for more than to be put out of Doubt, as to this Thing in Question; and as I was vehemently desiring to know, if there was indeed Hope for me, these Words came rolling into my Mind: Will the Lord cast off for ever? And will he be favourable no more? Is his Mercy clean gone for ever? Doth his Promise fail for evermore? Hath God forgotten to be gracious? Hath he in Anger shut up his tender Mercies? Psal. 77. 7, 8, 9. And all the while they run in my Mind, methought I had still this as the Answer, 'Tis a Question whether he hath or no; it may be he hath not. Yea, the Interrogatory seemed to me to carry in it a sure Affirmation that indeed he had not, or would so cast off, but would be favourable: That his Promise doth not fail, and that he hath not forgotten to be gracious, nor would in Anger shut up his tender Mercy: Something also there was upon my Heart at the same Time, which I now cannot call to mind; which, with this Text, did sweeten my Heart, and made me conclude, that his Mercy might not be quite gone, nor gone for ever.

203. At another time I remembred, I was again much under this Question, Whether the Blood of Christ was sufficient to save my Soul? In which Doubt I continued from Morning till about seven or eight at Night; and at last, when I was, as it were, quite worn out with Fear, least it should not lay hold on me, these Words did sound suddenly within my Heart, He is Able: But methought, this Word Able, was spoke loud unto me; it shewed a great Word, it seemed to be writ in great Letters, and give such a Juggle to my Fear and Doubt (I mean for the Time it tarried with me, which was about a Day) as I never had from that all my Life, either before or after, Heb. 7. 25.

204. But one Morning as I was again at Prayer, and trembling under the Fear of this, that no Word of God could help me, that Piece of a Sentence darted in upon me, My Grace is sufficient. At this methought I felt some Stay, as if there might be Hopes. But, Oh, how good a Thing it is for God to send his Word! For about a Fortnight before I was looking on this very Place, and then I thought it could not come near my Soul with Comfort, therefore I threw down my Book in a Pet: Then I thought it was not large enough for me; no, not large enough; but now it was as if it had Arms of Grace so wide, that it could not only inclose me, but many more besides.

205. By these Words I was sustained, yet not without exceeding Conflicts, for the Space of seven or eight Weeks; for my Peace would be in it, and out, sometimes twenty Times a Day, Comfort now, and Trouble presently; Peace now, and before I could go a Furlong, as full of Fear and Guilt as ever Heart could hold: And this was not only now and then, but my whole seven Weeks Experience: For this about the Sufficiency of Grace, and that of Esaú's parting with his Birth-right, would be like a Pair of Scales within my Mind, sometimes one end would be uppermost, and sometimes again the other; according to which would be my Peace or Troubles.

206. Therefore I did still pray to God, that he would come in with his Scripture more fully on my Heart; to wit, that he would help me to apply the whole Sentence, for as yet I could not: That he gave, that I gathered; but further I could not go, for as yet it only helped me to hope there might be be Mercy for me, My Grace is sufficient: And though it came no farther, it answered my former Question; to wit, that there was Hope; yet because for thee was left out, I was not contented, but prayed to God for that also. Wherefore one Day when I was in a Meeting of God's People full of Sadness and Terror, for my Fears again were strong upon me; and, as I was now thinking my Soul was never the better, but my Case most sad and fearful, these Words did with great Power suddenly break in upon me, My Grace is sufficient for thee, my Grace is sufficient for thee, my Grace is sufficient for thee, three Times together: And, Oh! methought that every Word was a mighty Word unto me; as my, and Grace, and sufficient, and for thee; they were then and some Times are still, far bigger than others be.

207. At which Time my Understanding was so enlightened, that I was as though I had seen the Lord Jesus look down from Heaven through the Tiles upon me, and direct these Words unto me. This sent me mourning Home, it broke my Heart, and filled me full of Joy, and laid me low as the Dust; only it stayed not long with me, I mean in this Glory and refreshing Comfort, yet it continued with me for several Weeks, and did encourage me to hope: But as soon as that powerful Operation of it was taken from my Heart, that other about Esau, returned upon me as before; so my Soul did hang as in a Pair of Scales again, sometimes up, and sometimes down, now in Peace, and anon again in Terror.

208. Thus I went on for many Weeks, sometimes comforted, and sometimes tormented; and especially at some times my Torment would be very sore, for all those Scriptures forenamed in the Hebrews, would be set before me, as the only Sentences that would keep me out of Heaven. Then again I should begin to repent that ever that Thought went through me; I should also think thus with myself, Why, how many Scriptures are there against me? There are but three or four: And cannot God miss them, and Save me for all them? Sometimes again I should think, Oh! if it were not for these three or four Words, now how might I be comforted? And I could hardly forbear at some Times, but to wish them out of the Book.

209. Then methought I should see as if both Peter and Paul, and John, and all the Writers, did look with Scorn upon me, and hold me in Derision; and as if they had said unto me, All our Words are Truth, one of as much Force as the other: It is not we that have cut you off, but you have cast away your self: There is none of our Sentences that you must take hold upon, but these, and such as these: it is impossible, there remains no more Sacrifice for Sin, Heb. 6. And it had been better for them not to have known the Will of God, than after they had known it, to turn from the Holy Commandment delivered unto them, Heb. 10. For the Scriptures cannot be broken, 2 Pet. 2. 21.

210. These, as the Elders of the City of Refuge, I saw, were to be Judges both of my Case and me, while I stood, with the Avenger of Blood at my Heels, trembling at their Gate for Deliverance, also with a thousand Fears and Mistrusts, I doubted that he would shut me out for ever, Josh. 20. 3, 4.

211. Thus I was confounded, not knowing what to do, nor how to be satisfied in this Question, Whether the Scriptures could agree in the Salvation of my Soul? I quaked at the Apostles, I knew their Words were true, and that they must stand for ever.

212. And I remember one Day as I was in divers Frames of Spirit, and considering that these Frames were according to the Nature of several Scriptures that came in upon my Mind; if this of Grace, then was I quiet; but if that of Esau, then tormented: Lord, thought I, if both these Scriptures would meet in my Heart at once, I wonder which of them would get the better of me. So methought I had a long Mind that they might come both together upon me; yea, I desired of God they might.

213. Well, about two or three Days after, so they did indeed: They bolted both upon me at a Time, and did work and struggle strangely in me for a while; at last that about Esau's Birth-right began to wax weak, and withdraw, and vanish; and this about the Sufficiency of Grace prevailed with Peace and Joy. And as I was in a Muse about this Thing, that Scripture came Home upon me, Mercy rejoiceth over Judgment, James 2. 13.

214. This was a Wonderment to me, yet truly, I am apt to think it was of God, for the Word of the Law and Wrath, must give Place to the Word of Life and Grace; because though the Word of Condemnation be glorious, yet the Word of Life and Salvation doth far exceed in Glory, 2 Cor. 3. 8, to 12. Mark 9. 5, 6, 7. John 6. 37. Also that Moses and Elias must both vanish, and leave Christ and his Saints alone.

215. This Scripture did also most sweetly visit my Soul; And him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out. Oh the Comfort that I had from this Word, in no wise! As who should say, by no means, for nothing whatever he hath done. But Satan would greatly labour to pull this Promise from me, telling of me, That Christ did not mean me, and such as I, but Sinners of a lower Rank, that had not done as I had done. But I should answer him again, Satan, here is in these Words no such Exception; but him that comes, him, any him: Him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out. And this I well remember still, that of all the Sights Slights that Satan used to take this Scripture from me, yet he never did so much as put this Question, But do you come aright? And I have thought the Reason was, because he thought I knew full well what coming aright was; for I saw, that to come aright, was to come as I was, a vile and ungodly Sinner, and so cast my self at the Feet of Mercy, condemning my self for Sin. If ever Satan and I did strive for any Word of God in all my Life, it was for this good Word of Christ; he at one end, and I at the other: Oh, what Work we made! It was for this in John, I say, that we did so tug and strive: He pulled, and I pulled; but God be praised, I overcame him, I got Sweetness from it.

216. But, notwithstanding all these Helps, and blessed Words of Grace, yet that of Esau's selling of his Birth-right, would still at times distress my Conscience; for though I had been most sweetly comforted, and that but just before, yet when that came into my Mind, 'twould make me fear again, I could not be quite rid thereof, 'twould every Day be with me: Wherefore now I went another way to work, even to consider the Nature of this Blasphemous Thought, I mean, if I should take the Words at the largest, and give them their own natural Force and Scope: Even every Word therein: So when I had thus considered, I found, that if they were fairly taken, they would amount to this, That I had freely left the Lord Jesus Christ to his Choice, whether he would be my Saviour or no; for the wicked Words were these, Let him go if he will. Then that Scripture gave me Hope, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee, Heb. 13. 5. O Lord, said I, but I have left thee. Then it answered again, But I will not leave thee. For this I thanked God also.

217. Yet I was grievous afraid he should, and found it exceeding hard to trust him, seeing I had so offended him; I could have been exceeding glad that this Thought had never befallen, for then I thought I could, with more Ease and Freedom Abundance, have leaned on his Grace. I see it was with me, as it was with Joseph's Brethren; the Guilt of their own Wickedness did often fill them with Fears, that their Brother would at last despise them, Gen. 50. 15, 16, &c.

218. Yet above all the Scriptures that I yet did meet with, that in Josbua 20. was the greatest Comfort to me, which speaks of the Slayer that was to flee for Refuge, And if the Avenger of Blood pursue the Slayer, then, saith Moses, they that are the Elders of the City of Refuge shall not deliver him into his Hand, because he smote his Neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not aforetime. Oh, blessed be God for this Word; I was convinced that I was the Slayer; and that the Avenger of Blood pursued me, I felt with great Terror; only now it remained that

Vol. II.

I enquire whether I have Right to enter the City of Refuge: So I found that he must not, who lay in wait to shed Blood: It was not the wilful Murderer, but he who unwittingly did it, he who did it unawares; not out of Spite, or Grudge, or Malice, he that shed it unwittingly, even he who did not hate his Neighbour before. Wherefore, 219. I thought verily I was the Man that must enter, because I had smitten my Neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not aforetime. I hated him not aforetime; no, I prayed unto him, was tender of sinning against him; yea, and against this wicked Temptation I had strove for Twelve Months before, yea, and also when it did pass through my Heart, it did in spite of my Teeth: Wherefore I thought I had right to enter this City, and the Elders, which are the Apostles, were not to deliver me up. This therefore was great Comfort to me, and did give me much ground of Hope.

220. Yet being very critical, for my smart had made me, that I knew not what ground was sure enough to bear me, I had one Question that my Soul did much desire to be resolved about; and that was, Whether it be possible for any Soul that hath indeed sinned the unpardonable Sin, yet after that to receive tho' but the least true Spiritual Comfort from God through Christ? The which, after I had much considered, I found the Answer was, No, they could not; and that for these Reasons:

221. First, Because those that have sinned that Sin, they are debarred a share in the Blood of Christ, and being shut out of that, they must needs be void of the least ground of Hope, and so of Spiritual Comfort, For to such there remains no more Sacrifice for Sin, Heb. 10. 26, 27. Secondly, Because they are denied a share in the Promise of Life; they shall never be forgiven, neither in this World, nor in that which is to come, Mat. 12. 31. Thirdly, The Son of God excludes them also from a share in his blessed Intercession, being for ever ashamed to own them both before his holy Father, and the blessed Angels in Heaven, Mark 8.

222. When I had with much Deliberation considered of this Matter, and could not but conclude that the Lord had comforted me, and that too after this my wicked Sin; then methought I durst venture to come nigh unto those most fearful and terrible Scriptures, with which all this while I had been so greatly affrighted, and on which indeed, before I durst scarce cast mine Eye, (yea, had much ado an hundred times, to forbear wishing them out of the Bible,) for I thought they would destroy me; but now, I say, I began to take some measure of Encouragement, to come close to them, to read them and consider them, and to weigh their Scope and Tendency.

223. The

223. The which, when I began to do, I found my Visage changed; for they looked not so grimly, as before I thought they did: And first I came to the sixth of the Hebrews, yet trembling for fear it should strike me; which when I had considered, I found that the falling there intended, was a falling quite away; that is, as I conceived, a falling from, and an absolute denying of the Gospel, of Remission of Sins by Jesus Christ; for, from them the Apostle begins his Argument, Verse 1. 2, 3. Secondly, I found that this falling away, must be openly, even in the View of the World, even so as to put Christ to an open Shame. Thirdly, I found that those he there intended, were for ever shut up of God, both in Blindness, Hardness and Impenitency: It is impossible they should be renewed again unto Repentance. By all these Particulars, I found to God's everlasting Praise, my Sin was not the Sin in this Place intended.

First, I confessed I was fallen, but not fallen away, that is, from the Profession of Faith in Jesus unto eternal Life.

Secondly, I confessed that I had put Jesus Christ to Shame by my Sin, but not to open Shame, I did not deny him before Men, nor condemn him as a Fruitless one before the World.

Thirdly, Nor did I find that God had shut me up, or denied me to come (though I found it hard work indeed to come) to him by Sorrow and Repentance: Blessed be God for unsearchable Grace.

224. Then I considered that in the Tenth of the Hebrews, and found that the wilful Sin there mentioned, is not every wilful Sin, but that which doth throw off Christ, and then his Commandments too. Secondly, That must be done also openly, before two or three Witnesses, to answer that of the Law, Verse 28. Thirdly, This Sin cannot be committed, but with great Despite done to the Spirit of Grace; despising both the Dissuasions from that Sin, and the Persuasions to the contrary. But the Lord knows, though this my Sin was Devilish, yet it did not amount to these.

225. And as touching that in the Twelfth of the Hebrews, about Esau's selling of his Birth-right, though this was that which killed me, and stood like a Spear against me; yet now I did consider, First, That his was not a hasty Thought against the continual Labour of his Mind, but a Thought consented to and put in Practice likewise, and that after some Deliberation, Gen. 25. Secondly, It was a publick and open Action, even before his Brother, if not before many more; this made his Sin of a far more heinous Nature than otherwise it would have been. 3dly, He continued to slight his Birth-right: He did eat and drink, and went his way; thus Esau despised his Birth-right; yea, Twenty Years after he was found to despise it still. And Esau said, I have enough, my Brother, keep that thou hast thy self, Gen. 33. 9.

226. Now as touching this, That Esau sought a Place of Repentance: Thus I thought, First, This was not for the Birth-right, but the Blessing; this is clear from the Apostle, and is distinguished by Esau himself; he hath taken away my Birth-right, (that is, formerly) and now he hath taken away my Blessing also, Gen. 27. 36. Secondly, Now this being thus considered, I came again to the Apostle, to see what might be the Mind of God, in a New Testament Stile and Sense concerning Esau's Sin; and so far as I could conceive, this was the Mind of God, That the Birth-right signified Regeneration, and the Blessing, the Eternal Inheritance; for so the Apostle seems to hint, Lest there be any Prophane Person, as Esau, who for a Morsel of Meat sold his Birth-right; as if he should say, that shall cast off all those blessed beginnings of God that at present are upon him, in order to a New Birth, lest they become as Esau, even be rejected afterwards, when they should inherit the Blessing.

227. For many there are, who in the Day of Grace and Mercy, despise those things which are indeed the Birth-right to Heaven, who yet when the declining Days appears, will cry as loud as Esau, Lord, Lord, open to us, but then, as Isaac would not Repent, no more will God the Father, but will say, I have blessed these, yea, and, they shall be blessed; but as for you, depart you are Workers of Iniquity, Gen. 27. 32. Luke 13. 25, 26, 27.

228. When I had thus considered these Scriptures, and found that thus to understand them, was not against, but according to other Scriptures; this still added further to my Encouragement and Comfort, and also gave a great Blow to that Objection, to wit, That the Scriptures could not agree in the Salvation of my Soul. And now remained only the hinder part of the Tempest, for the Thunder was gone beyond me, only some Drops did still remain, that now and then would fall upon me; but because my former Frights and Anguish were very fore and deep, therefore it oft befell me still, as it befalleth those that have been scared with Fire, I thought every Voice was Fire, Fire; every little touch would hurt my tender Conscience.

229. But one Day, as I was passing into the Field, and that too with some Dashes on my Conscience, fearing lest yet all was not right, suddenly this Sentence fell upon my Soul, Thy Righteousness is in Heaven; and methought withal, I saw with the Eyes of my Soul, Jesus Christ at God's Right Hand; there, I say, as my Righteousness; so that wherever I was, or whatever I was doing, God could not say of me, He wants my Righteousness, for that was was just before him. I also saw moreover, that it was not my good Frame of Heart that made my Righteousness better, nor yet my bad Frame that made my Righteousness worse; for my Righteousness was Jesus Christ himself, The same Yesterday, to Day, and for ever, Heb. 13. 8.

230. Now did my Chains fall off my Legs indeed, I was loosed from my Afflictions and Irons, my Temptations also fled away; so that from that time those dreadful Scriptures of God left off to trouble me; now went I also home rejoicing, for the Grace and Love of God; so when I came home, I looked to see if I could find that Sentence, Thy Righteousness is in Heaven; but could not find such a saying, wherefore my Heart began to sink again, only that was brought to my Remembrance. 1 Cor. 1. 33. He is made unto us of God, Wisdom, Righteousness, Sanctification, and Redemption; by this Word I saw the other Sentence true.

231. For by this Scripture I saw that the Man Christ Jesus, as he is distinct from us as touching his Bodily Presence, so he is our Righteousness and Sanctification before God, here therefore I lived, for some time, very sweetly at Peace with God through Christ; Oh methought Christ! Christ! there was nothing but Christ that was before my Eyes, I was not now (only) for looking upon this and the other Benefits of Christ apart, as of his Blood, Burial, or Resurrection, but considering him as a whole Christ! as he in whom all these, and all other his Vertues, Relations, Offices and Operations met together, and that he sat on the Right Hand of God in Heaven.

232. 'Twas Glorious to me to see his Exaltation, and the Worth and Prevalency of all his Benefits, and that because now I could look from myself to him, and should reckon, that all those Graces of God that now were green on me, were yet but like those crack'd Groats and Fourpence-half-pennies that Rich Men carry in their Purfes, when their Gold is in their Trunks at Home! Oh, I saw my Gold was in my Trunk at Home! In Christ my Lord and Saviour! Now Christ was all; all my Wisdom, all my Righteousness, all my Sanctification, and all my Redemption.

233. Further, the Lord did also lead me into the Mystery of Union with the Son of God, that I was joyned to him, that I was Flesh of his Flesh, and Bone of his Bone, and now was that a sweet Word to me, in Eph. 5. 30. By this also was my Faith in him, as my Righteousness, the more confirmed in me; for if he and I were one, then his Righteousness was mine, his Merits mine, his Victory also mine. Now could I see my self in Heaven and Earth at once; in Heaven by my Christ, by my Head, by my Righteousness and Life, though on Earth by Body or Person.

234. Now I saw Christ Jesus was looked on of God; and should also be looked upon by us, as that Common or Publick Person, in whom all the whole Body of his Elect are always to be considered and reckoned; that we fulfilled the Law by him, died by him, rose from the Dead by him, got the Victory over Sin, Death, the Devil, and Hell, by him; when he died, we died, and so of his Resurrection. Thy dead Men shall live together, with my dead Body shall they arise, saith he, Isa. 26. And again, After two Days he will revive us, and the third Day we shall live in his Sight, Hos. 6. 2. Which is now fulfilled by the sitting down of the Son of Man on the right Hand of the Majesty in the Heavens, according to that to the Ephesians, He hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in Heavenly Places in Christ Jesus, Eph. 2. 6.

235. Ah, these blessed Considerations and Scriptures, with many other of like Nature, were in those Days made to spangle in mine Eye, so that I have cause to say, Praise ye the Lord God in his Sanctuary; Praise him in the Firmament of his Power, Praise him for his mighty Acts, Praise him according to his excellent Greatness, Psalm 105. 1, 2.

236. Having thus in few Words given you a Taste of the Sorrow and Affliction that my Soul went under, by the Guilt and Terror that thus my wicked Thought did lay me under! and having given you also a Touch of my Deliverance therefrom, and of the sweet and blessed Comfort that I met with afterwards, which Comfort dwelt about a twelve Month with my Heart, to my unspeakable Admiration; I will now, (God willing) before I proceed any further, give you in a Word or two, what, as I conceive, was the Cause of this Temptation; and also after that, what Advantage, at the last, it became unto my Soul.

237. For the Causes, I conceived they were principally two: Of which two also I was deeply convinced all the time this Trouble lay upon me. The first was, for that I did not, when I was delivered from the Temptation that went before, still pray to God to keep me from Temptations that were to come; for though, as I can say in Truth, my Soul was much in Prayer before this Tryal seized me. Yet then I prayed only, or at the most, principally, for the removal of present Troubles, and for fresh Discoveries of his Love in Christ! which I saw afterwards was not enough to do; I also should have prayed, that the great God would keep me from the Evil that was to come.

238. Of this I was made deeply sensible by the Prayer of Holy David, who when he was under present Mercy, yet prayed that God would hold him back from Sin and and Temptation to come; For then, saith he, shall I be upright, and I shall be innocent from the great Transgression, Psalm 19. 13. By this very Word was I galled and condemned quite through this long Temptation.

239. That also was another Word that did much condemn me for my Folly, in the Neglect of this Duty, Heb. 4. 16. Let us therefore come boldly unto the Throne of Grace, that we may obtain Mercy, and find Grace to help in Time of need: This I had not done, and therefore was thus suffered to sin and fall, according to what is written, Pray that ye enter not into Temptation: And truly this very Thing is to this Day of such Weight and Awe upon me, that I dare not, when I come before the Lord, go off my Knees, until I intreat him for Help and Mercy against the Temptations that are to come; and I do beseech thee, Reader, that thou learn to beware of my Negligence, by the Afflictions that for this thing I did for Days, and Months, and Years, with Sorrow undergo.

240. Another Cause of this Temptation was, that I had tempted God; and on this Manner did I do it: Upon a Time my Wife was great with Child, and before her full Time was come, her Pangs, as of a Woman in Travel, were fierce and strong upon her, even as if she would have immediately fallen in Labour, and been delivered of an untimely Birth: Now at this very Time it was, that I had been so strongly tempted to question the Being of God; wherefore, as my Wife lay crying by me, I said, but with all Secrecy imaginable, even thinking in my Heart, Lord, if now thou wilt remove this sad Affliction from my Wife, and cause that she be troubled no more therewith this Night (and now were her Pangs just upon her) then I shall know that thou canst discern the most secret Thoughts of the Heart.

241. I had no sooner said it in my Heart, but her Pangs were taken from her, and she was cast into a deep Sleep, and so continued till Morning; at this I greatly marvelled, not knowing what to think; but after I had been awake a good while, and heard her cry no more, I fell to Sleep also; so when I awaked in the Morning, it came upon me again, even what I had said in my Heart the last Night, and how the Lord had shewed me, that he knew my secret Thoughts, which was a great Astonishment unto me for several Weeks after.

242. Well, about a Year and a half afterwards, that wicked sinful Thought, of which I have spoken before, went through my wicked Heart, even this Thought, Let Christ go if he will; so when I was fallen under Guilt for this, the Remembrance of my other Thought, and of the Effect thereof, would also come upon me with this Retort, which also carried Rebuke along with it, Now you may see that God doth know the most secret Thoughts of the Heart.

243. And with this, that of the Passages that were betwixt the Lord and his Servant Gideon, fell upon my Spirit; how because that Gideon tempted God with his Fleece, both Wet and Dry, when he should have believed and ventured upon his Words, therefore the Lord did afterwards so try him, as to send him against an innumerable Company of Enemies: And that too, as to outward Appearance, without any Strength or Help, Judges 6. 7. Thus he served me, and that justly, for I should have believed his Word, and not to have put an if upon the All-seeingness of God.

244. And now to shew you something of the Advantages that I also have gained by this Temptation; and first, by this I was made continually to possess in my Soul a very wonderful Sense both of the Blessing and Glory of God, and of his beloved Son; in the Temptation that went before, my Soul was perplexed with Unbelief, Blasphemy, Hardness of Heart, Questions about the Being of God, Christ, the Truth of the Word, and Certainty of the World to come; I say, then I was greatly assaulted, and tormented with Atheism, but now the Case was otherwise, now was God and Christ continually before my Face, though not in a Way of Comfort, but in a Way of exceeding Dread and Terror. The Glory of the Holiness of God did at this Time break me to pieces; and the Bowels and Compassion of Christ did break me as on the Wheel; for I could not consider him but as a lost and rejected Christ, the Remembrance of which was as the continual breaking of my Bones.

245. The Scriptures also were wonderful Things unto me; I saw that the Truth and Verity of them were the Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven; those that the Scriptures favour, they must inherit Bliss; but those that they oppose and condemn, must perish for evermore: Oh this Word, For the Scriptures cannot be broken, would rend the Caul of my Heart; and so would that other, Whose Sins ye remit, they are remitted; but whose Sins ye retain, they are retained: Now I saw the Apostles to be the Elders of the City of Refuge, Joshua 20. 4. those that they were to receive in were received to Life; but those that they shut out, were to be slain by the Avenger of Blood.

246. Oh! one Sentence of the Scripture, did more afflict and terrify my Mind, I mean those Sentences that stood against me (as sometimes I thought they every one did) more, I say, than an Army of Forty Thousand Men that might come against me. Woe be to him against whom the Scriptures bend themselves.

247. By this Temptation I was made to see more into the Nature of the Promises, than ever I was before; for I lying now trembling trembling under the mighty Hand of God, continually torn and rent by the Thundering of his Justice; this made me with careful Heart and watchful Eye, with great Fearfulness, to turn over every Leaf, and with much Diligence, mixed with Trembling, to consider every Sentence, together with its natural Force and Latitude.

248. By this Temptation also, I was greatly holden off my former foolish Practice, of putting by the Word of Promise when it came into my Mind; for now, though I could not suck that Comfort and Sweetness from the Promise, as I had done at other Times, yea, like to a Man a sinking, I should catch at all I saw; formerly I thought I might not meddle with the Promise, unless I felt its Comfort, but now 'twas no time thus to do, the Avenger of Blood too hardly did pursue me.

249. Now therefore was I glad to catch at that Word, which yet I feared I had no ground or right to own; and even to leap into the Bosom of that Promise, that yet I feared did shut its Heart against me. Now also I should labour to take the Word as God hath laid it down, without restraining the natural Force of one Syllable thereof: O what did I now see in that blessed sixth of John, And him that comes to me, I will in no wise cast out, John 6. 30. Now I began to consider with myself, that God hath a bigger Mouth to speak with, than I had a Heart to conceive with: I thought also with myself, that he spake not his Words in Haste, or in an unadvised Heat, but with infinite Wisdom and Judgment, and in very Truth and Faithfulness, 2 Sam. 3. 28.

250. I should in these Days, often in my greatest Agonies, even flounce towards the Promise, (as the Horses do towards sound Ground that yet stick in the Mire) concluding, tho' as one almost bereft of his Wits through Fear) on this I will rest and stay, and leave the fulfilling of it to the God of Heaven that made it. Oh! many a Pull hath my Heart had with Satan, for that blessed sixth of John; I did not now as at other times, look principally for Comfort, (though, O how welcome would it have been unto me!) But now a Word, a Word to lean a weary Soul upon, that it might not sink for ever! 'twas that I hunted for.

251. Yea, often when I have been making to the Promise, I have seen as if the Lord would refuse my Soul for ever: I was often as if I had run upon the Pikes, and as if the Lord had thrust at me, to keep me from him as with a flaming Sword. Then should I think of Esther, who went to petition the King contrary to the Law, Esther 4. 16. I thought also of Benhadad's Servants, who went with Ropes upon their Heads to their Enemies for Mercy, 1 Kin. 20. 31, &c. The Woman of Canaan also, that would not be daunted, though called

Vol. II.

Dog by Christ, Matt. 15. 22, &c. and the Man that went to borrow Bread at Midnight, Luke 11. 5, 6, 7, 8, &c. were great Encouragements unto me.

252. I never saw those Heights and Depths in Grace, and Love, and Mercy, as I saw after this Temptation: Great Sins to draw out great Grace; and where Guilt is most terrible and fierce, there the Mercy of God in Christ, when shewed to the Soul, appears most high and mighty; when Job had passed through his Captivity, he had twice as much as he had before, Job 42. 10. Blessed be God for Jesus Christ our Lord. Many other things I might here make Observation of, but I would be brief, and therefore shall at this Time omit them, and do pray God that my Harms may make others fear to offend, lest they also be made to bear the Iron Yoke as I did.

I had two or three Times, at or about my Deliverance from this Temptation, such strange Apprehensions of the Grace of God, that I could hardly bear up under it, it was so out of measure amazing, when I thought it could reach me, that I do think if that Sense of it had abode long upon me, it would have made me incapable for Business.

253. Now I shall go forward to give you a Relation of other of the Lord's Dealings with me, at fundry other Seasons, and of the Temptations I then did meet withal. I shall begin with what I met with when I first did joyn in Fellowship with the People of God in Bedford. After I had propounded to the Church, that my Desire was to walk in the Order and Ordinances of Christ with them, and was also admitted by them: While I thought of that blessed Ordinance of Christ, which was his last Supper with his Disciples before his Death, that Scripture, Do this in Remembrance of me, Luke 22. 19. was made a very precious Word unto me: For by it the Lord did come down upon my Conscience with the Discovery of his Death for my Sins; and as I then felt, did as if he plunged me in the Vertue of the same. But, behold, I had not been long a Partaker at that Ordinance, but such fierce and sad Temptation did attend me at all Times therein, both to blaspheme the Ordinance, and to wish some deadly Thing to those that then did eat thereof: That lest I should at any Time be guilty of consenting to these wicked and fearful Thoughts, I was forced to bend myself all the while, to pray to God to keep me from such Blasphemies: And also to cry to God to bless the Bread and Cup to them, as it were from Mouth to Mouth. The Reason of this Temptation, I have thought since, was because I did not with that Reverence as became me at first Approach to partake thereof.

254. Thus I continued for Three Quarters of a Year, and could never have Rest

nor Ease: But at the last the Lord came in upon my Soul with that same Scripture, by which my Soul was visited before: And after that I have been usually very well and comfortable in the partaking of that blessed Ordinance, and have, I trust, therein discerned the Lord's Body, as broken for my Sins, and that his precious Blood hath been shed for my Transgressions.

255. Upon a Time I was something inclining to a Consumption, wherewith about the Spring I was suddenly and violently seized with much Weakness in my outward Man: Infomuch that I thought I could not live. Now began I afresh to give myself up to a serious Examination after my State and Condition for the future, and of my Evidences for that blessed World to come: For it hath, I bless the Name of God, been my usual Course, as always, so especially in the Day of Affliction, to endeavour to keep my Interest in Life to come, clear before mine Eyes.

256. But I had no sooner began to recal to Mind my former Experience, of the Goodness of God to my Soul, but there came flocking into my Mind an innumerable Company of my Sins and Transgressions, amongst which these were at this Time most to my Affliction, namely, my Deadness, Dulness, and Coldness in my holy Duties; my Wandrings of Heart, of my Wearisomeness in all good Things, my Want of Love to God, his Ways and People, with this at the End of all, Are these the Fruits of Christianity? Are these the Tokens of a blessed Man?

257. At the Apprehensions of these things, my Sickness was doubled upon me, for now I was sick in my inward Man, my Soul was clogged with Guilt; now also was my former Experience of God's Goodness to me quite taken out of my Mind, and hid as if they had never been, or seen: Now was my Soul greatly pinched between these two Considerations, Live I must not, Die I dare not: Now I sunk and fell in my Spirit, and was giving up all for lost; but as I was walking up and down in the House as a Man in a most woful State, that Word of God took hold of my Heart, Ye are justified freely by his Grace, through the Redemption that is in Christ Jesus, Rom. 3. 24. But Oh what a Turn it made upon me!

258. Now was I as one awaked out of some troublesome Sleep and Dream; and listning to this heavenly Sentence, I was as if I had heard it thus spoken to me, Sinner, thou thinkest, that because of thy Sins and Infirmities I cannot save thy Soul; but behold, my Son is by me, and upon him I look, and not on thee, and deal with thee according as I am pleased with him. At this I was greatly enlightened in my Mind, and made to understand, that if God would justify a Sinner at any Time, it was but his looking upon Christ, and imputing of his Benefits to us, and the Work was forthwith done.

259. And as I was thus in a Muse, that Scripture also came with great Power upon my Spirit, Not by Works of Righteousness that we have done, but according to his Mercy he hath saved us, &c. 2 Tim. 1. 9. Tit. 3. 5. Now was I got on high, I saw my self within the Arms of Grace and Mercy, and though I was before afraid to think of a dying Hour, yet now I cried, Let me die: Now Death was lovely and beautiful in my Sight; for I saw we shall never live indeed till we be gone to the other World. Oh, methoughts this Life is but a Slumber, in comparison of that above; at this Time also I saw more in those Words, Heirs of God, Rom. 8. 17. than ever I shall be able to express while I live in this World: Heirs of God! God himself is the Portion of the Saints. This I saw and wondred at, but cannot tell you what I saw.

260. Again, as I was at another Time very ill and weak, all that time also the Tempter did beset me strongly, (for I find he is much for assaulting the Soul when it begins to approach towards the Grave, then is his Opportunity) labouring to hide from me my former Experience of God's Goodness; also setting before me the Terrors of Death, and the Judgment of God, infomuch that at this Time, through my Fear of mis-carrying for ever (should I now die) I was as one dead before Death came, and was as if I had felt myself already descending into the Pit; methoughts I said, there was no Way but to Hell I must; but behold, just as I was in the midst of those Fears, these Words of the Angels carrying Lazarus into Abraham's Bosom darted in upon me, as who should say, So it shall be with thee, when thou dost leave this World. This did sweetly revive my Spirits, and help me to hope in God; which when I had with Comfort mused on a while, that Word fell with great Weight upon my Mind, O Death, where is thy Sting? O Grave, where is thy Victory? 1 Cor. 15. 55. At this I became both well in Body and Mind at once, for my Sickness did presently vanish, and I walked comfortably in my Work for God again.

261. At another Time, though just before I was pretty well and savoury in my Spirit, yet suddenly there fell upon me a great Cloud of Darkness, which did so hide from me the Things of God and Christ, that I was as if I had never seen or known them in my Life: I was also so over-run in my Soul with a senseless heartless Frame of Spirit, that I could not feel my Soul to move or stir after Grace and Life by Christ; I was as if my Loins were broken, or as if my Hands and Feet had been tied or bound with Chains. At this Time also I felt some Weakness to seize upon my outward Man, which made still the other Affliction the more heavy and uncomfortable to me.

262. After

262. After I had been in this Condition some three or four Days, as I was sitting by the Fire, I suddenly felt this Word to sound in my Heart, I must go to Jesus; at this my former Darkness and Atheism fled away, and the blessed things of Heaven were set within my View. While I was on this sudden thus overtaken with Surprise, Wife, said I, is there ever such a Scripture, I must go to Jesus? she said, she could not tell; therefore I stood musing still, to see if I could remember such a Place; I had not sat above two or three Minutes, but that came bolting in upon me, And to an innumerable Company of Angels; and withal, Hebrews the Twelfth, about the Mount Sion was set before mine Eyes, Heb. 12. 22, 23, 24.

263. Then with Joy I told my Wife, O now I know, I know! But that Night was a good Night to me, I never had but few better; I longed for the Company of some of God's People, that I might have imparted unto them what God had shewed me. Christ was a precious Christ to my Soul that Night, I could scarce lie in my Bed for Joy, and Peace, and Triumph, through Christ; this great Glory did not continue upon me until Morning, yet the Twelfth of the Author to the Hebrews, Heb. 12. 22, 23. was a blessed Scripture to me for many Days together after this.

264. The Words are these, Ye are come to Mount Sion, to the City of the Living God, to the Heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable Company of Angels, to the General Assembly and Church of the First-born, which are written in Heaven, to God the Judge of all, and to the Spirits of just Men made perfect, and to Jesus the Mediator of the New Testament, and to the Blood of Sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel, thorow this blessed Sentence, the Lord led me over and over, first to this Word, and then to that, and shewed me wonderful Glory in every one of them. These Words also have oft since this time, been great refreshment to my Spirit. Blessed be God for having Mercy on me.

A brief Account of the Author's Call to the Work of the Ministry.

265. AND now I am speaking my Experience, I will in this Place thrust in a Word or two concerning my Preaching the Word, and of God's dealing with me in that Particular also: For after I had been about five or six Years awakened, and helped my self to see both the Want and Worth of Jesus Christ, our Lord, and also inabled to venture my Soul upon him: Some of the most able among the Saints with us, I say, the most able for Judgment, and Holiness of Life, as they conceived, did perceive that God had counted me worthy to understand something of his Will in his holy and blessed Word, and had given me utterance in some Measure, to express what I saw, to others for Edification; therefore they desired me, and that with much Earnestness, that I would be willing, at sometimes, to take in Hand, in one of the Meetings, to speak a Word of Exhortation unto them.

266. The which, though at the first it did much dash and abash my Spirit, yet being still by them desired and intreated, I consented to their Request, and did twice at two several Assemblies, (but in private) though with much Weakness and Infirmary, discover my Gift amongst them; at which they not only seemed to be, but did solemnly protest, as in the Sight of the great God, they were both affected and comforted, and gave Thanks to the Father of Mercies, for the Grace bestowed on me.

267. After this, sometimes, when some of them did go into the Country to teach, they would also that I should go with them; where though, as yet I did not, nor durst not, make use of my Gift in an open Way, yet more privately still, as I came amongst the good People in those Places, I did sometimes speak a Word of Admonition unto them also; the which they, as the other, received, with rejoicing at the Mercy of God to me, and professing their Souls were edified thereby.

268. Wherefore, to be brief, at last, being still desired by the Church, after some solemn Prayer to the Lord, with Fasting, I was more particularly called forth, and appointed to a more ordinary and publick Preaching the Word, not only to, and amongst them that believed, but also to offer the Gospel to those who had not yet received the Faith thereof: About which time I did evidently find in my Mind, a secret pricking forward thereto; though, I bless God, not for desire of vain Glory, for at that time I was most sorely afflicted with the fiery Darts of the Devil, concerning my Eternal State.

269. But yet could not be content, unless I was found in the Exercise of my Gift, unto which also I was greatly animated, not only by the continual Desires of the Godly, but also by that Saying of Paul to the Corinthians, I beseech you, Brethren, (ye know the Household of Stephanus, that it is the first Fruits of Achaia, and that they have addicted themselves to the Ministry of the Saints) that ye submit your selves unto such, and to every one that helpeth with us, and laboureth, 1 Cor. 16. 15, 16.

270. By this Text I was made to see that the Holy Ghost never intended that Men who have Gifts and Abilities, should bury them in the Earth, but rather did command and stir up such to the Exercise of their Gift, and also did commend those that were apt and ready so to do, They have addicted themselves to the Ministry of the Saints: This Scripture, in these Days, did continually run in my Mind, to encourage me, and strengthen me in this my Work for God; I have also been encouraged from several other Scriptures and Examples of the Godly, both specified in the Word, and other ancient Histories, Acts 8. 4. and 18. 24, 25. 1 Pet. 4. 10. Rom. 12. 6. Fox's Acts and Mon.

271. Wherefore, though of my self, of all the Saints the most unworthy, yet I, but with great Fear and Trembling at the Sight of my own Weakness, did set upon the Work, and did according to my Gift, and the Proportion of my Faith, Preach that blessed Gospel that God has shewed me in the holy Word of Truth: Which when the Country understood, they came in to hear the Word by Hundreds, and that from all Parts, though upon divers and sundry Accounts.

272. And I thank God, he gave unto me some measure of Bowels and Pity for their Souls, which also did put me forward to labour, with great Diligence and Earnestness, to find out such a Word as might, if God would bless it, lay hold of, and awaken the Conscience, in which also the good Lord had respect to the Desire of his Servant; for I had not preached long, before some began to be touched, and be greatly afflicted in their Minds, at the Apprehension of the Greatness of their Sin, and of their Need of Jesus Christ.

273. But I first could not believe that God should speak by me to the Heart of any Man, still counting my self unworthy, yet those who thus were touched, would love me and have a particular Respect for me; and though I did put it from me, that they should be awakened by me, still they would confess it, and affirm it before the Saints of God; they would also bless God for me (unworthy Wretch that I am!) and count me God's Instrument, that shewed to them the way of Salvation.

274. Wherefore seeing them in both their Words and Deeds to be so constant, and also in their Hearts so earnestly pressing after the Knowledge of Jesus Christ, rejoicing that ever God did send me where they were; then I began to conclude it might be so, that God had owned in his Work such a foolish one as I, and then came that Word of God to my Heart, with much sweet Refreshment, The blessing of them that were ready to perish is come upon me; yea, I caused the Widows heart to sing for Joy, Job 29. 13.

275. At this therefore I rejoiced, yea, the Tears of those who God did awaken by my Preaching, would be both Solace and Encouragement to me; for I thought on those Sayings, Who is he that maketh me glad, but the same that is made sorry by me? 2 Cor. 22. and again, Though I be not an Apostle to others, yet doubtless, I am unto you, for the Seal of my Apostleship are ye in the Lord, 1 Cor. 6. 2. These things therefore, were as another Argument unto me, that God had called me to, and stood by me in this Work.

276. In my Preaching of the Word, I took special Notice of this one thing, namely, That the Lord did lead me to begin where his Word begins with Sinners; that is to condemn all Flesh, and to open and alledge, that the Curse of God by the Law, doth belong to, and lay hold on all Men as they come into the World, because of Sin. Now this part of my Work I fulfilled with great sense; for the Terrors of the Law, and Guilt for my Transgressions, lay heavy on my Conscience, I preached what I felt, what I smartingly did feel, even that under which my poor Soul did groan and tremble to Astonishment.

277. Indeed I have been as one sent to them from the Dead; I went my self in Chains, to Preach to them in Chains; and carried that Fire in my own Conscience, that I perswaded them to beware of. I can truly say, and that without dissembling, that when I have been to Preach, I have gone full of Guilt and Terror, even to the Pulpit Door, and there it hath been taken off, and I have been at Liberty in my Mind until I have done my Work; and then immediately, even before I could get down the Pulpit Stairs, I have been as bad as I was before, yet God carried me on, but surely with a strong Hand, for neither Guilt or Hell could take me off my Work.

278. Thus I went for the Space of two Years, crying out against Mens Sins, and their fearful State because of them. After which the Lord came in upon my own Soul, with some sure Peace and Comfort through Christ; for he did give me many sweet Discoveries of his blessed Grace thro' him: Wherefore now I altered in my preaching, (for still I preached what I saw and felt) now therefore I did much labour to hold forth Jesus Christ in all his Offices, Relations and Benefits unto the World, and did strive also to discover, to condemn, and remove those false Supports and Props on which the World doth both lean, and by them fall and perish. On these things also I staid as long as on the other.

279. After this, God led me into something of the Mystery of the Union of Christ; wherefore that I discovered and shewed to them also. And, when I had travelled through these three chief Points of the Word of God, about the space of five Years or more, I was caught in my present Practice, and cast into Prison, where I have lain above as long again to confirm the Truth by way of Suffering, as I was before in Testifying of it according to the Scriptures, in a way of Preaching.

280. When

280. When I have been preaching, I thank God, my Heart hath often all the Time of this and the other Exercise, with great Earnestness cried to God that he would make the Word effectual to the Salvation of the Soul; still being grieved lest the Enemy should take the Word away from the Conscience, and so it should become unfruitful: Wherefore I did labour so to speak the Word, as that thereby, if it were possible, the Sin and Person guilty might be particularized by it.

281. Also when I have done the Exercise, it hath gone to my Heart, to think the Word should now fall as Rain on stony Places, still wishing from my Heart, O that they who have heard me speak this Day, did but see as I do, what Sin, Death, Hell, and the Curse of God is; and also what the Grace, and Love, and Mercy of God is through Christ, to Men in such a Case as they are, who are yet estranged from him. And indeed I did often say in my Heart before the Lord, That if to be hanged up presently before their Eyes, would be a Means to awaken them, and confirm them in the Truth, I gladly should be contented.

282. For I have been in my Preaching, especially when I have been engaged in the Doctrine of Life by Christ without Works, as if an Angel of God had stood by at my Back to encourage me: Oh, it hath been with such Power and heavenly Evidence upon my own Soul, while I have been labouring to unfold it, to demonstrate it, and to fasten it upon the Consciences of others; that I could not be contented with saying, I believe and am sure; methought I was more than sure (if it be lawful to express myself) that those Things which then I asserted were true.

283. When I went first to preach the Word Abroad, the Doctors and Priests of the Country did open wide against me: But I was persuaded of this, not to render Railing for Railing, but to see how many of their Carnal Professors I could convince of their miserable State by the Law, and of the Want and Worth of Christ; for thought I, This shall answer for me in Time to come, when they shall be for my Hire before their Face, Gen. 30. 33.

284. I never cared to meddle with things that were controverted, and in Dispute among the Saints, and especially things of the lowest Nature; yet it pleased me much to contend with great Earnestness for the Word of Faith, and the Remission of Sins by the Death and Sufferings of Jesus; but I say as to other Things I should let them alone, because I saw they engendred Strife, and because that they neither in doing nor in leaving undone, did commend us to God to be his: Besides, I saw my Work before me did run into another Channel, even to carry an awakening Word; to that therefore I did stick and adhere.

Vol. II.

285. I never endeavoured to, nor durst make Use of other Mens Lines, Rom. 15. 18. (though I condemn not all that do) for I verily thought, and found by Experience, that what was taught me by the Word and Spirit of Christ, could be spoken, maintained and stood to, by the soundest and best established Conscience; and though I will not now speak all that I know in this matter, yet my Experience hath more Interest in that Text of Scripture, Gal. 1. 11, 12, than many amongst Men are aware.

286. If any of those who were awakened by my Ministry, did after that fall back, (as sometimes too many did) I can truly say, their Loss hath been more to me, than if my own Children, begotten of my own Body, had been going to its Grave; I think verily I may speak it without any Offence to the Lord, nothing hath gone so near me as that, unless it was the Fear of the Loss of the Salvation of my own Soul: I have counted as if I had goodly Buildings and Lordships in those Places where my Children were born: My Heart hath been so wrapped up in the Glory of this excellent Work, that I counted myself more blessed and honoured of God by this, than if he had made me the Emperor of the Christian World, or the Lord of all the Glory of the Earth without it! Oh these Words! He that converteth a Sinner from the Error of his Way, doth save a Soul from Death, James 5. 20. The Fruits of the Righteous is a Tree of Life; and he that winneth Souls is wise, Prov. 11. 30. They that be wise shall shine as the Brightness of the Firmament, and they that turn many to Righteousness, as the Stars for ever and ever, Dan. 12. 3. For what is our Hope, our Joy, or Crown of Rejoycing? Are not ye even in the Presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his Coming? for ye are our Glory and Joy, 1 Thes. 2. 19, 20. These, I say, with many others of a like Nature, have been great Refreshments to me.

287. I have observed, That where I have had a Work to do for God, I have had first as it were the going of God upon my Spirit, to desire I might preach there: I have also observed, that such and such Souls in particular, have been strongly set upon my Heart, and I stirred up to wish for their Salvation; and that these very Souls have, after this, been given in as the Fruits of my Ministry. I have observed, that a Word cast in by the by, hath done more Execution in a Sermon, than all that was spoken besides: Sometimes also, when I have thought I did no good, then I did the most of all; and at other times, when I thought I should catch them, I have fished for nothing.

288. I have also observed, that where there has been a Work to do upon Sinners, there the Devil hath begun to roar in the Hearts and by the Mouths of his Servants, yea, oftentimes when the wicked World hath hath raged most, there hath been Souls awakened by the Word: I could instance Particulars, but I forbear.

289. My great Desire in my fulfilling my Ministry, was, to get into the darkest Places of the Country, even amongst those People that were farthest off of Profession: Yet not because I could not endure the Light (for I feared not to shew my Gospel to any) but because I found my Spirit leaned most after awakening and converting Work, and the Word that I carried did lean itself most that Way also; Yea, so have I strived to Preach the Gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should build upon another Man's Foundation, Rom. 15. 20.

290. In my Preaching, I have really been in Pain, and have, as it were, travelled to bring forth Children to God; neither could I be satisfied, unless some Fruits did appear in my Work: If I were fruitless, it mattered not who commended me; but if I were fruitful, I cared not who did condemn. I have thought of that, Lo, Children are an Heritage of the Lord; and the Fruit of the Womb is his Reward. As Arrows in the Hand of a Mighty Man, so are Children of the Youth. Happy is the Man that hath filled his Quiver full of them; they shall not be ashamed, but they shall speak with the Enemies in the Gate, Psalm 127. 3, 4, 5.

291. It pleased me nothing to see People drink in Opinions, if they seemed ignorant of Jesus Christ, and the worth of their own Salvation, sound Conviction for Sin, especially for Unbelief, and an Heart set on Fire to be saved by Christ, with strong Breathings after a truly sanctified Soul: That it was that delighted me; those were the Souls I counted blessed.

292. But in this Work, as in all other, I had my Temptations attending me, and that of divers kinds, as sometimes I should be assaulted with great Discouragement therein; fearing that I should not be able to speak a Word at all to Edification; nay, that I should not be able to speak Sense unto the People; at which Times I should have such a strange Faintness and Strengthlessness seize upon my Body, that my Legs have scarce been able to carry me to the Place of Exercise.

293. Sometimes again when I have been Preaching, I have been violently assaulted with Thoughts of Blasphemy, and strongly tempted to speak the Words with my Mouth before the Congregation. I have also at some time, even when I have begun to speak the Word with much Clearness, Evidence and Liberty of Speech, yet been before the ending of that Opportunity, so blinded, and so estranged from the things I have been speaking, and have been also so straitned in my Speech, as to Utterance before the People, that I have been as if I had not known, or remembered what I have been about; or as if my Head had been in a Bag all the Time of my Exercise.

294. Again, when as sometimes I have been about to Preach upon some smart and searching Portion of the Word, I have found the Tempter suggest, What, will you preach this! This condemns yourself; of this your own Soul is guilty; wherefore preach not of it at all; or if you do, yet so mince it, as to make way for your own Escape; lest instead of awakening others, you lay that Guilt upon your own Soul, as you will never get from under.

295. But, I thank the Lord, I have been kept from consenting to these so horrid Suggestions, and have rather, as Sampson, bowed myself with all my Might, to condemn Sin and Transgression wherever I found it, yea, though therein also I did bring Guilt upon my own Conscience! Let me dye, thought I, with the Philistines, Judges 16. 29, 30. rather than deal corruptly with the blessed Word of God, Thou that teachest another, teachest not thou thyself? It is far better that thou do judge thyself, even by Preaching plainly to others, than that thou, to save thyself, imprison the Truth in Unrighteousness: Blessed be God for his Help also in this.

296. I have also, while found in this blessed Work of Christ, been often tempted to Pride and Liftings up of Heart; and tho' I dare not say I have not been affected with this, yet truly the Lord, of his precious Mercy, hath so carried it towards me, that for the most part I have had but small Joy to give Way to such a thing: For it hath been my every Days Portion to be let into the Evil of my own Heart, and still made to see such a Multitude of Corruptions and Infirmities therein, that it hath caused hanging down of the Head under all my Gifts and Attainments: I have felt this Thorn in the Flesh, (2 Cor. 12. 8, 9.) the very Mercy of God to me.

297. I have had also together with this, some notable Place or other of the Word presented before me, which Word hath contained in it some sharp and piercing Sentence concerning the perishing of the Soul, notwithstanding Gifts and Parts; as for instance, that hath been of great Use to me, Though I speak with the Tongue of Men and Angels, and have not Charity, I am become as sounding Brass, and a tinkling Cymbal, 1 Cor. 13. 1, 2.

298. A tinkling Cymbal is an Instrument of Musick, with which a skilful Player can make such melodious and heart-inflaming Musick, that all who hear him play can scarcely hold from Dancing; and yet behold the Cymbal hath not Life, neither comes the Musick from it, but because of the Art of him that plays therewith; so then the Instrument at last may come to nought and perish, tho' in Times past such Musick hath been made upon it.

299. Just

299. Just thus, I saw it was and will be with them that have Gifts, but want saving Grace, they are in the Hand of Christ, as the Cymbal in the Hand of David; and as David could with the Cymbal make that Mirth in the Service of God, as to elevate the Hearts of the Worshipers, so Christ can use these gifted Men, as with them to affect the Souls of his People in his Church; yet when he hath done all, hang them by, as lifeless, though sounding Cymbals.

300. This Consideration therefore, together with some others, were for the most part, as a Maul on the Head of Pride, and desire of Vain-glory: What, thought I, shall I be proud because I am a sounding Brass? is it so much to be a Fiddle? Hath not the least Creature that hath Life more of God in it than these? Besides, I knew 'twas Love should never die, but these must cease and vanish: So I concluded, a little Grace, a little Love, a little of the true Fear of God, is better than all Gifts: Yea, and I am fully convinced of it, that it is possible for Souls that can scarce give a Man an Answer, but with great Confusion as to Method, I say it is possible for them to have a thousand times more Grace, and so to be more in the Love and Favour of the Lord, than some who by the Vertue of the Gift of Knowledge, can deliver themselves like Angels.

301. Thus therefore I came to perceive, that though Gifts in themselves were good to the thing for which they are designed, to wit, the Edification of others; yet empty and without Power to save the Soul of him that hath them, if they be alone: Neither are they, as so, any sign of a Man's State to be happy, being only a Dispensation of God to some, of whose improvement, or non-improvement, they must when a little Love more is over, give an Account to him that is ready to Judge the Quick and the Dead.

302. This shewed me too, that Gifts being alone, were dangerous, not in themselves, but because of those Evils that attend them that have them, to wit, Pride, desire of Vain-glory, Self-conceit, &c. all which were easily blown up at the Applause and Commendation of every unadvised Christian, to the endangering of a poor Creature to fall into the Condemnation of the Devil.

303. I saw therefore that he that hath Gifts had need be let into a Sight of the Nature of them, to wit, that they come short of making of him to be in a truly saved Condition, lest he rest in them, and so fall short of the Grace of God.

304. He hath also cause to walk humbly with God, and be little in his own Eyes, and to remember withal, that his Gifts are not his own, but the Churches; and that by them he is made a Servant to the Church; and he must give at last an Account of his Stewardship unto the Lord Jesus; and to give a good Account, will be a blessed thing.

305. Let all Men therefore prize a little with the Fear of the Lord, (Gifts indeed are desirable) but yet great Grace and small Gifts are better than great Gifts and no Grace. It doth not say, the Lord gives Gifts and Glory, but the Lord gives Grace and Glory; and blessed is such an one, to whom the Lord gives Grace, true Grace, for that is a certain Fore-runner of Glory.

306. But when Satan perceived that his thus tempting and assaulting of me, would not answer his Design; to wit, to overthrow the Ministry, and make it ineffectual, as to the Ends thereof: Then he tried another Way, which was to stir up the Minds of the Ignorant and Malicious, to load me with Slanders and Reproaches: Now therefore I may say, That what the Devil could devise, and his Instruments invent, was whirled up and down the Country against me, thinking, as I said, that by that Means they should make my Ministry to be abandoned.

307. It began therefore to be rumoured up and down among the People, that I was a Witch, a Jesuit, a Highway-man, and the like.

308. To all which, I shall only say, God knows that I am innocent. But as for mine Accusers, let them provide themselves to meet me before the Tribunal of the Son of God, there to answer for all these things (with all the rest of their Iniquities) unless God shall give them Repentance for them, for the which I pray with all my Heart.

309. But that which was reported with the boldest Confidence, was, that I had my Misses, my Whores, my Bastards, yea, two Wives at once, and the like. Now these Slanders (with the other) I glory in, because but Slanders, Foolish, or Knaveish Lies, and Falshoods cast upon me by the Devil and his Seed; and should I not be dealt with thus wickedly by the World, I should want one Sign of a Saint, and a Child of God. Blessed are you (said the Lord Jesus) when Men shall revile you and persecute you, and shall say all manner of Evil of you falsely for my sake, rejoyce and be exceeding glad, for great is your Reward in Heaven; for so persecuted they the Prophets which were before you, Mat. 4. 11.

310. These things therefore, upon mine own Account, trouble me not; no tho' they were twenty times more than they are. I have a good Conscience, and whereas they speak evil of me, as an Evil-doer, they shall be ashamed that falsely accuse my good Conversation in Christ.

311. So then, what shall I say to those that have thus bespattered me! shall I threaten them? Shall I chide them? Shall I flatter flatter them? Shall I intreat them to hold their Tongues? No, not I, were it not for that these things make them ripe for Damnation, that are the Authors and Abettors, I would say unto them, Report it, because it will increase my Glory.

312. Therefore I bind these Lies and Slanders to me as an Ornament, it belongs to my Christian Profession to be vilified, slandered, reproached and reviled; and since all this is nothing else, as my God and my Conscience do bear me Witness; I rejoyce in Reproaches for Christ's sake.

313. I also calling all those Fools, or Knaves, that have thus made it any thing of their Business, to affirm any of these things afore-named of me, namely, that I have been naught with other Women, or the like. When they have used to the utmost of their Endeavours, and made the fullest Enquiry that they can, to prove against me truly, that there is any Woman in Heaven, or Earth, or Hell, that can say, I have at any Time, in any Place, by Day or Night, so much as attempted to be naught with them, and speak I thus, to beg mine Enemies into a good Esteem of me: No, not I: I will in this beg Belief of no Man: Believe or disbelieve me in this, all is a-case to me.

314. My Foes have missed their Mark in this their shooting at me. I am not the Man, I wish that they themselves be guiltless, if all the Fornicators and Adulterers in England were hanged up by the Neck till they be dead, John Bunyan the Object of their Envy, would be still alive and well. I know not whether there be such a thing as a Woman breathing under the Copes of Heaven, but by their Apparel, their Children, or by common Fame, except my Wife.

315. And in this I admire the Wisdom of God, that he made me shy of Women from my first Conversion until now. These know, and can also bear me Witness, with whom I have been most intimately concerned, that it is a rare thing to see me carry it pleasant towards a Woman; the common Salutation of Women I abhor, 'tis odious to me in whomsoever I see it. Their Company alone, I cannot away with, I seldom so much as touch a Woman's Hand, for I think these things are not so becoming me. When I have seen good Men salute those Women that they have visited, or that have visited them, I have at times made my Objection against it, and when they have answered, that it was but a piece of Civility, I have told them, it is not a comely Sight: Some indeed have urged the Holy Kifs; but then I have asked why they made Baulks, why they did salute the most Handsome, and let the Ill-favoured go; thus how laudable soever such things have been in the Eyes of others, they have been unseemly in my Sight.

316. And now for a wind-up in this Matter, I calling not only Men, but Angels, to prove me guilty of having carnally to do with any Woman save my Wife, not am I afraid to do it a second Time, knowing that I cannot offend the Lord in such a Case, to call God for a Record upon my Soul, that in these Things I am innocent. Not that I have been thus kept because of any Goodness in me more than any other, but God has been merciful to me, and has kept me, to whom I pray that he will keep me still, not only from this, but from every evil Way and Work, and preserve me to his heavenly Kingdom. Amen.

317. Now as Satan endeavoured by Reproaches and Slanders, to make me vile among my Countrymen, that if possible, my Preaching might be made of none effect, so there was added hereto, a long and tedious Imprisonment, that thereby I might be frightened from my Service for Christ, and the World terrified and made afraid to hear me Preach, in which I shall in the next Place give you a brief Account.

A brief Account of the Author's Imprisonment.

318. HAVING made Profession of the glorious Gospel of Christ a long Time, and preached the same about Five Years, I was apprehended at a Meeting of good People in the Country, (among whom, had they let me alone, I should have preached that Day, but they took me away from amongst them) and had me before a Justice; who, after I had offered Security for my appearing the next Sessions, yet committed me, because my Sureties would not consent to be bound that I should preach no more to the People.

319. At the Sessions after I was indicted for an Upholder and Maintainer of unlawful Assemblies and Conventicles, and for not Conforming to the National Worship of the Church of England; and after some Conference there with the Justices, they taking my plain Dealing with them for a Confession, as they termed it, of the Indictment, did sentence me to a perpetual Banishment, because I refused to Conform. So being again delivered up to the Goaler's Hands, I was had Home to Prison, and there have lain now compleat twelve Years, waiting to see what God would suffer these Men to do with me.

320. In which Condition I have continued with much Content, through Grace, but have met with many Turnings and Goings upon my Heart, both from the Lord, Satan, and my own Corruptions; by all which (Glory be to Jesus Christ) I have also received among many things, much Conviction, Instruction and Understanding, of which at large I shall not here discourse; only give you a Hint or two, a Word

Word that may stir up the Godly to bless God, and to pray for me; and also to take Encouragement, should the Case be their own, Not to fear what Man can do unto them.

321. I never had in all my Life so great an inlet into the Word of God as now; those Scriptures that I saw nothing in before, are made in this Place and State to shine upon me; Jesus Christ also was never more real and apparent than now; here I have seen and felt him indeed: O that Word, We have not preached unto you cunningly devised Fables, 2 Pet. 1. 16. and that, God raised Christ from the Dead, and gave him Glory, that your Faith and Hope might be in God, 1 Pet. 1. 2. were blessed Words unto me in this my imprisoned Condition.

322. These three or four Scriptures also have been great Refreshments in this Condition to me, John 14. 1, 2, 3, 4. John 16. 33. Col. 3. 3, 4. Heb. 12. 22, 23, 24. So that sometimes when I have been in the Favour of them, I have been able to laugh at Destruction, and to fear neither the Horse nor his Rider. I have had sweet Sights of the Forgiveness of my Sins in this Place, and of my being with Jesus in another World: O the Mount Sion, the Heavenly Jerusalem, the innumerable Company of Angels, and God the Judge of all, and the Spirits of Just Men made perfect, and Jesus, have been sweet unto me in this Place: I have seen that here, that I am persuaded I shall never, while in this World, be able to express: I have seen a Truth in this Scripture, Whom having not seen, ye love; in whom, though now you see him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with Joy unspeakable, and full of Glory, 1 Pet. 1. 8.

323. I never knew what it was for God to stand by me at all Turns, and at every Offer of Satan to afflict me, &c. as I have found him since I came in hither; for look how Fears have presented themselves, so have Supports and Encouragements; yea, when I have started, even as it were at nothing else but my Shadow, yet God, as being very tender of me, hath not suffered me to be molested, but would with one Scripture or another strengthen me against all; insomuch that I have often said, Were it lawful, I could pray for greater Trouble, for the greater Comforts sake, Eccles. 7. 14. 2 Cor. 1. 5.

324. Before I came to Prison, I saw what was a coming, and had especially two Considerations warm upon my Heart; the first was, how to be able to encounter Death, should that be here my Portion; for the first of these, that Scripture, Col. 1. 11. was great Information to me, namely, to pray to God to be strengthened with all Might, according to his glorious Power, unto all Patience and Long-suffering with Joyfulness: I could seldom go to Prayer before I was imprisoned, but not for so little as a Year together, this Sentence, or sweet Petition, would, as it were, thrust itself into my Mind, and persuade me, that if ever I would go through Long-suffering, I must have Patience, especially if I would endure it joyfully.

325. As to the second Consideration, that Saying (2 Cor. 1. 9.) was of great Use to me, But we had the Sentence of Death in ourselves, that we might not trust in ourselves but in God that raised the Dead: By this Scripture I was made to see, that if ever I would suffer rightly, I must first pass a Sentence of Death upon every Thing that can properly be called a thing of this Life, even to reckon myself, my Wife, my Children, my Health, my Enjoyments, and all, as dead to me, and myself as dead to them.

326. The second was, to live upon God that is invisible; as Paul said in another Place, the Way not to faint, is to look not at the Things that are seen, but at the Things that are not seen: For the Things that are seen are Temporal; but the Things that are not seen are Eternal. And thus I reasoned with myself; if I provide only for a Prison, then the Whip comes at unawares; and so doth also the Pillory: Again, if I only provide for these, then I am not fit for Banishment: Further, if I conclude that Banishment is the worst, then if Death come I am surprized: So that I see the best Way to go thorough Sufferings, is to trust in God through Christ, as touching the World to come; and as touching this World, to count the Grave my House, to make my Bed in Darknefs, to say to Corruption, thou art my Father, and to the Worm, thou art my Mother and Sister: That is, to familiarize these Things to me.

327. But notwithstanding these Helps, I found myself a Man, encompassed with Infirmities; the parting with my Wife and poor Children, hath often been to me in this Place as the pulling the Flesh from my Bones, and that not only because I am somewhat too too fond of those great Mercies, but also because I should have often brought to my Mind the many Hardships, Miseries and Wants that my poor Family was like to meet with, especially my poor blind Child, who lay nearer my Heart than all I had beside: O the Thoughts of the Hardship I thought my blind one might go under, would break my Heart to pieces.

328. Poor Child, thought I, what Sorrow art thou like to have for thy Portion in this World? Thou must be beaten, must beg, suffer Hunger, Cold, Nakedness, and a thousand Calamities, though I cannot now endure the Wind should blow upon thee. But yet recalling myself, thought I, I must venture you all with God, though it goeth to the quick to leave you: O I saw in this Condition I was as a Man who was pulling down his House upon the Head of his Wife and Children; yet thought I, I must must do it, I must do it: And now I thought on those two Milch Kine that were to carry the Ark of God into another Country, and to leave their Calves behind them, 1 Sam. 6. 10, 11, 12.

329. But that which helped me in this Temptation, was divers Considerations, of which three in special here I will name, the first was the Consideration of those two Scriptures, Leave thy Fatherless Children, I will preserve them alive, and let thy Widows trust in me: And again, The Lord said, Verily it shall go well with thy Remnant, verily, I will cause the Enemy to intreat thee well in the Time of Evil, &c. Jer. 49. 11. Chap. 15. 11.

330. I had also this Consideration, that if I should now venture all for God, I engaged God to take Care of my Concernments; but if I forsook him and his Ways, for Fear of any Trouble that should come to me or mine, then I should not only falsify my Profession, but should count also that my Concernments were not so sure, if left at God's Feet, whilst I stood to and for his Name, as they would be if they were under my own Care, though with the Denial of the Way of God. This was a smarting Consideration, and as Spurs unto my Flesh. That Scripture also greatly helped it to fasten the more upon me, where Christ prays against Judas, that God would disappoint him in his selfish Thoughts, which moved him to sell his Master: Pray read it soberly, Psalm 109. 6, 7, 8, &c.

331. I had also another Consideration, and that was, The dread of the Torments of Hell, which I was sure they must partake of, that for Fear of the Cross, do shrink from their Profession of Christ, his Words and Laws before the Sons of Men: I thought also of the Glory that he had prepared for those, that in Faith, and Love, and Patience, stood to his Ways before them. These Things, I say, have helped me, when the Thoughts of the Misery that both myself and mine, might for the Sake of my Profession be exposed to, hath lain pinching on my Mind.

332. When I have indeed conceited that I might be banished for my Profession, then I have thought of that Scripture, They were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the Sword; they wandered about in Sheep-skins, and Goat-skins, being destitute, afflicted, tormented, of whom the World was not worthy, for all they thought they were too bad to dwell and abide amongst them. I have also thought of that Saying, The Holy Ghost witnesseth in every City, that Bonds and Afflictions abide me; I have verily thought that my Soul and it have sometimes reasoned about the sore and sad Estate of a banished and exiled Condition, how they are exposed to Hunger, to Cold, to Perils, to Nakedness, to Enemies, and a thousand Calamities; and at last, it may be to dye in a Ditch, like a poor forlorn and desolate Sheep. But I thank God, hitherto I have not been moved by these most delicate Reasonings, but have rather, by them, more approved my Heart to God.

333. I will tell you a pretty Business; I was once above all the rest in a very sad and low Condition for many Weeks; at which Time also I being but a young Prisoner, and not acquainted with the Laws, had this laid much upon my Spirit, That my Imprisonment might end at the Gallows for ought that I could tell. Now therefore Satan laid hard at me to beat me out of Heart, by suggesting thus unto me, But how if when you come indeed to die, you should be in this Condition; that is, as not to savour the Things of God, nor to have any Evidence upon your Soul for a better State hereafter? (for indeed at that Time all the Things of God were hid from my Soul.)

334. Wherefore when I at first began to think of this, it was a great Trouble to me; for I thought with myself, that in the Condition I now was in I was not fit to die, neither indeed did think I could, if I should be called to it: Besides, I thought with myself, if I should make a scrambling Shift to clamber up the Ladder, yet I should either with Quaking, or other Symptoms of fainting, give Occasion to the Enemy to reproach the Way of God and his People, for their Timorousness. This therefore lay with great Trouble upon me, for methoughts I was ashamed to die with a pale Face, and tottering Knees, in such a Cause as this.

335. Wherefore I pray'd to God that he would comfort me, and give me Strength to do and suffer what he should call me to; yet no Comfort appeared, but all continued hid: I was also at this Time so really possessed with the Thought of Death, that oft I was as if I was on a Ladder with a Rope about my Neck; only this was some Encouragement to me, I thought I might now have an Opportunity to speak my last Words unto a Multitude, which I thought would come to see me die; and thought I, if it must be so, if God will but convert one Soul by my last Words, I shall not count my Life thrown away, nor lost.

336. But yet all the Things of God were kept out of my Sight, and still the Tempter followed me with, But whether must you go when you die? What will become of you? Where will you be found in another World? What Evidence have you for Heaven and Glory, and an Inheritance among them that are sanctified? Thus was I tossed for many Weeks, and knew not what to do; at last this Consideration fell with Weight upon me, That it was for the Word and Way of God that I was in this Condition, wherefore I was engaged not to flinch an Hair's Breadth from it.

336. I thought also, that God might choose whether he would give me Comfort now or at the Hour of Death, but I might not therefore choose whether I would hold my Profession or no: I was bound, but he was free: yea, 'twas my Duty to stand to his Word, whether he would ever look upon me or save me at the last: Wherefore, thought I, save the Point being thus, I am for going on, and venturing my Eternal State with Christ, whether I have Comfort here or no; if God doth not come in, thought I, I will leap off the Ladder even blindfold into Eternity, sink or swim, come Heaven, come Hell, Lord Jesus, if thou wilt catch me, do; if not, I will venture for thy Name.

338. I was no sooner fixed upon this Resolution, but the Word dropped upon me, Doth Job serve God for nought? As if the Accuser had said, Lord, Job is no upright Man, he serves thee for by-respects: Hast thou not made an Hedge about him, &c. But put forth now thine Hand, and touch all that he hath, and he will curse thee to thy Face. How now thought I, is this the sign of an upright Soul, to desire to serve God, when all is taken from him? Is he a godly Man, that will serve God for nothing rather than give out? Blessed be God; then I hope I have an upright Heart, for I am resolved (God giving me strength) never to deny my Profession, though I had nothing at all for my Pains; and as I was thus considering, that Scripture was set before me, Psalm 44. 12, &c.

339. Now was my Heart full of Comfort, for I hoped it was sincere? I would not have been without this Trial for much; I am comforted every time I think of it, and I hope I shall bless God for ever for the Teaching, I have had by it. Many more of the Dealings of God, towards me I might relate, But these out of the Spoils won in Battle have I dedicated to maintain the House of God, 1 Chron. 26. 27.

The CONCLUSION.

1. OF all the Temptations that ever I met with in my Life, to question the Being of God, and Truth of his Gospel, is the worst, and the worst to be born; when this Temptation comes, it takes away my Girdle from me, and removeth the Foundation from under me: O, I have often thought of that Word, Have your Loins girt about with Truth, and of that, When the Foundations are destroyed, what can the Righteous do.

2. Sometimes when after Sin committed, I have looked for sore Chastisement from the Hand of God, the very next that I have had from him, hath been the Discovery of his Grace. Sometimes, when I have been comforted, I have called my self a Fool for my so sinking under Trouble. And then again, when I have been cast down, I thought I was not wise, to give such Way to Comfort. With such Strength and Weight hath both these been upon me.

3. I have wondred much at this one thing, that tho' God doth visit my Soul with never so blessed a Discovery of himself, yet I have found again, that such Hours have attended me afterwards, that I have been in my Spirit so filled with Darkness, that I could not so much as once conceive, what that God and that Comfort was, with which I have been refreshed.

4. I have sometimes seen more in a Line of the Bible, than I could well tell how to stand under, and yet at another time the whole Bible hath been to me as dry as a Stick; or rather, my Heart hath been so dead and dry unto it, that I could not conceive the least Dram of Refreshment, though I have looked it all over.

5. Of all Fears, they are best that are made by the Blood of Christ; and of all Joy, that is the sweetest that is mixed with Mourning over Christ: Oh! 'tis a goodly thing to be on our Knees, with Christ in our Arms, before God. I hope I know something of these things.

6. I find to this Day seven Abominations in my Heart: 1. Inclining to Unbelief. 2. Suddenly to forget the Love and Mercy that Christ manifesteth. 3. A leaning to the Works of the Law. 4. Wandrings and Coldness in Prayer. 5. To forget to Watch for that I pray for. 6. Apt to murmur because I have no more, and yet ready to abuse what I have. 7. I can do none of those things which God commands me, but my Corruptions will thrust in themselves, When I would do Good, Evil is present with me.

7. These things I continually see and feel, and am afflicted and oppressed with, yet the Wisdom of God doth order them for my good. 1. They make me abhor my self. 2. They keep me from trusting my Heart. 3. They convince me of the Insufficiency of all inherent Righteousness. 4. They shew me the Necessity of flying to Jesus. 5. They press me to pray unto God. 6. They shew me the Need I have to watch and be sober. 7. And provoke me to pray unto God, thro' Christ, to help me, and carry me through this World.

A Continuation of Mr. Bunyan's Life; beginning where he left off, and concluding with the Time and Manner of his Death and Burial; together with his true Character, &c.

READER, The painful and industrious Author of this Book, has already given you a faithful and very moving Relation tion of the beginning and middle of the Days of his Pilgrimage on Earth, and since there yet remains somewhat worthy of Notice and Regard, which occur'd in the last Scene of his Life; the which, for want of Time, or Fear some over-sensorious People should impute it to him, as an earnest coveting of Praise from Men, he has not left behind him in Writing. Wherefore as a true Friend, and long Acquaintance of Mr. Bunyan's, that his good End may be known, as well as his evil Beginning, I have taken upon me, from my Knowledge, and the best Account given by other of his Friends, to piece this to the Thread, too soon broke off, and so lengthen it out to his entring upon Eternity.

He has told you at large, of his Birth and Education; the evil Habits and Corruptions of his Youth; the Temptations he struggled and conflicted so frequently with, the Mercies, Comforts, and Deliverances he found, how he came to take upon him the Preaching of the Gospel; the Slanders, Reproaches and Imprisonments that attended him, and the Progress he notwithstanding made (by the assistance of God's Grace) no doubt to the saving of many Souls: Therefore take these things, as he himself has methodically laid them down in the Words of Verity; and so I pass on, as to what remains.

After his being freed from his Twelve Years Imprisonment and upwards, for Nonconformity, wherein he had time to furnish the World with sundry good Books, &c. and by his Patience, to move Dr. Barlow, the then Bishop of Lincoln, and other Church-men, to pity his hard and unreasonable Sufferings, so far as to stand very much his Friends, in procuring his Enlargement, or there perhaps he had died, by the Noyfomness and Ill-usage of the Place. Being now I say, again at Liberty, and having through Mercy shaken off his Bodily Fetters, for those upon his Soul were broken before, by the abounding Grace that filled his Heart, he went to visit those that had been a Comfort to him in his Tribulation, with a Christian-like Acknowledgement of their Kindness and Enlargement of Charity; giving Encouragement by his Example, if it happened to be their hard Haps, to fall into Affliction or Trouble, then to suffer patiently for the sake of a good Conscience, and for the Love of God in Jesus Christ, towards their Souls, and by many cordial Perswasions, supported some, whose Spirits began to sink low, through the Fear of Danger that threatened their Worldly Concernment, so that the People found a wonderful Consolation in his Discourse and Admonitions.

As often as Opportunity would admit, he gathered them together (though the Law was then in force against Meetings) in convenient Places, and fed them with the sincere Milk of the Word, that they might grow up in Grace thereby. To such as were any where taken and imprisoned up-these Accounts, he made it another part of his Business to extend his Charity, and gather Relief for such of them as wanted.

He took great care to visit the Sick, and strengthen them against the Suggestions of the Tempter, which at such times are very prevalent; so that they had cause for ever to bless God, who had put into his Heart, at such a time, to rescue them from the Power of the roaring Lion, who sought to devour them; nor did he spare any Pains or Labour in Travel, tho' to the remote Counties, where he knew, or imagined any People might stand in need of his Assistance, insomuch that some of these Visitations that he made, which was two or three every Year, some (though in jeering Manner no doubt) gave him the Epithet of Bishop Bunyan, whilst others envied him for his so earnestly labouring in Christ's Vineyard, yet the Seed of the Word he (all this while) sowed in the Hearts of his Congregation, watered with the Grace of God, brought forth in Abundance, in bringing in Disciples to the Church of Christ.

Another Part of his Time he spent in reconciling Differences, by which he hindred many Mischiefs, and saved some Families from Ruin, and in some Fallings-out, he was uneasy, till he found a Means to labour a Reconciliation, and become a Peace-maker, on whom a Blessing is promised in Holy Writ; and indeed in doing this good Office, he may be said to sum up his Days, it being the last Undertaking of his Life, as will appear in the close of this Paper.

When in the late Reign, Liberty of Conscience was unexpectedly given and indulged to Dissenters of all Perswasions, his piercing Wit penetrated the Vail, and found that it was not for the Dissenters sake they were so suddenly freed from the Prosecutions that had long lain heavy upon them, and set in a Manner, on an equal Foot with the Church of England, which the Papists were undermining, and about to subvert: He foresaw all the advantages that could redound to the Dissenters, would have been no more than what Polephemus, the Monstrous Giant of Sicily would have allowed Ulysses, viz. That he would eat his Men first, and do him the Favour of being eaten last: For although Mr. Bunyan, following the Examples of others, did lay hold of this liberty, as an acceptable thing in it self, knowing God is the only Lord of Conscience, and that it is good all times to do according to the Dictates of a good Conscience, and that the Preaching the glad Tydings of the Gospel is beautiful in the Preacher; yet in all this he moved with Caution and a holy Fear, Fear, earnestly praying for the averting impendent Judgments, which he saw, like a black Tempest, hanging over our Heads, for our Sins, and ready to break upon us, and that the Ninivites Remedy was now highly necessary: Hereupon he gathered his Congregation at Bedford, where he mostly lived, and had lived and spent the greatest part of his Life; and there being no convenient Place to be had, for the Entertainment of so great a Confluence of People as followed him, upon the Account of his Teaching, he consulted with them, for the building of a Meeting-House; to which they made their voluntary Contributions, with all Chearfulness and Alacrity; and the first time he appeared there to Edify, the Place was so thronged, that many was constrained to stay without, though the House was very spacious, every one striving to partake of his Instructions, that were of his Perswasion, and shew their good Will towards him, by being present at the opening of the Place; and here he lived in much Peace and Quiet of Mind, contenting himself with that little God had bestowed upon him, and sequestering himself from all secular Employments, to follow that of his Call to the Ministry; for as God said to Moses, he that made the Lips and Heart, can give Eloquence and Wisdom, without extraordinary Acquirements in an University.

During these things, there were Regulators sent into all Cities and Towns corporate, to new model the Government in the Magistracy, &c. by turning out some, and putting in others; against this Mr. Bunyan expressed his Zeal with some Weariness, as foreseeing the bad Consequence that would attend it, and laboured with his Congregation, to prevent their being imposed on in this kind; and when a Great Man in those Days coming to Bedford, upon some such Errand, sent for him, as 'tis supposed, to give him a Place of publick Trust; he would by no Means come at him, but sent his Excuse.

When he was at leisure from Writing and Teaching, he often came up to London, and there went among the Congregations of the Non-Conformists, and used his Talent to the great good-liking of the Hearers, and even some, to whom he had been misrepresented, upon the Account of his Education, were convinced of his Worth and Knowledge in sacred Things, as perceiving him to be a Man of sound Judgment, delivering himself plainly and powerfully; inso-much, that many who came Spectators for Novelty, rather than to be edified and improved, went away well satisfied with what they heard, and wondred, as the Jews did at the Apostles, viz. whence this Man should have these Things; perhaps not considering that God more immediately assists those that make it their Business indus-triously and chearfully to labour in his Vineyard.

Thus he spent his latter Years in imitation of his great Lord and Master, the ever-blessed Jesus; he went about doing good, so that the most prying Critick, or even Malice her self, is defied to find, even upon the narrowest Search or Observation, any Sully or Stain upon his Reputation, with which he may be justly charged; and this we note, as a Challenge to those that have had the least Regard for him, or them of his Perswasion, and have one way or other appeared in the Front of those that oppressed him; and for the turning whose Hearts, in obedience to the Commission and Commandment given him of God; he frequently prayed, and sometimes sought a Blessing for them, even with Tears, the Effects of which they may, peradventure, tho' undeservedly, have found in their Persons, Friends, Relations, Estates: for God will hear the Prayer of the Faithful, and answer them, even for those that vex them; as it happened in the case of Job's praying for the three Persons that had been grievous in their Reproach against him, even in the Day of his Sorrow.

But yet let me come a little nearer to Particulars, and Periods of Time, for the better refreshing the Memories of those that knew his Labour and Sufferings; and for the Satisfaction of all that shall read this Book.

After he was sensibly convicted of the wicked State of his Life, and converted; he was Baptized into the Congregation; and admitted a Member thereof, viz. in the Year 1655. and became speedily a very zealous Professor; but upon the Return of King Charles to the Crown in 1600, he was on the 12th of November taken, as he was edifying some good People that were got together to hear the Word, and confined in Bedford Goal, for the space of Six Years, till the Act of Indulgence to Dissenters being allowed, he obtained his Freedom by the Intercession of some in Trust and Power, that took pity of his Sufferings; but within Six Years afterwards he was again taken up, viz. in the Year 1666, and was then confined for Six Years more, when the Goaler took such Pity of his rigorous Sufferings, that he did as the Egyptian Goaler did to Joseph, put all the Care and Trust in his Hand: When he was taken this last time he was Preaching on these Words, viz. Dost thou believe on the Son of God? and this Imprisonment continued Six Years, and when this was over, another short Affliction, which was an Imprisonment of half a Year fell to his Share. During these Confinements, he wrote these following Books, viz. Of Prayer by the Spirit: The Holy City's Resurrection: Grace abounding: Pilgrims Progress, the first Part.

In the last Year of his Twelve Years Imprisonment, the Pastor of the Congregation at Bedford died, and he was chosen to that Care of Souls, on the 12th of December 1671. And in this his Charge, he often had Disputes with Scholars, that came to oppose him, as supposing him an Ignorant Person, and tho' he argued plainly, and by Scripture, without Phrases and Logical Expressions; yet he nonplussed one who came to oppose him in his Congregation, by demanding whether or no we had the true Copies of the Original Scriptures; and another, when he was Preaching, accused him of Uncharitableness, for saying, It was very hard for most to be saved, saying, by that he went about to exclude most of his Congregation; but he confuted him, and put him to Silence, with the Parable of the Stony Ground, and other Texts out of the 13th of Matthew, in our Saviour's Sermon out of a Ship; all his Methods being to keep close to the Scriptures, and what he found not warranted there, himself would not warrant nor determine unless in such Cases as were plain; wherein no Doubts or Scruples did arise.

But not to make any further mention of this kind, it is well known, that this Person managed all his Affairs with such Exactness as if he had made it his Study, above all other things, not to give occasion of Offence, but rather suffer many Inconveniences to avoid, being never heard to Reproach or Revile any, what Injury foever he received, but rather to rebuke those that did; and as it was in his Conversation, so it is manifested in those Books he has caused to be published to the World, where like the Arch-Angel disputing with Satan about the Body of Moses, as we find it in the Epistle of St. Jude, he brings no Railing Accusation, but leaves the Rebukers (those that persecuted him) to the Lord.

In his Family he kept up a very strict Discipline, in Prayer and Exhortations; being in this like Joshua, as that good Man expresses it, viz. Whatsoever others did; as for me and my House, we will serve the Lord; and indeed a Blessing waited on his Labours and Endeavours, so that his Wife, as the Psalmist says, was like a pleasant Vine upon the Walls of his House, and his Children like Olive Branches round his Table, for so shall it be with the Man that fears the Lord; and tho' by reason of the many Losses he sustained by Imprisonment and Spoil, of his chargeable Sicknes, &c. his Earthly Treasure swelled not to Excess; he always had sufficient to live decently and credibly; and with that he had the greatest of all Treasures, which is Content; for as the Wise Man says, That is a continual Feast.

But where Content dwells, even a poor Cottage is a Kingly Palace; and this Happiness he had all his Life long, not so much minding this World, as knowing he was here as a Pilgrim and Stranger, and had no tarrying City, but looked for one not made with Hands Eternal in the highest Heavens; but at length worn out with Sufferings, Age, and often Teaching, the Day of his Dissolution drew near; and Death, that unlocks the Prison of the Soul, to enlarge it for a more glorious Mansion, put a Stop to his acting his Part on the Stage of Mortality: Heaven, like earthly Princes when it threatens War, being always so kind as to call Home its Ambassadors before it be denounced; and even the last Act or Undertaking of his, was a Labour of Love and Charity; for it so falling out, that a young Gentleman, a Neighbour of Mr. Bunyan, happening into the Displeasure of his Father, and being much troubled in his Mind upon that Account, as also for that he had heard his Father purposed to disinherit him, or otherwise deprive him of what he had to leave; he pitched upon Mr. Bunyan as a fit Man to make Way for his Submission, and prepare his Father's Mind to receive him; and he, as willing to do any good Office, as it could be requested, as readily undertook it; and so riding to Reading in Berkshire, he there used such pressing Arguments and Reasons against Anger and Passion, as also for Love and Reconciliation, that the Father was mollified, and his Bowels yerned towards his returning Son.

But Mr. Bunyan, after he had disposed all things to the best for Accommodation, returning to London, and being overtaken with excessive Rains, coming to his Lodging extreme wet, fell sick of a violent Fever, which he bore with much Constancy and Patience; and expressed himself as if he desired nothing more than to be dissolved, and be with Christ, in that case esteeming Death as Gain, and Life only a tedious delaying Felicity expected; and finding his vital Strength decay, having settled his Mind and Affairs, as well as the Shortness of Time, and the Violence of his Disease would admit, with a constant and christian Patience, he resigned his Soul into the Hands of his most merciful Redeemer, following his Pilgrimage from the City of Destruction to the New Jerusalem; his better Part having been all along there, in holy Contemplation, Pantings and Breathings after the hidden Manna, and Water of Life, as by many holy and humble Consolations expressed in his Letters, to several Persons in Prison, and out of Prison, too many to be here inserted at present. He died at the House of one Mr. Straddock, a Grocer, at the Star on Snow-hill, in the Parish of St. Sepulchre, London, on the 12th of August 1688, and in the 60th Year of his Age, after Ten Days Sicknes; and was buried in the New Burying Place near the Artillery Ground, where he sleeps to the Morning of the Resurrection, in in Hopes of a glorious Rising to an incorruptible Immortality of Joy and Happiness, where no more Trouble and Sorrow shall afflict him, but all Tears be wiped away, when the Just shall be incorporated, as Members of Christ their Head, and reign with him as Kings and Priests for ever.

A brief Character of Mr. John Bunyan.

HE appeared in Countenance to be of a stern and rough Temper; but in his Conversation mild and affable, not given to Loquacity, or much Discourse in Company, unless some urgent Occasion required it; observing never to boast of himself, or his Parts, but rather seem low in his own Eyes, and submit himself to the Judgment of others, abhorring Lying and Swearing, being just in all that lay in his Power to his Word, not seeming to revenge Injuries, loving to reconcile Differences, and make Friendship with all; he had a sharp quick Eye, accomplished with an excellent discerning of Persons, being of good Judgment and quick Wit. As for his Person, he was tall of Stature, strong-boned, tho' not corpulent, somewhat of a ruddy Face, with sparkling Eyes, wearing his Hair on his upper Lip, after the old British Fashion; his Hair reddish, but in his latter Days, Time had sprinkled it with grey, his Nose well set, but not declining or bending, and his Mouth moderate large; his Forehead something high, and his Habit always plain and modest: And thus have we impartially described the internal and external Parts of a Person, whose Death hath been much regretted; a Person who had tried the Smiles and Frowns of Time; not puffed up in Prosperity, nor shaken in Adversity, always holding the golden mean.

*In him at once did three great Worthies shine, Historian, Poet, and a choice Divine:
Then let him rest in undisturbed Dust,
Until the Resurrection of the Just.*

POSTSCRIPT.

IN this his Pilgrimage, God blessed him with four Children, one of which named Mary was blind, and died some Years before; his other Children are Thomas, Joseph, and Sarah; and his Wife Elizabeth having lived to see him overcome his Labour and Sorrow, and pass from this Life to receive the Reward of his Works, long survived him not, but in 1692 she died, to follow her faithful Pilgrim from this World to the other, whether he was gone before her, whilst his Works remain for the edifying of the Reader, and Praise of the Author. Vale.

A Confession of my FAITH, and a Reason of my Practice:

O R,

With who, and who not, I can hold Church-Fellowship, or the Communion of Saints.

S H E W I N G,

By divers Arguments, that tho' I dare not Communicate with the Open Profane, yet I can with those visible Saints that differ about WATER-BAPTISM. Wherein is also discoursed, Whether that be the Entering Ordinance into Fellowship, or no.

I believed, and therefore have I spoken, Psal. 116. 10.

To the READER.

S I R,

I Marvel not that both yourself and others do think my long Imprisonment strange (or rather strangely of me for the sake of that) for verily I should also have done it myself, had not the Holy Ghost long since forbidden me, 1 Pet. 4. 12. 1 John 3. 13. Nay verily that notwithstanding, had the Adversary but fastened the Supposition of Guilt upon me, my long Trials might by this Time have put it beyond Dispute; for I have not hitherto been so sordid, as to stand to a Doctrine right or wrong; much less when so weighty an Argument as above eleven Tears Imprisonment, is continually dogging of me to weigh and pause, and pause again, the Grounds and Foundation of those Principles, for which I thus have suffered: but having not only at my Trial asserted them, but also since, even all this tedious Tract of Time, in cool Blood, a thousand Times by the Word of God examined them, and found them good; I cannot, I dare not now revolt or deny the same, on pain of eternal Damnation.

And that my Principles and Practice may be open to the View and Judgment of all Men (though they stand, and fall to none but the Word of God alone) I have in this small Treatise presented to this Generation, A Confession of my Faith, and a Reason of my Practice in the Worship of God; by which, although it be brief, candid Christians may, I hope, without a Violation to Faith or Love, judge, I may have the Root of the Matter found in me.

Neither have I in this Relation abusively presented my Reader, with other Doctrines or Practices, than what I held, professed, and preached when apprehended, and cast in Prison. Nor did I then or now retain a Doctrine besides, or which is not thereon grounded. The Subject I should have preached upon, even then when the Constable came, was, Dost thou believe on the Son of God? From whence I intended to shew, the absolute Need of Faith in Jesus Christ; and that it was also a Thing of the highest Concern for Men to inquire into, and to ask their own Hearts whether they had it or no.

Faith and Holiness are my professed Principles, with an Endeavour, so far as in me lieth, to be at Peace with all Men. What shall I say, let mine Enemies themselves be Judges, if any Thing in these following Doctrines, or if ought that any Man hath heard me preach, doth, or hath according to the true intent of my Words, savoured either of Heresy or Rebellion. I say again, let they themselves be Judges, if ought they find in my Writing or Preaching, doth render me worthy of almost twelve Tears Imprisonment, or one that deserveth to be hanged, or banished for ever, according to their tremendous Sentence. Indeed my Principles are such, as lead me to a Denial to communicate in the things of the Kingdom of Christ, with ungodly and open profane; neither can I in or by the superstitious Inventions of this World, consent that my Soul should be governed in any of my Approaches to God, because commanded to the contrary, and commended for so refusing. Wherefore excepting this one thing, for which I ought not to be rebuked; I shall, I trust, in despite of Slander and Falshood, discover myself at all times a peaceable and an obedient Subject. But if nothing will do, unless I make of my Conscience a continual Butchery, and Slaughter-shop, unless putting out my own Eyes I commit me to the Blind to lead me, (as I doubt is desired by some) I have determined, the Almighty God being my Help and Shield, yet to suffer, if frail Life might continue so long, even till the moss shall grow on mine Eye-brows, rather than thus to violate my Faith and Principles. Will a Man leave the Snow of Lebanon, that cometh from the Rock of the Field; or shall the cold flowing Waters that come from another Place be forsaken? Jer. 18. 14. Hath a Nation changed their Gods which yet are no Gods? For all People will walk every one in the Name of his God, and we will walk in the Name of the Lord our God for ever and ever, Micah 4. 5.

Touching my Practice as to Communion with visible Saints, although not Baptized with Water; I say it is my present Judgment so to do, and am willing to render a farther Reason thereof, shall I see the leading Hand of God thereto.

Thine in Bonds for the Gospel,

John Bunyan.

A Confession of my Faith, and a Reason of my Practice, &c.

1. I Believe that there is but One only true God, and there is none other but he. To us there is but One God, the Father, of whom are all Things. And this is Life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, &c. Mark 12. 32. 1 Cor. 8. 8. John 17. 3. Acts 17. 24.
2. I believe, that this God is Almighty, Eternal,

Eternal, Invisible, Incomprehensible, &c. I am the Almighty God, walk before me and be thou perfect. The eternal God is thy refuge. Now unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be Honour and Glory for ever and ever, Gen. 17. 1. Deut. 33. 26, 27. 1 Tim. 1. 17. Job 11. 7. Rom. 11. 33.

3. I believe, that this God is unspeakably perfect in all his Attributes of Power, Wisdom, Justice, Truth, Holiness, Mercy, Love, &c. his Power is said to be eternal, his Understanding and Wisdom infinite; he is called the Just Lord in Opposition to all things; he is said to be Truth it self and the God thereof: There is none holy as the Lord. God is love. Canst thou by searching find out God? canst thou find out the Almighty unto Perfection? Rom. 1. 20. Psal. 147. 5. Zeph. 3. 5. 2 Thes. 2. 10. Deut. 32. 4. Job 11. 7.

4. I believe, that in the Godhead, there are three persons or substances. There are Three that bare record in Heaven. The Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost. 1 Joh. 5. 7. see also, Gen. 1. 26. chap. 3: 22. chap. 11. 7. and Esa. 6. 8.

5. I believe, that these Three are in Nature, Essence, and Eternity, equally one. These three are one, 1 Joh. 5. 7.

6. I believe, there is a World to come, Heb. 2. 5. chap. 6. 5.

7. I believe, that there shall be a Resurrection of the Dead, both of the just and unjust. Many that sleep in the Dust of the Earth shall awake, some to everlasting Life, and some to everlasting shame and contempt. Marvel not at this. For the hour is coming, in the which all that are in their graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth, they that have done good, to the Resurrection of Life, and they that have done evil, to the Resurrection of Damnation, Act. 24. 15. Dan. 12. 2. Joh. 5. 28.

8. I believe, that they that shall be counted worthy of that World, and of the Resurrection from the Dead, neither marry nor are given in marriage, neither can they dye any more, for they are equal to the Angels, and are the Children of God, being the Children of the Resurrection. Luke 10. 34. 35, 36. John 10. 27, 28, 29. Rev. 7. 16. chap. 20. 6.

9. I believe, that those that dye impenitent, shall be tormented with the Devil and his Angels, and shall be cast with them into the Lake that burns with Fire and Brimstone, where their Worm dyeth not, and the Fire is not quenched. Rev. 21. 8. Mar. 9. 43, 48. Mat. 25. 41, 46. John 5. 29.

10. I believe, that because God is naturally Holy and Just, even as he is Good and Merciful; therefore (all having sinned) none can be saved, without the means of a Redeemer. Then he is gracious unto him, and saith, deliver him from going down to the Pit, I have found a Ransome. We have Redemption through his Blood, even the Forgiveness of our Sins. For which without shedding of Blood, is no remission, Job 33. 24. Col. 1. 14. Heb. 9. 22.

11. I believe, that Jesus Christ our Lord himself is the Redeemer. They remembered that God was their Rock, and the high God their Redeemer. Forasmuch as ye know, that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as Silver and Gold, from your vain Conversation received by Tradition from your Fathers; But with the precious Blood of Christ, as of a Lamb without Blemish; and without Spot, Psalm 78. 35. 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19.

12. I believe, that the great Reason why the Lord, the Second Person in the God-head, did cloath himself with our Flesh and Blood, was that he might be capable of obtaining the Redemption, that before the World, was intended for us. Forasmuch then as the Children were made partakers of Flesh and Blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; (mark) that through death he might destroy him that had the Power of Death, that is the Devil, and deliver them who through fear of Death, were all their life time subject to bondage. When the fullness of time was come, God sent forth his Son made of a Woman, made under the Law, to redeem them that were under the Law. Wherefore it behoved him in all things to be made like unto his Brethren; that he might be a merciful, and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God; To make Reconciliation for the Sins of the People. For in that himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able also to succour them that are tempted. Christ hath redeemed us from the Curse of the Law, being made a Curse for us. As it is written, cursed is every one that is hanged on a Tree. That the blessing of Abraham might come upon the Gentiles, through faith in Jesus Christ. Heb. 2. 14, 15. Gal. 4. 4. Heb. 2. 17, 18. Gal. 3. 13, 14.

13. I believe, that the time when he clothed himself with our Flesh, was in the Days of the reign of Cæsar Augustus; then, I say, and not till then, was the Word made Flesh, or clothed with our Nature. And it came to pass in those Days, that there went out out a decree from Cæsar Augustus, that all the World should be taxed; And Joseph went up from Galilee, out of the City of Nazareth unto Judah, unto the City of David, which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the House and Lineage of David, to be taxed, with Mary his espoused Wife being great with Child; And so it was, that while they were there, the Days were accomplished, that she should be delivered. This child was he of whom godly Simeon was told by the Holy Ghost, When he said, That he should not see death until he had seen the Lord Christ. John 1. 14. 1 Tim. 3. 16. Luk. 2. 1, 2, 3. 6. 25, 26, 27.

14. I believe, therefore that this very Child, as afore is testified, is both God and Man; the Christ of the living God. And she brought forth her first born Son, and wrapt him in swadling cloaths, and laid him in a manger; Because there was no room for them in the Inn. And there were in the same Country shepherds keeping watch over their flock by Night, And Lo, the Angel of the Lord came upon them, and the Glory of the Lord shined round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the Angel said unto them fear not; for behold I bring you good tidings of great Joy, which shall be to all People. For unto you is born this Day in the City of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a Sign unto you; ye shall find the Babe wrapped in swadling cloaths lying in a Manger. Again, But while he thought on these things, behold the Angel of the Lord appeared unto him; saying, Joseph, thou Son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy Wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost. And she shall bring forth a Son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus; for he shall save his People from their Sins. Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the Prophet saying; Behold a Virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a Son, and they shall call his name Immanuel, which being interpreted is God with us. Luk. 2. 7, 12. Mat. 1. 21, 22.

15. I believe, therefore that the Righteousness, and Redemption, by which we, that believe, stand just before God, as saved from the Curse of the Law, is the Righteousness, and Redemption, that consists in the Personal Acts and Performances of this Child Jesus; this God Man the Lord's Christ: it consisteth, I say, in his personal fulfilling the Law for us, to the utmost requirement of the justice of God. Do not think, (said he) that I am come to destroy the Law, or the Prophets; I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill. By which means he became the end of the Law for Righteousness to every one that believeth. For what the Law could not do in that it was weak through the Flesh; God sending his own Son in the Likeness of sinful Flesh, and for Sin, condemned Sin in the Flesh. So finishing Transgressions, and making an End of Sins, and making Reconciliation for Iniquity, He brought in everlasting Righteousness. Mat. 5. 17. Rom. 10. 3. chap. 8. 3. 1 Joh. 3. 8. 2 Tim. 1. 9. Heb. 10. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Dan. 9. 24.

16. I believe, that for the compleating of this work, he was always Sinless; did always the things that pleased God's Justice, that every one of his Acts, both of doing and suffering, and rising again from the Dead, was really and infinitely perfect, being done by him as God-man: Wherefore his Acts before he dyed, are called, the Righteous- ness of God; his Blood, the Blood of God; and herein perceive we the Love of God, in that he laid down his Life for us. The Godhead which gave vertue to all the Acts of the humane Nature, was then in perfect Union with it, when he hanged upon the Cross for our Sins. Heb. 4. 15. chap. 7. 26, 27, 28. Joh. 8. 29. Acts 10. 30. Rom. 3. 21, 22. Acts 20. 28. 1 Joh. 3. 16. Joh. 20. 28. Rom. 1. 4.

17. I believe then, that the Righteousness that saveth the Sinner from the Wrath to come, is properly and personally Christ's, and ours but as we have Union with him; God by grace imputing it to us. Yea doubtless, and I count all things loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord, for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung that I may win Christ, and be found in him, not having my own Righteousness, which is of the Law, but that which is through the Faith of Christ, the Righteousness which is of God by Faith. For of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us Wisdom, and Righteousness, and Sanctification, and Redemption. For he hath made him to be Sin for us who knew no Sin, that we might be made the Righteousness of God in him. Phil. 3. 8, 9. 1 Cor. 1. 30. 2 Cor 5. 20, 21.

18. I believe, that God, as the Reward of Christ's undertakings for us, hath exalted him to his own right Hand, as our Mediator, and given him a Name above every Name; and hath made him Lord of all, and Judge of Quick and Dead: And all this that we who believe might take Courage to believe, and hope in God. And being found in fashion as a Man, he humbled himself unto Death, even the Death of the Cross, (where he dyed for our Sins) wherefore God hath highly exalted him; and given him a Name above every Name; That at the Name of Jesus every knee should bow, both of Things in Heaven, and Things in Earth, and Things that are under the Earth. And that every Tongue shall confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the Glory of God the Father. And he commanded us to preach unto the People, and to testify, that it was he that was ordained of God to be the Judge of Quick and Dead. Who verily was fore-ordained, before the Foundation of the World, but was manifest in the last times for you, who by him do believe in God, who raised him from the Dead, and gave him Glory that your Faith and Hope might be in God, Phil. 2. 5----10. Eph. 1. 18----22. Acts 10. 42. chap. 17. 31. 1 Pet. 1. 19, 20, 21.

19. I believe, that being at the right Hand of God in Heaven, he doth there effectually exercise the Offices of his excellent Priesthood, and Mediatorship, presenting himself continually before God, in the Righteousness which is accomplished for us, when he was in the World. For by the Efficacy of his Blood, he not only went into the Holy Place, but being there, and having by it obtained eternal Redemption for us; now, as receiving the Worth and Merit thereof from the Father; doth bestow upon us Grace, Repentance, Faith, and the Remission of Sins: Yea he also received for us, the Holy Ghost to be sent unto us, to ascertain us of our Adoption and Glory: For if he were on earth he should not be a Priest; seeing then we have a great high Priest, that is entered into the Heavens, Jesus the Son of God, Let us hold fast our Profession. For there is one God, and one Mediator between God and Men, the Man Christ Jesus. For by his own Blood he entered into the Holy Place, having obtained eternal Redemption for us. For Christ is not entered into the Holy Places made with hands, which are the figure of the True; but into Heaven it self, now to appear in the presence of God for us. Therefore being by the right Hand of God exalted; and having received of the Father, the Promise of the Holy Ghost; he hath shed forth this which ye now see and hear. Heb. 8. 4. 1 Tim. 2. 5. Heb. 9. 12. 24. Acts 5. 31. chap. 2. 33.

20. I believe, that being there, he shall so continue till the Restitution of all things, and then he shall come again in Glory, and shall sit in Judgment upon all Flesh. And I believe, that according to his Sentence so shall their Judgment be. Repent ye therefore and be converted, that your Sins may be blotted out when the times of refreshing shall come, from the Presence of the Lord; and he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you, whom the Heaven must receive until the Restitution of all things, spoken of by the Mouth of all the holy Prophets since the World began. For this same Jesus which ye have seen go up into Heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into Heaven. For the Lord himself shall descend from Heaven with a Shout, with the Voice of the Arch-angel, and the Trumpet of God, &c. When the Son of Man shall come in his Glory, and all the holy Angels with him, then he shall sit upon the Throne of his Glory. And before him shall be gathered all Nations; and he shall separate them one from another, as a Shepherd divideth his Sheep from the Goats. And he shall set his Sheep on his right Hand, but the Goats on the left. Then shall the King say to them on his right Hand, Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the Foundation of the World. Then shall he say to them on the left Hand, Depart from me ye cursed into everlasting Fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels. And these shall go away into everlasting Punishment, but the righteous into Life eternal. For the Day of the Lord will come as a Thief in the Night, in the which the Heavens shall pass away with a great Noise, and the Elements shall melt with fervent Heat; the Earth also and the Works that are therein shall be burnt up. Seeing then that all these Things must be dissolved, what manner of persons ought we to be in all holy Conversation and Godliness; looking for and hastening unto the coming of the Day of God. Wherein the Heavens being on Fire shall be dissolved; and the Elements shall melt with fervent Heat, Acts 3. 19, 20, 21. 1 Thes. 4. 16. Acts 1. 11. Mat. 25. 31, 32, 33, 41, 46. 2 Pet. 3. 10, 11, 12.

21. I believe that when he comes, his Saints shall have a Reward of Grace, for all their Work and Labour of Love which they shewed to his Name in the World. And every Man shall receive his own Reward, according to his own Labour. And then shall every Man have Praise of God. And behold I come quickly, and my Reward is with me, to give to every Man according as his Work shall be. Wherefore my beloved Brethren, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the Work of the Lord; forasmuch as ye know your Labour is not in vain in the Lord; knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the Reward of Inheritance, for you serve the Lord Christ, 1 Cor. 3. 8. chap. 4. 5. Rev. 22. 12. 1 Cor. 15. 58. Col. 3. 24.

How Christ is made ours; or by what Means this or that Man, hath that Benefit by him, as to stand just before God now, and in the Day of Judgment.

1. I Believe, we being sinful Creatures in ^{of Justification.} ourselves, that no good Thing done by us, can procure of God the Imputation of the Righteousness of Jesus Christ. But that the Imputation thereof is an Act of Grace, a free Gift without our deserving. Being justified freely by his Grace through the Redemption that is in Jesus Christ. He called us, and saved us with an holy Calling; Not according to our Works, but according to his own Purpose and Grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus, Rom. 3. 24. chap. 5. 17. 2 Tim. 1. 9.

2. I believe also, That the Power of imputing Righteousness resideth only in God by Christ: 1. Sin being the Transgression of the Law. 2. The Soul that hath sinned being his Creature, and the Righteousness also his, and his only. Even as David also describeth the Blessedness of the Man, to whom God imputeth Righteousness without Works; saying, Blessed are they whose Iniquities are forgiven, and whose Sin is covered: Blessed is the Man to whom the Lord will not impute Sin. Hence therefore it is said again, That Men shall abundantly utter the Memory of his great Goodness, and sing of his Righteousness. For he saith in Moses, I will have Mercy on whom I will have Mercy; and I will have Compassion on whom I will have Compassion. So then, it is not in him him that willeth, nor in him that runneth, but in God that sheweth Mercy, Rom. 4. 6, 7. Psal. 145. 7. Rom. 9. 15, 16.

3. I believe, that the Offer of this Righteousness, as tendered in the Gospel, is to be received by Faith; we still in the very Act of receiving it, judging ourselves Sinners in ourselves. Oh wretched Man that I am! who shall deliver me from the Body of this Death. I thank God through Jesus Christ. Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. The Gospel is preached in all Nations for the Obedience of Faith. Being justified freely by his Grace, through the Redemption that is in Jesus Christ; whom God hath set forth to be a Propitiation (a Sacrifice to appease the Displeasure of God) through Faith in his Blood. To declare his Righteousness for the Remission of Sins that are past through the Forbearance of God; to declare I say at this Time his Righteousness; that he might be just, and the Justifier of him that believeth on Jesus. Be it known unto you therefore, Men and Brethren, that thro' this Man is preached unto you the Forgiveness of Sins: And by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which they could not be justified by the Law of Moses, Rom. 7. 24. Acts 16. 31. Rom. 3. 24, 25. Acts 13. 38, 39.

4. I believe, that this Faith, as it respecteth the Imputation of this Righteousness, for Justification before God, doth put forth itself in such Acts, as purely respect the Offer of a Gift. It receiveth, accepteth of, embraceth, or trusteth to it. As many as receiveth him to them he gave Power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name. This is a faithful Saying, and worthy of all Acceptation, that Jesus Christ came into the World to save Sinners, of whom I am chief. In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the Word of Truth, the Gospel of your Salvation: In whom also after that ye believed ye were sealed with the Holy Spirit of Promise. I believe therefore, that as to my Justification from the Curse of the Law, I am, as I stand in myself, ungodly, to receive, accept of, imbrace, and trust to the Righteousness, that is already provided by, and wrapt up in the personal Doings and Sufferings of Christ; it being Faith in that, and that only, that can justify a Sinner in the Sight of God, John 1. 12. 1 Tim. 1. 15. Heb. 11. 13. Eph. 1. 13.

5. I believe, that the Faith that so doth, is not to be found with any but those, in whom the Spirit of God by mighty Power doth work it; all others being fearful and incredulous, dare not venture their Souls and Eternity upon it. And hence it is called the Faith that is wrought by the exceeding great and mighty Power of God: The Faith of the Operation of God. And hence it is that others are said to be fearful, and so unbelieving. These with other ungodly Sinners must have their Part in the Lake of Fire, Eph. 1. 18, 19. Col. 2. 12. Eph. 2. 8. Phil. 1. 19. Rev. 21. 8.

6. I believe, that this Faith is effectually wrought in none, but those which before the World were appointed unto Glory. And as many as were ordained unto eternal Life believed: That he might make known the Riches of his Glory upon the Vessels of Mercy, which he had before prepared unto Glory. We give Thanks unto God always for you all, making mention always of you in our Prayers; remembering without ceasing your Work of Faith, and Labour of Love, and Patience of Hope in our Lord Jesus Christ in the Sight of God; knowing, brethren, beloved, your election of God. But of the rest he saith, ye believed not because ye are not of my Sheep, as I said, which latter Words relate to the 16th Verse, which respecteth the Election of God, John 10. 26.

Therefore they could not believe, because Esaias said again: he hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their hearts, that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and I should heal them, Acts 13. 48. Rom. 9. 23. 1 Thes. 1. 2. 3, 4. John 10. 26. chap. 12, 30, 39, 40.

Of Election.

1. I Believe that Election is free and permanent, being founded in Grace, and the unchangeable will of God. Even so then at this present time also there is a remnant according to the Election of Grace: And if by Grace, then it is no more of Works; otherwise Grace is no more Grace. But if it be of Works, then it is no more of Grace, otherwise Work is no more Work. Nevertheless the Foundation of God standeth sure, having this Seal, the Lord knoweth who are his. In whom also we have obtained an inheritance, being predestinated, according to the purpose of him who worketh all things after the counsel of his own will. Rom. 11. 5. 2 Tim. 2. 19. Eph. 1. 11.

2. I believe, that this Decree, Choice or Election, was before the Foundation of the World; and so before the Elect themselves, had Being in themselves; For God who quickeneth the Dead, and calleth those things which be not as though they were, stays not for the being of things, to determine his eternal purpose by; but having all things present to him, in his Wisdom, he made his choice before the World was. Rom. 4. 17. Eph. 1. 4. 1 Tim. 1. 9.

3. I believe, that the Decree of Election is so far off from making Works in us foreseen, the Ground or Cause of the Choice; that it containeth in the Bowels of it, not only the Persons, but the Graces that accompany their Salvation. And hence it is, that it is said; We are predestinated to be conformed to the image of his Son; not because we are, but that we should be Holy and without Blame before him in Love. For we we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus, unto good Works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them. He blessed us according as he chose us in Christ. And hence it is again that the Salvation and Calling of which we are now made Partakers, is no other than what was given us in Christ Jesus before the World began; according to his eternal Purpose which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord. Eph. 1. 3, 4. chap. 2. 10. chap. 3. 8, 9, 10, 11. 2 Tim. 1. 9. Rom. 8. 26.

4. I believe that Christ Jesus is he in whom the elect are always considered, and that without him there is neither Election, Grace, nor Salvation. Having predestinated us to the Adoption of Children, by Jesus Christ to himself; according to the good pleasure of his Will: to the Praise of the Glory of his Grace: Wherein he hath made us accepted in the Beloved, In whom we have Redemption through his Blood, the Forgiveness of Sins according to the Riches of his Grace. That in the Dispensation of the Fullness of times, he might gather together in one, all things in Christ, both which are in Heaven, and which are in Earth even in him. Neither is there Salvation in any other: for there is none other Name under Heaven given among Men, whereby we must be saved. Eph. 1. 5, 6, 7, 10. Acts 4. 12.

5. I believe, that there is not any impediment attending the Election of God, that can hinder their Conversion, and eternal Salvation. Moreover whom he did predestinate, them he also called; and whom he called, them he also justified, and whom he justified, them he also glorified: What shall we say to these things; if God be for us, who can be against us? Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's Elect? It is God that justifieth: Who is he that condemneth? &c. What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the Election hath obtained it, and the rest were blinded. For Israel hath not been forsaken, nor Judah of his God, of the Lord of hosts; though their land was filled with Sin, against the Holy one of Israel. When Ananias made Intercession against Saul, saying, Lord I have heard by many of this Man, how much evil he hath done to thy Saints at Jerusalem, and here he hath Authority from the High-priest to bind all that call upon thy Name. What said God unto him? Go thy way, for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my Name before the Gentiles, and Kings, and the children of Israel. Rom. 8. 30 to 35. chap. 11. 7. Jer. 51. 5. Acts 9. 12 to 16.

6. I believe that no Man can know his Election, but by his calling. The vessels of Mercy, which God afore prepared unto Glory, do thus claim a share therein: Even us, say they, whom he hath called, not only of the Jews, but also of the Gentiles; As he also saith in Hosea; I will call them my People, which were not my People, and her beloved, which was not beloved. Rom. 9. 23, 24, 25.

7. I believe therefore, that Election doth not forestall or prevent the Means which are of God appointed to bring us to Christ, to Grace and Glory; but rather putteth a Necessity upon the Use and Effect thereof; because they are chosen to be brought to Heaven that way: that is by the Faith of Jesus Christ, which is the end of effectual calling. Wherefore the rather Brethren give Diligence to make your Calling and Election sure. 2 Thes. 2. 13. 1 Pet. 1. 12. 2 Pet. 1. 10.

Of Calling.

1. I Believe, that to effectual Calling, the Holy Ghost must accompany the Word of the Gospel, and that with mighty Power: I mean that Calling, which of God is made to be the Fruit of electing Love. Knowing, saith Paul to the Thessalonians, Brethren, beloved, your Election of God; for our Gospel came not unto you in Word only; but also in Power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much Assurance, &c, 1 Thes. 1. 4, 8. Otherwise Men will not, cannot, hear and turn. Samuel was called four times, before he knew the Voice of him that spake from Heaven. It is said of them in Hosea, That as the Prophets called them so they went from them; And instead of turning to them, sacrificed to Baalam, and burnt incense to Graven Images. 1 Sam. 4. 6, 10. Hos. 11. 2. The reason is, because Men by Nature, are not only Dead in Sins, but enemies in their minds by reason of wicked Works: The call then is; Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the Dead, and Christ shall give thee Light, Eph. 5. 14. Understand, therefore, that effectual Calling is like that Word of Christ that raised Lazarus from the Dead; A Word attended with an Arm that was omnipotent. Lazarus come forth: it was a Word to the Dead; but not only so: It was a Word for the Dead; a Word that raised him from the Dead; a Word that outwent all Opposition; and that brought him forth of the Grave, though bound Hand and Foot therein. John 11. 43. Eph. 2. 1, 2. Heb. 10. 32. Gal. 1. 15. Acts 9. And hence it is, that Calling is sometimes expressed by quickening, awakening, illuminating, or bringing them forth of Darkness to Light, that amazeth and astonisheth them. For as it is a strange thing for a Man that lay long Dead, or never saw the Light with his Eyes, to be raised out of the Grave, or to be made to see that which he could not so much as once think of before, so it is with effectual Calling, 1 Pet. 2. 9. Hence it is that Paul, when called, stood trembling and was astonished: and that Peter saith, he hath called us out of Darkness into his marvellous light, Eph. 4. 21.

Acts 7. 2. In effectual Calling the Voice of God is heard, and the Gates of Heaven are opened: when God called Abraham, he appeared to him in Glory. That of Ananias to Saul is experienced but by few. The God of our Fathers hath chosen thee, saith he, that thou shouldest know his Will, and see that Just one, and shouldest hear the Voice of his Mouth, Acts 22. 14. True; Saul's call was out of the ordinary way, but yet as to the Matter, and Truth of the Work, 'twas no other than all the chosen have, viz.

1. An effectual awakening about the evil of Sin; and especially of Unbelief. John 16. 9. And therefore when the Lord God called Adam, he also made unto him, an effectual Discovery of Sin; insomuch that he stript him of all his Righteousness, Gen. 3. Thus he also served the Goaler. Yea it is such an awakening, as by it, he sees he was without Christ, without Hope, and a Stranger to the common-wealth of Israel, and without God in the Word. Acts 16. 29, 30. Eph. 2. 12. Oh the dread and amazement that the guilt of Sin brings with it, when 'tis revealed by the God of Heaven: and like to it is the Sight of Mercy, when it pleaseth God, who calleth us by his Grace, to reveal his Son in us.

2. In effectual Calling, there is great awakenings about the World to come, and the Glory of unseen Things: The Resurrection of the Dead; and eternal Judgment; The Salvation that God hath prepared for them that love him; with the Blessedness that will attend us, and be upon us, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, are great things in the Soul that is under the awakening Calls of God. And hence we are said to be called to Glory, to the obtaining of the Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. 1 Thes. 2. 12. 2 Thes. 2. 13, 14.

3. In effectual Calling, there is also a sanctifying Vertue; And hence we are said to be called with an holy Calling, with an heavenly Calling: Called to Glory and Vertue. But ye are a chosen Generation, a Royal Priest-hood, an holy Nation, a peculiar People, that you should shew forth the Praises of him who hath called you out of Darknes into his marvellous Light, Heb. 3. 1. 1 Thes. 4. 7. 1 Pet. 1. 8, 9. Yea effectual Calling hath annexed to it, as its inseparable Companion, the Promise of thorough Sanctification. Faithful is he that hath called you, who also will do it. 1 Thes. 5. 22, 23, 24.

2. I believe, that effectual Calling doth therefore produce, 1. Faith; and therefore it is said, that Faith cometh by hearing; by hearing the Word that calleth us unto the Grace of Christ. For by the Word that calleth us, is Jesus Christ held forth to us; and offered to be our Righteousness; and therefore the Apostle saith again, that God hath called us unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ; that is, to be made partakers of the Riches of Grace, and the Righteousness that is in him. Rom. 10. 17. Gal. 1. 6. 1 Cor. 1. 9.

2. It produceth Hope; It giveth a ground to Hope; and therefore Hope is said to be the Hope of our Calling. And again, Even as you are called in one Hope of your Calling. Eph. 1. 18, 19. chap. 4. 4. Now the godly Wise know, who so misleth of effectual Calling, misleth of eternal Life; because God justifieth none but them whom he calleth; and glorifies none but those whom he justifies: And therefore it is that Peter said before, Make your Calling, and (so) your Election sure: make it sure, that is, prove your Calling right, by the Word of God. For who so staggereth at the certainty of his Calling, cannot comfortably hope for a share in eternal Life. Remember the word unto thy Servant, whereon thou hast caused me to Hope. My Soul fainted for thy Salvation, but I hope in thy Word. Plalm 119. 49, 81.

3. It produceth Repentance; For when a Man hath Heaven and Hell before his Eyes, (as he will have if he be under the Power of effectual Calling) or when a Man hath a Revelation of the Mercy and Justice of God, with an heart-drawing Invitation, to lay hold on the tender Forgiveness of Sins; and being made also to behold the goodly Beauty of Holiness; it must needs be, that Repentance appears, and puts forth it self, unto self-revenging Acts, for all its Wickedness which in the Days of Ignorance, it delighted in. And hence is that saying, I came not to call the Righteous but Sinners to Repentance. For the effecting of which, the preaching of the Word of the Kingdom, is most proper: Repent for the Kingdom of God is at hand. Mar. 2. 17. chap. 1. 10.

1. Repentance is a turning the Heart to ^{Of Repen-} God in Christ: a turning of it from Sin, and the Devil, and Darknes; to the Goodness and Grace, and Holiness that is in him. Wherefore they that of old are said to repent, are said to loath, and abhor themselves, for all their Abominations. I abhor my self, said Job, and repent in dust, and ashes. Ezek. 6. 9. chap. 2. 43. chap. 36. 31. Job 42. 5, 6. Ezek. 16. ver. last.

2. Godly Repentance doth not only affect the Soul with the loathsome Nature of Sin that is past; but filleth the Heart with godly Hatred of Sins that yet may come: When Moses feared that through his being overburthened with the Care of the Children of Israel, some unruly or sinful Passions might shew themselves in him, what saith he? I beseech thee kill me out of hand, if I have found Grace in thy Sight, and let me not see my Wretchedness, Num. 14. 13, 14, 15.

See also how that which Paul calleth godly Repentance, wrought in the upright Corinthians, Behold, saith he, this self same thing that that ye sorrowed after a godly sort; what Carefulness it wrought in you? what clearing of your selves? yea, what Fear? yea, what vehement Desire, yea what Zeal, yea what Revenge? In all things you have approved yourselves to be clear in this matter, 2 Cor. 7. 9, 10, 11.

4. It produceth also Love: wherefore of Love. Paul, when he had put the Church in Remembrance that they were called of God, adds, That concerning brotherly Love, they had no need that he should write unto them, 1 Thess. 4. 17, 19. As who should say, If God be so kind to us, to forgive us our Sins, to save our Souls, and to give us the Kingdom of Heaven; let these be Motives beyond all other to provoke us to love again. Farther; if we that are thus beloved of God, are made Members of one Man's Body, all Partakers of his Grace, cloathed all with his glorious Righteousness, and are together appointed to be the Children of the next World; why should we not love one another? Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another, 1 John 4. 11. And truly so we shall, if the true Grace of God be upon us; because we also see them to be the Called of Jesus. Travellers, that are of the same Country, love and take Pleasure one in another, when they meet in a strange Land. Why, we sojourn here in a strange Country, with them that are Heirs together with us of the promised Kingdom and Glory, Heb. 11. 9. Now as I said, this holy Love worketh by Love: Mark, Love in God and Christ when discovered, constraineth us to love, 2 Cor. 5. 14.

The Name therefore, and Word, and Truth of God in Christ, together with the Sincerity of Grace, of Faith, and Holiness in us, are the delightful Objects of this Love, Psal. 119. 47, 127, 159. Psal. 5. 11. and 69. 36. and 119. 132. and 101. 6. For it imbraceth with Delight and Complacency, but as it discerneth the Image of God, and of Christ in the Soul, his Presence in the Ministry, and a Suitableness in our Worship to the Word and Mind of Christ, Psal. 26. 8. and 27. 4. and 84. 1---4. 1 Thess. 5. 13. Phil. 1. 3---7. Eph. 4. 32.

Love also hath a blessed Faculty, and heavenly, in bearing and suffering Afflictions, putting up Wrongs, overlooking the Infirmities of the Brethren, and in serving in all Christian Offices the Necessities of the Saints. Charity suffereth long and is kind, Charity envieth not, Charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly; seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no Evil, rejoiceth not in Iniquity, but rejoiceth in the Truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things, Charity never faileth, 1 Cor. 13. 1 Pet. 4. 8. Gal. 5. 13. In a Word, it designeth a holy Conversation in this World; that God, and Christ, and the Word of Christ may be glorified thereby,

2 Cor. 11. 10, 11, 12. 1 Pet. 1. 12 chap. 3. 16.

Of the Scriptures.

Touching which Word of God I thus believe and confess, 1. That all the holy Scriptures are the Words of God. All Scripture is given by Inspiration of God. For the Prophecy of the Scripture came not in old Time by the Will of Man; but holy Men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost, 2 Tim. 3. 16. 2 Pet. 1. 21.

2. I believe that the holy Scriptures, of themselves, without the Addition of humane Inventions, are able to make the Man of God perfect in all things; and thoroughly to furnish him unto all good Works. They are able to make thee wise unto Salvation through Faith in Jesus Christ; and to instruct thee in all other Things, that either respect the Worship of God, or thy walking before all Men, 2 Tim. 3. 14, 17. 2 Pet. 1. 19, 20, 21.

3. I believe the great End why God committed the Scriptures to Writing was; that we might be instructed to Christ, taught how to believe, encouraged to Patience and Hope, for the Grace that is to be brought unto us at the Revelation of Jesus Christ; also that we might understand what is Sin, and how to avoid the Commission thereof, John 20. 31. 1 John 5. 13. Rom. 15. 4. Concerning the Works of Men (said David) by the Word of thy Lips, I have kept me from the Paths of the Destroyer. Through thy Precepts I get Understanding, therefore I hate every false Way. I have hid thy Word in my Heart, that I might not sin against thee. Psal. 17. 4. and 119. 104. v. 11.

4. I believe that they cannot be broken, but will certainly be fulfilled in all the Prophecies, Threatnings and Promises, either to the Salvation or Damnation of Men. They are like that flying Roll, that will go over all the Earth to cut off and curse: In them is contained also the Blessing, they preach to us also the Way of Salvation. Take heed therefore lest that come upon you which is written in the Prophets: Behold ye Despisers, and wonder, and perish. For I work a Work in your Days, a Work which you shall in no wise believe, though a Man declare it unto you. Gal. 3. 8. Acts 13. 40, 41. John 10. 35. chap. 12. 37, 41. chap. 3. 17, 18, 19. Zach. 5. 2, 3, 4.

5. I believe Jesus Christ, by the Word of the Scriptures, will judge all Men at the Day of Doom; For that is the Book of the Law of the Lord, according to Paul's Gospel. Job. 12. 41, 49. Rom. 2. 16.

6. I believe, that this God made the World, and all things that are therein, for in Six days the Lord made Heaven and Earth, the Sea, and all that in them is; also that after the time of the making thereof, he disposed of it to the Children of Men, with a reserve thereof for the Children of God, that should in all ages be born thereunto. When the most high divided to the Nations their inheritance, when he separated the Sons of Adam; he set the Bounds of the People according to the Number of the Children of Israel, for as he made of one Blood all Nations of Men for to dwell upon the Face of the Earth, so he hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their Habitation. Acts 17, 24. Exod. 24. 19. Deut. 32. 8. Acts 17. 26.

Of Magistracy.

I Believe, that Magistracy is God's Ordinance, which he hath appointed for the Government of the whole World; And that it is a judgment of God, to be without those Ministers of God, which he hath ordained to put Wickedness to shame, Judg. 18. 7.

Whosoever therefore resisteth the Power, resisteth the Ordinance of God; and they that resist, shall receive to themselves Damnation; For rulers are not a terror to good Works but to the Evil; Wilt thou not then be afraid of the Power, do that which is Good and thou shalt have praise of the same: For he is the Minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is Evil, be afraid, for he beareth not the sword in vain, For he is the Minister of God, a Revenger to execute wrath upon him that doth Evil: Wherefore, ye must needs be subject; not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake: For this cause pay ye tribute also; for they are God's Ministers attending continually unto this very thing, Rom. 13. Many are the Mercies we receive, by a well qualified Magistrate, and if any shall at any time be otherwise inclined, let us shew our christianity in a patient suffering for well doing, what it shall please God to inflict by them.

A Reason of my Practice in Worship.

HAVING thus made Confession of my Faith, I now come to shew you my Practice in Worship, with the Reasons thereof. The which I shall have Occasion to touch, under two distinct heads.

1. With whom I dare not hold Communion.

2. With whom I dare.

Only, first, Note, that by the Word Communion, I mean fellowship in the things of the Kingdom of Christ, or that which is commonly called Church Communion, the Communion of Saints. For in civil affairs and in things of this World that are honest, I am not altogether tied up from the Fornicators thereof; (1 Cor. 5. 9, 10.) Wherefore in my following discourse understand me in the first sense.

Now, Then, I dare not have Communion with them that profess not Faith and Holiness; or that are not visible Saints by calling: but note that by this Assertion, I meddle not with the elect; but as he is a visible Saint by calling; neither do I exclude the secret Hypocrite, if he be hid from me by visible Saintship. Wherefore I dare not have Communion with Men from a single Supposition, that they may be Elect, neither dare I exclude the other from a single supposing that he may be a secret Hypocrite. I meddle not here with these things; I only exclude him that is not a visible Saint: Now he that is visibly or openly prophane, cannot be then a visible Saint; for he that is a visible Saint must profess Faith, and Repentance, and consequently Holiness of Life: And with none else dare I communicate.

First, because God himself hath so strictly put the difference, both by Word and Deed; For from the beginning, he did not only put a difference between the Seed of the Woman and the Children of the Wicked, only the instinct of Grace and change of the Mind as his own, but did cast out from his Presence the Father of all the ungodly, even cursed Cain when he shewed himself openly prophane, and banished him to go into the Land of the Runagate or Vagabond, where from God's Face, and so the Privileges of the Communion of Saints he was ever after hid. Gen. 3. 15. chap. 4. 9, 10, 14, 15, 16.

Besides, when after this, through the Policy of Satan, the Children of Cain, and the Seed of Seth, did commix themselves in Worship, and by that means had corrupted the Way of God: what followed, but first, God judged it Wickedness, raised up Noah to preach against it, and after that, because they would not be reclaimed, he brought the Flood upon the whole World of these ungodly; and saved only Noah alive and his, because he had kept himself Righteous, Gen. 6. 1, 2. ver. 3. 11, 12, 13.

Here I could enlarge abundantly, and add many more instances of alike Nature, but I am here only for a touch upon things.

Secondly, Because it is so often commanded in the Scriptures, That all the Congregation should be Holy. I am the Lord your God, ye shall therefore sanctifie your selves; and ye shall be Holy for I am Holy. Ye shall be Holy, for I the Lord your God am Holy. Sanctifie your selves therefore and be ye Holy, for I am the Lord your God. Besides, 1. The Gates of the Temple were to be shut against all other. Open ye the Gates, that the Righteous Nation, that keepeth the Truth, may enter in: This Gate of the Lord into which the Righteous shall enter. Thus saith the Lord, no stranger uncircumcised in heart, or uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my Sanctuary, of any stranger which is amongst the Children of Israel.

2. Because,

2. Because the Things of Worship are Holy; Be ye Holy that bear the Vessels of the Lord. 3. Because all the Limits and Bounds of Communion are Holy. This is the Law of the House, upon the top of the Mountain, the whole limit thereof shall be most Holy: Behold this is the Law of the House. Lev. 11. 44. chap. 19. 2. chap. 20. 7. 1 Pet. 1. 15, 16. Esa. 26. 2. Psa. 128. 20. Ezek. 43. 12. chap. 44. 9. Esa. 52. 11.

Thirdly, I dare not have Communion with them; because the Example of New Testament Churches before us, have been a community of visible Saints. Paul to the Romans, writes thus: To all that are at Rome, beloved of God, called to be Saints, And to the rest of the Churches thus: Unto the Church of God which is at Corinth; to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be Saints. To the Saints that are at Ephesus, and to the Faithful in Christ Jesus; To all the Saints that are at Philippi with the Bishops and Deacons. To the Saints and faithful Brethren which are at Colosse. To the Church of the Thessalonians, which is in God the Father, and in our Lord Jesus Christ, &c. Thus you see under what Denomination, those Persons went of old, who were counted worthy to be members of a visible Church of Christ, Rom. 1. 7. 1 Cor. 1. 2. Eph. 1. 1. Col. 1. 2. Phil. 1. 1. 1 Thes. 1. 1. Besides, the members of such Churches, go under such characters as these.

1. The called of Christ Jesus. Rom. 1. 6.

2. Men that have drank into the Spirit of Jesus Christ. 1 Cor. 12. 13.

3. Persons in whom was God the Father. Eph. 4. 6.

4. They were all made Partakers of the Joy of the Gospel, Phil. 1. 7.

5. Persons that were circumcised inwardly. Col. 2. 11.

6. Persons that turned from Idols, to serve the living and true God. 1 Thes. 1. 4.

7. Those that were the Body of Christ, and Members in particular, that is, those that were visibly such; because they made Profession of Faith, of Holiness, of Repentance, of Love to Christ, and of Self-denial, at their receiving into fellowship.

Fourthly, I dare not hold Communion with the open prophane:

1. Because it is promised to the Church, that she shall dwell by her self; that is, as she is a Church, and spiritual; Lo the People shall dwell alone, and shall not be reckoned among the Nations. Numb. 23. 9.

2. Because this is their Privilege. But ye are a chosen Generation, a Royal Priesthood, an Holy Nation, a peculiar People; that ye should shew forth the Praises of him, who hath called you out of Darkness into his marvellous Light, 1 Pet. 1. 9, 10.

Vol. II.

3. Because this is the Fruit of the Death of Christ, who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity; and purify unto himself a peculiar People zealous of good Works. Tit. 3. 14.

4. Because this is the Commandment: Save your selves from the untoward Generation, Acts 2. 40.

5. Because with such it is not possible we should have true and spiritual Communion. Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: For what fellowship hath Righteousness with Unrighteousness? And what Communion hath Light with Darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? Or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel? Or what agreement hath the Temple of God with Idols? For ye are the Temple of the living God, as God hath said, I will dwell in them and walk in them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my People. Wherefore, Come out from among them, and be ye separate saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you, and I will be a Father unto you saith the Lord Almighty, 2 Cor. 6. 14---18.

Fifthly, I dare not hold Communion with the open prophane.

1. Because this would be Plowing with an Ox, and an Ass together: heavenly Persons suit best for Communion in heavenly Matters. Deut. 22. 10.

2. It subjecteth not the Nature of our Discipline, which is not forced, but free, in a professed Subjection to the Will and Commandment of Christ: others being excluded by God's own Prohibition, Lev. 1. 3. Rom. 6. 17. 2 Cor. 8. 12. chap. 9. 7, 13. chap. 8. 5.

Paul also when he exhorteth Timothy to follow after Righteousness, Faith, Charity, Peace, &c. (which are the Bowels of Church Communion) he saith, do it with those that call on the Name of the Lord, out of a pure Heart, 2 Tim. 2. 22.

Sixthly, In a word, to hold Communion with the open prophane, is most pernicious and destructive.

1. 'Twas the wicked Multitude, that fell a lusting, and that tempted Christ in the Desert, Num. 11. 4.

2. It was the prophane Heathen, of whom Israel learned to worship Idols. They were mingled among the Heathen, and learned their Works, and served their Idols, which were a Snare to them, Psa. 106. 25, 26, 27.

3. It is the mingled People that God hath threatned to plague with those deadly Punishments of his, with which he hath threatened to punish Babylon it self; saying; When a Sword is upon her Lyars, her Mighty, her Chariots and Treasures; a Sword also shall be upon the mingled People that are in the midst of her.

And no marvel: for,

1. Mixed

1. Mixed Communion polluteth the Ordinances of God. Say to the Rebels, saith the Lord God, Let it suffice you, of all your Abominations, that you have brought into my Sanctuary Strangers, uncircumcised in Heart, and uncircumcised in Flesh; to be in my Sanctuary to pollute it; even my House, when ye offered my Bread, and the Fat, and the Blood: And they have broken my Covenant, because of all their Abominations, Ezek. 44. 6. 7, 8.

2. It violateth the Law; her Priests have violated my Law, and prophaned my holy Things: (how) They have put no Difference between the holy and prophane; neither have they shewed Difference between the unclean, and the clean, Ezek. 22. 6.

3. It prophaneth the Holiness of God: Judah hath dealt treacherously, and an Abomination is committed in Israel and Jerusalem: For Judah hath prophaned the Holiness of the Lord which he loved, and hath married the Daughter of a strange God, Mal. 2. 11.

4. It defileth the truly Gracious; Know ye not that a little Leaven leaveneth the whole lump: Look diligently therefore, lest any Root of Bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled, 1 Cor. 5. 6. Heb. 12. 15, 16.

Lastly, To conclude, as I said before, it provoketh God to punish with severe Judgments: And therefore heed well.

1. As I said before, The drowning of the whole World was occasioned by the Sons of God commixing themselves with the Daughters of Men; and the Corruption of Worship that followed thereupon, Gen. 6. and 7 chapters.

2. He sent a Plague upon the Children of Israel, for joyning themselves unto the People of Moab; and for following their Abominations in Worship: And let no Man think, that now I have altered the State of the Question: for it is all one with the Church to Communicate with the prophane; and to sacrifice, and offer their Gifts to the Devil: the Reason is, because such have by their Sin forsaken the Protection of Heaven, and are given up to their own Heart-Lusts; and left to be overcome of the Wicked to whom they have joined themselves, Num. 25. 1, to 6. Jos. 22. 17. Deut. 32. 16---19. Psalm 106. 36---40. Deut. 12. Deut. 7. 1, 2---6. Neh. 13. 26.

Joyn not your selves, saith God, to the Wicked, neither in Religion nor Marriages; for they will turn away thy Sons from following me, that they may serve other Gods; so will the Anger of the Lord be kindled against you, and destroy thee suddenly. Did not Solomon King of Israel sin by these things? yet among many Nations was there no King like him who was beloved of his God.

Hear how Paul handleth the Point; This I say, saith he, that the things which the Gentiles, or openly prophane, sacrifice;

they sacrifice to Devils, and not to God: And I would not that you should have Fellowship with Devils. Ye cannot drink of the Cup of the Lord, and the Cup of Devils: Ye cannot be Partakers of the Table of the Lord, and of the Table of Devils. Do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? Are we stronger than he? 1 Cor. 10. 21, 22, 23. I conclude, that therefore it is an Evil, and a dangerous Thing to hold Church-Communion with the open prophane and ungodly. It polluteth his Ordinances: It violateth his Law: It prophaneth his Holiness: It defileth his People; and provoketh the Lord to severe and terrible Judgments.

Object. But we can prove in all Ages, there have been the open prophane in the Church of God.

Answe. In many Ages indeed it hath been so; but mark, they appeared not such, when first they were received unto Communion, neither was they with God's liking, as such to be retained among them, but in order to their Admonition, Repentance and Amendment of Life: of which if they failed, God presently threatned the Church; and either cut them off from the Church, as he did the Idolaters, Fornicators, Murmurers, Tempters, Sabbath-breakers; with Korah, Dathan, Achan and others: or else cut off them with the Church and all, as he served the ten Tribes at one time, and the two Tribes at another. My God shall cast them away, because they did not hearken to him, and they shall be Wanderers among the Nations, Exod. 12. 48. 2 Cor. 6. 1 Cor. 5. 4, 5. 10, 12, 13. Exod. 32. 25. Numb. 25. 1---9. chap. 21. 5, 6. chap. 14. 37. chap. 16. chap. 15. 32, 36. Jos. 7. 2 Kings 17. Ezek 22. chap. 23. Hos. 9. 17. Neh. 13. 1, 2, 3. I might here greatly enlarge, but I intend brevity; yet let me tell you, that when Nehemiah understood by the Book of the Law of the Lord, that the Ammonite, and the Moabite should not come into the Congregation of God; they separated from Israel all the mixed multitude. Many have pleaded for the prophane, that they should abide in the Church of God; but such have not considered, that God's Wrath at all times hath with great Indignation been shewed against such Offenders and their Conceits. Indeed they like not for to plead for them under that Notion, but rather as Korah, and his company. All the Congregation is holy every one of them, Numb. 16. 3. But it maketh no matter by what Name they are called; if by their deeds they shew themselves openly wicked: For Names, and Notions, sanctify not the Heart, and Nature: they make not Vertues of Vice, neither can it save such Advocates, from the heavy curse both of God and Men. The Righteous Men they shall judge them after the manner of adulteresses; and after after the manner of women that shed blood, because they are adulteresses, and Blood is in their Hands, Pro. 17. 15. chap. 24. 24. Ezek. 23. 45.

Thus have I shewed you with whom I dare not have Communion: And now to shew you with whom I dare. But in order thereto, I desire you first to take notice; That touching shadowish, or figurative Ordinances; I believe that Christ hath ordained but two in his Church, viz. Water Baptism and the Supper of the Lord: both which are of excellent Use to the Church in this World; they being to us Representations of the Death and Resurrection of Christ, and are as God shall make them Helps to our Faith therein; But I count them not the Fundamentals of our Christianity, nor Grounds or Rule to Communion with Saints: Servants they are, and our Mystical Ministers, to teach and instruct us, in the most weighty Matters of the Kingdom of God: I therefore here declare my reverent Esteem of them; yet dare not remove them, as some do, from the place, and end, where by God they are set and appointed; nor ascribe unto them more than they were ordered to have in their first and primitive Institution: 'Tis possible to commit Idolatry, even with God's own Appointments: But I pass this, and come to the thing propounded.

Secondly, then, I dare have Communion, Church Communion with those that are visible saints by calling; with those that by the Word of the Gospel have been brought over to Faith and Holiness: And it maketh no matter to me, what their Life was heretofore, if they now be washed, if they be sanctified, if they be justified in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by the Spirit of our God, 1 Cor. 6. 9, 10, 11. Now in order to the Discovery of this Faith and Holiness, and so to Fellowship in Church Communion: I hold it requisite that a faithful Relation be made thereof by the Party thus to be received; yea if need be by Witnesses also, for the Satisfaction of the Church, that she may receive in Faith and Judgment, such as best shall suit her holy Profession, Acts 9. 26, 27, 28. 1 Cor. 16. 10. 2 Cor. 8. 23. Observe it; these Texts do respect extraordinary Officers; and yet see, that in order to their Reception by the Church, there was made to them a faithful Relation of the Faith and Holiness of these very Persons; For no Man may intrude himself upon, or thrust himself upon, or thrust himself into a Church of Christ; without the Church have first the Knowledge, and Liking of the Person to be received: if otherwise there is a door opened for all the Hereticks in the World; yea for Devils also if they appear in humane Shapes. But Paul shews you the Manner of receiving, by pleading (after some Disgrace thrown upon him by the false Apostles) for his own admission of his Companions: Receive us, saith he, we have wronged no Man; we have defrauded no Man; we have corrupted no man: and so concerning Timothy: If Timothy come, saith he, see that he may be with you without Fear; for he worketh the work of the Lord, as I also do, 2 Cor. 7. 2. 1 Cor. 16. 10. Also when Paul supposed that Titus might be suspected by some; see how he pleads for him; If any do enquire of Titus he is my partner, and Fellow-helper, concerning you; or our brethren be enquired of, they are the Messengers of the Churches, and the Glory of Christ, 2 Cor. 8. 23. Phebe also when she was to be received by the Church at Rome; see how he speaketh in her behalf: I commend unto you Phebe our sister, which is a Servant of the Church, which is at Cenchrea; that ye receive her in the Lord, as becometh Saints, and that you assist her in whatsoever Business she hath need of you; for she hath been a Succourer of many, and of my self also, Rom. 16. 1, 2. Yea when the Apostles and Brethren sent their Epistles, from Jerusalem to Antioch: under what Characters do those go, that were the Messengers to them? It seemed good unto the Holy Ghost, and to us, to send chosen Men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas, and Saul, Men that have hazarded their Lives for the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, &c. Acts 15. 25, 26, 27. Saul was in Antioch before, but being brought in to suspicion by false Apostles, he had need of a new Commendation.

Now though the Occasion upon which these Commendations were written, were not simply, or only, in order to Church relation, but also for other Causes; yet because the Persons concerned were of the Churches to be received as faithful, and such who would partake of Church Priviledges with them, they have therefore, their Faith and Faithfulness related to the Churches, as those that were particularly imbodyed there. Besides Timothy and Titus being extraordinary Officers, stood as Members and Officers in every Church where they were received. Likewise Barnabas, and Saul, Judas and Silas, abode as Members, and Officers where they were sent. 'Twas requisite therefore that the Letters of Recommendation, should be in substance the same with that Relation, that ought to be made to the Church, by or for the Person, that is to be embodied there. But to return, I dare have Communion, Church Communion with those that are visible Saints by Calling.

Quest. But by what Rule would you receive them into Fellowship with your selves.

Ans. Even by a Discovery of their Faith and Holiness, and their Declaration of Willingness to subject themselves to the Laws and Government of Christ in his Church.

Quest. But do you not count that by Water Baptism, and not otherwise, that being the initiating, and entering Ordinance, they ought to be received into Fellowship?

Ans. No; But tarry, and take my Sense,

Sense with my Word. For herein lies the Mistake, To think that because in time past, Baptism was administred upon Conversion, that therefore it is the initiating, and entring Ordinance into Church Communion: when by the Word no such thing is testified of it. Besides, that it is not so will be manifest, if we consider the Nature and Power of such an Ordinance.

That Ordinance then, that is the initiating or entering Ordinance as before, doth give to them that partake thereof, a right to, and a being of Membership with that particular Church by which it is administred. I say, a right to, and a being of, membership, without the Addition of another Church Act. This is evident by the Law of Circumcision, which was the initiating Law of old; for by the Administration of that very Ordinance, the Partaker thereof was forthwith a Member of that Congregation, without the Addition of another Church Act, Gen. 17. This is declared in its first Institution, and therefore it is called the Token of the Covenant: The Token or Sign of Righteousness, of Abraham's Faith; and of the visible Membership of those that joyned themselves to the Church with him; the very inlet into Church Communion that gave a being of Membership among them. And thus Moses himself expounds it; Every man-servant, saith he, that is bought with Money, when thou hast circumcised him, he shall eat of the Passover, without the Addition of another Church Act, to impower him thereunto; his Circumcision hath already giving him a Being there, and so a Right to, and Privilege in Church Relation: A Foreigner and an hired Servant, shall not eat thereof, (because not circumcised) But when a Stranger that sojourneth with thee, will keep the Passover to the Lord, let all his Males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it. (For then he is one of the Church) and he shall be as one born in the Land; for no uncircumcised Person shall eat thereof, Exod. 12. 43, to 50. Neither could any other thing, according to the Law of Circumcision, give the devoutest Person that breathed, a Being of Membership with them. He that is born in thine House, and he that is bought with thy Money, must needs be circumcised, and the uncircumcised Man-child, whose Flesh of his foreskin is not circumcised, that Soul shall be cut off from his People, Gen. 17. 13, 14.

Note then, that that which is the initiating Ordinance, admitteth none into Church communion, but those that first partake thereof: The Angel sought to kill Moses himself, for attempting to make his Child a Member without it. Note again, that as it admitteth of none to Membership without it; so as I said, the very Act of circumcising them, without the addition of another Church Act, gave them a Being of Membership with that very Church, by whom they were circumcised, Exod. 4. 24, 25, 26. But none of this can be said of Baptism. First, there is none debarred or threatned to be cut off from the Church, if they be not first baptized: Secondly, Neither doth it give to the Person baptized, a Being of Membership with this or that Church, by whose Members he hath been baptized. John gathered no particular Church, yet was he the first and great Baptizer with Water; he preached Christ to come, and baptized with the Baptism of Repentance, and left his Disciples to be gathered by him, Acts 19. 3, 4, 5. And to him shall the gathering of the People be, Gen. 49. 10. Besides, after Christ's Ascension, Philip baptized the Eunuch, but made him by that no Member of any particular Church: We only read, that Philip was caught away from him, and that the Eunuch saw him no more, but went on his Way rejoicing to his Master and Country of Ethiopia, Acts 8. 35--40. Neither was Cornelius made a Member of the Church at Jerusalem, by his being baptized at Peter's Command at Cæsarea, Acts 10. chap. 11. Neither were they that were converted at Antioch, by them that were scattered from the Church at Jerusalem, by their Baptism (if they were baptized at all) joined to the Church at Jerusalem, Acts 11. 19. No, they were after gathered and imbodied among themselves by other Church Acts, Acts 16. What shall I say? Into what particular Church was Lydia baptized by Paul, or those first Converts at Philippi? Yea even in the second of the Acts, baptizing and adding to the Church, appear to be Acts distinct: but if Baptism were the initiating Ordinance, then was he that we baptized made a Member; made a Member of a particular Church, by the very Act of Water-Baptism: Neither ought any by God's Ordinance to have baptized any, but with respect to the admitting them by that Act to a Being of Membership in this particular Church. For if it be the initiating Ordinance, it entereth them into the Church: What Church? Into a visible Church; Now there is no Church visible but that which is particular; the universal being utterly invisible, and known to none but God. The Person then that is baptized stands by that, a Member of no Church at all, neither of the visible, nor yet of the invisible. A visible Saint he is, but not made so by Baptism; for he must be a visible Saint before, else he ought not to be baptized, Acts 8. 37. Acts 9. 17. Acts 16. 33.

Take it again; Baptism makes thee no Member of the Church, neither particular nor universal: neither doth it make thee a visible Saint: It therefore gives thee neither right to, nor being of Membership at all.

Quest. But why then were they baptized?

Ans.

Ans. That their own Faith by that Figure might be strengthened in the Death and Resurrection of Christ. And that themselves might see, that they have professed themselves, dead, and buried, and risen with him to Newness of Life. It did not seal to the Church that they were so, (their Satisfaction as to that rose from better Arguments) but taught the Party himself that he ought so to be. Farther, it confirmed to his own Conscience the Forgiveness of Sins, if by unfeigned Faith he laid hold upon Jesus Christ, Col. 2. 12. Rom. 6. 3, 4. Gal. 3. 26. 1 Cor. 15. 29. Acts 2. 38. Acts 22. 16. 1 Pet. 3. 21.

Now then, if Baptism be not the initiating Ordinance, we must seek for entering some other way, by some other Appointment of Christ, unless we will say, that without Rule, without Order, and without an Appointment of Christ, we may enter into his visible Kingdom. The Church under the Law had their initiating and entering Ordinance; it must not therefore be, unless we should think that Moses was more punctual and exact than Christ, but that also our Lord hath his entering Appointment. Now that which by Christ is made the Door of Entrance into the Church, by that we may doubtless enter; and seeing Baptism is not that Ordinance, we ought not to seek to enter thereby, but may with good Conscience enter without it.

Quest. But by what Rule then would you gather Persons into Church-communion?

Ans. Even by that Rule by which they are discovered to the Church to be visible Saints; and willing to be gathered into their Body and Fellowship. By that Word of God therefore, by which their Faith, Experience, and Conversation (being examined) is found good; by that the Church should receive them into Fellowship with them. Mark; Not as they practise things that are circumstantial, but as their Faith is commended by a Word of Faith, and their Conversation by a moral Precept. Wherefore that is observable, that after Paul had declared himself sound of Faith, he falls down to the Body of the Law: Receive us, saith he, we have wronged no Man, we have corrupted no Man, we have defrauded no Man; he saith not, I am baptized, but I have wronged no Man, Ec. 2 Cor. 5. 18, 19, 20, 21. chap. 7. 2. And if Churches after the Confession of Faith made more Use of the Ten Commandments, to judge of the Fitness of Persons by; they might not exceed by this seeming Strictness, christian Tenderneſs towards them they receive to Communion.

I will say therefore, that by the Word of Faith, and of good Works, moral Duties Gospelized, we ought to judge of the Fitness of Members by, by which we ought also to receive them to Fellowship: For he that in these Things proveth sound, he hath the Antitype of Circumcision, which was before the entering Ordinance. For he is not a Jew which is one outwardly; neither is that Circumcision, which is outward in the Flesh. But he is a Jew which is one inwardly; and Circumcision is that of the Heart in the Spirit, whose Praise is not of Men but of God, Rom. 2. 28, 29. Phil. 3. 1, 2, 3, 4.

Now a Confession of this by Word and Life, makes this inward Circumcision visible: When you know him therefore to be thus circumcised, you ought to admit him to the Lord's Passover: he, if any, hath a Share not only in Church-communion, but a visible Right to the Kingdom of Heaven.

Again, For the Kingdom of God, or our Service to Christ, consisteth not in Meats or Drinks, but in Righteousness, Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost: And he that in these things serveth Christ, is accepted of God, and approved of Men, Rom. 14. 18. Deut. 23. 47. By which Word Righteousness, he meaneth as James doth, the royal Law, the perfect Law, which is the Moral Precept Evangelized, or delivered to us by the Hand of Christ, James 2. 8, 9. The Law was given twice on Sinai: The last Time it was given with a Proclamation of Grace and Mercy of God, and of the Pardon of Sins going before, Exod. 19. and chap. 34. 1---10. The second giving is here intended; for so it cometh after Faith, which first receiveth the Proclamation of Forgiveness; hence we are said to do this Righteousness in the Joy and Peace of the Holy Ghost. Now he that in these Things serveth Christ, is accepted of God, and approved of Men. For who is he that can justly find Fault with him, that fulfilleth the royal Law from a Principle of Faith and Love. If ye fulfil the royal Law according to the Scriptures, Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thyself, ye do well; ye are approved of Men. Again, he that hath loved another hath fulfilled the Law, for Love is the fulfilling of the Law. He then that serveth Christ according to the royal Law, from Faith and Love going before, he is a fit Person for Church-communion; God accepteth him, Men approve him. Now that the royal Law is the moral Precept, read the Place, James 2. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12. It is also called the Law of Liberty, because the Bondage is taken away by Forgiveness going before; and this is it by which we are judged, as is said, meet or unmeet for Church-communion, &c.

Therefore I say, the Rule by which we receive Church-members, it is the Word of the Faith of Christ, and of the moral Precept Evangelized, as I said before, I am under the Law to Christ, saith Paul. So when he forbiddeth us Communion with Men, they be such as are destitute of the Faith of Christ, and live in the Transgression of a moral Precept: I have written unto you, saith he, not to keep Company, if any Man that is called a Brother, be a Fornicator, or Covetous, or an Idolater, or a Railer, or a Drunkard, or an Extortioner, with such an one no not to eat. He saith not, if any Man be not baptized, have not Hands laid on him, or join with the unbaptized; these are fictitious, scriptureless Notions. For this, Thou shalt not commit Adultery; thou shalt not kill; thou shalt not steal; thou shalt not bear false Witness; thou shalt not covet. And if there be any other Commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this Saying, Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thyself. Love thinketh no Ill to his Neighbour; therefore Love is the fulfilling of the Law, Rom. 13. 9, 10.

The Word of Faith, and the moral Precept, is that which Paul injoyns the Galatians and Philippians, still avoiding outward Circumstances: hence therefore when he had to the Galatians treated of Faith, he falls point blank upon moral Duties. For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature: And as many as walk according to this Rule, Peace be on them, and Mercy, and upon the Israel of God, Gal. 6. 15, 16. As many as walk according to this Rule; What Rule? The Rule by which Men are proved new Creatures: The Word of Faith and the moral Precept. Wherefore Paul exhorteth the Ephesians not to walk as other Gentiles, in the Vanity of their Mind; seeing they had received Christ, and had heard him, and had been taught by him as the Truth is in Jesus; That they would put off the old Man; what is that? Why, the former Conversation, which is corrupt according to the deceitful Lusts; Lying, Anger, Sin, giving Place to the Devil, corrupt Communication, all Bitterness, Wrath, Clamour, Evil-speaking, with all Malice: And that they would put on the new Man; what is that? That which is created in Righteousness and true Holiness; a being renewed in the Spirit of their Mind, and a putting away all these things, Eph. 4. For in Christ Jesus; these Words are put in, on purpose to shew us the Nature of New-Testament Administrations, and how they differ from the old: In Moses an outward Conformity to an outward and carnal Ordinance, was sufficient to give (they subjecting themselves thereto) a Being of Membership with the Jews: But in Christ Jesus it is not so; of Abraham's Flesh was the national Jewish Congregation; but it is Abraham's Faith that makes New Testament Churches; They that are of Faith, are the Children of faithful Abraham. They that are of Faith, the same are the Children of Abraham. So then the Seed being now spiritual, the Rule must needs be spiritual also, viz. The Word of Faith and Holiness.

This is the Gospel Concision Knife, sharper than any two-edged Sword; and that by which New-Testament Saints are circumcised in Heart, Ears, and Lips. For in Christ Jesus, no outward and circumstantial thing, but the new Creature; none subjects of the visible Kingdom of Christ but visible Saints by Calling: Now that which manifesteth a Person to be a visible Saint, must be Conformity to the Word of Faith and Holiness. And they that are Christ's, have crucified the Flesh with the Affections and Lusts. Harken how delightfully Paul handleth the Point: The new Creatures are the Israel of God. The new Creature hath a Rule by himself to walk by: And as many as walk according to this Rule, Peace be on them, and Mercy, and upon the Israel of God. Paul to the Philippians commandeth as much; where treating of his own Practice in the Doctrine of Faith and Holiness, requireth them to walk by the same Rule, to mind the same Thing. I desire to be found in Christ, saith he, I reach forward toward the things that are before; my Conversation is in Heaven, and flatly opposite to them, whose God is their Belly, who glory in their Shame, and who mind earthly things. Brethren, saith he, be ye Followers together with me; and mark them that walk so. Mark them; for what? For Persons that are to be received into Fellowship, and the choicest Communion of Saints. And indeed this is the safest Way to judge of the Meetness of Persons by: For take away the Confession of Faith and Holiness; and what can distinguish a Christian from a Turk? He that indeed receiveth Faith, and that squareth his Life by the royal, perfect, moral Precept; and that walketh there in the Joy and Peace of the Holy Ghost, no Man can reject him; he cannot be a Man if he object against him; not a Man in Christ; not a Man in Understanding. The Law is not made for a righteous Man; neither to debar him the Communion of Saints if he desire it, nor to cast him out if he were in. But for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for Sinners, for unholy and profane: For Murderers of Fathers, and for Murderers of Mothers, for Manslayers, for Whoremongers; for them that defile themselves with Man-kind, for Man-stealers, for perjured Persons; and if there be any other thing contrary to sound Doctrine, according to the glorious Gospel which is committed to my Trust, 1 Tim. 1. 9, 10, 11. Paul also, when he would leave an everlasting Conviction upon the Ephesians concerning his Faith and Holiness, treating first of the Sufficiency of Christ's Blood, and the Grace of God to save us; he adds, I have coveted no Man's Silver, or Gold, or Apparel, he bringeth them to the moral Precept, to prove the Sincerity of his good Conversation by, Acts 20. 28, 32, 33. And when Men have juggled juggled what they can, and made never such a Prattle about Religion; yet if their greatest Excellency, as to the Visibility of their Saintship, lieth in an outward Conformity to an outward Circumstance in Religion, their Profession is not worth two Mites. Let us walk honestly as in the day, not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness; not in strife and envy; but put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make no Provision for the flesh, to fulfil the Lusts thereof, Rom. 13. 13, 14. And it is observable, that after the Apostle had in the 9th and 10th verses of this chapter told us, that the moral Precept is the Rule of a good Conversation, and exhorted us to make no Provision for the Flesh; he adds, (these things provided) we may receive any that believe in Christ Jesus unto Communion with us; how weak soever and dark in circumstances; and chiefly designs the proof thereof in the remaining part of his Epistle. For he that is of sound Faith, and of Conversation honest in the World; no Man, however he may fail in circumstances, may lightly reproach or vilify him. And indeed such Persons are the Honour of christian Congregations. Indeed he is prejudiced, for Want of Light in those things about which he is dark, as of Baptism, or the like; but seeing that is not the initiating Ordinance, or the visible Character of a Saint; yea, seeing it maketh no Breach in a good and holy Life: nor intrencheth upon any Man's Right but his own; and seeing his Faith may be effectual without it, and his Life approved by the worst of his Enemies; why should his Friends, while he keeps the Law, dishonour God by breaking of the same? Speak not evil one of another Brethren; he that speaketh evil of his Brother, and judgeth his Brother, speaks evil of the Law, and judgeth the Law: But if thou judge the Law, thou art not a Doer of the Law, but a Judge, Jam. 4. 11. He that is judged, must needs fail somewhere in the Apprehension of him that judgeth him, else why is he judged. But he must fail in Substance, for then he is worthy to be judged, 1 Cor. 5. 12. His Failure is then in a Circumstance, for which he ought not to be judged.

Object. But notwithstanding all that you have said, Water baptism ought to go before Church-membership; shew me one in all the New Testament, that was received into fellowship without it.

Ans. 1. That Water-baptism hath formerly gone first is granted: But that it ought of necessity so to do, I never saw proof.

2. None ever received it without Light going before, unless they did play the Hypocrite: And besides no marvel though in the primitive Times it was so generally practiced first, for the unconverted themselves know, it belonged to the Disciples of Jesus Christ, John 1. 24, 25, 26, 27. Yet that all that were received into Fellowship were even then baptized first, would strain a weak Man's Wit to prove it, if Arguments were closely made upon these three Texts of holy Scriptures (1 Cor. 1. 14, 15, 16. Gal. 3. 27. Rom. 6. 3.) But I pass them, and say, If you can shew me the Christian, that in the primitive Times remained dark about it, I will shew you the Christian that was received without it.

But should I grant more than can be proved; viz. That Baptism were the initiating Ordinance; and that it once did, as Circumcision of old, give a Being of Membership to the Partakers; yea set the case that Men were forbidden then to enter into Fellowship without it: yet the case may so be, that these things notwithstanding Men might be received into Fellowship without it. All these things intailed to Circumcision; That was the initiating Ordinance; that gave Being of Membership; that was it without which it was positively commanded, none should be received into Fellowship, Jos. 5. Yet for all this more then six hundred thousand were received into the Church without it; yea received, and also retained there, and that by Moses and Joshua, even those to whom the Land was promised, when the uncircumcised were cut off. But why then were they not circumcised? Doubtless there was a Reason; either they wanted Time, or Opportunity, or Instruments, or something. But they could not render a bigger Reason than this, I have no Light therein: which is the cause at this Day that many a faithful Man denieth to take up the Ordinance of Baptism: But I say what ever the hindrance was, it mattereth not; our Brethren have a manifest one, an invincible one, one that all the Men on Earth, nor Angels in Heaven cannot remove; For it is God that createth Light; and for them to do it without Light would but prove them unfaithful to themselves, and make them Sinners against God; For whatsoever is not of Faith is Sin, Rom. 14. If therefore Moses and Joshua thought fit to communicate with six hundred thousand uncircumcised Persons; when by the Law not one such ought to have been received among them; why may not I have Communion, the closest Communion with visible Saints as afore described, although they want Light in, and so cannot submit to that, which of God was never made the Wall of Division betwixt us. I shall therefore hold Communion with such.

First, Because the true visible Saint hath already subjected to that which is better; even to the Righteousness of God, which is by Faith of Jesus Christ; by which he stands just before God; he also hath made the most exact and strict Rule under Heaven, ven, that whereby he squares his Life before Men. He hath like precious Faith with the best of Saints, and a Conversation according to Light received, becoming the Gospel of Christ: He is therefore to be received, received I say, not by thy Light, not for that in Circumstances he jumpeth with thy Opinion; but according to his own Faith which he ought to keep to himself before God. Conscience I say, not thine own, but of the other; For why is my Liberty judged by another Man's Conscience, 1 Cor. 10. 29. Some indeed do object, that what the Apostles wrote, they wrote to gathered Churches, and so to such as were baptized. And therefore the Arguments that are in the Epistles about things circumstantial, respect not the case in hand. But I will tell such, that as to the first part of their Objection, they are utterly under a Mistake. The first to the Corinthians, the Epistle of James, both them of Peter, and the first Epistle of John, were expressly written to all the Godly, as well as particular Churches. Again; if Water-baptism, as the Circumstances with which the Churches were pestered of old, trouble their Peace, wound the Consciences of the Godly, dismember and break their Fellowships; it is although an Ordinance for the present to be prudently shunned; for the Edification of the Church as I shall shew anon, is to be preferred before it.

Secondly, and observe it; One Spirit, one Hope, one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, (not of Water, for by one Spirit are we all Baptized into one Body) one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all; is a sufficient rule for us to hold Communion by, and also to endeavour the maintaining that Communion, and to keep it in Unity, within the Bond of Peace against all Attempts whatsoever, Eph. 4. 1. 6. 1 Cor. 12. 16.

Thirdly, I am bold therefore to have Communion with such, Heb. 6. 2. Because they also have the Doctrine of Baptisms: I say the Doctrine of them; For here you must note, I distinguish between the Doctrine and Practice of Water-baptism; The Doctrine being that which by the outward Sign is presented to us, or which by the outward Circumstance of the Act is preached to the Believer: viz. The Death of Christ; My Death with Christ; also his Resurrection from the Dead, and mine with him to Newness of Life. This is the Doctrine which Baptism preacheth, or that which by the outward Action is signified to the believing Receiver. Now I say, he that believeth in Jesus Christ; that richer and better than that, viz. is dead to Sin, and that lives to God by him, he hath the Heart, Power and Doctrine of Baptism; all then that he wanteth, is but the Sign, the Shadow, or the outward Circumstance thereof; Nor yet is that despised but forborn for want of Light: The best of Baptisms he hath; he is baptized by that one Spirit; he hath the heart of Water-baptism, he wanteth only the outward Shew, which if he had would not prove him a truly visible Saint; it would not tell me he had Grace in his Heart: It is no Characteristical Note to another, of my Sonship with God; Indeed 'tis a Sign to the Person Baptized, and an Help to his own Faith; he should know by that Circumstance, that he hath received Remission of Sins; if his Faith be as true, as his being baptized is felt by him. But if for want of Light, he partake not of that Sign, his Faith can see it in other things, exceeding great and precious Promises. Yea, as I also have hinted already, if he appear not a Brother before, he appeareth not a Brother by that: And those that shall content themselves to make that the Note of visible Church-membership; I doubt make things not much better, the Note of their Sonship with God.

Fourthly, I am bold to hold Communion with visible Saints as afore; because God hath Communion with them; whose Example in the case, we are streightly commanded to follow. Receive you one another as Christ Jesus hath received you, saith Paul, to the Glory of God, Rom. 15. 1-6. Yea, though they be Saints of Opinions contrary to you; though it goeth against the Mind of them that are strong. We that are strong ^{The} ought to bear the Infirmities of the Weak; Strongest and not to please our selves. What Infirmities? Those that are natural are incident ^{may some-} to all, they are Infirmities then that are ^{times be} sinful, that cause a Man for want of Light, ^{out of the} to err in circumstantials; And the Reason upon which he grounds this Admonition is, that Christ pleased not himself; but as it is written, the Reproaches of them that reproached thee, have fallen upon me. You say, to have Communion with such weak Brethren, reproacheth your Opinions, and Practice; Grant it, your Dulness and Deadness, and Imperfections also reproach the Holiness of God; If you say no, for Christ hath born our Sins; The Answer is still the same, Their Sins also are fallen upon Christ; He then that hath taken away thy Sins from before the Throne of God; hath taken away their Shortness in conformity to an outward circumstance in Religion. Both your infirmities are fallen upon Christ; yea, if notwithstanding thy great Sins, thou standest by Christ compleat before the Throne of God; why may not thy Brother, notwithstanding his little ones, stand compleat before thee in the Church.

Vain Man! Think not by the Streightness of thine Order, in outward and bodily conformity, to outward and shadowish circumstances, that thy Peace is maintained with God, for Peace with God is by Faith in the Blood of his Cross; who hath born the Reproaches of you both. Wherefore he that hath Communion with God for Christ's sake, is as good and as worthy of the Communion of Saints as thy self. He erreth in a circumstance, thou erreth in a substance; who must bear these Errors? Upon whom must these Reproaches fall? Phil. 1. 10. Some of the things of God that are excellent, have not been approved by some of the Saints: What then? Must these for this be cast out of the Church? No, these Reproaches by which the Wisdom of Heaven is reproached have fallen upon me, saith Christ. But to return; God hath received him, Christ hath received him, therefore do you receive him. There is more Solidity in this Argument, than if all the Churches of God had received him. This receiving then, because it is set an Example to the Church, is such as must needs be visible to them; and is best described by that Word which discovereth the visible Saint: Whoso therefore you can by the Word, judge a visible Saint, one that walketh with God; you may judge by the self same Word that God hath received him. Now him that God receiveth and holdeth Communion with, him you should receive and hold Communion with. Will any say we cannot believe that God hath received any but such as are Baptized? I will not suppose a Brother so stupified; and therefore to that I will not answer.

Receive him to the Glory of God; [To the Glory of God] is put in on purpose, to shew what Dishonour they bring to God, who despise to have Communion with them; who yet they know have Communion with God. For how doth this Man, or that Church, glorify God, or count the Wisdom and Holiness of Heaven beyond them, when they refuse Communion with them, concerning whom, they are by the Word convinced, that they have Communion with God.

Now the God of Patience and Consolation grant you to be like minded one towards another, according to Christ Jesus, Rom. 15. 5. By this Word Patience, Paul insinuateth how many imperfections, the choicest Christians do mingle their best Performances with. And by this of Consolation, how readily God overlooks, passeth by them, and comforteth you notwithstanding. Now that this Mind should be in Christians one to another, is manifest; because Paul prays that it might be so. But this is an heavenly Gift, and therefore must be fetched from thence. But let the Patience of God, and the Willingness of Christ, to bear the Reproaches of the weak, and the Consolations that they have in God, notwithstanding, moderate your Passions and put you upon Prayer, to be minded like Jesus Christ.

Fifthly, Because a Failure in such a Circumstance as Water, doth not unchristian us; This must needs be granted, not onely from what was said before; but for that thousands of thousands that could not consent thereto as we have, more gloriously than we are like to do acquitted themselves and their christianity before Men, and are now with the innumerable Company of Angels and the Spirits of just Men made perfect: What is said of Eating, or the contrary, may as to this be said of Water Baptism. Neither if I be Baptized, am I the better, neither if I be not, am I the worse: Not the better before God; not the worse before Men: still meaning as Paul doth, provided I walk according to my Light with God: otherwise 'tis false; For if a man that seeth it to be his Duty shall despisingly neglect it; or if he that hath no Faith therein shall foolishly take it up; both these are for this the worse, being convicted in themselves for Transgressors. He therefore that doth it according to his Light, doth well, and he that doth it not, or dare not do it for Want of Light, doth not ill; for he approveth his heart to be sincere with God; he dare not do any thing but by Light in the Word. If therefore he be not by Grace a Partaker of Light, in that Circumstance which thou professest; yet he is a Partaker of that Liberty and Mercy by which thou standest. He hath Liberty to call God Father, as thou: And to believe he shall be saved by Jesus: His Faith, as thine, hath purified his Heart: He is tender of the Glory of God as thou art: and can claim by Grace an Interest in Heaven; which thou must not do because of Water: Ye are both then Christians before God and Men without it: He that can, let him preach to himself by that: He that cannot, let him preach to himself by the Promises; But yet let us rejoyce in God together; let us exalt his Name together. Indeed the Baptized can thank God for that, for which another cannot; But may not he that is unbaptized thank God for that which the baptized cannot? Wouldest thou be content that I should judge thee, because thou canst not for my Light give Thanks with me? Why then should he judge me for that I cannot give thanks with him for his? Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that no man put a stumbling block, or Occasion of Offence in his Brother's Way, Rom. 14. 13. And seeing the things wherein we exceed each other, are such as neither make nor marr Christianity; let us love one another and walk together by that glorious Rule above specified, leaving each other in all such Circumstances to our own Master; to our own Faith. Who art thou that judgest another Man's Servant: To his own Master he standeth or falleth; yea he shall be holden up, for God is able to make him stand, Rom. 14. 4.

Sixthly, I am therefore for holding Communion thus, because the Edification of Souls in the Faith and Holiness of the Gospel, pel, is of greater concernment, then an Agreement in outward things; I say, 'tis of greater Concernment with us, and of far more Profit to our Brother; than our agreeing in, or contesting for the Business of Water-baptism, John 16. 13. 1 Cor. 14. 26. 2 Cor. 10. 8. chap. 12. 19. Eph. 4. 12. 2 Tim. 10. 17. 1 Cor. 8. 1. chap. 13. 1, 2. That the Edification of the Soul, is of the greatest Concern, is out of measure evident because Heaven and eternal Happiness are so immediately concerned therein. Besides, this is that for which Christ died, for which the Holy Ghost was given, yea for which the Scriptures and the Gifts of all the Godly are given to the Church; yea and if Gifts are not bent to this very Work, the Persons are said to be proud or uncharitable that have them; and stand but for Cyphers or worse among the Churches of God. Farther, Edification is that that cherisheth all Grace, and maketh the Christians quick and lively, and maketh Sin lean and dwindling, and filleth the Mouth with Thanksgiving to God. But to contest with gracious Men, with Men that walk with God; to shut such out of the Churches; because they will not sin against their Souls, rendereth thee uncharitable, Rom. 14. 15, 20. Thou seekest to destroy the Word of God; thou begetteth Contentions, Janglings, Murmurings, and evil Surmisings, thou minisrest occasion for Whisperings, Backbitings, Slanders and the like, rather than godly edifying; contrary to the whole current of the Scriptures and Peace of all Communities. Let us therefore leave off these Contentions, and follow after things that make for Peace, and things wherewith one may edify another, Rom. 14. 19. And know that the Edification of the Church of God dependeth not upon, neither is tied to this or that Circumstance. Especially when there are in the Hearts of the Godly, different Perswasions about it; then it becometh them in the Wisdom of God, to take more care for their Peace and Unity; than to widen or make large their uncomfortable Differences.

Although Aaron transgressed the Law, because he eat not the Sin offering of the People; yet seeing he could not do it with Satisfaction to his own Conscience, Moses was content that he left it undone, Lev. 10. 16---20.

Joshua was so zealous against Eldad and Medad, for prophesying in the Camp, without first going to the Lord to the Door of the Tabernacle, as they were commanded, that he desired Moses to forbid them, Num. 11. 16---26. But Moses calls his Zeal Envy, and prays to God for more such Prophets; knowing that although they failed in a circumstance, they were right in that which was better. The Edification of the People in the camp was that which pleased Moses.

In Hezekiah's Time, though the People

came to the Passover in an undue manner, and did eat it otherwise than it was written; yet the wise King would not forbid them, but rather admitted it, knowing that their Edification was of greater concern, than to hold them to a Circumstance or two, 2 Chron. 30. 13---27. Yea God himself did like the Wisdom of the King, and healed, that is, forgave the People at the Prayer of Hezekiah. And observe it, notwithstanding this Disorder, as to circumstances, the Feast was kept with great Gladness; and the Levites and the Priests praised the Lord day by day, singing with loud Instruments unto the Lord; yea, there was not the like Joy in Jerusalem from the time of Solomon unto that same time. What shall we say, all things must give place to the Profit of the People of God. Yea sometimes Laws themselves, for their outward Preservation, much more for godly edifying: When Christ's Disciples plucked the Ears of Corn on the Sabbath (no doubt for very Hunger) and were rebuked by the Pharisees for it, as for that which was unlawful; how did their Lord succour them? By excusing them, and rebuking their Adversaries. Have ye not read, said he, what David did when he was an hungred, and they that were with him, how he entered into the House of God, and did eat the shew-bread, which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them that were with him, but for the Priests only; or have ye not read in the Law, how that on the Sabbath-Day, the Priests in the Temple profaned the Sabbath, and were blameless. Why blameless? Because they did it in order to the Edification of the People, Mat. 12. 1---6. If Laws and Ordinances of old have been broken, and the Breach of them born with (when yet the Observance of outward things was more strictly commanded than now) when the Profit and Edification of the People came in competition, how much more may not we have Communion, Church-communion, where no Law is transgressed thereby.

Seventhly, therefore I am for holding Communion thus, because Love, which above all things we are commanded to put on, is of much more worth than to break about Baptism; Love is also more discovered when it receiveth for the sake of Christ and Grace, than when it refuseth for Want of Water: And observe it, as I have also said before, this Exhortation to Love is grounded upon the putting on of the new Creature; which new Creature hath swallowed up all Distinctions, that have before been common among the Churches. As I am a Jew, you are a Greek; I am circumcised, you are not: I am free, you are bound. Because Christ was all in all these, Put on therefore, saith he, (as the elect of God, holy and beloved) Bowels of Mercies, Kindness, Humbleness of Mind, Long-suffering, that is, with reference to the Infirmities of the Weak,

Weak, forbearing one another, and forgiving one another. If any Man have a Quarrel against any, even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye: And above all things put on Charity, which is the Bond of Perfectness, Col. 3. 8 to 15. Which forbearing and forgiving respecteth not only private and personal Injuries, but also Errors in Judgment about Inclinations and Distinctions tending to Divisions, and separating upon the Grounds laid down in v. 11th, which how little soever they now seem to us who are beyond them, were strong, and of Weight to them who in that Day were intangled with them. Some Saints then were not free to preach to any but the Jews: denying the Word of Life to the Gentiles, and contending with them who preferred it to them: which was a greater Error than this of Baptism, Acts 11. 1, 2, 3---19. But what should we do with such kind of Saints? Why love them still, forgive them, bear with them, and maintain Church-communion with them. Why, because they are new Creatures, because they are Christ's: For these swallow up all Distinctions. Farther, because they are elect and beloved of God. Divisions and Distinctions are of shorter Date than Election; let not them therefore that are but momentary, and hatch'd in Darkness, break that Bond that is from everlasting. It is Love, not Baptism, that discovereth us to the World to be Christ's Disciples. It is Love, that is the undoubted Character of our Interest in, and Son-ship with God: I mean when we love as Saints, and desire Communion with others, because they have Fellowship one with another, in their Fellowship with God the Father, and his Son Jesus Christ, 1 John 1. 2. And now though the Truth and Sincerity of our Love to God, be then discovered when we keep his Commandments, in Love to his Name; yet we should remember again, that the two head and chief Commandments, are Faith in Jesus, and Love to the Brethren, 1 John 3. 23. So then he that pretendeth to Love, and yet seeks not the Profit of his Brother in chief; he loveth, but they are his own Opinions and froward Notions, Jam. 4. 11. Rom. 14. 21. Love is the fulfilling of the Law; but he fulfils it not who judgeth and setteth at nought his Brother; that stumbleth, offendeth, and maketh weak his Brother, and all for the sake of a circumstance, that to which he cannot consent, except he sin against his own Soul, or Papist like, live by an implicit Faith. Love therefore is sometimes more seen and shewed, in forbearing to urge and press what we know, than in publishing and imposing. I could not, saith Paul (Love would not let me) speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, even as unto Babes in Christ: I have fed you with Milk and not with strong Meat, for hitherto you have not been able to bear it, nei-

The Apostle considered not only the Knowledge that he had in the Mysteries of Christ; but the Temper, the Growth, and Strength of the Churches, and accordingly kept back, or communicated to them, what might be for their profit, Acts 20: 18, 19, 20. So Christ, I have many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. It may be some will count these old and threadbare Texts; but such must know, that the Word of the Lord must stand for ever, Isa. 40. 8. And I should dare to say to such, if the best of thy new Shifts, be to slight, and abuse old Scriptures; it shews thou art more fond of thy unwarrantable Opinion, than swift to hear, and ready to yield to the Authority that is unfallible. But to conclude this, when we attempt to force our Brother beyond his Light, or to break his Heart with Grief, to thrust him beyond his Faith, or to bar him from his Privilege: how can we say, I love? What shall I say? To have Fellowship one with another for the sake of an outward circumstance, or to make that the Door to Fellowship which God hath not; yea to make that the including, excluding Charter: The Bounds, Bar, and Rule of Communion, when by the Word of everlasting Testament there is no warrant for it (to speak charitably) if it be not for Want of Love, it is for want of Knowledge in the Mysteries of the Kingdom of Christ. Strange! Take two Christians equal in all Points but this, nay, let one go beyond the other far, for Grace and Holiness; yet this circumstance of Water shall drown and sweep away all his Excellencies, not counting him worthy of that Reception, that with Hand and Heart shall be given a Novice in Religion, because he consents to Water.

Eighthly, But for God's People to divide into Parties, or to shut each other from Church-communion; though from greater Points, and upon higher Pretences, than this of Water-baptism; bath heretofore been counted carnal, and the actors herein babish Christians: Paul and Apollos, Cephas, and Christ, were doubtless higher things than those about which we contend: yet when they made Divisions for them; how sharply are they rebuked? Are ye not carnal, carnal, carnal? For whereas there are among you, Envyings, Strife, Divisions, or Factions: are you not carnal, 1 Cor. 1. 11, 12. chap. 3. 1, 2, 3, 4. While one saith, I am of Paul, and another I am of Apollos, are you not carnal? See therefore from whence arise all thy Endeavours, Zeal and Labour to accomplish Divisions among the Godly; Let Paul or Cephas, or Christ himself be the Burthen of thy Song, yet the Heart from whence they flow is carnal; and thy Actions, Discoveries of Childishness. But doubtless when these Contentions were among among the Corinthians, and one Man vilified, that another might be promoted; a lift with a carnal Brother, was thought great Wisdom to widen the Breach. But why should he be rebuked, that said he was for Christ? Because he was for him in Opposition to his Holy Apostles. Hence he saith, Is Christ divided, or separate from his Servants? Note therefore that these Divisions are deserted by the Persons the Divisions were made about; Neither Paul, nor Apollos, nor Cephas, nor Christ is here. Let the Cry be never so loud, Christ, Order, the Rule, the Command, or the like; Carnality is but the Bottom, and they are but Babes that do it; their Zeal is but a Puff, 1 Cor. 4. 6. And observe it, the great Division at Corinth, was helped forward by Water-baptism: This the Apostle intimates by, Were ye Baptized in the Name of Paul? Ah, Brethren! Carnal Christians with outward circumstances, will, if they be let alone, make sad work in the Churches of Christ, against the spiritual Growth of the same. But I thank God, saith Paul, that I Baptized none of you, &c. Not but that it was then an Ordinance of God, but they abused it, in making Parties thereby. I Baptized none of you, but Crispus and Gaius, and the Household of Stephanus; Men of Note among the Brethren, Men of good Judgment, and revered by the rest; they can tell you I intended not to make a Party to my self thereby. Besides I know not whether I Baptized any other. By this negligent relating, who were Baptized by him; he sheweth that he made no such matter of Baptism, as some in these Days do; nay, that he made no matter at all thereof, with respect to Church-communion; for if he did not heed who himself had baptized; he much less heeded, who were baptized by others; but if Baptism had been the initiating, or entring Ordinance, and so appointed of God; no doubt he had made more Conscience thereof, than so lightly to pass it over. For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the Gospel. The Gospel then may be effectually preached, and yet Baptism neither administered nor mentioned. The Gospel being good Tidings to Sinners, upon the Account of free Grace through Christ; but Baptism with things of like Nature, are Duties enjoined such a People who received the Gospel before: I speak not this, because I would teach Men to break the least of the Commandments of God; but to persuade my Brethren of the baptized way, not to hold too much thereupon, not to make it an Essential of the Gospel of Christ, nor yet of Communion of Saints. He sent me not to baptize: These Words are spoken with holy Indignation against them that abuse this Ordinance of Christ. So when he speaketh of the Ministers themselves, which also they had abused; in his speaking he as it were, trampleth upon them, as if they were nothing at all. Who then is Paul? and who is Apollos? He that planteth is not anything, neither is he that watereth, but God that giveth the Increase, 1 Cor. 3. 5. 7. Yet for all this, the Ministers and their Ministry are a glorious Appointment of God in the World. Baptism also is a holy Ordinance, but when Satan abuseth it, and wrencheth it out of its place; making that which was ordained of God for the Edification of Believers, the only Weapon to break in pieces the Love, the Unity, the Concord of Saints; then what is Baptism; then neither is Baptism any thing. And this is no new Doctrine; For God by the Mouth of his Prophets of old, cried out against his own Institutions, when abused by his People: To what Purpose is the Multitude of your Sacrifices to me, saith the Lord? I am full of burnt offerings of Rams, and the Fat of fed Beasts: I delight not in the Blood of Bullocks, or of Lambs, or of He-Goats: When you come to appear before me, who hath required these things at your Hands, to tread my Courts? Bring no more vain Oblations, Incense is an Abomination to me: The new Moons and the Sabbaths, and the calling of Assemblies, I cannot away with; it is Iniquity, even the solemn Meeting. Your new Moons, and your appointed Feasts my Soul hateth, they are a Trouble unto me, I am even weary to bear them, Isa. 1. 11 to 15. And yet all these were his own Appointments. But why then did he thus abhor them? Because they retained the Evil of their Doings, and used them as they did other of his Appointments, viz. For Strife and Debate, and to strike with the Fist of Wickedness, chap. 58. 4. Wherefore when that of God that is great, is overweighed by that which is small; it is the Wisdom of them that see it, to put Load to the other End of the Scale; until the things thus abused, poise in their own place. But to pass this and proceed.

Ninthly, If we shall reject visible Saints by calling, Saints that have Communion with God, that have received the Law, at the Hand of Christ, that are of holy conversation among Men; they desiring to have Communion with us, as much as in us lieth, we take from them their very Privilege, and the Blessings to which they are born of God: For Paul saith not only to the gathered Church at Corinth, but to all scattered Saints that in every Place call upon the Name of the Lord; That Jesus Christ is theirs, That Paul and Apollos, and the World, and Life, and Death, and all things are theirs, because they are Christ's, and Christ is God's. But saith he, let no Man glory in Men, such as Paul and Cephas, though these were excellent: because this Privilege comes to you upon another Bottom, even by Faith of Jesus Christ. Drink you all of this, is intailed to Faith, not Baptism: Nay Baptized Persons may yet yet be excluded this: when he that discerneth the Lord's Body hath Right and Privilege to it, 1 Cor. 11. 28, 29. But to exclude Christians from Church-communion and to debar them their Heaven-born Privileges, for the want of that which yet God never made a Wall of Division between us.

1. This looks too like a Spirit of Persecution, Job 19. 25, to 29.

2. It respecteth more a Form, than the Spirit and Power of Godliness, 2 Tim.

3. 5.

3. This is to make Laws, where God hath made none, and to be wise above what is written; contrary to God's Word, and our own Principles.

4. It is a directing of the Spirit of God.

5. It bindeth all Mens Faith and Light to mine Opinion.

6. It taketh away the Childrens Bread.

7. It withholdeth from them the Increase of Faith.

8. It tendeth to harden the Hearts of the Wicked.

9. It tendeth to make wicked the Hearts of weak Christians.

10. It setteth open a Door to all Temptations.

11. It tempteth the Devil to fall upon those that are alone, and have none to help them.

12. It is the Nursery of all vain Janglings, Backbitings, and Strangeness among the Christians.

13. It occasioneth the World to reproach us.

14. It holdeth staggering Consciences, in doubt of the right way of the Lord.

15. It giveth Occasion to many to turn aside to most dangerous Heresies.

16. It abuseth the holy Scriptures; It wresteth God's Ordinances out of their place.

17. It is a Prop to Antichrist.

18. Shall I add, Is it not that which greatly prevailed to bring down these judgments, which at present we feel and groan under; I will dare to say, it was the Cause thereof.

Tenthly, and lastly, Bear with one Word farther: What greater Contempt can be thrown upon the Saints, than for their Brethren to cast them off, or to debar them Church-communion? Think you not that the World may groundly say, Some great Iniquity lyes hid in the Skirts of your Brethren; when in Truth the Transgression is yet your own? But I say what can the Church do more to the Sinners or open prophane? Civil commerce you will have with the worst, and what more have you with these? Perhaps you will say we can pray and preach with these; and hold them Christians, Saints, and Godly. Well but let me ask you one Word farther: Do you believe, that of very conscience, they cannot consent, as you, to that of Water-Baptism? And that if they had Light therein, they would as willingly do it as you? Why then, as I have shewed you, our Refusal to hold Communion with them is without a Ground from the Word of God.

But can you commit your Soul to their Ministry, and joyn with them in Prayer; and yet not count them meet for other Gospel Privileges? I would know by what Scripture you do it? Perhaps you will say, I commit not my Soul to their Ministry, only hear them occasionally for Trial. If this be all the Respect thou hast for them and their Ministry, thou mayest have as much for the worst that pisseth against the Wall. But if thou canst hear them as God's Ministers, and sit under their Ministry as God's Ordinance; then shew me where God hath such a Gospel Ministry, as that the Persons ministring may not, though desiring it, be admitted with you to the closest Communion of Saints. But if thou sittest under their Ministry for fleshly politick ends; thou hearest the Word like an Atheist, and art thy self, while thou judgest thy Brother in the Practice of the worst of Men. But I say, where do you find this peicemeal Communion with Men that profess Faith and Holiness as you, and Separation from the World.

If you object, that my Principles lead me to have Communion with all; I answer with all as afore described; if they will have Communion with me.

Object. Then you may have Communion with the Members of Antichrist.

Ans. If there be a visible Saint yet remaining in that Church; let him come to us, and we will have Communion with him.

Quest. What, Though he yet stand a Member of that sinful Number, and profess himself one of them?

Ans. You suppose an Impossibility; For it cannot be that at the same time, a Man should visibly stand a Member of two Bodies diametrically opposite one to another. Wherefore it must be supposed, that he who professeth himself a Member of a Church of Christ; must forthwith, nay before, forsake the Antichristian one: The which if he refuseth to do, is evident he doth not sincerely desire to have Fellowship with the Saints.

But he saith he cannot see that that Company to which you stand opposite, and conclude Antichristian, is indeed the Antichristian Church.

If so, he cannot desire to join with another, if he know them to be professedly and directly opposite.

I hold therefore to what I said at first; That if there be any Saints in the Antichristian Church, my Heart, and the Door of our Congregation is open to receive them, into closest Fellowship with us.

Object.

Object. But how if they yet retain some Antichristian Principles?

Ans. If they be such as eat out the Bowels of a Church, so soon as they are detected, he must either be kept out, while out, or cast out, if in: For it must be the Prudence of every Community, to preserve its own Unity with Peace and Truth: The which the Churches of Christ may do; and yet as I have shewed already, receive such Persons as differ upon the Point of Water-baptism: For the doing or not doing of that, neither maketh nor marreth, the Bowels or Foundation of Church Communion.

Object. But this is receiving for Opinion sake; as before you said of us.

Ans. No, We receive him for the sake of Christ, and Grace, and for our mutual Edification in the Faith; and that we respect not Opinions, I mean in lesser matters, 'tis evident; for things wherein we differ are no breach of Communion among us; We let every Man have his own Faith in such things to himself before God.

I now come to a short Application.

1. Keep a strict Separation, I pray you, from Communion with the open Prophane; and let no Man use his liberty in Church Relation, as an Occasion to the Flesh; but in Love serve one another; Looking diligently least any Root of Bitterness (any poisonous Herb, Deut. 29. 18.) springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled. And let those that before were reasons for my Separation; be Motives to you to maintain the like: and remember that when Men have said what they can for a sinful Mixture in the Worship of God; the Arm of the Lord is made bare against it.

2. In the midst of your Zeal for the Lord, remember that the visible Saint is his; and is privileged in all those spiritual Things, that you have in the Word, and live in the Practice of, and that he is to partake thereof, according to his Light therein. Quarrel not with him about things that are circumstantial; but receive him in the Lord as becometh Saints; if he will not have Communion with you, the Neglect is his, not yours. But saith the open prophane; why cannot we be reckoned Saints also? We have been christened, we go to Church, we take the Communion. Poor People! This will not do; for so long as in Life and Conversation you appear to be open prophane; we cannot unless we sin, receive you into our Fellowship: For by your ungodly Lives you shew that you know not Christ; and while you are such by the Word, you are reputed but Beasts: Now then judge your selves, if it be not a strange Community that con-sisteth of Men and Beasts: Let Beasts be with the Beasts, you know your selves do so; you receive not your Horse nor your Hog to your Table; you put them in a room by themselves. Besides I have shewed you before, that for many Reasons we cannot have Communion with you.

1. The Church of God must be Holy, Lev. 11. 44. chap. 19. 2. chap. 20. 7. 1 Pet. 1. 15, 16. Isa. 26. 2. Psal. 128. 20. Ezek. 43. 12. chap. 44. 9. Isa. 52. 11.

2. The Example of the Churches of Christ before, hath been a Community of visible Saints, Rom. 1. 7. 1 Cor. 1. 2. Eph. 1. 1, 2. Col. 1. 1. 1 Thes. 1. 1, 2. 2 Thes. 1. 1.

1. Poor carnal Man, there are many other reasons urged in this little Book, that shew why we cannot have Communion with thee: Not that we refuse of Pride or Stoutness, or because we scorn you as Men: No, we pity you, and pray to God for you; and could if you were converted, with Joy receive you to Fellowship with us: Did you never read in Daniel, That Iron is not mixed with miry Clay? Dan. 2. 43. No more can the Saints with you, in the Worship of God, and Fellowship of the Gospel. When those you read of in the fourth of Ezra, attempted to joyn in Temple Work with the Children of the Captivity; what said the Children of Judah? you have nothing to do with us, to build an House to the Lord our God; but we our selves together will build unto the Lord God of Israel, &c. Ezra 4. 1, 2, 3.

I return now to those that are visible Saints by Calling, that stand at a Distance one from another, upon the accounts before specified: Brethren: Close; close; Be one as the Father and Christ is one.

1. This is the Way to convince the World that you are Christ's, and the Subjects of one Lord; whereas the contrary makes them doubt it, John 13. 34, 35. John 17. 23.

2. This is the Way to increase Love; that Grace so much desired by some, and so little enjoyed by others, 2 Cor. 7. 14, 15.

3. This is the Way to favour and taste the Spirit of God in each others experience; for which if you find it in truth you cannot but bless (if you be Saints) the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, 1 Thes. 1. 2, 3. 4.

4. This is the Way to increase Knowledge, or to see more in the Word of God: For that may be known by two; that is not seen by one, Isa. 52. 8.

5. This is the Way to remove secret jealousies, and murmurings one against the other; yea this is the Way to prevent much Sin, and greatly to frustrate that design of Hell, Prov. 6. 16, to 20.

6. This is the Way to bring them out of the World into Fellowship, that now stand off from our Gospel privileges, for the sake fake of our vain janglings.

7. This is the Way to make Antichrist shake, totter and tremble, Isa. 11. 13. 14.

8. This is the Way to leave Babylon, as an Habitation for Devils only; and to make it an hold for foul Spirits, and a Cage only for every unclean and hateful Bird.

9. This is the Way to hasten the Work of Christ's Kingdom in the World; and to forward his coming to the eternal Judgment.

10. And this is the Way to obtain much of that, Well done, Good and Faithful Servant, when you stand before his Face.

I beseech you Brethren suffer the Word of Exhortation; for I have written a Letter unto you in few Words, Heb. 13. 22.

Differences in Judgment about WATER-BAPTISM, no Bar to Communion:

O R,
To Communicate with Saints, as Saints, proved lawful.

In Answer to a Book written by the Baptists, and published by Mr. T. P. and Mr. W. K. entituled, Some serious Reflections on that Part of Mr. Bunyan's Confession of Faith, touching Church-communion with unbaptized Believers.

Wherein their Objections and Arguments are answered, and the Doctrine of Communion still asserted and vindicated. Here is also Mr. Henry Jesse's Judgment in the Case, fully declaring the Doctrine I have asserted.

Should not the Multitude of Words be answered? And should a Man full of Talk be justified? Should thy Lies make Men hold their Peace? And when thou mockest, shall no Man make thee an Answer? Job 11. 2, 3.

I am for Peace, but when I speak they are for War, Psal. 120. 7.

COURTEOUS READER,

BE intreated to believe me, I had not set Pen to Paper about this Controversy, had we been let alone at quiet in our Christian Communion. But being assaulted for more than sixteen Years, wherein the Brethren of the baptized Way (as they had their Opportunity) have sought to break us in pieces, merely because we are not in their Way all baptized first: I could not, I durst not, forbear to do a little, if it might be, to settle the Brethren, and to arm them against the Attempts, which also of late they begin to revive upon us. That I deny the Ordinance of Baptism, or that I have placed one piece of an Argument against it (though they feign it) is quite without colour of Truth. All I say, is, That the Church of Christ hath not Warrant to keep out of their Communion the Christian that is discovered to be a visible Saint by the Word, the Christian that walketh according to his Light with God. I will not make Reflections upon those unhandsome Brands that my Brethren have laid upon me for this, as that I am a Machivilian, a Man devilish, proud, insolent, presumptuous, and the like; neither will I say as they, The Lord rebuke thee; Words fitter to be spoke to the Devil than a Brother. But Reader, read and compare, lay aside Prejudice and judge. What Mr. Kiffin hath done in the matter I forgive, and love him never the worse, but must stand by my Principles because they are peaceable, godly, profitable, and such as tend to the Edification of my Brother, and as I believe will be justified in the Day of Judgment.

I have also here presented thee with the Opinion of Mr. Henry Jesse, in the Case, which providentially I met with, as I was coming to London to put my Papers to the Press; and that it was his Judgment is asserted to me, known many Years since to some of the Baptists, to whom it was sent, but never yet answered; and will yet be attested if need shall require. Farewel.

Thine in all Christian Service, according to my Light and Power,

John Bunyan.

Differences in Judgment about Water-Baptism, &c.

S I R,

YOUR seemingly serious Reflections upon that part of my plain-hearted Confession of Faith, which rendreth a Reason of my Freedom to communicate with those of the Saints and Faithful, who differ from me about Water-Baptism, I have read, and considered, and have weighed them so well as my Rank and Abilities will admit me to do. But finding yours (if I mistake not) far short of a candid Replication, I thought convenient, not only to tell you of those Impertinencies every where scattered up and down in your Book; but also, that in my simple opinion, your rigid and Church-disquieting Principles are not fit for any Age and State of the Church.

But before I enter the body of your Book, give me leave a little to discourse you about your Preamble to the same, wherein are two Miscarriages unworthy your pretended Seriousness, because void of Love and Humility.

The first is, In that you closely disdain my Person, because of my low Descent among Men, stigmatizing me for a Person of THAT Rank, that need not to be heeded, or attended unto, page 1.

Ans. What it is that gives a Man Reverence with you, I know not; but for certain, He that despiseth the Poor, reproacheth his Maker; yet a poor Man is better than a Liar. To have gay cloathing, or Gold Rings, or the Persons that wear them in Admiration; or to be partial in your Judgment, or Respects, for the Sake, or upon the Account of Flesh and Blood, doubtless convicteth you to be of the Law a Transgressor, and not without Partiality, &c. in the midst of your seeming Sanctity.

Again you say: I had not meddled with the Controversy at all, had I found any of parts that would divert themselves to take Notice of YOU, page 2.

A. What need you, before you have shewed one Syllable of a reasonable Argument in Opposition to what I assert, thus trample my Person, my Gifts, and Grace (have I any) so disdainfully under your Feet? What a kind of YOU am I? And why is MY Rank so mean, that the most gracious and godly among you, may not duly and soberly consider of what I have said? Was it not the Art of the false Apostles of old to say thus? To belpatter a Man, that his Doctrine might be disregarded. Is not this the Carpenter? And, His things that are not, to bring to nought things that are? Why then do you despise my Rank, my State, and Quality in the World?

As for my Confession of Faith, which you also secretly despise, page 1. If it be good, and godly, why may it not be accepted? If I have spoken evil, bear Witness of the evil; but if well why smitest thou me? If you and the Brethren of your way, did think it convenient to shew to the World what you held; if perhaps by that means you might escape the Prison: why might not I, after above 11 years indurance there, give the World a view of my Faith and Practice; if peradventure, wrong Thoughts, and false Judgments of me, might by that means be abated, and removed.

But you suggest; I did it, because I was so willing to be known in the World by my SINGULAR Faith, and Practice.

How singular my Faith and Practice is, may be better known to you hereafter: but that I did it for a popular Applause and Fame, as your Words seem to bear (for they proceed from a Taunting Spirit) that will be known to you better in the Day of God, when your evil Surmizes of your Brother, and my designs in writing my Book, will be published upon the House-tops. Luke 12.

And even now, before I go any further, I will give you a touch of the Reason of my publishing that part thereof which you so hotly oppose. 1, 2, 3, 4.

It was because of those continual Assaults that the rigid Brethren of your way, made, not only upon this Congregation, to rent it; but also upon many others about us: If peradventure they might break us in pieces, and draw from us Disciples after them.

Assaults (I say) upon this Congregation by times, for no less than these sixteen or eighteen years: Yea, my self they have sent for, and endeavoured to persuade me to break Communion with my Brethren; also also with many others they have often tampered, if haply their seeds of Division might take. Neither did they altogether fail of their purpose, for some they did rent and dismember from us; but none but those, of whom now they begin to be ashamed. The Judgment of God so following their Design, that the Persons which then they prevailed upon, are now a Stink, and Reproach to Religion. Neither were these Spirits content with that discord they did sow among us, but they proceeded to seize upon others. But to pass these: The wild, and unsound Positions they have urged to maintain their Practice, would be too large here to insert.

Now, Sir, to settle the Brethren (the Brethren of our Community) and to prevent such Disorders among others, was the cause of my publishing my Papers: and considering my Concern in the House of God, I could do no less than to give them warning, That every Man might deliver his Soul.

You proceed, saying, It is my liberty, as well as others into whose hands it falls, to weigh what you have said in Truths ballance, and if it be found too light, to reject it whether you will or no.

Ans. Do but grant me, without mocking of me, the Liberty you desire to take, and God helping me, I desire no more to shift for my self among you.

As to your saying, that I proudly and imperiously insult, because I say they are Babes and carnal, that attempt to break the Peace and Communion of Churches, though upon no better pretences than Water. You must know I am still of that Mind, and shall be so long as I see the Effects that follow, viz. The breach of Love, taking off Christians from the more weighty things of God; and to make them quarrel and have heart-burnings one against another.

Where you are pleased to charge me with Raging, for laying those Eighteen particular Crimes to the charge of SUCH who exclude Christians from Church-communion, and debar them their Heaven-born Privileges, for the want of that, which yet God never made the Wall of Division between us, (pag. 116.)

I say, when you can prove, That God hath made Water-baptism that Wall, and that the Strefs of the after Eighteen Charges lye wholly and only in that; then you may time enough call my Language such as wanteth Charity: but I question though that was granted, whether your saying, I RAGE, will be justified in the Day of Judgment.

My great noise (as you call it) about an initiating Ordinance, you say, you shall take no notice of, pag. 3.

Ans. 1. Although you do not, I must: For if Baptism be not that, but another; and if visible Saints may enter into Fellowship by that other, and are no where forbidden so to do, because they have not Light into Water-baptism: it is of weight to be considered by me; yea, and of others too who are unprejudiced.

2. How ignorant you are of such as hold it the initiating Ordinance I know not: nor how long you have been of that Perswasion I know not. This I know, that Men of your own Party, as serious, godly, and it may be more learned than your self, have within less than this twelve-month urged it. Mr. D. in my hearing, did from Rom. 6. 1, 2. in the Meeting in Lothbury affirm it: Also my much esteemed Mr. D. A. did twice in a Conference with me assert it.

3. But whatever you say, whether for, or against, 'tis no matter; for while you deny it to be the entering Ordinance, you account it the Wall, Bar, Bolt, and Door; even that which must separate between the Righteous and the Righteous; nay, you make want of Light therein, a ground to exclude the most Godly your Communion, when every Novice in Religion shall be received into your Bosom, and be of esteem with you because he hath (and from what ground God knows) submitted to Water-Baptism.

I am glad that in page 4. you conclude with me what is the initiating Ordinance: but withal, give me leave to correct, as I think, one extravagant Expression of yours.

You might have stopped at [and nothing else] you need not in particular have rejected Faith: your first Error was bad enough: what, NOTHING else but Consent? What, not so much as a Respect to the Matter or End? Why then are not all the Communities of all the High-way-men in the Land, truly Constituted Churches of Christ; unless you can prove that they hold together, but not by Consent.

What? Consent and nothing else? But why do YOU throw out FAITH? why, I throw out Baptism; which because you cannot as to the case in hand fetch in again, therefore OUT must Faith go too. Your Action is much like that Harlot's, that stood to be judged by Solomon, who because her own Child was dead, would have her Neighbours killed also. Faith (Sir) both in the Profession and Confession of it, is of immediate and also absolute concern, even in th every Act of the Churches Reception, of this or another Member. Throw out Faith, and there is no such thing as a Christian, neither visible nor invisible: You ought to receive no Man, but upon a comfortable Satisfaction to the Church, that you are now receiving a Believer. Faith, whether it be savingly there or no, is the great Argument with the Church in receiving any: we receive not Men as Men, but the Man immediately under that Supposition; He hath Faith, he is a Christian. Sir, Consent, simply without Faith, makes no Man a Member of the Church of God; because then would a Church not cease to be a Church, whoever they received among them. Yea, by this Assertion you have justified the Church of Rome it self, to be to this Day both good, and godly, unless you can prove that they did at first, and do now receive their unbelieving Members, without their own Consent.

The Church hath no such Liberty to receive Men without respect to Faith; yea Faith and Holiness, must be the Essentials, or Basis, upon, and for the sake of which you receive them: Holiness (I say) yet not such as is circumstantial, but that which is such in the very Heart of it: Pray you in your next therefore word it better, lest while you flight and trample upon me, you stand before all blame-worthy your self.

The Scriptures you speak of, I did not in my first (pag. 68.) produce to shew Persons unbaptized might hold Communion with the Church (though I am fully convinced they may) but to shew, that Knowledge of those Persons, of their Faith and Holiness in general, ought first to be shewed to the Church, before she can lawfully receive them, Acts 9. 25, 26, 27. 1 Cor. 16. 10. 2 Cor. 8. 23.

As to my Answer to a Question (pag. 70.) which you have at pag. 5. of yours corrupted, and then abused: I tell you again, That a Discovery of the Faith and Holiness, and a Declaration of the Willingness of a Person to subject himself to the Laws and Government of Christ in his Church, is a ground sufficient to receive such a Member.

But you descant; Is Baptism none of the Laws of Christ?

Ans. It is none of those Laws, neither any part of them, that the Church, as a Church should shew her Obedience by. For albeit that Baptism be given by Christ our Lord to the Church, yet not for them to worship him by as a Church. Shew me what Church-Ordinance it is; and when, or where the Church, as a Church, is to practise it, as one of those Laws and Appointments that he hath commanded his Church to shew to him her Obedience by.

Again, That submitting to Water-Baptism, is a sign or note, that was ever required by any of the Primitive Churches, of him that would hold Fellowship with them; or that it infuseth such Grace and Holiness into those that submit thereto, as to capacitate them for such a Privilege; or that they did acknowledge it a Sign thereof, I find not in all the Bible.

I find not (as I told you in my first) that Baptism is a Sign to any, but the Person that is baptized. The Church hath her Satisfaction of the Person, from better Proof, Col. 2. 12. Rom. 6. 1, 2, 3, 4. 1 Cor. 15. 29. Acts 2. 38. and 22. 16. 1 Pet. 3. 21.

I told you also, That Baptism makes thee no Member of the Church, neither doth it make thee a visible Saint: It giveth thee therefore, neither Right to, nor Being of Membership at all. Why, Sir, did you not answer these Things? but slip them with others, as if you were unconcerned; troubling your Reader with such kind of Insinuations, as must needs be unfavoury to godly Ears.

You make the moral Law none of Christ's but Moses's; not the Son's but the Servant's; and tell me, because I plead for Faith and Holiness, according to moral Duties Gospelized, (they are my Words, pag. 79.) whereby we ought to judge of the Fitness of Members; that therefore Moses is more beholding to me than Christ, pag. 6.

Sir, Know you not yet, that a Difference is to be put betwixt those Rules that discover the Essentials of Holiness, and those that in themselves are not such; and that that of Faith and the moral Law is the one, and Baptism, &c. the other.

Is not Love to God, Abhorrence of Idols, to forbear blaspheming, to honour our Parents, to do no Murder, to forbear Theft, not to bear False Witness, nor Covet, &c. are not (I say) these the Precepts of the Lord Jesus, because delivered by Moses? Or, are these such as may better be broken, than for want of Light to forbear Baptism with Water? Or, doth a Man while he liveth in the Neglect of these, and in the mean time baffle about those you call Gospel Commands, most honour Christ, or best fit himself for Fellowship with the Saints? Need I tell you, That the Faith of Christ, with the Ten Commandments, are as much now Gospel Commands as Baptism; and ought to be in as much, and far more Respect with the holy ones than that, or other the like.

Yea, shall I tell you, That Baptism will neither admit a Man into Fellowship, nor keep him there, if he be a Transgressor of a moral Precept; and that a Man who believeth in Jesus, and fulfilleth the Royal Law, doth more glorify God, and honour Religion in the World, than he that keepeth (if there were so many) ten thousand figurative Laws.

As to those Commands that respect God's instituted Worship in a Church, as a Church, I have told you that Baptism is none of them, and you have been driven to confess it: The Church then must first look to Faith, then to good Living according to the Ten Commandments; after that she must respect those Appointments of our Lord Jesus, Jesus, that respects her outward Order and Discipline, and then she walks as becomes her, sinning if she neglecteth either; sinning if she over-valueth either.

But why did you not answer those Texts I produced for the strengthening of my Argument, viz. Rom. 14. 18. Deut. 23. 47. Jam. 2. 8---12. 1 Cor. 9. 21. and 5. 9, 10, 11. Gal. 6. 15, 16. Phil. 3. 1 Tim. 1. 9, 10, 11. Acts 20. 28, 32. Rom. 13. 13. Jam. 4. 11. 1 Cor. 5. 12.

Deal fairly; Answer those Texts, with the Argument made upon them; and when you have after a godly manner done that, you may the more boldly condemn.

You tell me, That in page 93 of mine, I say, None ever received Baptism without Light therein.

What if I did? (as I did not) but you grant it: And now I will ask you, and pray deal fairly in your Answer. May a Man be a visible Saint without Light therein? May he have a good Conscience without Light therein? And seeing that Baptism is none of the Worship that Christ instituted in his Church for them to practise as a Church, must he be kept dark about all other Things concerning the Worship of God in his Church, until he receive Light therein?

You have answered already, pag. 7. That they ought to be ashamed, and to repent of that Abomination (their Sprinkling) BEFORE they come to have a Sight of the Pattern of the House of God, the goings in and the comings out thereof, Ezek. 43. 10, 11.

But, Sir, where do you find that Want of Light in Water-Baptism, or because a Man hath been Sprinkled, that he is to be kept dark in all other Temple-Institutions, till he be ashamed and repent of that? Pray produce the Texts, for Ezekiel helps you nothing: He speaks only of the Pattern of the HOUSE, the goings out, and comings in thereof. As for the coming IN, you have already confessed, That Baptism is not the entering Ordinance. And as for the Worship that Christ hath instituted in his Church, as a Church, I say (and you also have said it, pag. 40.) Baptism is none of the Forms thereof, none of the Ordinances thereof, none of the Laws thereof; For Baptism is, as to the Practice of it, that which is without the Church, without the House of God: Then by your own Text, if a Man do repent him of his Christening in his Childhood, he may be received into Fellowship without submitting to Baptism: but I will not strain you too far.

You add, Is it a Person's Light that giveth Being to a Precept?

Ans. Who said it? Yet it's his Light and Faith about it, that can make him to do it acceptably.

You ask again, Suppose Men plead Want of Light in other Commands?

Ans. If they be not such, the Forbearance of which discapacitates him of Membership, he may yet be received to Fellowship.

But what if a Man want Light in the Supper? pag. 7.

Ans. There is more to be said in that case than in the other; for that is a part of that Worship which Christ hath instituted for his Church, to be conversant in as a Church; presenting them as such, with their Communion with their Head, and with one another as Members of him. The Cup of Blessing which we bless, is it not the Communion of the Blood of Christ? The Bread which we break, is it not the Communion of the Body of Christ? For we being many are one Bread, and one Body; for we are all Partakers of that one Bread, 1 Cor. 10. 16, 17. Wherefore this being a Duty incumbent on the Church, as a Church; and on every Member of that Body as such, they are obliged in that case more closely to deal with the Members, than in that wherein they are not so concerned; and with which as such, they have NOTHING to do. No Man baptizeth by virtue of his Office in the Church; no Man is baptized by virtue of his Membership there.

But what if a Man want Light in his Duty to the poor? pag. 8.

Ans. If he doth, God must give it him; I mean to know his Duty as a Church-member. Now I will add, but what if he that can give a Shilling, giveth nothing? I suppose all that the Church can do in that Case, is but to warn, to exhort, and charge him, and to shew him his Duty: and if he neglect, to shew him, That he that soweth sparingly, shall not reap plentifully, 1 Cor. 9. 6. But to cut a Man off for this, as you forwardly urge, pag. 8. would argue that Church (at least I think so) a little too bold with so high and weighty a Censure. I plead not here for the Church, but seek to allay your Heat: And should it be granted that such deserve as you would have it, this makes no matter to the Case in hand.

Now whereas you suggest, That moral Evils are but Sins against Men, pag. 8. you are too much unadvised: The moral Evil (as you call it) whether you respect the Breach of the first or second Table, is first and immediately a Sin against God; and more insufferable, yea and damnable, than for a Man for want of Light to forbear either Baptism or the Lord's Supper.

But say you, We have now found an Advocate for Sin against GOD, in the Breach of one of HIS holy Commands?

Ans. As if none of the moral Precepts were HIS. But, Sir, who have I pleaded for in the Denial of any one Ordinance of God? Yea, or for their Neglect of it either? What I say, is but that Men must have Light, that they may not do in Darkness, or Papist-like, live by an implicit Faith.

But I see you put no Difference between an open Breach of the Law, and a forbearing that which to him is doubtful. But I will suppose a Case: There is a Man wants Light in Baptism, yet by his Neighbour is pressed to it: he saith he seeth it not to be his Duty; the other saith, he sins if he doth it not: Now seeing whatsoever is not of Faith is Sin; what should this Man do? If you say, let him use the Means: I say so too. But what, if when he hath used it, he still continueth dark about it; what will you advise him now? If you bid him wait, do you not encourage him to live in Sin, as much as I do? Nay, and seeing you will not let him for Want of Light in that, obey God in other his Institutions; what is it but to say, Seeing you live for Want of Light in the Neglect of Baptism, we will make you, while you continue so, live (tho' quite against your Light) in the Breach of all the rest: And where you are commanded thus, you may shew the Place when you find it.

Now where you urge, that you are one of them that say, The Epistles were writ to particular Churches, and so serve nothing at all for our kind of Communion: Urging further, That it will be difficult for me to prove, that they were also directed to particular Saints.

Ans. I wish there were nothing harder that were good for me to do.

But what should be the Reason that our Author, with others of his Opinion, should stickle so hard to prove all the Epistles were wrote to particular Churches? Why, because those Members were, as they think, every one baptized; and so the Epistles from which we fetch our Arguments for the Love and Concord of Saints, to be only proper to themselves. But if this be true, there is vertue indeed, and more than ever I dreamed of, in partaking of Water-Baptism: For if that shall take away the Epistles, and consequently the whole Bible, from all that are not baptized; then are the other Churches, and also particular Saints, in a very deplorable Condition. For he asketh me very devoutly, Whether any unbaptized Persons were concerned in these Epistles? pag. 9. But why would they take from us the Holy Scriptures? Verily, that we might have naught to justify our Practice withal: For if the Scriptures belong only to baptized Believers, they then belong not to the rest; and in truth, if they could perswade us to yield them this grant, we should but forrily justify our Practice. But I would ask these Men, If the Word of God came out from them? Or if it came to them only? Or, whether Christ hath not given his whole Word to every one that believeth, whether they be baptized, or in, or out of Church Fellowship, John 17. Or, whether every Saint in some sort, hath not the Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven, which are the

Would to God they had learn'd more Modesty, than thus to take from all others, and appropriate to themselves, and that for the Sake of their observing a Circumstance in Religion, so high, and glorious a Privilege.

But we will come a little to proof: what Church will this Author find in Rome, that Time the Epistle was sent to the Brethren there, besides that Church that was in Aquila's House, although many more Saints were then in the City? Yea, the Apostle in his Salutation at the Beginning, embraceth them only as Brethren, without the least Intimation of their being gathered into Fellowship: To all that be at Rome, beloved of God, called to be Saints, Grace to you, &c. Chap. 1. 7. To all there, to all in that City, beloved of God, and that are converted to the Lord Jesus Christ. A Church there was in Aquila's House, and that there were many more Saints besides, is (and that by the Text) as manifest. Besides, considering the Rules that are given them in the 14th and 15th Chapters about their receiving one another, doth yet strongly suggest to me, that they were not yet in Fellowship, but as it were now about it, when Paul wrote his Epistle to them.

The first Epistle written to Corinth, was also wrote to all them that in every Place called upon the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ, Chap. 1. 2. But it will be hard Work for our Author to make it manifest, that none in those Days did call on the Name of our Lord, but those that were first baptized.

The second Epistle also, was not only written to the Church at Corinth, but also to all the Saints which were in all Achaia. To the Galatians and Thessalonians indeed, his Salutation was only to the Churches there: But the three Epistles before were as well to all other: As also that to the Ephesians, Philippians, and Colossians, in which the Faithful and Saints in Christ Jesus were also every one comprehended. Besides, to what particular Church was the Epistle to the Hebrews wrote? Or the Epistle of James? Both those of Peter, and the first of John? Nay, that of John was wrote to some at that Time out of Fellowship, that they might have Fellowship with the Church, Chap. 1. 1, 2, 3, 4. So that these Brethren must not have all the Scriptures: We have then a like Privilege with all Saints, to use the Scriptures for our godly edifying, and to defend ourselves thereby, from the Assaults of those that would make Spoil of us. But to pass this, and come to the next.

You object for that I said, If Water Baptism (as the Circumstances with which the Church was pestered of old) trouble the Peace, and wound the Consciences of the Godly, dismember and break their Fellowships; ships; it is, although an Ordinance, for the present prudently to be shunned, pag. 86.

At this (as I said) you object, pag. 10, 11. and say, Did I ever find Baptism a Pest or Plague to Churches? And did ever God send an Ordinance to be a Pest and Plague to his People?

Answer: I said not that God did send it for any such End at all: God's Ordinances are none of this in themselves; nor if used as, and for the End for which God sent them. But yet both Baptism, and the Supper of the Lord, have (by being wrested out of their Place) been a great Affliction to the Godly both in this and other Ages. What say you to breaking of Bread, which the Devil, by abusing, made an Engine in the Hand of Papists, to burn, starve, hang and draw thousands? What say you to John of Leyden? What Work did he make by the Abuse of the Ordinance of Water-Baptism? And I wish this Age had not given Cause, through the Church-renting Spirits that some are possessed with, to make Complaint of this matter; who have also had for their Engine the Baptism with Water: Yea, yourself, Sir, so far as I can perceive, could you get but the Opportunity; yourself (I say) under Pretence of this innocent Ordinance, as you term it, would not stick to make Inroads, and Outroads to, in all the Churches, that suit not your Fancy, in the Land. For you have already been bold to affirm, That all those that have baptized Infants, ought to be ashamed and repent, before they be shewed the Pattern of the House: And what is this but to threaten, that could you have your Will of them, you would quickly take from them their present Church-privileges, and let them see nothing thereof, till those Qualifications, especially Subjection to Water-Baptism, was found to attend each of them.

As to the Persons you speak of, Who have rent Churches in Pieces, by making Preaching by Method, Doctrine, Reason and Use, to be Antichristian: Or, because they could not have other Ministrations performed after their Fancies, (pag. 11, 12.) the Imprudence of such with yourselves, hath been heart-breaking to many a gracious Soul; an high Occasion of stumbling to the weak, and a Reproach to the Ways of the Lord. That it may be prudently shunned, I referred you then for proof, to what should be offered after: but at this you cry out, and so pass it.

And now Reader, although this Author hath thus objected against some Passages in this my first Argument for Communion with Persons unbaptized; yet the Body of my Argument he misleth and passeth over, as a thing not worth the answering; whether because he forgot, or because he was conscious to himself, that he knew not what to do therewith, I will not now determine.

Vol. II.

1. I effectually prove, That Baptism is not the initiating Ordinance, pag. 71---75.

2. I prove, That though it was, yet the case may so fall out, that Members might be received without it, pag. 82, 83.

3. I prove, That Baptism makes no Man a visible Saint, nor giveth any right to Church Fellowship, pag. 76.

4. I prove, That Faith, and a Life becoming the Law of the Ten Commandments, should be the chief and most solid Argument with true Churches to receive Saints to Fellowship.

5. I prove, That Circumcision in the Flesh, which was the entering Ordinance of old, was a Type of Circumcision in the Heart, &c. p. 79, 80.

These things, with others, our author letteth pass; although in the Proof of them abideth the strength of this first argument; to which I must intreat him in his next, to cast his Eye, and give fair Answer; as also to the Scriptures on which each are built, or he must suffer me to say, I am abused. Further, I make a Question upon three Scriptures, Whether all the Saints, even in the Primitive Times, were baptized with Water? to which also he answereth nothing; whereas he ought to have done it, if he will take in hand to confute. (The Scriptures are, 1 Cor. 1. 14, 15, 16. Rom. 6. 3. Gal. 3. 27.) Yet were they effectually answered, my Argument is nothing weakened.

You come to my second Argument, drawn from Eph. 4. 4, 5, 6. Upon which a little more now to enlarge, and then to take notice of your Objection.

The Apostle then in that Fourth of the Ephesians, exhorteth the Church there with all Lowliness, and Meekness, with Long-suffering, and forbearing one another, to ENDEAVOUR to keep the unity of the SPIRIT in the Bond of PEACE, vers. 2, 3. This done, he presents them with such Arguments, as might fasten his Exhortation to purpose upon them.

The first is, Because the Body is ONE; There is one Body; therefore they should not divide; For if the Church of Christ be a Body, there ought not to be a Rent or Schism among them. 1 Cor 12. 22, to 27.

2. His second Argument is, There is one Spirit, or one quickning Principle by which the Body is made to live; for having asserted before that Christ hath indeed a Body, it was meet that he shewed also, that this Body hath Life, and Motion. Now that Life, being none other, than that Nourishment, or Spirit of Life, from which the whole Body fitly joyned together, and compact by that which every joynt supplyeth, according to the effectual working of the Measure in every Part, maketh increase of the Body to the edifying of it self in Love, Eph. 4. 16. Now this Spirit, being first, and chiefly, in the Head, therefore none other but those that hold the Head can have this Nourishment ministered to them: Besides, This is the Spirit that knits the Body together, and makes it increase with the Increase of God, Col. 2. 16. This is the Unity of the Spirit which he before exhorts them to keep.

3. The third Argument is, Because their Hope is also but one. Even as you are called (saith he) in one Hope of your calling: As who should say, My Brethren, if you are called with one Calling, if your Hope, both as to the Grace of Hope, and also the Object, be but one: if you hope for one Heaven, and for one Eternal Life; then maintain that Unity of the Spirit, and Hope, while here, in Love, and the Bond of Peace.

4. The fourth Argument is, There is one Lord, or Husband, or Prince, to whom this Church belongs: Therefore if we have Husbands but one, Lord and Prince but one, let us not rent into many Parties, as if we had many Husbands, Lords, and Princes, to govern us, as his Wife, his

1 Cor. 1. House, and Kingdom. Is Christ divided?

5. The fifth Argument is, There is one Faith, by which we all stand justified by one Lord Jesus Christ; one Faith by which we escape the Wrath of God; one Faith by which only they that have it are Blessed; yea, seeing there is but one Faith, by which we are all put into one Way of Salvation, let us hold together as such.

6. The sixth Argument, There is one Baptism.

Now we are come to the Pinch, viz. Whether it be that of Water, or no? which I must positively deny.

1. Because Water-Baptism hath nothing to do in a Church, as a Church; it neither bringeth us into the Church, nor is any Part of our Worship when we come there; how then can the Peace and Unity of the Church depend upon Water-Baptism? Besides, he saith expressly, It is the Unity of the Spirit, (not Water,) that is here intended: and the Arguments brought to enforce it, are such as wholly and immediately relate to the Duty of the Church, as a Church.

2. Further, That other Text, that treateth of our being baptized into a Body, saith expressly it is done by the Spirit; For by one Spirit we are all baptized into one Body, 1 Cor. 12. 16. Here is the Church presented as under the notion of a Body; here is a Baptism mentioned, by which they are brought, or initiated into this Body: Now that this is the Baptism of Water, is utterly against the Words of the Text; For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one Body: besides, if the Baptism here be of Water, then is it the initiating Ordinance; but the contrary I have proved, and this Author stands by my Doctrine. So then, the Baptism here respecting the Church as a Body, and Water having nothing to do to enter Men into the Church, nor to command them to practise it as a Church, in order to their Peace or Communion, or respecting the Worship of God as such: And (I say again) the Baptism in the sixth Argument, being urged precisely for no other Purpose, but with respect to the Churches Peace as a Body; it must needs be THAT Baptism, by virtue of which, they were initiated, and joined together in one; and that Baptism being only that which the Spirit executeth; this therefore is that one Baptism.

7. The other Argument is also effectual; There is one God and Father of all, who is verf. 6. above all, and through all, and in you all. If we are one Body; if to it there be but one Spirit; if we have but one Hope, one Faith, and be all baptized by one Spirit into that one Body; and if we have but one Lord, one God, and he in every one of us; let us be also one: and let them that are thus qualified, both joyn together, and hold in one.

But our Author against this objecteth, That, now I imploy my Pen against every Man; and give the lye to all Expositors, for they hold this one Baptism, to be none other than that of Water, pag. 13.

Ans. What if I should also send you to Answer those Expositors that expound certain Scriptures for Infant-Baptism, and that by them brand us for Anabaptists; must this drive you from your belief of the Truth? Expositors I reverence, but must Hab. 2. 4. live by mine own Faith: God hath no where bound himself to them more than to others, with respect to the Revelation of his Mind in his Word.

But it becomes not you to run thus to Expositors, who are, as to your Notions in many things, but of Yesterday: To the Law, and to the Testimony: For out of the Isa. 8. 20. Mouth of Babes the Lord hath ordained Psal. 8. 2. strength.

But you bid me tell you, What I mean by Spirit-Baptism?

Ans. Sir, you mistake me, I treat not here of our being baptized with the Spirit, with respect to its coming from Heaven into us; but of that act of the Spirit, when come, which baptizeth us into a Body, or Church: It is one thing to be baptized with the Spirit in the first sense; and another to be baptized by it in the sense I treat of: for the Spirit to come upon me, is one thing; and for that when come, to implant, embody, or baptize me into the Body of Christ, is another.

Your Question therefore is grounded on a Mistake, both of my Judgment, and the Words of the Apostle. Wherefore thus I soon put an end to your Objections (pag. 14.) For the Spirit to come down upon me, is one thing; and for the Spirit to baptize, or implant me into the Church, is another: for to be possessed with the Spirit, is one thing; and to be led by that Spirit, is another. I conclude then; Seeing the Argument taken from that one Baptism, respecteth Church-Fellowship properly; and seeing ing Water-Baptism medleth not with it as such; it is the other, even, that in 1 Cor. 12. 16. that is here intended, and no other.

But you add, If nothing but extraordinary Gifts are called the Baptism of the Spirit in a strict sense; than that baptism, 1 Cor. 12. must be Water-Baptism, as well as that in the Ephesians.

Hold: You make your Conclusions before you have cause; First prove that in the Ephesians to be meant of Water-baptism, and that the Baptism in 1 Cor. 12. 16. is the Baptism you would have it; and then conclude my Argument void.

That it is the Baptism of the Holy Ghost according to the common Notion, I say not; for you to assert it is the Baptism of Water, gives the lie to the Text: But that it is an Act of the Holy Ghost, baptizing the Saints into a Body, or Church, you will hardly be able to make the contrary appear to be truth.

But behold, while here you would have this to be Baptism with Water, how you contradict and condemn your own Notion: You say Water-baptism is not the entering Ordinance; yet the Baptism here is such as baptizeth us into a Body: Wherefore before you say next time that this in 1 Cor. 12. 16. is meant of Water-baptism; affirm, that Water-baptism is the initiating or entering Ordinance, that your Opinion and Doctrine may hang better together.

We come to my third Argument; Which is to prove, It is lawful to hold Church-communion with the godly sincere Believer, though he hath not been baptized with Water, because he hath the DOCTRINE of Baptisms, Heb. 6. Which Doctrine I distinguish from the Practice of it; the Doctrine being that which by the outward sign is presented to us; or which by the outward circumstance of the Act is preached to the Believer, viz. the Death of Christ, my Death with Christ; also his Resurrection from the Dead, and mine with him to Newness of Life. This our Author calleth one of the strangest Paradoxes that he hath LIGHTLY observed.

Ans. How light he is in his Observation of things, I know not: This I am sure, the Apostle makes mention of the Doctrine of Baptism; Now that the Doctrine of a Man, or Ordinance, is the Signification of what is Preached, is apparent to very sense. What is Christ's Doctrine, Paul's Doctrine, Scripture Doctrine, but the Truth couched under the Words that are spoken? So the Doctrine of Baptism, yea and the Doctrine of the Lord's Supper, are those Truths or Mysteries that such Ordinances preach unto us. And that the Doctrine of Baptism in this sense, is the great End for which that, and the Lord's Supper, was instituted, is apparent from all the Scriptures: it is that which the Apostle seeketh for in that eminent sixth of the Romans, Know you not that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ, were baptized into his Death? Therefore we are buried with him by Baptism, that like as Christ was raised from the Dead by the Glory of the Father; so we should walk in Newness of Life. For if we have been planted together in the Likeness of his Death, we shall be also in the Likeness of his Resurrection, Rom. 6. 3, 4, 5. What is here discoursed, but the Doctrine of, or that which Baptism teacheth; with an Intimation, that that was the chief, for the sake of which that Shadow was instituted; as also that they that have the Doctrine, or that which is signified thereby, they only must reign with Christ.

Again, This is that which he seeketh for among the Corinthians; If the Dead rise not at all, saith he, why then were you baptized for the Dead? 1 Cor. 15. 22. Why then were you baptized? what did Baptism teach you? What Doctrine did it preach to you? Further, Buried with him in Baptism, wherein also you are risen again with him, through the Faith of the Operation of God, who raised him from the Dead. What is here in chief asserted, but the Doctrine only which Water-baptism preacheth? with an Intimation, that they, and they only, are the saved of the Lord, that have heard, received, and that live in this Doctrine, Col. 2. 12, 13.

The same may be said of the Lord's Supper, it also hath its Doctrine. But against this our Author objecteth, saying, That this is called the Doctrine of Baptism, I am yet to learn.

Ans. Your ignorance of the Truth makes it not an Error: But I pray you, what is the Doctrine of Baptism, if not that which Baptism teacheth, even that which is signified thereby? As that is the Doctrine of Christ, and the Scriptures; which he and they teach as the Mind of God.

But you say, I took the Doctrine of Baptism to be the Command that a Believer should be baptized, for such ends as the Gospel expresseth.

Ans. To assert that a figurative Ordinance is of God, is one thing; but the Doctrinal Signification of that Ordinance is another: A Man may preach the Command, yet none of the Doctrine which Baptism preacheth. The Doctrine lyeth not in the Command, but the Mystery discovered to Faith, by the Act.

You object, If the Resurrection be the Doctrine of Baptism, why doth the Apostle make that, and the Doctrine of Baptism, things distinct, in Heb. 6.

Ans. The Resurrection simply considered, is not the Doctrine of Baptism, but Christ's, and mine by him. Besides, there is more in it than the Mystery of this Resurrection;

urrection; there is my Death first, and then my rising with him.

But you add, Under the Law, all the Sacrifices of that Dispensation, with their Sabbaths, were Types of that Christ, who was the substance of all those Ceremonies. If any of them then that professed Faith in the Messiah as to come, should upon scruples, or want of pretended Light, neglect the whole, or part of that Typical Worship; why may not a Man say of them, as this Advocate of the Practice under Debate, they had the richer and better Sacrifice.

Ans. First, that the Brethren which refuse to be baptized, as you and I would have them, refuse it for want of pretended Light, becomes you not to imagine, unless your Boldness will lead you to judge, that all Men want Sincerity, that come not up to our Judgment. Their Conscience may be better than either yours or mine; yet God, for Purposes best known to himself, may forbear to give them Conviction of their Duty in this particular. But what, because they are not baptized, have they not Jesus Christ? Or, must we now be afraid to say Christ is better than Water-Baptism? Yea, God himself for the sake of this better thing, hath suffered in his Church a suspension of some of his Ordinances, yet owned them for his truly constituted Congregation. What say you to the Church in the Wilderness? I touched you with it in my first, but perceive you list not to meddle therewith. That Church received Members, the way which was not prescribed by, but directly against the revealed Mind of God; yet stood a true Church, their Members true Members; also that Church in that State, was such before whom, among whom, and to whom God continually made known himself to be their God, and owned them for his peculiar Treasure.

And now I am fallen upon it, let me a little enlarge: This Church, according to the then instituted Worship of God, had Circumcision for their entering Ordinance, Gen. 17. 13, 14. without which it was unlawful to receive any into Fellowship with them: yea, he that without it was received, was to be cut off, and cast out again. Further, as to the Passover, the uncircumcised was utterly forbidden to eat it, Exod. 12. Now if our Brethren had as express Prohibition to justify their groundless Opinion, as here is to exclude the uncircumcised from the Communion of the Church and the Passover: I say, if they could find it written, No unbaptized Person shall enter, no unbaptized Person shall eat of the Supper; what a Noise would they make about it? But yet let the Reader observe, that although Circumcision was the entering-Ordinance, and our Author saith Baptism is not; yea, though this Church was expressly forbidden to receive the Uncircumcised (and we have not a Syllable now to forbid the unbaptized) yet this Church received Members without, and otherwise than by this entering Ordinance. They also admitted them to the Passover, yea, entertained, retained, and held Communion with them so long as 40 Years without it. I say again, That the Number of this sort of Communicants was not so few as six hundred thousand. Moreover, to these uncircumcised was the Land of Canaan given, yea, a Possession of part thereof before they were circumcised; but the old circumcised ones might not enter therein. I am the larger in this, because our Author hath overlook'd my first mention thereof. And now I ask, What was the Reason that God continued his Presence with this Church notwithstanding this Transgression? Was it not because they had that richer and better thing, the Lord Jesus Christ? For they did all eat of that spiritual Bread, and drink of that spiritual Rock which followed them, and that Rock was Christ, 1 Cor. 10. I confess I find them under Rebukes and Judgments in the Wilderness, and that they were many times threatened to be destroyed; but yet I find not so much as one Check for their receiving of Members uncircumcised. Further, in the New Testament, where we have a Catalogue of their Sins, and also of their Punishment for them; we find not a Word about Circumcision, nor the smallest Intimation of the least Rebuke for neglecting the entering Ordinance, 1 Cor. 10. 5, 10. I will therefore say of them, as I have also said of my Brethren, They had the richer and better thing.

But you object, That this putteth the whole of God's Instituted Worship both under the Law and Gospel, to the highest uncertainties, p. 17.

Ans. This putteth our Opposers out of their Road, and quencheth the Flame of their unwarrantable zeal. For if the entering Ordinance, if the Ordinance without which no Man might be added to the Church, was laid aside for forty years; yea, if more than six hundred thousand did Communicate with them without it: I say again, If they did it, and held Communion with God, that notwithstanding; yea, and had not (that we read of) all that time, one small Check for so doing; why may not we now enter Communion, hold Communion, maintain Communion, Church-communion, without being judged, and condemned by you? Because we cannot for want of Light be all Baptized before; Especially considering Baptism makes no Man a Saint, is not the Entering-Ordinance, is no part of the Worship of God enjoined the Church as a Church. To conclude, Although we receive Members unbaptized, we leave not God's Instituted Worship at uncertainties, especially what he hath commanded us as his Church; we only profess our want of Light in some things; but see no Word to warrant the Forbearance of our Duty in all, for want of Perswasion in one.

You object, I call Baptism a Circumstance, a shew, an outward-shew, I NICK-NAME it.

Ans. Deep Reproof! But why did you not shew me my evil in thus calling it, when opposed to the Substance, and the Thing signified? Is it the Substance, is it the Thing signified? And why may not I give it the Name of a Shew; when you call it a Symbole, and compare it to a Gentleman's Livery? pag. 52.

But you say, I call it an OUTWARD shew.

Ans. Is it an Inward one? What is it?

It is a Command?

Ans. But doth that instal it in that Place and Dignity, that was never intended for it?

You object further, They cannot have the Doctrine of Baptism that understand not our way of administering it, pag. 18.

This is your Mistake, both of the Doctrine and Thing it self. But if you will not SCORN to take NOTICE of me, I advise you again to consider, That a Man may find Baptism to be Commanded, may be informed who ought to administer it; may also know the proper subject: and that the manner of Baptizing is Dipping; and may desire to practise it because it is Commanded, and yet know nothing of what Water-Baptism preacheth; or of the Mystery-baptism sheweth to Faith. But that the Doctrine of Baptism is not the Practice of it, not the outward Act, but the Thing signified; and that every Believer hath that, must argue you more than bold to deny it.

But say you, Who taught you to divide betwixt Christ and his Precepts, that you word it at such a Rate? That he that hath the one, &c.

Ans. To say nothing of Faith, and the Word; verily Reason it self teacheth it. For if Christ be my Righteousness, and not Water; if Christ be my Advocate, and not Water; if there be that Good and Blessedness in Christ, that is not in Water; then is Jesus Christ better than Water; and also in these to be eternally divided from Water; unless we will make them Co-Saviours, Co-Advocates, and such as are equally good, and profitable to Men.

But say you, I thought that he that hath Christ, had an orderly Right to all Christ's Promises and Precepts; and that the Precepts of Christ, are part of the Riches that a Believer hath in and by Christ.

Ans. A Believer hath more in Christ than either Promise or Precept; but all Believers know not all things, that of God are given to them by Christ. But must not they use, and enjoy what they know, because they know not all; Or must they neglect the weightier matters, because they want Mint, and Annise, and Cummin? Your pretended orderly Right is your Fancy; there is not a Syllable in the whole Bible, that bids a Christian to forbear his Duty in other things, because he wanteth (as you term it) the Symbole, or Water-Baptism.

But say you, He that despiseth his Birth-right of Ordinances, our Church-Privileges, will be found to be a profane Person, as Esau, in God's account.

Baptism is not the Privilege of a Church, as such. But what? are they all ESAU's indeed? Must we go to Hell, and be damned for Want of Faith in Water-Baptism? And take notice, I do not plead for a Dismissing of Baptism, but a bearing with our Brother, that cannot do it for want of Light. The best of Baptism he hath, viz. the Signification thereof: he wanteth only the outward shew, which if he had, would not prove him a truly visible Saint; it would not tell me he had the Grace of God in his Heart; it is no Characteristical Note to another of my Sonship with God.

But why did you not Answer these Parts of my Argument? Why did you only cavil at Words? which if they had been left out, the Argument yet stands good. He that is not Baptized, if yet a true Believer, hath the Doctrine of Baptism; yea, he ought to have it before he be Convicted, it is his Duty to be Baptized, or else he playeth the Hypocrite. There is therefore no Difference between that Believer that is, and he that is not yet Baptized with Water; but only is going down into the Water, there to perform an outward Ceremony of the Substance which he hath already; which yet he is not Commanded to do with respect to Membership with the Church; but to obtain by that further understanding of his Privilege by Christ, which before he made Profession of, and that as a visible Believer.

But to come to my fourth Argument, which you so tenderly touch as if it burnt your fingers: I am bold (say I) to have Communion with visible Saints as before, because God hath Communion with them, whose example in the case we are strictly Commanded to follow. Receive ye one another, as Christ 7. Jesus hath received you, to the Glory of God. Yea, though they be Saints in Opinion contrary to you, or I. We that are Strong, ought to bear the Infirmities of the Weak, and not to please our selves. Infirmities that are Sinful: For they that are Natural, are incident to all. Infirmities therefore they are, that for Want of Light, cause a Man to err in Circumstantial: And the Reason upon which Paul groundeth this Admonition is; For Christ pleased not him-Verf. 31 self, but as it is written, the Reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me.

You say to this, pag. 20. That it is Paul's Direction to the Church at Rome how to receive their Brethren Church Members, p. 20.

I answer,

1. What? are not the poor Saints now in this City? are not they concerned in these Instructions? or is not the Church by these words at all directed how to carry it to those that were not yet in Fellowship? A bold Assertion! but grounded upon nothing, but that you would have it so.

2. But how will you prove that there was a Church, a rightly constituted Church at Rome, besides that in Aquila's House? Chap. 16. Neither doth this Epistle, nor any other in the whole Book of God affirm it. Besides, since Paul in this last Chapter saluteth the Church, as in this Man's House, but the other only as particular Saints, it giveth further Ground of Conviction to you, that those others were not as yet imbodyed in such a Fellowship.

3. But suppose there was another Church besides; it doth not therefore follow, that the Apostle exhorteth them only to receive Persons already in Fellowship; but him, even every him, that there was weak in the Faith, but not to doubtful Disputations.

4. Suppose again, the Receiving here exhorted to, be such as you would have it; yet the Rule by which they are directed to do it, is that by which we perceive that Christ hath received them: But Christ did not receive them by Baptism, but as given to him by the Father: Him therefore concerning whom we are convinced, that he by the Father is given to Christ, him should we receive.

5. But what need I grant you that which cannot be proved? yet if you could prove it, it availeth nothing at all; because you may not, cannot, ought not to dare to limit the Exhortation to receiving of one another into each others Affections only; and not also receiving Saints into Communion.

But you object: To make God's receiving the Rule of our receiving, in all Cases will not hold, pag. 21.

Ans. Keep to the Thing Man: if it hold in the Case in hand, it is enough, the which you have not denied. And that it holds thus, is plain, because commanded. But let the Reader know, that your putting in that Way of his receiving which is invisible to us, is but an unhandsome straddling over my Argument, which treateth only of a visible receiving; such as is manifest to the Church: This you knew, but sought by evading, to turn the Reader from considering the Strength of this my Argument. The receiving then (said I, p. 29.) because it is set as an Example to the Church, is such as must needs be visible unto them; and is best discovered by that Word that describeth the visible Saint: Whoso then you can judge a visible Saint, one that walketh with God, you may, nay ought to judge by the same Word, God hath received him. Now him that God receiveth, him should you receive. But will any object; they cannot believe that God receiveth the unbaptized Saints? I will not suppose you so much stupified, and therefore shall make no Answer. But you seem to be much offended, because I said, Vain Man! Think not by the Straightness of thine Order in outward, and bodily Conformity to outward and shadowish Circumstances, that thy Peace is maintained with God?

But why so much offended at this?

Because, you intend by this the Brethren of the baptized Way.

Ans. If they be vain Men, and set up their OWN Order, how strait soever they make it, they are worthy to be reprov'd: If they have rejected the Word of the Lord, Jer. 8.9. what Wisdom is in them? And as you suggest the first, I affirm the second. But if you would be justified in excluding those, with whom yet you see God hath Communion, because they yet see not a Shadow with you; produce the Scripture for such Order, that we may believe it is the Order of God: But deal fairly, lest we shew your Nakedness, and others see your Shame.

You tell me of the Order of the Colossians, Chap. 2. 5. but if you can prove that that Church refused to hold Communion with that Saint whom they knew to be received by Christ, and held Communion with him, or that none but those that are baptized, are received by and hold Communion with him, then you justify your Order. In the mean while the whole of mine Argument stands firm against you; You must have Communion with visible Saints, because God hath Communion with them, whose Example in the Case we are strictly commanded to follow.

But you ask me, If outward and bodily Conformity be become a Crime? pag. 23.

Ans. I no where said it; But know that to glorify God with our Bodies, respecteth chiefly far higher and more weighty Things, than that of Water-baptism; Whatsoever is not of Faith, is Sin; and to Rom. 14. set up an Ordinance, though an Ordinance of God, that by it the Church may be pull'd in Pieces, or the truly visible Saints excluded Communion with their Brethren; I say again, to make Water-Baptism a Bar and Division betwixt Saint and Saint, every Whit otherwise gracious and holy alike: This is like fasting for Strife, and Debate, and to smite with the Fist of Wickedness; and is not to be found within the whole Bible, but is only an Order of your own devising. As to the Peace you make an Objection about (pag. 23.) you have granted me what I intended; and now I add further, that for Church-Peace to be found- Eph. 4.3 1, ed in Baptism, or any other external Rite, Phil. 2. 1, 2, 3.

not having to do with the Church, as a Church, is poor Peace indeed: Church-Peace is founded in Blood; and Love to each other for Jesus Sake; bearing with, and forbearing one another, in all Things circumstantial, that concern not Church-Worship as such: And in my other I have proved that Baptism is not such, and therefore ought not to be urged to make Rents and Divisions among Brethren.

But you ask, is my Peace maintained in a Way of Disobedience? and conclude if it be, you fear it is false, pag. 24.

Ans. If the first were true; you need not to doubt of the second; but it may be thought he hath little to say in the Controversy, who is forced to stuff out his Papers, with such needless Prattles as these.

My fifth Argument is, That a Failure in such a Circumstance as Water-Baptism, doth not un-christian us; this you are compell'd to grant, pag. 25. And I conclude with your Words, Persons ought to be Christians before visible Christians; such as any Congregation in the Land may receive to Communion with themselves, because God hath shewed us that he has received them. Receive him to the Glory of God: [to the Glory of God] is put in on purpose, to shew what Dishonour they bring to him, who despise to have Communion with such, whom they know do maintain Communion with God. I say again, How doth this Man, or that Church glorify God, or count the Wisdom and Holiness of Heaven beyond them, when they refuse Communion with them, concerning whom yet they are convinced, that they have Communion with God.

But my Argument you have not denied; nor meddled with the Conclusion at all; which is, That therefore, even because a Failure here, doth not un-christian us, doth not make us insincere; and I add, doth not lay us open to any revealed Judgment or Displeasure of God (if it doth, shew where) therefore it should not, it ought not to make us obnoxious to the Displeasure of the Church of God.

But you say, I rank Gospel-Precepts, with Old-Testament abrogated Ceremonies, pag. 25.

Ans. You should have given your Reader my Words, that he might have judged from my own Mouth: I said then (speaking before of Christianity itself, pag. 94.) that thousands of thousands that could not consent to Water, as we, are now with the innumerable Company of Angels, and the Spirits of just Men made perfect. What was said of Eating, or the contrary, may as to this be said of Water-Baptism: Neither if I be baptized, am I the better? neither if I be not, am I the worse? not the better before God, not the worse before Men: still meaning as Paul, provided I walk according to my Light with God; otherwise 'tis false. For if a Man that seeth it to be his Duty, shall despisingly neglect it; or if he that hath not Faith about it, shall foolishly take it up: both these, are for this the worse; I mean, as to their own Sense, being convicted in themselves, as Transgressors. He therefore that doth it according to his Light, doth well; and he that doth it not, for Want of Light, doth not ill; for he approveth his Heart to be sincere with God, even by that his Forbearance. And I tell you again, It is no where recorded, that this Man is under any revealed Threatning of God, for his not being baptized with Water, he not having Light therein; but is admitted through his Grace to as many Promises as you. If therefore he be not a Partaker of that Circumstance, yet he is of that Liberty, and Mercy, by which you stand with God.

But that I practise Instituted Worship, upon the same account as Paul did Circumcision, and Shaving, is too bold for you to presume to imagine. What? Because I will not suffer Water to carry away the Epistles from the Christians; and because I will not let Water-baptism be the Rule, the Door, the Bolt, the Bar, the Wall of Division between the Righteous, and the Righteous; must I therefore be judged to be a Man without Conscience to the Worship of Jesus Christ? The Lord deliver me from Superstitious, and Idolatrous Thoughts about any of the Ordinances of Christ, and of God. But my fifth Argument standeth against you untouched; you have not denied, much less confuted the least Syllable thereof.

You tell me my sixth Argument is, Edification.

A. If it be, why is it not imbraced? But my own words are these;

I am for holding Communion thus; because the Edification of Souls in the Faith and Holiness of the Gospel, is of greater concern than an agreement in outward things; I say, 'tis of greater concern with us, and of far more profit to our Brother, than our agreeing in, or contesting for Water-baptism, John 16. 13. 1 Cor. 14. 12. 2 Cor. 10. 8. chap. 21. 19. Ephes. 4. 12. 1 Cor. 13. 1, 2. chap. 8. 1. Now why did you not take this Argument in pieces, and answer those Scriptures, on which the Strength thereof depends; But if to contest, and fall out about Water-baptism, be better than to edifie the House of God, produce the Texts, that we may be informed. You say; Edification is the end of all Communion, but all things must be done in Order, orderly, pag. 26.

Ans. When you have proved that there is no such thing as an orderly edifying of the Church, without Water-baptism precede, then it will be time enough to think you have said something.

You add; Edification as to Church-fellowship being a building up, doth suppose the being of a Church; but pray you shew us a Church

Church without Baptism, pag. 26.

A. See here the Spirit of these Men, who for the want of Water-baptism, have at once un-churched all such Congregations of God in the World; but against this I have, and do urge, That Water-baptism giveth neither Being, nor well-being to a Church, neither is any part of that Instituted Worship of God, that the Church, as such, should be found in the Practice of. Therefore her Edification as a Church may, yea and ought to be attained unto without it.

But you say, Shew us a New-Testament Church without Baptism. pag. 26.

A. What say you to the Church all along the Revelation quite through the Reign of Antichrist? Was that a New-Testament-Church, or no?

Again, If Baptism be without the Church, as a Church, if it hath nothing to do in the Constituting of a Church; if it be not the Door of Entrance into the Church, if it be no part of Church-worship as such; then, although all the Members of that Church were baptized, yet the Church is a Church without Water-baptism. But all the Churches in the New-Testament were such: Therefore, &c.

Again, If Baptism respect Believers, as particular Persons only; if it respects their own Conscience only; if it make a Man no visible Believer to me, then it hath nothing to do with Church-membership: Because, that which respects my own Person only, my own Conscience only: that which is no Character of my visible Saintship to the Church, cannot be an Argument unto them to receive me into Fellowship with themselves. But this is true, Therefore, &c.

You proceed, If by Edification, be meant the private increase of Grace, in one another, in the use of private means, as private Christians in meeting together; how doth the Principle you oppose hinder that? Endeavour to make Men as Holy as you can, that they may be fitted for Church-fellowship, when God shall shew them the orderly way to it, pag. 26.

Ans. What a many private things have we now brought out to publick view? Private Christians, private Means, and a private Increase of Grace. But, Sir, Are none but those of your way the publick Christians? Or, ought none but them that are baptized to have the publick Means of Grace? Or, must their Graces be increased by none but private Means? Was you awake now? Or, are you become so high in your own phantasies, that none have, or are to have but private Means of Grace? And, are there no publick Christians, or publick Christian-Meetings, but them of your way? I did not think that all but Baptists, should only abide in holes.

But you find fault because I said, Edification is greater than contesting about Water-baptism, pag. 27.

A. If it be not, confute me; if it be, forbear to cavil. Water-baptism, and all God's Ordinances, are to be used to Edification; not to beget Heats and Contentions among the Godly, wherefore Edification is best.

Object. I had thought that the Preaching, and opening Baptism, might have been reckoned a part of our Edification.

Ans. The Act of Water-baptism hath not place in Church-worship, neither in whole nor in part; wherefore pressing it upon the Church is to no purpose at all.

Object. Why may you not as well say, that Edification is greater than breaking of Bread, pag. 27.

Ans. So it is, else that should never have been Instituted to edifie withal; that which serveth, is not greater than he that is served thereby. Baptism and the Lord's-Supper both, were made for us, not we for them; wherefore both were made for our Edification, but no one for our Destruction.

But again, The Lord's-Supper, not Baptism, is for the Church, as a Church; therefore as we will maintain the Churches edifying, that must be maintained in it; yea, used oft, to shew the Lord's Death till he come, 1 Cor. 11. 22, 26.

Besides, because it is a great part of Church-worship, as such, therefore it is pronounced Blessed, the Lord did openly bless it before he gave it; yea and we ought to bless it also; (The Cup of Blessing which we bless) not to say more, Therefore your reasoning from the one to the other will not hold.

Object. How comes contesting for Water-baptism to be so much against you?

Ans. First, because weak Brethren cannot bear it; whom yet we are commanded to receive but not to doubtful Disputation; doubtful to them, therefore for their sakes, I must forbear it, Rom. 14. 1.

Secondly, Because I have not seen any good effect, but the contrary, where-ever such hot Spirits have gone before me: For where Envy and Strife is, there is Confusion (or Tumults) and every evil Work. Jam. 3. 16, 17.

Thirdly, Because by the Example of the Lord, and Paul, we must consider the present State of the Church, and not trouble them with what they cannot bear, John 16. 13. 1 Cor. 3. 1, 2, 3.

I conclude then, Edification in the Church is to be preferred above what the Church, as a Church, hath nothing to do withal. All things (dearly beloved) are for our Edifying, 1 Cor. 14. 5. and 12. 26. 2 Cor. 12. 19. Eph. 4. 26. Rom. 15. 2. 1 Cor. 14. 3. 2 Cor. 10. 8. and 13. 10. Rom. 14. 19. Before I wind up this Argument, ment, I present you with several Instances, shewing that some of the Breach of God's Precepts have been born with, when they come in Competition with Edification. As first, That of Aaron, who let the Offering for Sin be burnt, that should have indeed been eaten, Levit. 10. Yet because he could not do it to his Edification, Moses was content. But the Law was thereby transgressed, chap. 6. 26. The Priest that offereth it for Sin, shall eat it.

To this you reply, That was not a constant, continued, forbearing of God's Worship, but a suspending of it for a Season.

Ans. We also suspend it but for a Season; when Persons can be baptized to their Edification, they have the Liberty.

But secondly, This was not a bare Suspension, a flat Transgression of the Law: Ye should indeed have eaten it: Yet Moses was content, Levit. 10. 16--20.

But say you, Perhaps it was suspended upon just and legal grounds, though not expressed.

Ans. The express Rule was against it; Ye should indeed (said Moses) have eaten it in the Holy place, as I commanded, vers. 18. But good Sir, are you now for unwritten verities? for legal Grounds, though not expressed? I will not drive you further, here is Room enough.

As for Eldad and Medad, it cannot be denied, but that their edifying of the People, was preferred before their conforming to every Circumstance, Numb. 11. 16--26.

You add, That Paul for a seeming low thing did withstand Peter.

Sir, If you make but a seeming low thing of Dissembling, and Teaching others so to do (especially where the Doctrine of Justification is endangered) I cannot expect much good Conscience from you.

Gal. 2. 11, 12, 13.

As for your Answer to the case of Hezekiah, it is faulty in two respects:

1. For that you make the Passover a Type of the Lord's Supper, when it was only a Type of the Body and Blood of the Lord: For even Christ our Passover is Sacrificed for us, 1 Cor. 5. 7.

2. In that you make it an Example to you to admit Persons unprepared to the Lord's Supper, pag. 29.

Ans. May you indeed receive Persons into the Church unprepared for the Lord's Supper; yea, unprepared for that, with other solemn Appointments? For so you word it, page 29. O what an Engine have you made of Water-baptism.

Thus, gentle Reader, while this Author teareth us in pieces for not making Baptism the orderly Rule for receiving the Godly and Conscientious into Communion; he can receive Persons if baptized, though unprepared for the Supper, and other solemn Appointments? I would have thee consult the Place, and see if it countenanceth such an Act, That a Man who pleadeth for Water-baptism above the Peace and Edification of the Church, ought to be received (although unprepared) into the Church to the Lord's Supper, and other solemn Appointments; especially considering the Nature of right Church-Constitution, and the Severity of God towards those that came unprepared to his Table of old, 1 Cor. 11. 28, 29, 30. A Riddle indeed, That the Lord should, without a Word, so severely command, that all which want Light in Baptism, be excluded Church-privileges; and yet against his Word, admit of Persons unprepared, to the Lord's Table, and other solemn Appointments.

But good Sir, why so short-winded? why could not you make the same Work with the other Scriptures, as you did with these? I must leave them upon you unanswered; and standing by my Argument conclude, That if Laws and Ordinances of old have been broken, and the Breach of them born with (when yet the Observation of outward things was more strictly commanded than now) if the Profit and Edification of the Church come in Competition; how much more, may not we have Communion, Church-communion, when no Law of God is transgressed thereby. And note, That all this while I plead not (as you) for Persons unprepared, but godly, and such as walk with God.

We come now to my seventh Argument, for Communion with the Godly, though unbaptized Persons; which you say is Love, pag. 29.

My Argument is this; Therefore I am for Communion thus; because Love, which above all things we are commanded to put on, is of much more worth than to break about Baptism. And let the Reader note, That of this Argument you deny not so much as one Syllable, but run to another story; but I will follow you.

I add further, That Love is more discovered when we receive for the sake of Christ, than when we refuse his Children for want of Water: And tell you again, That this Exhortation to Love is grounded not upon Baptism, but the putting on of the new Creature, which hath swallowed up all Distinctions, Col. 3. 9--14. Yea, there are ten Arguments in this one, which you have not so much as touched; but thus object, That Man that makes Affection the Rule of his walking, rather than Judgment, it is no wonder if he go out of the Way.

Ans. Love to them we are perswaded that God hath received, is Love that is guided by Judgment; and to receive them that are such, because God hath bidden us (Rom. 14.) is Judgment guided by Rule. My Argument therefore hath forestalled all you Noise, and standeth still on its legs against you.

Z

As

As to the Duties of Piety and Charity, you boast of, pag. 30. found not a Trumpet, tell not your left hand of it; we are talking now of Communion of Saints, Church-communion, and I plead that to love, and hold together as such, is better than to break in pieces for want of Water-baptism. My Reason is, because we are exhorted in all things to put on Love; the Love of Church-communion: contrariwise you oppose, Above all things put on Water. For the best Saint under Heaven that hath not that, with him you refuse Communion. Thus you make Baptism, though no Church Ordinance, a Bar to shut out the Godly, and a Trap-door to let the unprepared into Churches, to the Lord's-Supper, and other solemn Appointments, pag. 29.

But you object, Must our Love to the unbaptized indulge them in an Act of Disobedience? Cannot we love their Persons, Parts, Graces, but we must love their Sins? p. 30.

Ans. We plead not for indulging. But are there not with you, even with you Sins against the Lord your God? 2 Chron. 28. 10. But why can you indulge the Baptists in many Acts of Disobedience? For to come unprepared into the Church, is an Act of Disobedience: To come unprepared to the Supper is an Act of Disobedience; and to come so also to other solemn Appointments, are Acts of Disobedience.

But for these things, you say, you do not cast, nor keep any out of the Church.

Ans. But what Acts of Disobedience do we indulge them in?

In the Sin of Infant-Baptism.

Ans. We indulge them not; but being Commanded to bear with the Infirmities of each other, suffer it; it being indeed in our Eyes such: but in theirs they say a Duty, till God shall otherwise persuade them. If you be without Infirmary, do you first throw a stone at them: They keep their Faith in that to themselves, and trouble not their Brethren therewith: we believe that God hath received them; They do not want to us a Proof of their Sonship with God; neither hath he made Water a Wall of Division between us, and therefore we do receive them.

Object. I take it to be the highest Act of Friendship to be Faithful to these Professors, and to tell them they want this one thing in Gospel-Order, which ought not to be left undone, pag. 30.

Ans. If it be the highest piece of Friendship, to preach Water-Baptism to unbaptized Believers, the lowest Act thereof must needs be very low. But contrariwise, I count it so far off from being any Act of Friendship, to press Baptism in our Notion on those that cannot bear it; that it is a great Abuse of the Peace of my Brother, the Law of Love, the Law of Christ, or the Society of the Faithful. Love suffereth long, and is kind, is not easily provoked: Let us therefore follow after the things that make for Peace, and things wherewith one may edifie another: Let every one of us please his Neighbour, for his Good to Edification: Bear you one anothers Burdens, and so fulfil the Law of Christ, 1 Cor. 13. Rom. 14. 19. Chap. 15. 2. Gal. 6. 2.

But say you, I doubt when this comes to be weighed in God's ballance, it will be found no less than Flattery, for which you will be reprov'd, pag. 31.

Ans. It seems you do but doubt it, wherefore the Principles from which you doubt it, of that methinks you should not be certain; but this is of little weight to me; for he that will presume to appropriate the Epistles to himself and Fellows for the sake of Baptism, and that will condemn all the Churches of Christ in the Land for want of Baptism, and that will account his Brother as prophane Esau (pag. 20.) and rejected, as idolatrous Ephraim (pag. 32.) because he wanteth his Way of Water-Baptism; he acts out of his wonted way of Rigidness, when he doth but doubt, and not affirm his Brother to be a Flatterer. I leave therefore this your Doubt to be resolved at the Day of Judgment, and in the mean time trample upon your harsh, and unchristian Surmises.

As to our Love to Christians in other Cases, I hope we shall also endeavour to follow the Law of the Lord; but because it respects not the Matter in hand, it concerns us not now to treat thereof.

My Argument treateth of Church-Communion; in the Prosecution of which I prove,

1. That Love is grounded upon the new Creature, Col. 3. 9, &c.

2. Upon our Fellowship with the Father and Son, 1 John 1. 2, 3.

3. That with respect to this, it is the fulfilling of the Royal Law, Jam. 4. 11. Rom. 14. 21.

4. That it shews itself in Acts of Forbearing, rather than in publishing some Truths: Communicating only what is profitable, forbearing to publish what cannot be born, 1 Cor. 3. 1, 2. Acts. 20. 18, 19, 20. John 16. 17.

5. I shew further, That to have Fellowship for, to make that the Ground of, or to receive one another chiefly upon the account of an outward Circumstance; to make Baptism the including and excluding Charter; the Bounds, Bar, and Rule of Communion, when by the Word of the everlasting Testament, there is no Word for it; (to speak charitably) if it be not for want of Love, it is for want of Light in the Mysteries of the Kingdom of Christ. Strange! Take two Christians equal in all Points but this; nay, let one go beyond the other in Grace and Goodness, as far as a Man is beyond a Babe, yet Water shall turn the Scale, shall open the Door of Communion to the less; and command the other to stand back: Yet is no proof to the Church of this Babe's Faith and Hope, hath nothing to do with his entering into Fellowship, is no Part of the Worship of the Church. These things should have been answered, seeing you will take upon you so roundly to condemn our Practice.

You come now to my eighth Argument; which you do not only render falsely, but by so doing abuse your Reader. I said not that the Church of Corinth did shut each other out of Communion; but, For God's People to divide into Parties, or to shut each other from Church Communion, though for greater Points, and upon higher Pretences, than that of Water-Baptism, hath heretofore been counted carnal, and the Actors therein Babish-Christians; and then bring in the Factions, that was in the Church at Corinth. But what! May not the Evil of denying Church-communion now, if proved naught by a less Crime in the Church at Corinth, be counted Carnal and Babish; but the Breach of Communion must be charged upon them at Corinth also?

That my Argument is good you grant, pag 32. saying, The Divisions of the Church at Corinth were about the highest fundamental Principles, for which they are often called carnal; yet you cavil at it. But if they were to be blamed for dividing, though for the highest Points: Are not you much more for condemning your Brethren to perpetual Banishment from Church-Communion, though found in all the great Points of the Gospel, and right in all Church-Ordinances also, because for Want of Light they fail only in the Point of Baptism?

As to your Quibble about Paul and Apollos, whether they, or others, were the Persons (though I am satisfied you are out) yet it weakneth not my Argument; for if they were blame-worthy for dividing, though about the highest fundamental Principles (as you say) how ought you to blush for carrying it as you do to Persons, perhaps, more godly than yourselves, because they jump not with you in a Circumstance?

That the Divisions at Corinth were helped on by the Abuse of Baptism, to me is evident, from Paul's so oft suggesting it; Were you baptized in the Name of Paul? I thank God I baptized none of you, lest any should say, I had baptized in my own Name.

I do not say, that they who baptized them designed this, or that Baptism in itself effected it; nor yet (though our Author feigns it) that they were most of them baptized by their factious Leaders, pag. 55. But that they had their factious Leaders, is evident; and that these Leaders made use of the Names of Paul, Apollos, and Christ, is as evident; for by these Names they were beguiled by the help of abused Baptism.

But say you, Wherein lies the Force of this Man's Argument against Baptism as to its Place, Worth, and Continuance?

I answer; I have no Argument against its Place, Worth, or Continuance, although you seek thus to scandalize me. But this Kind of Sincerity of yours, will never make me one of your Disciples.

Have not I told you even in this Argument, That I speak not as I do, to persuade or teach Men to break the least of God's Commandments; but that my Brethren of the baptized Way may not hold too much THERE-UPON, may not make it an Essential of the Gospel, nor yet of the Communion of Saints. Yet he feigns that I urge two Arguments against it, pag. 36, & 38. But Reader, thou mayst know I have no such Reason in my Book. Besides, I should be a Fool indeed, were I against it, should I make use of such weak Arguments. My Words then are these;

I thank God (said Paul) that I baptized none of you but Crispus, &c. Not but that then it was an Ordinance, but they abused it in making Parties thereby, as they abused also Paul, and Cephas. Besides, (said he) I know not whether I baptized any other. By this negligent relating who were baptized by him; he sheweth that he made no such Matter thereof, as some in these Days do. Nay, that he made no Matter at all thereof with respect to a Church-Communion. For if he did not heed who himself had baptized, much less did he heed who were baptized by others? But if Baptism had been the initiating-Ordinance, (and I now add) essential to Church-Communion; then no doubt he had made more Conscience of it, than thus lightly to pass it by.

I add further, where he saith, he was not sent to baptize; that he spake with an holy Indignation against those that had abused that Ordinance. Baptism is an holy Ordinance, but when Satan abuseth it, and wrencheth it out of its Place, making that which is ordained of God, for the Edification of Believers, the only Weapon to break in Pieces the Love, Unity, and Concord of the Saints; than as Paul said of himself, and ^{1 Cor. 3.} Fellows, What is Baptism? Neither is Baptism any Thing? This is no new Doctrine, ^{1a. 1. 11,} for God by the Mouth of the Prophet of old, ^{12, 13,} cryed out against his own Appointments, when ^{14, 15.} abused by his own People, because they used them for Strife, and Debate, and to smite with the Fist of Wickedness. But to forbear, ^{Ia. 58. 4.} to take Notice thus of these Things, my Argument stands firm against you: For if they at Corinth were blame-worthy for dividing, though their Divisions were (if you say true) about the highest Fundamentals, you ought to be ashamed, thus to banish your Brethren from the Privileges of Church-Communion for ever, for the Want of so low a Thing as Water-Baptism. I call it not low, with respect to God's Appointment, though so, it is far from the highest Place, but in comparison of those Fundamentals, about which you say, the Corinthians made their Divisions.

You come next to my ninth Argument, and serve it as Hanun served David's Servants, 2 Sam. 10. 4. you have cut off one half of its Beard, and its Garments to its Buttocks, thinking to send it home with Shame. You state it thus;

That by denying Communion with unbaptized Believers, you take from them their Privileges to which they are born, pag. 40.

Ans. Have I such an Argument in all my little Book? Are not my Words verbatim these? If we shall reject visible Saints by calling, Saints that have Communion with God; that have received the Law at the Hand of Christ; that are of an holy Conversation among Men, they desiring to have Communion with us; as much as in us lieth, we take from them their very Privileges, and the Blessings to which they were born of God.

This is mine Argument: Now confute it.

Paul saith, (1 Cor. 1. 1, 2. 3. 22.) not only to the gathered Church at Corinth, but to all scattered Saints, that in every Place call upon the Name of the Lord, that Jesus Christ is theirs; that Paul, and Apollos, and Cephas, and the World, and all Things else was theirs.

But you answer, We take from them nothing, but we keep them from a disorderly Practice of Gospel-Ordinances, we offer them their Privileges, in the Way of Gospel-Order.

Ans. Where have you one Word of God, that forbiddeth a Person, so qualified, as is signified in mine Argument, the best Communion of Saints for Want of Water? There is not a Syllable for this in all the Book of God. So then, you in this your plausible Defence, do make your scriptureless Light, which in very deed is Darknes, (Isa. 8. 20, 21.) the Rule of your Brother's Faith; and how well you will come off for this in the Day of God, you might, were you not wedded to your wordless Opinion, soon begin to conceive.

Ans. Suppose it granted; Were they baptized, that thereby they might be qualified for their Right to Communion of Saints, so that without their submitting to Water, they were to be denied the other? Further, suppose I should grant this groundless Notion, Were not the Jews in Old-Testament Times to enter the Church by Circumcision? For that, though Water is not, was the very entering-Ordinance. Besides, as I said before, there was a full forbidding of all that were not circumcised from entering into Fellowship, with a threatening to cut them off from the Church if they entered in without it: Yet more than six hundred thousand entered that Church without it. But how now, if such an one as you had then stood up and objected, Sir Moses, What is the Reason that you transgress the Order of God, to receive Members without Circumcision? Is not that the very entering-Ordinance? Are not you commanded to keep out of the Church all that are not circumcised? Yea, and for all those that you thus received, are you not commanded to cast them out again, to cut them off from among this People, (Gen. 17. 13, 14. Exod. 12. 24, 25, 26.)

I say, Would not this Man have had a far better Argument to have resisted Moses, than you in your wordless Notion have to shut out Men from the Church, more holy than many of ourselves? But do you think that Moses and Joshua, and all the Elders of Israel, would have thanked this Fellow, or have concluded that he spake on God's Behalf? Or, that they should then, for the Sake of a better than what you call Order, have set to the Work that you would be doing, even to break the Church in Pieces for this?

But say you, If any will find or force another Way into the Sheep-fold, than by the Foot-steps of the Flock, we have no such Custom, nor the Churches of God, pag. 41.

Ans. What was done of old, I have shewed you, that Christ, not Baptism, is the Way to the Sheep-fold, is apparent: And that the Person, in mine Argument, is intitled to all these, to wit, Christ, Grace, and all the Things of the Kingdom of Christ in the Church, is, upon the Scriptures urged, as evident.

But you add, That according to mine old Confidence, I affirm, That drink ye all of this, is intailed to Faith, not Baptism: A Thing, say you, soon said, but yet never proved.

Ans. 1. That it is intailed to Faith, must be confessed of all Hands. 2. That it is the Privilege of him that discerneth the Lord's Body, and that no Man is to deny him it, is also by the Text as evident, (and so let him eat) because he is worthy. Wherefore he, and he only that discerneth the Lord's Body, he is the worthy Receiver, in God's Estimation; but that none discern the Lord's Body but the baptized, is both fond and ridiculous once to surmise.

Wherefore to exclude Christians, and to debar them their Heaven-born Privileges, for want of that which yet God never made the Wall of Division betwixt us: This looks too like a Spirit of Persecution, (Job 19. 25, 26, 27, 28, &c.) and carrieth in it those eighteen Absurdities which you have so hotly cried out against. And I do still add, *Is it not that which greatly prevailed with God to bring down those Judgments, which at present we (the People of God) groan under, I will dare to say it was, * A Cause thereof: Yea, I will yet proceed; I fear*

Exod. 12.

* And so it was in my first Copy, but for a, the Printer put in the.

I strongly fear, that the Rod of God is not yet to be taken from us; for what more provoking Sin among Christians, than to deny one another their Rights and Privileges to which they are born of God? And then to father these their Doings upon God, when yet he hath not commanded it, neither in the New Testament nor the Old?

But I may not lightly pass this by, for because I have gathered eighteen Absurdities from this Abuse of God's Ordinances, or from the Sin of binding the Brethren to observe Order, not founded on the Command of God; (and I am sure you have none to shut out Men as good, as holy, and as sound in Faith as ourselves, from Communion.) Therefore you call my Conclusion devilish, (pag. 43.) Top-ful of Ignorance, and Prejudice, (p. 41.) and me, one of Machiavel's Scholars, (p. 42.) also proud, presumptuous, impeaching the Judgment of God.

Ans. But what is there in my Proposition, that Men, considerate, can be offended at? These are my Words; But to exclude Christians from Church-Communion, and to debar them their Heaven-born Privileges, for the Want of that which yet God never made a Wall of Division between us: This looks too like a Spirit of Persecution: This respecteth more the Form, than the Spirit and Power of Godliness, &c. Shall I add, Is it not that which greatly prevailed to bring down those Judgments which at present we feel and groan under? I will dare to say, it was a Cause thereof, (p. 116, 117.) A, was in my Copy, instead whereof the Printer put in the; for this, although I speak only the Truth, I will not beg of you Belief; besides, the Book-seller desired me, because of the Printer's Haste, to leave the last Sheet to be overlooked by him, which was the Cause it was not among the Errata's.

But, I say, wherein is the Proposition offensive? Is it not a wicked Thing to make Bars to Communion, where God hath made none? Is it not a Wickedness, to make that a Wall of Division betwixt us, which God never commanded to be so. If it be not, justify your Practice; if it be, take Shame. Besides, the Proposition is universal, why then should you be the chief intended? But you have in this, done like to the Lawyers of old, who when Christ reproved the Pharisees of Wickedness before them, said, Master, thus saying thou reproachest us also, Luk. 11. 45.

But you feign, and would also that the World should believe, that the eighteen Absurdities which naturally flow from the Proposition, I make to be the Effects of Baptism, saying to me, None but yourself could find an innocent Truth big with so many monstrous Absurdities, pag. 42.

I answer: This is but speaking wickedly of God, or rather to justify your wordless Practice. I say not that Baptism hath any Absurdity in it, though your abusing it, hath them all, and many more, while you make it, without Warrant from the Word, as the flaming Sword, to keep the Brotherhood out of Communion, because they, after your Manner cannot consent thereto.

And let no Man be offended, for that I suggest that Baptism may be abused to the breeding such monstrous Absurdities, for greater Truths than that have been as much abused. What say you to, This is my Body? To instance no more, although I could instance many, are not they the Words of our Lord? are not they Part of the Scriptures of Truth? and yet behold, even with those Words, the Devil by abusing them, made an Engine to let out the Heart-blood of thousands. Baptism also may be abused, and is, when more is laid upon it by us, than is commanded by God. And that you do so, is manifest by what I have said already, and shall yet say to your fourteen Arguments.

My last Argument, you say is this;

The World may wonder at your Carriage to these unbaptized Persons, in keeping them out of Communion?

Ans. You will set up your own Words, and then fight against them: But my Words are these, What greater Contempt can be thrown upon the Saints, than for their Brethren to cut them off from, or to debar them Church-Communion!

And now I add, Is not this to deliver them to the Devil, 1 Cor. 5. or to put them to Shame before all that see your Acts? There is but one Thing can hinder this, and that is, By-standers see, that these your Brethren, that you thus abuse, are as holy Men as ourselves. Do you more to the open prophane, yea, to all Wizards and Witches in the Land? For all you can do to them (I speak now as to Church-Acts) is no other than to debar them the Communion of Saints.

And now I say again, the World may well wonder, when they see you deny holy Men of God that Liberty of the Communion of Saints, which you monopolize to your selves: And though they do not understand the Grounds of Profession, or Communion; yet they can both see, and say, these holy Men of God, in all visible Acts of Holiness, are not one Inch behind you. Yea, I will put it to yourselves, If those many, yea very many, who thus severely (but with how little Ground, is seen by Men of God) you deny Communion with, are not of as good, as holy, as unblameable in Life, and as sound, if not sounder in the Faith than many among ourselves: Here only they make the Stop, they cannot, without Light, be driven into Water-Baptism, I mean after our Notion of it: But what if they were, 'twould be little Sign to me that they were sincere with God.

To

To conclude this; when you have proved that Water-Baptism (which you yourself have said is not a Church Ordinance, p.40.) is essential to Church-Communion, and that the Church may, by the Word of God, bolt, bar, and for ever shut out those, far better than ourselves, that have not, according to our Notion, been baptized with Water; then 'twill be Time enough, to talk of Ground for so doing. In the mean Time I must take Leave to tell you, There is not in all the Bible one Syllable for such a Practice, wherefore your great Cry about your Order is wordless, and therefore faithless, and is a mere human Invention.

I come now to your fourteen Arguments, and shall impartially consider them.

YOUR first Argument to prove it lawful to reject the unbaptized Saint, is, Because the great Commission of Christ, Mat. 28. from which all Persons have their Authority for their Ministry, (if any Authority at all) doth clearly direct the contrary. By that Commission Ministers are first to disciple, and then to baptize them so made Disciples, and afterwards to teach them to observe all that Christ commanded them, as to other Ordinances of Worship. If Ministers have no other Authority to teach them other Parts of Gospel-Worship, before they believe and are baptized; it may be strongly supposed, they are not to admit them to other Ordinances before they have passed this first enjoined in the Commission.

Ans. 1. That the Ministers are to disciple and baptize, is granted. But that they are prohibited (by the Commission, Mat. 28.) to teach the Disciples other Parts of Gospel-Worship, that have not Light in Baptism, remains for you to prove. Shall I add, this Position is so absurd and void of Truth, that none that have ever read the Love of Christ, the Nature of Faith, the End of the Gospel, or of the Reason of instituted Worship, which is Edification, with Understanding, should so much as once imagine.

But where are they here forbidden to teach them other Truths, before they be baptized? This Text as fairly denieth to the unbaptized Believer, Heaven and Glory. Nay our Author in the midst of all his Flutter about this 28th of Matthew, dare venture to gather no more therefrom, but that it may be strongly supposed. Behold therefore, gentle Reader, the Ground on which these Brethren lay the Strefs of their Separation from their Fellows, is nothing else but a Supposition, without Warrant, skrewed out of this blessed Word of God. Strongly supposed! but may it not be as strongly supposed, that the Presence and Blessing of the Lord Jesus, with his Ministers, is laid upon the same Ground also? for thus he concludes the Text, And lo! I am with you always, even to the End of the World. But would, I say, any Man from these Words, conclude, that Christ Jesus hath here promised his Presence only to them that after discipling, baptize those that are so made; and that they that do not baptize, shall neither have his Presence nor his Blessing? I say again, should any so conclude hence, would not all Experience prove him void of Truth? The Words therefore must be left, by you, as you found them, they favour not at all your groundless Supposition.

To conclude, these Words have not laid Baptism in the way to debar the Saint from Fellowship of his Brethren, no more than to hinder his Inheritance in Life and Glory. Mark reads it thus; He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved; but he that believeth not, shall be damned, Mark 16. 16. letting Baptism, which he mentioned in the Promise, fall, when he came at the Threatning.

God also doth thus with respect to his Worship in the Church, he commands all and every whit of his Will to be done, but beareth with our coming short in this, and that, and another Duty. But let's go on.

Your second Argument, is:

That the Order of Christ's Commission, as well as the Matter therein contained to be observed, may easily be concluded, from God's Severity towards them that sought him not according to due Order, 1 Chron. 15. 13. Was God so exact with his People then, that all things to a Pin must be according to the Pattern in the Mount, Heb. 7. 16. and 9. 11. whose Worship then comparatively, to the Gospel, was but after the Law of a Carnal Commandment; and can it be supposed he should be so indifferent now to leave Men to their own Liberty, to time and place his Appointments, contrary to what he hath given in expresse Rule for in his Word as before? Ezek. 44. 7, 9, 10. It was the Priest's Sin formerly to bring the uncircumcised in Heart and Flesh into his House.

Ans. That there is no such Order in that Commission as you feign, I have proved. As for your far-fetch'd Instance (1 Chron. 15.) 'tis quite besides your purpose. The expresse Word was, That the Priest, not a Cart, should bear the Ark of God: Also they were not to touch it, and yet Uzza did, Exod. 25. 14. 1 Chron. 15. 12, to 16. Numb. 4. 15. 1 Chron. 13. Now, if you can make that 28th of Matthew say, Receive none that are not baptized first; or that Christ would have them of his, that are not yet baptized, kept ignorant of all other Truths that respect Church-communion; then you say something, else you do but raise a Mist before the simple Reader: but who so listeth, may hang on your Sleeve.

As for the Pins and Tacks of the Tabernacle, they were expressly commanded; and when you have proved by the Word of God, God, That you ought to shut Saints out of your Communion for want of Baptism, then you may begin more justly to make your Parallel. How fitly you have urged Ezek. 44. to insinuate that unbaptized Believers are like the uncircumcised in Heart and Flesh, I leave it to all Gospel-Novices to consider.

Your third Argument, is,

The practice of the first Gospel-Ministers, with them that first trusted in Christ, discovers the Truth of what I assert. Certainly, they that lived at the Spring-head, or Fountain of Truth, and had the Law from Christ's own Mouth, knew the Meaning of his Commission better than we: but their constant Practice in conformity to that Commission, all along the Acts of the Apostles, discovers that they never arrived to such a Latitude as Men plead for now a days. They that gladly received the Word were baptized, and they (yea they only) were received into the Church.

Ans. How well you have proved what you have asserted, is manifest by my Answer to the two former Arguments. I add, That the Ministers, and Servants of Jesus Christ in the first Churches (for that you are to prove) were commanded to forbear to Preach other Truths to the Unbaptized Believers; or that they were to keep them out of the Church: or that the Apostles, and first Fathers, have given you to understand by their Example, that you ought to keep as good out of Churches as yourselves, hath not yet been shewed by the Authority of the Word. The second of the Acts proveth not, That the three thousand were necessitated to be baptized in order to their Fellowship with the Church, neither doth it say THEY, yea they only, were received into the Church. But suppose all this, as much was done at the first Institution of Circumcision, &c. yet afterwards thousands were received without it.

Your fourth Argument is,

None of the Scripture-Saints ever attempted this Church-Privilege without Baptism, (if they did, let it be shewn). The Eunuch first desired Baptism before any thing else; Paul was first Baptized before he did essay to join with the Church. Our Lord Christ, the great Example of the New Testament, entred not upon his publick Ministry, much less any other Gospel Ordinance of Worship, till he was baptized.

Ans. That none of the Scripture-Saints (if there be any unscripture ones) so much as attempted this Church-privilege first, remains for you to prove. But suppose they were all Baptized, because they had light therein, what then? Doth this prove that Baptism is essential to Church-communion? Or, that Christ commanded in the 28th of Matthew, or gave his Ministers by that Authority, not to make known to Believers other Parts of Gospel-Worship, if they shall want light in Baptism? The Eunuch, Paul, and our blessed Lord Jesus, did none of them, by their Baptism, set themselves to us Examples how to enter into Church-communion; what Church was the Eunuch Baptized into, or made a Member of; but where is it said, that the unbaptized Believer, how excellent soever in Faith and Holiness, must, for want of Water-Baptism, be shut out from the Communion of Saints, or be debarred the Privilege of his Father's House? This you are to prove.

Your fifth Argument is,

If Christ himself was made manifest to be the SENT of God by Baptism, as appears, Mark 1. 9, 10. Then why may not Baptism, as the first Fruits of Faith, and the first step of Gospel-Obedience, as to instituted Worship, be a manifesting, discovering Ordinance upon others who thus follow Christ's Steps.

Ans. That Jesus Christ was manifested as the SENT of God by Baptism, or that Baptism is the first Fruit of Faith, and the first Step of Gospel-Obedience, as to instituted Worship, is both without Proof and Truth; the Text saith not, he was manifest to be the sent of God by Baptism; nay it saith not, that by that he was manifest to others to be any thing: you have therefore but wronged the Text to prove your wordless Practice by. Yea, John himself, though he knew him before he was baptized, to be a Man of God, (for saith he, I have need to be baptized of thee, Mat. 3. 14. and comest thou to me) and knew him after to be the SENT of God; yet not in, or by, but after he was baptized, to wit, by the descending of the Holy Ghost, after he John 1. 30. was come out of the Water, as he was in to 35. Prayer, for the Heavens were opened to John, and he saw, and bare Record, because he saw the Spirit descend from Heaven, and abide upon Jesus, after his Baptism, as he was in Prayer, Mat. 3. 13, to 17. Luk. 3. 21, 22. Thus we find him made known before, and after, but not at all by Baptism, to be the SENT of God.

And that Baptism is the Fruits of Faith, or that Faith ought to be tyed to take its first Step in Water-Baptism, in the instituted Worship of God (this you must prove) is not found exprest within the whole Bible. Faith acts according to its Strength, and as it sees, it is not ty'd or bound to any outward Circumstance; one believeth he may, and another believeth he may not, either do this or that.

Your sixth Argument is,

If Baptism be in any Sense any part of the Foundation of a Church, as to order, Heb. 6. 1, 2. It must have Place here or nowhere: why are those things called first Principles, if not first to be believed, and practised? Why are they rendered by the learned the A. B. C. of a Christian, and the Beginning of Christianity, Milk for Babes, if

if it be no matter whether Baptism be practised or no? If it be said Water-Baptism is not there intended, let them shew me how many Baptisms there are besides Water-Baptism? Can you build and leave out a Stone in the Foundation? I intend not Baptism a Foundation any other way, but in respect of Order, and it is either intended for that or nothing.

Ans. Baptism is in no Sense the Foundation of a Church. I find no Foundation of a Church, but Jesus Christ himself, Mat. 16. 18. 1 Cor. 3. 11. Yea, the Foundation mention'd, Heb. 6. 1, 2. is nothing else but this very Christ. For he is the Foundation, not only of the Church, but of all that Good that at any time is found in her. He is the Foundation OF our Repentance, and OF our Faith towards God, vers. 1, 2. Further, Baptisms are not here mentioned, with respect to the Act in Water, but of the Doctrine, that is, the Signification thereof. The Doctrine of Baptisms. And observe, neither Faith, nor Repentance, nor Baptisms, are called here Foundations: Another thing, for a Foundation, is here by the Holy Ghost intended, even a Foundation for them all; a Foundation OF Faith, OF Repentance, OF the Doctrine of Baptisms, OF the Resurrection of the Dead, and OF eternal Judgment. And this Foundation is Jesus Christ himself, and these are the first Principles, the Milk, the A, B, C, and the beginning of Christian Religion in the World.

I dare not say, No matter whether Water-baptism be practised or no. But it is not a Stone in the Foundation of a Church, no not respecting order; it is not, to another, a sign of my Sonship with God; it is not the Door into Fellowship with the Saints, it is no Church Ordinance, as you, your self have testified, pag. 40. So then as to Church-work, it hath no place at all therein.

Your seventh Argument is,

If Paul knew the Galatians ONLY upon the account of Charity, NO other ways to be the Sons of God by Faith; but by this part of their Obedience, as he seems to import, then the same may we judge of the Truth of Mens Profession of Faith, when it shews it self by this self-same Obedience, Gal. 3. 26, 27. Baptism being an Obligation to all following Duties.

Ans. This your Argument, being builded upon no more than a SEEMING Import, and having been above ten times overthrown already; I might leave still with you, till your seeming Import is come to a real one, and both to a greater Perswasion upon your own Conscience. But verily Sir, you grossly abuse your Reader; Must Imports, yea, must seeming Imports now stand for Arguments, thereby to maintain your confident Separation from your Brethren? Yea, must such things as these, be the Basis on which you build those heavy Censures and Condemnations you raise against your Brethren, that cannot comply with you, because you want the Word? A seeming Import. But are these words of Faith? or do the Scriptures only help you to seeming Imports, and me-hap-foes for your Practice? No, nor yet to them neither, for I dare boldly affirm it, and demand, if you can, to prove, that there is so much as a seeming IMPORT in all the Word of God, that countenanceth your shutting Men, better than our selves, from the Things and Privileges of our Father's House.

That to the Galatians, saith not, that Paul knew them to be the Sons of God by Faith, NO other way, but by THIS part of their Obedience; but puts them upon concluding themselves the Sons of God, if they were baptized into the Lord Jesus, which could not (ordinarily) be known but unto themselves alone; because, being thus baptized, respecteth a special Act of Faith, which only God, and him that hath, and acteth it, can be privy to. It is one thing for him that administreth, to Baptize in the Name of Jesus, another thing for him that is the Subject, by that to be baptized INTO Jesus Christ: Baptizing INTO Christ, is rather the Act of the Faith of him that is Baptized, than his going into Water and coming out again: But that Paul knew this to be the State of the Galatians NO other way, but by their external Act of being baptized with Water, is both wild and unsound, and a miserable IMPORT indeed.

Your eighth Argument is.

If being baptized into Christ, be a putting on of Christ, as Paul expresses, then they have not put on Christ, in that sense he means, that are not baptized; if this putting on of Christ, doth not respect the visibility of Christianity; assign something else as its Signification; great Mens Servants are known by their Masters Liveries, so are Gospel-Believers by this Livery of Water-baptism, that all that first trusted in Christ submitted unto; which is in it self as much an Obligation to all Gospel-Obedience, as Circumcision was to keep the whole Law.

Ans. For a reply to the first part of this Argument, go back to the Answer to the seventh.

Now that none have put on Christ in Paul's sense; yea, in a saving, in the best sense, but them that have, as you would have them, gone into Water, will be hard for you to prove, yea, is ungodly for you to assert.

Your comparing Water-baptism to a Gentleman's Livery, by which his Name is known to be his, is fantastical.

Go you but ten Doors from where Men have knowledge of you, and see how many of the World, or Christians, will know know you by this goodly Livery, to be one that hath put on Christ. What! known by Water-baptism to be one that hath put on Christ, as a Gentleman's Man is known to be his Master's Servant, by the gay Garment his Master gave him. Away fond Man, you do quite forget the Text. By THIS shall all Men know that you are my Disciples, if you love one another, John 13. 35.

That Baptism is in it SELF obliging, to speak properly, it is false, for set it by it self, and it stands without the Stamp of Heaven upon it, and without its Signification also: and how, as such, it should be obliging, I see not.

Where you insinuate, it comes in the room of, and obligeth as Circumcision: Acts 15. 1, 2. You say, you know not what. Circumcision was the initiating Ordinance, but this Gal. 5. 1, 2, 3, 4. you have denied to Baptism. Further, Circumcision THEN bound Men to the whole Obedience of the Law, when urged by the false Apostles, and received by an erroneous Conscience. Would you thus urge Water-baptism! would you have Men to receive it with such Consciences? Circumcision in the Flesh, was a Type of Circumcision in the Heart, and not of Water-baptism. Rom. 2. 28, 29. Phil. 3. 3.

If it were commendable in the Thessalonians, that they followed the foot-steps of the Church of Judea, 1 Thes. 2. 24. who it appears followed this order of adding Baptized Believers unto the Church; Then they that have found out another way of making Church-Members, are not by that Rule praise-worthy, but rather to be blamed; it was not what was since in corrupted times, but that which was from the beginning: the first Churches were the purest Pattern.

Ans. That the Text saith there was a Church of Judea, I find not, (1 Thes. 2. 14.) And that the Thessalonians are commended for refusing to have Communion with the unbaptized Believers, (for that is our question) prove it by the Word, and then you do something. Again, that the Commendations (1 Thes. 2. 14.) do chiefly, or at all, respect their being Baptized: Or, because they followed the Churches of God, which in Judea were in Christ Jesus, in the Example of Water-baptism is quite beside the Word. The Verse runs thus, for the Brethren, became followers of the Churches of God, which in Judea are in Christ Jesus, for ye also have suffered like things of your own Country-Men, even as they have of the Jews, &c. This Text then commends them, not for that they were Baptized with Water, but, for that they stood their ground, although Baptized with suffering, like them in Judea, for the Name of the Lord Jesus. For suffering like things of their own Country-Men, as they did of the Jews. Will you not yet leave off to abuse the Word of God, and forbear turning it out of its place, to maintain your unchristian Practice of rejecting the People of God, and excluding them their blessed Privileges.

The unbaptized Believer, instead of taking shame for entering into Fellowship without it, will be ready, I doubt, to put you to shame for bringing Scriptures so much besides the purpose, and for stretching them so miserably to uphold you in your Fancies.

Your tenth Argument is,

If so be, that any of the Members at Corinth, Galatia, Coloss, Rome, or them that Peter wrote to, were not baptized, then Paul's Arguments for the Resurrection to them, or to press them to Holiness from that ground (Rom. 6. Col. 2. 1 Cor. 15.) was out of doors, and altogether needless, yea, it bespeaks his ignorance, and throweth contempt upon the Spirit's Wisdom, (Heb. 6. 1 Pet. 3. 12.) by which he wrote; if that must be asserted as a ground to provoke them to such an end, which had no Being; and if all the Members of all those Churches were baptized, why should any plead for an Exemption from Baptism, for any Church Member now?

Ans. Suppose all, if all these Churches were baptized, what then? that answereth not our Question. We ask where you find it written, that those that are baptized, should keep Men as Holy, and as much beloved of the Lord Jesus as themselves, out of Church-communion, for want of Light in Water-baptism.

Why we plead for their Admission, though they see not yet, that that is their Duty, is because we are not forbidden, but commanded to receive them, because God and Christ hath done it, Rom. 14, and 15.

Your eleventh Argument is,

If unbaptized Persons must be received into Churches only, because they are Believers, though they deny Baptism; Then why may not others plead for the like privilege, that are negligent in any other Gospel-Ordinance of Worship, from the same ground of want of Light let it be what it will. So then as the consequence of this Principle, Churches may be made up of visible Sinners, instead of visible Saints.

Ans. I plead not for Believers simply because they are Believers, but for such Believers of whom we are persuaded by the Word, that God hath received them.

2. There are some of the Ordinances, that be they neglected, the Being of a Church, as to her visible Gospel-Constitution, is taken quite away; but Baptism is none of them, it being no Church-Ordinance as such, nor any part of Faith, nor of that Holiness of Heart, or Life, that sheweth me to the Church to be indeed a visible Saint. The Saint is a Saint before, and may walk with God, and be faithful with the Saints, and to his own Light also

though he never be baptized. Therefore to plead for his Admission, makes no way at all for the Admission of the open profane, or to receive, as YOU profess YOU do, Persons unprepared to the Lord's Table, and other solemn Appointments, pag. 29.

Your twelfth Argument is, Why should Professors have more Light in breaking of Bread, than Baptism? That this must be so urged for their Excuse: Hath God been more sparing in making out his Mind in the one, rather than the other? Is there more Precepts or Precedents for the Supper, than Baptism? Hath God been so bountiful in making out himself about the Supper, that few or none that own Ordinances scruple it: And must Baptism be such a Rock of Offence to Professors, that few will enquire after it, or submit to it? Hath not Man's Wisdom interposed to darken this Part of God's Counsel? By which Professors seem willingly led, tho' against so many plain Commands and Examples, written as with a Sun-beam, that he that runs may read? And must an Advocate be entertained to plead for so gross a piece of Ignorance, that the meanest Babes of the first Gospel-times were never guilty of?

Ans. Many Words to little purpose:

1. Must God be called to an Account by you, why he giveth more Light about the Supper than Baptism? May he not shew to, or conceal from this, or another of his Servants, which of his Truths he pleaseth: Some of the Members of the Church of Jerusalem had a greater Truth than this kept from them, for ought I know, as long as they lived, (Acts 11. 19.) yet God was not called in Question about it.

2. Breaking of Bread, not Baptism, being a Church-Ordinance, and that such also as much be often reiterated; yea, it being an Ordinance SO full of Blessedness, as lively to present Union and Communion with Christ to all the Members that worthily eat thereof; I say, The Lord's Supper being such, that while the Members sit at that Feast, they shew to each other the Death and Blood of the Lord, as they ought to do, till he comes, (1 Cor. 10. 15, 16, 17. and 11. 22, 23, 24, 25, 26.) the Church as a Church, is much more concerned in THAT, than in Water Baptism, both as to her Faith and Comfort; both as to her Union and Communion.

3. Your Supposition, That very few Professors will seriously enquire after Water-Baptism, is too rude. What, must all the Children of God, that are not not baptized for want of Light, be still stigmatized with want of serious Inquiry after God's Mind in it.

4. That I am an Advocate, entertained to plead for so gross a piece of Ignorance, as want of Light in Baptism, is but like the rest of your jumbling. I plead for Communion with Men, godly and faithful, I plead that they may be received, that God hath shewed us he hath received, and commanded we should receive them.

Your thirteenth Argument is, If Obedience must discover the Truth of a Man's Faith to others, why must Baptism be shut out? as if it was no part of Gospel Obedience. Is there no Precept for this Practice, that it must be thus despised, as a matter of little Use? Or shall one of Christ's precious Commands be blotted out of a Christian's Obedience, to make Way for a Church-fellowship of Man's devising?

Ans. 1. This is but round, round, the same Thing over and over: That my Obedience to Water, is not a Discovery of my Faith to others, is evident, from the Body of the Bible, we find nothing that affirms it.

And I will now add, That if a Man cannot shew himself a Christian without Water-Baptism, He shall never shew either Saint or Sinner, that he is a Christian by it.

2. Who they are that despise it, I know not; but that Church-membership may be without it, (seeing even you yourself have concluded it is no Church-Ordinance, pag. 40. not the entering-Ordinance, pag. 3, 4.) standeth both with Scripture and Reason, as mine Arguments make manifest. So that all your Arguments prove no more but this, That you are so wedded to your wordless Notions, that Charity can have no place with you. Have you all this while so much as given me one small Piece of a Text to prove it unlawful for the Church, to receive those whom she, by the Word, perceiveth the Lord God and her Christ hath received? No: and therefore you have said so much as amounts to nothing.

Your last Argument is,

If the Baptism of John was so far honoured and dignified, that they that did submit to it, are said to justify God; and those that did it not, are said to reject his Counsel against themselves: so that their receiving, or rejecting the whole Doctrine of God, hath its Denomination from this single Practice. And is there not as much to be said of the Baptism of Christ, unless you will say it is inferior to John's in Worth and Use.

Ans. 1. That our Denomination of Believers, and of our receiving the Doctrine of the Lord Jesus, is not to be reckoned from our Baptism, is evident; because according to our Notion of it, they only that have before received the Doctrine of the Gospel, and so shew it us by their Confession of Faith, they only ought to be baptized. This might serve for an Answer for all: But,

2. The Baptism of John was the Baptism Mat. 3. 4, of Repentance, for the Remission of Sins, of 5, 6. which Water was but an outward Signification, Mark 1. 4. Now what is the Baptism of Repentance, but an unfeigned Acknowledgment that they were Sinners, and so stood in need of a Saviour, Jesus Christ: Chap. 7. This 29, 30.

Chap. 10. This Baptism, or Baptism under this No-
 9. tion, the Pharisees would not receive, For Chap. 10. they trusted to themselves that they were righ-
 29. teous, that they were not as other Men, that Chap. 15. they had need of NO Repentance: Not but
 7. that they would have been baptized with Water, might that have been without an Acknowledgment that they were Sinners;
 Matt. 3. 7. wherefore seeing the Counsel of God re-
 Eph. 1. 7. spected rather the Remission of Sins by Je-8, 11. sus Christ, than the outward Act of Water Baptism, ye ought not, as you do, by this your Reasoning, to make it rather, at least in the Revelation of it, to terminate in the outward Act of being baptized, but in unfeigned and sound Repentance, and the receiving of Jesus Christ by Faith.

Further, A Desire to submit to John's Water-baptism, or of being baptized by him in Water, did not demonstrate by that single Act, the receiving of the whole Doctrine of God as you suggest.

Why did John reject the Pharisees that would have been baptized? and Paul examine them that were? Matth. 3. 7. Acts 19.
 2, 3.

If your Doctrine be true, why did they not rather say, Oh! seeing you desire to be baptized, seeing you have been baptized, you need not to be questioned any further;
 your submitting to John's Water, to us is a sufficient Testimony, even that single Act, that you have received the whole Doctrine of God.

But I say, why did John call them Vi-pers? And Paul ask'd them, Whether they had yet received the Holy Ghost? Yea, it is evident, that a Man may be desirous of Water that a Man may be baptized, and neither own the Doctrine of Repentance, nor know on whom he should believe; evident, I say, and that by the same Texts
 (Matth. 3. 7. Acts 19. 2, 3, 4.)

You have grounded therefore this your last Argument, as also the rest, upon an utter Mistake of Things.

I come now to your Questions; which although they be mixed with Gall, I will with Patience see if I can turn them into Food.

Your first Question is,

I Ask your own Heart, whether Popularity and Applause of Variety of Professors, be not in the Bottom of what you have said; that hath been your Snare to pervert the right Ways of the Lord, and to lead others into a Path wherein we can find none of the Foot-steps of the Flock in the first Ages?

Ans. Setting aside a Retaliation, like your Question, I say, and God knows I speak the Truth, I have been tempted to do what I have done, by a Provocation of sixteen Years long; tempted, I say, by the Brethren of your Way: Who, when-ever they saw their Opportunity, have made it their Business to seek, to rend us in pieces; mine own self they have endeavoured to perswade to forsake the Church; some they have rent quite off from us, others they have attempted and attempted to divide and break off from us, but by the Mercy of God, have been hitherto prevented.

A more large Account you may have in my next, if you think good to demand it; but I thank God that I have written what I have written.

Quest. 2. Have you dealt Brotherly, or like a Christian, to throw so much dirt upon your Brethren, in Print, in the Face of the World, when you had Opportunity to converse with them of Reputation amongst us, before Printing, being allowed the Liberty by them, at the same time for you to speak among them?

Ans. I have thrown no Dirt upon them, nor laid any thing to their charge, if their Practice be warrantable by the Word; but you have not been offended at the Dirt, your selves have thrown at all the Godly in the Land that are not of our Perswasion, in counting them unfit to be communicated with, or to be accompanied with in the House of God. This Dirt you never complained of, nor would, I doubt, to this Day, might you be still let alone to throw it. As to my Book, it was printed before
 I spake with any of you, or knew whether I might be accepted of you. As to them of Reputation among you, I know others not one tittle inferior to them, and have my Liberty to consult with who I like best.

Quest. 3. Doth your Carriage answer the Law of Love or Civility, when the Brethren used means to send for you for a Conference, and their Letter was received by you, that you should go out again from the City after Knowledge of their Desires, and not vouchsafe a meeting with them, when the Glory of God, and the Vindication of so many Churches is concerned.

Ans. The Reason why I came not amongst you, was partly because I consulted mine own Weakness, and counted not my self, being a dull-headed Man, able to engage so many of the chief of you, as I was then informed intended to meet me;
 I also feared, in Personal Disputes, Heats and bitter Contentions might arise, a thing my Spirit hath not pleasure in: I feared also, that both my self and Words would be misrepresented; and that not without cause, for if they that answer a Book will alter, and scrue Arguments out of their places, and make my Sentences stand in their own Words, not mine, when (I say) my Words are in a Book to be seen. What would you have done, had I in the least, either in Matter or Manner, though but seemingly miscarried among you.

As for the many Churches which you say are concerned, as also the Glory of God, I doubt

doubt not to say they are only your wordless Opinions that are concerned; the Glory of God is vindicated: We receive him that God hath received, and that to the Glory of God, Rom. 15. 16.

Quest. 4. Is it not the Spirit of Diotrophes of old, in you, who loved to have the Prebeminence, that you are so bold to keep out all the Brethren, that are not of your Mind in this Matter, from having any Entertainment in the Churches or Meetings to which you belong, though you your self have not been denied the like Liberty, among them that are contrary minded to you? Is this the way of your Retaliation? Or are you afraid lest the Truth should invade your Quarters?

Ans. I can say, I would not have the Spirit you talk of, what I have of it, God take it from me. But what was the Spirit of Diotrophes? Why, not to receive the Brethren into the Church, and to forbid them that would, (3 John 9, 10.) This do not I; I am for Communion with Saints, because they are Saints: I shut none of the Brethren out of the Churches, nor forbid them that would receive them. I say again, shew me the Man that is a visible Believer and that walketh with God; and though he differ with me about Baptism, the Doors of the Church stand open for him, and all our Heaven-born Privileges he shall be admitted to them. But how came Diotrophes so lately into our Parts? Where was he in those Days that our Brethren of the baptized Way, would neither receive into the Church, nor pray with Men as good as themselves, because they were not baptized; but would either, like Quakers, stand with their Hats on their Heads, or else withdraw till we had done.

As to our not suffering those you plead for to preach in our Assemblies, the Reason is, because we cannot yet prevail with them, to repent of their Church-renting Principles. As to the Retaliation, mind the hand of God, and remember Adonibezek, Judg. 1. 7.

Rom. 16.

Let the Truth come into our Quarters and welcome, but Sowers of Discord, because the Lord hates it, we also our selves will avoid them.

Quest. 5. Is there no Contempt cast upon the Brethren, who desired your Satisfaction, that at the same Time when you had Opportunity to speak to them, instead of that, you committed the Letters to others, by Way of Reflection upon them?

Ans. It is no Contempt at all to consult Men more wise and judicious than him that wrote, or myself either. But why not consult with others, is Wisdom to die with you? Or do you count all that yourselves have no hand in, done to your Disparagement?

Quest. 6. Did not your Presumption prompt you to provoke THEM to printing, in your Letter to them, when they desired to be found in no such Practice, lest the Enemies of Truth should take Advantage by it?

Ans. What provoked you to print, will be best known at the Day of Judgment, whether your Fear of losing your wordless Opinion, or my plain Answer to your Letter: The Words in my Letter are, As for my Book, never defer its Answer till you speak with me, for I strive not for Mastery but Truth. Though you did not desire to write, yet with us there was continual Labour to rend us to pieces, and to prevent that which was in my first Book written. And let who will take Advantage, so the Truth of God, and the Edification of my Brother be promoted.

Quest. 7. Whether your Principle and Practice is not equally against others as well as us, viz. Episcopal, Presbyterians, and Independents, who are also of our Side, for our Practice, (though they differ with us about the Subject of Baptism) Do you delight to have your hand against every Man?

Ans. I own Water-Baptism to be God's Ordinance, but I make no Idol of it. Where you call now the Episcopal to side with you, and also the Presbyterian, &c. you will not find them easily persuaded to conclude with you against me. They are against your manner of Dipping, as well as the Subject of Water-Baptism; neither do you, for all you flatter them, agree together in all but the Subject. Do you allow their Sprinkling? Do you allow their signing with the Cross? Why then have you so stoutly, an hundred Times over, condemned these Things as Antichristian. I am not against every Man, though by your abusive Language you would set every one against me; but am for Union, Concord, and Communion with Saints, as Saints, and for that Cause I wrote my Book.

To Conclude.

1. In ALL I have said, I put a Difference between my Brethren of the Baptized way; I know some are more moderate than some.

2. When I plead for the unbaptized, I chiefly intend those that are not SO baptized as my Brethren judge right, according to the first Pattern.

3. If any shall count my Papers worth the scribbling against, let him deal with mine Arguments, and Things immediately depending upon them, and not conclude he hath confuted a Book, when he hath only quarrelled at Words.

4. I have done when I have told you, that I strive not for Mastery, nor to shew myself singular; but, if it might be, for Union and Communion among the godly. And count me not as an Enemy, because I tell you the Truth.

5. And now, dissenting Brethren, I commend you to God, who can pardon your Sin, and give you more Grace, and an Inheritance among among them that are sanctified by Faith in Jesus Christ. Amen.

Here followeth Mr. HENRY JESSEY's Judgment upon the same Argument.

ROM. XIV. 1.

Such as are weak in the Faith, receive you, &c.

Whereas some suppose the receiving there mentioned, was but receiving into brotherly Affection, such as were in Church-Fellowship; but not a receiving of such as were weak into the Church.

For Answer unto which consider,

That in the Text are two things to be enquired into.

First, What Weakness of Faith this is, that must not hinder receiving.

Secondly, By whom, and to what, he that is weak in the Faith is to be received?

To the First, What Weakness of Faith this is that must not hinder receiving, whether was it Weakness in the Graces of Faith, or in the Doctrine of Faith? It's conceived the First is included, but the Second principally intended.

Mar. 9. 24. Luke 24. 25. First, That some of the Lord's People are weak in the Graces of Faith, will be confessed by all; and that the Lord would have his Lambs fed as well as his Sheep, and his Children as well as grown Men, and that he hath given the Right to Gospel-privileges, not to Degrees of Grace, but to the Truth; Him that is weak in the Faith, receive you: or UNTO you, as some GOOD Translations read it, Rom. 14. 1.

Secondly, It's supposed, this Command of receiving him that is weak in the Faith, doth principally intend, that is weak in the Doctrine of Faith, and that not so much in the Doctrine of Justification, as in Gospel-Institutions, as doth appear by the second and sixth Verses; which shews, that it was in Matters of Practice, wherein some were weak, and at which others were offended; notwithstanding the glorious Lord who bears all his Israel upon his Heart receives, vers. 3. and commandeth, him that is weak in the Faith receive you, or unto you.

Therefore, here we are to enquire of the receiving in the Text, By whom, and to what, he that is weak in the Faith, should be received.

In which Enquiry there are Two parts.

First, By whom.

Secondly, To what.

To the First. The Text makes Answer, Him that is weak in the Faith receive you, or unto you; which must be the Church at Rome, to whom the Epistle was writ; as also to all beloved of God, called to be Saints, Rom. 1. 7. And as to them, so unto all Churches and Saints, Beloved and cal- led throughout the World.

Note, That Epistles are as well to direct how Churches are to carry Things toward Saints without, as to Saints within; and also toward all Men so as to give no Offence to Jew or Gentile, nor to the Church of God, 1 Cor. 10. 32.

The second Part of the Enquiry is, to what he that is weak in the Faith is to be received? Whether only unto mutual Affection, as some affirm, as if he were in Church Fellowship before, that were weak in the Faith? Or whether the Text doth as well, if not rather intend, the receiving such as were and are weak in the Faith. Not only unto mutual Affection if in the Church, but unto Church-fellowship also, if they were out. For clearing of which consider, To whom the Epistle was written, Rom. 1. 7. Not only to the Church there, but unto all that were beloved of God, and called to be Saints in all Ages. And as at Rome it is like there then were, and in other Places now are Saints weak in the Faith, both in and out of Church Fellowship; and it is probable there then were, and elsewhere now are those that will cast such out of their mutual Affection. And if they will cast such out of their mutual Affection that are within, no doubt they will keep out of their Church Fellowship those that are without.

Arg. 3. Whereas the Lord's Care extends to all his, and if it were a good Argument in the third Verse, for them to receive those within, because God hath received them, it would be as good an Argument to receive in those without, for God hath received them also: unless it could be proved, that all that were and are weak in the Faith, were and are in Church-Fellowship, which is not likely: For if they would cast such out of their Affection that are within, they would upon the same Account keep them out of Church Fellowship that were without: Therefore as it is a Duty to receive those within unto mutual Affection, SO it is no less a Duty, by the Text, to receive such weak ones as are without, into Church Fellowship.

Arg. 2. Is urged from the Words themselves, which are, Receive him that is weak in the Faith; wherein the Lord puts NO Limitation in this Text or in any other; and who is he then that can restrain it, unless he will limit the Holy One of Israel? And how would such an Interpretation foolishly charge the Lord, as if he took CARE ONLY of those within, but not LIKE Care of those without; whereas he commandeth them to receive them, and useth this Motive, he had received them, and he receiveth those that are weak in the Faith, if without, as well as those within.

From the Example, (to wit) That God had received them; whereas had he been of the Church, they would have been persuaded ded of that before the Motive was urged: For no true Church of Christ's would take in, or keep in any, whom they judged the Lord had not received; but those weak ones were such as they questioned whether the Lord had received them, else the Text had not been an Answer sufficient for their receiving them: There might have been objected, They hold up Jewish Observations of Meats and Days, which by the Death of Christ were abolished, and so did deny some of the Effects of his Death; yet the Lord who was principally wronged could pass this by, and commandeth others to receive them also. And if it be a good Argument to receive such as are weak in any Thing, whom the Lord hath received, then there can be no good Argument to reject for any thing for which the Lord will not reject them: For else the Command in the first Verse, and his Example in the third Verse were insufficient, without some other Arguments unto the Church, beside his Command and Example.

 Some object, Chap. 15. 7. Receive you one another, as Christ hath received us unto the Glory of God, and from thence supposing they were all in Church Fellowship before, whereas the Text saith not so: For if you consider the 8th and 9th Verses, you may see he speaks unto Jews and Gentiles in general, that if the Jews had the receiving, they should receive Gentiles; and if the Gentiles had the receiving, they should receive Jews: For had they not been on both Sides commanded, the Jews might have said to the Gentiles, you are commanded to receive us, but we are not commanded to receive you; and if the weak had the receiving, they should receive the strong; and if the strong had the receiving, they should not keep out the weak; and the Text is reinforced with the Example of the Son's receiving us unto the Glory of God, that as he receiveth Jews, and poor Gentiles, weak and strong, in Church Fellowship, or out of Church Fellowship; so should they, to the Glory of God. And as the Lord Jesus received some, though they held some things more than were commanded, and some things less than were commanded, and as those that were weak and in Church Fellowship, so those that were weak and out of Church Fellowship; and that not only into mutual Affection, but unto Fellowship with himself; and so should they, not only receive such as were weak within into mutual Affection, but such as were without, both to mutual Affection and to Church Fellowship: Or else such weak ones as were without, had been excluded by the Text. Oh! how is the Heart of God the Father and the Son set upon this, to have his Children in his House, and in one another's Hearts as they are in his, and are born upon the Shoulders and Breasts of his Son their High Priest? And as if all this will not do it, but the Devil will divide them still whose Work it properly is; But the God of Peace will come in shortly, and bruise Satan under their Feet, as in Rom. 16. 20. And they will agree to be in one House, when they are more of one Heart; in the mean time pray as in Chap. 15. 5. Now the God of Patience and Consolation grant that we be like-minded one towards another according to Christ Jesus.

I shall endeavour the answering of some Objections, and leave it unto Consideration.

Obj. Some say this bearing, or receiving, were but in things indifferent.

Ans. That eating, or forbearing upon a civil account, are things indifferent, is true: But not when done upon the account of Worship, as keeping of Days, and establishing Jewish Observations about Meats, which by the Death of Christ are taken away; and it is not fairly to be imagined the same Church at Rome look'd so upon them as indifferent; nor that the Lord doth. That it were all alike to him to hold up Jewish Observations, or to keep Days or no Days, right Days or wrong Days, as indifferent things, which is a great Mistake, and no less than to make God's Grace little in receiving such: For if it were but in Things wherein they had not sinned, it were no great Matter for the Lord to receive, and it would have been as good an Argument or Motive to the Church, to say the Things were indifferent, as to say the Lord had received them.

Whereas the Text is to set out the Riches of Grace to the Vessels of Mercy, as Rom. 9. 15. That as at first he did freely chuse and accept them; so when they fail and miscarry in many Things, yea about his Worship also, although he be most injured thereby, yet he is first in passing it by, and persuading others to do the like: That as the good Samaritan did in the Old Testament, so our good Samaritan doth in the New, when Priest and Levite pass'd by, Pastor and People pass by, yet he will not, but pours in Oil, and carries them to his inn, and calls for receiving, and setting it upon his Account.

Object. That this bearing with, and receiving such as are weak in the Faith, must be limited to Meats, and Days, and such like things that had been old Jewish Observations, but not unto the being ignorant in, or doubting of any New-Testament Institution.

Ans. Where the Lord puts no Limitation, Men should be wary how they do it, for they must have a Command or Example, before they can limit this Command; for although the Lord took this Occasion from their Difference about Meats and Days to give this Command, yet the Command is not limited there, no more than Matt. 12. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7. That when they made use of his good Law rigorously in the Letter, he presently published an Act of Grace in in the 7th Verse, and tells them, Had they known what this meaneth, I will have Mercy and not Sacrifice, they would not have condemned the guiltless; as also Matt. 9. 13. Go learn what this meaneth, I will have Mercy and not Sacrifice, which is not to be limited unto what was the present Occasion of publishing the Command, but observed as a general Rule upon all Occasions, wherein Mercy and Sacrifice comes in competition, to shew the Lord will rather have a Duty omitted that is due to him, than Mercy to his Creatures omitted by them. So in the Text, when some would not receive such as were weak in the Faith, as to Matters of Practice, the Lord was pleased to publish this ACT of Grace; Him that is weak in the Faith receive you, but not to doubtful Disputation. Now unless it be proved, that no Saint can be weak in the Faith in any thing but Meats and Days, or in some Old-Testament Observation, and that he ought not to be judged a Saint that is weak in the Faith as it relates to Gospel-Institutions, in Matters of Practice, you cannot limit the Text, and you must also prove his Weakness SUCH, as that the Lord will not receive him; else the Command in the first Verse, and the Reason or Motive in the third Verse, will both be in Force upon you; to wit, Him that is weak in the Faith receive you, or unto you, for God hath received him.

Object. But some may object from 1 Cor. 12. 13. For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one Body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles. Some there are that affirm this to be meant of Water Baptism, and that particular Churches are formed thereby, and all Persons are to be admitted and joyned unto such Churches by Water Baptism.

Answer. That the Baptism intended in the Text is the Spirit's Baptism, and not Water Baptism; and that the Body the Text intends, is not principally the Church of Corinth, but all Believers, both Jews and Gentiles, being baptized into one Mystical Body, as Eph. 4. 4. There is one Body and one Spirit, wherein there is set out the Unity and the United; therefore in the third Verse they are exhorted to keep the Unity of the Spirit in the Bond of Peace. The United are all the Faithful in one Body; into whom? in the fifth Verse, in one Lord Jesus Christ: by what? one Faith, one Baptism, which CANNOT be meant of Water Baptism; for Water Baptism doth not unite all this Body, for some of them never had Water Baptism, and are yet of this Body, and by the Spirit gathered into one Lord Jesus Christ, Eph. 1. 10. both which are in Heaven and in Earth, Jew and Gentile, Eph. 2. 16. that he might reconcile both unto God in one Body by his Cross; the Instrument you have in vers. 18. by one Spirit, Eph. 3. 6. That the Gentiles should be Fellow-Heirs of the same Body, vers. 15. of whom the whole Family in Heaven and Earth is named. And the Reasons of their keeping the Unity of the Spirit in Eph. 4. 3. is laid down in ver. 4, 5. being one Body, one Spirit, having one Hope, one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, whether they were Jews or Gentiles, such as were in Heaven or in Earth, which CANNOT be meant of Water Baptism, for in that Sense they had not all one Baptism, nor admitted and united thereby: So in 1 Cor. 12. 13. For by one Spirit we are all baptized into one Body, whether Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free, we having been all made to drink into one Spirit; which CANNOT be meant of Water Baptism, in Regard all the Body of Christ, Jews and Gentiles, bond and free, partook not thereof.

Object. But Ephes. 4. 5. saith, there is but one Baptism; and by what hath been said, if granted, Water Baptism will be excluded, or else there is more Baptisms than one.

Answer. It followeth not that because the Spirit will have no Corrival, that therefore other Things may not be in their Places: That because the Spirit of God taketh the Pre-eminence, therefore other Things may not be subservient, 1 John 2. 27. The Apostle tells them, That the anointing which they have received of him, abideth in them; and you need not, saith he, that any Man teach you, but as the same anointing teacheth you all things. By this some may think John excludes the Ministry; no such matter, tho' the Holy Ghost had confirmed and instructed them so in the Truth of the Gospel, as that they were furnished against Seducers in ver. 26. yet you see John goes on still teaching them in many things: As also in Eph. 4. 11, 12, 13. he gave some Apostles, some Evangelists, some Pastors, and Teachers, vers. 12. for the perfecting of the Saints, for the Work of the Ministry, for the edifying of the Body of Christ; ver. 13. Till we all come in the Unity of the Faith, and of the Knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect Man, unto the Measure of the stature of the Fulness of Christ. So in the Spirit's Baptism, though it have the Pre-eminence, and appropriateth some Things, as peculiar to itself, it doth not thereby destroy the Use and End of Water Baptism, or any other Ordinance in its Place: for Water Baptism is a Means to increase Grace, and in it and by it Sanctification is forwarded, and Remission of Sins more cleared and witnessed; yet the giving Grace, and regenerating and renewing, is the Holy Spirit's peculiar. Consider Tit. 3. 5. By the washing of Regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost, Baptism being the outward Sign of the inward Graces wrought by the Spirit, a Representation or Figure, as in 1 Pet. 3. 21. The like Figure whereunto Baptism doth now also save us, not the putting away of the Filth of the Flesh, but the Answer of a good Conscience towards God, by the Resurrection of of Jesus Christ, not excluding Water Baptism; but shewing, That the spiritual Part is chiefly to be looked at: Tho' such as slight Water Baptism, as the Pharisees and Lawyers did, Luke 7. 30. reject the Counsel of God against themselves not being baptized: And such as would set Water Baptism in the Spirit's Place, exalt a Duty against the Deity and Dignity of the Spirit, and do give the Glory due unto him, as God blessed for ever, unto a Duty.

By which Mistake of setting up Water Baptism in the Spirit's Place, and assigning it a Work which was never appointed unto it; of forming the Body of Christ, either in general, as in 1 Cor. 12. 13. Eph. 4. 5. or as to particular Churches of Christ, we may see the Fruit, that instead of being the Means of uniting as the Spirit doth, that it hath not only rent his seamless Coat, but divided his Body which he hath purchased with his own Blood, and opposed that great Design of Father, Son, and Spirit, in uniting poor Saints, thereby pulling in pieces what the Spirit hath put together. Him that is weak in the Faith receive you, for God hath received him; being such as the Spirit had baptized and admitted of the Body of Christ, he would have his Churches receive them also: whose Baptism is the ONLY Baptism, and so is called the ONE Baptism: Therefore consider, whether such a Practice hath a Command or an Example, that Persons must be joyned into Church Fellowship by Water Baptism; for John baptized many, yet he did not baptize some into one Church, and some into another, nor all into one Church (as the Church of Rome doth): And into what Church did Philip baptize the Eunuch, or the Apostle the Jaylor and his House? And all the rest they baptized, were they not left free to joyn themselves for their Convenience and Edification? All which I leave to Consideration. I might have named some Inconveniencies, if not Absurdities that would follow the Assertion: As to father the Mistakes of the Baptizers on the Spirit's Act, who is not mistaken in any He baptizeth; no false Brethren creep in unawares into the mystical Body by him; and also how this manner of forming Churches would suit a Country, where many are converted, and willing to be baptized; but there being no Church to be baptized into, how shall such a Church-state begin? The first must be baptized into no Church, and the rest into him as the Church, or the Work stand still for Want of a Church.

Obj. But God is a God of Order, and hath ordained Order in all the Churches of Christ; and for to receive one that holds the Baptism he had in his Infancy, there is no Command nor Example for, and by the same Rule Children will be brought in to be Church Members.

Ans. That God is a God of Order, and hath ordained Orders in all the Churches of Christ is true; and that this is one of the Orders to receive him that is weak in the Faith, is as true. And though there be no Example or Command, in so many Words, receive such an one that holds the Baptism he had in his Infancy, nor to reject such a one; but there is a Command to receive him that is weak in the Faith, without Limitation, and it is like this might not be a Doubt in those Days, and so not spoken of in particular.

But the Lord provides a Remedy for all Times in the Text, Him that is weak in the Faith, receive you; for else receiving would not be upon the Account of Saintship; but upon knowing and doing all Things according to Rule and Order, and that must be perfectly, else for to deny any thing, or to affirm too much is disorderly, and would hinder receiving: But the Lord deals not so with his People, but accounts LOVE the fulfilling of the Law, though they be ignorant in many Things both as to knowing and doing; and receives them into Communion and Fellowship with himself, and would have others do the same also: And if he would have so much bearing in the Apostle's Days, when they had infallible Helps to expound Truths unto them, much more now, the Church hath been so long in the Wilderness and in Captivity, and not that his People should be driven away in the dark Day, though they are sick and weak, Ezek. 34. 16, 21. And that it should be supposed such Tenderness would bring in Children in Age to be Church-members, yea, and welcome, if any body could prove them in the Faith, though never so weak; for the Text is, Him that is weak in the Faith, receive you: It is not He, and his Wife, and Children, unless it can be proved they are in the Faith.

Object. By this, some Ordinances may be lost or omitted, and is it to be supposed the Lord would suffer any of his Ordinances to be lost or omitted in the Old or New Testament, or the right Use of them, and yet own such for true Churches, and what Reason can there be for it?

Ans. The Lord hath suffered some Ordinances to be omitted and lost in the Old Testament, and yet owned the Church. Though Circumcision were omitted in the Wilderness, yet he owned them to be his Church, Acts 7. 38. and many of the Ordinances were lost in the Captivity: See Ainsworth upon Exod. 28. 30, &c. which shewed what the High-Priest was to put on, and were not to be omitted upon pain of death, as the Urim and Thummim, yet being lost, and several other Ordinances, the Ark, with the Mercy-Seat and Cherubims, the Fire from Heaven, the Majesty and Divine Presence, &c. yet he owns the Second Temple, though short of the First, and filled it with his Glory, and honoured it with his his Son, being a Member and a Minister therein, Mal. 3. 1. The Lord whom you seek will suddenly come to his Temple: So in the New-Testament, since their Wilderness Condition, and great and long Captivity, there is some Darkness and Doubts, and Want of Light in the best of the Lord's People, in many of his Ordinances, and that for several Ages, and yet how hath the Lord owned them for his Churches, wherein he is to have Glory and Praise throughout all Ages, Eph. 3. 21. And so should we own them, unless we will condemn the Generation of the Just: It must be confessed, That if exact practice be required, and clearness in Gospel Institutions before Communion; who dare be so bold as to say his Hands are clean, and that he hath done all the Lord commands, as to Institutions in his Worship? and must not confess the Change of Times doth necessitate some Variation, if not Alteration, either in the matter or manner of things according to Primitive Practice; yet owned for true Churches, and received as visible Saints, though ignorant either wholly, or in great measure, in laying on of hands, singing, washing of Feet, and anointing with Oyl, in the Gifts of the Spirit, which is the Urim and Thummim of the Gospel: And it cannot be proved, that the Churches were so ignorant in the Primitive Times, nor yet that such were received into Fellowship; yet now herein it is thought meet there should be bearing, and why not in Baptism, especially in such as own it for an Ordinance, though in some Things miss it, and do yet shew their Love unto it, and unto the Lord, and unto his Law therein, that they could be willing to die for it rather than to deny it, and to be baptized in their Blood; which sheweth, they hold it in Conscience their duty, while they have further Light from above, and are willing to hear and obey as far as they know, though weak in the Faith, as to Clearness in Gospel Institutions; surely the Text is on their Side, or else it will exclude all the former, Him that is weak in the Faith receive you, but not to doubtful Disputations, Rom. 14. 5. Let every Man be fully persuaded in his own Mind, and such the Lord hath received.

As to the Query, What Reason is there, why the Lord should suffer any of his Ordinances to be lost?

Ans. If there were no Reason to be shewn, it should teach us Silence, for he doth nothing without the highest Reason; and there doth appear some Reasons in the Old Testament, why those Ordinances of Urim and Thummim, &c. were suffered to be lost in the Captivity, that they might long and look for the Lord Jesus, the Priest, that was to stand up with Urim and Thummim, Ezra 2. 63. Neh. 7. 65. which the Lord by this puts them upon the hoping for, and to be in the Expectation of so great a Mercy, which was the Promise of the Old Testament, and all the Churches Losses in the New Testament: By all the dark Night of Ignorance she hath been in, and long Captivity she hath been under, and in her wandering Wilderness state, wherein she hath rather been fed with Manna from Heaven, than by Men upon Earth; and after all her Crosses and Losses, the Lord lets Light break in by degrees, and deliverance by little and little; and she is coming out of the Wilderness leaning upon her Beloved; and the Lord hath given the Valley of Achor for a door of Hope, that e're long she may receive the Promise of the Gospel richly, by the Spirit, to be poured upon us from on high, Isa. 32. 15. and the Wilderness be a fruitful Field, and the fruitful Field become a Forest, and then the Lord will take away the Covering cast over all People, Isa. 25. 7. and the Vail that is spread over all Nations; Isa. 11. 9. For the Earth shall be filled with the Knowledge of the Lord, as the Waters cover the Sea, vers. 13. Then Ephraim shall not envy Judah, and Judah shall not vex Ephraim. Thus will the God of Peace bruise Satan under-foot shortly; and one Reason why the Lord may suffer all this Darkness and Differences that have been, and yet are, is, that we might long and look for this blessed Promise of the Gospel, the pourings out of the Spirit.

Object. But many Authors do judge, that the Weak and Strong were all in Church-fellowship before, and that the receiving Rom. 14. 1. was but into mutual Affection.

Ans. It ought to be seriously weighed how any differ from so many worthy Authors, is confessed, to whom the World is so much beholden for their help in many things; but it would be of dangerous consequence to take all for granted they say, and unlike the noble Bereans, Acts 17. 11. Though they had some infallible Teachers, yet they took not their Words or Doctrine upon trust; and there may be more ground to question Expositors on this Text, in regard their Principles necessitate them to judge that the Sense; for if it be in their Judgments a Duty to compel all to come in, and to receive all, and their Children, they must needs judge by that Text, they were all of the Church, and in Fellowship, before their scrupling Meats and Days, because that is an Act of grown Persons at years of Discretion; and therefore the receiving is judged by them to be only into mutual Affection, for it is impossible for them to hold their Opinion, and judge otherwise of the Text; for in Baptism, they judge Infants should be received into Church-fellowship; and then scrupling Meats and Days must needs be after joining. Their Judgments might as well be taken, that it is a Duty to baptize Infants, as that they can judge of this Text rightly, and hold their practice.

Object.

Object. But no uncircumcised Person was to eat the Passover, Exod. 12. And doth not the Lord as well require the sign of Baptism now, as of Circumcision then? and is there not like reason for it?

Ans. The Lord, in the Old Testament, expressly commanded no uncircumcised Person should eat the Passover, Exod. 12. 28. and in Ezek. 34. 9. that no stranger, uncircumcised in Heart, or uncircumcised in Flesh, should enter into his Sanctuary: And had the Lord commanded, that no unbaptized Person should enter into his Churches, it had been clear: And no doubt, Christ was as faithful as a Son in all his House, as Moses was as a Servant; and although there had been little reason, if the Lord had commanded it so to be, yet in God's Worship we must not make the Likeness of any Thing in our Reason, but the Will of God, the Ground of Duty; for upon such a Foundation some would build the baptizing of Infants, because it would be like unto Circumcision, and so break the Second Commandment, in making the likeness of Things of their own contrivance, of force with Institutions in the Worship of God.

The most that I think can be said is, That we have no Gospel Example for receiving without Baptism, or rejecting any for want of it: Therefore it is desired, what hath been said may be considered, lest while we look for an Example, we do not overlook a Command upon a mistake, supposing that they were all in Church-fellowship before; whereas the Text saith not so, but, Him that is weak in the Faith receive you, or unto you.

We may see also how the Lord proceeds under the Law, though he accounts those things that were done contrary to his Law, Sinful, though done ignorantly; yet never required the Offender to offer Sacrifice till he knew thereof, Levit. 5. 5. comp. with 15, & 16 verses. And that may be a Man's own Sin through his Ignorance; that though it may be another's Duty to endeavour to inform him in, yet not thereupon to keep him out of his Father's House; for surely the Lord would not have any of his Children kept out, without we have a word for it. And though they scruple some Meats in their Father's House, yet it may be dangerous for the stronger Children to deny them all the rest of the Dainties therein, till the Weak and Sick can eat strong Meat; whereas Peter had Meat for one, and Milk for another; and Peter must feed the poor Lambs as well as the Sheep; and if others will not do it, the Great Shepherd will come ere long and look up what hath been driven away, Ezek. 34. 4, 11. Isa. 40. 11. He will feed his Flock like a Shepherd; he shall gather the Lambs into his Bosom, and gently lead those that are with Young.

Peaceable Principles and True:

O R,

A brief Answer to Mr. Danver's and Mr. Paul's Books against my Confession of Faith, and Differences in Judgment about Baptism no Bar to Communion.

W H E R E I N

Their Scriptureless Notions are overthrown, and my Peaceable Principles still maintained.

Do ye indeed speak Righteousness, O Congregation? do ye judge uprightly, O ye Sons of Men? Psal. 58. 1.

S I R,

I Have received and considered your short Reply to my Differences in Judgment about Water-Baptism no Bar to Communion; and observe, that you touch not the Argument at all; but rather labour what you can, and beyond what you ought, to throw odiums upon your Brother for reproving you for your Error; to wit, That those Believers that have been baptized after Confession of Faith made by themselves, ought and are in Duty bound to exclude from their Church-Fellowship, and Communion at the Table

Table of the Lord, those of their holy Brethren that have not been so baptized. This is your Error: Error, I call it, because it is not founded upon the Word, but a mere humane Device; for although I do not deny, but acknowledge, that Baptism is God's Ordinance; yet I have denied, that Baptism was ever ordained of God to be a Wall of Division between the Holy and the Holy: the Holy that are, and the Holy that are not so baptized with Water as we.

Your Reflections, p. 7. You, on the contrary, both by Doctrine and Practice assert that it is; and therefore do separate yourselves from all your Brethren that in that matter differ from you; accounting them, notwithstanding their saving Faith and holy Lives, not fitly qualified for Church-communion, and all because they have not been, as you, baptized: Further, you count their Communion among themselves unlawful, and therefore unwarrantable; and have concluded, they are joyned to Idols, and that they ought not to be shewed the Pattern of the House of God, until they be ashamed of their sprinkling in their Infancy, and accept of and receive Baptism as you. Yea, you count them as they stand, not the Churches of God; saying, We have no such Custom, nor the Churches of God.

p. 32. At this I have called for your Proofs, the which you have attempted to produce; but in conclusion have shewed none other, but, That the Primitive Churches had those they received, baptized before so received.

p. 41. I have told you, that this, though it were granted, cometh not up to the Question; for we ask not, whether they were so baptized? But, whether you find a Word in the Bible that justifieth your concluding that it is your Duty to exclude those of your holy Brethren that have not been so baptized? From this you cry out, that I take up the Arguments of them that plead for Infant-Baptism: I answer, I take up no other Argument but your own, viz. That there being no Precept, President nor Example in all the Scripture, for our excluding our holy Brethren that differ in this Point from us, therefore we ought not to dare to do it, but contrariwise to receive them; because God hath given us sufficient proof that himself hath received them, whose example in this Case he hath commanded us to follow, Rom. 14. 15.

This might serve for an Answer to your Reply. But because, perhaps, should I thus conclude, some might make an ill use of my brevity; I shall therefore briefly step after you, and examine your short Reply; at least, where shew of Argument is.

Your first five Pages are spent to prove me either proud or a Liar; for inserting in the Title-page of my Differences, &c. that your Book was written by the Baptist, or Brethren of your way.

* If unby- In answer to which; who so * readeth

your second, your fifth and sixth Questions to me, may not perhaps be easily perswaded to the contrary; but the two last in your Reply, are omitted by you; whether for brevities sake, or because you were conscious to your self, that the sight of them would overthrow your Insinuations, I leave to the sober to judge. But put the Case I had failed herein, doth this warrant your unlawful Practice?

You ask me next, How long 'tis since I was a Baptist? and then add, 'Tis an ill Bird that bewrays his own Nest.

Ans. I must tell you (avoiding your slovenly Language) I know none to whom that Title is so proper as to the Disciples of John. And since you would know by what Name I would be distinguished from others; I tell you, I would be, and hope I am, a Christian; and chuse, if God should count me worthy, to be called a Christian, a Believer, or other such Name which is approved by the Holy Ghost. And as for those Factious Titles of Anabaptists, Independents, Presbyterians, or the like, I conclude, that they came neither from Jerusalem, nor Antioch, but rather from Hell and Babylon; for they naturally tend to Divisions, you may know them by their Fruits.

Next, you tell us of your goodly harmony in London; or of the amicable Christian correspondence betwixt those of divers Perswasions there, until my turbulent and mutineering Spirit got up.

Ans. The cause of my writing, I told you, which you have neither disapproved in whole, nor in part. And now I ask what kind of Christian correspondence you have with them? Is it such as relateth to Church-communion; or such only as you are commanded to have with every Brother that walketh disorderly, that they may be ashamed of their Church-communion, which you condemn? if so, your great flourish will add no praise to them; and why they should glory in a correspondence with them as Christians, who yet count them under such deadly sin, which will not by any means, as they now stand, suffer you to admit them to their Father's Table, to me is not easie to believe.

Farther, Your Christian correspondence (as you call it) will not keep you now and then, from fingering some of their members from them; nor from teaching them that you so take away, to judge and condemn them that are left behind: Now who boasteth in this besides your self, I know not.

Touching Mr. Jesse's Judgment in the Case in hand, you know it condemneth your Practice; and since in your first, you have called for an Author's testimony, I have presented you with one, whose Arguments you have not condemned.

For your insinuating my abusive and unworthy behaviour, as the cause of the Brethrens thens attempting to break our Christian Communion; it is not only false, but ridiculous: False; for they have attempted to make me also one of their Disciples, and sent *to * me, and for me for that purpose. Besides, it is ridiculous; surely their pretended Order, and as they call it, our disorder, was the cause; or they must render themselves very malicious, to seek the overthrow of a whole Congregation, for (if it had been so) the unworthy behaviour of one.*

Now, since you tell me, pag. 9. That Mr. Kiffin hath no need of my Forgiveness for the wrong he hath done me in his Epistle.

I ask, did he tell you so? But let it lie as it doth; I will at this time turn his argument upon him, and desire his direct Answer: There being no Precept, President or Example for Mr. Kiffin to exclude his holy Brethren from Christian Communion that differ with him about Baptism, he ought not to do it; but there is neither Precept, President, nor Example; therefore, &c.

You blame me for writing his Name at length: but I know he is not ashamed of his Name: and for you, though at the remotest rate, to insinuate it, must needs be damage to him.

Your artificial squibbing Suggestions to the World about my self, imprisonment, and the like, I freely bind unto me as an Ornament among the rest of my Reproaches, till the Lord shall wipe them off at his coming. But they are no Argument that you have a Word that binds you to exclude the holy Brethren Communion.

Now what if (as you suggest) the sober Dr. Owen, though he told me and others at first, he would write an Epistle to my Book, yet waved it afterwards; this is also to my advantage; because it was through the earnest Solicitations of several of you that at that time stopped his hand: And perhaps, 'twas more for the Glory of God, that Truth should go naked into the World, than as seconded by so mighty an Armour-bearer as he.

p. 6. You tell me also, that some of the sober Independents have shewed dislike to my writing on this Subject: What then? If I should also say, as I can without lying, that several of the Baptists have wished yours burnt before it had come to light; is your Book ever the worse for that?

In p. 13. You tell us, you meddle not with Presbyterians, Independents, mixt Communionists (a new name) but are for liberty for all according to their Light.

Ans. I ask then, suppose an holy Man of God, that differeth from you, as those above named do, in the manner of Water-Baptism; I say, suppose such an one should desire Communion with you, yet abiding by his own light, as to the Thing in question, would you receive him to Fellowship? If no, do you not dissemble?

But you add, If unbaptized Believers do not walk with us, they may walk with them with whom they are better agreed.

Ans. Then it seems you do but flatter them. You are not, for all you pretend to give them their liberty, agreed they should have it with you: Thus do the Papists give the Protestants their liberty, because they can neither will nor chuse.

Again, But do you not follow them with clamours and out-cries, that their Communion even amongst themselves, is unwarrantable? Now how then do you give them their liberty? Nay, do not even these Things declare that you would take it away if you could?

For the time that I have been a Baptist (say you) I do not remember that ever I knew, that one unbaptized Person did so much as offer themselves to us for Church-fellowship.

Ans. This is no proof of your love to your Brethren; but rather an Argument that your Rigidness was from that Day to this so apparent, that those good Souls despaired to make such attempts; we know they have done it elsewhere, where they hoped to meet with encouragement.

In p. 14. You seem to retract your denial of Baptism to be the initiating Ordinance. And indeed Mr. Danvers told me, that you must retract that Opinion, and that he had or would speak to you to do it; yet by some it is still so acknowledged to be; and in particular, by your great helper Mr. Denne, who strives to maintain it by several Arguments; but your denial may be a sufficient Confutation to him; so I leave you together to agree about it, and conclude you have overthrown him.

But it seems though you do not now own it to be the inlet into a particular Church; yet (as you tell us in p. 14. of your last) you never denied that Baptism doth not make a Believer a member of the universal, orderly, Church-visible. And in this Mr. Danvers and you agree. Per- sons enter into the Visible Church thereby, faith he.

Ans. Universal, that is the whole Church; This word now comprehendeth all the Parts of it, even from Adam to the very Worlds end, whether in Heaven or Earth, &c. Now that Baptism makes a Man a Member of this Church, I do not yet believe, nor can you shew me why I should.

2. The Universal, Orderly Church: What Church this should be (if by Orderly, you mean Harmony or Agreement in the outward Parts of Worship) I do not understand neither.

And yet thus you should mean, because you add the word VISIBLE to all at the last; The Universal, Orderly, Visible Church. Now I would yet learn of this Brother where this Church is; for if it be Visible, Visible, he can tell and also shew it. But to be short, there is no such Church: The Universal Church cannot be visible; a great Part of that vast Body being already in Heaven, and a great Part as yet (perhaps) unborn.

But if he should mean by Universal, the whole of that Part of this Church that is on Earth, then neither is it Visible nor Orderly. 1. Not Visible; for the Part remains always to the best Man's eye utterly invisible.

2. This Church is not Orderly; that is, hath not Harmony in its outward and visible Parts of Worship; some Parts opposing and contradicting the other most severely. Yea, would it be uncharitable to believe, that some of the Members of this Body could willingly die in opposing that which others of the Members hold to be a Truth of Christ? As for instance at home; could not some of those called Baptists, die in opposing Infant Baptism? And again, some of them that are for Infant-Baptism, die for that as a Truth? Here therefore is no Order, but an evident Contradiction; and that too in such parts of Worship, as both count Visible parts of Worship indeed.

So then by Universal, Orderly, Visible Church, this Brother must mean those of the Saints only, that have been, or are baptized as we; this is clear, because Baptism (saith he) maketh a Believer a Member of this Church; his meaning then is, that there is an Universal, Orderly, Visible Church, and they alone are the Baptists; and that every one that is baptized, is by that made a Member of the Universal, Orderly, Visible Church of Baptists, and that the whole Number of the rest of Saints are utterly excluded.

But now if other Men should do as this Man, how many Universal Churches should we have? An Universal, Orderly, Visible Church of Independents; an Universal, Orderly, Visible Church of Presbyterians, and the like. And who of them, if as much confused in their Notions as this Brother, might not (they judging by their own Light) contend for their Universal Church, as he for his? But they have more wit.

But suppose that this unheard-of fictitious Church were the only true Universal Church; yet whoever they baptize, must be a Visible Saint first; and if a Visible Saint, then a Visible Member of Christ; and if so, then a Visible Member of his Body, which is the Church, before they be baptized; now he which is a Visible Member of the Church already, that which hath so
AA. 8. 37. & 19. & 16. 33. made him, hath prevented all those claims that by any may be made or imputed to this or that Ordinance to make him so. His visibility is already; he is already a Visible Member of the Body of Christ, and after that baptized. His Baptism then neither makes him a Member, nor Visible Member, of the Body of Jesus Christ.

You go on, That I said it was consent that makes Persons Members of particular Churches is true. Pag. 4. of your first Ans. But that it is Consent and NOTHING else, Consent WITHOUT Faith, &c. is false. Your after-endeavour to heal your unsound saying, will do you no good; Faith gives being to, as well as Probation for Membership.

What you say NOW of the Epistles that they were written to particular Saints, and those too out of Churches as well as in, I always believed: But in your first you were pleased to say, you were one of them that objected against our proofs out of the Epistles, because they were written to particular Churches (intending these baptized) and that they were written to other Saints, would be hard for me to prove: but you do well to give way to the Truth. Your Re. flections, P. 9.

What I said about Baptism's being a PEST, take my Words as they lie, and I stand still thereto; Knowing that Satan can make any of God's Ordinances a PEST and Plague to his People, even Baptism, the Lord's Table, and the holy Scriptures; yea, the Ministers also of Jesus Christ may be suffered to abuse them, and wrench them out of their place. Wherefore I pray, if you write again, either consent to, or deny this Position, before you proceed in your Outcry.

But I must still continue to tell you, tho' you love not to hear thereof; That supposing your Opinion hath hold of your Conscience, if you might have your will, you would make inroads and outroads too, in all the Churches that are not as you in the Land. You reckon that Church-privileges belong not to them who are not baptized as we; saying, How can we take these Privileges from them before they have them, we keep them from a disorderly practice of Ordinances, ESPECIALLY among our selves; intimating you do what you can also among others: And he that shall judge those he walketh not with, or, say as you, that they like Ephraim, are joined to an Idol, and ought to repent and be ashamed of that Idol before they be SHEWED the pattern of the House; and then shall back all with the Citation of a Text; doth it either in jest or in earnest; if in jest, it is abominable; if in earnest, his Conscience is engaged; and being engaged, it putteth him upon doing what he can to extirpate the Thing he counteth Idolatrous and abominable, out of the Churches abroad, as well as that he stands in Relation unto. This being thus, 'tis reasonable to conclude, you want not an heart, but opportunity for your inroads and outroads among them. p. 37. of your Repl. p. 26. p. 30. p. 7.

Touching those five Things I mentioned in my second; you should not have counted they they were found no where, because not found under that Head which I mention: And now lest you should miss them again, I will present you with them here.

1. Baptism is not the initiating Ordinance.
2. That though it was, the case may so fall out, that Members might be received without it.
3. That Baptism makes no Man a Visible Saint.
4. That Faith, and a Life becoming the ten Commandments, should be the chief and most solid Argument with Churches to receive to Fellowship.
5. That Circumcision in the Flesh was a Type of Circumcision in the Heart, and not of Water-Baptism.

To these you should have given fair answers, then you had done like a Workman.

Now we are come to p. 22, and 23 of yours; where you labour to insinuate, that a Transgression against a positive precept, respecting instituted worship, hath been punished with the utmost severity that God hath executed against Men, on record, on this side Hell.

Treat. of Baptism.

Ans. Mr. Danvers says, That to transgress a positive Precept respecting Worship, is a breach of the first and second Commandment. If so, then 'tis for the breach of them, that these severe rebukes befall the Sons of Men.

2. But you instance the case of Adam his eating the forbidden Fruit; yet to no great purpose. Adam's first transgression was, that he violated the Law that was written in his heart; in that he hearkened to the tempting Voice of his Wife; and after, because he did eat of the Tree: He was bad then before he did eat of the Tree; which Badness was infused over his whole Nature; and then he bare this evil Fruit of eating Things that God hath forbidden.

Gen. 3.

Mat. 7. 17. Luke 6. 43. 44. Either make the Tree good, and his Fruit good; or the Tree bad, and his Fruit bad: Men must be bad, ere they do evil; and good, ere they do good.

Again, Which was the greatest judgment, to be defiled and depraved, or to be put out of Paradise, do you in your next determine.

But as to the matter in hand, What positive Precept do they transgress that will not reject him that God bids us receive, if he want light in Baptism?

As for my calling for Scripture to prove it lawful thus to exclude them; blame me for it no more; verily I still must do it; and had you but one to give, I had had it long before this. But you wonder I should ask for a Scripture to prove a Negative.

Ans. Are you at that door, my Brother? If a Drunkard, a Swearer, or Whoremonger should desire Communion with you, and upon your refusal, demand your grounds; would you think his Demands such you ought not to answer? would you not readily give him by SCORES? So doubtless would you deal with us, but that in this you are without the Lids of the Bible.

2. But again, you have acted as those that must produce a positive Rule. You count it your Duty, a part of your Obedience to God, to keep those out of Church-fellowship that are not baptized as you. I then demand what Precept bids you do this? where are you commanded to do it?

You object, That in Eph. 4. and 1 Cor. p. 24. 12. is not meant of Spirit-Baptism: But Mr. Jesse says it is not, cannot be the Baptism with Water; and you have not at all refuted him.

And now for the Church in the Wilderness; You thought, as you say, I would have answered my self in the thing; but as yet I have not, neither have you. But let us see what you urge for an Answer.

1. (Say you) though God dispensed with their obedience to Circumcision in that time, it follows not that you or I should dispense with the Ordinance of Water-Baptism now.

Gen. 17.
Exod. 12.

Ans. God commanded it, and made it the initiating Ordinance to Church-communion. But Moses, and Aaron, and Joshuah, and the Elders of Israel dispensed with it for forty Years; therefore the dispensing with it was ministerial, and that with God's allowance, as you affirm. Now if they might dispense with Circumcision, though the initiating Ordinance; why may not we receive God's Holy ones into Fellowship, since we are not forbidden it, but commanded; yea, why should we make Water-Baptism, which God never ordained to that end, a Bar to shut out and let in to Church-communion?

2. You ask, Was Circumcision dispensed with for want of Light, it being plainly commanded?

Ans. Whatever was the cause, want of Light is as great a cause: And that it must necessarily follow, they must needs see it, because commanded, favours too much of a Tang of Free-will, or of the sufficiency of our understanding, and intrencheth too hard on the Glory of the Holy Ghost; whose work it is to bring all Things to our remembrance, whatsoever Christ hath said to us, John 14. 26.

3. You ask, Cannot you give your self a Reason, that their moving, travelling state, made them incapable, and that God was merciful? can the same Reason, or any thing like it, for refusing Baptism, be given now?

Ans. I cannot give my self this Reason, nor can you by it give me any satisfaction.

First, Because their travelling state could not hinder; if you consider, that they might, and doubtless did lie still in one place years together.

1. They

1. They were forty Years going from Egypt to Canaan; and they had but forty two Journies thither.

2. They at times went several of these Journies in one and the same year. They went (as I take it) eleven of them by the end of the third Month after they came out of the Land of Egypt. Compare Exod. 19. 1. with Numb. 33. 15.

3. Again, in the fortieth year, we find them in Mount Hor, where Aaron died, and was buried. Now that was the Year they went into Canaan; and in that Year they had nine Journies more, or ten, by that they got over Jordan, Numb. 33. 38, &c. Here then were twenty Journies in less than an Year and an half. Divide then the rest of the time to the rest of the Journies, and they had above thirty eight Years to go their two and twenty Journies in. And how this should be such a travelling moving state, as that it should hinder their keeping this Ordinance in its season, to wit, to circumcise their Children the eighth Day; especially considering, to circumcise them in their Childhood, as they were born, might be with more security, than to let them live while they were men, I see not.

If you should think that their Wars in the Wilderness might hinder them; I answer, They had, for ought I can discern, ten times as much fighting in the Land of Canaan, where they were circumcised, as in the Wilderness where they were not. And if carnal or outward safety had been the Argument, doubtless they would not have circumcised themselves in the fight (as it were) of one and thirty Kings; Ifay, they would not have circumcised their six hundred thousand Warriors, and have laid them open to the Attempts and Dangers of their Enemies. No such thing therefore, as you are pleased to suggest, was the cause of their not being as yet circumcised.

Fourthly, An extraordinary Instance to be brought into a standing Rule, are no parallels: That's the sum of your Fourth.

Ans^r. The Rule was ordinary; which was Circumcision; the laying aside of this Rule became as ordinary, so long a time as forty Years, and in the WHOLE Church also. But this is a poor shift, to have nothing to say, but that the case was extraordinary, when it was not.

But you ask, Might they do so when they came into Canaan?

Ans^r. No, no. No more shall we do as we do now, when that which is perfect is come.

You add, Because the Church in the Wilderness, Rev. 12. could not come by Ordinances, &c. therefore when they may be come at, we need not practise them.

Ans^r. No body told you so. But are you out of that wilderness mentioned, Rev. 12? Is Antichrist down and dead to ought but your Faith? Or are we only out of that Egyptian Darkness, that in Baptism have got the start of our Brethren? For shame be silent: yourselves are yet under so great a Cloud, as to imagine to yourselves a Rule of Practice not found in the Bible; that is, to count it a Sin to receive your Holy Brethren, tho' not forbidden, but commanded to do it. Rom. 14. chap. 15.

Your great flourish against my fourth Argument, I leave to them that can judge of the weight of your words; as also what you say of the fifth or sixth.

For the Instance I give you of Aaron, David and Hezekiah, who did things not commanded, and that about holy Matters, and yet were held excusable; you, nor yet your Abettors for you, can by any means overthrow. Aaron transgressed the Commandment; David did what was not lawful; and they in Hezekiah's time did eat the Passover otherwise than it was written, 2 Chron. 30. 3, 4. Levit. 6. 26. ch. 10. 18. Mat. 12, 18. But here I perceive the Shoe pincheth; which makes you glad of Mr. Denne's Evasion for help. At this also Mr. Danvers (but yet to no purpose) cries out, charging me with asserting, that Ignorance absolves from Sin of Omission and Commission. pag. 29. But, Sirs, fairly take from me the Texts, with others that I can urge; and then begin to accuse.

You have healed your Suggestion of unwritten verities poorly. But any shift to shift off the force of Truth. After the same manner also, you have helped your asserting, that you neither keep out, nor cast out from the Church, if baptized, such as come unprepared to the Supper, and other solemn Appointments. Let us leave yours and mine to the pondering of wiser Men.

My seventh Argument (as I said) you have not so much as touched; nor the ten in that one, but only derided at the ten. But we will shew them to the Reader.

1. Love, which above all other things we are commanded to put on, is much more worth, than to break about Baptism, Col. 3. 14.

2. Love, is more discovered, when we receive for the sake of Christ and Grace, than when we refuse for want of Water.

3. The Church at Colosse, was charged to receive, and forbear the Saints, because they were new Creatures.

4. Some Saints were in the Church at Jerusalem, that opposed the preaching of Salvation to the Gentiles; and yet retain their Membership.

5. Divisions, and Distinctions among Saints, are of later Date, than Election, and the Signs of that; and therefore should give place.

6. It is Love, not Baptism, that discovereth us to the World to be Christ's Disciples Joh. 13. 35.

7. It is Love that is the undoubted Character of our Interest in, and Fellowship with Christ.

8. Fellow-

Gal. 6. 16. 8. Fellowship with Christ is sufficient to Jam. 4. 11. fills it not, who judgeth and setteth at nought his Brother.

10. Love is sometimes more seen, and shewed in forbearing to urge and press what we know, than in publishing and imposing, Joh. 16. 12.
1 Cor. 3. 1, 2.

11. When we attempt to force our Brother beyond his Light, or to break his Heart with grief, to trust him beyond his Faith, or bar him from his Privileges, how can we say I love?

12. To make that the Door to Communion which God hath not; to make that the including, excluding Charter, the Bar, Bounds and Rule of Communion, is for want of Love.
Here are two into the Bargain.

If any of these, Sir, please you not in this dress; give me a Word; and I shall as well as my Wit will serve, give you them in a fyllogistical Mode.

Now that you say (practically) for some speak with their Feet, (their walking Prov.
6. 13.) that Water is above Love; and all Pag. 32. other things is evident; because have they all but Water, you refuse them for want of that; yea, and will be so hardy, though without God's Word, to refuse Communion with them.

In our Discourse about the Carnality that was the Cause of the Divisions that were at Corinth, you ask, who must the charge Pag. 33. of Carnality fall upon, them that defend, or them that oppose the Truth?

Ans. Perhaps upon both; but besure upon them that oppose, wherefore look you to your selves, who without any command of God to warrant you, exclude your Brother from Communion; your Brother whom God hath commanded you to receive.

My ninth Argument, you make your self merry with in the beginning; but why do you by and by so cut, and hack, and cast it as it were in the Fire. Those seventeen Absurdities you can by no means avoid. For if you have not, as indeed you have not (though you mock me for speaking a word in Latin) not one word of God that commands you to shut out your Brethren for want of Water-Baptism, from your Communion; I say, if you have not one word of God to make this a Duty to you, then unavoidably,

1. You do it by a Spirit of Persecution.
2. With more respect to a Form, than the Spirit and Power of Godliness.
3. This also, makes Laws, where God makes none; and is to be wise above what is written.
4. It is a directing the Spirit of the Lord.

5. And bindeth all Mens Consciences to our Light and Opinion.

6. It taketh away the Childrens Bread.

7. And with-holdeth from them the increase of Faith.

8. It tendeth to make wicked the Hearts of weak Christians.

9. It tendeth to harden the Hearts of the wicked.

10. It setteth open a Door to all Temptations.

11. It tempteth the Devil to fall upon them that are alone.

12. It is the Nursery of all vain jang-lings.

13. It occasioneth the World to reproach us.

14. It holdeth staggering Consciences in doubt of the right ways of the Lord.

15. It abuseth the Holy Scriptures.

16. It is a prop to Antichrist.

17. And giveth occasion to many to turn aside to most dangerous Errors.

And though the last is so abhorred by you, that you cannot contain yourselves when you read it; yet do I affirm, as I did in my first (p. 116.) That to exclude Christians from Church-Communion, and to debar them their Heaven-Born Privileges, for the want of that which God never yet made a wall of Division between us; did, and doth, and will prevail with God to send those Judgments we have, or may hereafter feel.
Like me yet as you will.

I come next to what you have said in justification of your fourteen arguments.
Such as they were (say you) I am willing to stand by them: What I have offered, I have offered modestly; according to the utmost Light
I had into those Scriptures upon which they are bottomed; having not arrived unto such a peremptory way of Dictatorship, as what I render must be taken for Laws binding to others in Faith and Practice; and therefore express myself by Suppositions, strong Presumptions, and fair seeming Conclusions from the Premises.

Ans. Your Arguments, as you truly say, are builded upon, or drawn from Suppositions and Presumptions; and all because you want for your help the words of the Holy Scripture. And let the Reader note.
For as I have often called for the Word, but as yet could never get it, because you have it not, neither in Precept, President, nor Example, therefore come you forth with your seeming Imports and Presumptions.

The judicious Reader will see in this last,
that not only here, but in other Places, what poor shifts you are driven to, to keep your Pen going.

But, Sir, since you are not peremptory in your Proof; how came you to be so absolute in your Practice? For notwithstanding all your seeming modesty, you will neither grant these Communion with you; nor allow

allow their Communion among themselves, that turn aside from your seeming Imports; and that go not with you in your strong Presumptions. You must not; you dare not, lest you countenance their Idolatry; and nourish them up in Sin; they live in the breach of Gospel-order; and Ephraim-like are joined to an Idol. And as for your Love, it amounts to this, you deal with them, and withdraw from them, and all because of some strong Presumptions and Suppositions.

But you tell me, I use the Arguments of the Pædo-Baptists, to wit, But where are Infants forbidden to be Baptized?

But I ingenuously tell you, I know not what Pædo means; and how then should I know his Arguments.

2. I take no Man's Argument but Mr. K's. (I must not name him farther) I say I take no Man's Argument but his, now, viz. That there being no Precept, President, or Example, for you to shut your Holy Brethren out of Church-Communion; therefore you should not do it. That you have no Command to do it, is clear, and you must of necessity grant it. Now where there is no Precept for a Foundation; 'tis not what you by all your Reasonings can suggest; can deliver you from the Guilt of adding to his Word.

Are you commanded to reject them? If yea, where is it? If nay, for shame be silent.

Let us say what we will (say you) for our own Practice; unless we bring positive Scriptures that yours is forbidden, though nowhere written; you will be as a Man in a rage without it; and would have it thought you go away with the Garland.

Ans. 1. I am not in a Rage, but contend with you earnestly for the Truth. And say what you will or can, though with much more squibbing, Frumps and Taunts than hitherto you have mixed your writing with, Scripture Scripture we cry still. And 'tis a bad Sign that your Cause is naught; when you snap and snarl because I call for Scripture.

2. Had you a Scripture for this Practice that you ought to shut your Brethren out of Communion for want of Water Baptism I had done; but you are left of the Word of God, and confess it!

3. And as you have not a Text that justifies your own; so neither that condemns our Holy and Christian Communion: we are commanded also to receive him that is weak in the Faith, for God hath received him. I read not of Garlands, but those in the Acts; take you them. And I say moreover, that honest and holy Mr. Jesse hath justified our Practice, and you have not condemned his Arguments. They therefore stand all upon their Feet against you.

I leave your 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 Argument under my Answers where they are suppressed.

In your seventh you again complain, for that I touch your seeming Imports; saying, I do not use to say as John Bunyan, this I say, and I dare to say. I please myself by commending my Apprehensions soberly, and submissively to others much above me.

Ans. 1. Seeming imports are a base and unworthy Foundation for a Practice in Religion; and therefore I speak against them.

2. Where you say, you submit your Apprehensions soberly to those much above you; 'Tis false; unless you conclude none are above you, but those of your own Opinion. Have you soberly, and submissively commended your Apprehensions to those Congregations in London, that are not of your Perswasion in the Case in hand? and have you consented to stand by their Opinion? Have you commended your Apprehensions soberly and submissively to those you call Independents, and Presbyters? And are you willing to stand by their Judgment in the Case? Do you not reserve to yourself the Liberty of judging what they say? and of choosing what you judge is right, whether they conclude with you or no? If so; why do you so much dissemble with all the World in Print; to pretend you submit to others Judgment, and yet abide to condemn their Judgments? you have but one Help: perhaps you think they are not above you; and by that Proviso, secure yourself; but it will not do.

For the Offence you take at my Comment upon your calling Baptism, a Livery: and for your calling it the Spirit's metaphorical Description of Baptism: both Phrases are Boldness without the Word. Neither do I find it called a lifting Ordinance, nor the Solemnization of the Marriage betwixt Christ and a Believer. But perhaps you had this from Mr. D'auvers, who pleaseth himself with this kind of wording it: and says moreover in Justification of you, That Persons entred into the visible Church thereby (by Baptism, which is untrue, (though Mr. Baxter also saith it) are by Consent admitted into particular Congregations, where they may claim their privileges due to Baptized Believers, being orderly put into the Body, and put on Christ by their Baptismal Vow and Covenant: for by that publick declaration of Consent, is the Marriage and solemn Contract made betwixt Christ and a Believer in Baptism. And (saith he) if it be preposterous and wicked for a Man and Woman to cohabit together, and to enjoy the privileges of a Married Estate without the passing of that publick Solemnity: So it is NO less disorderly upon a spiritual Account, for any to claim the Privileges of a Church, or be admitted to the same, till the passing of this Solemnity by them.

Ans. But these Words are very black.

First, here he hath not only implicitly forbidden Jesus Christ to hold Communion with

with the Saints that are not yet his by Baptism; but is bold to charge him with being as preposterous and wicked if he do, as a Man that liveth with a Woman in the privileges of a married State, without passing that publick Solemnity.

Secondly, He here also chargeth him as guilty of the same Wickedness, that shall but dare to claim Church-Communion without it; yea, and the whole Church too, if they shall admit such Members to their Fellowship.

And now since cleaving to Christ by Vow and Covenant, will not do without Baptism, after personal Confession of Faith; what a State are all those poor Saints of Jesus in, that have avowed themselves to be his a thousand times without this Baptism? yea, and what a Case is Jesus Christ in too, by your Argument, to hold that Communion with them, that belongeth only unto them that are Married to him by this Solemnity!

Brother, God give him Repentance. I wot that through Ignorance, and a preposterous Zeal he said it: unsay it again with Tears, and by a publick Renunciation of so wicked and horrible Words; but I thus sparingly pass you by.

I shall not trouble the World any farther with an Answer to the rest of your Books: The Books are publick to the World: let Men read and judge. And had it not been for your endeavouring to stigmatize me with Reproach and Scandal (a thing that doth not become you) I needed not have given you two Lines in answer.

And now, my angry Brother, if you shall write again, pray keep to the Question, namely, what Precept, President, or Example have you in God's Word to exclude your holy Brethren from Church-Communion for want of Water-Baptism.

Mr. Denn's great Measure, please yourself with it, and when you shall make his Arguments your own, and tell me so, you perhaps may have an Answer, but considering him, and comparing his Notions with his Conversation, I count it will be better for him to be better in Morals, before he be worthy of an Answer.

The CONCLUSION.

READER, when Moses sought to set the Brethren that strove against each other, at one, He that did the wrong thrust him away, as unwilling to be hindred in his ungodly Attempts; but Moses continuing to make Peace betwixt them, the same Person attempted to charge him with a murderous and bloody Design, saying, Wilt thou kill me as thou didst the Egyptian yesterday? a thing too commonly thrown upon those that seek Peace, and insue it. My Soul, saith David, hath long dwelt with him that hateth Peace: I am for Peace, said he, but when I speak, they are for War. One would think that even Nature itself should count Peace and Concord a thing of greatest worth among Saints, especially since they above all Men, know themselves; for he that best knoweth himself, is best able to pity and bear with another; yet even amongst these, such will arise, as will make Divisions among their Brethren, and seek to draw away Disciples after them; Crying still that they, even they are in the Right, and all that hold not with them in the wrong, and to be withdrawn from.

But when every HE hath said all that he can, it is one of the things which the Lord hateth, to sow Discord among Brethren.

Yet many Years Experience we have had of these mischievous Attempts, as also have others in other Places, as may be instanced if Occasion requireth it, and that specially by those of the rigid way of our Brethren, the Baptists so called, whose Principles will neither allow them to admit TO Communion, The Saint that differeth from them about Baptism, nor consent they should communicate in a Church-State among themselves; but take occasion still ever as they can, both to reproach their Church-State, and to finger from amongst them who they can to themselves. These things being grievous to those concerned (as we are) though perhaps those at quiet are too little concerned in the matter) therefore when I could no longer forbear, I thought good to present to publick View the warrantableness of our Holy Communion, and the Unreasonableness of their seeking to break us to Pieces. At this Mr. Will. K. Mr. Thomas Paul, and Mr. Henry D'anvers, and Mr. Denn, fell with might and main upon me; some comparing me to the Devil, others to a Bedlam, others to a Sot, and the like, for my seeking Peace and Truth among the Godly. Nay, further, they began to cry out MURDER, as if I intended nothing less than to accuse them to the Magistrate, and to render them incapable of a share in the Commonwealth, when I only struck at their Heart-breaking, Church-renting Principles, and Practice, in their excluding their holy Brethren's Communion from them, and their condemning of it amongst themselves. They also follow me with Slanders and Reproaches, counting (it seems) such things Arguments to defend themselves.

But I in the mean time call for Proof, Scripture-Proof to convince me, 'tis a Duty to refuse Communion with those of the Saints that differ from them about Baptism; at this Mr. P. takes offence, calling my demanding of Proof for their rejecting the unbaptized Believer, how excellent soever in Faith and Holiness, a clamorous calling for Proof, with high and swelling words, words, which he counteth not worthy of answer; but I know the reason, he by this Demand is shut out of the Bible, as himself also suggesteth: wherefore, when coming to assault me with Arguments, he can do it but by seeming Imports, Suppositions, and strong Presumptions, and tells you farther in his Reply, that this is the utmost of his Light in the Scriptures urged for his Practice; of which Light thou mayst easily judge, good Reader, that hast but the common Understanding of the Mind of God, concerning brotherly-love. Strange! that the Scripture that every where commandeth and presseth to Love, to Forbearance, and bearing the Burden of our Brother; should yet imply, or implicitly import that we should shut them out of our Father's House; or that those Scriptures that command us to receive the weak, should yet command us to shut out the strong! Thinkest thou, Reader, that the Scripture hath two Faces, and speaketh with two Mouths? yet it must do so, by these Mens Doctrine. It saith expressly, Receive one another, as Christ also received us to the Glory of God. But these Men say 'tis not Duty, 'tis preposterous, and idolatrous; concluding that to receive this Brother, is not a Custom of them, nor yet of the Churches of God: consequently telling thee, that those that receive such a Brother are not (let them talk while they will) any of the Churches of God: see their Charity, their Candor and Love, in the midst of their great Pretensions of Love.

But be thou assured, Christian Reader, that for these their uncharitable Words and Actions, they have not footing in the Word of God, neither can they heal themselves with suggesting their amicable Correspondence to the World; Church-Communion I plead for, Church-Communion they deny them, yet Church-Communion is Scripture-Communion, and we read of none other among the Saints. True, we are commanded to withdraw from every Brother that walks disorderly, that they may be ashamed, yet not to count him as an Enemy, but to admonish him as a Brother. If this be that they intend, for I know not of another Communion, that we ought to have with those, to whom we deny Church-Communion; then what ground of rejoycing those have that are thus respected by their Brethren, I leave it to themselves to consider of.

In the mean while, I affirm, that Baptism with Water, is neither a Bar nor Bolt to Communion of Saints, nor a Door nor Inlet to Communion of Saints. The same which is the Argument of my Books; and as some of the moderate among themselves have affirmed, that neither Mr. K. Mr. P. nor Mr. D'anvers, have made invalid, though sufficiently they have made their Assault.

For Mr. Denn, I suppose they count him none of themselves, though both He, and

Mr. Lamb (like to like) are brought for Authors and Abettors of their Practice, and to refel my peaceable Principle. For Mr. Denn, if either of three will make his Arguments their own, they may see what their Servant can do: but I shall not bestow Paper and Ink upon Him, nor yet upon Mr. Lamb; the one already, having given his Profession the lie, and for the other perhaps they that know his Life, will see little of Conscience in the whole of his Religion, and conclude him not worth the taking notice of. Besides Mr. P. hath also concluded against Mr. Denn, that Baptism is not the initiating Ordinance, and that his utmost strength for the Justification of his own Practice is, Suppositions, Imports, and strong Presumptions, things that they laugh at, despise and deride, when brought by their Brethren to prove Infant-Baptism.

Railing for Railing, I will not render, though one of these Opposers (Mr. Dan. by name) did tell me, that Mr. Paul's Reply when it came out, would sufficiently provoke me to so beastly a Work: but what is the reason of his so writing, if not the peevishness of his own Spirit, or the want of better matter.

This I thank God for, that some of the Brethren of this way, are of late more moderate than formerly, and that those that retain their former sowerness still, are left by their Brethren, to the Vinegar of their own Spirits, their Brethren ingenuously confessing, that could these of their Company bear it, they have liberty in their own Souls to communicate with Saints as Saints, tho' they differ about Water-Baptism.

Well, God banish bitterness out of the Churches, and pardon them that are the Maintainers of Schisms and Divisions among the godly. Behold how good and how pleasant it is for Brethren to dwell together in Unity. It is like the precious Ointment upon the Head, that ran down upon the Beard, even Aaron's Beard, and that went down to the Skirts of his Garment: (farther) it is as the Dew of Hermon, that descended on the Mountains of Sion. Mark, for there the Lord commanded the blessing, even Life for evermore, Psal. 133.

I was advised by some, who considered the wise Man's Proverb, not to let Mr. Paul pass with all his bitter Invectives, but I consider that the wrath of Man worketh not the Righteousness of God; therefore I shall leave him to the Censure and Rebuke of the sober, where I doubt not but his unfavoury ways with me will be seasonably brought to his Remembrance.

FAREWELL.

I am thine to serve thee, Christian, so long as I can look out at those Eyes, that have had so much dirt thrown at them by many.

J. B U N Y A N.

Of the Love of CHRIST.

THE love of Christ, poor I! may touch upon;

But 'tis unsearchable. Oh! There is none
It's large Dimensions can comprehend,
Sould they dilate thereon, world without end.

When we had sinned, in his Zeal he swore,
That he upon his back our Sins would bear.
And since unto Sin is entailed Death,
He vowed, for our Sins he'd lose his Breath.

He did not only say, vow, or resolve,
But to Astonishment did so involve
Himself in man's distress and misery,
As for, and with him, both to live and die.
To his eternal Fame in sacred Story,
We find that he did lay aside his Glory,
Stept from the Throne of highest Dignity;
Became, poor man, did in a manger lie;
Yea was beholden upon his for bread,
Had of his own, not where to lay his head:
Tho' rich, he did, for us, become thus poor,
That he might make us rich for evermore.

Nor was this but the least of what he did;
But the outside of what he suffered.

God made his blessed Son under the Law;
Under the Curse, which, like the Lyon's Paw,

Did rent and tear his Soul, for mankind's Sin,
More than if we for it in Hell had been.
His Cries, his Tears, and bloody Agony,
The Nature of his Death doth testify.

Nor did he of constraint himself thus give,
For Sin, to Death, that Man might with him live.

He did do what he did most willingly,
He sung, and gave God thanks, that he must die.

But do Kings use to die for Captive Slaves?

Yet we were such, when Jesus dy'd to save's.

Yea, when he made himself a Sacrifice,
It was that he might save his Enemies.

And, tho' he was provoked to retract,
His blest Resolves, for such, so good an Act,

By the abusive Carriages of those,
That did both him, his Love, and Grace oppose:

Yet he, as unconcerned with such things,
Goes on, determines to make Captives
Kings;

Yea, many of his Murderers he takes Into his Favour, and them Princes makes.

THE
OF THE LAW and GRACE
UNFOLDED:

OR, A
Discourse touching the LAW and GRACE.

The Nature of the One, and the Nature of the Other: Shewing what they are, as they are the TWO COVENANTS: And likewise, Who they be, and what their Conditions are, that be under either of these TWO COVENANTS.

WHEREIN

For the better Understanding of the Reader, there are several Questions answered, touching the LAW and GRACE, very easy to be read, and as easy to be understood, by those that are the Sons of Wisdom, the Children of the SECOND COVENANT.

ALSO,

Several TITLES set over the several Truths contained in this Book, for thy sooner finding of them.

The Law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in of a better Hope did; by the which we draw nigh to God, Heb. 7. 19.

Therefore we conclude, That a Man is justified by Faith, without the Deeds of the Law, Rom. 3. 28.

To him therefore that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the Ungodly, his Faith is counted for Righteousness, Rom. 4. 5.

The Epistle to the Reader.

READER,

IF at any time there be held forth by the Preacher, the Freeness and Fulness of the Gospel, together with the Readiness of the Lord of Peace to receive those that have any Desire thereto; presently it is the Spirit of the World to cry out, Sure this Man disdains the Law, slights the Law, and counts that of none Effect; and all because there is not, together with the Gospel, mingled the Doctrine of the Law, (which is not a right dispensing of the Word according to Truth and Knowledge.) Again, if there be the Terror, Horror, and Severity of the Law, discovered to a People by the Servants of Jesus Christ, (though they do not speak of it, to the End People should trust to it, by relying on it as it is a Covenant of Works; but rather that they should be driven further from that Covenant, even to embrace the Tenders and Privileges of the second) yet, poor Souls, because they are unacquainted with the Natures of these two Covenants, or either of them, therefore, say they, here is nothing but preaching of the Law, thundring of the Law; when alas if these two be not held forth, (to wit) the Covenant of Works, and the Covenant of Grace, together with the Nature of the one, and the Nature of the other; Souls will never be able neither to know what they are by Nature, nor what they lie under. Also, neither can they understand what Grace is, nor how to come from under the Law to meet God, in and through that other most glorious Covenant; thro' which, and only thro' which, God can communicate of himself Grace. Glory, yea, even all the good things of another World.

I having considered these things, together with others, have made bold to present yet once more to thy View, my Friend, something of the Mind of God, to the end, if it shall be but blessed to thee, thou mayest be benefited thereby. For verily these Things are not such as are ordinary, and of small Concernment, but do absolutely concern thee to know, and that experimentally too, if ever thou do partake of the Glory of God thro' Jesus Christ, and so escape the Terror and insupportable Vengeance, that will otherwise come upon thee thro' his Justice, because of thy living and dying in thy Transgressions against the Law of God. And therefore while thou livest here below, it is thy Duty (if thou wishest thyself happy for the Time to come) to give up thyself to the studying of these Two Covenants, treated of in the ensuing Discourse; and so to study them, until thou, thro' Grace, do not only get the Notion of the one and the other in thy Head; but until thou do feel the very Power, Life, and Glory of the one and of the other. For take this for granted, he that is dark as touching the Scope, Intent, and Nature of the Law, is also dark as to the Scope, Nature, and Glory of the Gospel: And also he that hath but a Notion of the one, will hardly have any more than a Notion of the other.

And the Reason is this, because so long as People are ignorant of the Nature of the Law, and of their being under it, that is, under the Curse and Condemning Power of it, by Reason of their Sin against it; so long they will be careless, and negligent as to the enquiring after the true Knowledge of the Gospel. Before the Commandment came (that is in the Spirituality of it) Paul was alive (that is) thought himself safe, which is clear, Rom. 7. 9, 10. compared with the Third of Philipians, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. ver. &c. But when that came, and was indeed discovered unto him by the Spirit of the Lord, then Paul dies (Rom. 7.) to all his former Life (Phil. 3.) and that Man which before could content himself to live, tho' ignorant of the Gospel, cries out now, I count all Things but Loss, for the Excellency of the Knowledge of Jesus Christ my Lord, ver. 8. Therefore, I say, so long they will be ignorant of the Nature of the Gospel, and how glorious a Thing is it to be found within the Bounds of it; for we use to say, That Man that knoweth not himself to be sick, that Man will not look out for himself a Physician; and this Christ knew full well, where he saith, The whole have no need of a Physician, but them that are sick; that is, none will in Truth desire the Physician, unless they know they be sick. That Man also, that hath got but a Notion of the Law (a Notion, that is, the Knowledge of it in the Head, so as to discourse and talk of it,) if he hath not felt the Power of it, and that effectually too, it is to be feared, will at the best be but a Notionist in the Gospel; he will not have the experimental Knowledge of the same in his Heart: Nay, he will not seek, nor heartily desire after it, and all, because, as I said before, he hath not Experience of the wounding, cutting, killing Nature of the other.

I say, therefore, if thou wouldest know the Authority and Power of the Gospel, labour first to know the Power and Authority of the Law; for I am verily persuaded, that the Want of this one Thing, namely, the Knowledge of the Law, is one Cause why so many are ignorant of the other. That Man that doth not know the Law, doth not know in Deed and in Truth, that he is a Sinner; and that Man that doth not know he is a Sinner, doth not know savingly that there is a Saviour.

Again, That Man that doth not know the Nature of the Law, that Man doth not know the Nature of Sin; and that Man that knoweth not the Nature of Sin, will not regard to know the Nature of a Saviour; this is proved, John 8. 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36. ver. This People were Professors, and yet did not know the Truth (the Gospel) and the Reason was, because they did not know themselves, and so not the Law. I would not have thee mistake me, Christian Reader, I do not say, that the Law of itself would lead any Soul to Jesus Christ; but the Soul, being kill'd by the Law, through the Operation of its Severity seizing on the Soul, then the Man, if he be enlighten'd by the Spirit of Christ, to see where Remedy is to be had, will not, through Grace, be contented without the real and saving Knowledge through Faith, of him.

If thou wouldest then wash thy Face clean, first take a Glass and see where it is dirty; that is, if thou wouldest indeed have thy Sins washed away by the Blood of Christ, labour first to see them in the Glass of the Law, (Jam. 1.) and do not be afraid to see thy besmeared Condition, but look on every Spot thou hast; for he that looks on the Foulness of his Face by the Halfe, will wash by the Halfe: Even so, he that looks on his Sins by the Halfe, he will seek for Christ by the Halfe. Reckon thyself therefore, I say, the biggest Sinner in the World, and be persuaded, that there is none worse than thyself; then let the Guilt of it seize on thy Heart, then also go in that Case and Condition to Jesus Christ, and plunge thyself thyself into his Merits, and the Vertue of his Blood; and after that thou shalt speak of the Things of the Law, and of the Gospel, experimentally; and the very Language of the Children of God shall feelingly drop from thy Lips, and not till then.

Let this therefore learn thee thus much. He that hath not seen his lost Condition, hath not seen a safe Condition; He that did never see himself in the Devils Snare, did never see himself in Christ's Bosom. This my Son was dead, and is alive again, was lost and is found; with whom we all had our Conversation in Time past. But now are (so many of us as believe) returned to Jesus Christ, the chief Shepherd and Bishop of our Souls.

I say therefore, If thou do find in this Treatise, in the first Place, something touching the Nature, End and Extent of the Law, do not thou cry out therefore all on a sudden, saying, Here is nothing but the Terror, Horror, and thundring Sentences of the Law.

Again, If thou do find in the second Part of this Discourse, something of the Freeness and Fulness of the Gospel; do not thou say then neither, here is nothing but Grace, therefore surely an undervaluing of the Law. No, but read it quite through, and so consider of it; and (I hope) thou shalt find the two Covenants (which all Men are under either the one or the other) discovered, and held forth in their Natures, Ends, Bounds, together with the State and Condition of them that are under the one, and of them that are under the other.

There be some that through Ignorance do say, how that such Men as preach Terror and Amazement to Sinners, are besides the Book, and are Ministers of the Letter, the Law, and not of the Spirit, the Gospel; but I would answer them, citing to them the 16. of Luke, from the nineteenth Verse to the End; and the 1 Cor. 6. 9, 10. and Gal. 3. 10. Rom. 3. from the ninth Verse to the nineteenth: only this Caution I would give by the Way, how that they which preach Terror, to drive Souls to the obtaining of Salvation, by the Works of the Law, that Preaching is not the right Gospel-preaching. Yet when Saints speak of the sad State that Men are in by Nature, to discover to Souls their need of the Gospel, this is honest Preaching, (see Rom. 3. the 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, &c.) and he that doth do so, he doth the Work of a Gospel-Minister.

Again, There are others that say, because we do preach the free, full, and exceeding Grace discovered in the Gospel, therefore we make void the Law; which indeed, unless the Gospel be held forth in the Glory thereof without Confusion, by mingling the Covenant of Works therewith; The Law cannot be stablished. Do we through Faith, or Preaching of the Gospel, make void the Law? nay, stay, saith Paul, God forbid: We do thereby establish the Law, Rom. 3. 31.

And verily, he that will indeed establish the Law, or set it in its own Place, (for so I understand the Words) must be sure to hold forth the Gospel in its right Colour and Nature; for if a Man be ignorant of the Nature of the Gospel, and the Covenant of Grace, they, or he, will be very apt to remove the Law out of its Place, and that because they are ignorant, not knowing what they say, nor whereof they affirm.

And let me tell you, if a Man be ignorant of the Covenant of Grace, and the Bounds and Boundlessness of the Gospel, tho' he speaks and makes mention of the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and also of the Name of the new Covenant, and the Blood of Christ; yet at this very Time, and in these very Words, he will preach nothing but the Law, and that as a Covenant of Works.

Readers, I must confess it is a wonderful mysterious Thing, and he had need have a wiser Spirit than his own that can rightly set these two Covenants in their right Places, that when he speaks of the one, he doth not juggle the other out of its Place. O, to be so well enlighten'd, as to speak of the one, that is the Law, for to magnify the Gospel; and also to speak of the Gospel, so as to establish (and yet not to idolize) the Law, nor any Particulars thereof, it is rare! and to be heard and found but in very few Mens Breasts.

If thou shouldest say, What is it to speak to each of these two Covenants, so as to set them in their right Places, and also to use the Terror of the one, so as to magnify and advance the Glory of the other.

To this I shall answer also, Read the ensuing Discourse but with an understanding Heart, and it is like thou wilt find a Reply therein to the same Purpose, which may be to thy Satisfaction.

Reader, If thou do find this Book empty of fantastical Expressions, and without light, vain, whimsical Scholar-like Terms, thou must understand, it is because I never went to School to Aristotle or Plato, but was brought up at my Father's House, in a very mean Condition, among a company of poor Countrymen. But if thou do find a parcel of Plain, yet Sound, True, and home Sayings, attribute that to the Lord Jesus his Gifts and Abilities, which he hath bestowed upon such a poor Creature as I am, and have been. And if thou, being a seeing Christian, dost find me coming short, though rightly touching at some Things, attribute that either to my Brevity, or, if thou wilt, to my Weaknesses (for I am full of them.) A word or two more, and so I shall have done with this.

And the first is, Friend, if thou do not desire the Salvation of thy Soul, yet I pray thee to read this Book over with serious Consideration; it may be it will stir up in thee some desires to look out after it, which at present thou mayest be without.

Secondly, If thou do find any stirrings in thy Heart, by thy reading such an unworthy Man's Works as mine are; be sure that in the first Place thou give glory to God, and give way to thy Convictions, and be not too hasty in getting them off from thy Conscience; but let them so work till thou do see thy self by Nature, void of all Grace, as Faith, Hope, Knowledge of God, Christ, and the Covenant of Grace.

Thirdly, Then in the next Place, fly in all haste to Jesus Christ, thou being sensible of thy lost Condition without him, secretly perswading of the Soul, that Jesus Christ standeth open armed to receive thee, to wash away thy Sins, to cloath thee with his Righteousness; and is willing, to present thee before the Presence of the Glory of God, and among the innumerable Company of Angels with exceeding Joy. This being thus, in the next Place, do not satisfy thy self with these secret and first Perswasions, which do, or may encourage thee to come to Jesus Christ; but be restless till thou do find by blessed Experience, the glorious Glory of this the Second Covenant extended unto thee, and sealed upon thy Soul with the very Spirit of the Lord Jesus Christ. And that thou mayst not slight this my Counsel, I beseech thee in the second Place, consider these following things.

First, If thou do get off thy Convictions, and not the right Way, (which is by seeing thy Sins washed away by the Blood of Jesus Christ) it is a question whether ever God will knock at thy Heart again or no; but rather say, Such a one is joined to Idols; let him alone, Hos. 4. 17. Though he be in a natural state, let him alone. Though he be in, or under the Curse of the Law, let him alone. Though he be in the very hand of the Devil, let him alone. Though he be a going post-haste to Hell, let him alone. Though his Damnation will not only be Damnation for Sins against the Law, but also for slighting the Gospel, yet, let him alone. My Spirit, my Ministers, my Word, my Grace, my Mercy, my Love, my Pity, my common Providences, shall no more strive with him, let him alone. O sad! O miserable! who would slight Convictions that are on their Souls, which tend so much for their good?

Secondly, If thou shalt not regard how thou do put off Convictions, but put them off without the precious Blood of Christ being savingly applied to thy Soul; thou art sure to have the mispending of that Conviction to prove the hardning of thy Heart against the next time thou art to hear the Word preached or read. This is commonly seen, that those Souls that have not regarded those Convictions that are at first set upon their Spirits, do commonly (and that by the Just Judgments of God upon them) grow more hard, more senseless, more seared and sottish in their Spirits; for some, who formerly would quake and weep, and relent under the hearing of the Word, do now for the present sit so senseless, so seared, and hardned in their Consciences, that certainly if they should have Hell fire thrown in their Faces, as it is sometimes cried up in their Ears, they would scarce be moved; and this comes upon them as a Just Judgment of God, 2 Thess. 2. 11, 12.

Thirdly, If thou do slight these, or those Convictions that may be set upon thy Heart, by reading of this Discourse or hearing of any other good Man preach the Word of God sincerely; thou wilt have the stifling of these or those Convictions to account and answer for at the Day of Judgment! Not only thy Sins that are commonly committed by thee in thy Calling and common Discourse, but thou shalt be called to a Reckoning for slighting Convictions, disregarding of Convictions, which God useth as a special Means to make poor Sinners see their lost Condition, and the need of a Saviour. Now here I might add many more Considerations besides these, to the end thou mayest be willing to tend, and listen to Convictions; as,

First, Consider thou hast a precious Soul, more worth than the whole World; and this is commonly worked upon (if ever it be saved) by Convictions.

Secondly, This Soul is (for certain) to go to Hell, if thou shalt be a sligher of Convictions.

Thirdly, If thou go to Hell, thy Body must go thither too, and thence never to come out again. Now consider this, you that (are apt to) forget God (and his Convictions) least he tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver, Psal. 50. 22.

But if thou shalt be such a one, that shall, notwithstanding thy reading of thy Misery, and also of God's Mercy still persist to go on in thy Sins; know in the first Place that here thou shalt be left, by things that thou readeest, without excuse; and in the World to come thy Damnation will be exceedingly aggravated, for thy not regarding of them, and turning from thy Sins; which was not only reprov'd by them, but also for rejecting of that Word of Grace that did instruct thee how, and which way, thou shouldst be saved from them. And so farewell, I shall leave thee, and also this Discourse, to God, who I know will pass a righteous Judgment both upon that and thee. I am yours, tho' not to serve your Lusts and filthy Minds, yet to reprove, instruct, and according to that Proportion of Faith and Knowledge which God hath given me, to declare unto you the Way of Life and Salvation. Your judgings, railings, surmisings, and disdaining of me, that I shall leave till the fiery Judgment comes, in which the Offender shall not go unpunished, be he you or me; yet I shall pray pray for you, wish well to you, and do you what good I can. And that I might not write or speak in vain, Christian, pray for me to our God, with much Earnestness, Fervency, and frequently, in all your knocking at your Father's Door, because I do very much stand in need thereof; for my Work is great, my Heart is vile, the Devil lieth at watch, the World would fain be saying, Aha, aha, thus we would have it; and of my self, keep my self I cannot; Trust my self I dare not; if God do not help me, I am sure it will not be long before my Heart deceive me, and the World have their Advantage of me; and so God be dishonoured by me, and thou also asham'd to own me. O therefore be much in Prayer for me, thy Fellow. I trust in that glorious Grace that is conveyed from Heaven to Sinners, by which they are not only sanctified here in this World, but shall be glorified in that which is to come: Unto which, the Lord of his Mercy bring us all.

JOHN BUNYAN.

Law and Grace unfolded, &c.

ROM. vi. 14.

For ye are not under the Law, but under Grace.

IN the Three former Chapters, the Appostle is pleading for the Salvation of Sinners by Grace, without the Works of the Law, to the end he might confirm the Saints, and also that he might win over all those that did oppose the truth of this Doctrine, or else leave them the more without excuse: And that he might so do, he taketh in hand, First, To shew the State of all Men naturally, or as they come into the World by Generation, saying in the third Chapter, There is none Righteous, no not one; there is none that understand-eth; there is none that doth good, &c. As if he had said, It seems there is a Generation of Men that think to be saved by the Righteousness of the Law; but, let me tell them, that they are much deceived, in that they have already sinned against the Law; For by the Disobedience of the one, many, yea all, were brought into a state of Condemnation, Rom. 5. 12 to 20. Now, in the sixth Chapter, he doth, as if he had turned him round to the Brethren, and said, My Brethren, you see now that it is clear and evident, that it is freely by the Grace of Christ, that we do inherit eternal Life. And again, for your comfort, my Brethren, let me tell you, that your Condition is wondrous safe, in that you are under Grace, for saith he, Sin shall not have dominion over you, that is, neither the damning Power, neither the filthy Power, so as to destroy your Souls: For you are not under the Law, that is, you are not under that, that will damn you for Sin; But (you are) under Grace, or stand thus in relation to God, that though you have sinned, yet you shall be pardoned. For you are not under the Law, &c. If any should ask,

What is the meaning of the Word [UN-DER?] I answer, It signifieth, you are not held, kept, or shut up by it, so as to appear before God under that Administration, and none but that; or thus, You are not now bound by the authority of the Law, to fulfil it, and obey it, so as to have no Salvation without you so do; or thus, If you transgress against any one tittle of it, you by the Power of it must be condemned: No, no, for you are not so under it, that is, not thus under the Law. Again, For you are not under the Law; What is meant by this word [LAW?] The word Law, in Scripture, may be taken more ways than one, as might be largely cleared.
There is the Law of Faith, the Law of Sin, the Law of Men, the Law of Works, otherwise called the Covenant of Works, or the first, or old Covenant, Heb. 8. 13.
In that he saith a new Covenant, (which is the Grace of God, or commonly called the Covenant of Grace) he hath made the first old; that is, the Covenant of Works, or the Law. I say therefore, the word [LAW] and the word [GRACE,] in this sixth of the Romans, do hold forth the two Covenants, which all Men are under, that is, either the one or the other. For ye are not under the Law; that is, you to whom I do now write these Words, who are and have been effectually brought into the Faith of Jesus: you are not under the Law, or under the Covenant of Works. He doth not therefore apply these Words to all, but to some, whom he saith, But ye, mark, [YE] ye Believers, ye converted Persons, ye Saints, ye that have been born again. (Ye) for ye are not under the Law, implying others are, that are in their natural State, that have not been brought into the Covenant of Grace, by Faith in Jesus Christ. The Words therefore being thus understood, there is discovered these two Truths in them:

Doct. 1. First, That there are some in Gospel Times, that are under the Covenant of Works.

Doct. 2. Secondly, That there is never a Believer under the Law, (as it is the Covenant of Works) but under Grace, through Christ. For ye, (you Believers, you converted Persons, Ye) are not under the Law, but under Grace; or, for you are delivered and brought into, or under the Covenant of Grace.

For the first, That there are some that are under the Law, or under the Covenant of Works, see I pray you that Scripture in the third of the Romans, where the Apostle speaking before of Sins against the Law, and of the Denunciations thereof, against those that are in that Condition, he saith, What Things soever the Law saith, it saith to them that are under it; Mark, it saith to them that are under the Law, That every Mouth may be stopped, and all the World become guilty before God, Rom. 3. 19. that is, all those that are under the Law, as a Covenant of Works, that are yet in their Sins and unconverted, as I told you before. Again, Gal. 5. 18. he saith, But if you are led by the Spirit, you are under the Law, implying again, that those which are for sinning against the Law, or the Works of the Law, either as it is the old Covenant; these are under the Law, and not under the Covenant of Grace. Again, Gal. the 3d. the 10th verse, there he saith, For as many as are of the Works of the Law, are under the Curse; that is, they that are under the Law, are under the Curse; for mark, they that are under the Covenant of Grace are not under the Curse. Now there are but two Covenants; therefore it must needs be that they that are under the Curse are under the Law: seeing those that are under the other Covenant, are not under the Curse, but under the Blessing. So then, they which be of Faith, are blessed with faithful Abraham, but the rest are under the Law, Gal. 3. 9. Now I shall proceed to what I do intend to speak unto.

First, I shall shew you what the Covenant of Works, or the Law is, and when it was first given, together with the Nature of it.

Secondly, I shall shew you what it is to be under the Law, or Covenant of Works and the miserable State of all those that are under it.

Thirdly, I shall shew you who they are that are under this Covenant or Law.

Fourthly, I shall shew you how far a Man may go, and yet be under this Covenant, or Law.

For the First, What this Covenant of Works is, and when it was given.

The Covenant of Works, or the Law here spoken of, is the Law delivered upon Mount Sinai to Moses, in two Tables of Stone, in ten particular Branches, or Heads; for this see Gal. 4. The Apostle speaking there of the Law, and of some also that through Delusions of false Doctrine, were brought again, as it were under it, or at least were leaning that Way, verse 21, he saith, As for you that desire to be under the Law, I will shew you the Mystery of Abraham's two Sons, which he had by Hagar and Sarah; these two do signify the two Covenants, the one nam'd Hagar, signifies Mount Sinai, where the Law was delivered to Moses on two Tables of Stone, Exod. 24. 12. Chap. 34. 1. Deut. 10 1. Which is that, that whosoever is under, he is destitute of, and altogether without the Grace of Christ, in his Heart at the present. Gal. 5. 3, 4. For I testify again to every Man (saith he, speaking to the same People) that Christ is become of none Effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the Law, namely, that given on Mount Sinai. Ye are fallen from Grace. That is, not that any can be justified by the Law, but his Meaning is, all those that seek Justification by the Works of the Law, they are not such as seek to be under the second Covenant, the Covenant of Grace. Also the 2 Cor. 3. 7, 8. The Apostle speaking again of these two Covenants, he saith, For if the Ministration of Death (or the Law, for it is all one) written and engraven in Stones (mark that) was glorious, how shall not the Ministration of the Spirit (or the Covenant of Grace) be rather glorious? As if he had said, 'Tis true, there was a Glory in the Covenant of Works, and a very great Excellency did appear in it; namely, in that given in the Stones on Sinai, yet there is another Covenant, the Covenant of Grace, that doth exceed it for Comfort and Glory.

But secondly, Though this Law was delivered to Moses from the Hands of Angels on two Tables of Stone, on Mount Sinai; yet this was not the first appearing of

of this Law to Man; but even this in Substance (though possibly not so openly) was given to the first Man Adam, in the Garden of Eden, in these Words, And the Lord God commanded the Man, saying, Of every Tree in the Garden thou mayst freely eat: But of the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil, thou shalt not eat of it; for in the Day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die, Gen. 2. 16, 17. Which Commandment then given to Adam, did contain in it, a Forbidding to do any one of those Things, that was and is accounted evil, although at that Time it did not appear so plainly, in so many particular Heads, as it did when it was delivered on Mount Sinai; but yet the very same: And that I shall prove thus:

God commanded Adam in Paradise, to abstain from all Evil against the first Covenant, and not from some Sins only: but if God had not commanded Adam to abstain from the Sins spoken against the Ten Commandments, he had not commanded to abstain from all, but from some; therefore it must needs be, that he then commanded to abstain from all Sins forbidden in the Law given on Mount Sinai. Now that God commanded to abstain from all Evil, or Sin, against any of the ten Commandments, when he gave Adam the Command in the Garden, it is evident, in that he did punish the Sins that were committed against those Commands, that were then delivered on Mount Sinai, before they was delivered on Mount Sinai, which will appear as followeth:

The first, second and third Commandments, were broken by Pharoah and his Men; for they had false Gods which the Lord executed Judgment against; (as in Exod. 12. 12.) and blasphemed their true God; (Exod. 7. 17. to the End.) for their Gods could neither deliver themselves nor their People from the Hand of God; but in the Things wherein they dealt proudly, he was above them, Exod. 18. 11.

Again, Some judge that the Lord punished the Sin against the second Commandment, which Jacob was in some Measure guilty of, in not purging his House from false Gods, with the defiling of his Daughter Dinah, Gen. 34. 2.

Again, We find that Abimelech thought the Sin against the third Commandment, so great, that he required no other Security of Abraham, against the Fear of Mischief, that might be done to him by Abraham, his Son, and his Son's Son, but only Abraham's Oath; (Gen. 21. 23.) the like we see between Abimelech and Isaac, (Gen. 31. 53.) the like we find in Moses and the Israelites, who durst not leave the Bones of Joseph in Egypt, because of the Oath of the Lord, whose Name, by so doing, would have been abused, Exod. 13. 19.

ple for the Breach of the fourth Commandment, Exod. 16. 27, 28, 29.

And for the Breach of the fifth, the Curse came upon Ham, Gen. 9. 25, 26, 27. And Ismael dishonouring his Father, in mocking Isaac, was cast out, as we read, Gen. 21. 9, 10. The Sons-in-law of Lot, for slighting their Father, perish'd in the Overthrow of Sodom, Gen. 19. 14, &c.

The sixth Commandment was broken by Cain, and so dreadful a Curse and Punishment came upon him, that it made him cry out, My Punishment is greater than I can bear, Gen. 4. 13.

Again, When Esau threaten'd to slay his Brother, Rebecca sent him away, saying, Why should I be deprived of both of you in one Day? hinting unto us, that she knew Murther was to be punish'd with Death, Gen. 27. 54. Which the Lord himself declared likewise to Noah, Gen. 9. 6.

Again, A notable Example of the Lord's Justice in punishing Murther, we see in the Egyptians and Pharoah, who drowned the Israelites Children in the River, Exod. 1. 22. And they themselves were drowned in the Sea, Exod. 14. 27.

The Sin against the seventh Commandment was punished in the Sodomites, &c. with the utter Destruction of this City, and themselves, Gen. 19. 24, 25. Yea, they suffer the Vengeance of eternal Fire, Jude 7. Also the Male Sechemites, for the Sin committed by Hamor's Son, were all put to the Sword, Gen. 34. 25, 26.

Our first Parents sinned against the eighth Commandment, in taking the forbidden Fruit, and so brought the Curse on themselves, and their Posterity, Gen. 3. 16.

Again, the Punishment due to the Breach of this Commandment, was by Jacob accounted Death, Gen. 31. 30, 32. and also by Jacob's Sons, Gen. 44. 9, 10.

Cain sinning against the ninth Commandment, as in Gen. 4. 9. was therefore cursed as to the Earth, verse the 11th.

And Abraham, tho' the Friend of God, was blamed for false Witness by Pharoah, and sent out of Egypt, Gen. 12. 18, 19, 20. And both he and Sarah reproved by Abimelech, Gen. 20. 9, 10, 16.

Pharoah sinned against the tenth Commandment, Gen. 12. 15. and was therefore plagu'd with great Plagues, verse 17. Abimelech coveted Abraham's Wife, and the Lord threaten'd Death to him and his, except he restored her again, Gen. 20. 3. yea, tho' he had not come near her, yet for coveting and taking her, the Lord fast closed up the Wombs of his House, verse 18.

I could have spoken more fully to this, but that I would not be too tedious, but speak what I have to say with as much Brevity as I can. But before I pass it, I will will besides this, give you an Argument or two more for the further clearing of this; that the Substance of the Law delivered on Mount Sinai, was before that delivered by the Lord to Man in the Garden. As first, Death reigned over them that had not sinned, after the Similitude of Adam's Transgression (that is, tho' they did not take the forbidden Fruit, as Adam did) but had the Transgression been no other, or had their Sin been laid to the Charge of none but those that did eat of that Fruit, then those that were born to Adam, after he was shut out of the Garden, had not had Sin; in that they did not actually eat of that Fruit, and so had not been slaves to Death. But in that Death did reign from Adam to Moses, or from the time of his Transgression against the first giving of the Law, 'till the time the Law was given on Mount Sinai, it is evident, that the Substance of the ten Commandments was given to Adam and his posterity under that command, Eat not of the Tree that is in the midst of the Garden. But yet if any shall say, that it was because of the Sin of their Father that Death reigned over them; to that I shall answer, that altho' original Sin be laid to the Charge of his Posterity, yet it is also for their Sins, that they actually committed, that they were plagued: And again saith the Apostle, For where there is no Law, there is no Transgression, Rom. 4. 15. For Sin is not imputed where there is no Law; nevertheless Death reigned from Adam to Moses, saith he, Rom. 5. 13, 14. But if there had been no Law, then there had been no Transgression, and so no Death to follow after as the Wages thereof; for Death is the Wages of Sin, Rom. 6. 23. and Sin is the Breach of the Law; an actual Breach in our particular Persons, as well as an actual Breach in our publick Person, 1 John 3. 4.

Again, They are no other Sins than those against that Law given on Sinai, for the which those Sins before-mentioned was punished; therefore the Law given before by the Lord to Adam and his Posterity, is the same with that afterwards given on Mount Sinai.

Again, The Conditions of that on Sinai, and of that in the Garden, are all one, the one saying, Do this and live, the other saying the same. Also Judgment denounced against Men in both kinds alike; therefore this Law, it appeareth to be the very same that was given on Mount Sinai.

Again, the Apostle speaketh but of Two Covenants, (to wit, Grace and Works) under which two Covenants all are; some under one, and some under the other: Now this to Adam is one, therefore that on Sinai is one; and all one with this; and that this is a Truth, I say, I know that the Sins against that on Sinai was punished by God for the Breach thereof, before it was given there: so it doth plainly appear to be a Truth; for it would be unrighteous with God for to punish for that Law that was not broken; therefore it was all one with that on Sinai.

Now the Law given on Sinai, was for the more clear Discovery of those Sins that were before committed against it; for tho' the very Substance of the Ten Commandments were given in the Garden, before they were received from Sinai; yet they lay so darkly in the Heart of Man, that his Sins were not so clearly discovered, as afterwards they were; therefore, saith the Apostle, the Law was added, Gal. 3. 19. (or more plainly, given on Sinai, on Tables of Stone) that the Offence might abound; that is, that it might the more clearly be made manifest and appear, Rom. 5. 20.

Again, We have a notable Resemblance of this at Sinai, even in giving the Law; for, first, the Law was given twice on Sinai, to signify, that indeed the Substance of it was given before. And secondly, the first Tables that were given on Sinai, were broken at the Foot of the Mount, and the others were preserved whole; to signify, that though it was the true Law that was given before with that given on Sinai, yet it was not so easy to be read, and to be taken Notice of, in that the Stones were not whole, but broken, and so the Law written thereon somewhat defaced and disfigured.

But if any object and say, tho' the Sins against the one be the Sins against the other, and so in that they do agree; yet it doth not appear, that the same is therefore the same Covenant of Works with the other.

Ans. That which was given to Adam in Paradise, you will grant was the Covenant of Works; for it runs thus, Do thus and live, Do it not and die; nay, Thou shalt surely die. Now there is but one Covenant of Works: If therefore I prove, that that which was delivered on Mount Sinai, is the Covenant of Works, then all will be put out of doubt. Now that this is so, it is evident:

First, Consider the Two Covenants are thus called in Scripture, the one the Administration of Death, and the other the Administration of Life; the one the Covenant of Works, the other of Grace; but that delivered on Sinai, is called the Ministration of Death; that therefore is the Covenant of Works, 2 Cor. 3. For if (saith he) the Ministration of Death, written and engraven in stones, was glorious, &c.

Secondly, The Apostle writing to the Galatians, doth labour to beat them off from trusting in the Covenant of Works; but when he comes to give a Discovery of that Law or Covenant (he labouring to take them off from trusting in it) he doth plainly tell them, it is that which was given on Sinai, Gal. 4. 24, 25. Therefore that that which was delivered in two Tables of Stone on Mount Sinai, is the very same that was given before to Adam in Paradise, they running both alike; that in the Garden, saying, Do this and live; but in the Day thou eatest thereof (or dost not do this) thou shalt surely die.

And so is this on Sinai, as is evident when he saith, The Man that doth these things shall live by them, Rom. 10. 5. and in case they break them, even any of them, it saith, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things, that are written in the (whole) book of the Law to do them, Gal. 3. 10. Now this being thus cleared, I shall proceed.

A second Thing to be spoken to is this, to shew what it is to be under the Law, as it is a Covenant of Works; to which I shall speak, and that thus:

To be under the Law, as it is a Covenant of Works, it is, To be bound, upon pain of eternal Damnation, to fulfil, and that compleatly, and continually, every particular Point of the Ten Commandments, by doing them; do this, and then thou shalt live; otherwise, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all (in every particular thing or) things, that are written in the Book of the Law to do them, Gal. 3. 10. That Man that is under the first Covenant, stands thus, and only thus, as he is under that Covenant or Law. Poor Souls, through Ignorance of the Nature of that Covenant of Works, the Law that they are under, they do not think their State to be half so bad as it is; when, alas! there is none in the World in such a sad Condition again besides themselves; for, indeed, they do not understand these things. He that is under the Law, as it is a Covenant of Works, is like the Man that is bound by the Law of his King, upon pain of Banishment, or of being hanged, drawn, and quartered, not to transgress any of the Commandments of the King: So here, they that are under the Covenant of Works, they are bound, upon pain of eternal Banishment and Condemnation, to keep within the Compass of the Law of the God of Heaven. The Covenant of Works, may, in this Case, be compared to the Laws of the Medes and Persians, which being once made, cannot be alter'd, Dan. 6. 8. You find, that when there was a Law made and given forth, that none should ask a Petition of any, God or Man, but of the King only; this Law being established by the King (verse 9.) Daniel breaking of it, let all do whatever they can, Daniel must into the Lions Den, (ver. 16.) So here, I say, there being a Law given, and sealed with the Truth, and the Word of God, (how, that the Soul that sinneth shall die, Ezek. 18. 4.) whosoever doth abide under this Covenant, and dieth under the same, they must and shall into the Lions Den: Nay, worse than that, for they shall be thrown into Hell, to the very Devils.

But to speak in a few Particulars for thy better understanding herein: know, first, That the Law of God, or Covenant of Works, doth not contain itself in one particular Branch of the Law, but doth extend itself into many, even into all the Ten Commandments, and those Ten into very many more, as might be shewed: So that the Danger doth not lie in the breaking of one or Two of these Ten only, but it doth lie even in the Transgression of any one of them. As you know, if a King should give forth Ten particular Commands to be obey'd by his Subjects, upon Pain of Death: Now if any Man doth transgress against any One of these Ten, he doth commit Treason, as if he had broke them all, and lieth liable to have the Sentence of the Law as certainly passed on him, as if he had broken every Particular of them.

2. Again, you know that the Laws being given forth by the King, which if a Man keep and obey a long Time; yet if at the last he slips and breaks those Laws, he is presently apprehended, and condemned by that Law. These Things are clear as touching the Law of God, as it is a Covenant of Works: If a Man do fulfil Nine of the Commandments, and yet breaketh but One, that being broken will as surely destroy him, and shut him out from the Joys of Heaven, as if he had actually transgressed against them all; for indeed, in effect, so he hath: There is a notable Scripture for this in the Epistle of James, 2 Chap. at the 10th ver. For whosoever shall keep the whole Law, and yet offend in one Point, he is guilty of all; that is, he hath in effect broken them all, and shall have the Voice of them all cry out against him: And it must needs be so, saith James, because he that said (or that Law which said) Do not commit Adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no Adultery, yet if thou killest, thou art become a Transgressor of the Law. As thus, It may be thou didst never make to thyself a God of Stone or Wood, or at least, not to worship them so really and so openly as the Heathen do; yet if thou hast stollen, born false Witness, or lusted after a Woman in thy Heart, Matt. 5. 28. thou hast transgressed the Law; and must for certain, living and dying under that Covenant, perish for ever by the Law: For the Law hath resolved on that before-hand, saying, Cursed is every one that continueth not in ALL things; mark, I pray you, in all things, that's the Word, and that seals the Doctrine.

3. Again, Tho' a Man do not covet, steal, murder, worship Gods of Wood and Stone, &c. yet if they do take the Lord's Name in vain, they are for ever gone, living and dying under that Covenant. Thou shalt not take the Name of the Lord thy God in vain: There is the Command; but how if we do?

Then he saith, The Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his Name in vain: No, tho' thou live as holy as ever thou canst, and walk as circumspectly as ever any did; yet if thou dost take the Lord's Name in vain, thou art gone by that Covenant: For I will not, mark, I will not (let him be in never so much Danger) I will not hold him guiltless that taketh my Name in vain, Exod. 20. 7. and so likewise for any other of the Ten, do but break them, and thy State is irrecoverable, if thou live and die under that Covenant.

4. Tho' thou shouldest fulfil this Covenant, or Law, even all of it, for a long time, ten, twenty, forty, fifty or three-score Years, yet if thou do chance to slip, and break One of them but once before thou die, thou art also gone and lost by that Covenant; for mark, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things; (that is, continueth not in all things, mark that) which are written in the Book of the Law to do them: But if a Man do keep all the Law of God his whole Life-time, only sin one time before he dies, that one Sin is a Breach of the Law, and he hath not continued in doing the Things contained therein; (For, to continue according to the Sense of this Scripture, is to hold on without any Failing, either in Thought, Word, or Deed) therefore, I say, tho' a Man do walk up to the Law all his Life-time, but only at the very last, sin one time before he die, he is sure to perish for ever, dying under that Covenant. For, my Friends, you must understand, that the Law of God is (yea) as well as the Gospel; and as they that are under the Covenant of Grace shall surely be saved by it, so, even so, they that are under the Covenant of Works and the Law, they shall surely be damned by it, if continuing there. This is the Covenant of Works, and the Nature of it; namely, not to abate any thing, no, not a Mite, to him that lives and dies under it: I tell thee (saith Christ) thou shalt not depart thence (that is, from under the Curse) till thou hast paid the very last Mite, Luke 12. 59.

5. Again, You must consider, That this Law doth not only condemn Words and Actions, as I said before, but it hath Authority to condemn the most secret Thoughts of the Heart, being evil; so that if thou do not speak any Word that is evil, as Swearing, Lying, Jestings, Dissembling, or any other Word that tendeth to, or savoureth of Sin, yet if there should chance to pass but one vain Thought thro' thy Heart but one in all thy Life time, the Law taketh hold of it, accuseth, and also will condemn thee for it. You may see one Instance for all in the 5th of Mat. at the 27th, and 28th verses, where Christ saith, That tho' a Man do not lie with a Woman carnally, yet if he do but look on her, and in his Heart lust after her, he is counted by the Law, being rightly expounded, such a one that hath committed the Sin, and thereby hath laid himself under the Condemnation of the Law. And so likewise of all the rest of the Commands, if there be any Thought that is evil, do but pass thorough thy Heart, whether it be against God, or against Man in the least Measure, tho' possibly not discerned of thee, or by thee, yet the Law takes hold of thee therefore, and doth by its Authority, both cast, condemn and execute thee for thy so doing. The thought of Wickedness is Sin, Prov.

6. Again, The Law is of that Nature and Severity, that it doth not only enquire into the Generality of thy Life, as touching several Things, whether thou art Upright there or no, but the Law doth also follow thee into into all thy holy Duties, and watcheth over thee there, to see whether thou doest do all Things aright there; that is to say, whether, when thou doest pray, thy Heart hath no wandering Thoughts in it; whether thou do every holy Duty thou doest perfectly, without the least Mixture of Sin; and if it do find thee to slip, or in the least Measure to fail in any holy Duty that thou doest perform, the Law taketh hold on that, and findeth fault with that, so as to render all the holy Duties that ever thou didst, unavailable because of that: I say, if when thou art a Hearing, there is but one vain Thought, or in Praying, but one vain Thought, or any other Thing whatsoever, let it be Civil or Spiritual, one vain Thought once in all thy Life-time, will cause the Law to take such hold on it, that for that one Thing, it doth even set open all the Flood-gates of God's Wrath against thee, and irrecoverably, by that Covenant, it doth bring eternal Vengeance upon thee: So that, I say, look which ways thou wilt, fail wherein thou wilt, and do it as seldom as ever thou canst, either in Civil or Spiritual Things, as aforesaid; that is, either in the Service of God, or in thy Employments of the World, as thy Trade or Calling, either in Buying or Selling any way, in any Thing whatsoever: I say, if in any Particular it findeth thee tardy, or in the least measure guilty, it calleth thee an Offender, it accuseth thee to God, it puts a stop to all the Promises thereof, that are joyned to the Law, and leaves thee there as a cursed Transgressor against God, and a Destroyer of thy own Soul.

* Here I would have thee, by the way, for to take Notice, that it is not my Intent, at this time, to enlarge on the several Commands in particular; for that would be very tedious both for me to write, and thee to read: Only thus much I would have thee to do at the Reading hereof; make a Pause, and sit still one Quarter of an Hour, and muse a little in thy thy Mind thus with thy self, and say, Did I ever break the Law, yea, or no? Had I ever in all my Life-time one sinful Thought passed thro' my Heart since I was born, yea or no? And if thou findest thyself guilty, as I am sure thou canst not otherwise chuse but do, unless thou shut thy Eyes against thy every Day's Practice; then, I say, conclude thyself guilty of the Breach of the first Covenant. And when that this is done, be sure in the next Place, thou do not straightway forget it, and put it out of thy Mind, that thou art condemned by the same Covenant; and then do not content thyself until thou do find, that God hath sent thee a Pardon from Heaven, through the Merits of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Mediator of the second Covenant. And if God shall but give thee a Heart to take this my Counsel, I do make no Question but these Words spoken by me, will prove an Instrument for the Directing of thy Heart, to the right Remedy, for the Salvation of thy Soul.

Thus much now touching the Law and the Severity of it, upon the Person that is found under it, having offended or broken any one Particular of it, either in Thought, Word, or Action; and now, before I do proceed to the next Thing, I shall answer four Objections that do lie in my way; and also, such as do stumble most Part of the World.

The first Objection. And first, But, you will say, methinks you speak very harsh; it is enough to daunt a Body: Set the Case therefore, That a Man after he hath sinned, and broken the Law, repenteth of his Wickedness, and promiseth to do so no more; will not God have Mercy then, and save a poor Sinner then?

1. Ans. I told you before, That the Covenant once broken, will execute upon the Offender, that which it doth threaten to lay upon him; and as for your supposing that your repenting, and promising to do so no more, may help well, and put you in a Condition to attain the Mercy of God by the Law: These Thoughts do flow from gross Ignorance, both of the Nature of Sin, and also of the Nature of the Justice of God. And if I was to give you a Description of one in a lost Condition for the present, I would brand him out with such a Mark of Ignorance as this is.

2. Ans. The Law, as it is a Covenant of Works, doth not allow of any Repentance unto Life, to those that live and die under it; for the Law being once broken by thee, never speaks good unto thee, neither doth God at all regard thee, if thou be under that Covenant, notwithstanding all thy Repentings, and also Promises, to do so no more. No, saith the Law, thou hast sinned, therefore I must curse thee; for it is my Nature to curse, even, and nothing else but curse every one that doth in any Point transgress against me, Gal. 3. 10. They brake my Covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord, Heb. 8. Let them cry, I will not regard them: let them repent, I will not regard them; they have broken my Covenant, and done that in which I delighted not; therefore by that Covenant I do curse, and not bless; damn, and not save; frown, and not smile; reject, and not embrace; charge Sin, and not forgive it. They brake my Covenant, and I regarded them not: So that I say, If thou break the Law, the first Covenant; and thou being found there, God looking on thee thorough that, he hath no regard on thee, no pity for thee, no delight in thee.

Object. 2. But hath not the Law Promises as well as Threatnings? saying, The Man that doth these things shall live (mark, he shall live) by them, or in them.

Ans. First, To break the Commandments, is not to keep or fulfil the same; but thou hast broken them, therefore the Promise doth not belong to thee by that Covenant. Secondly, The Promises that are of the Law, are conditional, and so not performed, unless there be a full and continual Obedience to every Particular of it, and that without the least Sin. Do this, mark, do this, and afterwards thou shalt live; but if thou break one point of it once in all thy Life, thou hast not done the Law; therefore the promises following the Law, do not belong unto thee, if one Sin hath been committed by thee. As thus, (I will give you a plain instance) "Set the case there be a Law made by the King, that if any Man speak a Word against him, he must be put to Death, and this must not be revoked, but must for certain be expected on the Offender; though there be a promise made to them that do not speak a word against him, that they should have great love from him; yet this promise is nothing to the Offender, he is like to have no share in it, or to be ever the better for it; But contrariwise, the Law that he hath offended must be executed on him; for his Sin shutteth him out from a share of, or in the Promises. So it is here, there is a Promise made indeed, but to whom? Why, it is to none but those that live without sinning against the Law: but if thou (I say) sin one time against it in all thy life time, thou art gone, and not one Promise belongs to thee, if thou continue under this Covenant. Methinks the Prisoners at the Bar, having offended the Law (and the charge of a just Judge towards them) do much hold forth the Law, as it is a Covenant of Works, and how it deals with them that are under it. The Prisoner having offended, cries out for Mercy; good my Lord Mercy (saith he) pray my Lord pity me; the Judge saith, what canst thou say for thy self, that Sentence Sentence of Death should not be passed upon thee? Why, nothing but this, I pray my Lord be merciful: But he answers again, Friend, the Law must take place, the Law must not be broken: The Prisoner saith, Good my Lord spare me, and I will never do so any more: The Judge notwithstanding the Man's out-cries, and sad Condition, must according to the tenor of the Law, pass Judgment upon him, and the Sentence of the Condemnation, must be read to the Prisoner, though it makes them fall down dead to hear it, if he executes the Law, as he ought to do. And just thus 'tis concerning the Law of God.

Object. 3. I, but sometimes (for all your Haste) the Judge doth also give some Pardons, and forgive some Offenders, notwithstanding their Offences, though he be a Judge.

Ans. It is not because the Law is merciful, but because there is manifested the Love of the Judge, (not the Love of the Law) I beseech you to mark this Distinction; for if a Man that hath deserved Death by the Law, be notwithstanding this, forgiven his Offence, it is not because the Law saith, Spare him; but it is the Love of the Judge (or Chief Magistrate) that doth set the Man free from the Condemnation of the Law: But mark, here the Law of Men and the Law of God do differ; the Law of Man is not so irrevocable, but if the Supream please, he may sometimes grant a Pardon, without Satisfaction given for the Offence; but the Law of God is of this Nature, that if the Man be found under it, and a Transgressor, or one that hath transgressed against it, before that Prisoner can be released, there must be a full and compleat Satisfaction given to it, either by the Man's own Life, or by the Blood of some other Man; For without shedding of Blood there is no Remission, Heb. 9. 22. that is, there is no Deliverance from under the Curse of the Law of God; and therefore, however the Law of Man may be made of none effect, sometimes by shewing Mercy without giving of a full Satisfaction, yet the Law of God cannot be so contented, nor at the least give Way, that the Person offending that, should escape the Curse, and not be damned, except some one do give a full and compleat Satisfaction to it for him, and bring the Prisoner into another Covenant, (to wit) the Covenant of Grace, which is more easy, and Soul-refreshing, and Sin-pardoning.

I say therefore, you must understand, that if there be a Law made that reaches the Life, to take it away for the Offence given by the Offender against it; then it is clear, that if the Man be spared and saved, it is not the Law that doth give the Man this Advantage, but it is the mere Mercy of the King, either because he hath a Ransom or Satisfaction some other Way, or being provoked thereto out of his own Love to the Person whom he saveth. Now thou also having transgressed and broken the Law of God, if the Law be not executed upon thee, it is not because the Law is merciful, or can pass by the least Offence done by thee, but thy Deliverance comes another way: therefore, I say, however it be by the Laws of Men, where they be corrupted and perverted, yet the Law of God is of that Nature, that if it hath not thy own Blood, or the Blood of some other Man (for it calls for no less) for to ransom thee from the Curse of it, being due to thee for thy Transgression, and to satisfy the Cries, the doleful Cries thereof, and ever for to present thee pure and spotless before God (notwithstanding this fiery Law) thou art gone if thou hadst a thousand Souls; For without shedding of Blood there is no Remission, Heb. 9. 22. No Forgiveness of the least Sin against the Law.

Object. 4. But, you will say, I do not only repent me of my former Life, and also promise to do so no more, but now I do labour to be righteous, and to live a holy Life; and now instead of being a Breaker of the Law, I do labour to fulfil the same; what say you to that?

Ans. Set the case thou couldest walk like an Angel of God; set the case thou couldest fulfil the whole Law, and live from this Day to thy Life's end, without sinning in Thought, Word, or Deed, which is impossible; but, I say, set the case it should be so, why, thy State is as bad (if thou be under the first Covenant) as ever it was. For, first, I know thou dardest not say but thou hast, at one time or other, sinned; and, if so, then the Law hath condemned thee; and, if so, then I am sure, that thou, with all thy Actions and Works of Righteousness, canst not remove the dreadful and unresistible Curse that is already laid upon thee by that Law which thou art under, and which thou hast sinned against; tho' thou livest the holiest Life that any Man can live in this World, being under the Law of Works, and so not under the Covenant of Grace, thou must be cut off without Remedy; for thou hast sinned, though afterwards thou live never so well.

The Reasons for this that hath been spoken, are these:

First, The Nature of God's Justice calls for it, that is, it calls for irrecoverable Ruin on them that transgress against this Law: for Justice gave it, and Justice looks to have it compleatly, and continually obeyed, or else Justice is resolved to take Place, and execute its Office, which is to punish the Transgressor against it; you must understand that the Justice of God is as unchangeable as his Love; his Justice cannot change its Nature, Justice it is, if it be pleased, and Justice it is, if it be displeased. The Justice of God in this place, may be compared to Fire; there is a great Fire made in in some Place, if thou do keep out of it, it is Fire; if thou do fall into it, thou wilt find it Fire; and therefore the Apostle useth this as an Argument to stir up the Hebrews to stick close to Jesus Christ, lest they fall under the Justice of God, by these Words, Heb. 12. 29. For our God is a consuming Fire: into which if thou fall, it is not for thee to get out again, as it is with some that fall into a material Fire; no, but he that falls into this, he must lie there for ever; as it is clear where he saith, Isa. 33. 14. Who among us can dwell with everlasting Burnings, and with devouring Fire? For Justice once offended, knoweth not how to shew any Pity or Compassion to the Offender; but runs on him like a Lion, takes him by the Throat, throws him into Prison, and there he is sure to lie, and that to all Eternity, unless infinite Satisfaction be given to it, which is impossible to be given by any of (us) the Sons of Adam.

Secondly, the Faithfulness of God calls for irrecoverable Ruine, to be poured out on those that shall live and die under this Covenant. If thou having sinned but one Sin against this Covenant, and shouldest afterwards escape damning, God must be unfaithful to himself, and to his Word, which both agree as one. First, he would be unfaithful to himself; to himself, that is, to his Justice, Holiness, Righteousness, Wisdom and Power, if he should offer to stop the runnings out of his Justice, for the damning of them that have offended it. And Secondly, he would be unfaithful to his Word (his written Word) and deny, disown, and break that, of which he hath said, Luke 16. 7. It is easier for Heaven and Earth to pass away, than for one Tittle of the Law to fail, or be made of none effect; now if he should not according to his certain Declarations therein, take Vengeance on those that fall and die within the Threat, and sad Curses denounced, in that his Word could not be fulfilled.

Thirdly, Because otherwise he would disown the Sayings of his Prophets, and gratify the Sayings of his Enemies; his Prophets say he will take Vengeance, his Enemies say he will not; his Prophets say he will remember their Iniquities, and recompence them into their Bosom; but his Enemies say they shall do well, and they shall have Peace though they walk after the Imagination of their own Heart, Deut. 29. 19, 20. and be not so strict as the Word commands, and do not as it saith: But let me tell thee, hadst thou a thousand Souls, and each of them was worth a thousand Worlds, God would set them all on a light Fire, if they fall within the condemnings of his Word, and thou die without a Jesus, even the right Jesus; for the Scriptures cannot be broken. What dost thou think that God, Christ, Prophets, and Scriptures, will all lye for thee? And falsify their Words for thee? It will be but ill venturing thy Soul upon that.

And the Reasons for it are these, First, Because God is God; and secondly, Because Man is Man.

First, Because God is perfectly Just, and eternally Just; perfectly Holy, and eternally Holy; perfectly Faithful, and eternally Faithful; that is, without any Variableness or Shadow of Turning, but perfectly continueth the same, and can as well cease to be God, as to alter or change the Nature of his God-head. And as he is thus the Perfection of all Perfections, he gave out his Law to be obeyed; but if any offend it, then they fall into the Hands of this his eternal Justice, and so must drink of his irrecoverable Wrath, which is the Execution of the same Justice. I say, this being thus, the Law being broken, Justice takes Place, and so Faithfulness followeth, to see that Execution be done, and also to testify that he is true, and doth denounce his unspeakable, unsupportable, and unchangeable Vengeance on the Party offending.

Secondly, Because thou art not as infinite as God, but a poor created Weed, that is here to Day and gone to Morrow; and not able to answer God in his Essence, Being and Attributes; thou art bound to fall under him, for that thy Soul or Body can do nothing that is infinite in such a way, as to satisfy this which is an infinite God in all his Attributes.

But to declare unto you the Misery of Man by this Law to purpose, I do beseech you to take Notice of these following Particulars, besides what hath been already spoken. First, I shall shew the Danger of them by Reason of the Law, as they come from Adam; Secondly, as they are in their own Persons particularly under it.

1. First, As they come from Adam, they are in a sad Condition; because he left them a broken Covenant: Or, take it thus, because they, while they were in him, did with him break that Covenant. Oh! this was the Treasure that Adam left to his Posterity, it was a broken Covenant, inasmuch that Death reigned over all his Children, and doth still to this Day, as they come from him, both natural and eternal Death, Rom. 5. It may be, Drunkard, Swearer, Liar, Thief, thou dost not think of this.

2. Secondly, He did not only leave them a broken Covenant, but also made them (himself) Sinners against it: He made them Sinners; By one Man's disobedience many were made Sinners, Rom. 5. 19. And this is worse than the first.

3. Thirdly, Not only so, but he deprived them of their Strength, by which at first they were enabled to stand, and left them no more than dead Men. Oh helpless State! Oh how beggarly and miserable are the Sons of Adam!

4. Fourthly,

4. Fourthly, Not only so, but also before he left them, he was the Conduite-pipe thro' which the Devil did convey off his poyson'd Spawn and venomous Nature in the Hearts of Adam's Sons and Daughters, by which they are at this Day so strongly and so violently carried away, that they fly as fast to Hell and the Devil, by reason of Sin, as Chaff before a mighty Wind.

5. Fifthly, in a Word, Adam led them out of their Paradise, that is one more; and put out their Eyes, that is another; and left them to the Leading of the Devil; O sad! Canst thou hear this, and not have thy Ears to tingle and burn on thy Head! Canst thou read this, and not feel this, and not feel thy Conscience begin to throb and dagg? If so, surely it is because thou art either possessed with the Devil, or besides thy self. But I pass this, and come to the second Thing, which is the cause of their being in a sad Condition, which is by reason of their being in their Particular persons under it.

First, therefore they that are under the Law, they are in a sad Condition; because they are under that which is more ready (through our Infirmary) to Curse than to Bless; they are under that called the Ministration of Condemnation, 2 Cor. 3. that is, they are under that Dispensation, or Administration, whose proper work is to Curse, and Condemn, and nothing else.

Secondly, their Condition is sad, who are under the Law; because they are not only under that Ministration that doth condemn, but also that which doth wait an Opportunity to condemn: the Law doth not wait that it might be gracious, but it doth wait to curse and condemn; It came on purpose to discover Sin, Rom. 5. 20. The Law entred, saith the Apostle, that the offence might abound; or appear indeed to be that which God doth hate; and also to Curse for that which hath been committed, as he saith, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things that are written in the Book of the Law to do them; Gal. 3. 10.

Thirdly, they are in a sad Condition; because that Administration they are under, that are under the Law, doth always find fault with the Sinner's obedience, as well as his disobedience; (if it be not done in a right Spirit, which they that are under that Covenant cannot do, by reason of their being destitute of Faith) therefore, I say, it doth controle them, saying, This was not well done; this was done by halves; this was not done freely, and that was not done perfectly, and out of love to God: And hence it is that some Men, notwithstanding they labour to live as Holy as ever they can, according to the Law, yet they do not live a peaceable Life, but are full of condemnings, full of guilt and torment of Conscience; finding themselves to fail here, and fall short there, omitting this good which the Law commands, and doing that evil which the Law forbids, but never giveth them one good Word for all their Pains.

Fourthly, they that are under the Law are in a sad Condition; because they are under that Administration that will never be contented with what is done by the Sinner; if thou be under this Covenant, work as hard as thou canst, the Law will never say, Well done; never say, My good servant: No, but always it will be driving of thee faster, hastning of thee harder, giving of thee fresh commands, which thou must do, and upon pain of Damnation not to be left undone. Nay, it is such a Master that will curse thee, not only for thy Sins, but also because thy good works were not so well done, as they ought to be.

Fifthly, they that are under this Covenant or Law, their state is very sad; because this Law doth command impossible Things of him that is under it; and yet doth but right in it, seeing Man at the first, had in Adam strength to stand, if he would have used it, and the Law was given them, (as I said before) when Man was in his full strength; and therefore no inequality, if it commands the same still, seeing God that gave thee strength, did not take it away. I will give you a similitude for the clearing of it; set the case that I give to my Servant ten Pounds, with this charge, lay it out for my best Advantage, that I may have my own again with Profit; now if my Servant contrary to my command, goeth and spends my Money in a disobedient way, is it any inequality in me to demand of my Servant what I gave him at first? nay, and though he have nothing to pay, I may lawfully cast him into Prison, and keep him there until I have satisfaction. So here, the Law was delivered to Man, at the first when he was in a possibility to have fulfilled it; now then, though Man may have lost his strength, yet God is just in commanding the same Work to be done. I, and if they do not do the same things, I say, that are impossible for them to do, it is just with God to damn them, seeing it was they themselves that brought themselves in this Condition; therefore saith the Apostle, What things soever the Law, or Commands saith, it saith to them that are under the Law; that every mouth may be stopped, and all the World may become guilty before God, Rom. 3. 19. and this is thy sad Condition that art under the Law, Gal. 3. 10.

But if any should object and say, but the Law doth not command impossible Things of natural Man.

I should answer in this case as the Apostle did in another, very much like unto unto it, saying, They know not what they say, nor whereof they affirm: For doth not the Law command thee to love the Lord thy God, with all thy Soul, with all thy Strength, with all thy Might? &c. and can the natural Man do this? Jer. 17. 23.

How can those that are accustomed to do evil, do that which is commanded in this particular? Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the Leopard his spots?

Doth not the Law command thee to do Good and nothing but Good? And that with all thy Soul, Heart, and Delight, (which the Law as a Covenant of Works called for) and can't thou being carnal do that? But there is no Man that hath Understanding, if he should hear thee say so, but would say that thou wast either bewitched, or stark mad.

Sixthly, they that are under the Law, are in a sad Condition; because, that tho' they follow the Law, or Covenant of Works; I say, tho' they follow it, it will not lead them to Heaven; no, but contrariwise, it will lead them under the Curse. It is not possible, saith Paul, that any should be justified by the Law, (or by our following of it) for by that is the Knowledge of Sin, and by it we are condemned for the same, which is far from leading us to Life, being the Ministration of Death, 2. Cor. 3. and again, Israel that followeth after the Law of Righteousness, hath not attained to the Law of Righteousness: wherefore? because they sought it not by Faith, but by the Law, and by the Works thereof, Rom. 9. 30, 31, 32.

Seventhly, they that are under the Law are in a sad Condition; because they do not know whether ever they shall have any Wages for their Work or no; they have no Assurance of the Pardon of their Sins, neither any Hopes of eternal Life: but poor Hearts as they are, they work for they do not know what, even like a poor Horse that works hard all Day, and at Night hath a dirty Stable for his Pains; so thou mayest work hard all the Days of thy Life, and at the Day of Death, instead of having a glorious Rest in the Kingdom of Heaven, thou may'st, nay, thou shalt have for thy Sins, the Damnation of thy Soul and Body in Hell to all Eternity; for as much as I say before, that the Law, if thou sinnest, it doth not take Notice of any good Work done by thee; but takes its Advantage to destroy and cut off thy Soul for the Sin thou hast committed.

Eighthly, they that are under the Law, are in a sad Condition, because they are under that Administration, upon whose Souls God doth not smile (they dying there) for the Administration that God doth smile upon his Children through, is the Covenant of Grace, they being in Jesus Christ, the Lord of Life and Consolation: but contrariwise to those that are under the Law; for they have his Frowns, his Rebukes, his Threatnings, and with much Severity they must be dealt withal. For they brake my Covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord, Heb. 8. 9.

Ninthly, they are in a sad Condition; because they are out of the Faith of Christ: they that are under the Law, have not the Faith of Christ in them; for that Dispensation which they are under, is not the Administration of Faith, The Law is not of Faith, saith the Apostle, Gal. 3. 2.

Tenthly, because they have not receiv'd the Spirit; for that is received by the bearing of Faith, and not by the Law, nor the Works thereof, Gal. 3. 2.

Eleventhly, in a Word, if thou live and die under that Covenant, Jesus Christ will neither pray for thee, neither let thee have one Drop of his Blood to wash away thy Sins; neither shalt thou be so much as one of the least in the Kingdom of Heaven; for all these Privileges come to Souls under another Covenant, as the Apostle saith, For such are not under the Law, but under Grace; that is, such as have a Share in the Benefits of Jesus Christ, or such as are brought from under the first Covenant, into the second; or from under the Law, into the Grace of Christ's Gospel, without which Covenant of Grace, and being found in that, there is no Soul can have the least Hope of eternal Life, no Joy in the Holy Ghost, no Share in Privileges of Saints, because they are tied up from them by the Limits and Bonds of the Covenant of Works. For you must understand, that these two Covenants have their several Bounds and Limitations, for the ruling and keeping in Subjection, or giving of Freedom to the Parties under the said Covenants: Now they that are under the Law, are within the Compass and Jurisdiction of that, and are bound to be in Subjection to that; and living and dying under that, they must stand and fall to that, as Paul saith, To his own Master he shall stand or fall. The Covenant of Grace doth admit to those that are under it, also Liberty, and Freedom, together with Commanding of Subjection to the Things contain'd in it, which I shall speak to further hereafter.

But now, that the former Things may be further made to appear, that is, what the sad Condition of all them that are under the Law is; as I have shewn you something of the Nature of the Law, so also shall I shew, that the Law was added and given for that Purpose, that it might be so with those that are out of the Covenant of Grace.

First, God did give the Law, that Sin might abound, Rom. 5. 20. not that it should take away Sin in any, but to discover the Sin which is already begotten, or that that may hereafter be begotten, by Lust and Satan: I say, this is one proper Work of the Law, to make manifest Sin; it is sent to find Fault with the Sinner, and it doth also watch that it may do so, and it doth take all Advantages, for the accomplishing of its Work in them that give Ear thereto, or do not give Ear, if it have the Rule over them. I say, it is like a Man that is sent by his Lord to see and pry into the Labours and Works of other Men, taking every Advantage to discover their Infirmities and Failings, and to chide them; yea, to throw them out of the Lord's Favour for the same.

Secondly, Another great End why the Lord did add or give the Law, it was that no Man might have any Thing to lay to the Charge of the Lord, for his condemning of them that do transgress against the same. You know that if a Man should be had before an Officer or Judge, and there be condemned, and yet by no Law; he that condemns him, might be very well reprehended, or reprov'd for passing the Judgment; yea, the Party himself might have better Ground to plead for his Liberty, than the other to plead for the condemning of him: but this shall not be so in the Judgment-Day, but contrariwise; for then every Man shall be forced to lay his Hand on his Mouth, and hold his Tongue at the Judgment of God, when it is pass'd upon them; therefore saith the Apostle, What Things soever the Law saith, it saith to them that are under the Law (that is, all the Commands, all the Cursings and Threatnings that are spoken by it, are spoken saith he) that every Mouth may be stopped; mark, I beseech you, it saith, saith he, that every Mouth might be stopped, and that all the World might become guilty before God, Rom. 3. 19. So that now in Case any in the Judgment Day, should object against the Judgment of God, as those in the 25. of Matthew do, saying, Lord when saw we thee thus and thus? And why dost thou pass such a sad Sentence of Condemnation upon us? Surely this is Injustice and not Equity: Now for the preventing of this, the Law was given; I, and that it might prevent thee to purpose, God gave it betimes, before either thy first Father had sinned, or thou wert born. So that again, if there should be these Objections offered against the Proceedings of the Lord in Justice and Judgment, saying, Lord, why am I thus condemned, I did not know it was Sin? Now against these two was the Law given, and that betimes, so that both these are answered. If the first come in and say, why am I judged? Why am I damned? Then will the Law come in, even all the Ten Commandments, with every one of their Cries against thy Soul, the first saying, He hath sinned against me, damn him; the second saying also, He hath transgressed against me, damn him; the third also saying the same, together with the 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. even all of them will discharge themselves against thy Soul, if thou die under the first Covenant, saying, he, or they, have transgressed against us, damn them, damn them: and I tell thee also, that these ten great Guns, the ten Commandments, will with discharging themselves in Justice against thy Soul, so rattle in thy Conscience, that thou wilt in Spight of thy Teeth, be immediately put to Silence, and have thy Mouth stopped; and let me tell thee further, that if thou shalt appear before God, to have the ten Commandments discharge themselves against thee, thou hadst better be tied to a Tree, and have ten, yea ten Thousand of the biggest Pieces of Ordnance in the World, to be shot off against thee; for these could go no further, but only to kill the Body; but they, both Body and Soul, to be tormented in Hell with the Devil to all Eternity.

3. Again, if the second thing should be objected, saying, But Lord, I did not think this had been Sin, or the other had been Sin, for no body told me so: Then also will the giving of the Law take off that, saying, Nay, but I was given to thy Father Adam before he had sinned, or before thou wast born, and have ever since been in thy Soul to convince thee of thy Sins, and to controul thee for doing the Thing that was not right. Did not I secretly tell thee at such a Time, in such a Place, when thou wast doing of such a thing with such a one, or when thou wast all alone, that this was a Sin, and that God did forbid it, therefore if thou didst commit it, God would be displeased with thee for it: And when thou wast thinking to do such a Thing, at such a Time, did not I say forbear, do not so? God will smite thee, and punish thee for it, if thou dost do it? And besides God did so order it, that you had me in your Houses, in your Bibles, and also you could speak and talk of me; thus pleading the Truth, thou shalt be forc'd to confess it is so; nay, it shall be so in some sort with the very Gentiles, and barbarous People, that fall far short of that light we have in these parts of the World (for saith the Apostle) The Gentiles which have not the Law, these do by Nature the Things contained in the Law; these having not the Law (that is, not written as we have, yet they) are a Law unto themselves, which sheweth the Works of the Law is written in their Hearts, Rom. 2. 14, 15. that is, they have the Law of Works in them by Nature, and therefore they shall be left without Excuse; for their own Conscience shall stand up for the Truth of this, where he saith, Their Conscience also bearing Witness, and their Thoughts the mean while accusing, or else excusing one another. I but when? Why, in the Day when God shall judge the secrets of Men

Men by Jesus Christ according to my Gospel, Rom. 2. 15, 16. So this I say is another End for which the Lord did give the Law, namely, that God might pass a Sentence in Righteousness, without being charged with any Injustice, by those that shall fall under it in the Judgment.

4. A fourth End, why the Lord did give the Law, was, because they that die out of Jesus Christ, might not only have their Mouths stopp'd; but also that their Persons might become guilty before God, (Rom. 3. 19.) and indeed this will be the Ground of silencing, (as I said before) they finding themselves guilty, their Consciences backing the Truth of the Judgment of God, pass'd upon them, they shall become guilty; that is, they shall be fit Vessels for the Wrath of God to be poured out into, being fill'd with Guilt by Reason of Transgressions against the Commandments: thus therefore shall the Parties under the first Covenant be fitted to Destruction, (Rom. 9. 22.) even as Wood, or Straw, being well dried, is fitted for the Fire, and the Law was added and given, and speaks to this very End, that Sins might be shewn, Mouths might be stopp'd from quarrelling: And that all the World, mark, the World might become guilty before God, and so be in Justice for ever and ever overthrown, because of their Sins.

And this will be so, for these Reasons.

First, because God hath a Time to magnify his Justice and Holiness, as well as to shew his Forbearance and Mercy. We read in Scripture, that his Eyes are too pure to behold Iniquity, Hab. 1. 13. and then we shall find it true. We read in Scripture, that he will magnify the Law, and make it honourable, and then he will do it indeed.

Now because the Lord doth not strike so soon as he is provok'd by Sin, therefore poor Souls will not know nor regard the Justice of God; neither do they consider the Time in which it must be advanced (which will be) when Men drop under the Wrath of God as fast as Hail in a mighty Storm, 2 Pet. 3. 9. Psal. 50. 21, 22. Now therefore look to it all you that count the long Suffering and Forbearance of God Slackness; and because for the present he keepeth Silence, therefore think that he is like unto yourselves. No, No, but know that God hath his set Time for every Purpose of his, and in its Time, it shall be advanced most marvellously, to the everlasting Astonishment and Overthrow of that Soul, that shall be dealt withal by Justice and the Law. O! how will God advance his Justice? O! how will God advance his Holiness? First, by shewing Men that he in Justice cannot, will not regard them, because they have sinned: And secondly, in that his Holiness will not give Way for such unclean Wretches to abide in his Sight, his Eyes are so pure.

Secondly, Because God will make it appear that he will be as good as his Word to Sinners; Sinners must not look to escape always, though they may escape a while, yet they shall not go for all ado unpunished; no, but they shall have their Due to a Farthing, when every Threatning and Curse shall be accomplish'd, and fulfilled on the Head of the Transgressor. Friend, there is never an idle Word that thou speakest, but God will account with thee for it; there is never a Lye thou tellest, but God will reckon with thee for it; nay, there shall not pass so much as one Passage in all thy Life-time, but God, the righteous God, will have it in the Trial, by his Law (if thou die under it) in the Judgment-Day.

But you will say: But who are those that are thus under the Law?

Answer. Those that are under the Law, may be branched out into three Ranks of Men: either, first, such as are grossly prophane, or such as are more refined; which may be two Ways, some in a lower Sort, and some in a more eminent Way.

First, Then they are under the Law, as a Covenant of Works, who are, open, prophane, and ungodly Wretches, such as delight not only in Sin, but also make their Boast of the same, and brag at the Thoughts of committing of it: now as for such as these are, there is a Scripture in the first Epistle of Paul to Timothy, 1 Chap. at the 9. and 10 Verses, which is a notable one to this Purpose, The Law (saith he) is not made for a righteous Man (not as it is a Covenant of Works) but for the (unrighteous or) lawless and disobedient; for the ungodly, and for Sinners, for unholy, and prophane, for Murderers of Fathers, and Murderers of Mothers, for Man-slayers: for Whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with Mankind, for Men-stealers, Lyars (look to it Lyars) for perjured Persons, and (in a Word) if there be any other Thing that is not according to sound Doctrine. These are one Sort of People that are under the Law, and so under the Curse of the same, whose due is to drink up the brim-full Cup of God's eternal Vengeance, and therefore I beseech you not to deceive yourselves. For know you not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the Kingdom of God? Neither Fornicators, nor Idolaters, nor Adulterers, nor Effeminate, nor Abusers of themselves with Mankind, nor Thieves, nor Covetous, nor Drunkards, nor Revilers, nor Extortioners, shall inherit the Kingdom of Heaven, 1 Cor. 6. 9. 10. Poor Souls, you think that you may have your Sins, your Lusts and Pleasures, and yet you shall do pretty well and be let to go free in the Judgment Day: but see what God saith of such in the 9th of Deuteronomy, ver. 19. 20. Which shall bless bleſs themſelves in their Heart, ſaying, we ſhall have Peace, we ſhall be ſaved, we ſhall do as well as others, in the Day when God ſhall judge the World by Jeſus Chriſt (but faith God) I will not ſpare them, no, but my Anger and my Jealouſy ſhall ſmoke againſt them, How far? even to the executing all the Curſes that are written in the Law of God upon them; Nay, faith God, I will be even with them; For I will blot out their Names from under Heaven. And indeed it muſt of Neceſſity be ſo, becauſe ſuch Souls are Unbelievers, in their Sins, and under the Law, which cannot, will not ſhew any Mercy on them; for it is not the Adminiſtration of Mercy and Life, but the Adminiſtration of Death and Deſtruction (as you have it 2 Cor. the 3. Chap. the 7. 9. verſes) and all thoſe, every one of them, that are open, prophane, and ſcandalous Wretches, are under it, and have been ſo ever ſince they came into the World to this Day; and they will for certain live and die under the ſame Diſpenſation, and then be damned to all Eternity, if they be not converted from under that Covenant, into and under the Covenant of Grace (of which I ſhall ſpeak in its Place) and yet for all this, how brag and crank are our poor Wantons, and wicked ones, in this Day of Forbearance? as if God would never have a Reckoning with them, as if there was no Law to condemn them, as if there was no Hell-fire to put them into: But Oh! How will they be deceived? when they ſhall ſee Chriſt ſitting upon the Judgment-Seat, having laid aſide his prieſtly and propheticall Office, and appearing only as a Judge to the Wicked? When they ſhall ſee all the Records of Heaven unfolded and laid open; when they ſhall ſee each Man his Name out of the Book of Life, and in the Book of the Law; when they ſhall ſee God in his Majeſty, Chriſt in his Majeſty, the Saints in their Dignity; but themſelves in their Impurity, What will they ſay then? whither will they fly then? where will they leave their Glory? Iſa. 10. 3. O ſad State!

Secondly, They are under the Law alſo, who do not only ſo break and diſobey the Law, but follow after the Law, as hard as ever they can, ſeeking Juſtification thereby? that is, though a Man ſhould abſtain from the Sins againſt the Law, and labour to fulfil the Law, and give up himſelf to the Law; yet if he look no further than the Law, he is ſtill under the Law, and for all his obedience to the Law, the Righteous Law of God, he ſhall be deſtroyed by that Law. Friend, you muſt not underſtand that none but prophane Perſons are under the Law: No, but you muſt underſtand that a Man may be turned from a vain, looſe, open, prophane Converſation, and ſinning againſt the Law, to a Holy, Righteous life, and yet be in the ſame State, under the ſame Law, and as ſure to be damned as the other that are more prophane and looſe. And though you may ſay this is very ſtrange, yet I ſhall both ſay it, and prove it to be true. Read with underſtanding that Scripture in Romans 9, at the 30, 31. verſes, where the Apoſtle ſpeaking of the very ſame thing, ſaith, But Iſrael which followed after the Law of Righteouſneſs; mark, that followed after the Law of Righteouſneſs; they notwithstanding their earneſt purſuit, or hunting after the Law of Righteouſneſs, fell ſhort of the Law of Righteouſneſs. It ſignifies thus much to us, that let a Man be never ſo earneſt, ſo fervent, ſo reſtleſs, ſo ſerious, ſo ready, ſo apt and willing to follow the Law, and the Righteouſneſs thereof, if he be under that Covenant, he is gone, he is loſt, he is deprived of eternal Life, becauſe he is not under the Miniſtration of Life (if he die there;) read alſo that Scripture, Gal. 3. 10. (which ſaith) For as many as are of the Works of the Law, are under the Curſe; mark, they that are of the Works of the Law: now for to be of the Works of the Law, it is to be of the Works of the Righteouſneſs thereof; that is, to abſtain from Sins againſt the Law, and to do the Commands thereof, as near as ever they can for their Lives, or with all the Might they have; and therefore I beſeech you to conſider it, for Mens being ignorant of this, is the cauſe why ſo many go on, ſuppoſing they have a ſhare in Chriſt; becauſe they are reformed and abſtain from the Sins againſt the Law, who, when all comes to all, will be damned notwithstanding, becauſe they are not brought out from under the Covenant of Works, and put under the Covenant of Grace.

Object. But (can you in very deed make theſe things manifeſtly evident from the Word of God?) methinks to reaſon thus is very ſtrange, that a Man ſhould labour to walk up according to the Law of God, as much as ever he can, and yet that Man notwithstanding this, ſhould be ſtill under the Curſe. Pray clear it.

Anſw. Truly this doth ſeem very ſtrange, I do know full well, to the natural Man, to him that is yet in his Unbelief; becauſe he goeth by beguiled Reaſon: but for my Part, I do know it is ſo, and ſhall labour alſo to convince thee of the truth of the ſame.

Fiſt then, the Law is thus ſtrict and ſevere, that if a Man do Sin but once againſt it, he (I ſay) is gone for ever by the Law, living and dying under that Covenant: If you would be ſatiſfied, as touching the Truth of this, do but read the third of the Galatians at the 10. verſe, Where it ſaith, Cursed is every one (that is, not a Man ſhall miſs by that Covenant) that continueth not in all (mark in all) things that are written in the Book of the Law to do do them: pray mark, here is a Curse in the first Place; if all Things written in the Book of the Law be not done, and that is, continually too, that is without any failing, or one slip, as I said before. Now there is never a one in the World but before they did begin to yield Obedience to the least Command, they in their own Persons did sin against it, by breaking of it: the Apostle methinks is very notable for the clearing of this in that third of the Romans, and also in the fifth; in the one he endeavours for to prove that all had transgressed in the first Adam, as he stood a common Person representing both himself and us in his standing and falling, Rom. 5. 12. Wherefore (saith he) as by one Man Sin entered into the World, and Death by Sin: and so Death passed upon all Men; mark that, but why? for that all have sinned; that is, for as much as all naturally are guilty of original Sin, the Sin that was committed by us in Adam: So this is one cause why none can be justified by their obedience to the Law, because they have in the first Place broken it in their first Parents. But secondly, in case this should be opposed and rejected by quarrelsome Persons, though there be no ground for it, Paul hath another argument to back his Doctrine, saying, For we have proved (already) that both Jews and Gentiles are all under Sin. First, As it is written, There is none Righteous, no not one. Secondly, They are all gone out of the Way, they are together (mark, together) become unprofitable, there is none that doth good, no not one. Thirdly, Their throat is an open Sepulchre, with their Tongues they have used deceit, the poison of Asps is under their lips. Fourthly, Their mouths are full of cursing and Bitterness. Fifthly, Their Feet are swift to shed blood. In a word, Destruction and Misery are in their Ways. And the way of Peace they have not known. Now then, saith he, having proved these things so clearly, the Conclusion of the whole is this, That what things soever the Law saith (in both shewing of Sin and cursing for the same) it saith (All) to them that are under the Law, that every mouth may be stopped, and all the World may become guilty before God, Rom. 3. 9. to 20. So that here I say lieth the Ground of our being justified by the Law, even because in the first Place we have sinned against it; for know this for certain, that if the Law doth take the least advantage of thee, by thy sinning against it, all that ever thou shalt afterwards hear from it, is nothing but Curse, Curse, Curse him, For not continuing in all things that are written in the Book of the Law to do them.

Secondly, Thou canst not be saved by the righteous Law of God, the first Covenant, because that (together with this thy miserable State, by original and actual Sins, before thou didst follow the Law) since thy turning to the Law, thou hast committed several Sins against the Law. (In many things we offend all.) So that now thy Righteousness to the Law, being mixed with sometimes the Lust of Concupiscence, Fornication, Coverousness, Pride, Heart-risings against God, Coldness of Affection towards him, Backwardness to good Duties, speaking idle Words, having Strife in your Hearts, and such like; I say, these Things being thus, the Righteousness of the Law is become too weak through this our Flesh, (Rom. 8. 3.) and so notwithstanding all our Obedience to the Law, we are yet thro' our Weakness under the Curse of the Law; for, as I said before, the Law is so holy, so just, and so good, that it cannot allow that any Failing or Slip should be done by them that look for Life by the same. Curfed is every one that continueth not in every thing, Gal. 3. 10. and this Paul knew full well, which made him throw away all his Righteousness. But you will say that was his own. Answer. But it was even that which while he calls it his own, he also calls it the Righteousness of the Law, (see Phil. 3. 7, 8, 9, 10.) and accounts it but Dung, but as Dirt on his Shoes, that he might be found in Christ, and so be saved by him without the Deeds of the Law, Rom. 3. 28.

But thirdly, Set the case of Righteousness of the Law, which thou hast, was pure and perfect without the least Flaw or Fault, without the least Mixture of the least sinful Thought; yet this would fall far short of presenting of thee blameless in the Sight of God. And that I prove by these Arguments.

The first Argument is, That that which is not Christ, cannot redeem Souls from the Curse, it cannot compleatly present them before the Lord: Now the Law is not Christ: Therefore the Moral Law cannot (by all our Obedience to it) deliver us from the Curse that is due to us, Acts. 4. 12.

The second Argument is, That that Righteousness that is not the Righteousness of Faith (that is by believing in Jesus Christ) cannot please God. Now the Righteousness of the Law, as a Covenant of Works, is not the Righteousness of Faith; Therefore the Righteousness of the Law, as acted by us, being under that Covenant, cannot please God. The first is proved in Heb. 11. 6. But without Faith it is impossible to please him, mark, it is impossible. The second thus, The Law is not of Faith, Gal. 3. 12. Rom. 10. 5, 6. compared with Gal. 3. 11. But that no Man is justified in the Sight of the Lord by the Law, it is evident; for the just shall live by Faith, and the Law is not of Faith. But for the better understanding of those that are weak of Apprehension, I shall prove it thus:

First, That Soul who hath eternal Life, he must must have it by Right of Purchase, or Redemption, (Heb. 9. 22. Eph. 1. 7.) Secondly, this Purchase or Redemption, must be thro' the Blood of Christ. We have Redemption through his Blood. Without shedding of Blood there is no Remission. Now the Law is not in a Capacity to die, and so to redeem Sinners by the Purchase of Blood, which Satisfaction Justice calls for (read the same Scriptures, Heb. 9. 22.) Justice calls for Satisfaction, because thou hast transgressed, and sinned against it, and that must have Satisfaction; therefore, all that ever thou canst do cannot bring in Redemption; tho' thou follow the Law up to the Nail Head, (as I may say) because all this is not shedding of Blood: For believe it, and know it for certain, that tho' thou hadst sinned but one Sin, before thou didst turn to the Law; that one Sin will murder thy Soul, if it be not washed away by Blood, even by the precious Blood of Jesus Christ, that was shed when he did hang upon the Cross on Mount Calvary.

Object. But you will say, methinks that giving up ourselves to live a righteous Life, should make God like better on us, and so let us be saved by Christ, because we are so willing to obey his Law.

Ans. The Motive that moveth God to have Mercy upon Sinners, is not because they are willing to follow the Law, but because he is willing to save them. Not for thy Righteousness, or for thy Uprightness of Heart dost thou possess the Land, Deut. 9. 4, 5, 6. Now understand this; if thy will to do Righteousness was the first moving Cause why God had Mercy on thee thro' Christ, then it must not be freely by Grace. (I say freely) but the Lord loves thee and saves thee upon free Terms, having nothing beforehand to make him accept of thy Soul, but only the Blood of Christ; therefore to allow of such a Principle, it is to allow, that Grace is to be obtained by the Works of the Law, which is so gross Darkness, as lies in the darkest Dungeon in Popery, and is also directly opposite to Scripture. For we are justified freely by his Grace, through the Redemption that is in Christ; not thro' the Good that is in ourselves, or done by us (Rom. 3. 24.) No, But by Faith, without; mark that, without the Deeds of the Law, verse 28. Again, not of Works, least any Man should boast, Eph. 2. 9. No, no (saith he) Not according to our Works, (or Righteousness) but according to his own Purpose; mark, according to his own Purpose and Grace which was (a free Gift) given us in Christ Jesus (not lately, but) before the World began, 2 Tim. 1. 9.

Object. But you will say, then why did God give the Law, if we cannot have Salvation by following of it?

Ans. I told you before, that the Law was given for these following Reasons,

First, That thou mightest be convinced by it of thy Sins, and that thy Sins might indeed appear very sinful unto thee; which is done by the Law these Ways: First, by shewing of thee what a holy God he is that gave the Law: And secondly, By shewing thee thy Vileness and Wickedness, in that thou, contrary to this holy God, hast transgressed against, and broken this his holy Law; therefore saith Paul, The Law was added, that the Offence might abound, Rom. 5. 20. that is, by shewing the Creature the Holiness of God, and also its own Vileness.

Secondly, That thou mayest know, that God will not damn thee for nothing in the Judgment-day.

Thirdly, Because he would have no quarrelling at his just condemning of them at that day.

Fourthly, Because he will make thee to know, that he is a holy God, and pure.

Quest. But seeing you have spoken thus far, I wish you would do so much as to shew in some Particulars, both what Men have done, and how far they have gone, and what they have received, being yet under this Covenant, which you call the Ministration of Condemnation.

Ans. This is something a difficult Question, and had need be not only warily, but also home and soundly answered. The Question consists of three Particulars. First, What Men have done. Secondly, How far Men have gone. Thirdly, What they have received, and yet to be under the Law or Covenant of Works; and so in a State of Condemnation.

As for the first, I have spoken something in general to that already: but for thy better understanding, I shall speak yet more particularly. First, a Man hath, and may be convinced and troubled for his Sins, and yet be under this Covenant, and that in a very heavy and dreadful manner; insomuch that he may find the Weight of them to be intolerable and too heavy for him to bear, as it was with Cain, Gen. 4. 13. My Punishment (saith he) is greater than I can bear.

Secondly, A Man living thus under a Sense of his Sins, may repent and be sorry for them, and yet be under this Covenant, and yet be in a damned State, Matt. 27. 3. And when he (Judas) saw what was done, he repented.

Thirdly, Men may not only be convinced, and also repent for their Sins, but they may also desire the Prayers of the Children of God for them too, and yet be under this Covenant and Curse, Exod. 10. 16, 17. And Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, I have sinned; intreat the Lord your God that he may take away from me these Plagues.

Fourthly, A Man may also humble himself for his Offences and Disobedience against his God, and yet be under this Covenant, see 1 Kings 21. 24 to 29.

Fifthly,

Fifthly, A Man may make Restitution unto Men for the Offence he hath done unto them, and yet be under this Covenant.

Sixthly, A Man may do much Work for God in his Generation, and yet be under this first Covenant; as Jehu, who did do that which God bid him, 2 Kings 9. 25, 26. and yet God threatneth even Jehu, because tho' he did do the Thing that the Lord commanded him, yet he did it not from a right Principle; for had he, the Lord would not have said, Yet a little while, and I will avenge the Blood of Jezreel upon the House of Jehu, Hosea 1. 4.

Seventhly, Men may hear and fear the Servants of the Lord, and reverence them very highly; yea, and when they hear, they may not only hear, but hear and do, and that gladly too, not one or two Things, but many; mark, many Things gladly, and yet be lost, and yet be damned (see Mark 6. 20.) For Herod feared John (Why? not because he had any civil Power, over him, but) because he was a just Man, and holy, and observ'd him, and when he heard him, he did many Things, and heard him gladly. It may be, that thou thinkest, that because thou hearest such and such, therefore thou art better than thy Neighbours: But know for certain, that thou mayst not only hear, but thou mayst hear and do, and that not with a backward Will, but gladly; mark, gladly, and yet be Herod still, an Enemy to the Lord Jesus still; consider this I pray you.

2. But, Secondly, to the second Thing, which is this, How far may such a one go? To what may such a one attain? Whither may he arrive, and yet be an undone Man, under this Covenant?

Ans. First, Such a one may be received into Fellowship with the Saints, as they are in a visible Way of walking one with another; they may walk Hand in Hand together (see Mat. 25. 1. where he saith) The Kingdom of Heaven (that is, a visible Company of Professors of Christ) is likened to ten Virgins, which took their Lamps, and went forth to meet the Bridegroom, five of them were wise, and five were foolish. These in the first Place are called Virgins; that is, such as are clear from the Pollutions of the World: Secondly, They are said to go forth; that is, from the Rudiments and Traditions of Men: Thirdly, They do agree to take their Lamps with them; that is, to profess themselves the Servants of Jesus Christ, that wait upon him, and for him; and yet when he came, he found half of them (even them Virgins) that had Lamps, that also went forth from the Pollutions of the World, and the Customs of Men, to be such as lost their precious Souls (see verse 10.) which they should not have done, had they been under the Covenant of Grace, and so, not under the Law.

Vol. II.

Secondly, they may attain to a great deal of Honour in the said Company of Professors (that which may be accounted Honour) insomuch, that they may be put in Trust with Church Affairs, and bear the Bag, as Judas did. I speak not this to shame the Saints, but being beloved I warn then; yet I speak this on Purpose, that it might (if the Lord will) knock at the Door of the Souls of Professors; consider Demas.

Thirdly, They may attain to speak of the Word as Ministers, and become Preachers of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, insomuch, that the People where they dwell, may even take up a Proverb concerning them, saying, Is he among the Prophets? his Gifts may be so rare, his Tongue may be so fluent, and his Matter may be so fit, that he may speak with a Tongue like an Angel, and speak of the hidden Mysteries, yea, of them all; mark that, (1 Cor. 13. 1, 2, 3, 4.) and yet be nothing, and yet be none of the Lord's anointed ones, with the Spirit of Grace savingly, but may live and die under the Curse of the Law.

Fourthly, They may go yet further; they may have the Gifts of the Spirit of God, which may enable them to cast out Devils, to remove the biggest Hills or Mountains in the World; nay, thou mayst be so gifted, as to prophesy of Things to come, the most glorious Things, even the Coming of the Lord Jesus Christ, to reign over all his Enemies, and yet be but a Balaam, a wicked and a mad Prophet, see 2 Pet. 2. 16. Numb. 24, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25.

Fifthly, They may not only stand thus for a while, for a little Season; but they may stand thus till the Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with his holy Angels, ay, and not be discovered of the Saints till that very Day. Then all those Virgins arose (the wise and the foolish) then! when? why, when this Voice was heard, Behold the Bridegroom cometh, go you out to meet him (Mat. 25. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6.) and yet was out of the Lord Jesus Christ, and yet was under the Law.

Sixthly, Nay, further, They may not only continue in a Profession till then (supposing themselves to be under the Grace of the Gospel, when indeed they are under the Curse of the Law) but even when the Bridegroom is come, they may still be so confident of their State to be good, that they will even reason out the Case with Christ, why they are not let into the Kingdom of Glory, saying, Lord, Lord, have we not eaten and drank in thy Presence? and hast not thou taught in our Streets? Nay further, Have not we taught in thy Name? and in thy Name cast out Devils? nay not only thus, but, done many; mark, we have done many wonderful Works: Nay, further, they were so confident, that they commanded, in a commanding Way, saying, Lord, open to us. See here I beseech you, how far these went; they thought they had had intimate Acquaintance with Jesus Christ; they thought he could not chuse but save them; they had eat and drank with him, sat at the Table with him, received Power from him, executed the same Power. In thy name have we done thus and thus; even wrought many wonderful Works, see Mat. 7. 22. Luke 13. 25, 26. And yet these poor Creatures were shut out of the Kingdom. O consider this (I beseech you) before it be too late, lest you say, Lord, let us come in, when Christ saith, Thrust him out, verse 28. And hearing you cry, Lord, open to us, say, Depart, I know you not; lest though you think of having Joy, you have Weeping and Gnashing of Teeth.

3. But, Thirdly, the third Thing touched in the Question, was this; What may such a one receive of God, who is under the Curse of the Law?

First, They may receive an Answer to their Prayers from God, at sometimes, for some Things as they do stand in Need of. I find in Scripture, that God did hear these Persons, that the Apostle saith was cast out, see Gen. 21. 17. And God heard the Voice of the Lad (even of cast out Ishmael) And the Angel of the Lord called to Hagar, (which was the Bond-woman, and under the Law, Gal. 4. 30.) out of Heaven, and said unto her, Fear not; for God hath heard the Voice of the Lad where he is. Friends, it may be you may think, because you have your Prayers answered in some particular Things, therefore you may suppose, that as to your eternal State, your Condition is very good. But you must know, that God doth hear the Cry of a Company of Ishmaelites, the Sons of the Bond-woman, who are under the Law as a Covenant of Works. I do not say he hears them as to their eternal State, but he heareth them as to several Streights, that they go through in this Life, ay, and gives them Ease and Liberty from their Trouble. Here this poor Wretch was almost perished for a little Water, and he cryed, and God heard him, yea, he heard him out of Heaven. Read also the 107 Psalm, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29. Psal. 106. 15. He gave them their Desire, and sent Leanness to their Souls.

But some may say, Methinks this is yet more strange, that God should hear the Prayers, the Cries of those that are under the Law, and answer them.

Ans. I told you before, he doth not hear them as to their eternal State, but as to their temporal State; For God as their Creator hath a Care of them, and causeth the Sun to shine upon them, and the Rain to distil upon their substance, Mat. 5. 45. Nay, he doth give the Beasts in the Field their appointed Food, and doth hear the young Ravens when they cry, Psal. 147. 9. which are far inferiour to Man. I say therefore, that God doth hear the Cries of his Creatures, and doth answer them too, tho' not as to their eternal State; but may damn them nevertheless when they die, for all that.

Secondly, They may receive Promises from the Mouth of the Lord. There are many that have had Promises made to them by the Lord, in a most eminent manner, and yet (as I said before) are such as are cast out and called the Children of the Bond-woman (which is the Law) see Gen. 21. 17, 18. And the Angel of the Lord called out from Heaven to Hagar (that was the Bond-woman) saying, Fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the Lad where he is. Arise, lift up the Lad, and hold him in thine hand; FOR I WILL MAKE OF HIM; mark there is the Promise. For I will make of him (of the Son of the Bond-woman) a great Nation.

Thirdly, Nay, they may go further; for they may receive another Heart than they had before, and yet be under the Law. There is no Man, I think, but those that do not know what they say, that will think or say, that Saul was under the Covenant of Grace, yet after he had talked with Samuel, and had turned his back to go from him, saith the Scripture; God gave him another Heart (1 Sam. 10. 9.) another Heart, mark that, and yet an out-cast, a rejected Person, 1 Sam. 15. 26, 29. Friends, I beseech you, let not these things offend you, but let them rather beget in your Hearts an enquiring into the Truth of your Condition, and be willing to be searched to the bottom; and also, that every Thing which hath not been planted by the Lord's Right-hand, may be rejected, and that there may be a reaching after better Things, even the Things that will not only make thy Soul think thy State is good now, but that thou mayest be able to look Sin, Death, Hell, the Curse of the Law, together with the Judge, in the Face with Comfort, having such a real, found, effectual Work of God's Grace in thy Soul, that when thou hearest the Trumpet sound, seest the Graves flie open, and the Dead come creeping forth out of their Holes; when thou shalt see the Judgment set, the Books opened, and all the World standing before the Judgment-seat; I say, that then thou mayest stand, and have that blessed Sentence spoken to thy Soul, Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from before the Foundation of the World, Mat. 25. 34.

Object. But, you will say, for all this, we cannot believe that we are under the Law; for these reasons: As, first, Because we have found a change in our Hearts. Secondly, Because we do deny that the Covenant of Works will save any. Thirdly, Because for our Parts, we judge our selves far from legal Principles; for we are got up into as perfect a Gospel order, as to matter of Practice and Discipline in Church Affairs, as any this Day in England, as we judge.

Covenant

Ans. First, That Man's belief that is grounded upon any Thing done in him, or by him only, that Man's belief is not grounded upon the Death, Burial, Resurrection, Ascension, and Intercession of Jesus Christ; for that Man that hath indeed good ground of his eternal Salvation, his Faith is settled upon that Object which God is well pleas'd, or satisfy'd withal, which is that Man which was born of Mary, even her First-born Son; that is, he doth apply by Faith to his Soul the Virtues of his Death, Blood, Righteousness, &c. and doth look for Satisfaction of Soul no where else, than from that, neither doth the Soul seek to give God any Satisfaction, as to Justification any other ways; but doth willingly and chearfully accept of, and embrace the Virtues of Christ's Death, together with the rest of his Things, done by himself on the Cross as a Sacrifice, and since also as a Priest, Advocate, Mediator, &c. And doth so really and effectually receive the Glories of the same, That thereby, mark that, thereby he is changed into the same image from glory to glory, 2 Cor. 3. 18. Thus in general, but yet more particular.

First, To think that your Condition is good, because there is some change in you from a loose prophane Life, to a more close, honest, and civil Life and Conversation; I say, to think this testimony sufficient for to ground the stress of thy Salvation upon, is very dangerous. First, Because such a Soul doth not only lay the stress of its Salvation besides the Man Christ Jesus that died upon the Cross: But, Secondly, because that his Confidence is not grounded upon the Saviour of Sinners; but upon his turning from gross Sins, to a more refined Life (and it may be to the performance of some good duties) which is no Saviour: I say, this is very dangerous; therefore read it, and the Lord help you to understand it; for unless you lay the whole stress of the Salvation of your Souls upon the Merits of another Man (namely Jesus;) and that by what he did do, and is adoining without you; for certain, as sure as God is in Heaven, your Souls will perish: And this must not be notionally neither, as with an assenting of the Understanding only: but it must be by the wonderful, invisible, invincible Power of the Almighty God, working in your Souls by his Spirit, such a real, saving, holy Faith, that can, through the Operation of the same Spirit by which it is wrought, lay hold on, and apply the most heavenly, most excellent, most meritorious Benefits of the Man Christ Jesus, not only to your Heads and Fancies, but to your very Souls and Consciences, so effectually, that you may be able by the same Faith to challenge the Power, Madness, Malice, Rage, and destroying Nature, either of Sin, the Law, Death, the Devil, together with Hell, and all other Evils, throwing your Souls upon the Death, Burial, Resurrection, and Intercession of that Man Jesus without, Rom. 8. 32. to 40.

But, Secondly, Do you think that there was no Change in the five foolish Virgins, spoken of in Matt. 25. 1, 2, 3. yes, there was such a Change in them very People, that the five wise ones could give them Admittance of walking with them, in the most pure Ways and Institutions of the Gospel of Christ; and yet but foolish; nay, they walked with them, or shall walk with them, until the Lord Jesus Christ shall break down from Heaven; and yet but foolish Virgins, and yet but under the Law; and so under the Curse, as I said before.

Object. But (say you) we have disowned the Covenant of Works, and turned from that also.

Ans. This is sooner said than done: Alas, alas! poor Souls think because they can say Grace, Grace, it is freely by Grace; therefore they are under the Covenant of Grace. A very wide Mistake; you must understand thus much, that tho' you be such as can speak of the Grace of the Gospel, yet if you yourselves be not brought under the very Covenant of Grace, you are yet notwithstanding your Talk and Profession, very far wide of a Sense, and of a Share in the Covenant of the Grace of God, held forth in the Gospel.

The Jews were of a clearer Understanding many of them, than to conclude that the Law, and only the Law, was the Way to Salvation; for they, even they, that received not the Christ of God, did expect a Saviour should come, John 7. 27, 41, 42, 43. But they were Men that had not the Gospel Spirit, which alone is able to lead them to the very Life, Marrow, or Substance of the Gospel in right Terms; and so being muddy in their Understandings, being between the Thoughts of a Saviour, and the Thoughts of the Works of the Law, thinking that they must be accomplished for the obtaining of a Saviour, and his Mercy towards them: I say, between these, they fell short of a Saviour. As many poor Souls in these Days, they think they must be saved alone by the Saviour: Yet they think there is something to be done on their Parts, for the obtaining of the good Will of the Saviour, as their Humiliation for Sin, their turning from the same, their Promises and Vows, and Resolutions to become a new Man, joyn in Church-Fellowship, and what not; and thus they bringing this along with them, as a Means to

to help them, they fall short of eternal Salvation, if they are not converted, see that Scripture, Rom. 9. 30, 31, 32. The Apostle faith there, that they that fought not did obtain, when they that did seek fell short. What shall we say then, faith he, that the Gentiles which sought not after Righteousness, have attained to Righteousness (yea) even the Righteousness of Faith; and what else? Why, But Israel which followed after the Law of Righteousness, have not attained to the Law of Righteousness; how came that to pass? Because (faith he) they sought it not by Faith, but as it were, mark, he doth say not altogether: no, but as it were, that is, because as they sought, they did a little by the by lean upon the Works of the Law. And let me tell you, that this is such a hard Thing to beat Men off of, that though Paul himself did take the Work in Hand, he did find enough to do, touching it: How is he fain to labour in the ten first Chapters of his Epistle to the Romans, for the establishing of those that did even profess largely in the Doctrine of Grace? And also in that Epistle to the Galatians, and yet lost many, do what he could. Now the Reason why the Doctrine of Grace doth so hardly down (even with Professors) in Truth, effectually; it is because there is a Principle naturally in Man, that doth argue against the same, and that thus: Why? faith the Soul, I am a Sinner, and God is righteous, holy, and just; his holy Law therefore having been broken by me, I must by all Means, if ever I look to be saved, in the first Place, be sorry for my Sins. Secondly, Turn from the same. Thirdly, follow after good Duties, and practise the good Things of the Law, and Ordinances of the Gospel, and so hope that God for Christ's Sake may forgive all my Sins; which is not the Way to God, as a Father in Christ, but the Way, the very Way to come to God by the Covenant of Works or the Law, which things I shall more fully clear, when I speak to the second Doctrine.

Again therefore, those that this Day profess the Gospel, for the Generality of them, they are such that notwithstanding their Profession, they are very ignorant of that glorious Influence, and Lustre of the same; I say, they are ignorant of the Vertue and Efficacy of the glorious things of Christ held forth by and in the Gospel, 2 Cor. 4. 3. which doth argue their not being under the Covenant of Grace, but rather under the Law or old Covenant. As for Instance, if you do come among some Professors of the Gospel, in general, you shall have them pretty busy, and ripe; else able to hold you in a very large Discourse in several Points of the same glorious Gospel; but if you come to the same People, and ask them concerning Heart-work, or what Work the Gospel hath wrought on them, and what Appearance they have had of the sweet Influences and Vertues on their Souls and Consciences, it may be they give you such an Answer as this: I do find by the preaching thereof, that I am chang'd, and turned from my Sins in a good Measure, and also have learned * to distinguish between the Law and the Gospel, so that for the one, that is, for the Gospel, I can plead, and also can shew the Weakness and Unprofitableness of the other: And thus far it is like they may go, which is not far enough to prove them under the Covenant of Grace, though they may have their Tongues so largely tipt with the Profession of the same, see 2 Pet. 2. 20. where he faith, For if after they have escaped the Pollutions of the World, through the Knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ (which was not a saving Knowledge) they are again intangled therein and overcome, the latter End of that Man is worse than his Beginning. See Mat. 25. 1, 2, 3, 4, &c. and also Mat. 7. 22.

Object. But (you will say) is not this a fair declaring of the Work of Grace, or doth it not discover that without all Gain-saying, we are under the Covenant of Grace, when we are able not only to speak of the glorious Gospel of Jesus Christ, but also to tell, and that by Experience, that we have been changed from worse to better, from Sin to a holy Life, by leaving of the same, and that by hearing of the Word preached?

Ans. A Man may in the first Place be able to talk of all the Mysteries of the Gospel, and that like an Angel of God, and yet be no more in God's Account, than the sounding of a Drum, Brass, or the tinkling of a Cimbal, which are Things that notwithstanding their Sound and great Noise, are absolutely void of Life and Motion, and so are accounted with God as nothing; that is, no Christians, no Believers, not under the Covenant of Grace for all that. See 1 Cor. 13. 12, 3, 4.

Secondly, Men may not only do this, but may also be changed in reality for a season, from what they formerly were, and yet be nothing at all in the Lord's Account as to an eternal Blessing. Read (2 Pet. 2. 20.) the Scripture which I mentioned before; for indeed that one Scripture is enough to prove all that I desire to say, as to this very thing; for if you observe, there is enfolded therein, these following things; first, that Reprobates may attain to a knowledge of Christ. Secondly, This knowledge may be of such Weight and Force, that for the present, it may make them escape the Pollutions of the World, and this by hearing the Gospel. For if after they have escaped the Pollutions of the World, through the Knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again

* But only in Tongue.

* Some professors take them at the best; they are but like Dogs, spitting out their filth for a time: again entangled therein, and overcome, the last end of that Man is worse than his beginning. Now that they are Reprobates, * Dogs or Sows. Read further, But (saith he) it is happened to them according to the true Proverb; the Dog is turned to his own vomit again, and the Sow, that was washed, to her wallowing in the mire, v. 21, 22.

* The last part of the Objection. * But (say you) our Practices in the Worship of God shall testifie for us, that we are not under the Law; for we have by God's Goodness attained to as exact a Way of walking in the Ordinances of God, and as near the Examples of the Apostles, as ever any Churches since the Primitive time, as we judge.

Ans. What then? do you think that the walking in the Order of the Churches of old, as to matter of outward-worship, is sufficient to clear you of your Sins at the Judgment day? or do you think that God will be contented with a little bodily Subjection to that which shall vanish, and fade like a Flower, when the Lord shall come from Heaven in flaming Fire, with his mighty Angels, 2 Thes. 1. 7, 8. Alas, alas, how will such Professors as these are, fall before the Judgment-seat of Christ? then such a question as this, Friend, how camest thou in hither, not having on thy wedding garment? will make them speechless, and fall down into everlasting Burnings, thousands on a Heap; for you must know, that it is not then your crying, Lord, Lord, that will stand you in stead, not your saying, We have eat and drank in thy presence, that will keep you from standing on the left Hand of Christ.

It is the Principle as well as the Practice, that shall be enquired into at that Day.

Quest. The Principle (you will say) what do you mean by that?

Ans. My Meaning is, the Lord Jesus Christ will then enquire and examine, whether the Spirit from which you acted, was Legal, or Evangelical; that is, whether it was the Spirit of Adoption, that did draw you out to the Thing you took in Hand, or a meer moral Principle, together with some shallow and common Illuminations into the outward Way of the Worship of God, according to Gospel rule.

Quest. But (you will say its like) how should this be made manifest, and appear?

Ans. I shall speak briefly in answer hereunto, as followeth. First then, that Man that doth take up any of the Ordinances of God, namely, as Prayer, Baptism, breaking of Bread, Reading, Hearing, Alms-deeds, or the like: I say, he that doth practise any of these, or such like, supposing thereby to procure the Love of Christ to his own Soul, he doth do what he doth from a Legal, and not from an Evangelical, or Gospel Spirit: as thus; for a Man to suppose that God will hear him for his Prayers sake, for his Alms sake, for his Humiliation sake, or because he hath promised to make God amends hereafter, whereas there is no such thing as a Satisfaction to be made to God by our Prayers, or whatever we can do; I say, there is no such Way to have Reconciliation with God in. And so also, for Men to think, because they are got into such and such an Ordinance, and have crouded themselves into such and such a Society, that therefore they have got pretty good shelter from the Wrath of the Almighty; when alas poor Souls there is no such thing: No, but God will so set his Face against such Professors, that his very looks will make them to tear their very Flesh; yea, make them to wish, would they had the biggest Mill-stone in the World hanging about their Neck, and they cast into the midst of the Sea. For friends, let me tell you, though you can now content yourselves, without the only harmless, undefiled, perfect Righteousness of Christ; yet there is a Day a coming, in which there is not one of you shall be saved; but those that are and shall be found clothed with that Righteousness: God will say to ALL the rest, Take them, bind them Hand and Foot, and cast them into outer Darkness; there shall be weeping, and gnashing of Teeth (Mat. 22. 13.) for Christ will not say unto Men in that Day, Come, which of you made a Profession of me, and walked in Church-fellowship with my Saints: no, but then it shall be enquired into, who have the Reality of the Truth of Grace wrought in their Hearts: And for certain, he that misseth of that, shall surely be cast into the Lake of Fire, there to burn with the Devils and damned Men and Women; there to undergo the Wrath of an eternal God, and that not for a Day, a Month, a Year, but for ever, and ever; There is that which cutteth to the quick: Therefore look to it, and consider now what you do, and whereon you hang your Souls; for it is not every Pin that will hold in the Judgment, not every Foundation that will be able to hold up the House against those Mighty, Terrible, Soul-drowning Floods, and destroying Tempests, which then will roar against the Soul and Body of a Sinner (Luke the 6. the three last verses) and if the Principle be rotten, all will fall, all will come to nothing. Now the Principle is this, Not to do Things because we would be saved, but to do them from this, namely, Because we do really believe that we are and shall be saved; but do not mistake me, I do not say we should slight any holy Duties (God forbid) but I say, he that doth look for Life, because he doth do good Duties, he is under the Covenant of the Works of the Law, let his Duties be never so eminent, so frequent, so fervent, so zealous. Ay, and I say, say, as I said before, that if any Man or Men, or multitudes of People, do get into never so high, so eminent, and clear Practices and Gospel-order, as to Church-Discipline, if it be done to this end I have been speaking of, from this Principle, they must and shall have these sad things fall to their share, which I have made mention of.

Object. But (you will say) can a Man use Gospel-ordinances with a Legal Spirit.

Answer. Yes, as easily as the Jews could use and practise Circumcision, though not the Moral, or Ten Commandments. For this I shall be bold to affirm, that it is not the Commands of the New Testament-administration, that can keep a Man from using of himself in a legal Spirit; for know this for certain, that it is the Principle, not the Command, that makes the Subjecter to the same, either Legal or Evangelical, and so his Obedience from that command to be from Legal Convictions, or Evangelical Principles.

* I beseech you, do not think, that because I say this, therefore I am against the Ordinances of the Gospel; for I do honour them in their Places: Yet would not that any of them should be idolized, or done in a wrong Spirit.

Now herein the Devil is wondrous subtle and crafty, in suffering People to practise the Ordinances and Commands of the Gospel, if they do but do them in a legal Spirit, * from a Spirit of Works; for he knows then, that if he can but get the Soul to go on in such a Spirit, though they do never so many Duties, he shall hold them sure enough; for he knows full well, that thereby they do set up something in the room of, or at the least to have some (though but a little) Share with the Lord Jesus Christ in their Salvation; and if he can but get thee here, he knows that he shall cause thee by thy depending a little upon the one, and so thy whole Dependence being not upon the other (that is Christ, and taking of him upon his own Terms) thou wilt fall short of Life by Christ, though thou do very much busy thyself in a suitable Walking, in an outward Conformity to the several Commands of the Lord Jesus Christ. And let me tell you plainly, that I do verily believe, that as Satan by his Instruments did draw many of the Galatians by Circumcision (though I say, it was none of the Commands of the moral Law) to be Debtors to do upon Pain of eternal Damnation the whole of the moral Law: So also Satan in the Time of the Gospel, doth use even the Commands laid down in the Gospel (some of them) to bind the Soul over to do the same Law; the Thing being done and walked in, by, and in the same Spirit: For as I said before, it is not the Obedience to the Command, that makes the Subjecter there-to evangelical, or of a Gospel Spirit: but contrariwise, the Principle that leads out the Soul to the Doing of the Command, that makes the Persons that do thus practise any Command, together with the Command by them practised, either legal or evangelical.

As for Instance, Prayer, it is a Gospel-Command; yet, if he that prays, doth it in a legal Spirit, he doth make that which in itself is a Gospel-Command, an Occasion of leading him into a Covenant of Works, in as much as he doth it by, and in that old Covenant Spirit.

Again, Giving of Alms, is a Gospel-Command, yet if I do give Alms from a legal Principle, the Command to me is not Gospel but Legal, and it binds me over (as aforesaid) to do the whole Law, For he is not a Jew (not a Christian) that is one outwardly; that is one, only by an outward Subjection to the Ordinances of Prayer, Hearing, Reading, Baptism, Breaking of Bread, &c. But he is a Jew, (a Christian) which is one inwardly; who is rightly principled, and practiseth the Ordinances of the Lord from the Leadings forth of the Spirit of the Lord, from a true and saving Faith in the Lord, Rom. 2. 28, 29.

Those Men spoken of in the 7. of Matthew, for certain, for all their great Declaration, did not do what they did from a right Gospel Spirit; for had they, no Question but the Lord would have said, Well done, good and faithful Servants: But in that the Lord Jesus doth turn them away into Hell, notwithstanding their great Profession of the Lord, and of their Doing in his Name, it is evident, that notwithstanding all that they did do, they were still under the Law, and not under that Covenant as true Believers are (to wit) the Covenant of Grace, and if so, then all their Duties that they did, of which they boasted before the Lord, was not in, and by a right Evangelical Principle or Spirit.

Again, saith the Apostle, Whatsoever is not of Faith is Sin, Rom. 14. 23. but there are some that do even practise Baptism, Breaking of Bread, together with other Ordinances, and yet are Unbelievers; therefore Unbelievers doing these Things, they are not done in Faith, but Sin: Now to do these Things in Sin, or without Faith, it is not to do Things in an Evangelical or Gospel Spirit; also they that do these Things in a Legal Spirit, the very practising of them, renders them not under the Law of Christ, as Head of his Church; but the Works they do are of so much Contradiction to the Gospel of God, or the Covenant of Grace, that they that do them thus, do even set up against the Covenant of Grace; and the very Performance of them is of such Force, that it is sufficient to drown them that are subject thereunto, even under the Covenant of Works; but these poor Souls are not aware of it, and there is their Misery.

Quest. But have you no other Way to discover the Things of the Gospel, how they are done with a Legal Principle, but those you have already made Mention of?

Answer.

Ans. That thou mightest be indeed satisfied herein, I shall shew you the very Manner and Way that a Legal, or old Covenant converted Professor (bear with the Terms) doth take both in the Beginning, Middle and the End of his doing of any Duty or Command, or whatsoever it be that he doth do.

First, He thinking this or that to be his Duty, and considering of the same, he is also presently persuaded in his own Conscience, that God will not accept of him, if he leave it undone; he seeing that he is short of his Duty (as he supposeth) while this is undone by him, and also judging that God is angry with him, until the Thing be done; he in the second Place sets to the doing of the Duty, to the End he may be able to pacify his Conscience by doing of the same, persuading of himself that now the Lord is pleased with him for doing of it. Thirdly, Having done it, he contents himself, sits down at his Ease, until some further Convictions of his Duty to be done, which when he seeth and knoweth, he doth do it as aforesaid, from the same Principle as he did the former, and so goeth on in his Progress of Profession. This is to do Things from a Legal Principle, and from an old Covenant Spirit; for thus runs that Covenant, The Man that doth these Things shall live in them, or by them, Levit. 18. 5. Ezek. 20. 11. Gal. 3. 12. Rom. 10. 5. but more of this in the Use of this Doctrine.

Object. But (you will say) by these Words of yours, you do seem to deny that there are conditional Promises in the Gospel, as is clear, in that you strike at such Practices as are conditional, and commanded to be done upon the same.

Ans. The Thing that I strike at, is this; that a Man in, or, with a Legal Spirit, should not, nay cannot, do any conditional Command of the Gospel acceptable, as to his eternal State; because he doth it in an old Covenant Spirit. No Man putteth new Wine into old Bottles: But new Wine must have new Bottles, a Gospel Command must have a Gospel Spirit, or else the Wine will break the Bottles, or the Principle will break the Command.

Object. Then you do grant that there are conditional Promises in the New Testament, as in the moral Law, or ten Commands.

Ans. Though this be true; yet the conditional Promises in the New Testament, do not call to the same People in the same State or Unregeneracy to fulfil them, upon the same Conditions.

The Law and the Gospel being two distinct Covenants, they are made in divers Ways, and the Nature of the Conditions also being not the same, as saith the Apostle, The Righteousness of the Law saith one thing, and the Righteousness of Faith saith another, Rom. 10. 4, 5, 6. that is, the great Condition in the Law is, If you do these Things you shall live by them: But the Condition, even the greatest Condition, laid down for a poor Soul to do, as to Salvation (for it is that we speak of) is to believe, that my Sins be forgiven me for Jesus Christ's Sake, without the Works or Righteousness of the Law, on my Part to help forward, Rom. 4. 5. To him that worketh not (saith the Apostle) (for Salvation) but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his Faith; mark, his Faith is counted for Righteousness. So that we (saith he) conclude that a Man is justified by Faith, without; mark again, without the Deeds of the Law. Rom. 3. 28.

But again, there is never a Condition in the Gospel, that can be fulfilled by an Unbeliever: and therefore, whether there be Conditions, or whether there be none; it makes no Matter to thee, who art without the Faith of Christ: for it is impossible for thee in that State to do them, so as to be ever the better, as to thy Eternal Estate; therefore least thou shouldest split thy Soul upon the Conditions laid down in the Gospel, as thou wilt do, if thou go about to do them only with a legal Spirit. But I say, to prevent this, see if thou canst fulfil the first Condition; that is, to believe that all thy Sins are forgiven thee; not for any Condition that hath been, or can be done by thee, but merely for the Man's Sake, that did hang on Mount Calvary, between two Thieves, some sixteen hundred Years ago and odd: And I say, see if thou canst believe that at that Time, he did (when he hanged on the Cross) give full Satisfaction for all thy Sins, before thou in thy Person hadst committed ever a one. I say, see if thou canst believe this, and take heed thou deceive not thyself with an historical, notional, or traditional Acknowledgment of the same. And secondly, See if thou canst so well fulfil this Condition, that the very Vertue and Efficacy that it hath on thy Soul, will engage thee to fulfil those other Conditions, really in love to that Man, whom thou shouldest believe, hath frankly, and freely forgiven thee all, without any Condition acted by thee, to move him thereto, according to that Saying in the 2 Cor. 5. 14, 15. and then thy Doing will arise from a contrary Principle, than otherwise it will do; that is, then thou wilt not act and do, because thou wouldest be accepted of God; but because thou hast some good Hope in thy Heart, that thou art accepted of him already, and not on thine, but wholly and alone upon another Man's Account; for here runs the Gospel Spirit of Faith; mark, We believe, and therefore speak, So we believe and therefore do. 2 Cor. 4. 13. Take Heed therefore that you do not, that you may believe, but rather believe so effectually, that you may do, even all that Jesus doth require require of you from a right Principle, even out of Love to your dear Lord Jesus Christ, which Thing I shall speak to more fully by and by.

Object. But what do you mean by those Expressions, Do not do that you may believe, but believe so effectually that you may do.

Ans. When I say, do not do that you may believe; I mean, do not think that any of the Things that thou canst do, will procure, or purchase Faith from God unto thy Soul; for that is still the old Covenant Spirit, the Spirit of the Law, to think to have it for thy doing. They that are saved are saved by Grace, through Faith, and that not of themselves; not for any Thing that they can do, for they are both the free Gift of God, Eph. 2. 8. Not of (doing or of) Works lest any Man should (be proud, and) boast, verse 9. Now some People be so ignorant, as to think that God will give them Christ, and so all the Merits of his Death, if they will be but vigilant, and do something to please God, that they may obtain him at his Hands; but let me tell them they may lose a thousand Souls quickly, if they had so many, by going this Way to work, and yet be never the better; for the Lord doth not give his Christ to any upon such Conditions, but he doth give him freely; that is, without having any Respect to any Thing that is in thee, Rev. 22. 17. Isa. 55. 1, 2. To him that is athirst will I give; he doth not say I will sell, but I will give him the Water of Life freely, Rev. 21. 6.

Now if Christ doth give it, and that freely, then he doth not sell it for any Thing that is in the Creature; but Christ doth give himself, as also doth his Father, and that freely; not because there is any Thing in us, or done by us, that moves him thereunto. If it were by doing, then saith Paul, Grace is not Grace, seeing it is obtained by Works; but Grace is Grace, and that is the reason it is given to Men without their Works, Rom. 11. 6. And if it be by Grace, that is, if it be a free Gift from God, without any Thing foreseen, as done, or to be done by the Creature, then it is not of Works, which is clear: Therefore it is Grace without the Works of the Law; but if you say nay, it is of something in the Man, done by him that moves God thereunto; then you must conclude, that either Grace is no Grace, or else that Works are Grace, and not Works. Do but read with understanding, Rom. 11. 6.

Now before I go any further, it may be necessary to speak a Word or two to some poor Souls that are willing to close in with Jesus Christ, and would willingly take him upon his own terms, only they being muddy in their Minds, and have not yet attained the understanding of the terms and Conditions of the two Covenants, they are kept off from closing with Christ; and all is, because they see they can do nothing. As for example, come to some Souls, and ask them how they do, they will tell you presently, that they are so bad that it is not to be expressed: If you bid them believe in Jesus Christ, they will answer, that they cannot believe; if you ask them why they cannot believe, they will answer, because their Hearts are so hard, so dead, so dull, so backward to good duties; and if their Hearts were but better, if they were more earnest, if they could pray better, and keep their Hearts more from running after Sin, then they could believe; but should they believe with such vile Hearts, and presume to believe in Christ, and be so filthy: Now all this is, because the Spirit of the Law still ruleth in such a Soul, and blinds them so that they cannot see the Terms of the Gospel. To clear this take the Substance of the Drift of this poor Soul, which is this: If I was better, than I think I could believe; but being so bad as I am, that is the reason that I cannot; this is just to do something that I may believe, to work that I may have Christ, to do the Law that I may have the Gospel; or thus to be righteous that I may come to Christ. O Man! thou must go quite back again, thou must believe, because thou canst not pray, because thou canst not do; thou must believe, because there is nothing in thee (naturally) that is good, or desireth after good, else thou wilt never come to Christ as a Sinner; and if so, then Christ will not receive thee; and if so, then thou mayest see that to keep off from Christ, because thou canst not do, is to keep from Christ by the Law, and to stand off from him, because thou canst not buy him. Thus having spoken something by the Way, for the Direction of those Souls that would come to Christ, I shall return to the former discourse, wherein ariseth this Objection.

Object. But you did but even now put Souls upon fulfilling the first Condition of the Gospel, even to believe in Christ, and so be saved; but now you say, it is alone by Grace, without Condition; and therefore by these words, there is first a Contradiction to your former sayings, and also that Men may be saved without the Condition of Faith, which to me seems a very strange Thing. I desire therefore that you would clear out what you have said, as to my Satisfaction.

Ans. Though there be a Condition commanded in the Gospel, yet he that commands the Condition, doth not leave his Children to their own natural Abilities, that in their own Strength they should fulfil them (as the Law doth) but the same God that doth command that the Condition be fulfilled, even he, doth help his Children by his Holy Spirit, to fulfil the same Condition; For it is God that worketh in you, mark, in you (believers) both to will and to do, do, of his own good pleasure, Phil. 2. 13. Thou hast wrought all our works in us, and for us, Isa. 16. 12. So that if the Condition be fulfilled, it is not done in the Ability of the Creature.

But Secondly, Faith, as it is a Gift of God, or an Act of ours, take it which way you will: If we speak properly of Salvation; it is not the first, nor the second Cause of our Salvation; but the third, and that but instrumentally neither; that is, it only layeth hold of, and applieth to us that which saveth us, which is the Love of God, through the Merits of Christ, which are the two main Causes of our Salvation, without which all other Things are nothing, whether it be Faith, Hope, Love, or whatever can be done by us. And to this, the great Apostle of the Gentiles speaks fully: for, saith he, God who is rich in Mercy, loved us, even when we were dead in our Sins, Eph. 2. 4. (that is, when we are without Faith) and that was the cause why we believe; for he thereby hath quickned us together, through the meritorious Cause, which is Christ, and so hath saved us by Grace, that is, of his own voluntary Love and good Will; the effects of which was this, he gave us Faith to believe in Christ; read feberly that second of the Ephesians, at the 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. verses. Faith as the Gift of God is not the Saviour, as our Act doth merit nothing. Faith was not the cause that God gave Christ at the first, neither is it the cause why God converts Men to Christ: But Faith is a Gift bestowed upon us, by the gracious God, the Nature of which is to lay hold on Christ, that God afore did give for a Ransom, to redeem Sinners; this Faith hath its nourishment and supplies from the same God, that at the first did give it; and is the only Instrument, through the Spirit, that doth keep the Soul in a comfortable frame, both to do and suffer for Christ, helps the Soul to receive Comfort from Christ, when it can get none from it self, beareth up the Soul in its progress Heaven-wards: But that it is the first cause of Salvation, that I deny; or that it is the second, I deny: but 'tis only the Instrument, or Hand, that receiveth the Benefits that God hath prepared for thee before thou hadst any Faith: So that we do nothing for Salvation, as we are Men. But if we speak properly, It was God's Grace that moved him to give Christ a Ransom for sinners, and the same God with the same Grace, that doth give to the Soul Faith to believe, and so by believing, to close in with him, whom God out of his Love and Pity, did send into the World to save Sinners; so that all the Works of the Creature are shut out, as to Justification and Life, and Men are saved freely by Grace. I shall speak no more here, but in my discourse upon the second Covenant, I shall answer a Hell-bred Objection or two, to forewarn Sinners, how they turn the Grace of God into Wantonness.

And thus you see I have briefly spoken to you something touching the Law. First, What it is and when given. Secondly, How sad those Mens Conditions are that are under it. Thirdly, Who they are that be under it. Fourthly, How far they may go, and what they may do, and receive, and yet be under it, which have been done by way of Answer to several Questions, for the better Satisfaction of those that may stand in doubt of the Truth of what hath been delivered.

Now in the next Place, I shall come to some Application of the Truth of that which hath been spoken; but I shall in the first Place speak something to the second Doctrine, and then afterwards I shall speak something by way of Use and Application to this first Doctrine.

The second Doctrine now to be spoken to, is to shew, that the People of God are not under the Law, but under Grace.

For ye are not under the Law, but under Grace, Rom. 6. 14.

YOU may well remember, that from these words, I did observe these two great Truths of the Lord, First, that there are some in Gospel times, that are under the Law, or Covenant of Works.

Secondly, That there is never a Believer under the Law (or Covenant of Works) but under Grace.

I have spoken something to the former of these Truths (to wit) that there are some under the Law, together with who they are, and what their Condition is, that are under it. Now I am to speak to the second, and to shew you who they are, and what their Condition is, that are under that.

* But before I come to that, I shall speak a few words, to shew you what the word GRACE in this Place signifies; for the word Grace in the Scripture, referreth sometimes to Favour with Men (Esther 2. 7. Gen. 39. 4. Chap. 50. 4. 33, 10.) sometimes to holy Qualifications of Saints (2 Cor. 8. 7.) and sometimes to hold forth the Condescension of Christ, in coming down from the Glory which he had with his Father, before the World was, to be made of no Reputation, and a Servant to Men (2 Cor. 8. 9. Phil. 2. 2, 7.) Again, sometimes it is taken for the free, rich, and unchangeable Love of God to Man, through Jesus Christ; who for our Cause and Sakes, did make himself poor; and so it is to be understood in these words, For you are not under the Law (to be cursed, and damned, and sent headlong to Hell) but (you are) under Grace, to be saved, to be pardoned, to be preserved preserved, and kept by the mighty Power of God, through Faith (which alone is the Gift of Grace) unto eternal Glory. This one Scripture alone proves the same, Eph. 2. 8. For by Grace you are saved, by free Grace, by rich Grace, by unchangeable Grace. And you are saved from the Curse of the Law, from the Power, Guilt, and Filth of Sin, from the Power, Malice, Madness, and Rage of the Devil, from the Wishes, Curses, and Desires of Wicked Men; from the hot, scalding, flaming, fiery Furnace of Hell; from being arraigned, as Malefactors, convinced, judged, condemned, and fettered with the Chains of our Sins to the Devils, to all Eternity; and all this freely, freely by his Grace (Rom. 3. 24.) by rich Grace, unchangeable Grace; for saith he, I am God, and change not: Therefore ye Sons of Jacob are not consumed, Mal. 3. 6. This is Grace indeed.

The Word [GRACE] therefore in this Scripture (Rom. 6. 14.) is to be understood of the free Love of God in Christ to Sinners, by Vertue of the new Covenant, in delivering them from the Power of Sin, from the Curse and condemning Power of the old Covenant, from the destroying Nature of Sin, by its continual Workings; as is all evident, if you read with Understanding the Words as they lie. For (saith he) Sin shall not have Dominion over you, or it shall not domineer, reign, or destroy you, though you have transgressed against the Covenant of Works (the Law) and the Reason is rendered in these Words, For ye are not under the Law; that is, under that which accuseth, chargeth, condemneth, and brings Execution on the Soul for Sin, but under Grace, that is, under that which frees you, forgives you, keeps you, and justifies you from all your Sins, Adversaries, or whatever may come in to lay any Thing to your Charge, to damn you. For that is truly called Grace in this Sense, that doth set a Man free from all his Sins, deliver him from all the Curses of the Law, and what else can be laid to his Charge, freely without any Forefight in God to look at what Good will be done by the Party that hath offended: And also that doth keep the Soul by the same Power through Faith (which also is his own proper Gift) unto eternal Glory.

Again, this is a Pardon not conditional but freely given; Consider first, it is set in Opposition to Works. You are not under the Law. Secondly, The Promise that is made to them (saying Sin shall not have Dominion over you) doth not run with any Condition, as on their Part to be done; but meerly and alone because they were (under) or because they had the Grace of God extended to them. Sin shall not have Dominion over you, For (mark the Reason) For you are not under the Law, but under Grace. The Words being thus opened, and the Truth thus laid down, how there is never a Believer under the Covenant of Works, but under Grace, the free, rich, unchangeable Love of God; it remaineth, that in the first Place, we prove the Doctrine, and after that proceed.

Now in the Doctrine there are two things to be considered and proved. First, That Believers are under Grace. Secondly, Not under the Law as a Covenant of Works (for so you must not understand me:) for these two we need go no further than the very Words themselves, the first Part of the Words proves the first Part of the Doctrine, You are not under the Law; the second Part proves the other, But (ye are) under Grace.

But besides these, consider with me a few Things for the demonstrating of these Truths; as,

First, They are not under the Law, because their Sins are pardoned; which could not be if they were dealt withal according to the Law, and their being under it; for the Law alloweth of no Repentance, but accuseth, curseth, and condemneth every one that is under it. Cursed is every one that continueth not in all Things written in the Book of the Law to do them, Gal. 3. 10. But I say, Believers having their Sins forgiven them, it is because they are under another, even a new Covenant, Heb. 8. 8. Behold the Days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new Covenant with them: For I will be merciful to their Unrighteousness, and their Sins, and their Iniquities will I remember no more, verse 4.

Secondly, They are not under the Law, because their Sins and Iniquities are not only forgiven, but they are forgiven them freely: they that stand in the first Covenant, and continue there, are to have never a Sin forgiven them unless they can give God a compleat Satisfaction; for the Law calls for it at their Hands, saying, Pay me that thou owest. O but when God deals with his Saints by the Covenant of Grace it is not so; for it is said, And when he saw they had nothing to pay, he frankly and freely forgave them all. I will heal their Back-slidings and love them freely, I will blot out thy Transgressions for mine own Sake, &c. Luke 7. 42. Hosea 14. 4. Isaiah 43. 25.

Thirdly, The Saints are not under the Law, because the Righteousness that they stand justified before God in, is not their own actual Righteousness by the Law, but by Imputation; and is really the Righteousness of another, namely, of God in Christ, 2 Cor. 5. 21. Phil. 3. 8, 9, 10. Even the Righteousness of God, which is by Faith of Jesus Christ, which is unto all, and upon all (that is imputed to) them that believe, Rom. 3. 22. But if they were under the old Covenant, the Covenant of Works, then their Righteousness must be their own * or no

* But it is impossible that the Righteousness of Man by the Law should save him.

Forgiveness

Forgiveness of Sins, If thou do well, shalt not thou be accepted? but if thou transgress, Sin lieth at the Door, saith the Law, Gen.

4. 7.

Fourthly, in a Word, whatsoever they do receive, whether it be Conversion to God, whether it be Pardon of Sin, whether it be Faith or Hope, whether it be Righteousness, whether it be Strength, whether it be the Spirit, or the Fruits thereof, whether it be Victory over Sin, Death or Hell, whether it be Heaven, everlasting Life, and Glory inexpressible, or whatsoever it be, it comes to them freely, God having no first Eye to what they would do, or should do, for the obtaining of the same. But to take this in Pieces. 1. In a Word, are they converted? God finds them first, for saith he, I am found of them that sought me not, Isa. 65. 1.

2. Have they Pardon of Sin? They have that also freely, I will heal their Back-slidings, and love them freely, Hos. 14. 4.

3. Have they Faith? It is the Gift of God in Christ Jesus, and he is not only the Author (that is the Beginner thereof) but he doth also perfect the same, Heb. 12. 2.

4. Have they Hope? It is God that is the first Cause thereof. Remember thy Word unto thy Servant, wherein THOU hast caused me to hope. Psal. 119. 49.

5. Have they Righteousness? It is a free Gift of God, Rom. 5. 17.

6. Have they Strength to do the Work of God in their Generations? or any other Thing that God would have them do, that also is a free Gift from the Lord, for without him, we neither do, nor can do any Thing, John 15. 5.

7. Have we Comfort, or Consolation? We have it not for what we have done, but from God through Christ; for he is the God of all our Comforts, and Consolations, 2 Cor. 1.

8. Have we the Spirit, or the Fruits thereof? It is the Gift of the Father. How much more shall your Heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him? Luke 11. 13. Thou hast wrought all our Works for us, Isa. 26. 12.

And so I say, whether it be Victory over Sin, Death, Hell, or the Devil, it is given us by the Victory of Christ. But Thanks be to God which hath given us the Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ, 1 Cor. 15. 57. Rom. 7. 24, 25. Heaven and Glory, it is also the Gift of him who giveth his richly all Things to enjoy, Mat. 25.

So that these Things, if they be duly and soberly considered, will give Satisfaction in this Thing. I might have added many more for the clearing of these Things: As first, when God came to Man to convert him, he found him a dead Man, Eph. 2. 1, 2. he found him an Enemy to God, Christ, and the Salvation of his own Soul; he found him wallowing in all Manner of Wickedness, he found him taking Pleasure therein, with all Delight and Greediness.

2. He was fain to quicken him by putting his Spirit into him, and to translate him by the mighty Operation thereof.

3. He was fain to reveal Christ Jesus unto him, Man being altogether senseless, and ignorant of the blessed Jesus, Mat. 11. 25, 27. 1 Cor. 2. 7, 8, 9, 10.

4. He was fain to break the Snare of the Devil, and to let poor Man, poor bound and fetter'd Man, out of the Chains of the Enemy.

Now we are to proceed, and the Things that we are to treat upon in the second Place are these;

First, * Why it is a free and unchange-

* Besides the Reasons already given.

able Grace. Secondly, Who they are, that are actually brought into his free and unchangeable Covenant of Grace, and how they are brought in.

Thirdly, What are the Privileges of those that are actually brought into this free and glorious Grace, of the glorious God of Heaven, and Glory.

For the first, Why it is a free and unchangeable Grace; and for the opening of this, we must consider, First, How and through whom this Grace doth come to be, first free to us, and secondly unchangeable. This Grace is free to us, through Conditions in another; that is, by Way of Covenant, or Bargain; for this Grace comes by Way of Covenant or Bargain to us, yet made with another for us.

First, That it comes by Way of Covenant, Contract, or Bargain (though not personally with us) be pleased to consider these Scriptures, where it is said, Psal.

89. 3. † I have made a Covenant with my chosen: I have sworn unto David my Ser- vant. And as for thee also, by the Blood of thy Covenant (speaking of Christ) have I sent forth the Prisoners out of the Pit, wherein was no Water, Zech. 9. 9, 10, 11. Again, you have sold yourselves for nought, and you shall be bought without Money, Ezek. 34. 23, 24. Chap. 37. 24, 25. Blessed be the Lord (therefore saith Zacharias) for he hath visited and (also) redeemed his People. And hath raised up an Horn of Salvation for us, in the House of his Servant David.

† The word David in this Place signifieth Christ, as also in these Scriptures

As he spake by the Mouth of his Holy Prophets, which have been since the World began: that we should be saved from our Enemies, and from the Hands of all that hate us: To perform his Mercy promised to our Fathers, and to remember his holy Covenant, or Bargain, Luke 1. 68, 69, 70, 71, 72. And if any should be offended with the Plainness of these Words, as some poor Souls may be through Ignorance, let them be pleased to read soberly that 49. Chapter of the Prophet Isaiah, from ver. 1. to 12. and there they they may see that it runs as plain a Bargain, as if two should be making of a Bargain between themselves, and concluding upon several Conditions on both Sides; but more of this hereafter.

I might give you more Scriptures, but pray consider the second Thing.

Now secondly, This Covenant (I say) was made with one, not with many, and also confirm'd in the Conditions of it with one, not with several. First, That the Covenant was made with one, see Gal. 3. 16. Now to Abraham and to his Seed was the Promise made; he saith not to Seeds, as of many; but as of one; and to thy Seed, which is Christ, ver. 17. And this I say is the Covenant which was confirmed before of God, in Christ, &c. The Covenant was made with the Seed of Abraham, not the Seeds, but the Seed, which is the Lord Jesus Christ, our Head, and Undertaker in the Things concerning the Covenant.

4. The Condition was made with one, and also accomplish'd by him alone, and not by several; yet in the Nature, and for the everlasting Deliverance of many; even by one Man Jesus Christ, as it is clear from Rom. 5. 15, 16, 17, &c. and in Zech. 9. 11. the Lord saith to Christ, And as for thee; mark, as for thee also, by the Blood of the Covenant, or as for thee whose Covenant was by Blood; that is, the Conditions of the Covenant was, that thou shouldest spill thy Blood; which having been done in the Account of God (saith he) I according to my Condition, have let go the Prisoners, or sent them out of the Pit wherein was no Water; those Scriptures in Galatians the 3, at the 16 and 17 verses that are above cited, are notably to our purpose; the sixteenth verse saith it was made with Christ, and the seventeenth saith, it was also confirmed in, or with God in him, pray read with understanding. Now (saith Paul) the Promises were not made unto seeds, as of many; but as of one, and to thy seed which is Christ. ----- The Law which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the Promise of none effect. Not that the Covenant was made with Abraham and Christ together, as two Persons that were the Undertakers of the same; the Promise was made with, or, to Abraham afterwards: but the Covenant with Christ before. Further, that the Covenant was not personally made with Abraham, no, nor with any of the Fathers, neither so as that they were the Persons that should stand engaged, to be the Accomplishers thereof, either in whole or in part: which is very clear.

First, because this Covenant was not made with God and the Creature; not with another poor Adam, that only stood upon the Strength of natural Abilities: but this Covenant was made with the second Person, with the eternal Word of God; with him that was every ways as Holy, as Pure, as Infinite, as Powerful, and as Everlasting as God, Prov. 22. 23. to 31. Zech. 13. 7. Rev. 1. 11, 17, 22, 13, 16. Isa. 9. 6. Phil. 2. 6. Heb. 1.

Secondly, This Covenant or Bargain was made indeed and in Truth, before Man was in being. Oh! God thought of the Salvation of Man before there was any Transgression of Man; for then I say, and not since then, was the Covenant of Grace made with the undertaker thereof; for all the other sayings are to shew unto us that glorious Plot and Contrivance that was concluded on before time, between the Father and the Son, which may very well be concluded on for a Truth from the Word of God, if you consider; First, That the Scripture doth declare that the Price was agreed on by the Son before time; the Promise was made to him by the Father, that he should have his Bargain before time; and the choice, who they were that should be saved, was made before time, even before the World began.

For the First, That the Price was agreed upon before the World began; Consider the Word which speaketh of the Price that was paid for Sinners, even The precious Blood of Christ; It saith of him, who verily was fore-ordained before the Foundation of the World, but was made manifest in these last times for you, who by him do believe, &c. 1 Pet. 1. 19, 20. Mark, it was fore-ordained or concluded on between the Father and his Son, before the World began.

Secondly, The Promise from God to the Son, was also made in the same manner, as it is clear, where the Apostle saith with comfort to his Soul, that he had hopes of eternal Life, which God that cannot lie, promised before the World began, Tit. 1. 2. which could be to none but the Mediator of the New Covenant, because there was none else to whom it should be made but he.

Thirdly, The Choice was also made then, even before Man had a being in the World, as it is evident where he saith, Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed US with all spiritual blessings in heavenly Places IN Christ, according as he hath chosen US in him before the Foundation of the World, that we should be holy and without blame before him in Love.

Eph. 1. 3, 4. Nay, * did I look upon it * Did I here to be necessary, I should shew you think this would meet with any Opposition, I should be in this more large. very largely and clearly, that God did not only make the Covenant with Christ before the World began, and the Conditions thereof: But I could also shew you that the very Saints qualifications as part of the Covenant, was then concluded on by the Father and the Son, according to these Scriptures, Eph. 1. 3, 4. Chap. 2. 10. and Rom. 8. 28. which it may be I may touch upon further anon.

But thirdly, This Covenant was not made made with any of the Fathers, neither in whole, nor in part, as the Undertakers thereof; for then it must be also concluded, that they are Copartners with Christ in our Salvation, and so, that Christ is not Mediator alone: but this would be Blaphemy for any one to surmise. And therefore by the Way, when thou readeſt of the New Covenant in Scripture, as though it was made with Adam, Noah, Abraham, or David, thou art to conſider thus with thy ſelf; Firſt, That God ſpoke to them in ſuch a Way, for to ſhew, or ſignifie unto us, how he did make the Covenant, that he did make with Chriſt, before the World began, they being Types of him. Secondly, That he thereby might let them underſtand, that he was the ſame then as he is now, and now as he was then; and that then it was reſolved on between His Son and He, that in after ages his Son ſhould in their Natures, from their Loins, and for their Sins, be born of a Woman, hanged on the Croſs, &c. for them: for all along you may ſee that when he ſpeaketh to them of the New Covenant, he mentions their ſeed, their ſeed, ſtill aiming at Chriſt; Chriſt the Seed of the Woman, was to break the Serpent's Head, Gen. 3. 15. Gen. 17. Pſal. 87. 36. Now to Abraham and his Seed, was the Promise made, his Seed ſhall endure for ever, and his Throne as the Days of Heaven, &c. ſtill pointing at Chriſt. And Thirdly, To ſtir up their Faith and Expectations to be conſtant unto the end, in waiting for that which he and his Son had concluded on before time, and what he had ſince the Concluſion, declared unto the World by the Prophets. Fourthly, It appeareth that the Heart of God was much delighted therein alſo, as is evident, in that he was always in every age, declaring of that unto them, which before he had prepared for them. O this good God of Heaven!

Object. But you will ſay perhaps, the Scriptures ſay plainly, that the New Covenant was and is made with Believers, ſaying, The Days come, ſaith the Lord, that I will make a New Covenant with the Houſe of Iſrael, and the Houſe of Judah, not according to the Covenant that I made with their Father in the Day in which I brought them out of the Land of Egypt, &c. Heb. 8. 10, 11, 12. Jer. 31. 33. So that it doth not run with Chriſt alone, but with Believers alſo. I will make a new covenant with the Houſe of Iſrael and Judah, &c.

1. Anſw. Firſt, it cannot be meant that the New Covenant was made with Chriſt, and the Houſe of Iſrael and Judah as the Undertaker thereof: for ſo it was made with Chriſt alone, which is clear, in that it was made long before the Houſe of Iſrael and Judah had a Being, as I ſhewed before.

2. Anſw. But Secondly, Theſe Words here are ſpoken, firſt to ſhew rather the end of the Ceremonies, than the beginning or riſe of the New Covenant. Mind a little, The Apoſtle is labouring to beat the Jews, to whom he wrote this Epistle, off of the Ceremonies of the Law, of the Priests, Altar, Offerings, Temple, &c. and to bring them to the right underſtanding of the thing and things that they held forth, which was to come, and to put an End to thoſe. If you do but underſtand the Epistle to the Hebrews, it is a Diſcourſe that ſheweth that the Son of God being come, there is an End put to the Ceremonies; for they were to continue ſo long and ſo longer. It, ſaith the Apoſtle, ſtood in Meats and Drinks, and divers waſhings, and carnal Ordinances impoſed on them until the time of reformation; that is, until Chriſt did come. But Chriſt being come an High Priest of good things to come, &c. --- puts an End to the Things and Ordinances of the Levitical Priesthood, read the 7, 8, 9, 10th chapters, and you will find this true. So then when he ſaith, The days come in which I will make a new covenant; it is rather to be meant a changing of the Adminiſtration, a taking away the Type, the Shadow, the Ceremonies from the Houſe of Iſrael and Judah, and relieving by the Birth of Chriſt, and the Death of Chriſt, and the offering of the Body of him, whom the Shadows and Types did point out to be indeed he, whom God the Father had given for a Ransom by Covenant for the Souls of the Saints; and alſo to manifeſt the Truth of that Covenant, which was made between the Father and the Son before the World began: for tho' the New Covenant was made before the World began, and alſo every one in all Ages was ſaved by the virtue of that Covenant; yet that Covenant was never ſo clearly made manifeſt, as at the Coming, Death, and Reſurrection of Chriſt; and therefore ſaith the Scripture, He hath brought Life and Immortality to Light through the Goſpel, 2 Tim. 1. 9, 10. Who hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to the Works of Righteouſneſs which we have done: but according to his own purpoſe and grace, which was given us in Chriſt before the World began (there is the Covenant) but it was made MANIFEST by the APPEARING of our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, who hath aboliſhed death, and brought life and immortality to LIGHT through the Goſpel. Therefore I ſay, theſe Words are therefore to diſcover, that the Time was come to change the Diſpenſation, to take away the Type, and bring in the Subſtance, and ſo manifeſting that more clearly which before lay hid in dark Sayings and Figures. And this is uſual with God to ſpeak in this manner.

Again, If at any Time you do find in the Scripture, that the Covenant of Works is ſpoken of as the firſt Covenant that was manifeſt, and ſo before the ſecond Covenant; yet you muſt underſtand, that it was ſo only as to Manifestation; that is, it was first given to Man, yet not made before that which was made with Christ: And indeed it was requisite that it should be given, or made known first, that thereby there might be a Way made for the second, by its discovering of Sin, and the sad State that Man was in after the Fall by reason of that. And again, that the other might be made the more welcome to the Sons of Men. * And in this did Christ in time most gloriously answer Adam, who was the Figure of Christ, Rom. 5. as well as of other things; for as the first Covenant was made with the first Adam, so was the second Covenant made with the second; for these are and were the two great publick Persons, or Representatives of the whole World, as to the first and second Covenants; and therefore you find God speaking on this wise in Scripture concerning the New Covenant, My Covenant shall stand fast with HIM, Psal. 89. 28, 34, 35. My Mercy will I keep for HIM for evermore, saith God: my Covenant shall stand fast with HIM (this HIM is Christ, if you compare this with Luke 1. 32.) My Covenant will I not break, namely that which was made with HIM, nor alter the thing that is gone out of my Mouth: Once have I sworn by my Holiness that I will not lie unto † DAVID, to whom this was spoken figuratively in the Person of Christ: for that was God's usual Way to speak of the glorious Things of the Gospel in the Time of the Law as I said before.

* Yet the second Adam, was before the first, and also the second covenant before the first. This is a Riddle.

Secondly, The Conditions also were concluded on, and agreed to be fulfilled by him; as it is clear, if you understand his Saying in the 12th of John at the 27th verse, where he foretelleth his Death, and saith, Now is my Soul troubled, and what shall I say? Father, save me from this Hour; but for this cause came I (into the World) unto this Hour: as if he had said, My Business is now not to shrink from my Sufferings that are come upon me; for these are the Things that are a great part of the Conditions contracted in the Covenant which stands between my Father and I; therefore I shall not pray that this might be absolutely removed from me: For this cause came I into the World; even this was the very Terms of the Covenant. By this you may see, We are under Grace.

Now in a Covenant there are these Three things to be considered;

First, What it is that is covenanted for.

Secondly, The Conditions upon which the Persons who are concerned in it do agree.

Thirdly, If the Conditions on both sides be not according to the Agreement fulfilled, then the Covenant standeth not, but is made void.

And this new Covenant, in these Particulars, is very exactly fulfilled, and made out in Christ.

First, The thing or things covenanted for, was the Salvation of Man, but made good in Christ. The Son of Man is come to seek and save that which was lost. The Son of Man did not come to destroy Mens Lives, but to save them. He gave his Life a Ransom for many. And this is the Will (or Covenant) of him that sent him, that of all which he hath given him, he should lose nothing; but should raise it up again at the last Day, John 6. 39.

Secondly, As touching the Conditions agreed on, they run thus:

First, On the Mediator's Side, that he should come into the World; and then on the Father's Side, that he should give him a Body, This was one of the glorious Conditions between the Father and Christ. Wherefore when he cometh into the World, he saith, Sacrifices and Offerings thou wouldst not that is, the old Covenant must not stand, but give Way to another Sacrifice which thou hast prepared, which is the giving up my Manhood to the Strokes of thy Justice, for a Body, hast thou prepared me, Heb. 13. 20, 21. This doth prove us under Grace.

Secondly, On the Mediator's Side, that he should be put to Death: and on God the Father's Side, that he should raise him up again; this was concluded on also to be done between God the Father, and his Son Jesus Christ. On Christ's Side, that he should die to give the Justice of the Father Satisfaction, and so to take away the Curse that was due to us wretched Sinners, by reason of our Transgressions: and that God his Father being every Ways fully and compleatly satisfied, should by his mighty Power revive and raise him up again. He hath brought again-----our Lord Jesus; that is, from Death to Life, through (the Virtue or effectual Satisfaction that he received from) the Blood (that was shed according to the Terms) of the everlasting Covenant, Heb. 13. 21, 22.

Thirdly, On the Mediator's Side, that he should be made a Curse, and on the Father's Side, that through him Sinners should be Inheritors of the Blessing; what wonderful Love doth there appear by this in the Heart of our Lord Jesus, in suffering such Things for our poor Bodies and Souls? Gal. 3. 13, 14. This is Grace.

Fourthly, That on the Mediator's Side, there should be by him, a Victory over Hell, Death, and the Devil, and the Curse of the Law: and on the Father's Side, that these should be communicated to Sinners, and they set at Liberty thereby, Zech. 9. 12. Turn to the strong Hold, saith God, ye Prisoners of Hope, even to Day do I declare that I will render double unto thee. Why so? It is because of the Blood of my Son's Covenant, verse 11. Which made Paul (though sensible of a Body of Death, and of the Sting that Death did strike into the Souls Souls of all those that are found in their Sins) bold to say, O Death, where is thy Sting? O Grave, where is thy Victory? The Sting of Death is Sin, that is true, and the terrible Law of God doth aggravate, and set it home with unsupportable Torment and Pain. But shall I be daunted at this? No, I thank my God through Jesus Christ, he hath given me the Victory. So that now, though I be a Sinner in myself, yet I can by believing in Jesus Christ the Mediator of this new Covenant, Triumph over the Devil, Sin, Death and Hell; and say, Do not fear, my Soul, seeing the Victory is obtained over all my Enemies through my Lord Jesus, 1 Cor. 15. 55, 56, 57. This is the Way to prove ourselves under Grace.

Fifthly, That on the Mediator's Side, he should by thus doing, bring in everlasting Righteousness for Saints, Dan. 9. 24. And that the Father for this should give them an everlasting Kingdom, 1 Pet. 1. 3, 4, 5. Eph. 1. 4. 2 Tim. 4. 18. Luke 22. 28, 29.

* But in the next Place, this was not all; that is, the Covenant of Grace, with the Conditions thereof, was not only concluded on by both Parties to be done, but Jesus Christ he must be authoriz'd to do what was concluded on, touching this Covenant by Way of Office. I shall therefore speak a Word or two also, touching the Offices, (at least some of them) that Christ Jesus did, and doth still execute as the Mediator of the new Covenant, which also was typed out by the Levitical Law; for this is the Way to prove that we are not under the Law but under Grace.

† And first, His first Office, after the Covenant was made and concluded upon, was, that Jesus should become bound as a Surety, and stand engaged upon Oath, to see that all the Conditions of the Covenant, that was concluded on between him and his Father, should according to the Agreement, be accomplished by him. And secondly, That after that, he should be the Messenger from God to the World, for to declare the Mind of God, touching the Tenour and Nature of both the Covenants especially of the new one; the Scripture saith, That Jesus Christ was not only made a Priest by an Oath, but also a Surety, or Bonds-man; as in the 7th of Hebrews, at the 21st and 22d ver. In the 21st ver. he speaketh of the Priesthood of Christ, that it was with an Oath; and saith in the 22d verse, By so much (also) was Jesus made the Surety of a better Testament (or Covenant.)

Now the Covenant was not only made on Jesus Christ's Side with an Oath, but also on God the Father's Side, that it might be for the better Ground of Establishment to all those that are, or are to be the Children of Promise. Methinks it is wonderful to consider, that the God and Father of our Souls by Jesus Christ, should be so bent upon the Salvation of Sinners, that he would covenant with his Son Jesus for the Security of them; and also that there should pass an Oath on both sides, for the Confirmation of their Resolution to do Good: As if the Lord had said, My Son, thou and I have here made a Covenant, that I, on my Part, should do thus and thus; and that thou on thy Part shouldest do so and so: Now that we may give these Souls the best Ground of Comfort that may be, there shall pass an Oath on both Sides, that our Children may see that we do indeed love them. Wherein God, willing more ABUNDANTLY to shew unto the Heirs of Promise, the Immutability of his Counsel (in making of the Covenant) confirm'd it by an Oath---That we might have strong Consolation, who have fled for Refuge to lay hold upon the Hope set before us, Heb. 6. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18. Heb. 7. 21. Mark, the sixth Chapter saith God confirm'd his Part by an Oath; and the seventh saith, Christ was made, or set on his Office also by an Oath. Again, Once (saith God) have I sworn by my Holiness, that I will not lye unto David (Psal. 89. 34, 35.) nor alter the Thing that is gone out of my Mouth; as was before cited.

Herein you may see that God and Christ were in good earnest about the Salvation of Sinners; for so soon as ever the Covenant was made, the next Thing was, who should be bound to see all those Things fulfilled which were conditioned on between the Father and the Son: The Angels, they could have no hand in it; The World could not do it; The Devils had rather see them damned, than they would wish them the least good; thus Christ looked, and there was none to help; though the burthen lay never so heavy upon his shoulder, he must bear it himself; for there was none besides himself to uphold, or so much as to step in to be bound, to see the Conditions (before mentioned) fulfilled, neither in whole, nor in part (Isa. 63. 1. to 7.) So that he must not be only he, with whom the Covenant was made, but he must also become the Bonds-man, or Surety thereof; and so stand bound to see, that all and every particular Thing conditioned for, should be both in manner, and matter, at the Time and Place, according to the agreement, duly and orderly fulfilled. Is not this Grace?

Now as touching the nature of a Surety and his Work (in some things) it is well known to most Men; therefore I shall be very brief upon it.

First, You know a Surety is at the Bargains making; and so was Christ. Then was I by him, Prov. 8. 30.

Secondly, A Surety must consent to the Terms of the Agreement, or Covenant; and so did Christ Jesus.

Now that which he did ingage should be done for Sinners, according to the Terms of the Covenant, was this.

First,

First, That there should be a compleat Satisfaction given to God for the Sins of the World, for that was one great Thing that was agreed upon, when the Covenant was made, Heb. 10. 5.

Secondly, That Jesus Christ should (as afore said) bring in an everlasting Righteousness to cloath (his Body) the Saints withal, Dan. 9. 24, 25. Here is Grace.

Thirdly, That he should take in charge to see all those forth-coming without Spot or Wrinkle, at the Day of his glorious appearing from Heaven to Judgment, and to quit them before the Judgment-seat.

Again, Thirdly, in the Work of a Surety, there is required by the Creditor, that the Surety should stand to what he is bound; and on the Sureties, there is a consenting thereunto.

* However it is in other ingagements yet it is thus in this.

* First, The Creditor looks, that in case the Debtor proves a Bankrupt, that then the Surety should ingage the Payment. Is not this Grace?

Secondly, The Creditor looks that the Surety should be an able Man: now our Surety was, and is, in this case very suitable; for he is heir of all Things.

Thirdly, the Creditor appoints the Day, and also looks that the Covenant should be kept, and the Debt paid according to the Time appointed; and it is required of Sureties (as well as Stewards) that they be found faithful, namely, to pay the Debt according to the Bargain; and therefore it is said, When the fulness of Time was come, God sent forth his Son -- made under the Law, to redeem them that are under the Law (according to the Suretiship) Gal. 4. 4, 5. thus comes Grace to Saints.

Fourthly, The Creditor looks that his Money should be brought into his House, to his own Habitation. Jesus our Surety, in this also is faithful; for by his own Blood, which was the Payment, he is entred into the Holy Place, even into Heaven it self, which is God's dwelling Place, to render the Value and Price that was agreed upon for the Salvation of Sinners, but I shall speak more of this in another Head; therefore I pass it.

† Though the Debtor, together with the Surety, is liable to pay the Debt by the Law of Man, yet Christ
our Surety only by the Covenant of Grace.

† Again, fourthly, If the Surety stands bound, the Debtor is at Liberty, and if the Law do issue out any process to take any, it will be the Surety; and O! how wonderfully true was this accomplished, in that when Christ our Surety came down from Heaven, God's Law did so seize upon the Lord Jesus, and so cruelly handle him, and so exact upon him, that it would never let him alone, until it had accused him, and condemned him, executed him, and screwed his very Heart's Blood out of his precious Heart and Side; nay, and more than this too, as I shall shew hereafter.

But, secondly, In the next Place, after that Jesus Christ had stood bound, and was become our Surety in Things pertaining to this Covenant, his next Office was to be the Messenger of God touching his Mind, and the Tenor of the Covenant, unto the poor World; and this did the Prophet foresee long before, when he saith, Behold, I will send my Messenger, and he shall prepare the Way before thee, (speaking of John the Baptist:) And he shall prepare the Way before thee: (And then he speaketh of Christ to the People, saying,) And the Lord whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his Temple: Who is he? Even the Messenger of the Covenant, whom ye delight in: (that is Christ) Behold he shall come, saith the Lord of Hosts, Mal. 3. 1.

Now the Covenant being made before between the Father and the Son, and Jesus Christ becoming bound to see all the Conditions fulfilled; this being done, he comes down from Heaven to Earth, to declare to the World what God the Father and He had concluded on before, and what was the Mind of the Father towards the World, concerning the Salvation of their Souls: and indeed, who could better come on such an Errand than he that stood by when the Covenant was made? than he that shook Hands with the Father in making of the Covenant? than he that was become a Surety in the Behalf of poor Sinners, according to the Terms of this Covenant?

Now, you know, a Messenger commonly when he cometh, he doth bring some Errand to them to whom he is sent, either of what is done for them, or what they would have them, whom they sent unto, do for them, or such like. Now what a glorious Message was that which our Lord Jesus Christ came down from Heaven withal to declare unto poor Sinners, and that from God his Father? I say, how glorious was it? and how sweet is it to you that have seen your selves lost by Nature? and it will also appear a glorious one to you, who are seeking after Jesus Christ, if you do but consider these following Things about what he was sent.

First, Jesus Christ was sent from Heaven to declare unto the World from God the Father, that he was wonderfully filled with Love to poor Sinners. First, In that he would forgive their Sins. Secondly, In that he would save their Souls. Thirdly, In that he would make them Heirs of his Glory. For God so loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son. --- For God sent not his Son into the World to condemn the World; but that the World through him might be saved, John 3. 15, 16, 18.

Secondly, God sent Jesus Christ to tell the poor World, how that he would do this for poor Sinners, and yet be just, and yet do his Justice no Wrong; and that was to be done by Jesus Christ his dying of a curst Death in the Room of poor Sinners, to satisfy Justice, and make way for Mercy; to take away the stumbling Blocks, and let open Heavens Gates; to overcome Satan, and break off from Sinners his Chains; to set (Luke 4. 18.) open the Prison Doors, and to let the Prisoners go free, Isa. 61. 1, 2, 3. And this was the Message that Christ was to deliver to the World by Commandment from his Father; and this he told us when he came of his Errand, where he saith, I lay down my Life for my Sheep --- No Man taketh it away from me, but I lay it down of myself: I have Power to lay it down, and to take it up again: and this Commandment have I received of my Father, John 10. 15, 16, 17, 18. even this Commandment hath my Father given me, that I should both do this thing, and also tell it unto you.

Thirdly, He was not only sent as a Messenger to declare this his Father's Love, but also how dearly he himself loved Sinners, what a Heart he had to do them good, where he saith, All that the Father hath given me shall come to me (and let me tell you my Heart too, saith Christ) He that cometh unto me, will I in no wise cast out. As my Father is willing to give you unto me, even so am I as willing to receive you. As my Father is willing to give you Heaven, so am I willing to make you fit for it, by washing you with my own Blood: I lay down my Life, that you might have Life; and this I was sent to tell you of my Father.

Fourthly, His Message was further; he came to tell them how and which way they should come to enjoy these glorious Benefits: also by laying down Motives to stir them up to accept of the Benefits: The Way is laid down in John 3. 14, 15. where Christ saith, As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness; even so must the Son of Man be lifted up, or caused to be hanged on the Cross, and die the Death; That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting Life. The Way therefore that thou shalt have the Benefit and Comfort of that which my Father and I have covenanted for thee, I am come down from Heaven to Earth on purpose to give thee Intelligence, and to certify thee of it: Know therefore, that as I have been born of a Woman, and have taken this Body, it is on purpose that I might offer it upon the Cross a Sacrifice to God, to give him Satisfaction for thy Sins, that his Mercy may be extended to thy Soul, without any wrong to Justice; and this thou art to believe, and not in the Notion, but from thy very whole Soul. Now the Motives are many. First, If they do not leave their Sins, and come to Jesus Christ, that their Sins might be washed away by his Blood, they are sure to be damned in Hell; for the Law hath condemned them already, John 3. 18, 19. Secondly, But if they do come, they shall have the Bosom of Christ to lie in, the Kingdom of Heaven to dwell in, the Angels and Saints for their Companions, shall shine there like the Sun, shall be there for ever, shall sit upon the Thrones of Judgment, &c. Here is Grace.

Methinks if I had but Time to speak fully to all things that I could speak to from these two heavenly Truths, and to make Application thereof; surely, with the Blessing of God, I think it might persuade some vile and abominable Wretch to lay down his Arms that he hath taken up in defiance against God (and is marching hell-wards, post-haste to the Devil) I say methinks it should stop him, and make him willing to look back, and accept of Salvation for his poor condemned Soul, before God's eternal Vengeance is executed upon him. O therefore! you that are upon this march, I beseech you consider a little. What, shall Christ become a Drudge for you? And will you be Drudges for the Devil? Shall Christ covenant with God for the Salvation of Sinners? And shall Sinners covenant with Hell, Death, and the Devil, for the Damnation of their Souls? Shall Christ come down from Heaven to Earth to declare this to Sinners? And shall Sinners stop their Ears against these good Tidings? Will you not hear the Errand of Christ, although he telleth you Tidings of Peace and Salvation? How if he had came, having taken a Command from his Father to damn you, and to send you to the Devils in Hell? Sinners, hear his Message, he speaketh no Harm, his Words are eternal Life, all Men that give Ear unto them, they have eternal Advantage by them. Advantage, I say, that never hath an End.

Besides, do but consider these two things, 'tis like they may have some Sway upon thy Soul.

First, When he came on his Message, he came with Tears in his Eyes, and did even weepingly tender the Terms of Reconciliation to them; I say with Tears in his Eyes. And when he came near the City, i. e. with his Message of Peace, beholding the Hardness of their Hearts, he wept over it, and took up a Lamentation over it; because he saw they rejected his Mercy, which was Tidings of Peace. I say, wilt thou then slight a weeping Jesus, one that so loveth thy Soul, that rather than he will lose thee, he will with Tears persuade with thee?

2. Not only so, but also when he came, he came all on a Gore of Blood to proffer Mercy to thee, to shew thee still how dearly he did love thee; as if he had said, Sinner, here is Mercy for thee; but behold my bloody Sweat, my bloody Wounds, my cursed Death; behold and see what Danger I have gone through to come unto thy Soul: I am come indeed unto thee, and do bring thee Tidings of Salvation, but it cost me my Hearts Blood before I could come at thee, to give thee the Fruits of my everlasting Love. But more of this anon.

Thus have I spoken something concerning Christ's being the Messenger of the New Covenant; but because I am not willing to cut too short off what shall come after, I shall pass by these things not half touched, and come to the other which I promised even now; which was to shew you, that as there were Levitical Ceremonies in, or belonging to the first Covenant, so these Types or Levitical Ceremonies, did represent the glorious Things of the New Covenant. In those Ceremonies you read of a Sacrifice; of a Priest to offer up the Sacrifice; the place where, and the manner how he was to offer it: of which I shall speak something.

First, As touching the Sacrifice, you find that it was not to be offered up of all Kind of Beasts; as of Lions, Bears, Wolves, Tigers, Dragons, Serpents, or such like. To signify, that not all Kind of Creatures, that had sinned, as Devils, the fallen Angels, should be saved: but the Sacrifice was to be taken out of some Kind of Beasts and Birds: to signify, that some Kind of God's Creatures that had sinned, he would be pleased to reconcile them to his self again; as poor fallen Man and Woman, those miserable Creatures, God the God of Heaven, had a good Look towards after their Fall: but not for the curst Devils, tho' more noble Creatures by Creation than we. Here is Grace.

Now though these Sacrifices were offered, yet they were not offered to the End, they should make the Comers to, or Offerers thereof perfect: but the Things were to represent to the World, what God had in after Ages for to do; which was even the Salvation of his Creatures, by that Offering of the Body of Jesus Christ, of which these were a Shadow and a Type for the Accomplishing of the second Covenant. For Christ was by Covenant to offer a Sacrifice, and that an effectual one too, if he intended the Salvation of Sinners: A Body hast thou prepared me; I am come to do thy Will, Heb. 10.

I shall therefore shew you, First, what was expected of God in the Sacrifice, in the Type, and then shew you how it was answered in the Antitype. Secondly, I shall shew you the Manner of the offering of the Type; and so answerable thereto, to shew you the Fitness of the Sacrifice of the Body of Christ, by Way of answering some Questions.

First, God did expect that Sacrifice which he himself had appointed, and not another. To signify that none would serve his Turn, but the Body and Soul of his appointed Christ, the Mediator of the new Covenant, John 1. 29.

Secondly, This Sacrifice must not be lame nor deform'd; it must have no Scar, Spot, or Blemish, to signify that Jesus Christ was to be a complete Sacrifice by Covenant, 1 Pet. 1. 29.

Thirdly, This Sacrifice was to be taken out of the Flock or Herd; to signify that Jesus Christ was to come out of the Race of Mankind, according to the Covenant, Heb. 10. 5.

But Secondly, As to the Manner of it: First, the Sacrifice, before it was offered, was to have the Sins of the Children of Israel, confessed over it: to signify that Jesus Christ must, Isa. 53. 4, 5, 6, 7. 1 Pet. 2. 24. bear the Sins of all his Children by Covenant. As for thee, by the Blood of thy Covenant In his own Body on the Tree, Zech. 9. 10, 11.

Secondly, It must be had to the Place appointed, namely, without the Camp of Israel: to signify, that Jesus Christ must be lead to Mount Calvary, Luke 23. 33, Thirdly, The Sacrifice was to be kill'd there; to signify, that Jesus Christ must, and did suffer without the City of Jerusalem for our Salvation.

Fourthly, The Sacrifice must not only have its Life taken away, but also some of its Flesh burned upon the Altar: to signify, that Jesus Christ was not only to die a natural Death, but also that he should undergo the Pains, and Torments of the damned in Hell.

Fifthly, Sometimes there must be a living Offering, and a dead Offering; as the Goat that was killed and the scape Goat: the dead Bird, and the living Bird, Levit. 14. 3, 4, 5, 6. To signify, that Jesus Christ must die, and come to Life again.

Sixthly, The Goat that was to die, was to be the Sin-Offering; that is, to be offered as the rest of the Sin-offerings, to make an Attonement as a Type: And the other Goat, was to have all the Sins of the Children of Israel confessed over him, Levit. 16. from the 7 verse to the 22. and then to be let go into the Wilderness, never to be catch'd again, to signify that Christ's Death was to make Satisfaction for Sin; and his coming to life again, was to bring in everlasting, Rom. 4. 25. Justification, from the Power, Curse, and destroying Nature of Sin.

Seventhly, The scape Goat was to be carried by a fit Man into the Wilderness. To signify that Jesus Christ should be both fit and able, to carry our Sins quite away from us, so as they should never be laid to our Charge again. Here is Grace.

Eighthly, The Sacrifices under the Law, commonly Part of them must be eaten, Exod. 12. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. To signify, that they that are saved, should spiritually feed on the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ, or else they have no Life by him, John 6. 51, 52, 53.

Ninthly, This Sacrifice must be eaten with unleavened Bread: To signify, that they which love their Sins, that devilish Leaven of Wickedness, they do not feed upon Jesus Christ.

Now,

As Christ did not suffer in his Body without suffering in Soul, nor yet in Soul without his suffering in Body; it was because not the Body without the Soul, but both the Body and Soul of the Saints should be for ever saved.

Now, of what hath been spoken, this is the Sum: That there is a Sacrifice under the new Covenant, as there were Sacrifices under the old; and that this Sacrifice did every Way answer that, or those: Indeed they did but suffer for Sin in Shew, but he in Reality; they as the Shadow, but he as the Substance. O! when Jesus Christ did come to make himself a Sacrifice, or to offer himself for Sin, you may understand that our Sins were indeed charged to purpose upon him: O how they feared his Soul, how they brake his Body, insomuch that they made the Blood run down his blessed Face, and from his precious Side; therefore thou must understand these following Things. First, that Jesus Christ by Covenant did die for Sin. Secondly, that his Death was not a meer natural Death, but a cursed Death; even such a one as Men do undergo from God for their Sins (though he himself had none) even such a Death, as to endure the very Pains and Torments of Hell; O sad Pains! and inexpressible Torments, that this our Sacrifice for Sin went under. The Pains of his Body were not all; no, but the Pains of his Soul; for his Soul was made an Offering, as well as his Body; yet all but one Sacrifice, Isa. 53. To signify, that the Suffering of Christ was not only a bodily Suffering, but a Soul-suffering; not only, to suffer what Man could inflict upon him, but also to suffer Soul-torments, that none but God can inflict, or suffer to be inflicted upon him. O the Torments of his Soul! they were Torments indeed; his Soul was that that felt the Wrath of God. My Soul, saith he, is exceeding sorrowful, even unto Death, Mat. 26. 38. My Soul is troubled, and what shall I say? John 12. 27. The Rock was not so rent, as was his precious Soul: there was not such a terrible Darkness on the Face of the Earth then, as there was on his precious Soul. O the Torments of Hell! and the Eclipsings of the divine Smiles of God, were both upon him, at once; the Devils assailing of him, and God forsaking of him, and all at once. My God, my God, saith he, why hast thou forsaken me? Mat. 27. 46. now in my greatest Extremity; now Sin is laid upon me, the Curse takes hold of me, the Pains of Hell are clasped about me, and thou hast forsaken me. O sad! Sinners, this was not done in Pretence but in Reality; not in Shew, but in very Deed; Otherwise Christ had dissembled, and had not spoken the Truth; but the Truth of it, his bloody Sweat declares, his mighty Cries declare the Things what, and for what he suffered declares. Nay, I must say thus much, that all the damned Souls in Hell, with all their Damnations, did never yet feel that Torment and Pain, that did this blessed Jesus in a little Time.

Sinner, canst thou read that Jesus Christ was made an Offering for Sin, and yet go on in Sin? canst thou hear that the Load of thy Sins did break the very Heart of Christ, and spill his precious Blood? And canst thou find in thy Heart to labour to lay more Sins upon his Back? Canst thou hear that he suffered the Pains, the fiery Flames of Hell, and canst thou find in thy Heart to add to his Groans, by flighting of his Sufferings? O hard hearted Wretch! How canst thou deal so unkindly with such a sweet Lord Jesus?

Quest. But why did Christ offer himself in Sacrifice?

A. That thou shouldest not be thrown to the very Devils.

Quest. But why did he spill his precious Blood?

Ans. That thou mightest enjoy the Joys of Heaven.

Quest. But why did he suffer the Pains of Hell?

Ans. That thou mightest not fry with the Devil and damned Souls.

Quest. But could not we have been saved if Christ had not died?

Ans. No, for without shedding of Blood, there is no Remission, and besides, there was no Death, that could satisfy God's Justice but his, which is evident; because there was none in a Capacity to die, or that was able to answer an infinite God by his so suffering, but he.

Quest. But why did God let him die?

Ans. He standing in the Room of Sinners; and that in their Names and Natures, God's Justice must fall upon him; for Justice takes Vengeance for Sin wheresoever it finds it, though it be on his dear Son. Nay, God favoured his Son no more, finding our Sins upon him, than he would have favoured any of us: For should we have died? so did he. Should we have been made a Curse? so was he. Should we have undergone the Pains of Hell? so did he.

Quest. But did he indeed suffer the Torments of Hell?

Ans. Yea, and that in such an horrible Way too, that it is unspeakable.

Quest. Could he not have suffered without his so suffering? would not his dying only of a natural Death have served the Turn?

Ans. No, in no wise: The Sins, for which he suffered, called for the Torments of Hell; the Condition in which he died, did call for the Torments of Hell; for Christ did not die the Death of a Saint, but the Death of a Sinner; of a cursed and damned Sinner (because he stood in their rooms, Gal. 3. 13.) the Law to which he was subjected, called for the Torments of Hell; the Nature of God's Justice could not bate him any Thing, the Death which he was to suffer, had not lost its sting; all these these being put together, do irresistibly declare unto us, that he, as a Sacrifice, did suffer the Torments of Hell.

But secondly, had he not died and suffered the cursed Death, the Covenant had been made void, and his Suretyship would have been forfeited; and besides this, the World damned in the Flames of Hell fire; therefore his being a Sacrifice, was one Part of the Covenant, for the Terms of the Covenant was, that he should spill his Blood, Zech. 9. 10, 11. O blessed Jesus! O blessed Grace!

Quest. But why then is his Death so slighted by some?

Ans. Because they are Enemies to him, either through Ignorance, or Presumption; either for want of Knowledge, or out of Malice; for surely, did they love, or believe him, they could not chuse but break, and bleed at Heart, to consider and to think of him, Zech. 12. 10, 11.

Thus, passing this, I shall now speak something to Christ's Priestly Office: but by the Way if any should think, that I do here spin my thread too long, in distinguishing his Priestly Office, from his being a Sacrifice; the supposing that for Christ to be a Priest and a Sacrifice is all one and the same Thing, and it may be it is; because they have not thought on this so well as they should: Namely, that as he was a Sacrifice, he was Passive, Isa. 53. that is, led or had away as a Lamb to his sufferings: But as a Priest, he was active; that is, he did willingly, and freely give up his Body to be a Sacrifice. He hath given his Life a Ransom for many. This Consideration being with some Weight and Clearness on my Spirit, I was, and am caused to lay them down in two particular heads. And therefore,

The second Thing that I would speak something to, it is this; that as there were Priests under the first Covenant, so there is a Priest under this, belonging to this New Covenant, a high Priest, the chief Priest: as it is clear, where it is said, We having an high-Priest over the House of God, Heb. 10. 21. Chap. 3. 1. Chap. 5. 5, 10. and Chap. 7. 24, 25, 26. Chap. 8. 1, 4.

Now the Things that I shall treat upon are these. First, I shall shew you the Qualifications required of a Priest under the Law. Secondly his Office; and thirdly, how Jesus Christ did according to what was signified by those under the Law: I say, how he did answer the Types, and where he went beyond them.

For his Qualifications.

First, they must be called thereto of God; No Man takes this honour upon him, but he that is called of God, as Aaron, Heb. 5. 4. Now Aaron's being called of God to be a Priest, signifies that Jesus Christ is a Priest of God's Appointment, such a one that God hath chosen, likes of, and hath set on Work, called of God an high-Priest, &c. ver. 10.

Secondly, The Priests under the Law, they must be Men compleat, not deformed; Speak unto Aaron, saith God to Moses, saying, Whosoever he be of thy seed in their Generations, that hath any blemish, let him not approach to offer the Bread of his God: for whatsoever Man he be that hath a blemish, he shall not approach (if he be) a blind Man, or a lame Man, or he that hath a flat Nose, or any thing superfluous, or a Man that is broken footed, or broken handed, or crook-backed, or a Dwarf, or he that hath a blemish in his eye, or be scurvy, or scabbed, or hath his stones broken: No Man that hath a blemish of the seed of Aaron the Priest, shall come nigh to offer offerings of the Lord made by Fire; he hath a blemish, he shall not come nigh to offer the Bread of his God, Levit. 21. 17 to 22. What doth all this signifie, but that, in the first Place he must not be Lame, to signifie, he must not go Haltingly about the Work of our Salvation. 2. He must not be Blind, to signifie that he must not go Ignorantly to Work, but he must be quick of understanding in the Things of God. 3. He must not be Scabbed, to signifie, that the Priest must not be Corrupt, or filthy in his Office. 4. In a Word, he must be every way compleat, to signifie to us, that Jesus Christ was to be, and is most compleat, and most perfect every way, an acceptable high-Priest in Things pertaining to God, in reference to his second Covenant.

Thirdly, The Priests under the Law were not to be hard-hearted, but pitiful and compassionate, willing and ready, with Abundance of Bowels to offer for the People, and to make an Atonement for them, Heb. 5. 1, 2. To signifie, that Jesus Christ should be a tender hearted High-Priest, able and willing to sympathize, and be affected with the Infirmities of others, to pray for them, to offer up for them his precious Blood; he must be such a one, who can have compassion on (a company of poor) ignorant Souls, and on them that are out of the Way, to recover them, and to set them in safety, Heb. 4. 15. and that he might thus do, he must be a Man that had Experience of the Disadvantages that Infirmary and Sin did bring unto these poor Creatures, Heb. 2. 17.

Fourthly, The High-Priests under the Law were not to be shy or squeamish, in case there were any that had the Plague or Leprosie, Scab or Blotches; but must look on them, go to them, and offer for them (Levit. 13. read that whole Chapter) all which is to signifie, that Jesus Christ should not refuse to take notice of the several Infirmities of the poorest of his People, but to teach them, and to see that none of them be lost, by reason of their Infirmary, for want of looking to, or tending of.

This

This Privilege also have we under this second Covenant. This is the Way to make Grace shine.

Fifthly, The high-Priests under the Law, they were to be anointed with very excellent Oil, compounded by Art (Exod. 29. 7. Chap. 30. 30.) to signifie, that Jesus the great high-Priest of this New Covenant, should be in a most eminent way anointed to his Priestly Office by the Holy Spirit of the Lord.

Sixthly, the Priest's Food and Livelihood in the time of his Ministry, was to be the consecrated, and holy Things, Exod. 29. 33. to signifie, that it is the very Meat and Drink of Jesus Christ, to do his Priestly Office, and to save and preserve his poor emptied, and afflicted Saints. O what a New Covenant high-Priest have we!

Seventhly, the Priests under the Law, were to be washed with Water, Exod. 29. 4. to signifie, that Jesus Christ should not go about the Work of his Priestly Office, with the filth of Sin upon him, but was without Sin to appear as our high-Priest in the Presence of his Father, to execute his Priestly Office there for our Advantage, For such a high-Priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the Heavens, Heb. 7. 26.

Eighthly, The high-Priests under the Law, before they went into the Holy Place, were to be clothed with a curious Garment, a Breast-plate, and an Ephod, and a Robe, and brodered Coat, a Mitre, and a Girdle, and they were to be made of Gold, and Blue, and Purple, and Scarlet, and fine Linnen; and in his Garment and glorious Ornaments there must be precious Stones, and on those Stones there must be written the Names of the Children of Israel, (read the 28th of Exodus) and all this was to signifie what a Glorious high-Priest Jesus Christ should be; and how in the Righteousness of God, he should appear before God as our high Priest, to offer up the Sacrifice that was to be offered for our Salvation to God his Father: but I pass that.

Now I shall speak to his Office: The Office of the high-Priest in general was two-fold. First, To offer the Sacrifice without the Camp. Secondly, To bring it within the Veil, that is, into the holiest of all, which did Type out Heaven.

First, it was the Office of the Priest to offer the Sacrifice; and so did Jesus Christ, he did offer his own Body and Soul in Sacrifice. I say, HE did OFFER it, and not another, as it is written, No Man taketh away my Life, but I lay it down of my self; I have Power to lay it down, and I have Power to take it up again, John 10, 17, 18. And again it is said, When he (Jesus) had offered up one sacrifice for Sins for ever, sat down on the Right Hand of God, Heb. 10. 12.

Secondly, The Priests under the Law must offer up the Sacrifice that God had appointed, and none else, a compleat one without any blemish; and so did our high-Priest, where he saith, Sacrifice and offerings thou wouldst not, but a Body hast thou prepared me, and that I will offer, Heb. 10. 5.

Thirdly, the Priest was to take of the Ashes of the Sacrifice, and lay them in a clean place: and this signifies, that the Body of Jesus after it had been offered, should be laid into Joseph's Sepulchre, as in a clean place, where never any Man before was laid, Levit. 6. 11. compared with John 19. 41, 42.

This being one part of his Office, and when this was done, then in the next Place he was to put on the glorious Garment, when he was to go into the Holiest, and take of the Blood, and carry it thither, &c. he was to put on the holy Garment, which signifieth the Righteousness of Jesus Christ.

Secondly, He was in this holy Garment, which hath in it the Stones, and in the Stones, the Names of the Twelve Tribes of the Children of Israel, to appear in the Holy Places, Exodus 28. And thou shalt take two Oynx Stones, and shalt grave on them the Names of the Children of Israel. Six of their Names on one Stone, and the other six Names of the rest on the other Stone, according to their birth, ver. 9. 10. And this was to signifie, that when Jesus Christ was to enter into the Holiest, then, he was there to bear the Names of his Elect, in the Tables of his Heart, before the Throne of God, and the Mercy-seat, Heb. 12. 23.

Thirdly, With this he was to take of the Blood of the Sacrifices, and carry it into the Holiest of all, which was a Type of Heaven, and there was he to sprinkle the Mercy-seat; and this was to be done by the High-Priest only. To signifie, that none but Jesus Christ must have this Office and Privilege, to be the Peoples High-Priest to offer for them. Heb. 9. 7. But into the second went the High-Priest alone once every Year, yet not without Blood, which he offered for himself and for the errors of the People.

Fourthly, He was there to make an Attonement for the People with the Blood, sprinkling of it upon the Mercy-seat; but this must be done with much Incense, Levit. 16. And Aaron shall bring the Bullock which is for a Sin-offering for himself, and for his House, and shall kill the Bullock of the Sin-offering, which is for himself. And he shall take a Censur full of burning Coals of Fire from off the Altar before the Lord, and his Hands full of sweet Incense beaten small, and bring it within the Veil: And he shall put the Incense upon the Fire before the Lord, that the Cloud of the Incense may cover the Mercy-Seat, that is upon the Testimony, that he die not. And he shall take of the Blood of the Bullock, and sprinkle it upon the Mercy-seat east-ward, and before the Mercy-seat shall he sprinkle the Blood with his Finger seven Times. And then he shall kill the Goat of the Sin-offering which is for the People, and bring his Blood within the Veil, and do with that Blood as he did with the Blood of the Bullock, and sprinkle it upon the Mercy-seat, and before the Mercy-seat, verse 11, 12, 13, 14, 15. Now this was for the Priest and the People; all which doth signify, that Jesus Christ was after his Death, to go into Heaven itself, of which this Holy Place was a Figure, Heb. 9. and there to carry the Sacrifice that he offered upon the Cross, into the Presence of God, for to obtain Mercy for the People in a Way of Justice. And in that he is said to take his Hands full of sweet Incense, it signifies that Jesus Christ was to offer up his Sacrifice in the Presence of his Father, in a Way of Intercession and Prayers.

I might have branch'd these Things out into several Particulars, but I would be brief.

I say, therefore, The Office of the Priest was to carry the Blood into the holy Place, and there to present it before the Mercy-seat, with his Heart full of Intercessions for the People, for whom he was a Priest, Luke 1. 8, 9, 10, 11. This is Jesus Christ's Work now in the Kingdom of Glory, to plead his own Blood, the Nature and Virtue of it, with a perpetual Intercession to the God of Mercy, on the behalf of us poor miserable Sinners, Heb. 7. 24.

Now in the Intercession of this Jesus, which is Part of his Priestly Office, there are these Things to be considered for our Comfort:

First, There is a pleading of the Virtue of his Blood, for them that are already come in; that they may be kept from the Evils of Heresies, Delusions, Temptations, Pleasures, Profits, or any Thing of this World, which may be too hard for them. Father, I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the World (saith Christ) but that thou shouldest keep them from the Evil, John 17. 15.

Secondly, In case the Devil should aspire up into the Presence of God, to accuse any of the poor Saints, and to plead their Back-slidings against them, as he will do if he can; then there is Jesus, our Lord Jesus, ready in the Court of Heaven, at the right Hand of God, to plead the Virtue of his Blood, not only for the great and general Satisfaction that he did give when he was on the Cross, but also the Vertue that is in it now, for the Cleansing and fresh Purging of his poor Saints, under their several Temptations and Infirmities; as saith the Apostle, For if when we were Enemies, we were recon- cil'd to God, by the Death of his Son: much more then being reconciled, we shall be saved by his Life; that is, by his Intercession, Rom. 5. 10.

Thirdly, The Maintaining of Grace, also, is by Jesus Christ's Intercession, being the second Part of his Priestly Office. O! had we not a Jesus at the right Hand of God, making Intercession for us, and to convey fresh Supplies of Grace unto us, through the Virtue of his Blood, being pleaded at God's right Hand; how soon would it be with us, as it is with those for whom he prays not at all? John 17. 9. But the Reason why thou standest while others fall, the Reason why thou goest through the many Temptations of the World, and shakest them off from thee while others are ensnared, and entangled therein; it is because thou hast an interceding Jesus. I have prayed (saith he) that thy Faith fail not, Luke 22. 32.

Fourthly, It is partly by the Virtue of Christ's Intercession that the Elect are brought in, there are many that are come to Christ, which are not yet brought in to Christ: and it is one Part of his Work to pray for their Salvation too. Neither pray I for these alone, but for all those that shall believe (though as yet they do not believe) on me (but that they may believe) through their Word John 17. 20. And let me tell thee Soul for thy Comfort, who art a coming in to Christ, panting and sighing, as if thy Heart would break, I tell thee, Soul, thou wouldest never have come to Christ, if he had not first by the Virtue of his Blood and Intercession sent into thy Heart an earnest Desire after Christ; and let me tell thee also, that it is his Business to make Intercession for thee; not only that thou mightest come in, but that thou mightest be preserved, when thou art come in. Compare Heb. 7. 25. Rom. 8. 33, 34, 35, &c.

Fifthly, It is by the Intercession of Christ, that the Infirmities of the Saints, in their holy Duties are forgiven: Alas, if it was not for the Priestly Office of Christ Jesus, the Prayers, Alms, and other Duties of the Saints, might be rejected, because of the Sin that is in them: but Jesus being our high Priest, he is ready to take away the Iniquities of our holy Things, perfuming our Prayers with the Glory of his own Perfections: And therefore it is, that there is an Answer given to the Saints Prayers, and also Acceptance of their holy Duties, Rev. 8. 3, 4. But Christ being come an High-Priest of good Things to come, by a greater and more perfect Tabernacle, not made with Hands, that is to say, not of this Building. Neither by the Blood of Goats and Calves: but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy Place, having obtained eternal Redemption for us. For if the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and the Askes of an Heifer sprinkling the Unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the Flesh; How much more shall the Blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit, offered himself without Spot to God, purge your Consciences from dead Works to serve the living God? And for this Cause he is the Mediator of the New Testament (or Covenant) that by Means of Death, for the Redemption of the Transgressions that were under the first Testament, they which are called (notwithstanding all their Sins) might receive the Promise of eternal Inheritance, Heb. 9. 11, 12, 13, 14, 15.

The third Thing now to be spoken to, is to shew, where, and how Jesus Christ out-went, and goes beyond these Priests in all their Qualifications and Offices, for the Comfort of poor Saints.

1st. They that were called to the Priesthood under the Law, were but Men; but he is both God and Man, Heb. 7. 28, 3.

2. Their Qualifications were in them in a very scanty Way: but Jesus was every Way qualified in an infinite and full Way.

3. They were consecrated but for a Time, Heb. 7. 23. but he for evermore, ver. 24.

4. They were made without an Oath, ver. 20, 21. but he with an Oath.

5. They as Servants; but he as a Son, Heb. 3. 6.

6. Their Garments were but such as could be made with Hands, Ez. 28. but his the very Righteousness of God, Rom. 3. 22.

7. Their Offerings were but the Body and Blood of Beasts, and such like, Phil. 3. 8. but his Offering was his own Body and Soul, Heb. 9. 12, 13. Chap. 10. 4, 5. Isa. 53. 10. Heb. 10. 5.

8. Those were at best but a Shadow or Type, ver. 1. but he the very Substance and End of all those Ceremonies, Heb. 9. 10, 11.

9. Their Holy Place was but made by Men, Heb. 9. 24. but his, or that which Jesus is entered into, is Heaven itself, Heb. 5. 2, 3.

10. When they went to offer their Sacrifice, they were forced to offer for themselves, as Men compassed about with Infirmity, Heb. 7. 26. but he was holy harmless, Heb. 10. 11. who did never commit the least Transgression, Heb. 7. 26.

11. They, when they went in to offer, were fain to do it standing, Heb. 10. to signify, that God had no Satisfaction therein; but he, when he had offered one Sacrifice for Sin, for ever sat down at the right-Hand of God, Jer. 12. To signify, that God was very well pleased with his Offering.

12. They were fain to offer oftentimes the Sacrifice that could never take away Sin; but he by one Offering hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified, Heb. 10. 11, 14.

13. Their Sacrifices at the best could but serve for the Cleansing of the Flesh, Heb. 9. 13. but his for Cleansing both Body and Soul: The Blood of Jesus Christ doth purge the Conscience from dead Works, to live a holy Life, verse 14.

14. Those High Priests could not offer but once a Year in the holiest of all, ver. 7. But our high-Priest, he ever liveth to make Intercession for us, Heb. 7. 24, 25.

15. Those High-Priests, notwithstanding they were Priests, they were not always to wear their holy Garments; but Jesus never puts them off of him, but is in them always.

16. Those High-Priests Death would be too hard for them, Heb. 7. 21, 23. but our High-Priest hath vanquished and overcome that cruel Enemy of ours, Heb. 2. 15. and brought Life and Immortality to Light, through the glorious Gospel, 2 Tim. 1. 10.

17. Those High-Priests were not able to save themselves; but this is able to save himself, and all that come to God by him, Heb. 7. 25.

18. Those High-Priests Blood could not do away Sin; but the Blood of Jesus Christ who is our High-Priest, cleanseth us from all Sin, 1 John 1. 7.

19. Those High-Priests sometimes by Sin, caused God to reject their Sacrifices; but this High-Priest doth always the things that please him.

20. Those High-Priests could never convey the Spirit by virtue of their Sacrifices or Office; but this High-Priest, our Lord Jesus, he can, and doth give all the Gifts and Graces that are given to the Sons of Men.

21. Those High-Priests could never by their Sacrifices bring the Soul of any Sinner to Glory, by virtue of itself; but Jesus hath by one Offering (as I said before) perfected for ever those that he did die for. Thus in brief I have shewed in some Particulars, how and wherein Jesus our High-Priest doth go beyond those High-Priests; and many more without Question might be mentioned, but I forbear.

A fifth Office of Christ in reference to the second Covenant, was that he should be the Forerunner to Heaven before his Saints that were to follow after. First, he strikes hands in the Covenant. Secondly, he stands bound as a Surety to see every Thing in the Covenant accomplished that was to be done on his part; then he brings the Message from Heaven to the World; and before he goeth back he offereth himself for the same Sins that he agreed to suffer for; and so soon as this was done he goeth post-haste to Heaven again; not only to exercise the second part of his Priestly Office, but as our Forerunner, to take Possession for us, even into Heaven itself, as you may see, Heb. 6. 20. where it is said, Whither the Forerunner is for us entered.

First,

First, he is run before to open Heaven gates: Be ye open ye everlasting doors, that the King of Glory may enter in.

Secondly, he is run before to take possession of Glory in our Natures for us.

Thirdly, he is run before to prepare us our Places against we come after. I go to prepare a Place for you, John 14. 1, 2, 3.

Fourthly, he is run thither to make the Way easy, in that he hath first trodden the Path himself.

These things have I spoken to shew you, that Saints are under Grace.

Fifthly, he is run thither to receive Gifts for us. All spiritual and heavenly Gifts had been kept from us, had not Christ so soon as the Time appointed was come, run back to the Kingdom of Glory to receive them for us. But I cannot stand to enlarge upon these glorious Things, the Lord enlarge them upon your Hearts by Meditation.

Here now I might begin to speak of his prophetic and kingly Office, and the Privileges that do and shall come thereby, but that I fear I shall be too tedious; therefore at this Time I shall pass them by. Thus you may see how the Covenant of Grace doth run, and with whom it was made, and also what were the Conditions thereof.

Now then this Grace, this everlasting Grace of God comes to be free to us thro' the Satisfaction (according to the Conditions) given by another for us; for tho' it be free, and freely given to us, yet the obtaining of it did cost our Head, or Publick-man, a very dear Price (1 Cor. 6. 20.) For you are bought with a Price, even with the precious Blood of Christ, (1 Pet. 1. 9.) So it is by another, I say, not by us; yet it is as sure made over to us, even to so many of us as do or shall believe, as if we had done it, and obtained the Grace of God ourselves: Nay, surer; for consider, I say, this Grace is free to us, and comes upon a clear Score, by virtue of the Labour and Purchase of another for us; mark, that which is obtained by another for us, is not obtained for us by ourselves: Now, but Christ hath (Heb. 9. 12.) not by the Blood of Goats and Calves obtained eternal Redemption for us (which were things offered by Men under the Law) but by his own Blood (meaning Christ's) he enter'd into the holy Place, having obtained eternal Redemption for us.

Secondly, It comes to be unchangeable through the Perfection of that Satisfaction that was given to God through the Son of Mary for us; for whatever the divine, infinite, and eternal Justice of God did call for at the Hands of Man, if ever he intended to be a Partaker of the Grace of God, this Jesus, this one Man, this publick Person, did compleatly give a Satisfaction to it, even so effectually; which caused God not only to say I am pleased, but, I am well pleased, Matt. 3. 17. Compleatly and sufficiently satisfied with thee on their Behalf; for so you must understand it: Mark there these following Words, And having made Peace (or compleatly made up the Difference) through the Blood of his Cross by him, to reconcile all things unto himself; by him I say, whether they be things in Earth, or things in Heaven, and you who were sometimes alienated, and Enemies in your Mind by wicked Works; yet now hath he reconciled, how, in the Body of his Flesh, through Death, to present you holy; mark, holy and unblameable, and unreproucheable in his sight, Col. 1. 21, 22, 23. And thus it is Grace, unchangeable Grace to us; because it was obtained, yea compleatly obtained for us by Jesus Christ, God-man.

Object. But some may say, how was it possible that one Man Jesus, by one offering, should so compleatly obtain and bring in unchangeable Grace, for such an innumerable company of Sinners as are to be saved?

Ans. First, In that he was every way fitted for such a Work. And, secondly, In that, as I said before, he did every way compleatly satisfy that which was offended by our disobedience to the former Covenant. And for the clearing of this,

First, consider, Was it Man that had offended? He was Man that gave the Satisfaction. For as by Man came Death, even so also by Man did come the Resurrection from the Dead, 1 Cor. 15. 21.

Secondly, Was it God that was offended? He was God that did give a Satisfaction. To us a Child is born, to us a Son is given. --- And his Name shall be called the mighty God (Isa. 9. 6.) He thought it no robbery to be equal with God: but (for our sakes, 2 Cor. 8. 9.) he made himself of no Reputation, &c. Phil. 2. 5, 6, 7.

Thirdly, For the further clearing of this, to shew you that in every Thing he was rightly qualified for this great Work; see what God himself saith of him: He calls him in the first Place Man; and secondly he owns himself to be his Fellow, saying, Awake O sword against my Shepherd, against the Man; mark, the Man that is my Fellow, saith the Lord of Hosts, Zech. 13. 7.

So that now let divine and infinite Justice turn it self which way it will, it finds one that can tell how to match it; for if it say, I will require the Satisfaction of Man, here is a Man to satisfy its cry: but if it say, but I am an infinite God, and must and will have an infinite Satisfaction: here is one also that is infinite, even Fellow with God; Fellow in his Essence and Being, Prov. 8. 23. Fellow in his Power and Strength, 1 Cor. 1. 24. Fellow in his Wisdom, see again the same verse. Fellow in his Mercy and Grace, Tit. 2. 10. compared with ver. 11. together with the rest of the Attributes of God; so that, I say, let Justice turn it self which way it will, here is a compleat Person to give a compleat Satisfaction: thus much of the Fitness of the Person.

Secondly,

Secondly, for the Compleatness of the Satisfaction given by him for us. And that is discovered in these particulars.

First, Doth Justice call for the Blood of that Nature that sinned? Here is the Heart Blood of Jesus Christ. We have Redemption through his Blood, Eph. 1. 14. 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19. Zech. 9. 10, 11.

2. Doth Justice say, that this Blood, if it be not the Blood of one that is really, and naturally God, it will not give Satisfaction to infinite Justice; then here is God, Purchasing his Church with his own Blood, Acts 20. 28.

3. Doth Justice say, that it must not only have Satisfaction for Sinners; but they that are saved must be also washed and sanctified with this Blood? Then here is he that so loved us, that he washed us from our Sins in his own Blood, Rev. 1. 5.

4. Is there to be a Righteousness to cloath them with, that are to be presented before divine Justice? then here is the Righteousness of Christ, which is, even the Righteousness of God by Faith, Rom. 3. 22. Phil. 3. 8, 9, 10.

5. Is there any Sins now that will fly upon this Saviour, like so many Lions, or raging Devils, if he take in hand to redeem Man, he will be content to bear them all himself alone, even in his own Body upon the Tree? 1 Pet. 2. 24.

6. Is there any Law now that will curse, and condemn this Saviour for standing in our Persons, to give Satisfaction to God for the Transgression of Man? he will be willing to be cursed, yea to be made a curse for Sinners, rather than they shall be cursed and damned themselves; Gal. 3. 13.

7. Must the great and glorious God, whose eyes are so pure that he cannot behold iniquity: I say, must he not only have the Blood, but the very Life of him that will take in hand to be the Deliverer, and Saviour of us poor miserable Sinners? he is willing to lay down his Life for his sheep, John 10. 11.

8. Must he not only die a natural Death, but must his Soul descend into Hell (tho' it should not be left there?) he will suffer that also, Psal. 16. 10. and Acts. 2. 3.

9. Must he not only be buried, but rise again from the Dead, and overcome Death, that he might be the first Fruits to God of them that sleep, which shall be saved? He will be buried, and also through the Strength of his God-head, he will raise himself out of the Grave, though Death hold him never so fast, and the Jews lay never such a great Stone upon the Mouth of the Sepulchre, and seal it never so fast, 1 Cor. 15. 2. Luke 24. 34.

10. Must he carry that Body in the presence of his Father, to take Possession of Heaven, Heb. 9. 24. John 14. 2, 3. And must he appear there as a Priest (Heb. 6. 20.) as fore-runner (ver. the same) as an Advocate (1 John 2. 1, 2.) as Prophet, as a Treasure-house, as an Interceder, and Pleader of the Causes of his People? he will be all these, and much more; to the end, the Grace of God by Faith in Jesus Christ, might be made sure to all the Seed. Who then can condemn? it is God that justifieth; because Christ hath died, yea, rather that is risen again. Who (now seeing all this is so effectually done) shall lay any Thing, the least Thing? who can find the least flaw, the least wrinkle, the least Defect or Imperfection in this glorious Satisfaction.

Object. But is it possible that he should so soon give infinite Justice a Satisfaction, a compleat Satisfaction? for the eternal God doth require an eternal lying under the Curse; to the End, he may be eternally satisfied.

Ans. Indeed that which is infinite, must have an Eternity to satisfy God in; that is, they that fall into the Prison and Pit of utter Darkness, must be there to all Eternity, to the End, the Justice of God may have its full Blow at them. But now he that I am speaking of, is God (Isa. 9. 6. 2 Tim. 1. 16. Heb. 1. 8, 9. Phil. 2. 4, 5, 6.) and so is infinite: Now he which is true God, is able to give in as little a time an infinite Satisfaction, as Adam was in giving the Dissatisfaction. Adam himself might have given Satisfaction for himself as soon as Christ, had he been very God, as Jesus Christ was: For the reason why the Posterity of Adam, even so many of them as fall short of Life, must lie broiling in Hell to eternity, is this; They are not able to give the Justice of God Satisfaction, they being not infinite, as aforesaid. But Christ (that is God-man) being come an high-Priest (that is to offer and give Satisfaction) of good Things to come: by a greater and more perfect Tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building: Neither by the Blood of Goats and Calves, but by his own; mark you that, but by his own Blood he hath entered into the Holy Place, having (already) obtained eternal Redemption for us: But how? For if the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and the Ashes of an Heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purging of the Flesh, how much more shall the Blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit (who through the Power and Vertue of his infinite God-head) offered himself without spot to God, purge your consciences from dead Works, to serve the living God? And for this cause (that is, for that he is God as well as Man, and so able to give Justice an infinite Satisfaction; therefore) he is the Mediator of the New Covenant, that by the Means of his Death for the Redemption of the Transgressions that were under the first Testament, they which are called might receive the Promise of an eternal inheritance, Heb. 9. 11 to 16. as I said before.

Object.

Object. This is much; but is God contented with this? Is he satisfied now in the Behalf of Sinners by this Man's thus suffering? if he is, then how doth it appear?

Ans. It is evident, yea, wonderful evident, that this hath pleased him to the full, as appeareth by these following Demonstrations.

First, In that God did admit him into his Presence; yea, receive him with Joy and Musick, even with the Sound of the Trumpet at his Ascension into Heaven (Psal. 47. 5.) and Christ makes it an Argument to his Children, that his Righteousness was sufficient, in that he went to his Father, and they saw him no more (John 16. 10.) Of Righteousness, saith he, because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more: As if he had said, My Spirit shall shew to the World, that I have brought in a sufficient Righteousness to justify Sinners withal, in that when I go to appear in the Presence of my Father on their Behalf, he shall give me Entertainment, and not throw me down from Heaven, because I did not do it sufficiently.

Again, If you consider the high Esteem that God the Father doth set on the Death of his Son, you will find that he hath received good Content thereby. When the Lord Jesus by Way of Complaint told his Father, that he and his Merits were not valued to the Worth; his Father answered, It is a light Thing that I should give thee O my Servant, to bring Jacob again; I will also give thee for a Light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be for Salvation to the Ends of the Earth, Isa. 49. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. As if the Lord had said, My Son, I do value thy Death at a higher Rate, than that thou shouldest save the Tribes of Israel only; behold the Gentiles, the barbarous Heathens, they also shall be brought in as the Price of thy Blood. It is a light Thing that thou shouldest be my Servant (only) to bring or redeem the Tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserv'd of Israel; I will give thee for a Light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my Salvation to the Ends of the Earth.

Again, You may see it also by the Carriage of God the Father to all the great Sinners to whom Mercy was proffered. We do not find that God maketh any Objection against them that come to him for the Pardon of their Sins; because he did want a Satisfaction suitable to the Greatness of their Sins. There was Manasseh who was one that burnt his Children in the Fire to the Devil, 2 Chron. 33. from 1, to 12. that used Witchcraft, that used to worship the Host of Heaven, that turn'd his Back on the Word that God sent unto him: nay, that did worse than the very Heathen that God cast out before the Children of Israel. Also those that are spoken of Acts 19. 19. that did spend so much Time in Conjuraton, and the like, Acts 8. (for such I judge they were) that when they came to burn their Books, they counted the Price thereof to be fifty thousand Pieces of Silver. Simon Magus also that was a Sorcerer, and bewitch'd the whole City, yet he had Mercy proffered to him once and again: I say, it was not the Greatness of the Sins of these Sinners; no, nor of an innumerable Company of others, that made God at all to object against the Salvation of their Souls, which Justice would have constrained him to, had he not had Satisfaction sufficient, by the Blood of the Lord Jesus. Nay further, I do find that because God the Father, would not have the Merits of his Son to be undervalued; I say, he doth therefore freely by his Consent, let Mercy be proffered to the greatest Sinners, in the first Place, for the Jews, that were the worst of Men in that Day for Blasphemy against the Gospel: yet the Apostle proffered Mercy to them in the first Place. It is necessary (saith he) that the Word of God should first have been spoken to you, Acts 13. 46. Acts 3. 26. And Christ gave them Commission so to do: for saith he, Let Repentance and Remission of Sins be preached in my Name among all Nations, and begin; mark that, begin at Jerusalem, Luke 24. 47. Let them that but the other Day had their Hands up to the Elbows in my Heart Blood, have the first Proffer of my Mercy. And saith Paul, For this Cause I obtained Mercy, that in me first, Jesus Christ might shew forth all long-suffering, for a Pattern to them that should hereafter believe on him to Life everlasting, 1 Tim. 15. 16. As the Apostle saith, those Sinners that were dead, possessed with the Devil, and the Children of Wrath he hath quickened, delivered and saved, Ephes. 2. 1, 2. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7. that he might even in the very Ages to come, shew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace in his Kindness towards us (and that) through Jesus Christ.

Secondly, it is evident that that which this Man did as a common Person, he did it compleatly and satisfactorily, as appears by the Openness (as I may so call it) which was in the Heart of God to him at his Resurrection and Ascension. Ask of me (saith he) and I will give thee the (very) Heathen for thine Inheritance, and the uttermost Parts of the Earth for thy Possession, Psal. 2. 8. And this was at his Resurrection, Acts 13. 33. Whereas, though he had asked, yet if he had not given a full and compleat Satisfaction, Justice would not have given him any Thing; for Justice, the Justice of God is so pure, that if it be not compleatly satisfied in every particular, it giveth nothing but Curses, Gal. 3. 10.

Thirdly, It is yet far more evident that he

he hath indeed pleased God in the Behalf of Sinners, in that God hath given him Gifts to distribute to Sinners, yea the worst of Sinners, as a Fruit of Satisfaction, and that at his Ascension (Psal. 68. 18.) Christ hath so satisfied God, that he hath given him all the Treasures both of Heaven and Earth to dispose of as he seeth good; he hath so pleased God that he hath given him a Name above every Name; a Scepter above every Scepter; a Crown above every Crown; a Kingdom above every Kingdom, Phil. 29. Rev. 19. 16. he hath given him the highest Place in Heaven, even his own right Hand; he hath given him all the Power of Heaven and Earth, and under the Earth in his own Hand, to bind whom he pleaseth, and to set free whom he thinks meet; he hath, in a Word, such an high Esteem in the Eyes of his Father, that he hath put into his Hand all Things that are for the Profit of his People, both in this World, and that which is to come; and all this as the Fruit of his Faithfulness in doing of his Work, as the Mediator of the New Covenant. Thou hast ascended on high, thou hast led Captivity captive, thou hast received Gifts; mark, thou hast received them, for Men, even for the (worst of Men, for the) rebellious also: And hath sent forth some, being furnished with these Gifts; some I say, For the Work of the Ministry, to the edifying of them that are already called, and also for the calling in of all those for whom he covenanted with his Father, Till all come in the Unity of Faith, &c. Eph. 4. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13.

Fourthly, It doth still appear far more evident: For will you hear what the Father himself saith for the shewing of his Well-pleasedness in these two Particulars. First, In that he bids poor Souls to hear, and to do as Christ would have them, Matt. 3. 17. Luke 9. 35. Secondly, In that he resolves to make them that turn their Backs upon him, that dishonour him, (which is done in a very great measure by those that lay aside his Merits done by himself for Justification) I say, he that resolved to make them his Footstool; where he saith, Sit thou at my right hand, until I make thine Enemies thy Footstool. Are they Enemies to thee, saith God? I will be even with them. Do they slight thy Merits? Do they slight thy Groans, thy Tears, thy Blood, thy Death, thy Resurrection and Intercession, thy second coming again in heavenly Glory? I will tear them and rend them; I'll make them as Mire in the Streets; I will make thy Enemies thy Footstool (Pf. 110. 1. Matt. 22. 44. Heb. 1. 13. Chap. 10. 15.) I, saith he, And thou shalt dash them in Pieces like a Potter's Vessel, Psal. 2. 9. Look to it you that slight the Merits of the Blood of Christ.

Fifthly, Again further; yet God will make all the World to know, that he hath been and is well pleased in his Son, in that God hath given (and will make it appear he hath given) the World to come into his Hand, Heb. 2. And that he shall raise the dead, bring them before his Judgment seat, execute Judgment upon them, which he pleaseth to execute Judgment on to their Damnation; and to receive them to eternal Life whom he doth favour, even so many as shall be found to believe in his Name and Merits (John 5. 26, 27, 28.) For as the Father hath Life in himself, so hath he given to the Son Life in himself; and he hath given him Authority to execute Judgment also; because he is the Son of Man --- For the Hour is coming, that all that are in the Graves shall hear his Voice, and shall come forth: they that have done good unto the Resurrection of Life, and they that have done evil unto the Resurrection of Damnation. Ay, and the worst Enemy that Christ hath now, shall come at that Day with a pale Face, with a quaking Heart, and bended Knees, trembling before him, confessing the Glory of his Merits, and the Virtue there was in them to save, to the Glory of God the Father, Rom. 14. 11. Phil. 2. 9, 10, 11.

Much more might be added to discover the glorious Perfection of this Man's Satisfaction: but for you that desire to be further satisfied concerning this, search the Scriptures, and beg of God to give you Faith and Understanding therein: and as for you that slight these Things, and continue so doing, God hath another way to take with you, even to dash you in pieces like a Potter's Vessel: for this hath Christ received of his Father to do unto you, Rev. 2. 27.

Thus I have shewed you in particular, that the Covenant of the Grace of God is free and unchangeable to Men; that is, in that it hath been obtained for Men, and that perfectly, to the satisfying of Justice, and taking all Things out of the way that were any ways an Hindrance to our Salvation, Col. 2. 14.

The second thing for the discovering of this Freeness, and Constancy of the Covenant of the Grace of God, is manifested thus.

First, Whatsoever any Man hath of the Grace of God, he hath it as a free Gift of God through Christ Jesus the Mediator of this Covenant, even when they are in a State of Enmity to him (mark that Rom. 5. 8, 9. Col. 1. 21, 22.) whether it be Christ as the Foundation Stone, or Faith to lay hold on him, Eph. 28. For by Grace you are saved through Faith, and that not of yourselves (not for any thing in you, or done by you for the purchasing of it) but it is the free Gift of God. And that bestowed on you, even when ye were dead in Trespasses and Sins, Eph. 2. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. Nay, if thou hast so much as one Desire that is right, right, it is the Gift of God; for of ourselves, saith the Apostle, we are not able to speak a good Word, or think a good Thought, 2 Cor. 3. 5.

Was it not Grace, absolute Grace, that God made Promise to Adam after Transgressions? Gen. 3. 5.

Was it not free Grace in God to save such a Wretch as Manasseh was, who used Inchantments, Witchcraft, burnt his Children in the Fire, and wrought much Evil? 1 Chron. 33.

Was it not free Grace to save such as those were that are spoken of in the 16th of Ezekiel, which no Eye pitied?

Was it not free Grace for Christ to give Peter a loving Look after he had cursed and swore, and denied him?

Was it not free Grace that met Paul when he was going to Damascus to prosecute, which converted him, and made him a Vessel of Mercy?

And what shall I say of such that are spoken of in the 1 Cor. 6. 9, 10. speaking there of Fornicators, Idolaters, Adulterers, effeminate, Abusers of themselves with Mankind, Thieves, covetous, Revilers, Drunkards, Extortioners, the basest of Sinners in the world, and yet were washed, and yet were justified, was it not freely by Grace? O Saints, you that are in Heaven cry out, We came hither by Grace; and you that are on Earth, I am sure you cry, if ever we do go thither, it must be freely by Grace.

Secondly, In the next place, it appears to be unchangeable in this. First, Because Justice being once satisfied, doth not use to call for the Debt again: No, let never such a Sinner come to Jesus Christ, and so to God by him; and Justice instead of speaking against the Salvation of that Sinner, it will say, I am just, as well as faithful to forgive him his Sins, 1 John 1. 9. When Justice itself is pleased with a Man, and speaks on his Side, instead of speaking against him, we may well cry out, Who shall condemn?

2. Because there is no Law to come in against the Sinner that believes in Jesus Christ; for he is not under that, and that by right comes in against none, but those that are under it: But Believers are not under that, that is not their Lord, therefore that hath nothing to do with them; and besides Christ's Blood hath not only taken away the Curse thereof, but also he hath in his own Person compleatly fulfilled it as a publick Person in our stead, Rom. 8. 1, 2, 3, 4.

3. The Devil that accused them is destroyed, Heb. 2. 14, 15.

4. Death and the Grave, and Hell are overcome, 1 Cor. 15. 55. Hosea 13. 14.

5. Sin that great Enemy of Man's Salvation, that is washed away, Rev. 1. 5.

6. The Righteousness of God is put upon them that believe, and given to them, and they are found in it, Phil. 3. 8, 9, 10. Rom. 3. 22.

7. Christ is always in Heaven to plead for them, and to prepare a Place for them, Heb. 7. 24. John 14. 1, 2, 3, 4.

8. He hath not only promised that he will not leave us, nor forsake us; but he hath also Sworn to fulfil his Promises. O rich Grace! free Grace! Lord, who desired thee to Promise? Who compelled thee to Swear? we use to take honest Men upon their bare Words; but God, willing more abundantly to skew unto the heirs of Promise the immutability of his Counsel (hath) confirmed it by an Oath, that by two immutable Things (his Promise and his Oath) in which it is impossible for God to lye (or break either of them) we might have strong Consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the Hope set before us (Heb. 6. 13, 17, 18.) I'll warrant you God will never break his Oath; therefore we may well have good ground to hope from such a good Foundation as this, that God will never leave us indeed.

Again, thirdly, Not only thus, but First, God hath begotten Believers again to himself, to be his adopted and accepted Children, in and through the Lord Jesus, 1 Pet. 1. 3.

Secondly, God hath prepared a Kingdom for them, before the Foundation of the World, through Jesus Christ, Mat. 25.

Thirdly, He hath given them an earnest of their Happiness, while they live here in this World (Eph. 1. 13, 14.) After ye believed you were sealed with the Holy Spirit of Promise, which is the earnest of our inheritance, until the Redemption of the purchased Possession to the Praise of his Glory, and that through this Jesus.

Fourthly, If his Children sin through Weakness, or by sudden Temptation; they confessing of it, he willingly forgives and heals all their wounds, reneweth his Love towards them, waits to do them good, casteth their Sins into the Depths of the Sea, and all this freely, without any Work done by Men as Men. Not for your own sakes do I do this, O house of Israel, be it known unto you, saith the Lord, Ezek. 36. 22, 23. but wholly and alone by the Blood of Jesus.

Fifthly, In a Word, If you would see it altogether, God's Love was the cause why Jesus Christ was sent to bleed for Sinners. Jesus Christ's bleeding stops the cries of divine Justice: God looks upon them as compleat in him, gives them to him, as his by right of purchase. Jesus ever lives to pray for them that are thus given unto him. God sends his holy Spirit into them, to reveal this to them, sends his Angels to minister for them: and all this by virtue of an Everlasting Covenant between the Father and the Son. Thrice happy are the People that are in such a Case.

Nay, further, he hath made them Brethren with Jesus Christ, Members of his Flesh, and of his Bones, the Spouse of this Lord

These Things are more fully laid down in that part of the Book which containeth the Discourse of the Privileges of the New Covenant.

Lord Jesus; and all to shew you how dearly, how really, how constantly he loveth us, who by the Faith of his Operation have laid hold upon him.

I shall now lay down a few arguments for the superabundant clearing of it, and afterwards answer two or three Objections, that may be made against it, and so I shall fall upon the next Thing.

First, God loves the Saints, as he loves Jesus Christ: And God loves Jesus Christ with an eternal Love; therefore the Saints also with the same. Thou hast loved them, as thou hast loved me, John 17. 23.

You must not understand that love in God, is a Passion as it is in us; but the love of God is the very essence or nature of God, 1 John 4. 16.

Secondly, That Love which is God himself must needs be everlasting Love: And that is the Love wherewith God hath loved his Saints in Christ Jesus; therefore his Love towards his Children in Christ, must needs be an everlasting Love. There is none dare say, that the Love of God is mixed with a created mixture: if not, then it must needs be himself, 1 John 4. 16.

Thirdly, That Love which is always pitched upon us, in an Object as Holy as God, must needs be an everlasting Love. Now the Love of God was, and is pitched upon us, through an Object as Holy as God himself, even our Lord Jesus: Therefore it must needs be unchangeable.

Fourthly, If he with whom the Covenant of Grace was made, did in every Thing, and Condition, do, even what the Lord could desire or require of him, that his Love might be extended to us, and that for ever; then his Love must needs be an everlasting Love, seeing every Thing required of us, was compleatly accomplished for us by him: And all this hath our Lord Jesus done, and that most gloriously, even on our behalf: therefore it must needs be a Love that lasts for ever and ever.

Fifthly, If God hath declared himself to be the God that changeth not, and hath sworn to be immutable in his Promise, then surely he will be unchangeable. And he hath done so: therefore it is impossible for God to lye; and so for his eternal Love to be changeable (Heb. 6. 13, 14, 17, 18.) Here is an Argument of the Spirits own making! Who can contradict it? If any object, and say, But still it is upon the Condition of believing: I answer, The Condition also is his own free Gift, and not a Qualification arising from the Stock of Nature (Eph. 2. 8. Phil. 1. 28, 29.) So that here is the Love unchangeable; here is also the Condition given by him whose Love is unchangeable, which may serve yet further for a strong Argument, that God will have his Love unchangeable. Sinner, this is better felt and enjoyed, than talked of.

Object. But if this Love of God be unchangeable in itself, yet it is not unchangeably set upon the Saints, unless they behave themselves the better.

Ans. As God's Love at the first was bestowed upon the Saints, without any Thing foreseen by the Lord in them, as done by them (Deut. 9. 4, 5, 6.) So he goeth on with the same, saying, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee, Heb. 13. 5.

Object. But how cometh it to pass then that many fall off again, from the Grace of the Gospel, after a Profession of it for some Time, some to Delusions, and some to their open Sins again?

Ans. They are all fallen away, not from the everlasting Love of God to them; but from the Profession of the Love of God to them: Men may profess that God loves them, when there is no such Matter, and that they are the Children of God, when the Devil is their Father; (as it is in John 8. 40, 41, 42, 43, 44.) Therefore they that do finally fall away from a Profession of the Grace of the Gospel: It is first, Because they are Bastards and not Sons. Secondly, Because as they are not Sons, so God suffereth them to fall, to make it appear that they are not Sons, not of the Household of God. They went out from us, for they were not of us; for if they had been of us, no Doubt, (mark that) no Doubt (saith he) they would have continued with us; but they went out from us, that it might be made manifest that they were not all of us (1 John 2. 19.) And tho' Hymeneus and Philetus do throw themselves headlong to Hell, nevertheless the Foundation of God standeth sure, having this Seal, The Lord knoweth them that are his, 2 Tim. 2. 17, 18, 19.

Object. But the Scripture saith, that there are some that had Faith, yet lost it, and have made Shipwreck of it: Now God loves no longer than they believe, as is evident; For he that believes not shall be damned. So then, if some may have Faith, and yet lose it, and so lose the Love of God, because they have lost their Faith, it is evident that God's Love is not so immutable as you say it is to every one that believeth.

Ans. There are more Sorts of Faith than one, that are spoken of in Scripture.

First, There is a Faith that Men may have, and yet be nothing, none of the Saints of God (2 Cor. 13. 1, 2, 3, 4.) and yet may do great Things therewith.

2. There is a Faith that was wrought meerly by the Operation of the Miracles that were done in those Days by Christ and his Followers; And many of the People believed on him, How came they by their Faith? Why, by the Operation of the Miracles that he did among them; for said they, When Christ cometh, will he do more Miracles than this Man hath done? The great Thing that wrought their Faith in them, was only by seeing the Miracles that that he did (John 7. 31. John 2. 23.) which is not that saving Faith, which is called the Faith of God's Elect, as is evident: For there must not be only Miracles wrought upon outward Objects, to begot that, that being too weak a Thing, but it must be by the same Power that was stretched out in raising Christ from the Dead; yea, the exceeding Greatness of that Power (Eph. 1. 18, 19.) So there is a Believing, being taken with some marvellous Work, visibly appearing to the outward Sense of Seeing; and there is a Believing that is wrought in the Heart, by an invisible Operation of the Spirit, revealing the Certainty of the Satisfaction of the Merits of Christ to the Soul in a more glorious Way, both for Certainty and Durableness, both as to the Promise and the Constancy of it, Mat. 16. 17, 18.

3. There is a Faith of a Man's own, of a Man's self also; but the Faith of the Operation of God (in Scripture) is set in Opposition to that; for faith he, you are saved by Grace through Faith, and that not of yourselves, (of your own making, but that which is the free Gift of God) Eph. 2. 8.

4. We say, There is an historical Faith, that is, such as is begotten meerly by the History of the Word, not by the Co-operation of the Spirit by the Word.

5. We say, There is a traditional Faith; that is, to believe Things by Tradition, because others say they believe them; this is received by Tradition, not by Revelation, and shall never be able to stand neither at the Day of Death, nor at the Day of Judgment; though possibly, Men, while they live here, may esteem themselves and Estates to be very good, because their Heads are filled full of it.

6. There is a Faith that is called (in Scripture) a dead Faith, the Faith of Devils, or of the Devil; they also that have only this, they are like the Devil, and as sure to be damned as he, notwithstanding their Faith, if they get no better into their Hearts; for it is far off from enabling of them to lay hold of Jesus Christ, and so to put him on for eternal Life and Sanctification (Jam. 2. 19. 26.) which they must do if ever they be saved.

But all these are short of the saving Faith of God's elect, as is manifest; I say, First, Because these may be wrought, and not by that Power so exceedingly stretched forth. Secondly, Because these are wrought; partly, First, by the Sense of Seeing, namely, the Miracles (not by Hearing;) and, Secondly, The Rest is wrought by a traditional or historical Influence of the Words in their Heads, not by an heavenly, invisible, almighty, and saving Operation of the Spirit of God in their Hearts.

7. I do suppose also, That there is a Faith that is wrought upon Men through the Influence of those Gifts and Abilities that God gives sometimes to those that are not his own by Election, though by Creation; my Meaning is, some Men finding that God hath given them very great Gifts and Abilities; as the Gifts of Preaching, Praying, Working Miracles, or the like; I say, they therefore do conclude, that God is their Father, and they his Children; the Ground of which Confidence is still begotten, not by the glorious Operation of the Spirit, but by a Considering of the great Gifts that God hath bestowed upon them, as to the things before-mentioned:

As thus, First, The poor Soul considering how ignorant it was, and now how knowing it is. Secondly, Considering how vain it formerly was, and also now how civil it is, presently makes this Conclusion, Surely God loves me, surely he hath made me one of his, and will save me. This is now a wrong Faith, as is evident, in that it is placed upon a wrong Object; for mark, this Faith is not placed assuredly on God's Grace alone, through the Blood and Merits of Christ, being discovered effectually to the Soul, but upon God through those Things that God hath given it; as of Gifts; either to preach, pray, or do great Works, or the like, which will assuredly come to nought as sure as God is in Heaven; if no better Faith and Ground of Faith be found out for thy Soul savingly to rest upon.

As to the second Cause of the Objection, which runs to this Effect, God loves Men upon the Account of their believing; I answer, That God loves Men before they believe, he loves them, he calls them, and gives them Faith to believe. But God, who is rich in Grace with his great Love, wherewith he loved us, (When? when we believed, or before?) even when we were dead in our Sins (and so, far off from Believers) hath quickened us together with Christ (by Grace ye are saved) Eph. 2. 4, 5.

Now also, I suppose that thou wilt say in thy Heart, I would you would shew us then, what is saving Faith; which thing it may be I may touch upon a while hence, in the next Thing that I am to speak unto: O they that have that, are safe indeed!

The SECOND Thing.

THE Second Thing that I am to speak unto, is this, Who they are that are actually brought into this free and unchangeable Grace; and also how they are brought in.

Ans. Indeed now we are come to the Pinch of the whole Discourse; and if God do but help me to run rightly through this, as I do verily believe he will, I may do thee, thee, Reader, good, and bring Glory to my God.

The Question containeth these two branches, First, Who are brought in: Secondly, How they are brought in. The First is quickly answered: Christ Jesus came into the World to save Sinners, Jewish Sinners, Gentile Sinners, old Sinners, young Sinners, great Sinners, the chiefest of Sinners, 1 Tim. 1. 14, 15. Rom. 5. 7, to 11. 1 Cor. 6. 9, 10. Mat. 21. 31. Publicans and Harlots; that is, Whores, Cheaters and Exactors, shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. For I came not (saith Christ) to call the Righteous, but Sinners to Repentance, Mark 2. 17.

A Sinner in the Scripture is described in general to be a Transgressor of the Law. 1 John 3. 4. Whoever committeth Sin, transgresseth the Law; for Sin is the Transgression of the Law.

But particularly, they are described in a more particular way, as first, Such as in whom dwelleth the Devil, Ephes. 2. 2, 3. Secondly, Such as will do the Service of him, John 8. 44. Thirdly, Such as are Enemies to God, Col. 1. 21. Fourthly, Such as are (1 Cor. 6. 9, 10. 2 Chron. 33. 1 to 13. Sc. Acts 9. 1, 2, 3. 1 Tim. 1. 14, 15, 16. Acts 19. 19. Acts 2. 36, 37.) Drunkards, Whoremasters, Lyars, perjured Persons, Covetous, Revilers, Extortioners, Fornicators, Swearers, possessed with Devils, Thieves, Idolaters, Witches, Sorcerers, Conjurers, Murderers, and the like; these are Sinners, and such Sinners, that God hath prepared Heaven, Happiness, Pardon of Sin, and an inheritance of God, with Christ, with Saints, with Angels, if they do come in and accept of Grace, as I prove at large; For God's Grace is so great, that if they do come to him, by Christ, presently all is forgiven them; therefore never object, that thy Sins are too great to be pardoned; but come taste and see how good the Lord is to any whosoever come unto him.

The second thing is, How are these brought into this everlasting Covenant of Grace?

2. Ans. When God doth in deed and in truth bring in a Sinner into this most blessed Covenant (for so it is) he usually goeth this way.

First, He slays or kills the Party to all things besides himself, and his Son Jesus Christ, and the Comforts of the Spirit.

For the clearing of this, I shall shew you, First, With what God kills: Secondly, How God kills: And, Thirdly, To what God kills those whom he makes alive in Jesus Christ.

For the first, When God brings Sinners into the Covenant of Grace, he doth first kill them with the Covenant of Works, which is the Moral Law, or ten Commandments. This is Paul's Doctrine, and also Paul's Experience. It is his Doctrine where he saith, The Ministration of Death engraven in stones, the Ministration of Condemnation (which is the Law, in that place called the Letter) kills, 2 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8, 9. The Letter (saith he) killeth, or the Law, or the Ministration of Death, which in another place is called a Sound of Words, Heb. 12. 19. because they have no Life in them, but rather Death and Damnation, through our Inability to fulfil them (Rom. 8. 3.) doth kill, 2 Cor. 6.

Secondly, It is his Experience, where he saith, I was alive once (that is, to my own Things, Phil. 3. 7, 8, 9, 10.) without the Law (that is before God did strike him dead by it) but when the commandment came (that is, to do and exercise its right Office on me, which was to kill me, then) Sin revived and I died, (and I was killed,) and the Commandment (or the Law) which was ordained to be unto Life, I found to be unto Death: For Sin taking Occasion by the Commandment, deceived me, and thereby slew me, Rom. 7. 9, 10, 11. And indeed to speak my own experience, together with the experience of all the Saints, they can seal with me to this, more or less.

Quest. But how doth God kill with this Law or Covenant?

Ans. First, by opening to the Soul the Spirituality of it; The Law is Spiritual (saith he) but I am carnal, sold under Sin, Rom. 7. 14. Now the Spirituality of the Law is discovered this way.

First, by shewing to the Soul, that every sinful Thought is a Sin against it. Ay, Sinner, when the Law doth come home indeed upon thy Soul in the Spirituality of it, it will discover such Things to thee to be Sins, that now thou lookest over, and regardest not; that is a remarkable saying of Paul, when he saith, Sin revived and I died; Sin revived, saith he, as if he had said, those Things that before I did not value nor regard, but looked upon them to be trifles, to be dead, and forgotten; but when the Law, was fastned on my Soul, it did so raise them from the Dead, call them to mind, so muster them before my Face, and put such Strength into them, that I was over mastered by them, by the Guilt of them. Sin revived, by the Commandment, or my Sins had mighty Strength, Life, and Abundance of Force upon me, because of that; inasomuch, that it killed me, Mat. 5. 28.

Secondly, It sheweth that every such Sin deserveth eternal Damnation. (Friends, I doubt there be but few of you that have seen the Spirituality of the Law of Works) but this is one Thing in which it discovereth its Spirituality, and this is the proper Work of the Law.

Thirdly, God with a discovery of this, doth also discover his own Divine and Infinite Justice, (of which the Law is a Description) which backs what is discovered

ed by the Law; and that by discovering of its Purity and Holiness, to be so divine, so pure, so upright, and so far off from winking at the least Sin, that he doth by that Law, without any Favour, condemn the Sinner for it, Gal. 3. 10. Now when he hath brought the Soul into this Præmunire, into this Puzzle; Then,

2. He sheweth to the Soul the Nature and Condition of the Law, as to its dealing with, or forbearing of the Sinner, that hath sinned against it: which is to pass an eternal Curse upon both Soul and Body of the party so offending, saying to him, Cursed be the Man, that continueth not in every Thing that is written in the Book of the Law to do it: For, saith the Law, this is my proper Work, First, to shew thee thy Sins, and when I have done that, then in the next Place to condemn thee for them, or any Thing within my bounds; for I am not to save any, to pardon any, nay, not to favour any in the least Thing that have sinned against me: For God did not send me to make alive, but to discover Sin, and to condemn for the same. Now so soon as this is presented to the Conscience, in the next Place, the Law also by this Law doth shew that now there is no righteous act according to the Tenor of that Covenant that can relieve him, or take him off from all this horror and curse that lies upon him; because that is not a Ministration of pardon (as I said before) to forgive the Sin; but an Administration of Damnation, because of Transgression. O the very discovery of this, striketh the Soul into a deadly swoon, even above half Dead. But when God doth do the Work indeed, he doth in the next Place shew the Soul that he is the Man that is eternally under this Covenant by Nature, and that it is he that hath sinned against this Law, and doth by right deserve the Curse and Displeasure of the same; and that all that ever he can do, will not give Satisfaction to that glorious Justice that did give this Law; holy Actions, tears of Blood, selling all, and giving it to the Poor, or whatever else can be done by thee, it comes all short, and is all to no purpose, Phil. 3. I'll warrant him, he that seeth this, it will kill him to that which he was alive unto before, though he had a thousand lives. Ah! Sinners, Sinners, were you but sensible indeed of the Severity and Truth of this, it would make you look about you to purpose. O how would it make you strive to stop at that, that now you would drink with delight? How many Oaths would it make you bite asunder? Nay, it would make you bite your Tongues, to think that they should be used as Instruments of the Devil, to bring your Souls into such an unspeakable Misery; then also, we should not have you hang the Salvation of your Souls upon such slender pins as now you do: no, no, but you would be in another mind then. O then we should have you cry out, I must have Christ, what shall I do for Christ? how shall I come at Christ? would I was sure, truly sure of Christ, my Soul is gone, damned, cast away, and must for ever burn with the Devils, if I do not get precious Jesus Christ.

In the next Place, when God hath done this, then he further shews the Soul, that Covenant which it is under by Nature, is distinct from the Covenant of Grace; and also they that are under it, are by Nature without any of the Graces, which they have that are under the Covenant of Grace: As First, that it hath no Faith, John 16. 9. Secondly, No Hope, Eph. 2. 12. Thirdly, Nor none of the Spirit to Work these Things. Fourthly, Neither will that Covenant give to them any peace with God. Fifthly, No Promise of Safeguard from his revenging Law, by that Covenant. Sixthly, But lieth by Nature liable to all the Curses, and Condemnings, and Thunder-claps of his most fiery Covenant. Seventhly, That it will accept of no Sorrow, no Repentance, no Satisfaction, as from thee. Eighthly, That it calls for no less than the shedding of thy Blood. Ninthly, The Damnation of thy Soul and Body. Tenthly, And if there be any Thing proffered to it by thee, as to making of it amends, it throws it back again as dirt in thy Face, flighting all that thou canst bring.

Now when the Soul is brought into this Condition, then it is indeed Dead; killed to that, to which it was once alive.

And therefore in the next Place, to shew you to what it is killed; and that is first, to Sin: O it dares not Sin! it sees Hell-fire is prepared for them that Sin: God's Justice will not spare it if it live in Sin; the Law will damn it, if it live in Sin; the Devil will have it, if it follow its Sins: O, I say, it trembles at the very Thoughts of Sin; Ay, if Sin do but offer to tempt the Soul, to draw away the Soul from God, it cries, it sighs, it shunneth the very appearance of Sin, it is odious unto it. If God would but serve you thus that love your pleasures, you would not make such a trifle of Sin, as you do.

Secondly, It is killed to the Law of God, as it is the Covenant of Works: Oh, saith the Soul, the Law hath killed me to its self, I through the Law am Dead to the Law (Gal. 2. 19.) The Law is another Thing than I did think it was! I thought it would not have been so Soul-destroying, so damning a Law! I thought it would not have been so severe against me for my little Sins, for my playing, for my jesting, for my dissembling, quarrelling, and the like! I had some Thoughts indeed, that it would hew great Sinners, but let me pass! and though it condemned great Sinners, yet it would would pass me by! But now, would I were free from this Covenant! would I were free from this Law! I will tell thee, That a Soul thus worked upon, is more afraid of the Covenant of Works, than he is of the Devil; for he sees it is the Law that doth give him up into his hands for Sin; and if he was but clear from that, he should not greatly need to fear the Devil. Oh! now every particular command tears the caul of his Heart! now every command is a great Gun well charged against his Soul! now he sees he had as good run into a Fire, to keep himself from burning, as to run to the Law, to keep himself from damning; and this he sees really, ay, and feels it too, to his own Sorrow and Perplexity.

Thirdly, The Soul also now is killed to his own Righteousness, and counts that but Dung, but Dross, not worth the Dirt hanging on his Shoes. Oh! then says he, thou filthy Righteousness! (Isa. 64. 6.) how hast thou deceived me? how hast thou beguiled my poor Soul? How did I deceive my self with giving of a little Alms? with abstaining from some gross Pollutions? with walking in some Ordinances, as to the out-side of them? How hath my good Words, good Thinkings, good Meanings (as the World calls them) deceived my ignorant Soul? I want the Righteousness of Faith, the Righteousness of God; for I see now there is no less will do me any good.

Fourthly, It is also killed to its own Faith, its Notion of the Gospel, its own hope, its own repentings, its own Promises and Resolutions, to its own Strength, its own Virtue, or whatsoever it had before: now saith the Soul, That Faith I thought I had, it is but Fancy; that Hope I thought I had, I see it is but hypocritical, but vain and groundless Hope: now the Soul sees it hath by Nature no saving Faith, no saving Hope, no Grace at all by Nature, by the first Covenant. Now it crieth out, How many Promises have I broken? and how many times have I resolved in vain, when I was sick at such a Time, and in such a Streight, at such a Place? Indeed I thought my self a wise Man once, but I see my self a very Fool now: O how ignorant am I of the Gospel now? and of the blessed Experience of the Work of God on a Christian's Heart? In a Word, it sees it self beset by Nature with all evil, and destitute of all good, which is enough to kill the stoutest, hardest-hearted Sinner that ever lived on the Earth. O Friends! should you be plainly dealt withal, by this discovery of the dealing of God with a Sinner, when he makes him a Saint, and would seriously try your selves thereby (as God will try you one Day) how few would there be found of you, to be so much as acquainted with the Work of God in the Notion, much less in the experimental Knowledge of the same? and indeed God is fain to take this Way with Sinners, thus to kill them, with the old Covenant, to all Things below a crucified Christ.

* First, Because otherwise there would be none in the World that would look after this sweet Jesus Christ. There is but a few that go to Heaven in all (comparatively) and those few, God is fain to deal with them in this manner, or else his Heaven, his Christ, his Glory, and everlasting Happiness must abide by themselves for all Sinners. Do you think that Manasseh would have regarded the Lord, had he not suffered his enemies to have prevailed against him? 2 Chron. 33. from the 1st verse to the 16th, Jer. 31. 18. Do you think that Ephraim would have looked after Salvation, had not God first confounded him with the Guilt of the Sins of his Youth? what do you think of Paul, Acts 9. 4, 5, 6. What do you think of the Jailor? Acts 16. 30, 31, 32. What do you think of the three Thousand? Acts 2. 36, 37. Was not this the Way that the Lord was fain to take to make them close in with Jesus Christ? Was he not fain to kill them to every Thing below a Christ, they that were driven to their wits ends? insomuch that they were forced to cry out, What shall we do to be saved? I say, God might keep Heaven and Happiness to himself, if he should not go this Way to Work with Sinners. O stout-hearted Rebel! O tender-hearted God!

Secondly, Because then, and not 'till then, will Sinners accept of Jesus Christ on God's Terms. So long as Sinners can make a Life out of any Thing below Christ, so long they will close with Christ with indenting; but when the God of Heaven hath killed them to every Thing below himself, and his Son; then Christ will down on any Terms in the World. And, indeed, this is the very Reason why Sinners, when they hear of Christ, yet will not close in with him, there is something that they can take content in besides him. The Prodigal so long as he could content himself with the Husks that the Swine did eat, so long he did keep away from his Father's House; but when he could get no Nourishment any where on this side of his Father's House, then saith he, and not 'till then, I will arise, and go to my Father &c.

I say, This is the Reason therefore why Men come no faster, and close no more really with the Son of God, but stand halting and indenting about the Terms they must have Christ upon; For, saith the Drunkard, I look on Christ to be worth the having; but yet I am not willing to lose ALL for him; all but my Pot, saith the Drunkard; and all but the World, saith the Covetous; I will part with any Thing but Lust and Pride, saith the Wanton; but if Christ will not be had without, I forsake all, cast away away all; then it must be with me as it was with the young Man in the Gospel, such news will make me sorry at my very Heart.

But now when a Man is soundly killed to all his Sins, to all his Righteousness, to all his Comforts whatsoever, and sees that there is no Way but the Devil must have him, but he must be damned in Hell, if he be not cloathed with Jesus Christ; O! then (saith he) give me Christ on any terms, whatsoever he cost; though he cost me Friends, though he cost me Comforts, though he cost me all that ever I have; yet like the wise Merchant in the Gospel, they will sell all to get that Pearl. I tell you, when a Soul is brought to see its want of Christ aright, it will not be kept back; Father, Mother, Husband, Wife, Lands, Livings, nay Life and all shall go, rather than the Soul will miss of Christ. Ay, and the Soul counteth Christ a cheap Saviour, if it can get him upon any terms, now the Soul indents no longer. Now, Lord, give me Christ, upon any terms whatsoever he cost; for I am a dead Man, a damned Man, a cast-away, if I have not Christ. What say you, O you wounded Sinners? Is not this true as I have said? would you not give ten thousand Worlds if you had so many, so be you might be well assured, that your Sins shall be pardoned, and your Souls and Bodies justified and glorified, at the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ?

Thirdly, The Lord goeth this Way for this Reason also, that it might make the Soul sensible what it cost Christ to redeem it from Death and Hell. When a Man cometh to feel the Sting and Guilt of Sin, Death and Hell upon his Conscience, then, and not till then, can he tell what it cost Christ to redeem Sinners. O! saith the Soul, if a few Sins are so terrible, and lay the Soul under such Wrath and Torment, what did Christ undergo, who bare the Sins of Thousands, and Thousands, and all at once.

This also is one means to make Souls tender of Sin (it is the burned child that dreadeth the Fire) to make them humble in a sense of their own Vileness, to make them count every Thing that God giveth them a mercy, to make much of the least glimpse of the Love of God, and to prize it above the whole World. O Sinners, were you killed indeed, then Heaven would be Heaven, and Hell would be Hell indeed; but because you are not wrought upon in this manner, therefore you count the Ways of God, as bad as a good Man counteth the Ways of the Devil, and the Ways of the Devil and Hell as good as a Saint doth count the Ways of God.

Fourthly, Again, God is fain to go this Way, and all to make Sinners make sure of Heaven. So long as Souls are senseless of Sin, and what a damnable State they are in by Nature, so long they will even dally with the Kingdom of Heaven, and the Salvation of their own poor Souls: but when God cometh and sheweth them where they are, and what is like to become of them if they miss of the Crucified Saviour; Oh then, saith the Soul, would I were sure of Jesus; what shall I do to get assurance of Jesus? And thus is God forced, as I may say, to whip Souls to Jesus Christ, they being so secure, so senseless, and so much their own enemies, as not to look out after their own eternal advantage.

Fifthly, A fifth reason why God doth deal thus with Sinners, it is because he would bring Christ and the Soul together in a right Way. Christ and Sinners would never come together in a beloved posture, they would not so suitably suit each other, if they were not brought together this way, the Sinner being killed.

O when the Sinner is killed, and indeed struck dead to every thing below a naked Jesus, how suitably then doth the Soul and Christ suit one with another. Then here is a naked Sinner for a Righteous Jesus, a Poor Sinner to a rich Jesus, a weak Sinner to a strong Jesus, a blind Sinner to a seeing Jesus, an ignorant, careless Sinner, to a wise and careful Jesus. O how wise is God in dealing thus with the Sinner? he strips him of his own knowledge, that he may fill him with Christ's; he killeth him for taking pleasure in Sin, that he may take pleasure in Jesus Christ, &c.

But Sixthly, God goeth this Way with Sinners, because he would have the Glory of their Salvation. Should not Men and Women be killed to their own Things, they would do Sacrifice unto them, and instead of saying to the Lamb, THOU ART WORTHY, Rev. 5. 9. Job 40. 14. Rom. 3. 27. Ephes. 2. 8, 9. Tit. 3. 5. they would say their own Arm, their own Right-hand hath saved them: but God will cut off Boasting from ever entering within the Border of eternal Glory: for he is resolved to have the Glory of the Beginning, the Middle, and the End, of the Contriving and Saving, and giving Salvation to them that enter into the Joys of everlasting Glory. That they may be called the Trees of Righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he may be glorified. Isa. 61. 3. I might have run thorow many Things as to this: but I shall pass them, and proceed.

Now secondly, The Soul being thus killed to its self, its Sins, its Righteousness, Faith, Hope, Wisdom, Promises, and the rest of its Things which it trusted in by Nature; In the next Place it hath also given unto it a most glorious, perfect, and neverfading Life, which is first a Life imputed to it; yet so really, that the very Thought of it in the Soul hath so much Operation and Authority, especially when the Meditation of it is mixed with Faith, as to make it (tho' condemned by the Law) to triumph, and to look its Enemies in the Face with Comfort; notwithstanding the Greatness of the Multitude, the Fierceness of their Anger, and the Continuation of their Malice, be never so hot against it.

That Soul that hath the right Work of God upon its heart, is not only killed to its self, but also made alive to Christ.

This imputed Life (for so it is) the Obedience of the Son of God, as his Righteousness, in his suffering, rising, ascending, interceding, and so consequently triumphing over all the enemies of the Soul, and given to it, as being wrought on purpose for it. So that, is there Righteousness in Christ? that is mine: is there Perfection in that Righteousness? that is mine: did he Bleed for Sin? it was for mine: hath he overcome the Law, the Devil and Hell? the Victory is mine, and I am counted the Conqueror; Nay, more than a Conqueror, through him that hath loved me. And I do count this a most glorious Life; for by this means it is that I am in the first Place proclaimed both in Heaven and Earth guiltless, and such a one, who, as I am in Christ, am not a Sinner, and so not under the Law, to be condemned, but as Holy and Righteous as the Son of God himself, because he himself is my Holiness and Righteousness, and so likewise having by this all Things taken out of the Way that would condemn me.

Sometimes I bless the Lord my Soul hath had the Life that now I am speaking of, not only imputed to me, but the very Glory of it upon my Soul. For, upon a Time, when I was under many condemnings of Heart, and feared because of my Sins, my Soul would miss of eternal Glory; methought I felt in my Soul such a secret Motion as this. Thy Righteousness is in Heaven, together with the Splendour and Shining of the Spirit of Grace in my Soul, which gave me to see clearly, that my Righteousness by which I should be justified (from all that could condemn) was the Son of God himself in his own Person, now at the right-hand of his Father representing me compleat before the Mercy-seat in his own self: so that I saw clearly, that night and day, wherever I was, or whatever I was doing, still there was my Righteousness just before the Eyes of divine Glory; so that the Father could never find Fault with me for any Insufficiency that was in my Righteousness, being it was compleat; neither could he say, where is it? because it was continually at his right-hand.

Allo, at another Time having contracted Guilt upon my Soul, and having some Distemper of Body upon me, supposed that Death might now so seize upon, as to take me away from among Men: then thought I, what shall I do now? Is all right with my Soul? have I the right Work of God on my Soul? Answering myself, No surely, and that because there were so many Weaknesses in me; yea, so many Weaknesses in my best Duties: For, thought I, how can such a one as I find Mercy, whose Heart is so ready to evil, and so backward to that which is good (so far as it is natural). Thus musing, being filled with Fear to die, these Words came in upon my Soul, Being justified freely by his Grace, through the Redemption which is in Christ; as if God had said, Sinner, thou thinkest because thou hast had so many Infirmities and Weaknesses in thy Soul, whilst thou hast been professing of me, therefore now there is no hopes of Mercy; but be it known unto thee, that it was not any thing done by thee at the first, that moved me to have Mercy upon thee; neither is it any thing that is done by thee now, that shall make me either accept or reject thee; behold my Son who standeth by me, he is righteous, he hath fulfilled my Law, and given me good Satisfaction; on him therefore do I look, and on thee only as thou art in him, and according to what he hath done, so will I deal with thee: This having stayed my Heart, and taken off the Guilt through the Strength of its coming on my Soul, anon after came in that Word as a second Testimony: He hath saved us, and called us with a holy calling, not according to the Works of Righteousness which we have done, but according to his own Purpose and Grace which was given us in Christ Jesus before the World began.

And thus is the Sinner made alive from the dead, being justified by Grace through the Righteousness of Christ which is unto all, and upon all them that believe according to the Scriptures. And the Life that I now live, it is by the Faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me, Gal. 2. 20. I lay down my Life for my Sheep, John 10. 15. I am come that you might have it more abundantly. For if while we were Enemies, we were reconciled to God by the Death of his Son: much more then being reconciled, we shall be saved by his Life, Rom. 5. 10, 21. That as Sin reigneth unto Death, even so might Grace reign through Righteousness unto eternal Life by Jesus Christ our Lord.

Secondly, This Life is not only imputed to him that is wrought on by the Spirit of Grace, that is not only counted his; but also there is put into the Soul an Understanding, enlightened on purpose to know the Things of God, which is Christ and his imputed Righteousness (1 John 5. 20.) which it never thought of, nor understood before) (1 Cor. 2. 9, 10, 11.) which Understanding being enlightened, and made to see such Things that the Soul cannot be contented without it lay hold of, and apply Christ unto itself so effectually; I say, that the Soul shall be exceedingly revived in a very heavenly measure, with the Application of this imputed Righteousness; for thereby it knoweth it shall find God speaketh Peace to its self, self, with a fatherly Affection, and say, Be of good cheer, thy Sins are forgiven thee, the Righteousness of my Son I bestow upon thee: For what the Law could not do in that it was weak through the (thy) flesh, I have sent forth my only Son, and have condemned thy sins in his flesh, Rom. 8. 3, 4. And though thou hast gone astray like a lost Sheep, yet on him I have laid thine Iniquities; and tho' thou thereby didst undo and break thyself for ever, yet by his stripes I have healed thee. Thus I say, The Lord causeth the Soul by Faith to apply that which he doth by Grace impute unto it (for thus every Soul more or less is dealt withal) the Soul being thus enlightened, thus quickened, thus made alive from that dead state it was in before (or at least having the Beginnings of this Life) it hath these several vertuous Advantages, which they have not that are dead in their Sins and Trespases, and under the Law.

First, It seeth what a sad Condition all Men by Nature are in, they being in that state which itself was in but a while since; but now by Grace it is beginning to scrabble out of it; now it seeth the whole World lieth in Wickedness (1 John 5. 19.) and so liable to eternal Vengeance, because of their Wickedness. Ah! Friends, let me tell you, tho' you may be ignorant of your State and Condition, yet the poor groaning, hungering Saints of God do see what a sad, woful, miserable state you are in, which sometimes makes them tremble to think of your most lamentable latter End (you dying so) and also to fly* the faster to their Lord Jesus, for very Fear that they also should be Partakers of that most doleful Doom; and this it hath by virtue of its own Experience, knowing itself was but a while ago in the same Condition, under the same Condemnation. O! there is now a hearty Blessing of God that ever he should shew to it, its sad Condition, and that he should incline its Heart to seek after a better Condition. O blessed be the Lord! faith the Soul, that ever he should awaken me, stir up me, and bring me out of that sad Condition, that I once with them was in. It makes also the Soul to wonder, to see how foolishly and vainly the rest of its Neighbours do spend their precious Time, that they should be so void of Understanding, so forgetful of their latter End, so senseless of the damning Nature of their Sins: O that their Eyes were but enlighten'd to see whereabouts they are! surely they would be of another Mind than they are now. Now the Soul wonders to see what slender Pins those poor Creatures do hang the stress of the eternal salvation of their Souls upon. O! methinks faith the Soul, it makes me mourn to see that some should think that they were born Christians, and others that their Baptism makes them so, others depending barely upon a traditional, historical Faith, which will leave their Souls in the midst of Perplexity. O that they should trust to such Fables, Fancies, and wicked flights of the Devil, as their good Doings, their good Thinkings, their civil Walking, and living with the World. O miserable Profession! and the End thereof will be a miserable End.

But now, when the Soul is thus wrought upon, it must be sure to look for the very Gates of Hell to be set open against it, with all their Might and Force to destroy it. Now Hell rageth, the Devil roareth, and all the World resolveth to do the best they can, to bring the Soul again into Bondage and Ruin. Also the Soul shall not want Enemies, even in its own Heart's Lust, as Covetousness, Adultery, Blasphemy, Unbelief, Hardness of Heart, Coldness, Half-heartedness, Ignorance, with an innumerable Company of Attendants, hanging, like so many Blocks, at its Heels, ready to sink it into the Fire of Hell every Moment, together with strange Apprehensions of God, and Christ, as if now they were absolutely turned to be its Enemies, which maketh it doubt of the Certainty of its Salvation: For you must understand, that though a Soul may, in Reality have the Righteousness of the Son of God imputed to it, and also some Faith in a very strong Manner to lay hold upon it: yet at another Time, through Temptation they may fear and doubt again: inso-much that the Soul may be put into a very great Fear, lest it should return again into the Condition it once was in, Jer. 32. 40. O faith the Soul, when I think of my former State, how miserable it was, it makes me tremble; and when I think that I may fall into that Condition again, how sad are the Thoughts of it to me? I would not be in that Condition again for all the World: And this Fear riseth still higher and higher, as the Soul is sensible of Satan's Temptations, or of its working of its own Corruptions. Ha! these filthy Lusts, these filthy Corruptions, O that I was rid of them, that they were consumed in a Moment, that I could be quite rid of them they do so disturb my Soul, dishonour my God, so defile my Conscience, and sometimes so weaken my Hands in the Way of God, and my Comforts in the Lord; O how glad should I be, if I might be stripped of them, Rom. 7. 24. Which Fear puts the Soul upon flying to the Lord by Prayer, for the covering of his imputed Righteousness, and for Strength against the Devil's Temptations and its own Corruptions; that God would give down his holy Spirit to strengthen it against the Things that do so annoy its Soul, and so discourage it in its Way, with a Resolution through Grace, never to be contented, while it doth find in itself a triumphing over it, by Faith in the Blood of a crucified Jesus.

Secondly,

* Like as the Children of Israel who fled for fear, when the Ground opened its Mouth to swallow up Corah and his company, Pf. 103. 1, 2, 3.

Secondly, The Soul that hath been thus killed by the Law to its Things it formerly delighted in; now, O now it cannot be contented with that slender groundless Faith and Hope, that it once contented itself withal. No, no, but now it must be brought into the right saving Knowledge of Jesus Christ, now it must have him discovered to the Soul by the Spirit, now it cannot be satisfied, because such and such do tell it is so. No, but now it will cry out, *Lord shew me continually in the Light of thy Spirit through thy Word, that Jesus that was born in the Days of Cæsar Augustus (when Mary a Daughter of Judah went with Joseph to be taxed at Bethlehem) that he is the very Christ. Lord let me see it in the Light of thy Spirit, and in the Operation thereof, and let me not be contented without such a Faith that is so wrought even by the Discovery of his Birth, Crucifying, Death, Blood, Resurrection, Ascension, Intercession, and second (which is his personal) coming again, that the very Faith of it may fill my Soul with Comfort and Holiness: And O how afraid the Soul is, lest it should fall short of this Faith, and of the Hope that is begotten by such Discoveries as these are? For the Soul knoweth, that if it hath not this, it will not be able to stand neither in Death nor Judgment: and therefore faith the Soul, Lord, whatever other poor Souls content themselves withal, let me have that which will stand me in stead, and carry me through a dangerous World, that may help me to resist a cunning Devil, that may help me to suck true Soul satisfying Consolation from Jesus Christ through thy Promises by the Might and Power of thy Spirit. And now when the poor Soul at any Time hath any Discovery of the Love of God through a bleeding, dying, risen, interceding Jesus, because it is not willing to be deceived; O how * wary is it of closing with it, for fear it should not be right, for fear it should not come from God? Saith the Soul, Cannot the Devil give one such Comfort too? Cannot he transform himself thus into an Angel of Light? So that the Soul (because that it would be upon a sure Ground) cries out, Lord, shew me thy Salvation, and that not once or twice, but, Lord, let me have thy Presence continually upon my Heart, to Day and to morrow, and every Day: For the Soul, when it is rightly brought from under the Covenant of Works, and planted into the Covenant of Grace, cannot be (unless it be under some desperate Temptation) contented without the Presence of God, teaching, comforting, establishing, and helping of the Soul to grow in the Things of the Lord Jesus Christ: because it knoweth, that if God hath but withdrawn his Presence in any Way from it (as he doth do sometimes for a while) that then the Devil will be sure to be near at Hand, working with his Temptations,* trying all Ways to get the Soul into Slavery and Sin again; also the corrupt Principle, that will be joining and combining with the wicked one, and will be willing to be a Co-partner with him, to bring the Soul into Mischief, which puts a Soul upon an earnest continual Panting after more of the strengthening, preserving, comforting, and teaching Presence of God, and for strong Supplies of Faith, that it may effectually lay hold on him.

Thirdly, The Soul is quickened so, that it is not satisfied now without it do in Deed and in Truth partake of the Peace of God's Elect; now it is upon the Examination of the Reality of its Joy and Peace: Time was indeed that any Thing would serve its Turn, any false Conceits of its State to be good; but now all Kind of Peace will not serve its Turn, all Kind of Joy will not be accepted with it; now it must joy in God through Jesus Christ, now its Peace must come through the Virtue of the Blood of Christ, speaking Peace to the Conscience, by taking away both the Guilt and the Filth of Sin by that Blood, also by shewing the Soul its free Acceptance with God through Christ, he hath compleatly fulfilled all the Conditions of the first Covenant, and freely hath placed it into the Safety of what he hath done, and so presents the Soul compleat and spotless in the Sight of God through his Obedience. Now, I say, he hath Peace through the Blood of his Cross, and sees himself reconciled to God by the Death of his Son, Col. 1. 20, 21. or else his Comfort will be questioned by him. It is not every Promise as cometh now upon his Heart that will serve his Turn; no, but he must see whether the Babe Jesus be presented to the Soul, in and through that Promise; now if the Babe leap in his Womb, as I may so say, it is because the Lord's Promise sounds aloud in his Heart, coming to him big with the Love and pardoning Grace of God in Jesus Christ; I say, this is the first and principal Joy that the Soul hath, that is quickened and brought into the Covenant of Grace.

Fourthly, Now the Man finds heavenly Sanctification wrought in his Soul, through the most precious Blood of the Man whose Name is Jesus Christ. Jesus, that he might sanctify the People with his own Blood, suffered without the Gate. Now the Soul finds a Change in the Understanding, in the Will, in the Mind, in the Affections, in the Judgment, and also in the Conscience; through the inward Man a Change, and through the outward Man a Change, from Head to Foot, as we use to say, For he that is in Christ, and so in this Covenant of Grace, is a new Creature, 2 Cor. 5. 17. or hath been twice made, made, and made again. O now the Soul is resolved for Heaven and Glory, now it crieth out,

Lord,

* But this may be its Temptation taking Place through the Timorousness of the Soul.

Lord, if there be a right Eye offensive to thee, pluck it out; or a right Foot cut it off; or a right Hand, take it from me; now the Soul doth begin to study how it may honour God, and bring Praise to him. Now the Soul is for a Preparation, for the second Coming of Christ, endeavouring to lay aside every Thing that may hinder: and for the closing in with those Things that may make it in a beloved Posture against that Day.

Fifthly, And all this is from a Gospel Spirit, and not from a legal natural Principle, for the Soul hath these Things as the Fruits and Effects of its being seperated unto the Covenant of Grace, and so now possessed with that Spirit that doth attend, yea, and dwell in them that are brought into the Covenant of Grace, from under the Old Covenant; I say, these Things do spring forth in the Soul, from another Root and Stock, than any of the Actings of other Men do; for the Soul that is thus wrought upon, is as well dead to the Law and the Righteousness thereof (as the first Covenant) as well as to its Sins.

Sixthly, Now the Soul begins to have some blessed Experience of the Things of God, even of the glorious Mysteries of the Gospel.

1. Now it knoweth the Meaning of those Words; My Flesh is Meat indeed, and my Blood is Drink indeed, John 6. 55. and that by Experience; for the Soul hath received Peace of Conscience through that Blood, by the effectual Application of it to the Soul. First, By feeling the Guilt of Sin die off from the Conscience, by the Operation thereof. Secondly, By feeling the Power thereof, to take away the Curse of the Law. Thirdly, By finding the very Strength of Hell to fail, when once the Blood of the Man Jesus Christ is received in Reality upon the Soul.

2. Now the Soul also knoweth by Experience, the Meaning of that Scripture that saith, Our old Man is crucified with him, that the Body of Sin might be destroyed, Rom. 6. 6. Now it sees that when the Man Jesus did hang on the Tree on Mount Calvary, that then the Body of its Sins was there hanged up, dead and buried with him, tho' it was then unborn, so as never to be laid to its Charge, either here or hereafter; and also, as never to carry it captive into perpetual Bondage, being itself overcome by him, even Christ the Head of that poor Creature. And indeed this is the Way for a Soul, both to live comfortably as touching the Guilt of Sin; and also, as touching the Power of the Faith of Sin; for the Soul that doth, or hath received this in Deed and in Truth, finds Strength against them both, by and through that Man that did for him and the rest of his fellow Sinners, so gloriously overcome it, and hath given the Victory unto them, so that now they are said to be Overcomers, nay, more than Conquerors through him, the one Man Jesus Christ, Rom. 8. 33, 34, 35, 36, 37.

3. Now the Soul hath received a Faith indeed, and a lively Hope indeed, such a one as now it can fetch Strength from the Fulness of Christ, and from the Merits of Christ.

4. Yea, now the Soul can look on itself with one Eye, and look upon Christ with another, and say, indeed it is true, I am an empty Soul, but Christ is a full Christ; I am a poor Sinner, but Christ is a rich Christ; I am a foolish Sinner, but Christ is a wise Christ; I am an unholy, ungodly, unsanctified Creature in myself, But Christ is made of God, unto me, Wisdom, Righteousness, Sanctification and Redemption, 1 Cor. 1. 30.

5. Now also that fiery Law, that it could not once endure, nor could not once delight in; I say, now it can delight in it after the inward Man, now this Law is its Delight, it would always be walking in it, and always be delighted in it, being offended with any Sin, or any Corruption, that would be any Ways an Hinderance to it, Rom. 7. 24, 25. And yet it will not endure that even that Law should offer to take the Work of its Salvation, out of Christ's Hand: no, if it once come to do that, then out of Doors it shall go, if it was as good again. For that Soul that hath the right Work of God indeed upon it, cries, not my Prayers, not my Tears, not my Works, not my Things, do they come from the Work of the Spirit of Christ itself within me; yet these shall not have the Glory of my Salvation: no, it is none but the Blood of Christ, the Death of Christ, of the Man Christ Jesus of Nazareth, the Carpenter's Son (as they called him) that must have the Crown and Glory of my Salvation. None but Christ, none but Christ; and thus the Soul labours to give Christ the Pre-eminence, Col. 1. 18.

Now before I go any further, I must needs speak a Word from my own Experience of the Things of Christ! and the rather because we have a Company of silly ones in this Day of Ignorance, that do either comfort themselves with a Notion without the Power, or else do both reject the Notion and the Power of this most glorious Gospel; therefore for the further Conviction of the Reader, I shall tell him (with David) something of what the Lord hath done for my Soul; and indeed a little of the Experience of the Things of Christ, is far more worth than all the World. It would be too tedious for me to tell thee (here) all from the first to the last, but something I shall tell thee, that thou mayest not think these Things are Fables.

Reader, When it pleased the Lord to begin to instruct my Soul, he found me one

* This Conviction seized on my soul one Sabbath day, when I was at play, being one of the first that I had; which when it came, tho' it scared me with its Terror yet thro' the Temptation of the Devil, immediately striking in therewith, I did rub it off again, and became as vile for some time as I was before, like a Wretch that I was.

one of the black Sinners of the World; he found me making a sport of Oaths, and also of Lies, and many a Soul-poisoning meal did I make out of divers Lusts, as drinking, dancing, playing, Pleasure with the wicked ones of the World. The Lord finding of me in this * Condition, did open the Glafs of his Law unto me, wherein he shewed me so clearly my Sins, both the Greatness of them, and also how abominable they were in his Sight, that I thought the very Clouds were charged with the Wrath of God, and ready to let fall the very Fire of his Jealousy upon me; yet for all this I was so wedded to my Sins, that, thought I with myself, I will have them, though I lose my Soul, (O wicked Wretch that I was) but God, the great, the rich, the infinite merciful God, did not take this Advantage of my Soul to cast me away, and say, Then take him Devil, seeing he cares for me no more: no, but he followed me still, and won upon my Heart, by giving of me some Understanding, not only into my miserable State, which I was very sensible of; but also that there might be Hopes of Mercy, also taking away that Love to Lust, and placing in the Room thereof a Love to Religion; and thus the Lord won over my Heart to some Desire after the Means, to hear the Word, and to grow a Stranger to my old Companions, and to accompany the People of God together with giving of me many sweet Encouragements from several Promises in the Scriptures: But after this, the Lord did wonderfully set my Sins upon my Conscience, those Sins especially that I had committed since the first Convictions; Temptations also followed me very hard, especially such Temptations as did tend to the making me question the very Way of Salvation, viz. Whether Jesus Christ was the Saviour or no; and whether I had best to venture my Soul upon his Blood for Salvation, or take some other Course. But being through Grace kept close with God (in some measure) in Prayer, and the rest of the Ordinances; I went about a Year and upwards, without any sound Evidence as from God to my Soul, touching the Salvation as comes by Jesus Christ. But, at the last, as I may say, when the set Time was come, the Lord (just before the Men called Quakers came into the Country) did set me down so blessedly in the Truth of the Doctrine of Jesus Christ, that it made me marvel, to see first, how Jesus Christ was born of a Virgin, walked in the World a while with his Disciples, afterwards hanged on the Cross, spilt his Blood, was buried, rose again, ascended above the Clouds and Heavens, there lives to make Intercession; and that he also will come again at the last Day to judge the World, and take his Saints unto himself.

These Things, I say, I did see so evidently, even as if I had stood by when he was in the World, and also when he was caught up. I having such a Change as this upon my Soul, it made me wonder; and musing with myself at the great Alteration that was in my Spirit; for the Lord did also very gloriously give me in his precious Word to back the Discovery of the Son of God unto me, so that I can say, through Grace it was according to the Scriptures, (1 Cor. 15. 1, 2, 3, 4.) and as I was musing with myself what these Things should mean, methought I heard such a Word in my Heart as this? I have set thee down on purpose, for I have something more than ordinary for thee to do: which made me the more marvel; saying, What, my Lord, such a poor Wretch as I? yet still this continued, I have set thee down on purpose, and so forth, with more fresh Incomes of the Lord Jesus, and the Power of the Blood of his Cross upon my Soul, even so evidently, that I saw (through Grace) that it was the Blood shed on Mount Calvary, that did save and redeem Sinners, as clearly and as really with the Eyes of my Soul as ever (me thoughts) I had seen a Penny Loaf bought with a Penny; which Things then discovered, had such Operation upon my Soul, that I do hope, they did sweetly season every Faculty thereof. Reader, I speak in the Presence of God, and he knows I lye not: much of this, and such like Dealings of his could I tell thee of; but my Business at this Time is not so to do, but only to tell what Operation the Blood of Christ hath had over and upon my Conscience, and that at several Times, and also when I have been in several Frames of Spirit.

As first, sometimes I have been so loaden with my Sins, that I could not tell where to rest, nor what to do; yea, at such times I thought it would have taken away my Senses: yet at that Time, God thro' Grace hath all of a sudden so effectually applied the Blood that was spilt at Mount Calvary, out of the Side of Jesus, unto my poor wounded guilty Conscience, that presently I have found such a sweet, solid, sober, heart comforting Peace, that it hath made me as if it had not been, and withal the same (I may say, and I ought to say, the Power of it) hath had such a powerful Operation upon my Soul, that I have for a Time been in a Strait and Trouble, to think that I should love and honour him no more, the Vertue of his Blood hath so constrained me.

Again, sometimes methinks my Sins have appeared so big to me, that I thought one of my Sins have been as big as all the Sins of all the Men in the Nation: ay, and of other Nations too. (Reader, these Things be not Fancies, for I have smarted for this Experience) but yet the least Stream of the Heart Blood of this Man Jesus, hath vanished all away, and hath made it to fly, to the Astonishment of such a poor Sinner; and, as I said before, hath delivered me up into into sweet and heavenly Peace and Joy in the Holy Ghost.

Again, sometimes when my Heart hath been hard, dead, slothful, blind and senseless (which indeed are sad frames for a poor Christian to be in) yet at such a Time when I have been in such a case, then hath the Blood of Christ, the precious Blood of Christ, the admirable Blood of the God of Heaven, that run out of his Body when it did hang on the Cross, so softened, livened, quickned, and inlightened my Soul, that truly (Reader) I can say, O it makes me wonder!

Again, when I have been loaden with Sin, and pestered with several Temptations, and in a very sad manner, then have I had the Trial of the Virtue of Christ's Blood, with the Trial of the Virtue of other Things: And I have found that when Tears would not do, Prayers would not do, Repentings, and all other Things could not reach my Heart: O then one touch, one drop, one shining of the Virtue of the Blood, of that Blood that was let out with a Spear; it hath in a very Blessed manner delivered me, that it hath made me to marvel. O! methinks it hath come with such Life, such Power, with such irresistible and marvellous Glory, that it wipes off all the furs, silences all the out-cries, and quenches all the fiery Darts, and all the Flames of Hell Fire, that are begotten by the charges of the Law, Satan, and doubtful Remembrances of my sinful Life.

Friends, as Peter saith to the Church, so I say to you, I have not preached to you cunningly devised Fables, in telling you of the Blood of Christ, and what Authority it hath had upon my Conscience: O no, but as Peter saith touching the coming of the Lord Jesus into the World; so in some measure I can say of the Blood of the Lord Jesus Christ, that was shed when he did come into the World. There is not only my single testimony touching this; no, but there are all the Prophets do agree, in advancing this in writing, and also all the Saints do now declare the same, in speaking forth the Amiability, and many powerful Vertues thereof. As for thee, by the Blood of thy Covenant (saith God to Christ) I have sent forth thy Prisoners out of the Pit, wherein was no Water, Zech. 9. 11. We have Redemption through his Blood, Ephes. 1. 7. Again, Col. 1. 14. We have Redemption through his Blood. Our Robes are washed, and made white in the Blood of the Lamb, Rev. 7. 14. The Devil is overcome through the Blood of the Lamb, Rev. 12. 11. Yea, and Conscience is purged too, and that through the Blood of the Lamb, Heb. 9. 14. We have free recourse to the Throne of Grace through the Blood of Jesus, Heb. 10. 19. I could bring thee a cloud of Witnesses out of all the Types and Shadows, and out of the sundry Prophets, and much more out of the New Testament, but I forbear, because I would not be too tedious to the Reader, in making too large a Digression, though I have committed here in this Discourse, no Transgression, for the Blood of Christ is precious Blood, 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19.

In the next Place I shall shew you the several Privileges and Advantages the Man or Woman hath, that is under this Covenant of Grace, over what they have that are under the Covenant of the Law and Works.

As first, the Covenant of Grace is not grounded upon our Obedience, but upon God's Love, even his pardoning Love to us through Christ Jesus. The first Covenant it stood to be broken or kept by us, and God's Love or Anger, to be lost, or enjoyed hereafter, as we, as Creatures, behaved our selves: but now the very Ground of the Covenant of Grace is God's Love, 'tis meer Love through Jesus Christ, Deut. 7. 8, 9. The Lord did not set his Love upon you, nor chuse you; because you were more in number than other People; for you were the fewest of all People: but because the Lord loves you, and because he will keep the Oath which he swore to your Fathers. Again, Isa. 63. 9. In his Love and in his Pity he redeemed them, and the Angel of his presence saved them, that is, Jesus Christ. And again, 2 Tim. 1. 9. Who has saved us.----- Not according to the Works of Righteousness which we have done; but according to his own Purpose and Grace, which was given to us in Christ Jesus, before the World began.

Secondly, This Love is not conveyed to us through what we have done (as is before proved) but through what he hath done with whom the Covenant was made, which was given us in Christ. According as he hath chosen us in Christ. Who hath blessed us with all spiritual Blessings in heavenly Places in Christ. God for Christ's sake hath loved you (2 Tim. 1. 9. Eph. 1. 3, 4. Eph. 4. 32.) That is, through Christ's doings, through Christ's Sufferings. Now if this be but rightly understood, it doth discover Abundance of Comfort to them that are within the Bounds of the Covenant of Grace. For,

First, Here a Believer seeth he shall stand, if Christ's Doings and Sufferings stand (which is a sure Foundation) for God dealeth with him through Christ. And so secondly, He shall not fall, unless the Suffering and Merits of Christ be thrown over the Bar, being found guilty (which will never be) before the Eyes of divine Justice. For with him the Covenant was made, and he was the Surety of it, Zech. 9. 11. Heb. 7. 22. That is, as the Covenant was made with him, so he stood bound to fulfil the same. For you must understand that the Covenant was made between the Father and the Son long before it was accomplished, or manifestly sealed with Christ's Blood, it it was made before the World began, (Tit. 1. 2. Eph. 1. 4. 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19, 20.) But the Conditions thereof were not fulfilled, until less than Two Thousand Years ago; and all that while did Jesus stand bound as a Surety (as I said before) is used to do, till the Time in which the Payment should be made. And it was by virtue of his Suretyship (having bound himself by Covenant to do all things agreed on by the Father and him) that all those of the Election that were born before he came, that they might be saved, and did enter into rest. For the Forgiveness of Sins that were past though it was through the Blood of Christ, yet it was also through the Forbearance of God, Rom. 3. 25. That is, Christ becoming surety for those that died before his Coming, that he would in deed and in truth, at the Fulness of Time (or at the Time appointed, Gal. 4. 4.) give a compleat and full Satisfaction for them according to the Tenor or Condition of the Covenant.

Again, Secondly, The second Covenant, which Believers are under, as the Ground and Foundation, if it is safe, so the Promises thereof are better, surer, freer and fuller, &c.

First, They are better, if you compare the Excellency of the one with the Excellency of the other. The first hath promised nothing but an earthly Paradise. Do this and thou shalt live. Namely, here in an earthly Paradise. But the other doth bring the Promise of an heavenly Paradise.

Secondly, As the Covenant of Works doth promise an earthly Paradise; yet it is a Paradise or Blessing, though once obtained, yet might be lost again (for no longer than thou doest well, no longer art thou accepted by that.) O but the Promises of the New Covenant, do bring unto us the Benefit of eternal Inheritance, (Heb. 9. 15.) That they which are called might receive the Promise of eternal Inheritance. O rare! it is an eternal Inheritance.

Thirdly, The other, as it is not so good as this, so neither is it so sure as this; and therefore he calls the one, such a one as might be, and was shaken (Heb. 12. 27.) but this is said to be such a one that cannot be shaken. And this Word, saith he, treating of the two Covenants from verse the 18th to the 24th. And this Word, yet once more, signifies the removing of those things that are (or may be) shaken, as of things that are made, that those things that cannot be shaken (which is the second Covenant) may remain; for saith he, verse 28. which cannot be moved. Therefore ye blessed Saints, seeing you have received a Kingdom which cannot, which cannot be moved; (therefore) Let us have Grace whereby we may serve (our) God acceptably, with Reverence and godly Fear. Thus in general, but more particularly,

Vol. II

First, They are surer, in that they are founded upon God's Love also, and they come to us without calling for those things at our hands, that may be a Means of putting of a Stop to our certain enjoying of them. The Promises under, or of the Law, they might easily be stopped by our Disobedience: But the Promises under the Gospel say, If Heaven above can be measured, and the Foundation of the Earth searched out, then (and not till then) will I cast off all the seed of Israel for all that they have done. Again, I, even I am he that blotteth out thy Transgressions for my own Names sake, and will not remember thy Sins, Isa. 43. 25. I will make thee a Partaker of my Promise; and that I may so do, I will take away that which would hinder; I will cast all your sins into the depths of the sea, that my Promise may be sure to all the seed; and therefore saith the Apostle, when he would shew us that the New Covenant Promises were more sure than the Old; he tells us plainly, that the Law and Works are set aside, and they are merely made ours through the Righteousness of Faith, which is the Righteousness of Christ. For the Promise that Abraham should be Heir of the World (saith he) was not to him, or to his seed through the Law (or Works) but through the Righteousness of Faith. For if they which are of the Law (or of Works) be heirs, then faith is made void, and the Promise made of none effect. Therefore it is of Faith --- to the end the Promise might be sure to all the seed, Rom. 4. 13, 14, 16.

Secondly surer, because that as that is taken away that should hinder, so they are committed to a faithful Friend of ours in keeping: For all the promises of God are in Christ; not yea and nay, but yea and Amen; certain and sure; sure because they are in the Hand of our Head, our Friend, our Brother, our Husband, our Flesh and Bones, even in the Heart and Hand of our precious Jesus.

Thirdly, Because all the Conditions of them are already fulfilled for us by Jesus Christ, as afore said; every Promise that is a New Covenant Promise, if there be any Condition in it, our Undertaker hath accomplished that for us, and also giveth us such Grace as to receive the Sweetness as doth spring from them through his Obedience to every Thing required in them.

Fourthly, Surer, because that as they are grounded upon the Love of God; every thing taken out of the Way, in the Hand of a sure Friend: And as Christ hath fulfilled every Condition as to Justification that is contained therein; so the Lord hath solemnly sworn with an Oath for our better Confidence in this Particular, For when God made a Promise to Abraham (and so to all Saints) because he could swear by no greater, he swore by himself, saying; Surely, Blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply

tiplly thee: And so after he had patiently endured, he obtained the Promise. For Men verily swear by the greater, and an Oath for Confirmation is to them an End of all Strife (that there might be no more Doubt or Scruple concerning the certain Fulfilling of the Promise) wherein God willing more abundantly to shew unto the Heirs of Promise the Immutability of his Counsel, (or certain constant, unchangeable Decree of God in making of the Promise, for the Comfort of his Children) confirm'd it by an Oath, that by two immutable Things, his Promise (back'd with an Oath) wherein it is impossible for God to lye, we might have strong Consolation, who have fled for Refuge to lay hold upon the Hope set before us, Heb. 6. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18.

Fifthly, That they are better it appears also, in that they are freer and fuller; that they are freer, it is evident, in that the one faith, no Works, no Life: Do this, and then thou shalt live, if not, thou shalt be damned. But the other faith, we are saved by believing in what another hath done, without the Works of the Law; Now to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the Ungodly, his Faith is counted for Righteousness, Rom. 4. 4, 5. The one faith, pay me that thou owest; the other faith, I do frankly and freely forgive thee all. The one faith, because thou hast sinned thou shalt die; the other faith, because Christ lives thou shalt live also, John 15.

Secondly, And as they are freer, so they are fuller; fuller of Encouragement, fuller of Comfort, the one (to wit the Law) looks like Pharaoh's seven ill-favoured Kind, more ready to eat one up, than to afford us any Food. The other is like the full Grape in the Cluster, which for certain hath a glorious Blessing in it. The one faith, if thou hast sinned, turn again; the other faith, if thou hast sinned, thou shalt be damned, for all I have a Promise in me.

Thirdly, they that are of the second, are better than they that are of the first; and it also appeareth in this. The Promises of the Law, through them we have neither Faith, nor Hope, nor the Spirit conveyed: But through the Promises of the Gospel there is all these, 1 Pet. 1. 4. Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious Promises, that by these we might be Partakers of the divine Nature. O therefore let us hold fast the Profession of our Faith without wavering; for he is faithful that promised, Heb. 10. 23. In hope of eternal Life (how so) because God that cannot lye, promised it before the World began, Tit. 1. 2.

Fourthly, They that are in this Covenant are in a very happy State; for though there be several Conditions in the Gospel to be done, yet Christ Jesus doth not look that they should be done by Man, as Man, but by his own Spirit in them, as it is written, Thou hast wrought all our Works in us and for us. Is there that Condition, they must believe? Why then, he will be both the Author and Finisher of their Faith, Heb. 12. 2. 3. Is there also Hope to be in his Children, he also doth, and hath given them good Hope through his Grace, 2 Thes. 2. 26. Again, Are the People of God to behave themselves to the Glory of God the Father? Then he will work in them, both to will and to do of his own good Pleasure, Phil. 2. 13.

Fifthly, Again, As he works all our Works in us and for us, so also by Virtue of this Covenant, we have another Nature given unto us. Whereby, or by which we are made willing to be glorifying of God both in our Bodies, and in our Spirit, which are his, Thy People shall be willing in the Day of thy Power, 2 Cor. 6. 20. Psal. 110. 3.

Sixthly, In the next Place, all those that are under this second Covenant, are in a wonderful safe Condition: For in Case they should slip or fall, after their Conversion into some Sin or Sins, (For who lives and sins not, Prov. 24. 16.) yet through the Merits and Intercession of Christ Jesus, who is their Undertaker in this Covenant, they shall have their Sins pardoned, their Wounds healed, and they raised up again; which Privilege the Children of the first Covenant have not, for if they Sin, they are never afterwards regarded by that Covenant. They brake my Covenant, and I regarded them not, Heb. 8. 9. But when he comes to speak of the Covenant of Grace, speaking first of the publick Person under the Name of David, he saith thus, Psal. 89. from the 26. verse to the 37. He shall cry unto me, Thou art my Father, my God, and the Rock of my Salvation, also I will make him my first-born higher than the Kings of the Earth. My Mercy will I keep for him for ever, and my Covenant shall stand fast with him. His Seed also will I make to endure for evermore, and his Throne as the Days of Heaven. If his Children forsake my Law, and walk not in my Judgment: If they break my Statutes, and keep not my Commandments: then will I visit their Transgressions with the Rod, and their Iniquity with Stripes. Nevertheless my loving Kindness will I not break, nor alter the Thing that is gone out of my Lips. Once have I sworn by my Holiness, that I will not lie unto David. His Seed shall endure for ever, and his Throne as the Sun before me; it shall be established for ever, as the Moon, and as a faithful Witness in Heaven. My Covenant shall stand fast with him; mark that: As if God had said, I did not make this Covenant with Man, but with my Son, and with him I will perform it; and seeing he hath given me compleat Satisfaction, though his Children do, through Infirmary, transgress, yet my Covenant is not therefore broken, seeing he with whom it was made, standeth firm, according to the Desire Desire of my Heart; so that my Justice is satisfied, and my Law hath nothing to say; for there is no Want of Perfection in the Sacrifice of Christ.

If you love your Souls and would have them live in the Peace of God, to the which you are called in one Body, even all Believers; then, I beseech you, seriously to ponder and labour to settle your Souls in this one Thing, that the New Covenant is not broken by our Transgressions, and that because it was not made with us. The Reason why the very Saints of God have so many up's and down's in this their Travel towards Heaven; it is because they are so weak in the Faith of this one Thing; for they think that if they fail of this or that particular Performance, if their Hearts be dead and cold, and their Lufts mighty and strong; therefore now God is angry, and now he will shut them out of his Favour, now the New Covenant is broken, and now Christ Jesus will stand their Friend no longer; now also the Devil hath Power again, and now they must have their Part in the Resurrection of Damnation; when, alas! the Covenant is not for all this ever the more broken, and so the Grace of God no more straightened than it was before. Therefore, I say, when thou findest that thou art weak here, and failing there, backward to this Good, and thy Heart forward to that Evil; then besure thou keep a stedfast Eye on the Mediator of this New Covenant; and be persuaded, that it is not only made with him, and his Part also fulfilled, but that he doth look upon his fulfilling of it, so as not to lay thy Sins to thy Charge, though he may as a Father chastise thee for the same. If his Children forsake my Law, and walk not in my Judgments; if they break my Statutes, and keep not my Commandments; then will I visit their Transgressions with a Rod, and their Iniquities with Stripes. Nevertheless, mark, Nevertheless my loving Kindness will I not utterly take from him, nor suffer my Faithfulness to fail. My Covenant will I not break, nor alter the Thing that is gone out of my Mouth. And what was that? Why, That his Seed shall endure for ever, and his Throne as the Days of Heaven, Psal. 89. 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36.

Seventhly, Another Privilege that the Saints have, by Virtue of the New Covenant, is, That they have Part of the Possession or Hold of Heaven and Glory already; and that two Manner of Ways: First, The divine Nature is conveyed from Heaven into them. And Secondly, The human Nature (i. e.) the Nature of Man is received up, and entertained in, and hath got Possession of Heaven.

1. We have the First-fruits of the Spirit (saith the Man of God) we have the earnest of the Spirit which is instead of the whole. Which is the Earnest of our Inheritance, until the Redemption of the purchased Possession, unto the Praise of his Glory, Rom. 8. 8, 9, 10, 11. Eph. 1. 13, 14.

2. The Nature of Man: OUR Nature is got into Glory as the First-Fruits of Mankind, as a Forerunner to take Possession 'till we all come thither, 1 Cor. 15. 20. For the Man born at Bethlehem is ascended (which is Part of the Lump of Mankind) into Glory, as a publick Person, as the First-Fruits, representing the whole of the Children of God. So that in some Sense it may be said, that the Saints have already taken Possession of the Kingdom of Heaven by their Jesus, their publick Person; he being in their Room entered to prepare a Place for them, John 14. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5.

I beseech you consider, When Jesus Christ came down from Glory, it was that he might bring us to Glory: And that he might be sure not to fail, he cloathed himself with our Nature, as if one should take a Piece out of the whole Lump instead of the whole, Heb. 2. 14, 15. (until the other comes) and investeth in that Glory which he was in before he came down from Heaven: And thus is that Saying to be understood, speaking of Christ and his Saints, which saith, And (he) hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly Places in Christ Jesus, Eph. 2. 6.

Eighthly, Again, not only thus, but all the Power of God, (1 Pet. 1. 5.) together with the rest of his glorious Attributes, are on our Side, in that they dwell in our Nature, which is the Man Jesus, and doth engage for us, poor, simple, empty, nothing Creatures, as to our eternal Happiness. For in him (that is in the Man Christ, who is our Nature, our Head, our Root, our Flesh, our Bone) dwelleth all the Fulness of the God-head bodily, Col. 2. 9, 10. Mark how they are joined together, In whom dwelleth the Fulness of the God-head. And ye are compleat in him. God dwelleth compleatly in him, and you also are compleatly implanted in him, which is the Head of all Principality and Power, and all this by the Consent of the Father. For it hath pleased the Father, that in him should all Fullness dwell. Now mark, the God-head doth not dwell in Christ Jesus for himself only, but that it may be in a Way of Righteousness conveyed to us, for our Comfort and Help in our Wants. All Power is given unto me in Heaven and Earth, saith he, Mat. 28. 18. And then followeth, And lo I am with you alway, even unto the End of the World, Psal. 68. 18. 20. He hath received Gifts from Men, even for the rebellious, John 1. 16. Of his Fulness have we all received, and Grace for Grace, Col. 1. 9. And this the Saints cannot be deprived of, because the Covenant made with Christ, in every Tittle of it was so compleatly fulfilled as to Righteousness, both active and passive, that Justice cannot object any Thing, Thing, Holiness now can find Fault with nothing; nay, all the Power of God cannot shake any Thing that hath been done for us by the Mediator of the New Covenant; so that now there is no Covenant of Works to a Believer, none of the Commands, Accusations, Condemnations, or the least Tittle of the old Covenant to be charged on any of those that are the Children of the second Covenant, no Sin to be charged, because there is no Law to be pleaded, but all is made up by our middle Man Christ Jesus. O blessed Covenant! O blessed Privilege! Be wise therefore, O ye poor drooping Souls that are the Sons of this second Covenant. And stand fast in the Liberty wherewith CHRIST hath made you free, and be not again entangled (nor terrified in your Consciences) with the Yoke of Bondage; neither the Commands, Accusations, or Condemnations of the Law of the old Covenant, Gal. 5. 1. 2.

Object. If it be so, then one need not care what they do, they may sin and sin again, seeing Christ hath made Satisfaction.

Ans. If I was to point out one that was under the Power of the Devil, and going post-haste to Hell (for my Life) I would look no further for such a Man, than to him that would make such a Use as this of the Grace of God. What, because Christ is a Saviour, thou wilt be a Sinner! because his Grace abounds, therefore thou wilt abound in it. O wicked Wretch! Rake-hell all over, and surely I think thy Fellow will scarce be found! And let me tell thee this before I leave thee, as God's Covenant with Christ for his Children (which are of Faith) stands sure, immutable, unrevocable, and unchangeable; so also hath God taken such a Course with thee, that unless thou canst make God forswear himself, it is impossible that thou shouldest go to Heaven, dying in that Condition. They tempted me, proved me, and turned the Grace of God into Lasciviousness (Compare Heb. 3. 9, 10, 11. ver. with 1 Cor. 10 Chap. from the 5th verse to the 10th) so I swear, mark that, so I swear (and that in my Wrath too) that they should never enter into my Rest. No, saith God, if Christ will not serve their Turns, but they must have their Sins too, take them Devil; if Heaven will not satisfy them, take them Hell, devour them Hell, scald them, fry them, burn them Hell. God hath more places than one to put Sinners into; if they do not like of Heaven, he will fit them with Hell; if they do not like Christ, they shall be forced to have the Devil. Therefore we must and will tell of the Truth of the Nature of the Covenant of the Grace of God to his poor Saints, for their Encouragement and for their Comfort, who would be glad to leap at Christ upon any Terms: yet therewith we can tell how through Grace, to tell the Hogs and Sons of this World, what a Hogstye there is prepared for them, even such a one that God hath prepared to put the Devil and his Angels into, is fitly prepared for them, Matt. 25. 41.

Object. But if Christ hath given God a full and compleat Satisfaction, then, though I do go on in Sin, I need not fear, seeing God hath already been satisfied; it will be Injustice in God to punish for those Sins, for which he is already satisfied for by Christ.

Ans. Rebel, Rebel, there are some in Christ, and some out of him; they that are in him have their Sins forgiven, and they themselves made new Creatures, and have the Spirit of the Son, which is a holy, loving, self-denying Spirit. And they that are thus in Jesus Christ are so far off from delighting in Sin, that Sin is the greatest thing that troubleth them; and O how willingly would they be rid of the very Thoughts of it, Psal. 119. 113. It is the Grief of their Souls (when they are in a right Frame of Spirit) that they can live no more to the Honour and Glory of God, than they do; and in all their Prayer to God, the Breathings of their Souls is as much for sanctifying Grace as pardoning Grace, that they might live a holy Life; they would as willingly live holy here, as they would be happy in the World to come, Phil. 3. 6, 7, to 22. they would as willingly be cleansed from the Filth of Sin, as to have the Guilt of it taken away; they would as willingly glorify God here, as they would be glorified by him hereafter.

2. But there are some that are out of Christ, being under the Law; and as for all those, let them be civil or prophane, they are such as God accounts wicked; and I say, as for those, if all the Angels in Heaven can drag them before the Judgment seat of Christ, they shall be brought before it to answer for all their ungodly Deeds, Jude 15. and being condemned for them, if all the Fire in Hell will burn them, they shall be burned there (if they die in that Condition.) And therefore if you love your Souls, do not give way to such a wicked Spirit. Let no man deceive you with (such) vain Words (as to think, because Christ hath made Satisfaction to God for Sin, therefore you may live in your Sins. O no, God forbid that any should think so) for because of these things cometh the Wrath of God upon the Children of Disobedience, Ephes. 5. 6.

Thus have I (Reader) given thee a brief Discourse, touching the Covenant of Works, and the Covenant of Grace, also the Nature of the one, together with the Nature of the other. I have also in this Discourse, endeavoured to shew you the Condition of them that are under the Law, how sad it is, both from the Nature of the Covenant they are under, and also by the Carriage of God unto them by that Covenant. And now because I would bring all into as little a Compass as I can, I shall begin with the Use

Use and Application of the whole in as brief a way as I can, desiring the Lord to bless it to thee.

And first of all, Let us here begin to examine a little touching the Covenant you stand before God in, whether it be the Covenant of Works or the Covenant of Grace; and for the right doing of this, I shall lay down this Proposition; namely, That all Men naturally come into the World under the First of these, which is called the Old Covenant, or the Covenant of Works, which is the Law, And were all by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others; which they could not be, had they not been under the Law; for there are none that are under the other Covenant, that are still the Children of Wrath, but the Children of Faith, the Children of the Promise, the accepted Children, the Children not of the Bondman, but of the Free, Gal. 4. the 4 last verses.

Now here lieth the question, Which of these two Covenants art thou under, Soul?

Ans. I hope I am under the Covenant of Grace.

Quest. But what Ground hast thou to think that thou art under that blessed Covenant, and not rather under the Covenant of Works, that strict, that soul-damning Covenant?

Ans. What Ground? Why, I hope I am.

Quest. But what Ground hast thou for this thy Hope? For a Hope without a Ground, is like a Castle built in the Air, that will never be able to do thee any good, but will prove like unto that spoken of in the eighth of Job, Whose hope shall be cut off, and whose trust shall be (like) a spider's web. He shall lean upon his house but it shall not stand, he shall hold it fast (as thou wouldst thy Hope it's like) but it shall not endure, Job. 8. 13, 14, 15.

Ans. My Hope is grounded upon the Promises, what else should it be grounded upon?

Ans. Indeed, to build my Hope upon Christ Jesus, upon God in Christ, through the Promise, and to have this Hope rightly, by the shedding abroad of the Love of God in the Heart, it is a right-grounded hope, Rom. 5. 1, to 7.

Quest. But what Promises in the Scripture do you find your Hope built upon? And how do you know whether you do build your Hope upon the promises in the Gospel, the Promises of the New Covenant; and not rather on the Promises of the Old Covenant, for there are Promises in that as well as in the other?

Ans. I hope that if I do well I shall be accepted; because God hath said I shall, Gen. 4. 7.

Rep. O Soul, if thy Hope be grounded there, thy Hope is not grounded upon the Gospel Promises, or the New Covenant, but verily upon the Old; for these Words were spoken to Cain, a Son of the Old Covenant; and they themselves are the Tenor and Scope of that; for that runs thus, Do this, and thou shalt live. The Man that doth these Things shall live by them. If thou do well, thou shalt be accepted, Levit. 18. 5. Ez. 20. 11. Rom. 10. 5. Gal. 3. 12. Gen. 4. 7.

Rep. Why, truly, if a Man's doing well, and living well, and his striving to serve God as well as he can, will not help him to Christ, I do not know what will; I am sure sinning against God will not.

Quest. Did you never read that Scripture, which saith, Israel which followed after the Law of Righteousness, hath not attained to the Law of Righteousness? Rom. 9. 30, 31, 32.

Object. But doth not the Scripture say, Blessed are they that keep his Commandments, that they may have right to the Tree of Life? Rev. 22. 14.

Ans. There is first therefore to be enquired into, whether to keep his Commandments, be to strive to keep the Law, as it is a Covenant of Works; or whether it be meant of the great Commandments of the New Testament, which are cited, 1 John 3. 22, 23. And whatsoever we ask we receive of him, because we keep his Commandments, and do those Things that are pleasing in his sight. But what do you mean John? Do you mean the Covenant of the Law, or the Covenant of the Gospel? Why, This is his Commandment (saith he) that we should believe on the Name of his Son Jesus Christ, and to love one another (as the Fruits of this Faith) as he gave us Commandment. If it be the Old Covenant, as a Covenant of Works, then the Gospel is but a lost thing. If it were of Works, then no more of Grace; therefore it is not the Old Covenant as the Old Covenant.

Quest. But what do you mean by these Words, the Old Covenant as the Old Covenant? Explain your Meaning.

Ans. My Meaning is, that the Law is not to be looked upon for Life, so as it was handed out from Mount Sinai; if ever thou wouldst indeed be saved, though after thou hast Faith in Christ, thou mayest and must solace thyself in it, and take Pleasure therein, to express thy Love to him, who hath already saved thee by his own Blood, without thy Obedience to the Law, either from Sinai, or elsewhere.

Quest. Do you think that I do mean that my Righteousness will save me without Christ's? If so, you mistake me, for I think not so: but this I say, I will labour to do what I can, and what I cannot do, Christ will do for me.

Ans. Ah poor Soul, this is the wrong way too; for this is to make Christ but a piece of a Saviour; thou wilt be something, and Christ shall do the rest; thou wilt set thy own things in the first Place, and if thou wantest at last, then thou wilt borrow of Christ; thou thou art such a one that doest Christ the greatest Injury of all. First, in that thou doest undervalue his Merits, by preferring of thy own Works before his. And secondly, by mingling of his Works, thy dirty ragged Righteousness with his.

Quest. Why, would you have us do nothing? Would you have us make Christ such a Drudge as to do all, while we sit idling still?

Ans. Poor Soul, thou mistakest Jesus Christ, in saying thou makest him a Drudge, in letting him do all: I tell thee he counts it a great Glory to do all for thee, and it is a great Dishonour unto him, for thee so much as to think otherwise. And this the Saints of God that have experienced the Work of Grace upon their Souls do count it also the same, Rev. 5. 9. Saying, thou art worthy to take the Book, and to open the Seals thereof, ver. 12. Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, to receive Power and Riches, and Wisdom, and Strength, and Honour, and Glory, and Blessing: And why so? read again the 9th Ver. For thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy (own) Blood. See also Eph. 1. 6, 7. To the Praise of the Glory of his Grace: In whom we have Redemption through his Blood.

Rep. All this we confess that Jesus Christ died for us; but he that thinks to be saved by Christ, and liveth in his Sins, shall never be saved.

Ans. I grant that: But this I say again, a Man must not make his good Doings the lowest Round of the Ladder, by which he goeth to Heaven: that is, he that will and shall go to Heaven, must wholly and alone, without any of his own Things, venture his precious Soul upon Jesus Christ and his Merits.

Quest. What, and come to Christ as a Sinner?

Ans. Yea, with all thy Sins upon thee, even as filthy as ever thou canst.

Quest. But is not this the way to make Christ to loath us? You know when Children fall down in the Dirt, they do usually before they go home make their Cloaths as clean as they can, for fear their Parents should chide them, and so I think should we.

Ans. This comparison is wrongly applied, if you bring it to shew us how we must do when we come to Christ. He that can make himself clean, hath no need of Christ; for the whole, the clean and righteous have no need of Christ; but those that are foul and sick. Physicians, you know, if they love to be honoured, they will not bid the Patients first make themselves whole, and then come to them; no, but bid them come with their Sores all running on them, as the Woman with her bloody Issue, Mark 5. and as Mary Magdalen with her Belly full of Devils, and the Lepers all scabbed, and that is the right coming to Jesus Christ.

Reply. Well I hope that Christ will save me: for his Promises and Mercy are very large, and as long as he hath promised to give us Life, I fear my State the less.

Ans. It is very true, Christ's Promises are very large, blessed be the Lord for ever, and also so is his Mercy; but notwithstanding all that, there are many go in at the broad Gate; and therefore I say your Business is seriously to enquire whether you are under the first or second Covenant; for unless you are under the second, you will never be regarded of the Lord, forasmuch as you are a Sinner, Heb. 8. 9. And the rather, because if God should be so good to you as to give you a Share in the second, you shall have all your Sins pardoned, and for certain have eternal Life, tho' you have been a great Sinner.

But do not expect that thou shalt have any part or share in the large Promises and Mercy of God, for the Benefit and Comfort of thy poor Soul, whilst thou art under the Old Covenant; because, so long thou art out of Christ, through whom God conveyed his Mercy, Grace, and Love to Sinners. For all the Promises of God in him are yea, and in him, Amen. Indeed his Mercy, Grace and Love is very great, but it's treasured up in him, given forth in him, through him. But God who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us --- that he might shew the exceeding Riches of his Grace: But which way? In his Kindness towards us through Christ Jesus.

But out of Christ thou shalt find God, a just God, a sin-revenging God, a God that will by no Means spare the Guilty; and be sure, that every one that is found out of Jesus Christ, will be found guilty in the Judgment Day, upon whom the Wrath of God shall smoke to their eternal Ruine.

Now therefore consider of it, and take the Counsel of the Apostle in 2 Cor. 13. 5.

Which is, to examine thyself whether thou art in the Faith, and to prove thy own self, whether thou hast received the Spirit of Christ into thy Soul, whether thou hast been converted, whether thou hast been born again, and made a new Creature, whether thou hast had thy Sins washed away in the Blood of Christ, whether thou hast been brought from under the Old Covenant into the New; and do not make a slight Examination, for thou hast a precious Soul, either to be saved or damned.

And that thou mayest not be deceived, consider that it is one Thing to be convinced, and another to be converted; one Thing to be wounded, and another to be killed; and so to be made alive by the Faith of Jesus Christ. When Men are killed, they are killed to all Things they lived to before, both Sin and Righteousness, as all their old Faith, and supposed Grace, that they thought they had. Indeed the Old Covenant

Covenant will shew thee that thou art a Sinner, and that a great one too; but the Old Covenant, the Law, will not shew thee without the Help of the Spirit, that thou art without all Grace by Nature: no, but in the Midst of thy Troubles thou wilt keep thyself from coming to Christ, by persuading thy Soul, that thou art come already, and hast some Grace already. O therefore be earnest in begging the Spirit, that thy Soul may be enlightened, and the Wickedness of thy Heart discovered, that thou mayest see the miserable State that thou art in, by Reason of Sin and Unbelief, which is the great condemning Sin: and so in a Sight and Sense of thy sad Condition (if God should deal with thee in Severity according to thy Deservings) do thou cry to God for Faith in a crucified Christ, that thou mayest have all thy Sins washed away in his Blood, and such a right Work of Grace wrought in thy Soul, that may stand in the Judgment-Day.

Again, Secondly, In the next Place, you know I told you that a Man might go a great Way in a Profession, and have many excellent Gifts, so as to do many wondrous Works, and yet be but under the Law; from hence you may learn, not to judge yourselves to be the Children of God, 1 Cor. 1. because you may have some Gifts of Knowledge or Understanding more than others: no, for thou mayest be the knowingest Man in all the Country, as to Head-Knowledge, and yet be but under the Law, and so consequently under the Curse, notwithstanding that.

Now seeing it is so, that Men may have all this and yet perish; then what will become of those that do no good at all, and have no Understanding, neither of their own Sadness, nor of Christ's Mercy? O sad! Read with Understanding, Isa. 27. 11. Therefore he that made them, will have no Mercy on them; and he that formed them, will shew them no Favour. See also 2 Thes. 1. 8, 9.

Now there is one Thing, which for Want of, most People do miscarry in a very sad Manner! and that is, because they are not able to distinguish between the Nature of the Law, and the Gospel. O People, People, your being blinded here, as to the Knowledge of this, is one great Cause of the ruining of many: As Paul saith, While Moses is read, or while the Law is discovered, the Veil is over their Hearts, 2 Cor. 3. 15. that is, the Veil of Ignorance is still upon their Hearts, so that they cannot discern neither the Nature of the Law, nor the Nature of the Gospel, they being so dark and blind in their Minds, as you may see, if you compare it with Chap. 4. 3, 4. And truly I am confident, that were you but well examin'd, I doubt many of you would be found so ignorant, that you would not be able to give a Word of right

Answer concerning either the Law, or the Gospel. Nay my Friends, set the Case one should ask you what Time you spend, what Pains you take, to the End you may understand the Nature and Difference of these two Covenants; would you not say (if you should speak the Truth) that you did not so much as regard whether there were two or more? Would you not say I did not think of Covenants, or study the Nature of them? I thought that if I had lived honestly, and did as well as I could, that God would accept of me, and have Mercy upon me, as he had on others. Ah Friends, this is the Cause of the Ruin of Thousands, for if they are blinded to this, both the right Use of the Law, and also of the Gospel, is hid from their Eyes; and so for certain they will be in Danger of perishing most miserably, (poor Souls that they are) unless God of his meer Mercy and Love, doth rend the Veil from off their Hearts; the Veil of Ignorance, for that is it which doth keep these poor Souls in this besotted and blindfolded Condition, in which if they die, they may be lamented for, but not helped; they may be pitied, but not preserved from the Stroke of God's everlasting Vengeance.

In the next Place, if you would indeed be delivered from the first into the second Covenant, I do admonish you to the observing of these following Particulars.

First, Have a Care that you do not content yourselves, though you do good Works (that is, which in themselves are good) in, and with a Legal Spirit, which are done these Ways as follow.

First, If you do any Thing commanded in Scripture, and in your doing of it, do think that God is well pleased therewith, because you, as you are religious Men do the same: upon this Mistake was Paul himself in danger of being destroyed; for he thought, because he was zealous, and one of the strictest Sects for Religion, therefore God would have been good unto him, and have accepted his Doing, as it is clear, for he counted them his Gain, Philippians 3. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.

Now this is done thus. When a Man doth think, that because he thinks he is more sincere, more liberal, with more difficulty, or to the Weakning of his Estate; I say, if a Man because of this, doth think that God accepteth his Labour, it is done from an old Covenant Spirit.

Again, Some Men they think, that they shall be heard, because they have Prayer in their Families, because they can pray long, and speak Expressions, or express themselves excellently in Prayer, that because they have great Enlargements in Prayer: I say that therefore to think that God doth delight in their Doings, and accept their Work, this is from a Legal Spirit.

Again, Some Men think, that because their Parents have been religious before them, and have been indeed the People of God, they think if they also do as to the outward Observing of that which they learned from their Fore-runners, that therefore God doth accept them: but this also is from a wrong Spirit; and yet how many are there in England at this Day, that think the better of themselves, meerly upon that Account, ay, and think the People of God ought to think so too; not understanding that it is ordinary, for an Eli to have an Hophni and a Phinehas both Sons of Belial. Also a good Samuel to have a perverse Offspring; likewise David an Absalom. I say their being ignorant of, or else negligent in regarding this, they do think that because they do spring from such and such, as the Jews in their Generations did, that therefore they have a Privilege with God more than others, when there is no such Thing, John 8. 33, 34, 35. Mat. 3. 7, 8, 9. but for certain, if the same Faith be not in them, which was in their Fore-runners, to lay hold of the Christ of God, in the same Spirit as they did, they must utterly perish, for all their high Conceits that they have of themselves.

Secondly, When People come into the Presence of God, without having their Eye upon the divine Majesty, through the Flesh and Blood of the Son of Mary, the Son of God, then also do they come before God, and do whatsoever they do from a Legal Spirit, an old Covenant Spirit. As for Instance, you have some People, it's true, they will go to Prayer (in Appearance very fervently) and will plead very hard with God, that he would grant them their Desires, pleading their Want, and the Abundance thereof; they will also plead with God his great Mercy, and also his free Promises; but yet they neglecting the afore-said Body, or Person of Christ, the righteous Lamb of God, to appear before him in. I say, in thus doing, they do not appear before the Lord, no otherwise than in an old Covenant Spirit; for they go to God only as a merciful Creator, and they themselves as his Creatures: not as he is their Father in the Son, and they his Children by Regeneration through the Lord Jesus. Ay, and though they may call God their Father in the Notion (not knowing what they say, only having learned such Things by Tradition) as the Pharisees did; yet Christ will have his Time to say to them, even to their Faces, as he did once to the Jews. Your Father (for all this your Profession) is the Devil, to their own Grief and everlasting Misery, John 8. 44.

The third Thing that is to be observed, if we would not be under the Law, or do Things in a Legal Spirit is this: to have a Care that we do none of the Works of the holy Law of God, for Life, or Acceptance with him; no, nor of the Gospel neither.

To do the Works of the Law, to the End we may be accepted of God, or that we may please him, and to have our Desires of him, is to do Things from a Legal or old Covenant Spirit, and that is expressly laid down, where it is said, To him that worketh, is the Reward not reckoned of Grace, but of Debt; that is, he appears before God through the Law, and his Obedience to it, (Rom. 4. 4, 5.) And again, though they be in themselves Gospel-Ordinances, as Baptism, breaking of Bread, Hearing, Praying, Meditating, or the like; yet, I say, if they be not done in a right Spirit, they are thereby used as a Hand by the Devil, to pull thee under the Covenant of Works, as in former Times he used Circumcision, which was no Part of the Covenant of Works, the Ten Commands, but a Seal of the Righteousness of Faith; yet, I say, they being done in a Legal Spirit, the Soul was thereby brought under the Covenant of Works, and so most miserably destroyed unawares to itself, and that because there was not a right Understanding of the Nature and Terms of the said Covenant. And so it is now, Souls being ignorant of the Nature of the Old Covenant, do even by their subjecting to several Gospel Ordinances, run themselves under the Old Covenant, and fly off from Christ, even when they think they are a coming closer to him: (O miserable!) If you would know when or how this was done, whether in one Particular or more, I shall shew you as followeth.

1. That Man doth bring himself under the Covenant of Works, by Gospel-Ordinances, when he cannot be persuaded that God will have Mercy upon him, except he do yield Obedience to such or such a particular Thing commanded in the Word: This is the very same Spirit that was in the false Brethren spoken of, Acts 15. Gal. the whole Epistle; whose Judgment was, that unless such and such Things were done, they could not be saved. As now-a-days we have also some that say, unless your Infants be baptized, they cannot be saved; and others say, unless you be rightly baptized, you have no Ground to be assured that you are Believers, or Members of Churches; which is so far off from being so good as a Legal Spirit, that it is the Spirit of Blasphemy; as is evident, because they do reckon that the Spirit, Righteousness, and Faith of Jesus, and the Confession thereof, is not sufficient to declare Men to be Members of the Lord Jesus; when on the other Side, tho' they be rank Hypocrites, yet if they do yield an outward Subjection to this or that, they are counted presently communicable Members, which doth clearly discover, that there is not so much Honour given to the putting on the Righteousness of the Son of God, as there is given to that which a Man may do, and yet go to Hell within an Hour after; nay in the very doing doing of it, doth shut himself for ever from Jesus Christ.

2. Men may do Things from a Legal or old Covenant Spirit, when they content themselves with their doing of such and such a Thing; as Prayers, Reading, Hearing, Baptism, Breaking of Bread, or the like; I say, when they can content themselves with the Thing done, and sit down at Ease and Content, because the Thing is done. As for Instance, some Men, they being persuaded that such and such a Thing is their Duty, and that unless they do it, God will not be pleased with them, nor suffer them to be Heirs of his Kingdom; they from this Spirit do rush into, and do the Thing, which being done, they are content, as being persuaded, that now they are without doubt in a happy Condition, because they have done such Things, like unto the Pharisee, who because he had done this and the other Thing, said therefore, in a bragging way, Lord, I thank thee that I am not as this Publican; for I have done thus and thus: when alas, the Lord gives him never a good Word for his Labour, but rather a Reproof.

3. That Man doth act from a Legal Spirit, who maketh the Strictness of his walking the Ground of his Assurance for eternal Life. Some Men, all the ground they have to believe that they should be saved, it is, because they walk not so loose as their Neighbours, they are not so bad as others are, and therefore they question not but that they shall do well; now this is a false ground, and a Thing that is verily Legal, and favours only of some slight and shallow Apprehensions of the Old Covenant: (I call them shallow Apprehensions,) because they are not right and sound, and are such as will do the Soul no good, but beguile it, in that the Knowledge of the Nature of this Covenant doth not appear to the Soul, only some commanding Power it hath on the Soul, which the Soul endeavouring to give up it self unto, it doth find some Peace and Content, and especially if it find it self to be pretty willing to yield it self to its commands; and is not this the very ground of thy hoping that God will save thee from the Wrath to come? If one should ask thee what ground thou hast to think thou shalt be saved? wouldest thou not say, truly because I have left my Sins, and because I am more inclinable to do good, and to learn, and get more knowledge: I endeavour to walk in Church-order (as they call it) and therefore I hope God hath done a good Work for me, and I hope will save my Soul? Alas, alas, this is a very Trick of the Devil, to make Souls build the ground of their Salvation upon this their Strictness, and abstaining from the Wickedness of their former Lives, and because they desire to be stricter and stricter. Now if you would know such a Man or Woman, you shall find them in this frame; namely, when they think their Hearts are good, then they think also that Christ will have Mercy upon them: but when their Corruptions work, then they doubt and scruple, until again they have their Hearts more ready to do the Things contained in the Law and Ordinances of the Gospel. Again, such Men do commonly cheer up their Hearts, and encourage themselves still to hope all shall be well, and that because they are not so bad as the rest, but more inclinable than they, saying, I am glad I am not as this Publican, but better than he, more Righteous than he, Luke 18. 11.

4. That is a Legal and Old Covenant-Spirit, that secretly persuades the Soul, that if ever it will be saved by Christ, it must first be fitted for Christ, by its getting of a good Heart and good Intentions to do this, and that for Christ: I say, that the Soul when it comes to Christ may not be rejected, or turned off, when in deed and in truth, this is the very way for the Soul to turn it self from Jesus Christ, instead of turning to him; for such a Soul looks upon Christ, rather to be a painted Saviour or a Cypher, than a very, and real Saviour. Friend, if thou canst fit thy self, what need hast thou of Christ? If thou canst get Qualifications to carry to Christ, that thou mightest be accepted, thou dost not look to be accepted in the Beloved. Shall I tell thee? thou art as if a Man should say, I will make my self clean, and then I will go to Christ that he may wash me; or like a Man possessed, that will first cast the Devils out of himself, and then come to Christ for Cure for him. Thou must therefore, if thou wilt so lay hold of Christ, as not to be rejected by him; I say thou must come to him as the basest in the World, more fitter to be damned, if thou hadst thy Right, than to have the least Smile, Hope, or Comfort, from him: come with the Fire of Hell in thy Conscience; come with thy Heart hard, dead, cold, full of Wickedness and Madness against thy own Salvation; come as renouncing all thy Tears, Prayers, Watchings, Fastings; come as a Blood-red Sinner; do not stay from Christ, till thou hast a greater sense of thy own Misery, nor of the reality of God's Mercy; do not stay while thy Heart is softer, and thy Spirit in a better Frame, but go against thy Mind, and against the Mind of the Devil and Sin, throw thy self down at the Foot of Christ, with a Halter about thy Neck, and say, Lord Jesus, hear a Sinner, a hard-hearted Sinner, a Sinner that deserveth to be damned, to be cast into Hell; and resolve never to return, or to give over crying unto him, till thou do find that he hath washed thy Conscience from dead Works with his Blood virtually, and clothed thee with his own Righteousness, and made thee compleat in himself; this is the Way to come to Christ.

The Use for the second Doctrine.

Now a few words to the second Doctrine, and so I shall draw towards a Conclusion; The Doctrine doth contain in it very much Comfort to thy Soul, who art a New-Covenant Man, or one of those who art under the New Covenant.

There is first Pardon of Sin. And secondly, the Manifestation of the same. And thirdly, a Power to cause thee to persevere through Faith to the very end of thy Life.

There is first Pardon of Sin, which is not in the Old Covenant; for in that there is nothing but Commands, and if not obey'd condemned. O, but there is Pardon of Sin, even of all thy Sins, against the first and second Covenant, under which thou art, and that freely upon the account of Jesus Christ the Righteous, he having in thy Name, Nature, and in the room of thy Person, fulfilled all the whole Law in himself for thee, and freely giveth it unto thee: O, though the Law be a Ministration of Death and Condemnation, yet the Gospel, under which thou art, is the Ministration of Life and Salvation, 2 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8, 9. Though they that live and die under the first Covenant, God regardeth them not, Heb. 8. 9. Yet they that are under the second are as the Apple of his Eye, Deut. 32. 10. Psal. 17. 8. Zech. 2. 8. Though they that are under the first, the Law, are called to Blackness, and Darknes, and Tempest, the sound of a Trumpet, and a burning Mountain, which Sight was so terrible, that Moses said, I exceedingly fear, and quake, Heb. 12. 18 to 22. Yet you are come unto Mount Sion, to the City of the living God, to the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable company of Angels, to the general Assembly and Church of the first-born, whose names are written in Heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the Spirits of Just Men made perfect; And to Jesus (to blessed Jesus) the Mediator of the New Covenant, and to the Blood of sprinkling, which speaketh better things than that of Abel, Heb. 12. 22, 23, 24. even Forgiveness of Sins, Eph. 1. 7.

2. The Covenant that thou art under doth allow of Repentance, in case thou chance to slip or fall by sudden Temptation, (Rev. 2. 5.) but the Law allows of none, (Gal. 3. 10.) The Covenant that thou art under, allows thee Strength also; but the Law is only a Sound of Words, commanding Words, but no Power is given by them to fulfil the Things commanded, Heb. 12. 19. Thou that art under this second, art made a Son; but they that are under that first, are Slaves and Vagabonds, Gen. 4. 12. Thou that art under this, hast a Mediator, that is to stand between Justice and thee, 1 Tim. 2. 5. But they under the other, their Mediator is turned an Accuser, and speaketh most bitter Things against their Souls, John 5. 45. Again, the Way that thou hast into Paradise, is a new and living Way; mark, a living Way, Heb. 10. 20. But they that are under the Old Covenant, their Way into Paradise is a new and living Way; mark, a living Way, Heb. 10. 20. But they that are under the Order, the Old Covenant, their Way into Paradise is a killing and destroying Way, Gen. 3. 24. Again, thou hast the Righteousness of God to appear before God withal, Phil. 3. 9. But they under the Old Covenant have nothing but the Righteousness of the Law, which Paul counts Dirt and Dung, Phil. 3. 7, 8. Thou hast that which will make thee perfect; but the other will not do so, Heb. 7. 19. The Law makes nothing perfect; but the bringing in of a better Hope (which is the Son of God) did, by which we draw nigh to God.

3. The New Covenant promiseth thee a new Heart, (as I said before) Ezek. 36. 26. but the Old Covenant promiseth none; and a new Spirit, but the Old Covenant promiseth none. The New Covenant conveyeth Faith, Gal. 3. but the Old one conveyeth none. Through the New Covenant the Love of God is conveyed into the Heart, Rom. 5. but through the Old Covenant there is conveyed none of it savingly through Jesus Christ. The New Covenant doth not only give a Promise of Life, but also with that the Assurance of Life; but the old one giveth none. The Old Covenant wrought Wrath in us, and to us, Rom. 4. 15. but the new one worketh Love, Gal. 5. 6. Thus much for the first Use.

Secondly, As all these, and many more Privileges do come to thee through or by the New Covenant; and that thou mightest not doubt of the Certainty of these glorious Privileges, God hath so ordered it, that they do all come to thee by way of Purchase, being obtained for thee, ready to thy hand, by that one Man Jesus, who is the Mediator, or the Person that hath principally to do both with God and thy Soul, in the Things pertaining to this Covenant: so that now thou mayest look on all the glorious Things that are spoken of in the New Covenant, and say, all these must be mine; I must have a Share in them; Christ hath purchased them for me, and given them to me. Now I need not to say, O! but how shall I come by them? God is holy, I am a Sinner; God is just, and I have offended: No, but thou mayest say, though I am vile and deserve nothing, yet Christ is holy, and he deserveth all things; though I have so provoked God by breaking his Law, that he could not in Justice look upon me; yet Christ hath so gloriously paid the Debt, that now God can say, Welcome Soul, I will give thee Grace, I will give thee Glory, thou shalt lie in my Bosom and go no more out; my my Son hath pleased me, he hath satisfied the loud Cries of the Law and Justice, that called for speedy Vengeance on thee. He hath fulfilled the whole Law, he hath brought in everlasting Righteousness, he hath overcome the Devil, he hath washed away thy Sins with his most precious Blood, he hath destroyed the Power of Death, and triumphs over all the Enemies. This he did in his own Person, as a common Jesus, for all Persons, in their stead, even as for so many as shall come in to him; for his Victory I give to them, his Righteousness I give to them, his Merits I bestow on them, and look upon them holy, harmless, undefiled, and for ever comely in my Eye, thro' the Victory of the Captain of their Salvation.

And that thou mayest in Deed and in Truth, not only hear and read this glorious Doctrine, but be found one that hath the Life of it in thy Heart, thou must be much in studying of the two Covenants; the Nature of the one, and the Nature of the other, and the Conditions of them that are under them both. Also thou must be well grounded in the manner of the Victory and Merits of Christ, how they are made thine. And here thou must in the first Place believe, that the Babe that was born of Mary, lay in a Manger at Bethlehem, in the time of Cæsar Augustus; that he, that Babe, that Child, was the very Christ. Secondly, thou must believe that in the Days of Tiberius Cæsar, when Herod was Tetrarch of Galilee, and Pontius Pilate Governour of Judæa, that in those Days he was crucified, or hanged on a Tree between two Thieves, which by Computation, or according to the best Account, is above sixteen hundred Years since. Thirdly, thou must also believe, that when he did hang upon that Cross of Wood, on Mount Calvary, that then he did die there *for the Sins of those

* This is the Doctrine that I will live and die by, and bewil-ling to be damned if it saves me not. I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God to Salvation; Therefore I preach Christ Crucified, to the Jews a stumbling-block, and to the Greeks foolishness, Rom. 1. 16. 1 Cor. 1. 23.

that did die before he was crucified, also for their Sins that were alive at the time of his Crucifying, and also, that he did by that one Death give Satisfaction to God for all those that should be born and believe in him after his Death, even unto the World's End. I say, this thou must believe upon Pain of eternal Damnation, that by that one Death, that when he did die, he did put an End to the Curse of the Law and Sin, and at that time by his Death on the Cross, and by his Resurrection out of Joseph's Sepulchre, he did bring in a sufficient Righteousness to clothe thee withal completely. For by one Offering he hath for ever perfected them that are sanctified, not that he should often offer himself; for then must he often have suffered since the Foundation of the World: but now ONCE in the End of the World hath he appeared to put (or do) away Sin by the Sacrifice of himself, Namely, when he hanged on the Cross. For it is by the Offering up of the Body of (this blessed)

Jesus Christ ONCE for all. Indeed, other Priests may offer oftentimes Sacrifices and Offerings which can never take away Sins; ^{Heb. 10.} but this man (this Jesus, this anointed and ^{Heb. 9.} appointed Sacrifice) ^{24, 25.} when he had offered ONE Sacrifice for Sins, for ever sat down on the Right hand of God.

But because thou in thy Pursuit after the Faith of the Gospel, wilt be sure to meet with Devils, Hereticks, particular Corruptions, as Unbelief, Ignorance, the Spirit works, animated on by Suggestions, false Conclusions, with damnable Doctrines, I shall therefore briefly, besides what hath been already said, speak a Word or two more before I leave thee, of further Advice, especially concerning these two things.

First, How thou art to conceive of the Saviour.

Secondly, How thou art to make Application of him.

First, For the Saviour, thou must look upon him to be very God, and very Man; not Man only, not God only, but God and Man in one Person, both Natures joyned together, for the putting of him in a Capacity to be a suitable Saviour: Suitable, I say, to answer both Sides and Parties, with whom he hath to do in the Office of his Mediatorship, and Being of a Saviour.

Secondly, Thou must not only do this, but thou must also consider and believe, that even what was done by Jesus Christ, it was not done by one Nature without the other; but thou must consider that both Natures, both the Godhead and the Manhood, did gloriously concur and join together in the Undertaking of the Salvation of our Bodies and Souls; not that the Godhead undertook any thing without the Manhood, neither did the Manhood do any thing without the Virtue and Union of the Godhead; and thou must of necessity do this, otherwise thou canst not find any sound Ground and Footing for thy Soul to rest upon.

For if thou look upon any of these afunder; that is to say, the Godhead without the Manhood, or the Manhood without the Godhead, thou wilt conclude, that what was done by the Godhead, was not done for Man, being done without the Manhood; or else, that that which was done with the Manhood, could not answer divine Justice, in not doing what it did, by the Vertue, and in Union with the Godhead; for it was the Godhead that gave Vertue and Value to the Suffering of the Manhood, and the Manhood being joyn'd therewith, that giveth us an Interest into the Heavenly Glory and Comforts of the Godhead.

What Ground can a Man have to believe that Christ is his Saviour, if he do not believe that he suffered for Sin in his Nature? And what Ground also can a Man have, to think that God the Father is satisfied, being infinite, if he believe not also, that he who gave gave the Satisfaction, was equal to him who was offended?

Therefore, Beloved, when you read of the Offering of the Body of the Son of Man for our Sins, then consider that he did it in Union with, and by the Help of the eternal Godhead. How much more shall the Blood of Christ, who, through the eternal Spirit, offered himself without Spot to God, purge your Consciences from dead Works, &c.

And when thou readest of the glorious Works and Splendor of the Godhead in Christ, then consider that all that was done by the Godhead, it was done as it had Union and Communion with the Manhood. And then thou shalt see that the Devil is overcome by God-man, Sin, Death, Hell, the Grave, and all overcome by Jesus, God-man, and then thou shalt find them overcome indeed. They must needs be overcome, when God doth overcome them; and we have good Ground to hope the Victory is ours, when in our Nature they are overcome.

2. The second Thing is, how to apply, or to make Application of this Christ to the Soul. And for this there is to be considered the following Particulars.

First, That when Jesus Christ did thus appear, being born of Mary, he was looked upon by the Father, as if the Sin of the whole World was upon him; nay, further, God did look upon him, and account him the Sin of Man. He hath made him to be Sin for us, 2 Cor. 5. 21. That is, God made his Son Jesus Christ our Sin, or reckoned him to be, not only a Sinner, but the very Bulk of Sin in the whole World, and condemned him so severely as if he had been nothing but Sin. For what the Law could not do, in that it was weak through the Flesh, God sent forth his Son in the Likeness of sinful Flesh, and for Sin condemned Sin in the Flesh. That is, for our Sins, condemned his Son Jesus Christ: as if he had in Deed and in Truth been our very Sin, and yet altogether without Sin, 2 Cor. 5. 21. Rom. 8. 3. Therefore, as to the taking away of thy Curse, thou must reckon him to be made Sin for thee. And as to his being thy Justification, thou must reckon him to be thy Righteousness: for saith the Scripture, He (that is God) hath made HIM to be SIN for us, though he knew no Sin, that WE might be made the RIGHTEOUSNESS of God in HIM.

Secondly, Consider for whose Sakes all this glorious Design of the Father and the Son was brought to pass, and that you shall find to be for Man, for sinful Man, 2 Cor. 8. 9.

Thirdly, The Terms on which it is made ours; and that you will find to be a free Gift, merely arising from the tender-heartedness of God. You are justified freely by his Grace through the Redemption that is in Christ, whom God hath set forth to be a Pro- pitation through Faith in his Blood, &c.

Fourthly, How Men are to reckon it theirs, and that is upon the same Terms which God doth offer it, which is freely. as they are worthless and undeserving Creatures, as they are without all Good, and also unable to do any Good. This, I say, is the right Way of applying the Merits of Christ to thy Soul, for they are freely given to thee a poor Sinner, not for any Thing that is in thee, or done by thee; but freely as thou art a Sinner, and so standest in absolute Need thereof.

And Christian, thou art not in this thing to follow thy Sense and Feeling, but the very Word of God. The Thing that doth do the People of God the greatest Injury; it is their too little Harkning to what the Gospel saith, and their too much giving Credit to what the Law, Sin, the Devil, and Conscience saith: and upon this very Ground to conclude, that because there is the Certainty of Guilt upon the Soul, therefore there is also for certain, by Sin, Damnation to be brought upon the Soul. This is now to set the Word of God aside, and to give Credit to what is formed by the contrary: but thou must give more Credit to one Syllable of the written Word of the Gospel, than thou must give to all the Saints and Angels in Heaven and Earth; much more than to the Devil and thy own guilty Conscience.

Let me give you a Parable. There was a certain Man that had committed Treason against his King; but for as much as the King had Compassion upon him, he sent him by the Hand of a faithful Messenger, a Pardon under his own Hand and Seal: but in the Country where this poor Man dwelt, there was also many that sought to trouble him, by often putting of him in mind of his Treason, and the Law that was to be executed on the Offender. Now which Way should this Man so honour his King, but as believing his Hand-writing, which was the Pardon: certainly he would honour him more by so doing, than to regard all the Clamours of his Enemies continually against him.

Just thus it is here, thou having committed Treason against the King of Heaven, he, through Compassion for Christ's Sake, hath sent thee a Pardon: But the Devil, the Law, and thy Conscience, do continually seek to disturb thee, by bringing thy Sins afresh into thy Remembrance: But now, wouldest thou honour thy King, why then, He that believeth the RECORD that God hath given of his Son, hath set to his SEAL that God is true. And this is the Record, that God hath given to US eternal Life, and this Life is in his Son, 1 John 5. 11, 12. And therefore, my Brethren, seeing God our Father hath sent us damnable Traitors a Pardon from Heaven (even all the Promises of the Gospel) and also hath

hath sealed to the Certainty of it with the Heart-blood of his dear Son: let us not be daunted, though our Enemies with terrible Voices do bring our former Life never so often into our Remembrance.

Object. But, saith the Soul, how if after I have received a Pardon, I should commit Treason again? What should I do then?

Ans. Set the Case thou hast committed abundance of Treason, he hath by him abundance of Pardons. Let the wicked forsake his Way, and the unrighteous Man his thoughts, and let him return to the Lord, and he will have Mercy upon him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.

Sometimes I myself have been in such a Straight, that I have been (almost) driven to my Wits Ends, with the Sight and Sense of the Greatness of my Sins; but calling to Mind that God was God in his Mercy, Pity, and Love, as well as in his Holiness, Justice, &c. And again, considering the Ability of the Satisfaction that was given to Holiness and Justice, to the End there might be Way made for Sinners to lay Hold of this Mercy; I say, I considering this, when tempted to Doubt and Despair, I have answered in this Manner.

"Lord, here is one of the greatest Sinners that ever the Ground bare. A Sinner against the Law, and a Sinner against the Gospel. I have sinned against Light, and I have sinned against Mercy; and now, Lord, the Guilt of them breaks my Heart, the Devil also he would have me despair, telling of me that thou art so far from hearing my Prayers in this my Distress, that I cannot anger thee worse, than to call upon thee; for, saith he, thou art resolved for ever to damn, and not to grant me the least of thy Favour: yet Lord, I would fain have Forgiveness. And thy Word, though much may be inferred from it against me; yet it saith, If I come unto thee thou wilt in no wise cast me out. Lord, shall I honour thee most by believing thou canst pardon my Sins, or by believing thou canst not? Shall I honour thee most by believing thou wilt pardon my Sins, or by believing thou wilt not? Shall I honour the Blood of thy Son also by despairing, that the Virtue thereof is not sufficient, or by believing that it is sufficient to purge me from all my blood-red and crimson Sins? surely, thou that couldst find so much Mercy as to pardon Manasseh, Mary Magdalen, the three Thousand Murderers, persecuting Paul, murderous and adulterous David, and blaspheming Peter, thou that offeredst Mercy to Simon Magus, a Witch, and didst receive the Astrologers and Conjurers in the nineteenth of Acts, thou hast Mercy enough for one poor Sinner. Lord, set the Case my Sins were bigger than all these, and I less deserv'd Mercy than any of these: yet thou hast

N^o IX. Vol. II.

"said in thy Word, that he that cometh to thee, thou wilt in no wise cast out. And God hath given Comfort to my Soul, even to such a Sinner as I am: And I tell you, there is no Way so to honour God, and to beat out the Devil, as to stick to the Truth of God's Word, and the Merits of Christ's Blood by believing. When Abraham believed (even against Hope and Reason) he gave Glory to God, Rom 4. And this is our Victory, even our Faith. Believe, and all Things are possible to you. He that believeth shall be saved. He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting Life, and shall never perish, neither shall any Man pluck him out of Christ's Father's Hands, 1 John 5. 4.

And if thou dost indeed believe this, thou wilt not only confess him as the Quakers do: That is, that he was born at Bethlehem of Mary, suffered on Mount Calvary under Pontius Pilate, was dead and buried, rose again, and ascended, &c. For all this they confess, and in the Midst of their Confession they do verily deny that his Death on that Mount Calvary did give Satisfaction to God for the Sins of the World, and that his Resurrection out of Joseph's Sepulchre, is the Cause of our Justification in the Sight of God, Angels, and Devils: But, I say, if thou dost believe these things indeed, thou dost believe that then, so long ago, even before thou wast born, he did bear thy Sins in his own Body, which then was hang'd on the Tree, (and never before nor since) that thy Old Man was then crucified with him, namely, in the same Body then crucified, (see 1 Pet. 2. 24. and Rom. 6. 6.) This is Nonsense to them that believe not: but if thou do indeed believe thou seest it so plain, and yet such a Mystery, that it makes thee wonder.

But in the third Place, This glorious Doctrine of the New Covenant, and the Mediator thereof, will serve for the comforting, and the maintaining of the Comfort of the Children of the New Covenant this Way also; that is, that he did not only die and rise again, but that he did ascend in his own Person into Heaven to take Possession thereof for me, to prepare a Place there for me, standeth there in the second Part of his Suretyship to bring me safe in my coming thither, and to present me in a glorious Manner, without Spot or Wrinkle, or any such Thing; that he is there exercising of his Priestly Office for me, pleading the Perfection of his own Righteousness for me, and the Virtue of his Blood for me. That he is there ready to answer the Accusations of the Law, Devil, and Sin for me. Here thou mayest through Faith look the very Devil in the Face, and rejoice, saying, O Satan! I have a precious Jesus, a Soul-comforting Jesus, a Sin-pardoning Jesus. Here thou mayest hear the biggest Thunder-crack that the Law can give, and yet not be daunted. Here thou mayest say, O Law!

thou mayest roar against Sin, but thou canst not reach me, thou mayest curse and condemn, but not my Soul; for I have a righteous Jesus, a holy Jesus, a soul-saving Jesus, and he hath delivered me from thy Threats, from thy Curses, from thy Condemnations; I am out of thy Reach, and out of thy Bounds, I am brought into another Covenant, under better Promises of Life and Salvation, free Promises to comfort me without my Merit, even through the Blood of Jesus, the Satisfaction given to God for me by him; therefore, though thou layest my Sins to my Charge, and sayest thou wilt prove me guilty: yet so long as Christ is above Ground, and hath brought in everlasting Righteousness, and given that to me, I shall not fear thy Threats, thy Charges, thy soul-scaring Denunciations; my Christ is all, hath done all, and will deliver me from all that thou, and whatsoever else can bring an Accusation against me. Thus also thou mayest say, when Death assaulteth thee, O Death, where is thy Sting? Thou mayest bite indeed, but thou canst not devour; I have Comfort by and through the one Man Jesus; Jesus Christ, he hath taken thee captive, and taken away thy Strength, he hath pierced thy Heart, and let out all thy soul-destroying Poison; therefore, though I see thee, I am not afraid of thee; tho' I feel thee, I am not daunted, for thou hast lost thy Sting in the Side of the Lord Jesus; through him I overcome thee, and set Foot upon thee. Also, O Satan! though I hear thee grumble, and make a hellish Noise, and though thou threaten me very highly; yet my Soul shall triumph over thee, so long as Christ is alive, and can be heard in Heaven; so long as he hath broken thy Head, and won the Field of thee; so long as thou art in Prison, and canst not have thy Desire. I therefore, when I hear thy Voice, do pitch my Thoughts on Christ my Saviour, and do hearken what he will say, for he will speak Comfort; he saith, he hath got the Victory, and doth give to me the Crown, and causeth me to triumph through his most glorious Conquest.

Nay, my Brethren, the Saints under the Levitical Law, who had not the New Covenant sealed, or confirmed any further than by promise that it should be; * I say, they, when they thought of the glorious Privileges that God had promised should come, though at that time they were not come, but seen afar off, how confidently were they perswaded of them, and embraced them, and were so fully satisfied as touching the Certainty of them, that they did not stick at the parting with all for the Enjoying of them. Heb. 11. How many Times doth David in the Psalms admire, triumph, and perswade others to do so also, through the Faith that he had in the Thing that was to be done? Also Job, in what Faith doth he say he should see his Redeemer, though he had not then shed one Drop of Blood for him: yet because he had promised so to do; and this was signified † by the Blood of Bulls and Goats? Also Samuel, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Zechariah, &c. how gloriously in Confidence did they speak of Christ and his Death, Blood, Conquest, and everlasting Priest-hood, even before he did manifest himself in the Flesh which he took of the Virgin? We that have lived since Christ, have more ground to hope than they under the Old Covenant had, (though they had the Word of the Just God for the ground of their Faith.) Mark, they had only the Promises, that he should and would come; but we have the assured fulfilling of those Promises, because he is come: they were told that he should spill his Blood, but we do see he hath spilt his Blood: They ventured all upon his standing Surety for them, but we see he hath fulfilled, and that faithfully too, the Office of his Suretiship, in that, according to the Engagement, he hath redeemed us poor Sinners. They ventured on the New Covenant, though not actually sealed, only because they judged him faithful that had promised, Heb. 11. 11. but we have the Covenant sealed, all Things are completely done, even as sure as the Heart-blood of a crucified Jesus can make it.

There is as great a Difference between their Dispensation and ours for Comfort, even as much as there is between the making of a Bond with a Promise to seal it, and the sealing of the same. It was made indeed in their time, but it was not sealed until the time the Blood was shed on Mount Calvary; and that we might have our Faith mount up with Wings like an Eagle, he sheweth us what Encouragement, and Ground of Faith we have to conclude we shall be everlastingly delivered; saying, Heb. 9. 16, 17, 18. For where a Testament (or Covenant) is, there must of necessity be the Death of the Testator; for a Testament is of force after Men are dead, otherwise it is of no strength at all while the Testator liveth; whereupon neither the first Testament was dedicated without Blood. As Christ's Blood was the Confirmation of the New Covenant, yet it was not sealed in Abraham, Isaac, or Jacob's days to confirm the Covenant that God did tell them of, and yet they believed; therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to (believe) the Things that we have heard, and not in any wise to let them be questioned; and the rather, because you see the Testament is not only now made but confirmed: not only spoken of and promised, but verily sealed by the Death and Blood of Jesus, who is the Testator thereof.

My Brethren, I would not have you ignorant of this one Thing, that though the Jews had the Promise of a Sacrifice, of

* Shall not we then that see all things already done before us, make it a strong Argument to increase our Faith?

† For they were as so many sure promises with a remembrance in them, also for the better Satisfaction of them that believed them.

an everlasting high Priest that should deliver them, yet they had but the Promise; for Christ was not sacrificed, and was not then come an High Priest of good things to come: only the Type, the Shadow, the Figure, the Ceremonies they had, together with Christ's engaging as Surety to bring all things to pass that were promised should come, and upon that Account received and saved.

It was with them and their Dispensation as this Similitude gives you to understand. "Set the case that there be two Men who make a Covenant, that the one should give the other ten thousand Sheep, on Condition the other give him two thousand Pound: but for as much as the Money is not to be paid down presently; therefore if he that buyeth the Sheep will have any of them before the day of Payment, the Creditor requesteth a Surety, and upon the Engagement of the Surety, there is part of the Sheep given to the Debtor, even before the Day of Payment, but the other at and after. So it is here, Christ covenanted with his Father for his Sheep, (I lay down my Life for my Sheep, saith he) but the Money was not to be paid down so soon as the Bargain was made, (as I have already said) yet some of the Sheep were saved, even before the Money was paid, and that because of the Suretiship of Christ: as it is written, Being justified (or saved) freely by his Grace, through the Redemption (or purchase) of Jesus Christ, whom God hath set forth to be a Propitiation through Faith in his Blood to declare himself righteous, in his forgiving the Sins that are past, (or the Sinners who died in the Faith, before Christ was Crucified) through God's forbearing till the Payment was paid; to declare, I say, at this time his Righteousness, that he might be Just, and the Justifier of him that believeth in Jesus, Rom. 3. 24, 25, 26.

The End of my speaking of this, is, to shew you that it is not Wisdom now to doubt whether God will save you or no, but to believe, because all things are finished, as to our Justification: The Covenant not only made, but also sealed; the Debt paid, the Prison Doors flung off of the Hooks, with a Proclamation from Heaven of Deliverance to the Prisoners of Hope; saying, Return to the strong hold, ye Prisoners of Hope, even to day do I declare (saith God) that I will render unto thee double, Zech. 9. 12. And, saith Christ, when he was come, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the Gospel; (that is, good Tidings to the Poor, that their sins should be pardoned, that their Souls should be saved.) He hath sent me to bind up the broken hearted, to preach Deliverance to the Captives, and recovering of the Sight of the Blind, to set at Liberty them that are bruised, and to comfort them that mourn, to preach the acceptable Year of the Lord, Luke 4. 18, 19.

Therefore, here Soul, thou mayest come to Jesus Christ, for any thing thou wantest, as to a common Treasure-house, being the principal Man for the distributing of the Things made mention of in the New Covenant, he having them all in his own custody by right of Purchase: for he hath bought them all, paid for them all. Dost thou want Faith? Then come for it to the Man Christ Jesus, Heb. 12. 2. Dost thou want the Spirit? Then ask it of Jesus. Dost thou want Wisdom? Dost thou want Grace of any sort? Dost thou want a new Heart? Dost thou want Strength against thy Lusts, against the Devils Temptations? Dost thou want Strength to carry thee through Afflictions of Body, and Affliction of Spirit, through Persecutions? Wouldest thou willingly hold out, stand to the last, and be more than a Conqueror? Then be sure thou meditate enough on the Merits of the Blood of Jesus, how he hath undertaken for thee, that he hath done the Work of thy Salvation in thy room, that he is filled of God on purpose to fill thee, and is willing to communicate whatsoever is in him, or about him, to thee. Consider this, I say, and triumph in it.

Again, This may inform us of the safe State of the Saints, as touching their Perseverance that they shall stand though Hell rages, though the Devil roareth, and all the World endeavoureth the Ruin of the Saints of God, though some, through Ignorance of the Virtue of the Offering of the Body of Jesus Christ, do say, a Man may be a Child of God to Day, and a Child of the Devil tomorrow, which is gross Ignorance; for, what, is the Blood of Christ, the Death, the Resurrection of Christ, of no more Virtue than to bring in for us an uncertain Salvation? or must the Effectualness of Christ's Merits, as touching our Perseverance, be helped on by the Doings of Man? Surely they that are predestinated, are also justified; and they that are justified, they shall be glorified, Rom. 8. 30. Saints, do not doubt of the Salvation of your Souls, unless you do intend to undervalue Christ's Blood; and do not think, but that he that hath begun the good Work of his Grace in you, will perfect it, to the second coming of our Lord Jesus, Phil. 1. 6. Should not we, as well as Paul, say, I am persuaded that nothing should separate us from the Love of God which is in Christ Jesus; Rom. 8. O let the Saints know! that unless the Devil can pluck Christ out of Heaven, he cannot pull a true Believer out of Christ. When I say a true Believer, I do mean such a one as hath the Faith of the Operation of God in his Soul.

Lastly, Is there such Mercy as this? such Privileges as these? is there so much Ground

Ground of Comfort? and so much Cause to be glad? Is there so much Store in Christ? and such a ready Heart in him to give it to me? Hath his bleeding Wounds so much in them, as that the Fruits thereof should be the Salvation of my Soul, of my sinful Soul, as to save me, sinful me, rebellious me, desperate me? what then? shall not I now be Holy? shall not I now study, strive, and lay out myself for him that hath laid out himself Soul and Body for me? shall I now love ever a Lust or Sin? shall I now be ashamed of the Cause, Ways, People, or Saints of Jesus Christ? shall I not now yield my Members as Instruments of Righteousness, seeing my End is everlasting Life? Rom. 6. Shall Christ think Nothing too dear for me? And shall I count any Thing too dear for him? shall I grieve him with my foolish Carriage? shall I slight his Counsel by following of my own Will? Thus therefore the Doctrine of the New Covenant doth call for Holiness, engage to Holiness, and maketh the Children of that Covenant to take Pleasure therein. Let no Man therefore conclude on this, that the Doctrine of the Gospel is a licentious Doctrine: but if they do, it is because they are Fools, and such as have not tasted of the Vertue of the Blood of Jesus Christ; neither did they ever feel the Nature and Sway that the Love of Christ hath in the Hearts of his. And thus also you may see that the Doctrine of the Gospel is of great Advantage to the People of God, that are already come in, or to them that shall at the Consideration hereof be willing to come in, to partake of the glorious Benefits of this glorious Covenant. But saith the poor Soul, Object. Alas I doubt this is too good for me.

Inquire. Why so I pray you?

Object. Alas, because I am a Sinner.

Reply. Why, all this is bestowed upon none but Sinners, as it is written. While we were ungodly, Christ died for us, Rom. 5. 6, 8. He came into the World to save Sinners, 1 Tim. 1. 14, 15.

Object. O, but I am one of the chief of Sinners.

Reply. Why, this is for the chief of Sinners, (1 Tim. 1. 14, 15.) Christ Jesus came into the World to save Sinners, of whom I am chief (saith Paul).

Object. O, but my Sins are so big, that I cannot conceive how I should have Mercy.

Reply. Why Soul? Didst thou ever kill any Body? Didst thou ever burn any of thy Children in the Fire to Idols? Hast thou been a Witch? Didst thou ever use Enchantments and Conjurament: Didst thou ever curse and swear, and deny Christ? And yet if thou hast, there is yet Hopes of Pardon; yea, such Sinners as these have been pardoned, as appears by these and the like Scriptures, 2 Chron. 33. 1, to 10 Verses, compared with the 12, and 13. Again, Acts 19. 19, 20. Acts 8. 22. compared with Verse 9. Matth. 26. 74, 75.

Object. But though I have not sinned in such Kind of Sins, yet it may be I have sinned as bad.

Answ. That cannot likely be; yet though thou hast, still there is Ground of Mercy for thee, for as much as thou art under the Promise, John 6. 37.

Object. Alas Man, I am afraid that I have sinned the unpardonable Sin, and therefore there is no Hope for me.

Answ. Dost thou know what the unpardonable Sin (the Sin against the Holy Ghost) is? And when it is committed?

Reply. It is a Sin against Light.

Answ. That is true, yet every Sin against Light, is not the Sin against the Holy Ghost.

Reply. Say you so?

Answ. Yea, and I prove it thus. If every Sin against Light, had been the Sin that is unpardonable, then had David and Peter, and others sinned that Sin: but though they did Sin against Light, yet they did not Sin that Sin; therefore every Sin against Light is not the Sin against the Holy Ghost, the unpardonable Sin.

Object. But the Scripture saith, If we Sin wilfully after we have received the knowledge of the Truth, there remaineth no more Sacrifice for Sin: but a certain fearful Looking for of Judgment, and fiery Indignation, which shall devour the Adversaries.

Answ. Do you know what that wilful Sin is?

Reply. Why, What is it? Is it not for a Man to Sin willingly after Enlightning?

1. Answ. Yes, yet doubtless every willing Sin is not that; for then David had sinned it, when he lay with Bathsheba; and Jonah, when he fled from the Presence of the Lord; and Solomon also, when he had so many Concubines.

2. Answ. But that Sin is a Sin that is of another Nature, which is this; For a Man after he hath made some Profession of Salvation to come alone by the Blood of Jesus, together with some Light and Power of the same upon his Spirit: I say, for him after this knowingly, wilfully, and despitefully, to trample upon the Blood of Christ shed on the Cross, and to count it an unholy Thing, or no better than the Blood of another Man; and rather to venture his Soul any other way, than to be saved by this precious Blood. And this must be done I say, after some light, (Heb. 6. 4, 5.) Despitefully, (Heb. 10. 29.) Knowingly (2 Pet. 2. 21.) and wilfully (Heb. 10. 26, compared with ver. 29.) and that not in a hurry and sudden fit, as Peter's was: but with some time before-hand to pause upon it first, with Judas; and also with a continued Resolution never to turn or be converted again. For it is impossible to renew such again to Repentance, they are so resolved, and so desperate, Heb. 6.

Quest.

You that are resolved to go on in your Sins, meddle not with this.

Quest. And how sayest thou now? Didst thou ever after thou hadst received some blessed Light from Christ, wilfully, despitefully, and knowingly, stamp or trample the Blood of the Man Christ Jesus under thy Feet? and art thou for ever resolved so to do?

Answ. O no, I would not do that wilfully, despitefully, and knowingly, not for all the World.

Inqui. But yet I must tell you now you put me in mind of it, surely sometimes I have most horrible blasphemous Thoughts in me against God, Christ, and the Spirit: May not these be that Sin too?

Answ. Dost thou delight in them? are they such Things as thou takest pleasure in?

Reply. O no, neither would I do it for a thousand Worlds. O, methinks they make me sometimes tremble to think of them: But how and if I should delight in them before I am aware?

Answ. Beg of God for Strength against them, and if at any time thou findest thy wicked Heart to give way in the least thereto (for that is likely enough) and though thou find it may on a sudden give way to that hell-bred Wickedness that is in it: yet do not despair, for as much as Christ hath said, All manner of Sins and Blasphemies shall be forgiven to the Sons of Men. And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of Man, (that is Christ) as he may do with Peter, through Temptation, yet upon Repentance, it shall be forgiven him. Mat. 12. 32.

Object. But I thought it might have been committed all on a sudden, either by some blasphemous Thought, or else by committing some other horrible Sin.

Answ. For certain this Sin and the Commission of it, doth lie in a knowing, wilful, malicious, or spiteful, together with a final trampling the Blood of sweet Jesus under Foot, Heb. 10.

Object. But it seems to be rather a resisting of the Spirit, and motions thereof, than this which you say; for first, its proper Title is the Sin against the Holy Ghost. And again, They have done despite unto the Spirit of Grace. So that it rather seems to be, I say, that a resisting of the Spirit, and the movings thereof, is that Sin.

1 Answ. For certain the Sin is committed by them that do as before I have said, that is, by a final, knowing, wilful, malicious trampling under foot the Blood of Christ, which was shed on Mount Calvary, when Jesus was there crucified. And though it be called the Sin against the Spirit, yet (as I said before) every Sin against the Spirit is not that: for if it was, then every Sin against the Light and Convictions of the Spirit would be unpardonable: but that is an evident untruth, for these Reasons. First, because there be those who have sinned against the movings of the Spirit, and that knowingly too, and yet did not commit that. As Jonah, who when God had expressly by his Spirit, bid him go to Nineveh, he runs thereupon quite another way. Secondly, because the very People that have sinned against the movings of the Spirit, are yet, if they do return, received to Mercy. Witness also Jonah, who though he had sinned against the movings of the Spirit of the Lord, in doing contrary thereunto, Yet when he called (as he saith) to the Lord, (out of the Belly of Hell) the Lord heard him, and gave him deliverance, and set him again about his Work. (Read the whole story of that Prophet.)

2. Answ. But Secondly, I shall shew you that it must needs be wilfully, knowingly, and a malicious rejecting of the Man Christ Jesus as the Saviour: That is, counting his Blood, his Righteousness, his Intercession in his own Person (for he that rejects one, rejects all) to be of no value, as to Salvation. I say, this I shall shew you is the unpardonable Sin. And then afterwards in brief shew you why it is called the Sin against the Holy Ghost.

First, That Man that doth reject, as aforesaid, the Blood, Death, Righteousness, Resurrection, Ascension, and Intercession of the Man Christ, doth reject that Sacrifice, that Blood, that Righteousness, that Victory, that Rest, that God alone hath appointed for Salvation, (John 1. 29.) Behold the Lamb (or Sacrifice) of God, We have Redemption through his Blood, (Ephes. 1. 7.) That I may be found in him, (to wit) in Christ's Righteousness, with Christ's own personal Obedience to his Father's Will, Phil. 3. 7, 8, 9, 10. By his Resurrection comes Justification, Rom. 4. 25. His Intercession now in his own Person in the Heavens, now absent from his Saints, is the Cause of the Saints Perseverance, 2 Cor. 6. 7, 8. also Rom. 8. 33, 34, 35, 36, &c.

Secondly, They that reject this Sacrifice and the Merits of this Christ, which he by himself hath brought in for Sinners, have rejected him through whom alone all the Promises of the New Testament, together with all the Mercy discovered thereby, doth come unto poor Creatures; For all the Promises in him are Yea, and in him Amen, unto the glory of God, 2 Cor. 1. 20. And all spiritual Blessings are made over to us through him, Ephes. 1. 3, 4. That is, through and in this Man (which is Christ) we have all our Spiritual, Heavenly, and eternal Mercies.

Thirdly, He that doth knowingly, wilfully, and spitefully reject this Man for Salvation, doth Sin the unpardonable Sin; because there is never another Sacrifice to be offered, Heb. 10. 26. There is no more offering for Sin; there remaineth no more Sacrifice for Sin, Heb. 10. 18. (namely, than the offering of the Body of Jesus Christ a Sacrifice once for all, Heb. 10. ver. 10. and 14. compared with ver. 18. and 26.) No, but they that shall after Light and clear Conviction, reject the first offering of his Body for Salvation, do Crucify him the second time, which irrecoverably merits their own Damnation: For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the Heavenly Gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost; and have tasted the good Word of God, and the Powers of the World to come: If they shall fall away to renew them again unto Repentance, seeing they Crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open Shame. If they fall away to renew them again unto Repentance; And why so? seeing, saith the Apostle, they do Crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and do put him to open Shame. O then! how miserably hath the Devil deceived some, in that he hath got them to reject the Merits of the first Offering of the Body of Christ; (which was for Salvation) and got them to trust in a fresh Crucifying of Christ, which unavoidably brings their speedy Damnation?

Fourthly, They that do reject this Man, as aforesaid, do sin the unpardonable Sin; because in rejecting him, they do make Way for the Justice of God to break out upon them, and to handle them as it shall find them: which will be in the first Place, Sinners against the first Covenant, which is the soul-damning Covenant; and also despising of (even the Life, and Glory, and Consolations, Pardon, Grace, and Love, that is discovered in) the second Covenant, for as much as they reject the Mediator and Priest of the same, which is the Man Jesus. And the Man that doth so, I would fain see how his Sins should be pardoned, and his Soul saved, seeing the Means (which is the Son of Man, the Son of Mary, and his Merits) is rejected. For saith he, If you believe not that I am he, you shall, mark, you shall, do what you can, you shall, appear where you can, you shall, follow Moses's Law, or any Holiness whatsoever, you shall dye in your Sins, John 8. 24. So that, I say, the Sin that is called the unpardonable Sin, is a knowing, wilful, and despiteful rejecting of the sacrificing of the Son of Man the first Time for Sin. And now to shew you why it is called the Sin against the Holy Ghost, as in these Scriptures, Mat. 12. Heb. 10. Mark 3.

First, Because they Sin against the manifest Light of the Spirit, as I said before, it is a Sin against the Light of the Spirit: That is, they have been formerly enlightened into the Nature of the Gospel, and the Merits of the Man Christ, and his Blood, Righteousness, Intercession, &c. And also professed and confessed the same, with some Life and Comfort in, and through the Profession of him: Yet now against all that Light, maliciously, and with Despite to all their former Profession, turn their Backs, and trample upon the same.

Secondly, It is called the Sin against the Holy Ghost, because such a Person doth (as I may say) lay violent Hands on it; one that sets himself in Opposition to, and is resolved to resist all the Motions that do come in from the Spirit to perswade the contrary. For I do verily believe, that Men, in this very rejecting of the Son of God, after some Knowledge of him, especially at their first resisting and refusing of him; they have certain Motions of the Spirit of God to dissuade them from so great a soul-damning Act. But they, being filled with an over-powering Measure of the Spirit of the Devil, do despite unto these Convictions and Motions, by studying and contriving how they may answer them, and get from under the convincing Nature of them; and therefore it is called a doing Despite unto the Spirit of Grace, Heb. 10. 29. And so, Thirdly, In that they do reject the Be-seechings of the Spirit, and all its gentle Intreatings of the Soul, to tarry still in the same Doctrine.

Fourthly, In that they do reject the very Testimony of the Prophets and Apostles, with Christ himself: I say, their Testimony through the Spirit, of the Power, Virtue, Sufficiency, and Prevalency of the Blood, Sacrifice, Death, Resurrection, Ascension, and Intercession of the Man Christ Jesus, of which the Scriptures are full both in the Old and New Testament, as the Apostle saith, For all the Prophets from Samuel, with them that follow after, have shewed of these Days. That is, in which Christ should be a Sacrifice for Sin, Acts 3. 24. compared with ver. 6, 13, 14, 15, 18, 26. Again, saith he, He therefore that despiseth, despiseth not Man, but God; who hath also given unto us his Holy Spirit, 1 Thes. 4. 8. That is, he rejecteth or despiseth the very Testimony of the Spirit.

Fifthly, It is called the Sin against the Holy Ghost, because he that doth reject and disown the Doctrine of Salvation by the Man Christ Jesus, through believing in him, doth despise, resist, and reject the Wisdom of the Spirit; for the Wisdom of God's Spirit did never more appear, than in its finding out a Way for Sinners to be reconciled to God, by the Death of this Man; and therefore Christ, as he is a Sacrifice, is called the Wisdom of God. And again, when it doth reveal the Lord Jesus, it is called the Spirit of Wisdom and Revelation in the Knowledge of him, Ephes. 1. 17.

Object. But (some may say) the slighting, or rejecting of the Son of Man, (Jesus of Nazareth the Son of Mary) cannot be the Sin that is unpardonable, as is clear from that Scripture in the twelfth of Matthew, where he himself saith, He that shall speak a Word a Word against the Son of Man, it shall be forgiven him: But he that shall sin against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this World, nor the World to come, Ver. 32. Now by this it is clear, that the Sin that is unpardonable is one Thing, and the Sin against the Son of Man another; that Sin that is against the Son of Man is pardonable: But if that was the Sin against the Holy Ghost, it would not be pardonable; therefore the Sin against the Son of Man is not the Sin against the Holy Ghost, the unpardonable Sin.

Ans. First, I do know full well that there are several Persons that have been pardoned, yet have sinned against the Son of Man; and that have for a Time rejected him, as Paul, 1 Tim. 1. 13, 14. Also the Jews, Acts 2. 36, 37. But there was an ignorant rejecting of him without the Enlightning, and Taste, and Feeling of the Power of the Things of God, made mention of in the sixth of the Hebrews, the 3, 4, 5, 6. Verses.

Secondly, There is, and hath been a higher Manner of sinning against the Son of Man; which also hath been, and is still pardonable; as in the Case of Peter, who in a violent Temptation, in a mighty Hurry, upon a sudden denied him, and that after the Revelation of the Spirit of God from Heaven to him, that he (Jesus) was the Son of God, Mat. 16. 16, 17, 18. This also is pardonable, if there be a coming up again to Repentance: (O rich Grace! O wonderful Grace! that God should be so full of Love to his poor Creatures, that though they do sin against the Son of God, either through Ignorance, or some sudden violent Charge breaking loose from Hell upon them) but yet take it for certain, that if a Man do slight and reject the Son of God, and the Spirit, in that Manner as I have before hinted, that is, for a Man after some great measure of the Enlightning by the Spirit of God, and some Profession of Jesus Christ to be the Saviour, and his Blood that was shed on the Mount without the Gates of Jerusalem to be the Atonement; I say, he that shall after this knowingly, wilfully, and out of Malice and Despite, reject, speak against, and trample that Doctrine under Foot, resolving for ever so to do: And if he there continue, I will pawn my Soul upon it, he hath sinned the unpardonable Sin, and shall never be forgiven, neither in this World, nor in the World to come; or else those Scriptures that testify the Truth of this must be scabbed out, and must be looked upon for meer Fables; which are these following. For if after they have escaped the Pollutions of the World, through the Knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, (which is the Son of Man, Mat. 16. 13.) and are again entangled therein, and overcome; (which must be by denying this Lord that bought them, 2 Pet. 2. 1.) the latter End is worse with them than the Beginning, 2 Pet. 2. 20. For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly Gift.---- And have tasted the good Word of God, and the Powers of the World to come: If they shall fall away (not only fall, but fall away; that is finally, Heb. 10. 19.) it is impossible to renew them again unto Repentance; and the Reason is rendred, seeing they have crucified to themselves the Son of God (which is the Son of Man) afresh, and put him to an open Shame, Heb. 6. 4, 5, 6. Now if you would further know what it is to crucify the Son of God afresh: It is this. For to undervalue and trample under Foot the Merits and Vertue of his Blood for Remission of Sins, as is clearly manifested in the tenth of the Hebrews, 26, 27, 28, Verses, where it is said, For if we sin wilfully after we have received the Knowledge of the Truth, there remaineth no more Sacrifice for Sins; but a certain fearful Looking for of Judgment, and the fiery Indignation, which shall devour the Adversaries. He that despised Moses's Law died without Mercy; of how much sorer Punishment suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, that hath trodden under Foot the Son of God, (there is the second crucifying of Christ, which the Quakers think to be saved by) and hath counted the Blood of the Covenant wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy Thing? And then followeth, and hath done Despite unto the Spirit of Grace, Verse the 29th. All that Paul had to keep him from this Sin, was his Ignorance in persecuting the Man, and Merits of Jesus Christ, Acts 9. But I obtained Mercy, saith he, because I did it ignorantly, 1 Tim. 1. 14. And Peter, tho' he did deny him knowingly, yet he did it unwillingly, and in a sudden and fearful Temptation, and so by the Intercession of Jesus escaped that Danger. So, I say, they that commit this Sin, they do it after Light, knowingly, wilfully, and despitefully, and in the open View of the whole World, reject the Son of Man for being their Lord and Saviour, and in that it is called the Sin against the Holy Ghost. It is a Name most fit for this Sin to be called the Sin against the Holy Ghost, for these Reasons but now laid down; for this Sin is immediately committed against the Motions and Convictions, and Light of that Holy Spirit of God, that makes it its Business to hand forth, and manifest the Truth and Reality of the Merits and Virtues of the Lord Jesus, the Son of Man. And therefore beware Ranters and Quakers, for I am sure you are the nearest that Sin by Profession (which is indeed the right Committing of it) of any Persons that I do know at this Day under the whole Heavens; for as much as you will not venture the Salvation of your Souls on the Blood shed on Mount Calvary, Luke

23. 33. out of the Side of that Man that was offered up in Sacrifice for all that did believe, in that his offering up of his Body at that Time (either before he offered it, or that have, do, or shall believe on it, for the Time since, together with that Time that he offered it) though formerly you did profess that Salvation was wrought out that Way, by that Sacrifice then offered, and also seemed to have some Comfort thereby; yea, insomuch that some of you declared the same in the Hearing of many, professing yourselves to be Believers of the same. O therefore! it is sad for you that were once thus enlightened, and have tasted these Good Things; and yet notwithstanding all your Profession, you are now turned from the Simplicity that is in Christ, to another Doctrine which will be to your Destruction, if you continue in it; for without Blood there is no Remission, Heb. 9. 22.

Many other Reasons might be given, but that I would not be too tedious: Yet I would put in this Caution, that if there be any Souls that be but now willing to venture their Salvation upon the Merits of a naked Jesus, I do verily for the present believe, they have not sinned that Sin; because there is still a Promise holds forth it self to such a Soul, where Christ saith, He that comes to me, I will in no wise (for nothing that he hath done) cast him out, John 6. 36. That Promise is worthy to be written in Letters of Gold.

Object. But alas, though I should never sin that Sin, yet I have other Sins enough to damn me.

Answer. What though thou hadst the Sins of a thousand Sinners; yet if thou come to Christ he will save thee, Job 6. 36. see also Heb. 7. 25.

Object. Alas! but how should I come? I doubt I do not come as I should do? my Heart is naught and dead; and alas, then how should I come?

Answer. Why bethink thyself of all the Sins that ever thou didst commit, and lay the Weight of them all upon thy Heart, till thou art down loaden with the same, and come to him in such a Case as this, and he will give thee Rest for thy Soul, Mat. 11. the three last Verses.

And again, if thou wouldest know how thou shouldest come, come as much undervaluing thyself as ever thou canst, saying, Lord, here is a Sinner, the basest in all the Country, if I had my Deserts I had been damned in Hell-fire long ago: Lord, I am not worthy to have the least Corner in the Kingdom of Heaven: and yet, O that thou wouldest have Mercy! Come like Benhadad's Servants to the King of Israel, 1 Kings 20. 31, 32. with a Rope about thy Neck, and fling thyself down at Christ's Feet, and lie there a while, striving with him by thy Prayers, and I'll warrant thee speed, Matt. 11. 28, 29, 30. John 6. 37.

Object. O, but I am not sanctified.

Answer. He will sanctify thee, and be made thy Sanctification also, 1 Cor. 6. 10, 11. 1 Cor. 1. 30.

Object. O, but I cannot pray.

Answer. To pray, is not for thee to down on thy Knees, and say over a many Scripture Words only; for that thou may'st do, and yet do nothing but babble: But if thou from a Sense of thy Baseness, canst groan out thy Heart's Desire before the Lord, he will hear thee, and grant thy Desire; for he can tell what is the Meaning of the Groanings of the Spirit, Rom. 8. 26, 27.

Object. O, but I am afraid to pray, for fear my Prayers should be counted as Sin in the Sight of the great God.

Answer. That is a good Sign that thy Prayers are more than bare Words, and have some Prevalence at the Throne of Grace through Christ Jesus, or else the Devil would never seek to labour to beat thee off from Prayer, by undervaluing thy Prayers, telling thee they are Sin; for the best Prayers he will call the worst, and the worst he will call the best, or else how should he be a Liar?

Object. But, I am afraid the Day of Grace is past, and if it should be so, what should I do then?

Answer. Truly, with some Men indeed it doth fare thus, that the Day of Grace is at an End before their Lives are at an End.

Or thus, the Day of Grace is past before the Day of Death is come, as Christ saith, If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things that belong unto thy Peace, (that is the Word of Grace or Reconciliation) but now it is hid from thine Eyes, Luke 19. 41, 42. But for the better satisfying of thee as touching this Thing, consider these following things:

First, Doth the Lord knock still at the Door of thy Heart by his Word and Spirit? If so, then the Day of Grace is not past with thy Soul; for where he doth so knock, there he doth also proffer, and promise to come in and sup, (that is, to communicate of his things unto them) which he would not do, was the Day of Grace past with the Soul, Rev. 3. 20.

Object. But how should I know whether Christ do so knock at my Heart, as to be desirous to come in? That I may know also whether the Day of Grace be past with me or no?

Answer. Consider these Things:

First, Doth the Lord make thee sensible of thy miserable State, without an Interest in Jesus Christ? And that naturally thou hast no Share in him, no Faith in him, no Communion with him, no Delight in him, or Love in the least to him? If he hath, and is doing of this, he hath, and is knocking at thy Heart.

Secondly, Doth he, together with this, put into thy Heart an earnest Desire after Commu-

Communion with him, together with holy Resolutions not to be satisfied without real Communion with him.

Thirdly, Doth he sometimes give thee some secret Persuasions (tho' scarcely discernable) that thou mayest attain, and get an Interest in him?

Fourthly, Doth he now and then glance in some of the Promises into thy Heart, causing them to leave some heavenly Savour (tho' but for a very short time) on thy Spirit?

Fifthly, Dost thou at some time see some little Excellency in Christ? And doth all this stir up in thy Heart some Breathings after him? If so, then fear not, the Day of Grace is not past with thy poor Soul; for if the Day of Grace should be past with such a Soul as this, then that Scripture must be broken where Christ saith, He that cometh unto me, I will in no wise (for nothing, by no means, upon no terms whatsoever) cast out, John 6. 37.

Object. But surely if the Day of Grace was not past with me, I should not be so long without an Answer of God's Love to my Soul; that therefore doth make me mistrust my State the more, is, that I wait and wait, and yet am not delivered.

Ans. Hast thou waited on the Lord so long as the Lord hath waited on thee? It may be the Lord hath waited on thee this twenty, or thirty, yea, forty Years, or more, and thou hast not waited on him seven Years: Cast this into thy Mind therefore, when Satan tells thee that God doth not love thee, because thou hast waited so long without an Assurance; (for it is his Temptation) for God did wait longer upon thee, and was fain to send to thee by his Ambassadors time after time: And therefore, say thou, I will wait to see what the Lord will say unto me; and the rather, because he will speak Peace, for he is the Lord thereof.

But, Secondly, Know, that it is not thy being under Trouble a long time, that will be an Argument sufficiently to prove that thou art past Hopes: Nay, contrariwise; for Jesus Christ did take our Nature upon him, and also did undertake Deliverance for those, and bring it in for them, who were all their Life-time subject to Bondage, Heb. 2. 14, 15.

Object. But alas! I am not able to wait, all my Strength is gone, I have waited so long I can wait no longer.

Ans. It may be thou hast concluded on this long ago, thinking thou shouldest not be able to hold out any longer; no not a Year, a Month, or a Week; nay, it may be not so long. It may be in the Morning thou hast thought thou shouldest not hold out till Night, and at Night till Morning again: Yet the Lord hath supported thee, and kept thee in waiting upon him many Weeks and Years; therefore that is but the Temptation of the Devil to make thee think so, that he might drive thee to despair of God's Mercy, and so to leave off following the Ways of God, and to close in with thy Sins again. O therefore do not give way unto it, but believe that thou shalt see the Goodness of the Lord in the Land of the Living. Wait on the Lord, be of good Courage, and he shall strengthen thine Heart; wait, I say, on the Lord, Psal. 27. 23, 24. And that thou mayest so do, consider these Things:

First, If thou, after thou hast waited thus long, shouldest now give over, and wait no longer, thou wouldest lose all thy Time and Pains that thou hast taken in the Way of God hitherto, and wilt be like to a Man that because he sought long for Gold, and did not find it, therefore turned back from seeking after it, tho' he was hard by it, and had almost found it; and all because he was loth to look and seek a little further.

Secondly, Thou wilt not only lose thy time, but also lose thy own Soul; for Salvation is no where else but in Jesus Christ, Acts 4. 12.

Thirdly, Thou wilt sin the highest Sin that ever thou didst sin before, in drawing (finally) back, inasmuch that God may say, My Soul shall have no pleasure in him, Heb. 10. 38.

But, secondly, consider, thou sayest, All my Strength is gone, and therefore how should I wait? why at that time when thou feelest, and findest thy Strength quite gone, even that is the Time when the Lord will renew, and give thee fresh Strength. The Youths shall faint and be weary, and young Men shall utterly fall; but they that wait upon the Lord, shall renew their Strength, they shall mount up with wings as Eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not be faint, Isa. 40. 30, 31.

Object. But though I do wait, yet if I be not elected to eternal Life, what good will all my waiting do me? For it is not in him that willeth; nor in him that runneth, but of God that sheweth Mercy. Therefore I say, if I should not be elected, all is in vain.

1 Ans. Why, in the first Place, to be sure thy backsliding from God will not prove thy Election, neither thy growing weary of waiting upon God.

2 Ans. But, secondly, Thou art it may be troubled to know whether thou art elected: And, sayest thou, if I did but know that, that would encourage me in my waiting on God.

Ans. I believe thee; but mark, thou shalt not know thy Election in the first Place, but in the second. That is to say, thou must first get acquaintance with God in Christ, which doth come by thy giving Credit to his Promises, and Records which he hath given of Jesus Christ, his Blood and and Righteousness, together with the rest of his Merits.

That is, before thou canst know whether thou art elected, thou must believe in Jesus Christ so really that thy Faith laying hold of, and drinking and eating the Flesh and Blood of Christ, even so, that there shall be Life begotten in thy Soul by the same. Life from the condemnings of the Law; Life from the Guilt of Sin; Life over the filth of the same; Life also to walk with God in his Son and ways; the Life of Love to God the Father, and Jesus Christ his Son, Saints and Ways; and that because they are holy, harmless, and such that are altogether contrary to iniquity.

For these things must be in thy Soul as a Forerunner of thy being made acquainted with the other; God hath these two ways to shew to his Children their Election.

First, by Testimony of the Spirit. That is, the Soul being under Trouble of Conscience, and grieved for Sin, the Spirit doth seal up the Soul by its comfortable Testimony; persuading of the Soul, that God, for Christ's sake, hath forgiven all those Sins that lye so heavy on the Conscience, and that do so much perplex the Soul, by shewing it that, that Law which doth utter such horrible Curses against it, is by Christ's Blood satisfied, and fulfilled, Eph. 1. 13, 14.

Secondly, By Consequence; that is, the Soul finding that God hath been good unto it, in that he hath shewed it its lost State and miserable Condition: and also that he hath given it some comfortable Hope that he will save it from the same: I say, the Soul, from a right Sight thereof, doth, or may, draw this Conclusion, that if God had not been minded to have saved it, he would not have done for it such Things as these. But for the more sure dealing with thy Soul, it is not good to take any of these apart; that is, it is not good to take the Testimony of the Spirit, (as thou supposest thou hast) from the Fruits thereof, so as to conclude the Testimony thou hast received, to be a sufficient ground without the other; (not that it is not, if it be the Testimony of the Spirit) but because the Devil doth also deceive Souls by the Workings of his Spirit in them, pretending that it is the Spirit of God. And again, thou shouldest not satisfy thy self, though thou do find some seekings in thee after that which is good, without the Testimony of the other; that is to say, of the Spirit; for it is the Testimony of two that is to be taken for Truth: Therefore say I, as thou shouldest be much in praying for the Spirit to testify Assurance to thee, so also thou shouldest look to the end of it when thou thinkest thou hast it; which is this, to shew thee that it is alone for Christ's sake that thy Sins are forgiven thee, and also thereby a constraining of thee to advance him, both by Words and Works, in Holiness and Righteousness all the Days of thy Life. From hence thou mayest boldly conclude thy Election, 1 Thess. 3. 4, 5, 6. Remembering without ceasing your work of Faith, and labour of Love, and Patience, of Hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God our Father; Knowing, Brethren (saith the Apostle) beloved, your Election of God. But how? why by this, For our Gospel came not to you in Word only, but also in Power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much Assurance.---And ye became Followers of us, and of the Lord, having received the Word in much Affliction, with joy of the Holy Ghost: So that you were ensamples to all that believe in Macedonia and Achaia. And to wait for his Son from Heaven, whom he raised from the Dead, even Jesus which (hath) delivered us from the Wrath to come, ver. 10.

Object. But alas, for my part, instead of finding in me any thing that is good, I find in me all manner of Wickedness, Hard-heartedness, Hypocrisy, Coldness of Affection to Christ, very great Unbelief, together with every Thing that is base, and of an ill Savour. What hope therefore can I have?

Ans. If thou wast not such a one, thou hadst no need of Mercy. If thou wast whole, thou hadst no need of the Physician; dost thou therefore see thy self in such a sad Condition as this? Thou hast the more need to come to Christ, that thou mayest be not only cleansed from these Evils, but also that thou mayest be delivered from that Wrath they will bring upon thee (if thou do not get rid of them) to all Eternity.

Quest. But how should I do? and what course should I take to be delivered from this sad and troublesome Condition?

Ans. Dost thou see in thee all manner of Wickedness? The best way that I can direct a Soul in such a case, is, to pitch a steadfast Eye on him that is full, and to look so steadfastly upon him by Faith, that thereby thou mayest even draw down of his Fulness into thy Heart; for that is the right Way, and the Way that was typed out (before Christ came in the Flesh) in the time of Moses, when the Lord said unto him, Make thee a Serpent of Brass, (which was a Type of Christ) and set it upon a Pole; and it shall come to pass that when a Serpent hath bitten any Man, that he may look thereon and Live, Num. 21. 8.

Even so now in Gospel times, when any Soul is bitten with the fiery Serpents (their Sins) that then the next way to be healed, is, for the Soul to look upon the Son of Man, who, as the Serpent was, was hanged on a Pole, (or Tree) that whosoever shall indeed look on him by Faith, may be healed of all their Distempers whatever, John 3. 14, 15.

As

As now to instance in some things. First, is thy Heart hard? Why then, behold how full of Bowels and Compassion is the Heart of Christ towards thee, which may be seen in his coming down from Heaven to spill his Heart-Blood for thee.

2. Is thy Heart slothful and idle; then see how active the Lord Jesus is for thee, in that he did not only die for thee; but also in that he hath been ever since his Ascension into Heaven, making Intercession for thee, Heb. 7. 25.

3. Dost thou see and find in thee Iniquity and Unrighteousness? Then look up to Heaven, and see there a Righteous Person, even thy righteous Jesus Christ, now presenting thee in his own Perfections before the Throne of his Father's Glory, 1 Cor. 1. 30.

4. Dost thou see that thou art very much void of right Sanctification? Then look up and thou shalt see that thy Sanctification is in the Presence of God a compleat Sanctification, representing all the Saints as (righteous, so) sanctified ones in the Presence of the great God of Heaven. And so whatsoever thou wantest, be sure to strive to pitch thy Faith upon the Son of God, and behold him stedfastly, and thou shalt by so doing find a mighty Change in thy Soul. For when we behold him as in a Glass, even the Glory of the Lord, we are changed (namely by beholding) from Glory to Glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord, 2 Cor. 7. 18. This is the true Way to get both Comfort to thy Soul, and also Sanctification and right Holiness into thy Soul.

Poor Souls that are under the Distemper of a guilty Conscience, and under the Workings of much Corruption, do not go the nearest Way to Heaven, if they do not in the first place look upon themselves as cursed Sinners by the Law: and yet at that time they are blessed, for ever blessed Saints, by the Merits of Jesus Christ. O wretched Man that I am, saith Paul, and yet, O blessed Man that I am through my Lord Jesus Christ; for that is the Scope of the Scripture, Rom. 7. 24, 25.

Object. But alas, I am blind and cannot see, what shall I do now?

Ans. Why truly thou must go to him that can make the Eyes that are blind to see (even to our Lord Jesus) by Prayer, saying as the poor blind Man did, Lord, that I might receive my Sight, and so continue begging him, till thou do receive Sight, even a Sight of Jesus Christ, his Death, Blood, Resurrection, Ascension, Intercession, and that for thee, even for thee.

And the rather, because first he hath invited thee to come and buy such Eye-salve of him that may make thee see, Rev. 3. 18. Secondly, because thou shalt never have any true Comfort till thou dost thus come to see, and behold the Lamb of God that hath taken away thy Sins, John 1. 29. Thirdly, because that thereby thou wilt be able (thro' Grace) to step over, and turn aside from the several stumbling-blocks, that Satan, together with his Instruments hath laid in our way, which otherwise thou wilt not be able to shun, but wilt certainly fall when others stand, and grope and stumble when others go upright, to the great Prejudice of thy poor Soul.

Object. But alas, I have nothing to carry with me, how then should I go?

Ans. Hast thou no Sins? If thou hast, carry them, and exchange them for his Righteousness; because he hath said, Cast thy Burden upon the Lord, and he will sustain thee, Psal. 55. 22. and again, because he hath said, though thou be heavy laden, yet if thou do but come to him, he will give thee Rest, Matt. 11. 28.

Object. But (you will say) Satan telleth me that I am so cold in Prayers, so weak in believing, so great a Sinner, that I do go so slothfully on in the Way of God, that I am so apt to slip at every Temptation, and to be entangled therewith, together with other things, so that I shall never be able to attain those blessed things that are held forth to Sinners by Jesus Christ: and therefore my Trouble is much upon this Account also, and many Times I fear that will come upon me which Satan suggesteth to me; that is, I shall miss of eternal Life.

1 Ans. As to the latter part of the Objection, that thou shalt never attain to everlasting Life, that is obtained for thee already, without thy doing, either thy praying, striving, or wrestling against Sin. If we speak properly, it is Christ that hath in his own Body abolished Death on the Cross, and brought Light, Life and Glory to us through this his thus doing. But this is the thing that thou aimest at, that thou shalt never have a Share in this Life already obtained for so many as do come by Faith to Jesus Christ: and all because thou art so slothful, so cold, so weak, so great a Sinner, so subject to slip and commit Infirmities.

2 Ans. I answer, Didst thou never learn to outshoot the Devil in his own Bow, and to cut off his Head with his own Sword, as David served Goliath, who was a Type of him?

Quest. O how should a poor Soul do this? This is rare indeed.

Ans. Why truly thus; doth Satan tell thee thou prayest but faintly, and with very cold Devotion? Answer him thus, and say, I am glad you told me, for this will make me trust the more to Christ's Prayers, and the less to my own; also I will endeavour henceforward to groan, to sigh, and to be so fervent in my crying at the Throne of Grace, that I will, if I can, make the Heavens rattle again, with the mighty Groans thereof. And whereas thou sayest that I am so weak in believing, I am glad you mind me of it, I hope it will henceforward stir me up to cry the more heartily to God for strong Faith, and make me the more restless till I have it. And seeing thou tellest me that I run so softly, and that I shall go near to miss of Glory; this also shall be through Grace to my Advantage, and cause me to press the more earnestly towards the Mark, for the Price of the high Calling of God in Christ Jesus. And seeing thou dost tell me that my Sins are wondrous great; hereby thou bringest the Remembrance of the unsupportable Vengeance of God into my Mind, if I die out of Jesus Christ, and also the Necessity of the Blood, Death, and Merits of Christ to help me; I hope it will make me fly the faster, and press the harder after an Interest in him; and the rather, because (as thou tellest me) my State will be unspeakably miserable without him. And so all along, if he tell thee of thy Deadness, Dullness, Coldness or Unbelief, or the Greatness of thy Sins; answer him, and say, I am glad you told me, I hope it will be a Means to make me run faster, seek earnestlier, and to be the more restless after Jesus Christ. If thou didst but get this Art, as to out-run him in his own Shoes (as I may say) and to make his own Darts to pierce himself, then thou mightest also say, now doth Satan's Temptations, as well as all other things, work together for my Good, for my Advantage, Rom. 8. 28.

Object. But I do find so many Weaknesses in every Duty that I do perform, as when I pray, when I read, when I hear, or any other Duty, that it maketh me out of Conceit with myself, it maketh me think that my Duties are nothing worth.

Answer. I answer, it may be it is thy Mercy, that thou art sensible of Infirmities in the best things thou dost, ay, a greater Mercy than thou art aware of.

Quest. Can it be a Mercy for me to be troubled with my Corruptions? Can it be a Privilege for me to be annoyed with Infirmities, and to have my best Duties infected with it? How can it possibly be?

Answer. Verily thy Sin appearing in thy best Duties, do work for thy Advantage these Ways.

First, In that thou findest Ground enough thereby to make thee humble; and when thou hast done all, yet to count thyself but an unprofitable Servant.

And Secondly, Thou by this Means art taken off from leaning on any thing below a naked Jesus for eternal Life. It is like, if thou wast not sensible of many by-thoughts and Wickednesses in thy best Performances, thou wouldest go near to be some proud, abominable Hypocrite, or a silly, proud, dissembling Wretch at the best, such a one as would send thy Soul to the Devil in a Bundle of thy own Righteousness: but now thou, through Grace, seest that in all and every thing thou doest, there is Sin enough in it to condemn thee. This in the first place makes thee have a Care of trusting in thy own doings. And secondly, sheweth thee, that there is nothing in thyself which will do thee any good, by working in thee, as to the meritorious Cause of thy Salvation: No, but thou must have a Share in the Birth of Jesus, in the Death of Jesus, in the Blood, Resurrection, Ascension, and Intercession of a crucified Jesus: And how sayest thou? Doth not thy finding of this in thee cause thee to fly from a depending on thy own doings? And doth it not also make thee more earnestly to groan after the Lord Jesus? Yea, and let me tell thee also, it will be a Cause to make thee admire the Freeness and Tender-heartedness of Christ to thee, when he shall lift up the Light of his Countenance upon thee, because he hath regarded such a one as thou, sinful thou: And therefore in this Sense it will be a Mercy to the Saints, that they do find the Reliques of Sin still struggling in their Hearts. But this is not simply the Nature of Sin, but the Mercy and Wisdom of God, who causeth all things to work together for the Good of those that love and fear God, Rom. 8. And therefore whatever thou findest in thy Soul, though it be Sin of never so black a Soul-scaring Nature, let it move thee to run the faster to the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt not be ashamed, that is, of thy running to him.

But, Secondly, When thou dost apprehend that thou art defiled, and also thy best Duties annoyed with many Weaknesses, let that Scripture come into thy Thoughts, which saith, Of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us Wisdom, Righteousness, Sanctification and Redemption: And if thou shalt understand that, what thou canst not find in thyself, thou shalt find in Christ. Art thou a Fool in thyself? then Christ is made of God thy Wisdom. Art thou unrighteous in thyself? Christ is made of God thy Righteousness. Dost thou find that there is but little sanctifying Grace in thy Soul? Still here is Christ made thy Sanctification; and all this in his own Person without thee, without thy Wisdom, without thy Righteousness, without thy Sanctification, without in his own Person in thy Father's Presence, appearing there perfect Wisdom, Righteousness, and Sanctification in his own Person, I say, as a publick Person for thee: so that thou mayest believe and say to thy Soul, My Soul, though thou dost find innumerable Infirmities in thyself, and in thy Actions; yet look upon thy Jesus, the Man Jesus, he is Wisdom, and that for thee, to govern thee, to take Care for thee, and to order all things for the best for thee. He is also thy Righteousness now at God's right Hand, always shining before the Eyes of his Glory: so that there it is unmoveable; tho' thou art in never such a sad Condition, dition, yet thy Righteousness, which is the Son of God, God-man, shines as bright as ever, and is as much accepted of God as ever: (O this sometimes hath been Life to me.) And so, whatever thou, O my Soul, findest wanting in thy self, through Faith, thou shalt see all laid up for thee in Jesus Christ, whether it be Wisdom, Righteousness, Sanctification, or Redemption. Nay, not only so: but as I said before, he is all these in his own Person without thee in the presence of his Father for thee.

Object. But now, if any should say in their Hearts, O, but I am one of the Old Covenant-Men I doubt, that is, I doubt I am not within this glorious Covenant of Grace. And how if I should not?

Answer. Well, thou fear'st that thou art one of the Old Covenant, a Son of the Bond-woman. In the first Place, know that thou wast one of them by Nature, for all by Nature are under that Covenant; but set the case that thou art to this Day under that, yet let me tell thee in the first Place, there is hope for thee; for there is a Gap open, a Way made for Souls to come from under the Covenant of Works, by Christ, For he hath broken down the middle Wall of Partition between us and you, Ephes. 2. 14. And therefore if thou wouldest be saved thou mayest come to Christ. If thou wantest a Righteousness (as I said before) there is one in Christ. If thou wouldest be washed, thou mayest come to Christ, and if thou wouldest be justified, there is Justification enough in the Lord Jesus Christ. That's the first.

Answer. 2. And secondly, thou canst not be so willing to come to Christ, as he is thou shouldest come to him; witness his coming down from Heaven, his Humiliation, his spilling of his Blood from both his Cheeks, Luke 23. 44. by sweat under the Burden of Sin, and his shedding of it by the Spear, when he hanged on the Cross. It appears also by his Promises, by his Invitations, by his sending forth his Messengers to preach the same to poor Sinners, and threateneth Damnation upon this very Account, namely, the neglect of him; and declares that all the thousands, and ten thousands of Sins in the World, should not be able to damn those that believed in him; that he would pardon all, forgive and pass by all, if they would but come unto him: moreover, promiseth to cast out none, no, not the poorest, vilest, contemptiblest Creature in the whole World. Come unto me all (every one, though you be never so many, never so vile, though your Load be never so heavy and intolerable, though you deserve no help, not the least help, no Mercy, not the least Compassion) yet cast your Burthen upon me, and you shall find rest for your Souls. Come unto me, and I will heal you, love you, teach you, and tell you the Way to the Kingdom of

Vol. II.

Heaven: Come unto me and I will succour you, help you, and keep you from all Devils and their Temptations, from the Law and its Curses, and from being for ever overcome with any evil whatever. Come unto me for what you need, and tell me what you would have, or what you would have me do for you, and all my Strength, Love, Wisdom, and Interest that I have with my Father, shall be laid out for you. Come unto me, your sweet Jesus, your loving and tender-hearted Jesus, everlasting and sin-pardoning Jesus. Come unto me, and I will wash you, and put my Righteousness upon you, pray to my Father for you, and send my Spirit into you that you may be saved. Therefore,

Consider besides this, what a Privilege thou shalt have at the Day of Judgment above thousands, if thou do in Deed and in Truth close in with this Jesus and accept of him; for thou shalt not only have Privilege in this Life, but in the Life Everlasting, even at the Time of Christ's second coming from Heaven; for then when there shall be the whole World gathered together, and all the good Angels, bad Angels, Saints, and Reprobates, when all thy Friends and Kindred, with thy Neighbours on thy Right-hand and on the Left shall be with thee, beholding of the wonderful Glory and Majesty of the Son of God; then shall the Son of Glory, even Jesus, in the very view and sight of them all, smile and look kindly upon thee; when a smile or a kind look from Christ shall be worth more than ten thousand Worlds, then thou shalt have it. You know it is counted an honour for a poor Man to be favourably looked upon by a Judge, or a King, in the sight of Lords, Earls, Dukes, and Princes; why, thus it will be with thee in the sight of all the Princely Saints, Angels, and Devils, in the sight of all the great Nobles in the World: then even thou that closest in with Christ, be thou rich or poor, be thou bond or free, wise or foolish, if thou close in with him, he will say unto thee, Well done good and faithful Servant, even in the midst of the whole World; they that love thee shall see it, and they that hate thee shall all to their shame behold it; for if thou fear him here in secret, he will make it manifest even as the Day upon the House top.

Secondly, not only thus; but thou shalt also be lovingly received, and tenderly embraced of him at that Day, when Christ hath thousands of gallant Saints, as old Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, David, Isaiah, Jeremiah, together with all the Prophets and Apostles, and Martyrs, attending on him; together with many thousands of glittering Angels ministring before him: besides, when the ungodly shall appear there with their pale Faces, with their guilty Consciences, and trembling Souls, that would then give thousands and ten thousands of Worlds,

(if they had so many) if they could enjoy but one loving Look from Christ. I say then, then shalt thou have the Hand of Christ reached to thee kindly to receive thee, saying, Come thou blessed, step up hither; thou wast willing to leave all for me, and now will I give all to thee; here is a Throne, a Crown, a Kingdom, take them; thou wast not ashamed of me when thou wast in the World among my Enemies, and now will not I be ashamed of thee before thine Enemies, but will in the view of all these Devils and damned Reprobates, promote thee to Honour and Dignity. Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you, from the Foundation of the World: Thou shalt see that those who have served me in Truth, shall lose nothing by the Means: No, but ye shall be as Pillars in my Temple, and Inheritors of my Glory, and shall have place to walk in among my Saints and Angels, Zech. 3. 7. O! who would not be in this Condition? who would not be in this Glory? It will be such a Soul-ravishing Glory, that I am ready to think the whole reprobate World will be ready to run mad, Deut. 28. 34. to think that they should miss of it; then will the vilest Drunkard, Swearer, Liar, and unclean Person willingly cry, Lord, Lord, open to us; yet be denied of Entrance, and thou in the mean Time embraced, entertained, made welcome, have a fair Mitre set upon thy Head, and clothed with immortal Glory, Zech. 3. 5. O therefore let all this move thee, and be of weight upon thy Soul to close in with Jesus, this tender hearted Jesus. And if yet for all what I have said, thy Sins do still stick with thee, and thou findest thy hellish Heart loath to let them go, think with thy self in this manner: Shall I have my Sins, and lose my Soul? will they do me any good when Christ comes? would not Heaven be better to me than my Sins? And the Company of God, Christ, Saints, and Angels, be better than the Company of Cain, Judas, Balaam, with the Devils in the Furnace of Fire. Canst thou now that readest or hearest these Lines, turn thy Back, and go on in thy Sins? Canst thou set so light of Heaven, of God, of Christ, and the Salvation of thy poor, yet precious Soul? Canst thou hear of Christ, his bloody Sweat and Death, and not be taken with it, and not be grieved for it, and also converted by it? If so, I might lay down several Considerations to stir thee up to mend thy Pace towards Heaven; but I shall not, there is enough written already to leave thy Soul without Excuse, and to bring thee down with a Vengeance into Hell-fire, devouring Fire, the Lake of Fire, eternal, everlasting Fire; O to make thee swim and roul up and down in the Flames of the Furnace of Fire.

D R E A M .

Wherein is discover'd,
The Manner of his Setting Out,
His Dangerous Journey, and Safe Arrival at the Desired Country.

In TWO PARTS, Complete.

I have used SIMILITUDES, Hosea XII. 10.

The Author's A P O L O G Y for his Book.

WHEN at the first I took my Pen in Hand,
Thus for to write, I did not understand

That I at all should make a little Book
In such a Mode: Nay, I had undertook
To make another; which, when almost done,
Before I was aware, I this began.

And thus it was: I writing of the Way
And Race of Saints in this our Gospel-day, Fell suddenly into an Allegory
About their Journey, and the Way to Glory,
In more than twenty Things, which I set down;

This done, I twenty more had in my Crown;
And they again began to multiply,
Like Sparks that from the Coals of Fire do fly.
Nay, then, thought I, if that you breed so fast,
I'll put you by yourselves, lest you at last
Should prove ad infinitum, and eat out
The Book that I already am about.

Well, so I did; but yet I did not think
To shew to all the World my Pen and Ink

In such a Mode; I only thought to make
I knew not what: Nor did I undertake Thereby to please my Neighbour; no not I,
I did it my ownself to gratify.

Neither did I but vacant Seasons spend
In this my Scribble; nor did I intend
But to divert myself in doing this,
From worser Thoughts which make me do amiss.

Thus I set Pen to Paper with Delight,
And quickly had my Thoughts in Black and White.

For having now my Method by the End,
Still as I pull'd, it came; and so I penn'd
It down; untill it came at last to be For Length and Breadth, the Bigness which you see.

Well, when I had thus put my Ends together,
I shew'd them others, that I might see whether They would condemn them, or them justify:
And some said, let them live; some, let them die;

Some

Some said, John, print it; others said, not so.
Some said it might do Good, others said No.

Now I was in a Streight, and did not see
Which was the best Thing to be done by me:
At last I thought, since ye are thus divided,
I print it will; and so the Case decided.

For, thought I, some I see would have it done,
Tho' others in that Channel do not run:
To prove then who advised for the best,
Thus I thought fit to put it to the Test.

I farther thought, if now I did deny
Those that would have it, thus to gratify;
I did not know, but hinder them I might
Of that which would to them be great Delight:

For those which were not for its coming forth,
I said to them, Offend you, I am loth;
Yet since your Brethren pleased with it be,
Forbear to judge, till you do farther see.

If that thou wilt not read, let it alone;
Some love the Meat, some love to pick a Bone.
Yea, that I might them better moderate,
I did too with them thus expostulate:

May I not write in such a Style as this?
In such a Method too, and yet not miss
My End, thy Good? Why may it not be done?
Dark Clouds bring Waters, when the bright bring none.

Yea, dark or bright, if they their silver Drops
Cause to descend, the Earth, by yielding Crops, Gives Praise to both, and carpeth not at either,
But treasures up the Fruit they yield together;
Yea, so commixes both, that in their Fruit
None can distinguish this from that; they suit
Her well when hungry: But if she be full,
She spews out both, and makes their Blessing null.

You see the Ways the Fisherman doth take
To catch the Fish; what Engines doth he make?
Behold! How he engageth all his Wits;
Also his Snares, Lines, Angles, Hooks, and Nets:

Yet Fish there be, that neither Hook nor Line, Nor Snare, nor Net, nor Engine can make thine:

They must be groped for, and be tickled too,
Or they will not be catch'd, whate're you do.

How does the Fowler seek to catch his Game
By divers Means? All which one cannot name:
His Gun, his Nets, his Lime-twigs, Light and Bell:

He creeps, he goes, he stands; yea, who can tell

Of all his Postures? Yet, there's none of these Will make him Master of what Fowls he please.
Yea, he must pipe and whistle, to catch this,
Yet if he does so, that Bird he will miss.

If that a Pearl may in a Toad's Head dwell,
And may be found too in an Oyster-shell;
If Things that promise nothing, do contain
What better is than Gold; who will disdain,
That have an Inkling of it, there to look,
That they may find it? Now my little Book, (Though void of all these Paintings that may make

It with this or the other Man to take)
Is not without those Things that do excell
What do in brave, but empty Notions dwell.

Well, yet I am not fully satisfy'd,
That this your Book will stand, when soundly try'd.

Why, what's the Matter? It is dark:
What tho'?

But it is feign'd: What of that I tro'
Some Men by feigned Words, as dark as mine,
Make Truth to spangle, and its Rays to shine!
But they want Solidness: Speak, Man, thy Mind:

They drown the weak, Metaphors make us blind.

Solidity, indeed, becomes the Pen
Of him that writeth Things divine to Men:
Eut must I needs want Solidness, because
By Metaphors I speak? Were not God's Laws
His Gospel-Laws, in older Times held forth
By Types, Shadows and Metaphors? Yet loth
Will any sober Man be to find Fault
With them, lest he be found for to assault
The highest Wisdom: No, he rather stoops,
And seeks to find out by what Pins and Loops,
By Calves and Sheep, by Heifers and by Rams,
By Birds and Herbs, and by the Blood of Lambs,
God speaketh to him; and happy is he
That finds the Light and Grace that in them be.

Be not too forward therefore to conclude
That I want Solidness: that I am rude:
All Things solid in Shew, not solid be;
All Things in Parables despise not we,
Lest Things most hurtful, lightly we receive;
And Things that good are, of our Souls bereave.

My dark and cloudy Words they do but hold
The Truth, as Cabinets inclose the Gold.

The Prophets used much by Metaphors
To set forth Truth: Yea, whose considers Christ, his Apostles too, shall plainly see,
That Truths to this Day in such Mantles be.

Am I afraid to say, That Holy Writ
Which for its Style and Phrase puts down all Wit,

Is every where so full of all these Things,
(Dark Figures, Allegories) yet there springs
From that same Book, that Lustre, and those Rays

Of Light, that turn our darkest Night to Days.

Come,

Come, let my Carper to his Life now look,
And find there darker Lines than in my Book
He findeth any: Tea, and let him know,
That in his best Things there are worse Lines too.

May we but stand before impartial Men,
To his poor one I dare adventure ten,
That they will take my Meaning in these Lines
Far better than his Lies in silver Shrines.
Come, Truth, altho' in Swaddling Clouts I find,
Informs the Judgment, rectifies the Mind;
Pleases the Understanding, makes the Will Submit, the Memory too it doth fill
With what doth our Imaginations please;
Likewise it tends our Troubles to appease.

Sound Words, I know, Timothy is to use,
And old Wives Fables he is to refuse;
But yet grave Paul him no where did forbid
The Use of Parables; in which lay hid That Gold, those Pearls, and precious Stones that were Worth digging for, and that with greatest care.

Let me add one Word more. O Man of God, Art thou offended? Dost thou wish I had Put forth my Matter in another Dress?
Or, that I had in Things been more express?
To those that are my Betters, (as is fit)
Three Things let me propound, then I submit.

1. I find not that I am deny'd the Use Of this my Method, so I no Abuse Put on the Word, Things, Readers, or be rude

In handling Figure of Similitude,
In Application; but all that I may,
Seek the Advance of Truth this or that Way:
Denied, did I say? Nay, I have leave, (Examples too, and that from them that have God better pleased by their Words or Ways,
Than any Man that breatheth now-a-days)
Thus to express my Mind, thus to declare Things unto thee that excellentest are.

2. I find that (Men as high as Trees) will write
Dialogue wise; yet no Man doth them slight,
For writing so: Indeed if they abuse
Truth, cursed be they, and the Craft they use
To that Intent; but yet let Truth be free
To make her Sallies upon thee and me,
Which way it pleases God: For who knows how,
Better than he that taught us first to plough,
To guide our Minds and Pens for his Design?
And he makes base Things usher in Divine.

3. I find that Holy Writ in many Places Hath Semblance with this Method, where the Cases
Do call for one Thing to set forth another;
Use it I may then, and yet nothing smother

Truth's golden Beams: Nay, by this Method may Make it cast forth its Rays as light as Day.

And now, before I do put up my Pen,
I'll shew the Profit of my Book, and then Commit both thee and it unto that hand
That pulls the strong down, and makes weak ones stand.

This Book it chalketh out before thine Eyes
The Man that seeks the Everlasting Prize:
It shews you whence he comes, whither he goes;
What he leaves undone; also what he does;
It also shews you how he runs, and runs,
'Till he unto the Gate of Glory comes.

It shews too, who set out for Life amain,
As if the lasting Crown they would obtain:
Here also you may see the Reason why
They lose their Labour, and like Fools do die:

This Book will make a Traveller of thee,
If by its Counsel thou wilt ruled be;
It will direct thee to the Holy Land,
If thou wilt its Directions understand:
Yea, it will make the Slothful active be;
The Blind also delightful Things to see.

Art thou for something rare and profitable?
Wouldst thou see a Truth within a Fable?
Art thou forgetful? Wouldst thou remember
From New-Year's-Day to the last of December?
Then read my Fancies, they will stick like Burs,
And may be to the Helpless, Comforters.

This Book is writ in such a Dialect,
As may the Minds of listless Men affect:
It seems a Novelty, and yet contains Nothing but sound and honest Gospel-Strains:

Would'st thou divert thyself from melancholy?
Would'st thou be pleasant, yet be far from Folly?
Would'st thou read Riddles and their Explanation?
Or else be drowned in thy Contemplation?
Dost thou love picking Meat? Or would'st thou see
A Man i'th' Clouds, and hear him speak to thee?
Would'st thou be in a Dream, and yet not sleep?
Or, would'st thou in a Moment laugh and weep?
Or, would'st thou lose thyself, and catch no Harm?
And find thyself again without a Charm?
Would'st read thyself, and read thou know'st not what,
And yet know whether thou art blest or not,

 The Jail.* AS I walked thro' the Wilderness of this World, I lighted on a certain Place, where was a * Den, and laid me down in that Place to sleep: And as I slept, I dreamed a Dream.

† Isa. 64. 6. I dreamed, and behold, I saw a † Man
Luke 14. 33. cloathed with Rags, standing in a certain Psal. 38. 4. Place, with his Face from his own House,
Hab. 2. 2. a Book in his Hand, and a great Burden
Acts 16. 31. upon his Back. I looked and saw him open the Book, and read therein; and as he read, he wept and trembled; and not being able longer to contain, he brake out with a lamentable Cry, saying, § What shall I do?

§ His Outcry. In this Plight therefore he went home, and refrained himself as long as he could, that his Wife and Children should not perceive his Distress; but he could not be silent long, because that his Trouble increased: Wherefore at length he break his Mind to his Wife and Children; and thus he began to talk to them: O my dear Wife, said he, and you the Children of my Bowels, I your dear Friend am in myself undone, by reason of a Burden that lieth hard upon me:

° This World. *Moreover, I am certainly informed, that * this our City will be burned with Fire from Heaven: In which fearful Overthrow, both myself, with thee my Wife, and you my sweet Babes, shall miserably come to Ruin, except (the which † yet I see not) some Way of Escape may be found, whereby we may be delivered.* At this his Relations were fore amazed; not for that they believed that what he had said to them was true, but because they thought some Frenzy Distemper had got into his Head; therefore it drawing towards Night, and they hoping that Sleep might settle his Brains, with all Haste they got him to Bed: But the Night was as troublesome to him as the Day; wherefore, instead of Sleeping, he spent it in Sighs and Tears. So when the Morning was come, they would know how he did; he told them worse and worse; he also set to talking to them again, but they began to be harden'd. * They also thought to drive away his Distemper by harsh and surly Carriage to him: Sometimes they would deride, sometimes they would chide, and sometimes they would quite neglect

† He knew no Way of Escape as yet. him. Wherefore he began to retire himself to his Chamber, to pray for and pity them; and also to condole his own Misery: He would also walk solitarily in the Fields, sometimes Reading and sometimes Praying; and thus for some Days he spent his Time.

Now I saw, upon a Time, when he was walking in the Fields, that he was (as he was wont) reading in his Book, and greatly distressed in his Mind; and as he read, he burst out, as he had done before, crying,  What shall I do to be saved?*

I saw also that he looked this Way, and that Way, as if he would run; yet he stood still, because (as I perceived) he could not tell which Way to go. I looked then, and saw a Man named Evangelist coming to him, and asked, Wherefore dost thou cry?

He answer'd, Sir, I perceive by the Book in my Hand, that I am condemned to † die, and after that to come to Judgment; and I find that I am not * willing to do the first, nor † able to do the second.

Then said Evangelist, Why not willing to die, since this Life is attended with so many Evils? The Man answer'd, Because, I fear that this Burden that is upon my Back, will sink me lower than the Grave; and I shall fall into * Tophet. And, Sir, if I be not fit to go to Prison, I am not fit to go to Judgment, and from thence to Execution; and the Thoughts of these Things make me cry.

Then said Evangelist, If this be thy Condition, Why standest thou still? He answered, Because I know not whither to go. Then he gave him a † Parchment-Roll, and there was written within,  Fly from the Wrath to come.*

The Man therefore read it, and looking upon Evangelist very carefully, said, Whither must I fly? Then said Evangelist, pointing with his Finger over a very wide Field, Do you see yonder * Wicket-Gate? The Man said, No: Then said the other, Do you see yonder † Shining Light? He said, I think I do. Then said Evangelist, Keep that Light in your Eye, and go up directly thereto, so shalt thou see the Gate; at which, when thou knockest, it shall be told

Christian no sooner, leaves the World but meets Evangelist, who lovingly him greets
With Tidings of another, and doth shew
Him how to mount, from that which is below

When Christians unto, Carnal men give hear
Out of their way they go they pay for't dear
For Master Worldly Wiseman can but shew
A Saint the way to Bondage and to Woe

He that will enter in must first without Stand knocking at the gate nor need he doubt
That is a knocker but to enter in
For God can love him and forgive his Sin

Who's this the Pilgrim now? 'Tis very true told thee what thou shalt do. So I saw in my Dream that the Man began to run: Now he had not run far from his own Door, but his Wife and Children perceiving it, began to cry after him to return;  Luke 14. 26.* but the Man put his Fingers in his Ears, and ran on crying, Life! Life! eternal Life! † Gen. 19. 17. So he looked not behind him, † but fled toward the Middle of the Plain.

 Jer. 20. 10.* The Neighbours also came out to see him run, and as he ran some mocked, others threatened, and some cried after him to return; and among those that did so, there were two that were resolv'd to fetch him back by Force.  The Name of the one was Obstinate, and the Name of the other Pliable.* Now by this Time the Man was got a good Distance from them; but however, they were resolv'd to pursue him, which they did, and in a little Time they overtook him. Then said the Man, Neighbours, Wherefore are ye come? They said, To persuade you to go back with us; but he said, That can by no means be: You dwell (said he) in the City of Destruction, (the Place also where I was born) I see it to be so: And dying there, sooner or later, you will sink lower than the Grave, into a Place that burns with Fire and Brimstone: Be content, good Neighbours, and go along with me.

 Obstinate.* What, said Obstinate, and leave our Friends and our Comforts behind us!
 Christian.* Yes, said Christian, (for that was his Name) because that All which you shall forsake, is not  worthy to be compared with a little of that, that I am seeking to enjoy; and if you will go along with me, and hold it, you shall fare as I myself; for there where I go, is*  enough and to spare; come away and prove my Words.*

Obst. What are the Things you seek, since you leave all the World to find them?
 1 Pet. 1. 4.* Chr. I seek an  Inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away:* And it is laid up in Heaven, † and safe there, to be bestow'd, at the Time appointed, on them that diligently seek it. Read it so, if you will, in my Book.

Obst. Tush, said Obstinate, away with your Book: Will you go back with us, or no?

Chr. No, not I, said the other; because I have laid my Hand to the  Plough.*

Obst. Come then, Neighbour Pliable, let us turn again, and go home without him: There is a Company of these crazy-headed Coxcombs, that when they take a Fancy by the end, are wiser in their own Eyes than seven Men that can render a Reason.

Pli. Then said Pliable, don't revile; if what the good Christian says, is true, the Things he looks after are better than ours; my Heart inclines to go with my Neighbour.

Obst. What! more Fools still? Be ruled by me, and go back; who knows whither such a brain-sick Fellow will lead you? Go back, go back and be wise.

Chr. Nay, but do thou come with thy Neighbour Pliable; there are such things to be had which I spoke of, and many more Glories besides; if you believe not me, read here in this Book, and for the Truth of what is express'd therein, behold all is confirmed by the  Blood of him that made it.*

Pli. † Well, Neighbour Obstinate (said Pliable) I begin to come to a Point, I intend to go along with this good Man, and to cast in my Lot with him; but, my good Companion, do you know the Way to this desired Place?

Chr. I am directed by a Man whose Name is Evangelist, to speed me to a little Gate that is before us, where we shall receive Instructions about the Way.

Pli. Come then, good Neighbour, let us be going; then they went both together.

Obst. And I will go back to my Place, said Obstinate:  I will be no Companion of such mis-led fantastical Fellows.*

Now I saw in my Dream, that when Obstinate was gone back, Christian and Pliable went † talking over the Plain; and thus they began their Discourse.

Chr. Come, Neighbour Pliable, how do you do? I am glad you are persuaded to go along with me; had even Obstinate himself but felt what I have felt of the Powers and Terrors of what is yet unseen, he would not thus lightly have given us the Back.

Pli. Come Neighbour Christian, since there are none but us two here, tell me now farther, what the Things are? and how to be enjoyed, whither we are going?

Chr. I can  better conceive of them with my Mind, than speak of them with my Tongue: But yet since you are desirous to know, I will read of them in my Book.*

Pli. And do you think that the Words of your Book are certainly true?

Chr. Yes verily, for it was made by him that † cannot lye.

Pli. Well said, what Things are they?

Chr. There is an  endless Kingdom to be inhabited, and everlasting Life to be given us, that we may inhabit that Kingdom for ever.*

Pli. Well said; and what else?

Chr. There are Crowns of Glory to be given us;  and Garments that will make us shine like the Sun in the Firmament of Heaven.*

Pli. This is very pleasant, and what else?

Chr. There shall be no more Crying, † nor Sorrow; for he that is Owner of the Place will wipe all Tears from our Eyes.

Pli. And what Company shall we have there?

Chr. There we shall be with Seraphims,  and Cherubims*, Creatures that will dazzle your Eyes to look on them: There also you you shall meet with Thousands, and ten Thousands that have gone before us to that Place; none of them are hurtful, but loving and holy, every one walking in the Sight of God, and standing in his Presence with Acceptance for ever: In a Word, there we shall see the † Elders with their Golden Crowns: There we shall see the Holy * Virgins with their Golden Harps: There we shall see † Men, that by the World were cut in Pieces, burnt in Flames, eaten of Beasts, drowned in the Seas, for the Love that they bare to the Lord of the Place; all well, and cloathed with * Immortality, as with a Garment.

Pli. The Hearing of this is enough to ravish one's Heart; but are these things to be enjoyed? How shall we get to be Sharers thereof?

Chr. The Lord the Governor of the Country, hath recorded that † in this Book, the Substance of which is, if we be truly willing to have it, he will bestow it upon us freely.

Pli. Well, my good Companion, glad am I to hear of these things; come on, let us mend our Pace.

Chr. I cannot go so fast as I would, by reason of this Burden that is on my Back.

Now I saw in my Dream, that just as they had ended this Talk, they drew nigh to a very * Miry Slough that was in the Midst of the Plain, and they being heedless, did both fall suddenly into the Bog. The Name of the Slough was Despond. Here therefore they wallow'd for a Time, being grievously bedaubed with Dirt; and Christian, because of the Burden that was on his Back, began to sink in the Mire.

Pli. Then said Pliable, Ah! Neighbour, Christian, where are you now?

Chr. Truly, said Christian, I do not know.

Pli. At this Pliable began to be offended, and angrily said to his Fellow, Is this the Happiness you have told me all this while of? If we have such ill Speed at our first Setting out, what may we expect 'twixt this and our Journey's End? † May I get out again with my Life, you shall possess the brave Country alone for me. And with that he gave a desperate Struggle or two, and got out of the Mire on that Side of the Slough which was next to his own House; so away he went, and Christian saw him no more.

Wherefore Christian was left to tumble in the Slough of Despond alone; but still he endeavoured to struggle to that Side of the Slough that was farthest * from his own House, and next to the Wicket-Gate; the which he did, but could not get out because of the Burthen that was upon his Back: But I beheld in my Dream, that a Man came to him, whose Name was Help, and asked him, What he did there?

Chr. Sir, said Christian, I was bid to go this Way, by a Man called Evangelist, who directed me also to yonder Gate, that I might escape the Wrath to come. And as I was going thither, I fell in here.

Help. But why did you not look for the † Steps?

Chr. Fear followed me so hard, that I fled the next Way, and fell in.

Help. Then, said he, * give me thy Hand; so he gave him his Hand, and † he drew him out, and let him upon sound Ground, and bid him go on his Way.

Then I stepped to him that plucked him out, and said, Sir, Wherefore, since over this Place is the Way from the City of Destruction to yonder Gate, is it, that this Plat is not mended, that poor Travellers might go thither with more Security? And he said unto me. This Miry Slough is such a Place as cannot be mended: It is the Descent whither the † Scum and Filth that attends Conviction for Sin doth continually run, and therefore is it called the Slough of Despond; for still as the Sinner is awakened about his lost Condition, there arise in his Soul many Fears and Doubts, and discouraging Apprehensions, which all of them get together, and settle in this Place: And this is the Reason of the Badness of this Ground.

It is not the * Pleasure of the King that this Place should remain so bad; his Labourers also have, by the Directions of his Majesty's Surveyors, been for above this sixteen hundred Years employed about this Patch of Ground, if perhaps it might have been mended: Yea, and to my Knowledge, said he, here have been swallowed up at least twenty Thousand Cart-Loads; yea, Millions of wholesome Instructions, that have at all Seasons been brought from all Places of the King's Dominions (and they that can tell, say, They are the best Materials to make good Ground of the Place) if so be it might have been mended; but it is the Slough of Despond still; and so will be when they have done what they can.

True, there are, by the Direction of the Law-giver, certain good and Substantial * Steps, placed even through the very midst of this Slough; but at such Time as this Place doth much spue out its Filth, as it doth against Change of Weather, these Steps are hardly seen, or if they be, Men, through the Dizziness of their Heads, step besides; and then they are hemired to Purpose, notwithstanding the Steps be there; but the Ground is † good when they are once got in at the Gate.

Now I saw in my Dream, that by this Time * Pliable was got home to his house. † So his Neighbours came to visit him! and some of them called him wise Man for coming back; and some called him Fool for hazarding himself with Christian; others again did mock at his Cowardliness; saying, Surely since you began to venture, I would not have been so base to have given out for a few Difficulties: So Pliable sat sneaking among them. But at last he got more Confidence, and then they all turned their Tales, and began to deride poor Christian behind his Back. And thus much concerning Pliable.

* Mr. Worldly Wiseman meets with Christian. Now as Christian was walking solitarily by himself, he spied one afar off, crossing over the Field * to meet him, and their Hap was to meet just as they were crossing the Way to each other. The Gentleman's Name that met him, was Mr. Worldly Wiseman, he dwelt in the Town of Carnal Policy, a very great Town, and also hard by from whence Christian came. This Man then, meeting with Christian, and having some Knowledge of him (for Christian's setting forth from the City of Destruction, was much noised abroad, not only in the Town where he dwelt, but also it began to be the Town-talk in some other Places) Mr. Worldly Wiseman therefore having some Guess of him, by beholding his laborious Going, by observing his Sighs and Groans, and the like; began thus to enter into some Talk with Christian.

Talk between Mr. Worldly Wiseman and Christian. World. How now, good Fellow, whither away after this burdened Manner?

Chr. A burdened Manner indeed, as ever, I think, poor Creature had! And whereas you ask me, Whither away? I tell you Sir, I am going to yonder Wicket Gate before me; for there, as I am informed, I shall be put into a Way to be rid of my heavy Burthen.

World. Hast thou a Wife and Children?

Chr. Yes; but I am so laden with this Burden, that I cannot take that Pleasure in them as formerly: Methinks, I am as if || 1 Cor. 7. 29. I had none.

World. Wilt thou hearken to me if I give thee Counsel?

Chr. If it be good, I will; for I stand in Need of good Counsel.

* Mr. Worldly Wiseman's Counsel to Christian. World. * I would advise thee then, that thou with all Speed get thyself rid of thy Burden; for thou wilt never be settled in thy Mind till then: Nor canst thou enjoy the Benefits of the Blessings which God hath bestowed upon thee, till then.

Chr. That is that which I seek for, even to be rid of this heavy Burden; but get it off myself, I cannot: Nor is there a Man in our Country, that can take it off my Shoulder; therefore am I going this Way, as I told you, that I may be rid of my Burden.

World. Who bid thee go this Way to be rid of thy Burden?

Chr. A Man that appeared to me to be a very great and honourable Person; his Name, as I remember, is Evangelist.

|| Mr. Worldly Wiseman condemns Evangelist's Counsel. World. || Beware him for his Counsel, there is not a more dangerous and troublesome Way in the World, than is that unto which he hath directed thee; and that thou shalt find, if thou wilt be ruled by his Counsel. Thou hast met with something (as I perceive) already; for I see the Dirt of the Slough of Despond is upon thee; but that Slough is the Beginning of the Sorrows that do attend those that go on in that Way: Hear me, I am older than thou; thou art like to meet with, on the Way which thou goest, Wearisomeness, Painfulness, Hunger, Perils, Nakedness, Sword, Lions, Dragons, Darknes, and in a word, Death, and what not? These Things are certainly true, having been confirmed by many Testimonies. And why should a Man so carelessly cast away himself, by giving heed to a Stranger?

Chr. Why, Sir, this Burden upon my Back is more terrible to me, than are all these things which you have mentioned: * Nay, * The methinks I care not what I meet with in my Way, if so be I can also meet with Deliverance from my Burden. * The Frame of the Heart of a young Christian.

World. How camest thou by the Burden at first?

Chr. By reading this Book in my Hand. || Mr. Worldly Wiseman does not like that Men should be serious in reading the Bible. World. || I thought so; and it has happened unto thee as to other weak Men, who, meddling with Things too high for them, do suddenly fall into thy Distractions: which Distractions do not only unman Men (as thine I perceive have done thee) but they run them upon desperate Ventures, to obtain they know not what.

Chr. I know what I would obtain; it is Ease for my heavy Burden.

World. But why wilt thou seek for Ease this Way, seeing so many Dangers attend it? especially, since (hadst thou but Patience to hear me) I could direct thee to the obtaining of what thou desirest, without the Dangers that thou in this Way wilt run thyself into. Yea, and the Remedy is at Hand. Besides, I will add, that instead of these Dangers, thou shalt meet with much Safety, Friendship, and Content.

Chr. Pray, Sir, open this Secret to me.

World. Why in yonder Village (the Village is named Morality) there dwells a Gentleman, whose name is Legality, a very judicious Man (and a Man of a very good Name) that has Skill to help Men off with such Burdens as thine is, from their Shoulders; yea, to my Knowledge, he hath done a great deal of good this Way: And besides, he hath Skill to cure those that are somewhat crazed in their Wits with their Burden. To him, as I said, thou may'st go, and be helped presently. His House is not quite a Mile from this Place; and if he shou'd not be at home himself, he hath a pretty young Man to his Son, whose Name is Civility, that can do it (to speak on) as well as the old Gentleman himself: There, I say, thou may'st be eased of thy Burden, and if thou art not minded to go back to thy former Habitation, as indeed I would not wish thee; thou may'st send for thy thy Wife and Children to thee to this Village, where there are Houses now stand empty, one of which thou may'st have at a reasonable Rate: Provision is there also cheap and good, and that which will make thy Life more happy is, to be sure there thou shalt live by honest Neighbours, in Credit and good Fashion.

* Christian snared by Mr. Worldly Wiseman's Words. * Now was Christian somewhat at a stand; but presently he concluded, If this be true which this Gentleman hath said, my wisest Course is it to take his Advice; and with that he thus farther spake.

Chr. Sir, which is my Way to this honest Man's House?

|| Mount Sinai.

World. Do you see yonder || high Hill?

Chr. Yes, very well.

World. By that Hill you must go, and the first House you come at is his.

So Christian turned out of his Way, to go to Mr. Legality's House for Help: But behold, when he was got now hard-by the Hill, it seemed so high, and also that Side of it that was next the Way-Side, did hang so much over, that Christian was * afraid to venture farther, lest the Hill should fall on his Head; wherefore there he stood still, and knew not what to do. Also his Burden now seemed heavier to him than while he was in his way. * There came also Flashes of Fire out of the Hill, that made || Christian afraid that he should be burned: here therefore he sweat and did quake for Fear. And now he began to be sorry that he had taken Mr. Worldly Wiseman's Counsel; and with that he saw * Evangelist coming to meet him; at the Sight also of whom he began to blush for Shame. So Evangelist drew nearer and nearer; and coming up to him, he looked upon him with a severe and dreadful Countenance, and thus began to reason with Christian.

* Christian an afraid that Mount Sinai would fall on his head. Exod. 19. 18. * Ver. 16. || Heb. 12. 21.

Evan. || What dost thou here, Christian, said he: At which words Christian knew not what to answer; wherefore at present he stood speechless before him. Then said Evangelist farther, Art not thou the Man that I found crying without the Walls of the City of Destruction?

Chr. Yes, dear Sir, I am the Man.

Evan. Did not I direct thee the way to the little Wicket-Gate?

Chr. Yes, dear Sir, said Christian.

Evan. How is it then that thou art so quickly turned aside? For thou art now out of the way.

Chr. I met with a Gentleman so soon as I had got over the Slough of Despond, who persuaded me, that I might, in the Village before me, find a Man that could take off my Burden.

Evan. What was he?

Chr. He looked like a Gentleman, and talked much to me, and got me at last to yield; so I came hither: But when I beheld this Hill, and how it hangs over the way,

I suddenly made a Stand, lest it should fall on my head.

Evan. What said that Gentleman to you?

Chr. Why, he asked me whither I was going? And I told him.

Evan. And what said he then?

Chr. He asked me if I had a Family? And I told him: But, said I, I am so loaden with the Burden that is on my Back, that I cannot take Pleasure in them as formerly.

Evan. And what said he then?

Chr. He bid me with Speed get rid of my Burden; and I told him it was Ease that I sought: And, said I, I am therefore going to yonder Gate, to receive farther Direction how I might get to the Place of Deliverance. So he said that he would shew me a better way, and short, not so attended with Difficulties, as the way, Sir, that you set me in; which way, said he, will direct you to a Gentleman's House that has Skill to take off these Burdens; So I believed him, and turned out of that way into this, if haply I might be soon eased of my Burden. But when I came to this Place, and beheld Things as they are, I stopped for fear (as I said) of Danger: But I now know not what to do.

Evan. Then (said Evangelist) stand still a little, that I may shew thee the Words of God. So he stood trembling. Then said Evangelist, * See that ye refuse not him that * Heb. 12. 25. speaketh; for if they escaped not, who refused him that spake on Earth, || much more || Evangelist convinces Christian of his Error. shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from Heaven. He said moreover, * Now the Just shall live by Faith; but if any Man draws back, my Soul shall have no Pleasure in him. He also did thus apply them, Thou art the Man that art running into this Misery: Thou hast begun to reject the Counsel of the Most High, and to draw back thy Foot from the Way of Peace, even almost to the hazarding of thy Perdition.

Then Christian fell down at his Foot as dead, crying, Wo is me, for I am undone! At the Sight of which, Evangelist caught him by the Right Hand, saying, All manner of Sin and Blasphemies shall be forgiven unto Men; be not faithless, but believing: Then did Christian again a little revive, and stood up trembling, as at first, before Evangelist.

Then Evangelist proceeded, saying, Give more earnest heed to the Things that I shall tell thee of. I will now shew thee who it was that deluded thee, and who it was also to whom he sent thee. || The Man that met thee, is one Worldly Wiseman, and rightly is he so called; partly, * because he savoureth only the Doctrine of this World; (therefore he always goes to the Town of Morality to Church) and partly, || because he loveth that Doctrine best; for it saveth him from the Cross; and because he is of this this Carnal Temper, therefore he seeketh to prevent my ways, though right. * Now there are three things in this Man's Counsel that thou must utterly abhor.

* Evangelist discovers the Deceit of Mr. Worldly Wiseman.

1. His turning thee out of the way.
2. His labouring to render the Cross odious to thee.
3. And his setting thy Feet in that way that leadeth unto the Administration of Death.

First, Thou must abhor his turning thee out of the way; yea, and thine own consenting thereto; because this is to reject the Counsel of God for the Sake of the Counsel of a Worldly Wiseman. The Lord says, || Strive to enter in at the Strait Gate, the Gate to which I send thee; * for strait is the Gate that leadeth unto Life, and few there be that find it. From this little Wicket Gate, and from the way thereto, hath this wicked Man turned thee, to the bringing of thee almost to Destruction: Hate, therefore, his turning thee out of the way, and abhor thyself for hearkening to him.

* Matt. 7. 13, 14.

Secondly, Thou must abhor his labouring to render the Cross odious unto thee; for thou art to || prefer it before the Treasures in Egypt: Besides, the King of Glory hath told thee, * That he that will save his Life shall lose it: And, he that comes after him, and hates not his Father, and Mother, and Wife, and Children, and Brethren, and Sisters, yea and his own Life also, he cannot be my Disciple. I say therefore, for a Man to labour to persuade thee that That shall be thy Death, without which, the Truth hath said, thou canst not have Eternal Life: This Doctrine thou must abhor.

Thirdly, Thou must hate his setting of thy Feet in the Way that leadeth to the Ministration of Death. And for this thou must consider to whom he sent thee, and also how unable that Person was to deliver thee from thy Burden.

He to whom thou wast sent for Ease, being by Name Legality, is the Son of the * Bond-Woman which now is, and is in Bondage with her Children, and is in a Mystery this Mount || Sinai, which thou hast feared will fall on thy Head. Now if she with her Children are in Bondage, how canst thou expect by them to be made free. This Legality, therefore, is not able to set thee free from thy Burden. No Man was as yet ever rid of his Burden by him; no, nor ever is like to be: Ye cannot be justified by the Works of the Law; for by the Deeds of the Law no Man living can be rid of his Burden: Therefore Mr. Worldly Wiseman is an Alien, and Mr. Legality a Cheat: And for his Son Civility, notwithstanding his smiling Looks, he is but a

|| The Bond Woman.

Hypocrite, and cannot help thee. Believe me, there is nothing in all this Noise, that thou hast heard of these sottish Men, but a Design to beguile thee of thy Salvation, by turning thee from the Way in which I had set thee. After this, Evangelist called aloud to the Heavens for Confirmation of what he had said; and with that there came Words and Fire out of the Mountain under which poor Christian stood, that made the Hair of his Flesh stand up: The Words were thus pronounced, As many as are of the works of the law, are under the curse; for it is written, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the Book of the Law, to do them.

Gal. 3. 10.

Now Christian looked for nothing but Death, and began to cry out lamentably; even cursing the Time in which he met with Mr. Worldly Wiseman; still calling himself a thousand Fools for hearkening to his Counsel: he also was greatly ashamed to think that this Gentleman's Arguments, flowing only from the Flesh, should have the Prevalency with him as to cause him to forsake the right Way. This done, he applied himself again to Evangelist in Words and Sense as follows:

Ch. Sir, * What think you? Is there hopes? May I now go back, and go up to the Wicket-Gate? Shall I not be abandoned for this, and sent back from thence ashamed? I am sorry I have hearkened to this Man's Counsel; but may my Sin be forgiven?

* Christian enquires if he may yet be happy.

Evan. Then said Evangelist to him, thy Sin is very great, for by it thou hast committed two Evils; thou hast forsaken the Way that is good, to tread in forbidden Paths; || Yet will the Man at the Gate receive thee, for he has Good-will for Men: only, said he, take Heed that thou turn not aside again, lest thou perish from the Way, when his Wrath is * kindled but a little. Then did Christian address himself to go back; and Evangelist, after he had kissed him, gave him one Smile, and bid him God speed: So he went on with Haste, neither spake he to any Man by the Way; nor if any asked him, would he vouchsafe them an Answer. He went like one that was all the while treading on forbidden Ground, and could by no Means think himself safe, till again he was got into the Way which he left to follow Mr. Worldly Wiseman's Counsel: So in Process of Time, Christian got up to the Gate. Now over the Gate there was written, || Knock, and it shall be opened unto you. He knocked therefore, more than once or twice, saying,

* Psalm 2. last Verse.

|| Matth. 7. 8.

May I now enter here? will he within Open to sorry me, though I have been An undeserving Rebel? Then shall I Not fail to sing his lasting Praise on high.

At

At last there came a grave Person to the Gate, named Good-will, who asked, Who was there? and whence he came, and what he would have?

Chr. Here is a poor burdened Sinner, I come from the City of Destruction, but am going to Mount Zion, that I may be delivered from the Wrath to come; I would therefore, Sir, since I am informed that by this Gate is the Way thither, know if you are willing to let me in?

Good. * I am willing with all my Heart, said he; and with that he opened the Gate.

So when Christian was stepping in, the other gave him a Pull: Then said Christian what means that? The other told him, A little Distance from this Gate, there is reared a strong Castle, of which * Belzebub is the Captain; from thence both he, and them that are with him, shoot Arrows at those that come up to this Gate, if haply they may die before they can enter in.

Then said Christian, || I rejoice and tremble. So when he was got in, the Man of the Gate asked him who directed him thither.

Chr. Evangelist || bid me come hither and knock, (as I did) and he said, that you, Sir, would tell me what I must do.

Good. An open Door is before thee, and no Man can shut it.

Chr. Now I begin to reap the Benefits of my Hazards.

Good. But how is it that you came alone?

Chr. Because none of my Neighbours saw their Danger, as I saw mine.

Good. Did any of them know of your Coming?

Chr. Yes, My Wife and Children saw me at the first, and called after me to turn again: Also some of my Neighbours stood crying and calling after me to return; but I put my Fingers in my Ears, and so came on my Way.

Good. But did none of them follow you to persuade you to go back?

Chr. Yes, both Obstinate and Pliable: But when they saw that they could not prevail, Obstinate went railing back; but Pliable came with me a little Way.

Goodwill. But why did he not come through?

Chr. We indeed came both together, until we came at the Slough of Despond, into the which we also suddenly fell. And then was my Neighbour Pliable discouraged, and would not adventure farther.

* Wherefore, getting out again on that Side next to his own House, he told me, I should possess the brave Country alone for him: So he went his Way, and I came mine. He after Obstinate, and I to this Gate.

Goodwill. Then said Goodwill, Alas poor Man, is the Celestial Glory of so small Esteem with him, that he counteth it not worth running the Hazard of a few Difficulties to obtain it?

Chr. Truly, said Christian, I have said the Truth of Pliable, and if I should also say all the Truth of myself, it will appear there is || no Difference betwixt him and myself: 'Tis true, he went back to his own House, but I also turned aside to go in the Way of Death, being persuaded thereto by the Carnal Argument of one Mr. Worldly Wiseman.

Goodwill. Oh! did he light upon you? What, he would have had you fought for Ease at the Hands of Mr. Legality; they are both of them very Cheats; but did you take his Counsel?

Chr. Yes, as far as I durst; I went to find out Mr. Legality, until I thought that the Mountain that stands by his House would have fallen upon my Head; wherefore there I was forced to stop.

Goodwill. That Mountain has been the Death of many, and will be the Death of many more: 'Tis well you escaped being dashed in pieces by it.

Chr. Why truly I do not know what had become of me there, had not Evangelist happily met me again as I was musing in the midst of my Dumps: But it was God's Mercy, that he came to me again, for else I had never come hither. But now I am come, such a one as I am, more fit indeed for Death by that Mountain than thus to stand talking with my Lord: But oh! what a Favour is this to me, that yet I am admitted Entrance here?

Goodwill. * We make no Objections against any, notwithstanding all that they have done before they come hither. || They in no wise are cast out; and therefore, good Christian, come a little Way with me, and I will teach thee about the Way thou must go. * Look before thee; dost thou see this narrow Way? THAT is the Way thou must go. It was cast up by the Patriarchs, Prophets, Christ and his Apostles, and it is as strait as a Rule can make it: This is the Way thou must go.

Chr. But, said Christian, * are there no turnings nor windings, by which a Stranger may lose his Way?

Goodwill. Yes, there are many Ways, BUTT down upon this; and they are crooked and wide: But thus thou may'st distinguish the right from the wrong, the right only being || strait and narrow.

Then I saw in my Dream, * That Christian asked him further, If he could not help him off with the Burden that was upon his Back? For as yet he had not got rid thereof, nor could he by any means get it off without Help.

He told him, As to thy Burden, be content to bear it, until thou comest to the Place of || Deliverance; for there it will fall from thy Back of it self.

Then Christian began to gird up his Loins, and to address himself to his Journey.

* The Gate will be opened to broken hearted Sinners.

* Satan envies those that enter the Strait Gate.

|| Christian entered the Gate with Joy and Trembling || Talk between Goodwill and Christian.

* A Man may have Company when he sets out for Heaven, and yet go thither alone.

|| Christian accuseth himself before the Man at the Gate.

* Christian is comforted again. || John 6. 37.

* Christian directed yet on his Way.

* Christian afraid of losing his Way.

|| Mat. 7. 14.

* Christian weary of his Burden.

|| There is no Deliverance from the Guilt and Burden of Sin, but by the Death and Blood of Christ.

ney. So the other told him, That by that he was gone some Distance from the Gate, he would come at the House of the Interpreter, at whose Door he should knock, and he would shew him excellent Things. Then Christian took his Leave of his Friend, and he again bid him God speed.

* Christian comes to the House of the Interpreter.
Then he went on till he came at the House of the * Interpreter, where he knocked over and over; at last one came to the Door, and asked, Who was there?

Chr. Sir, here is a Traveller, who was bid by an Acquaintance of the good Man of this House, to call here for my Profit; I would therefore speak with the Master of the House; so he called for the Master of the House; who after a little Time came to Christian, and asked him what he would have?

Chr. Sir said Christian, I am a Man that am come from the City of Destruction, and am going to Mount Zion; and I was told by the Man that stands at the Gate, at the Head of this Way, that if I called here, you would shew me excellent Things, such as would be a Help to me in my Journey.

* He is enter-tain'd.
* Christian sees a brave Picture.
* The Fa-shion of the Picture.
Inter. Then said the Interpreter, * Come in; I will shew thee that which will be profitable to thee. So he commanded his Man || to light the Candle, and bid Christian follow him: So he had him into a private Room, and bid his Man open a Door; the which when he had done, * Christian saw the Picture of a very grave Person hang up against the Wall; and this was the Fashion of it, || It had Eyes lifted up to Heaven, the best of Books in his Hand, the Law of Truth was written on his Lips, the World was behind his Back; it stood as if it pleaded with Men, and a Crown of Gold did hang over its Head.

Chr. Then said Christian, what meaneth this?

* 1 Cor. 4. 15.
* Gal. 4. 19.
* The Meaning of the Picture.
Inter. The Man whose Picture this is, is one of a thousand; he * can beget Children, || travel in Birth with Children, and nurse them himself when they are born. And whereas thou seest him with his Eyes lift up to Heaven, the best of Books in his Hand, and the Law of Truth writ on his Lips; it is to shew thee, that his Work is to know and unfold dark Things to Sinners; even as also thou || seest him stand as if he pleaded with Men; and whereas thou seest the World as cast behind him, and that a Crown hangs over his Head; that is to shew thee, that slighting and despising Things that are present, for the Love that he hath to his Master's Service, he is sure in the World that comes next, to have Glory for his Reward. Now, said the Interpreter, I have shewed thee this Picture

* Why he shewed him this Picture first.
first, * because the Man whose Picture this is, is the only Man whom the Lord of the Place whither thou art going, hath authorized to be thy Guide in all difficult Places thou may'st meet with in the Way: Wherefore take good heed to what I have shewed thee, and bear well in thy Mind what thou hast seen; lest in thy Journey thou meet with some that pretend to lead thee right, but their Way goes down to Death.

Then he took him by the Hand, and led him into a very large Parlour that was full of Dust, because never swept; the which after he had reviewed a little while, the Interpreter called for a Man to sweep: Now when he began to sweep, the Dust began so abundantly to fly about, that Christian had almost therewith been choaked. Then said the Interpreter to a Damsel that stood by, bring hither the Water, and sprinkle the Room; the which when she had done, it was swept and cleansed with Pleasure.

Chr. Then said Christian, What means this?

Inter. The Interpreter answered, This Parlour is the Heart of a Man that was never sanctified by the sweet Grace of the Gospel: The Dust is his Original Sin, and Inward Corruptions that have defiled the whole Man. He that began to sweep at first, is the Law; but she that brought Water, and did sprinkle it, is the Gospel. Now, whereas thou sawest that as soon as the first began to sweep, the Dust did so fly about, that the Room by him could not be cleansed, but that thou wast almost choaked therewith; this is to shew thee, that the Law, instead of cleansing the Heart (by its working) from Sin, * doth revive, * Rom. 7. 6.
put † Strength into, and * increase it in † 1 Cor. 15. 56.
the Soul, even as it doth discover and for- * Rom. 5. 20.
bid it, for it doth not give Power to sub- due it.

Again, as thou sawest the Damsel sprinkle the Room with Water, upon which it was cleansed with Pleasure; this is to shew thee, that when the Gospel comes in the sweet and precious Influences thereof to the Heart, then I say, even as thou sawest the Damsel lay the Dust, by sprinkling the Floor with Water, so is Sin vanquished and subdued, and the Soul made clean, † John 15. 3.
through the Faith of it, and consequently † Ephes. 5. 26.
† fit for the King of Glory to inhabit. Acts 15. 9.

I saw, moreover, in my Dream, That the Interpreter took him by the Hand, and had him into a little Room, where sat two little Children, each one in his Chair. The Name of the eldest was Passion, and the Name of the other Patience. Passion seemed to be much discontented, but Patience was very quiet. Then Christian asked, What is the Reason of the Discontent of Passion? The Interpreter answered, the Governor of them would have him stay for his best Things, 'till the beginning of the next Year; but he will have all now: * But Patience is willing to wait.

Then I saw that one came to † Passion, and brought him a Bag of Treasure, and poured it down at his Feet; the which he took took up and rejoiced therein, and withal laughed Patience to scorn: But I beheld but a while, and he had *lavished all away, and had nothing left him but Rags.

* And quickly lavishes all away.

Chr. Then said Christian to the Interpreter, || The Matter, || Expound this matter more fully to me.

Inter. So he said, These two Lads are Figures; Passion of the Men of this World, and Patience of the Men of that which is to come: For as here thou seest, Passion will have all now, this Year; that is to say, in this World; so are the Men of this World: They must have all their good things now, they cannot stay till next Year, that is, until the next World, for their Portion of Good. That Proverb, * A Bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, is of more Authority with them, than are all the Divine Testimonies of the Good of the World to come. But as thou sawest, that he had quickly lavished all away, and had presently left him nothing but Rags; so will it be with all such Men at the End of this World.

* The Worldly-man for a Bird in the Hand.

Chr. Then said Christian, Now I see that Patience has the best || Wisdom, and that upon many Accounts. 1. Because he stays for the best Things. 2. And also because he will have the Glory of his, when the other has nothing but Rags.

|| Patience had the best Wisdom.

Int. Nay, you may add another, to wit, the Glory of the next World will never wear out; but these are suddenly gone. Therefore Passion had not so much Reason to laugh at Patience, because he had his good Things first, as Patience will have to laugh at Passion, * because he had his best Things last; for first must give Place to last, because last must have its Time to come; but last gives Place to nothing; for there is not another to succeed: he therefore that hath his Portion first, must needs have a Time to spend it; but he that has his Portion last, must have it lastingly: Therefore it is said of * Dives, In thy Life-time thou receivedst thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things; but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

* Things that are first must give place, but things that are last are lasting.

* Luke 16. Dives had his good things first.

Chr. Then I perceive it is not best to covet things that are now, but to wait for things to come.

* 2 Cor. 4. 18. The first things are but temporal.

Int. You say Truth: * For the things that are seen are Temporal; but the things that are not seen, are Eternal: But tho' this be so, yet since Things present, and our fleshly Appetite are such near Neighbours one to another; and again, because Things to come, and carnal Sense, are such Strangers one to another; therefore it is, that the first of these so suddenly fall into Amity, and that Distance is so continually between the second.

Then I saw in my Dream, that the Interpreter took Christian by the Hand, and led him into a Place where was a Fire burning against a Wall, and one standing by it, always casting much Water upon it, to quench it; yet did the Fire burn higher and hotter.

Then said Christian, What means this?

The Interpreter answered; his Fire is the Work of Grace that is wrought in the Heart; he that casts Water upon it, to extinguish and put it out, is the Devil: But in that thou seest the Fire notwithstanding burn higher and hotter, thou shalt also see the Reason of that. So he had him about to the Backside of the Wall, where he saw a Man with a Vessel of Oil in his Hand, of the which he did also continually cast (but secretly) into the Fire.

Then said Christian, What means this?

The Interpreter answered, This is Christ, who continually with the Oil of his Grace maintains the Work already begun in the Heart: By the Means of which, notwithstanding what the Devil can do, the Souls of his People prove gracious still. And in that thou sawest, that the Man stood behind the Wall to maintain the Fire; this is to teach thee, That it is hard for the Tempted to see how this Work of Grace is maintained in the Soul. * 2 Cor. 12. 9.

I saw also, that the Interpreter took him again by the Hand, and led him into a pleasant Place, where was built a stately Palace, beautiful to behold; at the Sight of which, Christian was greatly delighted; he saw also upon the Top thereof certain Persons walking, who were clothed all in Gold.

Then said Christian, May we go in thither?

Then the Interpreter took him and led him up toward the Door of the Palace; and behold, at the Door stood a great Company of Men, as desirous to go in, but durst not. There also sat a Man at a little Distance from the Door, at a Table Side, with a Book, and his Inkhorn before him, to take the Name of him that should enter therein: He saw also, that in the Door-way stood many Men in Armour to keep it, being resolved to do to the Men that would enter, what hurt and mischief they could. Now was Christian somewhat in Amaze: At last, when every Man started back for fear of the armed Men, Christian saw a Man of a very stout Countenance, come up to the Man that sat there to write, saying, * Set down my Name, Sir; the which when he had done, he saw the Man draw his Sword, and put an Helmet upon his Head, and rush toward the Door upon the armed Men, who laid upon him with deadly Force: But the Man, not at all discouraged, fell to cutting and hacking most fiercely. So after he had † received, and given many Wounds to those that attempted to keep him out, he cut his Way through them all, and pressed forward into the Palace; at which there was a pleasant Voice heard from those that were within, even of those that walked upon the Top of the Palace, saying,

Come

* The Valiant Man.

† Acts 14. 22.

*Come in, come in;
Eternal Glory thou shalt win.*

So he went in, and was cloathed with such Garments as they. Then Christian smiled, and said, I think verily I know the Meaning of this.

Now, said Christian, let me go hence. Nay, stay (said the Interpreter) 'till I have shewed thee a little more, and after that thou shalt go on thy Way. So he took him by the Hand again, and led him into a very dark Room, where there sat a Man in an * Iron Cage.

* Despair like an Iron Cage.

Now the Man, to look on, seemed very sad; he sat with his Eyes looking down to the Ground, his Hands folded together, and he sighed as if he would break his Heart. Then said Christian, What means this? At which the Interpreter bid him talk with the Man.

Then said Christian to the Man, What art thou? The Man answered, I am what I was not once.

Chr. What wast thou once?

13.

Man. The Man said, I was once a fair * and flourishing Professor, both in mine own Eyes, and also in the Eyes of others: I once was, as I thought, fair for the Celestial City, and had then even Joy at the thoughts that I should get thither.

Chr. Well, but what art thou now?

Man. I am now a Man of Despair, and am shut up in it; as in this Iron Cage. I cannot get out; O now I cannot.

Chr. But how camest thou in this Condition?

Man. I left off to watch, and be sober; I laid the Reins upon the Neck of my Lusts; I sinned against the Light of the Word, and the Goodness of God: I have grieved the Spirit, and he is gone: I tempted the Devil, and he is come to me; I have provoked God to Anger, and he has left me; I have so hardened my Heart, that I cannot repent.

Then said Christian to the Interpreter, But is there no Hopes for such a Man as this? Ask him, said the Interpreter.

Chr. Then said Christian, Is there no Hope, but you must be kept in the Iron Cage of Despair?

Man. No, none at all.

Chr. Why? The Son of the blessed is very pitiful.

* Heb. 6.

|| Luke
19. 14.

Man. I have * crucified him to myself afresh; I have despised his || Person, I have despised his Righteousness, I have counted his Blood an unholy Thing, I have done Despite * to the Spirit of Grace: Therefore I shut myself out of all the Promises, and there now remains to me nothing but Threatnings, dreadful Threatnings, fearful Threatnings of certain Judgment and fiery Indignation, which shall devour me as an Adversary.

* Heb.
10. 28,
29.

Chr. For what did you bring yourself into this Condition?

Man. For the Lusts, Pleasures, and Profits of this World; in the Enjoyment of which, I did then promise myself much Delight: But now every one of those Things also bite me, and gnaw me, like a burning Worm.

Chr. But canst thou not now repent and turn?

Man. God hath denied me Repentance. His Word gives me no Encouragement to believe; yea, himself hath shut me up in this Iron Cage: Nor can all the Men in the World let me out. O Eternity, Eternity! How shall I grapple with the Misery that I must meet with in Eternity?

Int. Then said the Interpreter to Christian Let this Man's Misery be remembered by thee, and be an everlasting Caution to thee.

Chr. Well, said Christian, this is fearful; God help me to watch and be sober, and to pray that I may shun the Cause of this Man's Misery. Sir, is it not Time for me to go on my Way now?

Int. Tarry 'till I shall shew thee one Thing more, and then thou shalt go on thy Way.

So he took Christian by the Hand again, and led him into a Chamber, where there was one rising out of Bed; and as he put on his Raiment, he shook and trembled. Then said Christian, Why doth this Man thus tremble? The Interpreter then bid him tell to Christian the Reasons of his so doing: So he began and said, This Night as I was in my Sleep, I dreamed, and behold the Heavens grew exceeding black: Also it thundred and lightened in most fearful wise, that it put me into an Agony. So I looked up in my Dream, and saw the Clouds racked at an unusual Rate; upon which I heard a great Sound of a Trumpet, and saw also a Man sit upon a Cloud, attended with the thousands of Heaven: 1 Cor. 15.

They were all in flaming Fire, also the Heavens were in a burning Flame. Yet there was, by Reason of a fierce Flame which issued out and came before him, a convenient Distance betwixt him and them, as betwixt the Judge and the Prisoners at the Bar. I heard it also proclaimed to them that attended on the Man that sat on the Cloud, * Gather together the Tares, the Chaff and Stubble, and cast them into the burning Lake; and with that the bottomless Pit opened, just whereabout I stood: Out of

* 1 Thes. 7. 19, 17. Clouds, but I was left behind. I also sought to hide myself, but I could not, for the Man that sat upon the Cloud still kept his Eye upon me: My Sins also came into my Mind: And my Conscience did accuse me on every Side. Upon this I awaked from my Sleep.

Chr. But what was it that made you so afraid of this Sight?

Man. Why, I thought that the Day of Judgment was come, and that I was not ready for it: But this frightened me most, that the Angels gathered up several, and left me behind; also the Pit of Hell opened her Mouth just where I stood. My Conscience too afflicted me; and, as I thought the Judge had always his Eye upon me, shewing Indignation in his Countenance.

Then said the Interpreter to Christian, Hast thou considered all these Things?

Chr. Yes, and they put me in Hope and Fear.

Int. Well, keep all Things so in thy Mind, that they may be as a Goad in thy Sides, to prick thee forward in the Way thou must go. Then Christian began to gird up his Loins, and to address himself to his Journey. Then said the Interpreter, the Comforter be always with thee, good Christian; to guide thee in the Way that leads to the City. So Christian went on his Way, saying,

Here I have seen Things rare and profitable, Things pleasant, dreadful, Things to make me stable

In what I have begun to take in Hand; Then let me think on them, and understand Wherefore they shewed me where, and let me be Thankful, O good Interpreter, to thee.

Now I saw in my Dream, That the Highway up which Christian was to go, was fenc'd on either Side with a Wall, and that Wall was called * Salvation. Up this Way therefore did burdened Christian run, but not without great Difficulty, because of the Load on his Back.

He ran thus till he came at a Place somewhat ascending, and upon that Place stood a Cross, and a little below, in the Bottom, a Sepulchre. So I saw in my Dream, that just as Christian came up with the Cross, his Burden loosen'd from off his Shoulders, and fell from off his Back, and began to tumble, and so continued to do, till it came to the Mouth of the Sepulchre, where it fell in, and I saw it no more.

Then was Christian glad and lightsome, and laid with a merry Heart, He hath given me Rest by his Sorrow, and Life by his Death. Then he stood still a while to look and wonder; for it was very surprizing to him, that the Sight of the Cross should thus ease him of his Burden. He looked therefore, and looked again, even till the Springs that were in his Head sent the || Waters down his Cheeks. Now, as he stood looking and weeping, behold three shining ones came to him and saluted him, with Peace be to thee; so the first said to him, * Thy Sins be forgiven thee; the second stript him of his Rags, and * cloathed him with Change of Raiment; the third also set a * Mark on his Forehead, and gave him a Roll, with a Seal upon it, which he bid him look on as he ran, and that he should give it in at the Cœlestial Gate, so they went their Way. Then Christian gave three Leaps for Joy, and went on singing:

Thus far did I come laden with my Sin; Nor could ought ease the Grief that I was in, 'Till I came hither: What a Place is this! Must here be the Beginning of my Bliss? Must here the Burden fall from off my Back? Must here the Strings that bind it to me crack? Blest Cross! blest Sepulchre! blest rather be The Man that there was put to shame for me!

I saw then in my Dream, that he went on thus, even until he came at the Bottom, where he saw, a little out of the Way, three Men fast asleep, with Fetters upon their Heels. The Name of the one was * Simple, another Sloth, and the third Presumption.

Christian then seeing them lie in this Case, went to them, if peradventure he might awake them; and cried, you are like them that sleep on the Top of a * Mast, for the Dead Sea is under you, a Gulph that hath no Bottom: Awake, therefore, and come away; be willing also, and I will help you off with your Irons. He also told them, if he that goeth about like * a roaring Lion, comes by, you will certainly become a Prey to his Teeth. With that they look'd upon him, and began to reply in this Sort: * Simple said, I see no Danger: Sloth said, Tet a little more Sleep: And Presumption said, Every Tub must stand upon his own Bottom. And so they laid down to sleep again, and Christian went on his Way.

Yet was he troubled to think, that Men in that Danger should so little esteem the Kindness of him that so freely offered to help them, both by the awakening of them, counselling of them, and proffering to help them off with their Irons. And as he was troubled thereabout, he espied two Men come tumbling over the Wall, on the Left Hand of the narrow Way; and they made up apace to him. The Name of the one was Formalist, and the Name of the other Hypocrisy. So, as I said, they drew up unto him, who thus enter'd with them into Discourse.

Christian

* Christian talked with them.

Chr. * Gentlemen, Whence came you, and whither go you?

Form. and Hyp. We were born in the Land of Vain-Glory, and are going for Praise to Mount Sion.

Chr. Why came you not in at the Gate which standeth at the Beginning of the Way? Know you not that it is written,

* John
10. 1.

* That he that cometh not in by the Door, but climbeth up some other Way, the same is a Thief and a Robber?

Form. and Hyp. They said, that to go to the Gate for Entrance, was by all their Country-men counted too far about; and therefore their usual Way was to make a short Cut of it, and to climb over the Wall, as they had done.

Chr. But will it not be counted a Trespass against the Lord of the City, whither we are bound, thus to violate his revealed Will?

* They
that come into the Way, but not by the Door,

Form. and Hyp. They told him, * That as for that, he needed not to trouble his Head thereabout; for what they did, they had Custom for, and could produce if need were, Testimony that would witness it, for more than a thousand Years.

they can say something in Vindication of their own Practice.

Chr. But, said Christian, will your Practice stand a Trial at Law?

Form. and Hyp. They told him, that Custom, it being of so long standing as above a thousand Years, would doubtless now be admitted as a Thing legal by an impartial Judge: And besides, say they, if we get into the Way, what's Matter which Way we get in? If we are in, we are in:
Thou art but in the Way, who, as we perceive, came in at the Gate; and we are also in the Way, that came tumbling over the Wall: Wherein now is thy Condition better than ours?

Chr. I walk by the Rule of my Master, you walk by the rude working of your Fancies. You are counted Thieves already by the Lord of the Way, therefore I doubt you will not be found true Men at the End of the Way. You come in by yourselves without his Direction; and shall go out by yourselves, without his Mercy.

To this they made him but little Answer; only they bid him look to himself.
Then I saw that they went on every Man in his Way, without much Conference one with another; save that these two Men told Christian, that as to Laws and Ordinances, they doubted not but they should as conscientiously do them as he, therefore, said they, we see not wherein thou differest from us, but by the Coat that is on thy Back, which was, as we trow, given thee by some of thy Neighbours to hide the Shame of thy Nakedness.

16.

Chr. By * Laws and Ordinances you will not be saved, since you came not in by the Door. And as for this Coat that is on my Back, it was given me by the Lord of the Place whither I go; and that, as you say, to cover my Nakedness with. And I take it as a Token of Kindness to me; for I had nothing but Rags before; and besides, * thus I comfort myself as I go:

Vol. II.

Surely, think I, when I come to the Gate of the City, the Lord thereof will know me for good, since I have his Coat on my Back! a Coat that he gave me freely in the Day that he stript me of my Rags. I have moreover a Mark in my Forehead, of which perhaps you have taken no Notice, which one of my Lord's most intimate Associates fixed there in the Day that my Burden fell off my Shoulders. I will tell you moreover, that I had then given me a Roll sealed, to comfort me by reading, as I go on the Way; I was also bid to give it in at the Celestial Gate, in Token of my certain going in after it; all which Things I doubt you want, and want them, because you came not in at the Gate.

* Christian has got his Lord's Coat on his Back, and is comforted therewith: He is comforted also with his Mark and his Roll.

To these Things they gave him no Answer, only they looked upon each other, and laughed. Then I saw that they went on all, save that Christian kept before, who had no more Talk but * with himself, and * Christian has Talk with himself.

I beheld then, that they all went on 'till they came to the Foot of the Hill † Difficulty, at the Bottom of which was a Spring. † He comes to the Hill
Difficulty
There were also in the same Place two other Ways besides that which came strait from the Gate; one turned to the Left Hand, and the other to the Right, at the Bottom of the Hill; but the narrow Way lay right up the Hill, and the Name of the going up the Side of the Hill, is called Difficulty. Christian now went to the † Spring, and drank thereof to refresh himself, and then began to go up the Hill, saying:

*The Hill, tho' high, I covet to ascend,
The Difficulty will not me offend.
For I perceive the Way to Life lies here:
Come pluck up Heart, let's neither faint
nor fear;
Better, tho' difficult, the right Way to go,
Than wrong, tho' easy, where the End is Wo.*

The other two also came to the Foot of the Hill; but when they saw that the Hill was steep and high; and that there were two other Ways to go; and supposing also that these two Ways might meet again with that up which Christian went, on the other Side of the Hill: Therefore they were resolv'd to go in those Ways.
Now the Name of one of those Ways was Danger, and the Name of the other Destruction. So the * one took the Way which is called Danger, which led him into a great Wood, and the other took directly up the Way to Destruction, which led him into a wide Field, full of dark Mountains, where he stumbled and fell, and rose no more.

I looked then after Christian, to see him go up the Hill, where I perceived he fell from running to going, and from going to clambering upon his Hands and his Knees, because of the Steepness of the Place. Now about the Mid-way to the Top of the Hill, was a pleasant [†] Arbour, made by the Lord of the Hill, for the refreshing of weary Travellers; thither therefore Christian got, where also he sat down to rest him: Then he pulled his Roll out of his Bosom, and read therein to his Comfort; he also now began afresh to take a Review of the Coat or Garment that was given him as he stood by the Cross. Thus pleasing himself a while, he at last fell into a Slumber, and thence into a fast Sleep, which detained him in that Place until it was almost Night; and in his Sleep ^{*} his Roll fell out of his Hand. Now as he was sleeping, there came one to him, and awaked him, saying, [†] Go to the Ant, thou Sluggard; consider her Ways, and be wise: And with that Christian suddenly started up, and sped him on his Way, and went apace till he came to the Top of the Hill.

Now when he was got up to the Top of the Hill, there came two Men running to meet him again; the Name of the one was ^{*} Timorous, and of the other Mistrust: To whom Christian said, Sirs, What's the Matter you run the wrong Way? Timorous answer'd, That they were going to the City of Zion, and had got up that difficult Place: But said he, the farther we go, the more Danger we meet with; wherefore we turned, and are going back again.

Yes, said Mistrust, for just before us lies a Couple of Lions in the Way; (whether sleeping or waking we know not) and we could not think, if we came within Reach, but they would presently pull us in Pieces.

Chr. Then said Christian, You make me afraid: But whither shall I flee to be safe? If I go back to my own Country, that is prepared for Fire and Brimstone, and I shall certainly perish there: If I could get to the Cœlestial City, I am sure to be in Safety there: ^{*} I must venture; to go back, is nothing but Death; to go forward, is Fear of Death, and Life everlasting beyond it: I will yet go forward. So Mistrust and Timorous ran down the Hill, and Christian went on his Way. But thinking again of what he had heard from the Men, he felt in his Bosom for his Roll, that he might read therein, and be comforted; but he felt, and found ^{*} it not. Then was Christian in great Distress, and knew not what to do; for he wanted that which used to relieve him; and that which should have been his pass into the Cœlestial City. Here therefore he began to be much [†] perplex'd, [†] He is perplex'd and knew not what to do; at last he be- ^{for his} thought himself that he had slept in the ^{Roll.} Arbour that is on the Side of the Hill; and falling down upon his Knees, he asked God Forgiveness for that his foolish Fact, and then went back to look for his Roll. But all the Way he went back, who can sufficiently set forth the Sorrow of Christian's Heart? Sometimes he sigh'd, sometimes he wept, and oftentimes he chid himself for being so foolish to fall asleep in that Place which was erected only for a little Refreshment for his Weariness. Thus therefore he went back, carefully looking on this Side and on that all the Way as he went, if happily he might find the Roll that had been his Comfort so many times in his Journey. He went thus 'till he came again in Sight of the Arbour where he sat and slept; but that Sight renewed ^{} his ^{} Chri- Sorrow the more, by bringing again, even ^{istian be-} afresh, his Evil of Sleeping into his Mind. ^{wails his} Thus therefore he now went on bemoaning ^{foolish} his sinful Sleep, saying, O wretched Man ^{Sleeping,} that I am! that I should sleep in the Day-^{Rev. 2. 2.} ^{2 Theff. 5.} time! that I should sleep in the midst of Difficulty! that I should so indulge the Flesh, as to use that Rest for Ease to my Flesh, which the Lord of the Hill hath erected only for the Relief of the Spirits of Pilgrims! How many Steps have I took in vain! (Thus it happen'd to Israel, for their Sin they were sent back again by the Way of the Red Sea) and I am made to tread those Steps with Sorrow, which I might have trod with Delight, had it not been for this sinful Sleep. How far might I have been on my Way by this Time! I am made to tread those Steps thrice over, which I needed not to have trod but once: Yea, now also I am like to be benighted, for the Day is almost spent: O that I had not slept! Now by this time he was come to the Arbour again, where for a while he sat down and wept; but at last (as Christian would have it) looking sorrowfully down under the Settle, there he ^{} espied his Roll; ^{} Chri- the which he with Trembling and Haste ^{istian find-} catch'd up and put into his Bosom. But ^{eth} who can tell how Joyful this Man was, ^{his Roll} when he had gotten his Roll again? For ^{where he} this Roll was the Assurance of his Life, and ^{lost it.} Acceptance at the desired Haven. Therefore he laid it up in his Bosom, gave God Thanks for directing his Eye to the Place where it lay, and with Joy and Tears betook himself again to his Journey. But, O how nimbly now did he go up the rest of the Hill! Yet, before he got up, the Sun went down upon Christian; and this made him again recall the Vanity of his Sleeping to his Remembrance; and thus he again began to condole with himself: O thou sinful Sleep! how for thy Sake am I like to be benighted in my Journey: I must walk without the Sun, Darkness must cover the Path

Path of my Feet, and I must hear the Noise of doleful Creatures, because of my sinful Sleep! Now also he remember'd the Story that Mistrust and Timorous told him of, how they were frighted with the Sight of the Lions. Then said Christian to himself again, These Beasts range in the Night for their Prey, and if they should meet with me in the Dark, how should I shift them? How should I escape being by them torn in Pieces? Thus he went on his Way; but while he was thus bewailing his unhappy Miscarriage, he lift up his Eyes, and behold there was a very stately Palace before him, the Name of which was Beautiful, and it stood just by the Highway Side.

So I saw in my Dream, that he made Haste and went forward, that if possible he might get Lodging there. Now before he had gone far, he enter'd into a very narrow Passage, which was about a Furlong off the Porter's Lodge, and looking very narrowly before him as he went, he espied two Lions in the Way. Now, thought he, I see the Danger that Mistrust and Timorous were driven back by. (The Lions were chain'd, but he saw not the Chains.) Then he was afraid, and thought himself to go back after them, for he thought nothing but Death was before him: But the Porter at the Lodge, whose Name is Watchful, perceiving that Christian made a Halt, as if he would go back, cried unto him, saying,

13. 14.

* Is thy Strength so small? Fear not the Lions, for they are chain'd, and are placed there for Trial of Faith, where it is, and for Discovery of those that have none: Keep in the Midst of the Path, and no Hurt shall come unto thee.

Then I saw that he went on Trembling for Fear of the Lions; but taking good Heed to the Directions of the Porter, he heard them roar, but they did him no Harm. Then he clapt his Hands, and went on till he came and stood before the Gate where the Porter was. Then said Christian to the Porter, Sir, What House is this? And, May I lodge here to Night? The Porter answer'd, This House was built by the Lord of the Hill, and he built it for the Relief and Security of Pilgrims. The Porter also asked whence he was, and whither he was going?

Chr. I am come from the City of Destruction, and am going to Mount Zion; but because the Sun is now set, I desire, if I may, to lodge here to Night.

Porter. What is your Name?

Chr. My Name is now Christian, but my Name at the first was Graceless: I came of the Race of * Japheth, whom God will persuade to dwell in the Tents of Shem.

* Gen. 9.
27.

Port. But how doth it happen that you came so late? The Sun is set.

Chr. I had been here sooner, but that, wretched Man that I am, I slept in the Arbour that stands on the Hill-side! Nay, I had, notwithstanding that, been here much sooner, but that in my Sleep I lost my Evidence, and came without it to the Brow of the Hill, and then feeling for it, and finding it not, I was forced, with Sorrow of Heart, to go back to the Place where I slept my Sleep, where I found it, and now I am come.

Port. Well, I will call out one of the Virgins of this Place, who will (if she likes your Talk) bring you in to the rest of the Family, according to the Rules of the House. So Watchful the Porter rang a Bell, at the Sound of which came out of the Door of the House a grave and beautiful Damsel, named Discretion, and asked why she was call'd?

The Porter answer'd, This Man is in a Journey from the City of Destruction to Mount Zion, but being weary and benighted, he asked me if he might lodge here to Night: So I told him I would call for thee, who, after Discourse had with him, may't do as seemeth thee good, even according to the Law of the House.

Then she asked him, whence he was, and whither he was going? And he told her. She asked him also, how he got into the Way? and he told her. Then she asked him, what he had seen and met with in the Way? and he told her. And at last she asked his Name? So he said, It is Christian; and I have so much the more a Desire to lodge here to Night, because by what I perceive, this Place was built by the Lord of the Hill, for the Relief and Security of Pilgrims: So she smiled, but the Water stood in her Eyes: And after a little Pause, she said, I will call forth two or three more of my Family. So she ran to the Door, and called out Prudence, Piety, and Charity; who after a little more Discourse with him, had him into the Family; and many of them meeting him at the Threshold of the House, said, Come in, thou Blessed of the Lord; this House was built by the Lord of the Hill, on purpose to entertain such Pilgrims in. Then he bowed his Head, and followed them into the House: So when he was come in, and sat down, they gave him something to drink, and consented together that until Supper was ready, some of them should have some particular Discourse with Christian, for the best Improvement of Time, and they appointed Piety, and Prudence, and Charity, to discourse with him; and thus they began:

Piety. Come, good Christian, since we have been so loving to you, to receive you ^{Piety discourses} into our House this Night, let us, if perhaps we may better ourselves thereby, talk with you of all things that have happen'd to you in your Pilgrimage.

Chr. With a very good will, and I am glad that you are so well disposed.

Piety.

Piety. What moved you at first to betake yourself to a Pilgrim's Life?

Chr. I was driven out of my Native Country by a dreadful Sound that was in mine Ears; to wit, That unavoidable Destruction did attend me, if I abode in that place where I was.

Piety. But how did it happen that you came out of your Country this way?

Chr. It was as God would have it; for when I was under the Fears of Destruction, I did not know whither to go; but by chance there came a Man, even to me, as I was trembling and weeping, whose Name is Evangelist, and he directed me to the Wicket-Gate, which else I should never have found, and so set me into the way that hath led me directly to this house.

Piety. But did you not come by the House of the Interpreter?

Chr. Yes, and did see such things there, the Remembrance of which will stick by me as long as I live: Especially three things, * to wit, How Christ, in despite of Satan, maintains his Work of Grace in the Heart; how the Man had sinned himself quite out of Hopes of God's Mercy; and also the Dream of him that thought in his Sleep the Day of Judgment was come.

Piety. Why, Did you hear him tell his Dream?

Chr. Yes, and a dreadful one it was, I thought; it made my Heart ake as he was telling of it; but yet I am glad I heard it.

Piety. Was this all you saw at the House of the Interpreter?

Chr. No, he took me and had me where he shewed me a stately Palace, and how the People were clad in Gold that were in it; and how there came a venturous Man, and cut his way thro' the armed Men that stood in the Door to keep him out; and how he was bid to come in, and win eternal Glory: Methought those things did ravish my Heart! I would have staid at that good Man's house a twelvemonth, but that I knew I had farther to go.

Piety. And what saw you else in the way?

Chr. Saw! why I went but a little farther, and I saw one, as I thought in my Mind, hang bleeding upon a Tree; and the very Sight of him made my Burden fall off my Back, (for I groaned under a very heavy Burden) but then it fell down from off me. 'Twas a strange thing to me, for I never saw such a thing before: Yea, and while I stood looking up, (for then I could not forbear looking) Three Shining ones came to me: One of them testify'd that my Sins were forgiven me; another stript me of my Rags, and gave me this broider'd Coat which you see; and the third set the Mark which you see in my Forehead, and gave me this sealed Roll; (and with that he plucked it out of his Bosom.)

Piety. But you saw more than this, did you not?

Chr. The things that I have told you, were the best; yet some other Matters I saw, as namely, I saw three Men, Simple, Sloth, and Presumption, lie asleep a little out of the Way as I came, with Irons upon their Heels; but do you think I could awake them! I also saw Formality and Hypocrisy come tumbling over the Wall, to go (as they pretended) to Zion, but they were quickly lost; even as I myself did tell them, but they would not believe: But, above all, I found it hard Work to get up this Hill, and as hard to come by the Lions Mouths; and truly if it had not been for the good Man, the Porter that stands at the Gate, I do not know, but that, after all, I might have gone back again; but now I thank God I am here, and I thank you for receiving of me.

Then Prudence thought good to ask him a few Questions, and desired his Answer to them.

Prud. Do you not think sometimes of the Country from whence you came?

Chr. Yea, || but with much Shame and Detestation: Truly, if I had been mindful of that Country from whence I came out, I might have had Opportunity to have returned; but now I desire a better Country; that is, a Heavenly One.

Prud. Do you not yet bear away with you some of the Things that then you were conversant withal?

Chr. Yes, but greatly against my Will; especially my inward and || carnal Cogitations, with which all my Countrymen, as well as myself, were delighted; but now all those Things are my Grief; and might I but choose mine own Things, I would * choose never to think of those Things more; but when I would be doing of that which is best, that which is worst is with me.

Prud. Do you not find sometimes, as if those Things were vanquished, which at other Times are your Perplexity?

Chr. Yes, but that is but seldom; but they are to me * Golden Hours, in which such things happen to me.

Prud. Can you remember by what Means you find your Annoyances at times, as if they were vanquished?

Chr. Yes, when || I think what I saw at the Cross, that will do it; and when I look upon my 'broidered Coat, that will do it; and when I look into the Roll that I carry in my Bosom, that will do it; and when my Thoughts wax warm about whither I am going, that will do it.

Prud. And what is it that makes you so desirous to go to Mount Zion?

Chr. Why, * there I hope to see him alive that did hang dead on the Cross; and there I hope to be rid of all those Things that to this Day are in me an Annoyance to me: There they say there is no || Death,

Chr. So I did; and told them also what God had shewed to me of the Destruction of our City; but I seemed to them as one that mocked, and they believed me not.

Cha. And did you pray to God that he would bless your Counsel to them?

Chr. Yes, and that with much Affection, for you must think that my Wife and poor Children were very dear unto me.

Cha. But did you tell them of your own Sorrow, and Fear of Destruction? For I suppose that Destruction was visible enough to you?

Chr. Yes, over and over, and over. They might also * see my Fears in my Countenance, in my Tears, and also in my Trembling under the Apprehension of the Judgment that did hang over our Heads; but all was not sufficient to prevail with them to come with me.

Cha. But what could they say for themselves why they came not?

Chr. Indeed I cannot commend my life, for I am conscious to myself of many Failings therein: I know also, that a Man by his Conversation may soon overthrow what by Argument or Persuasion he doth labour to fasten upon others for their Good. Yet, this I can say, I was very wary of giving them Occasion, by any unseemly Action, to make them averse to going on Pilgrimage. Yea, for this very Thing, they would tell me I was too precise, and that I denied myself of Things (for their Sakes) in which they saw no Evil. Nay, I think I may say, that, if what they saw in me did hinder them, it was my great Tenderneſs in sinning against God, or of doing any Wrong to my Neighbour.

Vol. II.

Cha. Indeed * Cain hated his Brother, because his own Works were Evil, and his Brother's Righteous; and if thy Wife and Children have been offended with thee for this, they thereby shew themselves to be implacable to † Good; and thou hast delivered thy Soul from their Blood.

Now I saw in my Dream, that thus they sat talking together until Supper was ready. So when they had made ready, they sat down to Meat; now the Table was furnished with † fat Things, and with Wine that was well refined; and all their Talk at the * Table was about the LORD of the Hill; as, namely, about what HE had done, and wherefore HE did what HE did, and why he had built that house; and by what they said, I perceived that HE had been a great Warrior, and had fought with, and slain † him that had the Power of Death, but not without great Danger to himself, which made me love him the more.

For, as they said, and as I believe, (said Christian) he did it with the Loss of much Blood; but that which put Glory of Grace into all he did, was, that he did it out of pure Love to his Country. And besides, there were some of them of the Household that said, they had been, and spoke with him since he did die on the Cross; and they have attested, that they had it from his own Lips, that he is such a Lover of poor Pilgrims, that the Like is not to be found from the East to the West.

They moreover gave an Instance of what they affirmed, and that was, he had stripped himself of that Glory, that he might do this for the Poor; and that they heard him say and affirm, That he would not dwell in the Mountain of Zion alone. They said moreover, That he had made many Pilgrims * Princes, tho' by Nature they were Beggars born, and their Original had been the Dunghil.

Thus they discoursed together till late at Night: and after they had committed themselves to the Lord for Protection, they betook themselves to Rest: The Pilgrim they laid in a large upper † Chamber, whose Window opened towards the Sun-rising: The Name of the Chamber was Peace, where he slept till Break of Day, and then he awoke and sang,

Where am I now! Is this the Love and Care

*Of Jesus, for the Men that Pilgrims are,
Thus to provide! That I should be forgiven,
And dwell already the next Door to Heaven!*

So, in the Morning, they all got up; and after some more Discourse, they told him that

K k k

that he should not depart till they had shewed him the Rarities of that Place. And first they had him into the Study, * where they shewed him Records of the greatest Antiquity; in which, as I remember my Dream, they shewed him first the Pedigree of the Lord of the Hill, that he was the Son of the Ancient of Days, and came by that eternal Generation: Here also was more fully recorded the Acts that he had done, and the Names of many Hundreds that he had taken into his Service; and how he had placed them in such Habitations, that could neither by Length of Days, nor Decays of Nature, be dissolved.

Then they read to him some of the worthy Acts that some of his Servants had done; As how they had subdued Kingdoms, wrought Righteousness, obtained Promises, stopped the Mouths of Lions, quenched the * Violence of Fire, escaped the Edge of the Sword, out of Weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in Fight, and turned to Flight the Armies of the Aliens.

Then they read again in another Part of the Records of the House, where it was shewed how willing their Lord was to receive into his Favour, any, even any, tho' they in Time past had offered great Affronts to his Person and Proceedings. Here also were several other Histories of many other famous Things, of all which Christian had a View: As of Things both Ancient and Modern; together with Prophecies and Predictions of Things that have their certain Accomplishment, both to the Dread and Amazement of Enemies, and the Comfort and Solace of Pilgrims.

The next Day they took him, and had him into the † Armory, where they shewed him all Manner of Furniture, which their Lord had provided for Pilgrims, as Sword, Shield, Helmet, Breast-plate, All-Prayer, and Shoes that would not wear out. And there was here enough of this to harness as many Men, for the Service of their Lord, as there be Stars in the Heaven for Multitude.

They also shewed him some of the Engines with which some of his Servants had done wonderful Things. * They shewed him Moses's Rod, the Hammer and Nail with which Jael slew Sisera, the Pitchers, Trumpets, and Lamps too, with which Gideon put to flight the Armies of Midian. Then they shewed him the Ox's Goad, wherewith Shamgar slew six hundred Men. They shewed him also the Jaw-bone with which Sampson did such mighty Feats: They shewed him moreover the Sling and Stone with which David slew Goliath of Gath; and the Sword also with which their Lord will kill the Man of Sin, in the Day that he shall rise up to the Prey. They shewed him besides many excellent Things, with which Christian was much delighted. This done, they went to their Rest again.

Then I saw in my Dream, That on the Morrow he got up to go forwards, but they desired him to stay till the next Day also; and then said they, we will (if the Day be clear) shew you the * Delectable † Christian shewed the delectable Mountains; which, they said, would yet farther add to his Comfort, because they were nearer the desired Haven than the Place where at present he was; so he consented and staid. When the Morning was up, they had him to the top of the House, and bid him look * South: So he did; and behold, at a great Distance, he saw a most pleasant mountainous Country, beautified with Woods, Vineyards, Fruits of all Sorts, Flowers also, with Springs and Fountains, very delectable to behold. Then he asked the Name of the Country. They said, it was Emanuel's Land; and it is as common, said they, as this Hill is to and for all the Pilgrims. And when thou comest there, from thence thou mayest see to the Gate of the Cœlestial City, as the Shepherds that live there will make appear.

Now he bethought himself of setting forward, † and they were willing he should. † Christian sets forward. But first, said they, let us go again into the Armory: So they did; and when he came there, they * harneſſed him from * Christian sent away armed. Head to Foot with what was of Proof, lest perhaps he should meet with Assaults in the Way. He being therefore thus accoutred, walketh out with his Friends to the Gate, and there he asketh the Porter, If he saw any Pilgrim pass by? Then the Porter answered, Yes.

Christian. Pray, did you know him? said he.

Port. I asked his Name, and he told me it was Faithful.

Chr. O, said Christian, I know him; he is my Townsman, my near Neighbour, he comes from the Place where I was born: How far do you think he may be before?

Port. He is got by this Time below the Hill.

Chr. Well, said * Christian, good Porter, the Lord be with thee, and add to all thy Blessings much Increase for the Kindness thou hast shewed to me. * How Christian and the Porter greet at parting.

Then he began to go forward; but Discretion, Piety, Charity, and Prudence, would accompany him down to the Foot of the Hill. So they went on together, reiterating their former Discourses, till they came to go down the Hill. Then said Christian, As it was difficult coming up, so, so far as I can see, it is dangerous going down. Yes, said Prudence, so it is; for it is a hard Matter for a Man to go down into the Valley of * Humiliation, as thou art now, and to catch no Slip by the Way; therefore, said they, are we come out to accompany thee down the Hill. So he began to go down, but very warily; yet he caught a Slip or two.

Then

Then I saw in my Dream, That these good Companions (when Christian was got down to the Bottom of the Hill) gave him a Loaf of Bread, a Bottle of Wine, and a Cluster of Raisins; and then he went his Way.

Whilst Christian is among his godly Friends, Their golden Mouths make him sufficient mends For all his griefs; and when they let him go, He's clad with Northern steel from top to toe.

But now in this Valley of Humiliation, poor Christian was hard put to it; for he had gone but a little Way, before he espied a foul Feind coming over the Field to meet him: His Name is Apollyon. Then did Christian begin to be afraid, and to cast in his Mind whether to go back or to stand his Ground. But he consider'd again, that he had no * Armour for his Back, and therefore thought that to turn the Back to him might give him greater Advantage, with Ease, to pierce him with his Darts; therefore he resolved to venture, and † stand his Ground: For, thought he, had I no more in mine Eye than the Saving of my Life, 'twould be the best way to stand.

So he went on, and Apollyon met him: Now the Monster was hideous to behold: He was cloathed with Scales like a Fish; (and they are his Pride) he had Wings like a Dragon, Feet like a Bear, and out of his Belly came Fire and Smoke. and his Mouth was as the Mouth of a Lion. When he was come up to Christian, he beheld him with a disdainful Countenance, and thus began to question with him.

Apollyon. * Whence come you? and whither are you bound?

Chr. I am come from the City of Destruction, which is the Place of all Evil, and am going to the City of Zion.

Apol. By this I perceive thou art one of my Subjects; for all that Country is mine, and I am the Prince and God of it. How is it then that thou hast run away from thy King? Were it not that I hope thou may'st do me more Service, I would strike thee now at one Blow to the Ground.

Chr. I was born indeed in your Dominions, but your Service was hard, and your Wages such as a Man could not live on; † for the Wages of Sin is Death; therefore, when I was come to Years, I did as other confederate Persons do, look out, if perhaps I might mend myself.

Apol. There is no Prince that will thus lightly lose his Subjects, neither will I as yet lose thee; but since thou complaine'st of thy Service and Wages, * be content to go back; what our Country will afford, I do here promise to give thee.

Chr. But I have let myself to another, even to the King of Princes, and how can

I, with Fairness, go back with thee?

Apol. Thou hast done in this according to the Proverb, † Change a Bad for a Worse: But it is ordinary for those that have professed themselves his Servants, after a while to give him the Slip, and return again to me: Do thou so too, and all shall be well.

Chr. I have given him my Faith, and sworn my Allegiance to him, How then can I go back from this, and not be hanged as a Traytor?

Apol. Thou didst the same to me, and yet I am willing to pass by all, if now thou wilt yet turn and go back.

Chr. What I promised thee was in my Non-age; and besides, I count that the Prince under whose Banner now I stand, is able to absolve me; yea, and to pardon also what I did as to my Compliance with thee: And besides, (O thou destroying Apollyon) to speak Truth, I like his Service, his Wages, his Servants, his Government, his Company, and Country, better than thine; and therefore leave off to persuade me farther, I am his Servant, and I will follow him.

Apol. * Consider again, when thou art in cool Blood, what thou art like to meet with in the Way that thou goest. Thou knowest, that for the most part, his Servants come to an ill End, because they are Transgressors against me and my Ways. How many of them have been put to shameful Deaths! and besides, thou countest his Service better than mine, whereas he never came yet from the Place where he is, to deliver any that served him out of their Hands: But as for me, how many Times, as all the World very well knows, have I delivered, either by Power or Fraud, those that have faithfully served me, from him and his, though taken by them? And so I will deliver thee.

Chr. His forbearing at present to deliver them, is on purpose to try their Love, whether they will cleave to him to the End: And as for the ill End thou sayest they come to, that is most glorious in their Account: But, for present Deliverance, they do not much expect it; for they stay for their Glory, and then they shall have it, when their Prince comes in his, and the Glory of the Angels.

Apol. Thou hast already been unfaithful in thy Service to him; and how dost thou think to receive Wages of him?

Chr. Wherein, O Apollyon! have I been unfaithful to him?

Apol. Thou didst faint at * first setting out, when thou wast almost choaked in the Gulph of Despond; thou didst attempt wrong Ways to be rid of thy Burden, whereas thou shouldest have stayed till thy Prince had taken it off. Thou didst sinfully sleep, and lose thy choice Things. Thou was also almost persuaded to go back at at the Sight of the Lions; And when thou talkest of thy Journey, and of what thou hast heard and seen, thou art inwardly desirous of Vain-glory in all that thou sayest or doest.

Chr. All this is true, and much more, which thou hast left out; but the Prince whom I serve and honour, is merciful and ready to forgive: But besides, these Infirmities possess'd me in thy Country; for there I suck'd them in, and I have groaned under them, been sorry for them, and have obtain'd Pardon of my Prince.

Apollyon in a Rage falls upon Christian.

Apol. Then Apollyon, broke out into a grievous Rage, saying, I am an enemy to this Prince; I hate his Person, his Laws, and People: I am come out on purpose to withstand thee.

Chr. Apollyon, beware what you do; for I am in the King's Highway, the Way of Holiness; therefore take heed to yourself.

Apol. Then Apollyon straddled quite over the whole Breadth of the Way, and said, I am void of Fear in this Matter; prepare thy self to die; for I swear by my infernal Den, That thou shalt go no farther: Here will I spill thy Soul!

And with that he threw a flaming Dart at his Breast; but Christian had a Shield in his Hand, with which he caught it, and so prevented the Danger of that.

Then did Christian draw; for he saw it was time to bestir him; and Apollyon as fast made at him, throwing Darts as thick as Hail; by the which, notwithstanding all that Christian could do to avoid it, * Apollyon wounded him in his Head, his Hand, and Foot. This made Christian give a little back: Apollyon, therefore, followed his Work amain, and Christian again took Courage, and resisted as manfully as he could. This fore Combat lasted for above half a Day, even till Christian was almost quite spent. For you must know, that Christian, by reason of his Wounds, must needs grow weaker and weaker.

Then Apollyon espying his Opportunity, began to gather up close to Christian, and wrestling with him, gave him a dreadful † Fall; and with that Christian's Sword flew out of his Hand. Then said Apollyon, I am sure of thee now: And with that he had almost press'd him to Death; so that Christian began to despair of Life. But, as God would have it, while Apollyon was fetching his last Blow, thereby to make a full End of this good Man, Christian nimbly reached out his Hand for his * Sword, and caught it, saying, Rejoyce not against me, O mine Enemy! when I fall I shall arise; and with that gave him a deadly Thrust, which made him give back, as one that had received his Mortal Wound.

Christian perceiving that, made at him again; saying, * Nay, in all these Things we are more than Conquerors, through him that loved us. And with that Apollyon spread forth his Dragon's Wings, and sped him away, that Christian saw him no more.

In this Combat no Man can imagine, unless he had seen and heard as I * did, † what Yelling and hideous Roaring Apollyon made all the Time of the Fight: He spake like a Dragon: And on the other side, what Sighs and Groans burst from Christian's Heart. I never saw him all the while give so much as one pleasant Look, till he perceived he had wounded Apollyon with his two-edged Sword: then, indeed, he did smile, and look upward: But it was the dreadfullest Sight that ever I saw.

So when the Battle was over, Christian said, † I will here give Thanks to him that † Christian gives God Thanks for his Deliverance. bath delivered me out of the Mouth of the Lion, to him that did help me against Apollyon. And so he did; saying,

Great Beelzebub, the Captain of this Fiend
Design'd my Ruin; therefore to this End,
He sent him harness'd out; and he with Rage,
That hellish was, did fiercely me engage:
But blessed Michael helped me, and I,
By Dint of Sword, did quickly make him fly:
Therefore to him let me give lasting Praise,
And Thanks, and bless his holy Name always.

Then there came to him a Hand with some of the Leaves of the Tree of Life, the which Christian took and applied to the Wounds that he had received in the Battle, and was healed immediately. He also sat down in that Place to eat Bread, and to drink of the Bottle that was given him a little before; so being refreshed, he addressed himself to his Journey, with his Sword drawn in his * Hand; for he said, I know not but some other Enemy may be at hand. But he met with no other Affront from Apollyon quite thro' the Valley.

Now at the End of this Valley was another, call'd, || The Valley of the Shadow of Death, and Christian must needs go thro' it, because the way to the Cœlestial City lay thro' the midst of it: Now this Valley is a very solitary Place. The Prophet * Jeremiah thus describes it: A Wilderness, a Land of Desarts, and of Pits; a Land of Drought, and of the Shadow of Death, a Land that no Man (but a Christian) passeth through, and where no Man dwelt.

Now here Christian was worse put to it than in his Fight with Apollyon; as by the Sequel you shall see.

I saw then in my Dream, That when Christian was got to the Borders of the Shadow of Death, there met him two Men, || Children of them that brought up an * evil Report of the good Land, making haste to go back; to whom Christian spake as follows:

Chr. Whither are you going?

Chr. But what have you met with? said Christian?

Chr. But what have you seen? said Christian.

Job 3. 5.
ch. 10. 22.

Men. Seen! Why the Valley itself, which is as dark as Pitch: We also saw there the Hobgoblins, Satyrs, and Dragons of the Pit: We heard also in that Valley a continual Howling and Yelling, as of a People under unutterable Misery, who there sat bound in Affliction and Irons; and over that Valley hangs the discouraging Clouds of Confusion: Death also doth always spread his Wings over it. In a word, it is every whit dreadful, being utterly without Order.

Jer. 2. 6.

Chr. Then said Christian, I perceive not yet, by what you have said, but that this is my Way to the desired Haven.

Men. Be it thy Way, we will not choose it for ours.

So they parted, and Christian went on his Way, but still with his Sword drawn in his hand, for fear lest he should be assaulted.

I saw then in my Dream, so far as this Valley reached, there was on the Right Hand a very deep Ditch: That Ditch is it, into which the Blind have led the Blind in all Ages, and have both there miserably perished. Again, behold, on the Left Hand, there was a very dangerous Quag, into which, if even a good Man falls, he finds no Bottom for his Foot to stand on: Into that Quag King David once did fall, and had, no doubt, therein been smother'd, had not he that is able pluck'd him out.

The Path-way was here also exceeding narrow, and therefore good Christian was the more put to it; for when he sought, in the Dark, to shun the Ditch on the one hand, he was ready to tip over into the Mire on the other: Also when he sought to escape the Mire, without great Carefulness he would be ready to fall into the Ditch. Thus he went on, and I heard him here sigh bitterly: For besides the Danger mentioned above, the Path-way was here so dark, that oft-times, when he lift up his Foot to set forward, he knew not where, or upon what, he should set it next.

About the Midst of this Valley, I perceived the Mouth of Hell to be, and it stood also hard by the Way-side: Now, thought Christian, what shall I do? And ever and anon the Flame and Smoke would come out in such Abundance, with Sparks and hideous Noises, (Things that cared not for Christian's Sword, as did Apollyon before) that he was forced to put up his Sword, and betake himself to another Weapon, called All Prayer: So he cried, in my hearing, O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my Soul. Thus he went on a great while, yet still the Flames would be reaching towards him: Also he heard doleful Voices, and Rushings too and fro, so that sometimes he thought he should be torn in pieces, or trodden down like Mire in the Streets. This frightful Sight was seen, and these dreadful * Noises were heard by him for several Miles together: And coming to a Place, where he thought he heard a Company of Fiends coming forward to meet him, he stopt, and began to muse what he had best to do: Sometimes he had half a Thought to go back; then again he thought he might be half-way through the Valley: He remembered also, how he had already vanquished many a Danger; and that the Danger of going back might be much more than for to go forward; so he resolved to go on: Yet the Fiends seemed to come nearer and nearer: But when they were come even almost at him, he cried out with a most vehement Voice, I will walk in the Strength of the Lord God: So they gave back and came no farther.

* Christian put to a Stand, but for a while.

One Thing I would not let slip: I took Notice that now poor Christian was so confounded, that he did not know his own Voice: And thus I perceived it: Just when he was come over-against the Mouth of the burning Pit, one of the Wicked Ones got behind him, and stept up softly to him, and whisperingly suggested many grievous Blasphemies to him, || which he verily thought || Christian had proceeded from his own Mind. This put Christian more to it than any thing that he met with before, even to think that he should now blaspheme him that he loved so much before; yet, if he could have helped it, he would not have done it: But he had not the Discretion either to stop his Ears, or to know from whence those Blasphemies came.

|| Christian made believe that he spoke Blasphemies, when 'twas Satan that suggested them into his Mind.

When Christian had travelled in this disconsolate Condition some considerable time, he thought he heard the Voice of a Man, as going before him, saying, Though I walk through the Valley of the Shadow of Death, I will fear none Ill, for thou art with me.

Pfal. 23. 4.

Then was he glad; and that for these Reasons:

First, Because he gathered from thence, that some who feared God were in this Valley as well as himself.

Secondly, For that he perceived God was with them, though in that dark and dismal

State:

State: And why not, thought he, with me? Though by reason of the Impediment that attends this Place, I cannot perceive it.

Thirdly, For that he hoped (could he overtake them) to have Company by-and-by.

So he went on, and call'd to him that was before; but he knew not what to answer: For that he also thought himself to be alone. And by-and-by the day broke:

Amos 5. 8. Then said Christian, He hath turned the Shadow of Death into the Morning.

Now Morning being come, he looked back, not out of Desire to return, but to see, by the light of the * Day, what Hazards he had gone through in the Dark: So he saw more perfectly the Ditch that was on the one Hand, and the Quag that was on the other; also how narrow the Way was which led betwixt them both; also how he saw the Hobgoblins, and Satyrs, and Dragons of the Pit, but all afar off: For after Break of Day they came not nigh, yet they were discovered to him, according to that which is written, He discovereth deep Things out of Darkeness, and bringeth out to Light the Shadow of Death.

Now was Christian much affected with his Deliverance from all the Dangers of his solitary Way; which Dangers, though he feared them more before, yet he saw them more clearly now, because the Light of the Day made them conspicuous to him; and about this time the Sun was rising, and this was another Mercy to Christian: For you must note, that though the first Part of the Valley of the Shadow of Death was dangerous, * yet this second Part, which he was yet to go, was, if possible, far more dangerous: For, from the Place where he now stood, even to the End of the Valley, the Way was all along set so full of Snares, Traps, Gins, and Nets here, and so full of Pits, Pit-falls, deep Holes, and Shelvings down there, that had it now been dark, as it was when he came the first Part of the Way, had he had a thousand Souls, they had in reason been cast away; but, as I said, just now the Sun was rising. Then said he, His Candle shineth on my Head, and by his Light I go through Darkeness.

In this Light therefore he came to the End of the Valley. Now I saw in my Dream, that at the End of this Valley lay Blood, Bones, Ashes, and mangled Bodies of Men, even of Pilgrims that had gone this Way formerly: And while I was musing what should be the Reason, I espied a little before me a Cave, where two Giants, Pope and Pagan, dwelt in old Time; by whose Power and Tyranny the Men, whose Bones, Blood, Ashes, &c. lay there, were cruelly put to Death. But by this Place Christian went without much Danger, whereat I somewhat wonder'd: But I have learnt since, that Pagan has been dead many a Day; and as for the other, though he be yet alive, he is, by reason of Age, and also of the many shrewd Brushes that he met with in his younger Days, grown so crazy and stiff in his Joints, that he can now do little more than sit in his Cave's Mouth, grinning at Pilgrims as they go by, and biting his Nails, because he cannot come at them.

So I saw that Christian went on his Way; yet, at the Sight of the Old Man, that sat at the Mouth of the Cave, he could not tell what to think, 'specially because he spake to him, though he could not go after him; saying, You will never mend, till more of you be burnt. But he held his Peace, and let a good Face on't, and so went by, and catch'd no Hurt. Then sang Christian:

*O World of Wonders! (I can say no less)
That I should be preserv'd in that Distress
That I have met with here! O blessed be
That Hand that from it hath deliver'd me!
Dangers in Darkeness, Devils, Hell, and Sin,
Did compass me, while I this Vale was in:
Yea Snares, and Pits, and Traps, and Nets did lie*

*My Path about, that worthless, silly I Might have been catch'd, entangled, and cast
down:*

But since I live, let JESUS wear the Crown.

Now, as Christian went on his Way, he came to a little Ascent, which was cast up on purpose, that Pilgrims might see before them: Up there, therefore, Christian went; and looking forward, he saw Faithful before him upon his Journey: Then said Christian aloud, Ho ho: So ho: Stay, and I will be your Companion. At that Faithful looked behind him; to whom Christian cried again, Stay, stay, till I come up to you. But Faithful answer'd, No, I am upon my Life, and the Avenger of Blood is behind me.

At this Christian was somewhat moved, and putting to all his Strength, he quickly got up with * Faithful, and did also over-^{* Christian overtakes Faithful.}run him, so the last was first. Then did Christian vain-gloriously smile, because he had gotten the Start of his Brother: But not taking good Heed to his Feet, he suddenly stumbled and fell, and could not rise again, until Faithful came up to help him.

Then I saw in my Dream, they went very lovingly † on together, and had sweet † ^{† Christian's Fall makes Faithful and he go lovingly together.}Discourse of all Things that had happened to them in their Pilgrimage; and thus Christian began.

Chr. My honoured and well-beloved Brother Faithful, I am glad that I have overtaken you; and that God has so tempered our Spirits, that we can walk as Companions in this so pleasant a Path.

Faith. I had thought, dear Friend, to have had your Company quite from our Town, but you did get the Start of me: Wherefore I was forced to come thus much of the Way alone.

Chr. What, did your Neighbours talk so?

Faith. Yes, 'twas for a while in every body's Mouth.

Chr. What! and did no more of them but you come out to escape the Danger?

Faith. Tho' there was, as I said, a great Talk thereabout, yet I do not think they did firmly believe it. For in the Heat of the Discourse, I heard some of them deridingly speak of you and of your desperate Journey (for so they called this your Pilgrimage:) But I did believe, and do still, that the End of our City will be with Fire and Brimstone from Above: And therefore I have made my Escape.

Chr. Did you hear no Talk of Neighbour Pliable?

Faith. Yes, Christian, I heard that he followed you 'till he came to the Slough of Despond; where, as some said, he fell in: but he would not be known to have so done, but I am sure he was soundly bedaubed with that kind of Dirt.

Chr. And what said the Neighbours to him?

Faith. He hath, since his going back, been had greatly in Derision, and that among all sorts of People; some do mock and despise him, and scarce will any set him on work. He is now seven times worse than if he had never gone out of the City.

Chr. But why should they be so set against him, since they also despise the Way that he forsook?

Faith. O, they say, hang him; he is a Turn-coat! he was not true to his Profession! I think God has stirred up even his Enemies to hiss at him, and make him a Proverb, because he hath forsaken the way.

Chr. Had you no Talk with him before you came out?

Faith. I met him once in the Streets, but he leared away on the other Side, as one ashamed of what he had done: So I spake not to him.

Faith. You know that I mean all carnal and fleshly Content.

Chr. Thank God you have escaped her: Prov. 22. 14. The Abhorred of the Lord shall fall into her Ditch.

Faith. Nay, I know not whether I did wholly escape her, or no.

Chr. Why, I trow, you did not consent to her Desire?

Faith. No not to defile myself; for I remember'd an old Writing that I had seen, which said, Her Steps take hold of Hell. So I shut mine Eyes, because I would not be bewitched with her Looks: Then she railed on me, and I went my way. Prov. 5. 5. Job 31. 1.

Chr. Did you meet with no other Assault as you came?

Faith. When I came to the Foot of the Hill call'd Difficulty, I met with a very aged || Man, who asked me what I was? and whither bound? I told him that I was a Pilgrim, going to the Coelestial City. Then said the old Man, Thou lookest like an honest Fellow; wilt thou be content to dwell with me, for the Wages that I shall give thee? Then I asked him his Name, and where he dwelt? He said his Name was Adam the first, and that he dwelt in the Town of Deceit. I asked him then, What was his Work? And what the Wages that he would give? He told me, that his Work was many Delights; and his Wages, that I should be his Heir at last. I farther asked him, what House he kept, and what other Servants he had? So he told me, that his House was maintained with all the Dainties in the World; and that his Servants were those of his own begetting. Then I asked, how many Children he had? He said, that he had but three Daughters, * The Lust of the Flesh, The Lust of the Eyes, and The Pride of Life; and that I should marry one of them if I would. Then I asked, how long Time he would have me live with him? And he told me, As long as he lived himself. || He was assaulted by Adam the first. Eph. 4. 22.

Chr. Well, and what Conclusion came the Old Man and you to at last?

Faith.

* 1 John
2. 16.

Faith. Why, at first I found myself somewhat inclinable to go with the Man, for I thought he spake very fair; but looking in his Forehead as I talked with him, I saw there written, Put off the Old Man with his Deeds.

Chr. And how then?

Faith. Then it came burning hot into my Mind whatever he said, and however he flattered, when he got me home to his House, he would sell me for a Slave. So I bid him forbear to talk, for I would not come near the Door of his House. Then he reviled me, and told me, that he would send such a one after me, that should make my Way bitter to my Soul. So I turned to go away from him; but just as I turned myself to go thence, I felt him take hold of my Flesh, and give me such a deadly Twitch back, that I thought he had pulled part of me after himself: This made me cry, O wretched Man! So I went on my Way up the Hill.

Rom. 7.

Now when I had got about half way up, I looked behind me, and saw one coming after me, swift as the Wind; so he overtook me just about the Place where the Settle stands.

Chr. Just there (said Christian) did I sit down to rest me; but being overcome with Sleep, I there lost this Roll out of my Bosom.

Faith. But, good Brother hear me out: So soon as the Man overtook me, he was but a Word and a Blow; for down he knock'd me, and laid me for dead. But when I was a little come to myself again, I ask'd him, Wherefore he served me so? He said, because of my secret inclining to Adam the first: And with that he struck me another deadly Blow on the Breast, and beat me down backward; so I lay at his Foot as dead as before. When I came to myself again, I cried him Mercy. But he said, I know not how to shew Mercy; and with that knock'd me down again. He had doubtless made an End of me, but that one came by, and bid him forbear.

Chr. Who was that that bid him forbear?

Faith. I did not know him at first; but as he went by, I perceived the Holes in his Hands and in his Side: Then I concluded that he was our Lord. So I went up the Hill.

Chr. That Man that overtook you, was Moses. He spareth none, neither knoweth he how to shew Mercy to those that transgress his Law.

The Temple of Moses.

Faith. I know it very well; it was not the first Time that he has met with me. 'Twas he that came to me when I dwelt securely at home, and that told me he would burn my House over my Head, if I staid there.

Chr. But did you not see the House that stood there on the Top of the Hill, on the Side of which Moses met you?

Faith. Yes, and the Lions too, before I came at it; but for Lions, I think they were asleep; for it was about Noon: And because I had so much of the Day before me, I passed by the Porter, and came down the Hill.

Chr. He told me indeed, That he saw you go by; but I wish you had call'd at the House; for they would have shewed you so many Rarities, that you would scarce have forgot them to the Day of your Death. But pray tell me, Did you meet no Body in the Valley of Humility?

Faith. Yes, I met with one † Discontent, † Faithful who would willingly have persuaded me to go back again with him: His Reason was, For that the Valley was altogether without Honour. He told me moreover, That there to go, was to disoblige all my Friends, as Pride, Arrogancy, Self-Conceit, Worldly-Glory, with others, who, he knew, as he said, would be very much offended, if I made such a Fool of myself as to wade through this Valley.

Chr. Well, and how did you answer him?

Faith. I told him, * That altho' all these that he named, might claim a Kindred of me, and that rightly, (for indeed they were my Relations, according to the Flesh) yet since I became a Pilgrim, they have disowned me, as I also have rejected them; and therefore they were to me now, no more than if they had never been of my Lineage: I told him moreover, That as to this Valley, he had quite mis-represented the thing; for before Honour is Humility, and a haughty Spirit before a Fall. Therefore, said I, I had rather go through this Valley to the Honour that was so accounted by the Wisest, than choose that which he esteemed most worthy our Affections.

Chr. Met you with nothing else in that Valley?

Faith. Yes, I met with † Shame; but of all the Men that I met with in my Pilgrimage, he, I think, bears the wrong Name. The other would be said Nay, after a little Argumentation, and somewhat else: But this bold-faced Shame would never have done.

Chr. Why, what did he say to you?

Faith. What! why he objected against Religion it self; he said, 'Twas a pitiful, low, sneaking Business for a Man to mind Religion! he said that a tender Conscience was an unmanly Thing; and that for a Man to watch over his Words and Ways, so as to tie up himself from that hectoring Liberty that the brave Spirits of the Times accustom themselves unto, would make him the Ridicule of the Times. He objected also, That but few of the Mighty, Rich, or Wise, were ever of my Opinion; nor any of them neither, before they were persuaded persuaded to be Fools, and to be of a voluntary Fondness to venture the Loss of all, for no Body else knows what. He moreover objected the base and low Estate and Condition of those that were chiefly the Pilgrims of the Times in which they lived; also their Ignorance, and Want of Understanding in all Natural Science. Yea, he did hold me to it at that Rate also, about a great many more Things than here I relate; as that it was a Shame to sit whining and mourning under a Sermon, and a Shame to come sighing and groaning Home: That it was a Shame to ask my Neighbour Forgiveness for my petty Faults, or to make Restitution where I have taken from any. He said also, That Religion made a Man grow strange to the Great, because of a few Vices, (which he called by finer Names) and made him own and respect the Base, because of the same Religious Fraternity: And is not this, said he, a Shame?

Chr. And what did you say to him?

Faith. Say! I could not tell what to say at first. Yea, he put me so to it, that my Blood came up in my Face; even this Shame fetch'd it up, and had almost beat me quite off. But at last I began to consider, That that which is highly esteemed among Men, is had in Abomination with God. And I thought again, this Shame tells me what Men are; but it tells me nothing what God or the Word of God is. And I thought moreover, That at the Day of Doom we shall not be doomed to Death or Life, according to the hectoring Spirits of the World, but according to the Wisdom and Law of the Highest. Therefore, thought I, what God says, is best, tho' all the Men in the World are against it: Seeing then that God prefers his Religion; seeing God prefers a tender Conscience; seeing they that make themselves Fools for the Kingdom of Heaven, are wisest; and that the poor Man that loveth Christ, is richer than the greatest Man in the World that hates him; Shame, depart, thou art an Enemy to my Salvation; shall I entertain thee against my Sovereign Lord? How then shall I look him in the Face at his Coming? Should I now be ashamed of his Ways and Servants, how can I expect the Blessing? But indeed this Shame was a bold Villain; I could scarce shake him out of my Company: Yea, he would be haunting of me, and continually whispering me in the Ear, with some one or other of the Infirmities that attend Religion; but at last I told him, it was but in vain to attempt further in this Business; for those Things that he disdained, in those did I see most Glory: And so at last I got past this importunate one. And when I had shaken him off, then I began to sing:

*The Tryals that those Men do meet withal,
That are obedient to the Heavenly Call,*

Vol. II.

*Are manifold and suited to the Flesh,
And come, and come, and come again afresh;
That now, or some time else, we by them may
Be taken, overcome, and cast away.
O let the Pilgrims, let the Pilgrims then
Be vigilant, and quit themselves like Men.*

Chr. I am glad, my Brother, that thou didst withstand this Villain so bravely; for of all, as thou sayest, I think he has the wrong Name; for he is so bold as to follow us in the Streets, and to attempt to put us to Shame before all Men, that is, to make us ashamed of that which is good; but if he was not himself audacious, he would never attempt to do as he does; but let us still resist him; for notwithstanding all his Bravado's, he promoteth the Fool, and none else. The Wise shall inherit Glory, said Solomon; but Shame shall be the Promotion of Fools. Prov. 3.35

Faith. I think we must cry to Him for Help against Shame, that would have us to be valiant for Truth upon the Earth.

Chr. You say true: But did you meet no Body else in that Valley?

Faith. No not I; for I had Sun-shine all the rest of the Way thro' that, and also thro' the Valley of the Shadow of Death.

Chr. It was well for you; I am sure, it fared far otherwise with me; I had for a long Season, as soon almost as I entered into this Valley, a dreadful Combat with that foul Fiend Apollyon; yea, I thought verily he would have killed me, especially when he got me down, and crushed me under him, as if he would have crushed me to Pieces: For as he threw me, my Sword flew out of my Hand; nay, he told me, he was sure of me; but I cried to God, and he heard me, and delivered me out of all my Troubles. Then I entered into the Valley of the Shadow of Death, and had no Light for almost half the Way through it. I thought I should have been killed there over and over; but at last Day brake, and the Sun rose, and I went thro' that which was behind with far more Ease and Quiet.

Moreover I saw in my Dream, that as they went on, Faithful, as he chanced to look on one side, saw a Man whose Name is Talkative, walking at a Distance besides them (for in this Place there was Room enough for them all to walk.) * He was a tall Man, and something more comely at a Distance, than at Hand: To this Man Faithful addressed himself in this Manner.

* Talkative described.

Faith. Friend, Whither away? are you going to the Heavenly Country?

Talk. I am going to the same Place.

Faith. That is well; then I hope we may have your good Company?

Talk. With a very good Will will I be your Companion.

Faith. † Come on then, and let us go together, and let us spend our Time in discoursing courting of Things that are profitable.

Talk. To talk of things that are good, to me is very acceptable, with you, or with any other; and I am glad that I have met with those that incline to so good a Work; For to speak the Truth, * there are but few that care thus to spend their Time (as they are in their Travels) but choose much rather to be speaking of Things to no Profit; and this hath been a Trouble to me.

* Talkative's Discourse like of bad Discourse.

Faith. That is indeed a Thing to be lamented; for what Thing so worthy of the Use of the Tongue and Mouth of Men on Earth, as are the Things of the God of Heaven?

Talk. I like you wonderful well; for your Sayings are full of Conviction; and I will add, What thing is so pleasant, and what so profitable, as to talk of the Things of God?

What Things so pleasant? (that is, if a Man hath any Delight in Things that are wonderful) for Instance: If a Man doth delight to talk of the History, or the Mystery of Things; or if a Man doth love to talk of Miracles, Wonders, or Signs, where shall he find Things recorded so delightful, and so sweetly penned, as in the Holy Scripture?

Faith. That's true; but to be profited by such things in our Talk, should be our chief Design.

Talkative's fine Discourse.

Talk. That is it that I said; for to talk of such Things is most profitable; for by so doing, a Man may get Knowledge of many Things; as of the Vanity of Earthly Things, and the Benefit of Things Above: (Thus in general) but more particularly; by this a Man may learn the Necessity of the New Birth; the Insufficiency of our Works; the Need of Christ's Righteousness, &c. Besides, by this a Man may learn what it is to Repent, to Believe, to Pray, to Suffer, or the like: By this also, a Man may learn what are the great Promises and Consolations of the Gospel, to his own Comfort. Farther, by this a Man may learn to refute false Opinions, to vindicate the Truth, and also to instruct the Ignorant.

Faith. All this is true, and glad am I to hear these Things from you.

Talk. Alas! the Want of this is the Cause that so few understand the Need of Faith, and the Necessity of the Work of Grace in their Soul, in order to Eternal Life; but ignorantly live in the Works of the Law, by which a Man can by no Means obtain the Kingdom of Heaven.

Faith. But, by your Leave, Heavenly Knowledge of these is the Gift of God; no Man attaineth to them by human Industry, or only by the Talk of them.

* O brave Talkative.

Talk. * All this I know very well. For a Man can receive nothing, except it be given him from Heaven; all is of Grace, not of Works: I could give you an hundred Scriptures for the Confirmation of this.

Faith. Well then, said Faithful, what is that one Thing that we shall at this Time found our Discourse upon?

Talk. What you will: † I will talk of Things Heavenly, or Things Earthly; Things Moral, or Things Evangelical; Things Sacred, or Things Prophane; Things past, or Things to come; Things Foreign, or Things at Home; Things more Essential, or Things Circumstantial; provided that all be done to our Profit.

† O brave Talkative.

Faith. Now did * Faithful begin to wonder, and stepping to Christian, (for he walked all this while by himself) he said to him, but softly, What a brave Companion have we got? Surely this Man will make a very excellent Pilgrim.

* Faithful beguiled by Talkative.

Chr. At this Christian modestly smiled, and said, * This Man, with whom you are so taken, will beguile, with this Tongue of his, twenty of them that know him not.

* Christian makes a Discovery of Talkative, telling Faithful who he was.

Faith. Do you know him then?

Chr. Know him! Yea, better than he knows himself.

Faith. Pray what is he?

Chr. His Name is Talkative; he dwelleth in our Town; I wonder that you should be a Stranger to him, only I consider that our Town is large.

Faith. Whose Son is he? and whereabout does he dwell;

Chr. He is the Son of one Say-well, he dwelt in Prating-Row; and he is known of all that are acquainted with him, by the Name of Talkative in Prating Row; and notwithstanding his fine Tongue, he is but a sorry Fellow.

Faith. Well, he seems to be a very pretty Man.

Chr. That is, to them that have not a thorough Acquaintance with him; for he is best abroad, near home he is ugly enough. Your saying that he is a pretty Man, brings to my Mind what I have observed in the Work of the Painter, whose Pictures shew best at a distance; but very near, more unpleasing.

Faith. But I am ready to think you do but jest, because you smiled.

Chr. God forbid that I should jest, (tho' I smiled) in this Matter, or that I should accuse any falsely; I will give you a farther Discovery of him: This Man is for any Company, and for any Talk; as he talketh now with you, so will he talk when he is on the Ale-bench: and the more Drink he hath in his Crown, the more of these Things he hath in his Mouth: Religion hath no Place in his Heart, or House, or Conversation; all he hath is in his Tongue, and his Religion is to make a Noise therewith.

Faith. Say you so! then I am in this Man greatly deceived.

Chr. Deceived! you may be sure of it: Remember the Proverb, They say, and do not; but the Kingdom of God is not in Word, but in Power. He talketh of Prayer, ^{Matt. 23. 1 Cor. 4. 28.} ^{Talkative talks but does not.}

er,

er, of Repentance, of Faith, and of the New Birth; but he knows but only to talk of them. I have been in his Family, and have observed him both at home and abroad; and I know what I say of him is the Truth. *His House is as empty of Religion, as the White of an Egg is of a Savour. There is there neither Prayer, nor Sign of Repentance for Sin: Yea, the Brute, in his Kind, serves God far better than he. † He is the very Stain, Reproach, and Shame of Religion to all that know him; it can hardly have a good Word in all that End of the Town where he dwells, through him. Thus, say the common People that know him, * A Saint abroad, and a Devil at home. His poor Family finds it so, he is such a Churl; such a Railer at, and so unreasonable with his Servants, that they neither know how to do for, or speak to him. Men that have any Dealings with him, say, † 'Tis better to deal with a Turk than with him, for fairer Dealing they shall have at their Hands. This Talkative (if it be possible) will go beyond them, defraud, beguile, and overreach them. Besides, he brings up his Sons to follow his Steps; and if he finds in any of them a foolish Timorousness, (for so he calls the first Appearance of a tender Conscience) he calls them Fools and Blockheads, and by no Means will employ them in much, or speak to their Commendations before others. For my Part, I am of Opinion, that he has, by his wicked Life, caused many to stumble and fall; and will be, if God prevents not, the Ruin of many more.

Faith. Well, my Brother, I am bound to believe you; not only because you say you know him, but also because, like a Christian, you make your Reports of Men. For I cannot think that you speak these Things of Ill-will, but because it is even so as you say.

Chr. Had I known him no more than you, I might perhaps have thought of him as at the first you did: Yea, had he received this Report at their Hands only, that are Enemies to Religion, I should have thought it had been a Slander. (A Lot that often falls from bad Mens Mouths upon good Mens Names and Professions :) But all these Things, yea, and a great many more as bad, of my own Knowledge, I can prove him guilty of. Besides, good Men are ashamed of him; they can neither call him Brother nor Friend: The very naming of him among them, makes them blush, if they know him.

Faith. Well, I see that Saying and Doing are two Things, and hereafter I shall better observe this Distinction.

Chr. They are two Things indeed, and are as diverse, as are the Soul and the Body; for as the Body without the Soul is but a dead * Carcass, so Saying, if it be alone, is but a dead Carcass also. The Soul of Religion is the practick Part: Pure Religion and undefiled, before God and the Father, is this; To visit the Fatherless and Widows in their Affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the World. This Talkative is not aware of; he thinks that Hearing and Saying will make a good Christian; and thus he deceiveth his own Soul. Hearing is but as the Sowing of the Seed; Talking is not sufficient to prove that Fruit is indeed in the Heart and Life; and let us assure ourselves, that at the Day of Doom, Men shall be judged according to their Fruit: It will not be said then, Did you believe? But were you Doers, or Talkers only? And accordingly shall they be judged. The End of the World is compared to our Harvest; and you know Men at Harvest regard nothing but Fruit. Not that any thing can be accepted, that is not of Faith; but I speak this to shew you how insignificant the Profession of Talkative will be at that Day.

Faith. This brings to my Mind that of Moses, by which he described the Beast that is clean. * He is such an one that parteth the Hoof, and cheweth the Cud; not that parteth the Hoof only, or that cheweth the Cud only. The Hare cheweth the Cud, but yet is unclean, because he parteth not the Hoof. And this truly resembleth Talkative; he cheweth the Cud, he seeketh Knowledge, he cheweth upon the Word; but he divideth not the Hoof, he parteth not with the Way of Sinners; but as the Hare, he retaineth the Foot of a Dog or Bear, and therefore he is unclean.

Chr. You have spoken, for ought I know, the true Gospel Sense of those Texts. And I will add another Thing; Paul calleth some Men, yea, and those great Talkers too, Sounding Brasses, and † tinkling Cymbals; that is, as he expounds them in another Place, Things without Life, giving Sound. Things without Life, that is, without the true Faith and Grace of the Gospel; and consequently, Things that shall never be placed in the Kingdom of Heaven among those that are the Children of Life: Though their Sound, by their Talk, be as it were the Tongue or Voice of an Angel.

Faith. Well, I was not so fond of his Company at first, but I am as sick of it now. What shall we do to be rid of him?

Chr. Take my Advice, and do as I bid you, and you shall find that he will soon be sick of your Company too, except God shall touch his Heart and turn it.

Faith. What would you have me to do?

Chr. Why, go to him, and enter into some serious Discourse about the Power of Religion; and ask him plainly, (when he has approved of it, for that he will) whether ther this Thing be set up in his Heart, House, or Conversation.

Faith. Then Faithful stept forward again, and said to Talkative, Come, what Chear? How is it now?

Talk. Thank you; well, I thought we should have had a great deal of Talk by this Time.

Faith. Well, if you will, we will fall to it now; and since you left it with me to state the Question, let it be this: How doth the Saving Grace of God discover itself, when it is in the Heart of Man?

Talk. I perceive then that our Talk must be  about the Power of Things*: Well 'tis a very good Question, and I shall be willing to answer you. And take my Answer in brief, thus: First, Where the Grace of God is in the Heart, it causeth there a great Out-cry against Sin. Secondly,--- Faith. Nay, hold, let us consider of one at once: I think you should rather say, It shews itself, by inclining the Soul to abhor its Sin.

Talk. Why, what difference is there between crying out against, and abhorring of Sin?

Faith. Oh! a great deal:  A Man* may cry out against Sin, of Policy, but he cannot abhor it but by virtue of a godly Antipathy against it: I have heard many cry out against Sin in the Pulpit, who yet can abide it well enough in the Heart, House, and Conversation. Joseph's Mistress cried out with a loud Voice, as if she had been very holy; but she would willingly, notwithstanding that, have committed Uncleanness with him. Some cry out against Sin, even as a Mother cries out against her Child in her Lap, when she calleth it Slut and Naughty Girl, and then falls to hugging and kissing it.

Talk. You lie at the Catch, I perceive.

Faith. No, not I, I am only for setting Things right. But what is the second Thing whereby you would prove a Discovery of a Work of Grace in the Heart?

Talk. Great Knowledge of Gospel-Mysteries.

Faith. This Sign should have been first; but first or last, it is also false; for Knowledge, † great Knowledge may be obtained in the Mysteries of the Gospel, and yet no Work of Grace in the Soul. Yea, if a Man have all Knowledge, he may yet be nothing; and so consequently be no Child of God. When Christ said, Do you know all these Things? And the Disciples had answered, Yes: He added, Blessed are ye, if ye do them. He doth not lay the Blessing in the Knowledge of them, but in the Doing of them. † For there is a Knowledge that is not attended with doing: He that knoweth his Master's Will, and doth it not: A Man may know like an Angel, and yet be no Christian; therefore your Sign of it is not true. Indeed, to know, is a Thing that pleases Talkers and Boasters; but to do, is that which pleaseth God. Not that the Heart can be good without Knowledge; for without that, the Heart is naught. There are therefore two Sorts of Knowledge; Knowledge that resteth in the bare Speculation of Things, and Knowledge that is accompanied with the Grace of Faith and Love; which puts a Man upon doing even the Will of God from the Heart. The first of these will serve the Talker; but without the other, the true Christian is not content.  Give me Understanding, and I shall keep thy Law; yea, I shall observe it with my whole Heart.* Psal. cxix. 34.

Talk. You lie at the Catch again; this is not for Edification.

Faith. Well, if you please, propound another Sign how this Work of Grace discovereth itself where it is.

Talk. Not I, for I see we shall not agree.

Faith. Well, if you will not, will you give me Leave to do it?

Talk. You may use your Liberty.

Faith. A Work of Grace in the Soul discovereth itself, either to him that hath it, or to Standers by.

To him that hath it, thus; It gives him Conviction of Sin, especially the Defilement of his Nature, and the Sin of Unbelief, (for the sake of which he is sure to be damn'd, if he findeth not Mercy at God's Hand, by Faith in Jesus Christ.) This Sight and Sense of Things worketh in him Sorrow and Shame for Sin: He findeth, moreover, revealed, in him the Saviour of the World, and the absolute Necessity of closing with him for Life, at the which he findeth Hungrings and Thirstings after him; to which Hungrings, &c. the Promise is made. Now according to the Strength or Weakness of his Faith in his Saviour, so is his Joy and Peace, so is his Love to Holiness, so are his Desires to know him more, and also to serve him in this World. But tho' I say, it discovereth itself thus unto him, yet it is but seldom that he is able to conclude, that this is a Work of Grace, because his Corruptions now, and his abused Reason, make his Mind to mis-judge in this Matter; therefore in him that hath this Work, there is required a very sound Judgment, before he can with Steadiness conclude that this is a Work of Grace.

To others it is thus discover'd:

1. By an Experimental Confession of his Faith in Christ. 2. By a Life answerable to that Confession, to wit, a Life of Holiness; Heart-Holiness, Family-Holiness, if he hath a Family, and by Conversation-Holiness in the World; which in the general teacheth him him inwardly to abhor his Sin, and himself for that, in secret; to suppress it in his Family, and to promote Holiness in the World not by Talk only, as an Hypocrite or Talkative Person may do, but by a practical Subjection in Faith and Love to the Power of the Word: And now, Sir, as to this brief Description of the Work of Grace, and also the Discovery of it, if you have ought to object, object; if not, then give me Leave to propound to you a Second Question.

Talk. Nay, my Part is not now to object, but to hear: Let me therefore have your Second Question.

Faith. It is this: Do you experience this first Part of the Description of it? * And doth your Life and Conversation testify the same? Or standeth your Religion in Word or Tongue, and not in Deed and Truth? Pray if you incline to answer me in this, say no more than you know the God above will say Amen to; and also nothing but what your Conscience can justify you in: For not he that commendeth himself, is approved, but whom the Lord commendeth. Besides to say, I am thus, and thus, when my Conversation, and all my Neighbours tell me I lye, is great Wickedness.

Talk. † Then Talkative at first began to blush; but, recovering himself, thus he replied: You come now to Experience, to Conscience, and God; and to appeal to him for Justification of what is spoken: This kind of Discourse I did not expect; nor am I disposed to give an Answer to such Questions, because I count not myself bound thereto, unless you take upon you to be a Catechizer; and though you should so do, yet I may refuse to make you my Judge: But I pray will you tell me why you ask me such Questions?

Faith. * Because I saw you forward to talk, and because I knew not that you had ought else but Notion. Besides, to tell you all the Truth, I have heard of you, that you are a Man whose Religion lies in Talk, and that your Conversation gives this your Profession the Lye. They say you are a Spot among Christians; and that Religion fareth the worse for your ungodly Conversation; that some already have stumbled at your Wicked Ways, and that more are in Danger of being destroy'd thereby; your Religion, and an Ale-house, and Covetousness, and Uncleanness, and Swearing, and Lying, and vain Company-keeping, &c. will stand together. The Proverb is true of you, which is said of a Whore, to wit, That she is a Shame to all Women, So you are a Shame to all Professors.

Talk. * Since you are ready to take up Reports, and to judge so rashly as you do, I cannot but conclude you are some peevish or melancholy Man, not fit to be discoursed with, and so Adieu.

Chr. Then came up Christian, and said to his Brother, I told you how it would happen; your Words and his Lusts could not agree: He had rather leave your Company, than reform his Life; but he is gone, as I said, † let him go, the Loss is not ^{A good} Man's, but his own; he has saved us the ^{Riddance.} Trouble of going from him; for he continuing (as I suppose he will do) as he is, he would have been but a Blot in our Company: Besides, the Apostle says, From such withdraw thyself.

Faith. But I am glad we had this little Discourse with him; it may happen that he will think of it again; however, I have dealt plainly with him, and so am clear of his Blood, if he perisheth.

Chr. You did well to talk so plainly to him as you did; there is but little of this faithful Dealing with Men now a-days, and that makes Religion to stink so in the Nostrils of many as it doth; for they are these talkative Fools, whose Religion is only in Word, and are debauched and vain in their Conversation, that (being so much admitted into the Fellowship of the Godly) do puzzle the World, blemish Christianity, and grieve the Sincere. I wish that all Men would deal with such, as you have done; then should they either be made more conformable to Religion, or the Company of Saints would be too hot for them. Then did Faithful say,

How Talkative at first lifts up his Plumes!

How bravely doth he speak! How he presumes

To drive down all before him! But so soon

As Faithful talks of Heart-work, like the Moon

That's past the Full, into the Wane he goes;

And so will all, but he that Heart-work knows.

Thus they went on talking of what they had seen by the Way, and so made that Way easy, which would otherwise, no doubt, have been tedious to them: For now they went thro' a Wilderness.

Now when they were got almost quite out of this Wilderness, Faithful chanced to cast his Eye back, and espied one coming after them, and he knew him. Oh! said Faithful to his Brother, who comes yonder? Then Christian looked, and said, It is my good Friend Evangelist; Ay, and my good Friend too, said Faithful, for 'twas he that set me the Way to the Gate. Now ^{Evangelist} Evangelist come up unto them, and ^{overtakes} Evangelist thus saluted them: ^{gain.}

Evang. Peace be with you, dearly beloved; and, Peace be to your Helpers.

Chr. † Welcome, Welcome, my good ^{They are} Evangelist; the Sight of thy Countenance ^{glad at} brings to my Remembrance thy ancient ^{the Sight} Kindness and unwearied Labours for my ^{of him.} Eternal Good.

N n n

Faith.

Faith. And a thousand times Welcome, said good Faithful; thy Company, O sweet Evangelist, how desirable is it to us poor Pilgrims!

Evan. Then, said Evangelist, How hath it fared with you, my Friends, since the Time of our last parting? What have you met with, and how have you behaved yourselves?

Then Christian and Faithful told him of all Things that had happened to them in the Way; and how, and with what Difficulty they had arrived to that Place.

* His Exhortation to them.

Evan. * Right glad am I, said Evangelist, not that you have met with Trials, but that you have been Victors, and for that you have, notwithstanding many Weaknesses, continued in the Way to this very Day.

Joh. 4. 36.

I say, right glad am I of this Thing, and that for mine own sake and yours; I have sowed, and you have reaped; and the Day is coming, when both he that sowed, and they that reaped, shall rejoice together; that is, if you hold out; for in due Time ye shall reap, if you faint not. The Crown is before you, and it is an incorruptible one; so run, that you may obtain it. Some there be that set out for this Crown, and after they have gone far for it, another comes in and takes it from them: Hold fast therefore that you have, let no Man take your Crown: You are not yet out of the Gun-shot of the Devil: You have not resisted unto Blood, striving against Sin: Let the Kingdom be always before you, and believe stedfastly concerning Things that are invisible: Let nothing that is on this side the other World get within you: And above all, look well to your own Hearts and to the Lusts thereof, for they are deceitful above all Things, and desperately wicked; set your Faces like a Flint; you have all Power in Heaven and Earth on your Side.

They do thank him for his Exhortation.

Chr. Then Christian thanked him for his Exhortation; but told him withal, that they would have him speak farther to them for their Help the rest of the Way; and the rather, for that they well knew that he was a Prophet, and could tell them of Things that might happen unto them, and how they might resist and overcome them. To which Request Faithful also consented. So Evangelist began as followeth:

† He predicted what Doubles they shall meet with in Vanity Fair, and encourage them to Stedfastness.

Evan. † My Sons, you have heard in the Words of the Truth of the Gospel, that you must through many Tribulations enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. And again, That in every City, Bonds and Afflictions abide you; and therefore you cannot expect that you should go long on your Pilgrimage without them, in some sort or other: You have found something of the Truth of these Testimonies upon you already, and more will immediately follow; for now, as you see, you are almost out of this Wilderness, and therefore you will soon come into a Town that you will by and by see before you; and in that Town you will be hard beset with Enemies, who will strain hard but they will kill you; and be you sure that one or both of you must seal the Testimony which you hold, with Blood; but be you faithful unto Death, and the King will give you a Crown of Life. * He that shall die there, although his Death will be unnatural, and his Pains perhaps great, he will yet have the Better of his Fellow; not only because he will be arrived at the Coelestial City sooner, but because he will escape many Miseries that the other will meet with in the rest of his Journey. But when you are come to the Town, and shall find fulfilled what I have here related, then remember your Friend, and quit yourselves like Men, and commit the Keeping of your Souls to your God in Well-doing, as unto a Faithful Creator.

* He whose Lot it will be there to suffer, will have the Better of his Brother.

Then I saw in my Dream, that when they were got out of the Wilderness, they presently saw a Town before them, and the Name of that Town is Vanity; and at the Town there is a Fair kept, called Vanity-Fair: It is kept all the Year long; it beareth the Name of Vanity-Fair, because the Town where it is kept, is lighter than Vanity; and also, because all that is there sold, or that cometh thither, is Vanity. As is the Saying of the Wife, All that cometh is Vanity.

Psal. 40. 17.
Eccles. 1. ch. 2. 11.

This Fair is no new erected Business, but a Thing of ancient standing: I will shew you the Original of it.

* Almost five thousand Years ago, there were Pilgrims walking to the Coelestial City, as these two honest Persons are; and Beelzebub, Apollyon, and Legion, with their Companions, perceiving by the Path that the Pilgrims made, that their Way to the City lay through this Town of Vanity, they contrived here to set up a Fair; a Fair, wherein should be sold all Sorts of Vanity, and that it should last all the Year long; therefore, at this Fair are all such Merchandizes sold, as † Houses, Lands, Trades, Places, Honours, Preferments, Titles, Countries, Kingdoms, Lusts, Pleasures; and Delights of all Sorts, as Whores, Bawds, Wives, Husbands, Children, Masters, Servants, Lives, Blood, Bodies, Souls, Silver, Gold, Pearls, Precious Stones, and what not?

* The Antiquity of this Fair.

† The Merchandize of this Fair.

And moreover, At this Fair, there is at all times to be seen Jugglings, Cheats, Games, Plays, Fools, Apes, Knaves, and Rogues, and that of every Kind.

Here are to be seen too, and that for nothing, Thefts, Murders, Adulteries, False-swearers, and that of a blood-red Colour.

And as in other Fairs of less Moment, there

*Behold, Vanity Fair! the Pilgrims there,
Are chain'd, and stand beside:
Even so it was Our Lord pass'd here,
And on Mount Calvary dy'd.*

*Brave Faithfull! Bravely done in Word and Deed, Judge, Witnesses, and Jury have instead,
Of Overcoming thee but shewn their Rage,
In they are dead, thou'lt live from Age to Age.*

*Now, Faithfull, play the Man, Speak for thy God, Fear not the wicked's Malice, nor their Rod!
Speak boldly, Man, the truth is on thy Side;
Die for it, and to Life in Triumph ride.*

*The Pilgrims now to gratify the Flesh,
Will seek its Ease; but, oh, how they afresh,
Do thereby plunge themselves new Greys into!
Who seek to please the flesh themselves undo.*

there are several Rows and Streets under their proper Names, where such and such Wares are vended: So here likewise, you have the proper Places, Rows, Streets, (viz. Countries and Kingdoms) where the Wares of this Fair are soonest to be found:

* The Streets of this Fair.

* Here is the Britain Row, the French Row, the Italian Row, the Spanish Row, the German Row, where several Sorts of Vanities are to be sold. But as in other Fairs, some one Commodity is as the chief of all the Fair, so the Ware of Rome and her Merchandize is greatly promoted in this Fair: Only our English Nation, with some others, have taken a Dislike thereat.

Now, as I said, the Way to the Celestial City lies just through the Town, where this lusty Fair is kept; and he that would go to the City, and yet not go through this Town, must needs go out of the World.

1 Cor. 5. 10.

† Christ went thro' this Fair. Matt. 7. Luke 4. 5, 6, 7.

† The Prince of Princes himself, when here, went through this Town to his own Country, and that upon a Fair-day too: Yea, and as I think, it was Beelzebub, the chief Lord of this Fair, that invited him to buy of his Vanities; yea, would have made him Lord of the Fair, would he but have done him Reverence as he went thro' the Town. Yea, because he was such a Person of Honour, Beelzebub had him from Street to Street, and shewed him all the Kingdoms of the World in a little Time, that he might, if possible, allure that blessed one, to cheapen and buy some of his Vanities; * but he had no Mind to the Merchandize, and therefore left the Town without laying out so much as one Farthing upon these Vanities. This Fair, therefore, is an ancient thing, of long standing, and a very great Fair.

* Christ sought nothing in this Fair.

* The Pilgrims enter the Fair.

The Fair in a Hubbub about them.

* The first Cause of the Hubbub.

1 Cor. 2. 7, 8.

† The second Cause of the Hubbub.

† Now these Pilgrims, as I said, must needs go through this Fair. Well, so they did; but behold, even as they entered into the Fair, all the People in the Fair were moved, and the Town itself, as it were, in a Hubbub about them; and that for several Reasons: For,

First, * The Pilgrims were clothed with such Kind of Raiment as was diverse from the Raiment of any that traded in that Fair. The People, therefore, of the Fair made a great Gazing upon them: Some said they were Fools; some they were Bedlams; and some they were outlandish Men.

Secondly, † And as they wondered at their Apparel, so they did likewise at their Speech; for few could understand what they said; they naturally spoke the Language of Canaan; but they that kept the Fair were the Men of this World: So that from one End of the Fair to the other, they seemed Barbarians to each other.

* Third Cause of the Hubbub.

Thirdly, * But that which did not a little amuse the Merchandizers, was, that these Pilgrims set very light by all their Wares; they cared not so much as to look upon them; and if they called upon them to buy, they would put their Fingers in their Ears, and cry, Turn away mine Eyes from beholding Vanity; and look upwards, signifying, that their Trade and Traffick was in Heaven.

* One chanced mockingly, beholding the Carriages of the Men, to say unto them, What will ye buy? But they looking gravely upon him, said, We buy the Truth. At that, there was an Occasion taken to despise the Men the more; some mocking, some taunting, some speaking reproachfully, and some calling upon others to smite them. At last † things came to an Hubbub, and great Stir in the Fair, insomuch that all Order was confounded. Now was

* Fourth Cause of the Hubbub. Prov. 23.

They are mocked.

† The Fair in a Hubbub.

Word presently brought to the Great One of the Fair, who quickly came down and deputed some of his most trusty Friends to take those Men into Examination, about whom the Fair was almost overturned. So the Men were * brought to Examination; and they that sat upon them, asked them, Whence they came, whither they went, and what they did there in such an unusual Garb? The Men told them, That † they were Pilgrims and Strangers in the World, and that they were going to their own Country, which was the Heavenly Jerusalem; and that they had given no Occasion to the Men of the Town, nor yet to the Merchandizers, thus to abuse them, and to stop them in their journey: Except it was for that, when one asked them what they would buy, they said, they would buy the truth. But they that were appointed to examine them, did not believe them to be any other than Bedlams and Mad, or else such as came to put all Things into a Confusion in the Fair. Therefore they took them and beat them, and besmeared them with Dirt, * and then put them into the Cage, that they might be made a Spectacle to all the Men of the Fair. There therefore they lay for some time, and were made the Objects of any Man's Sport, or Malice, or Revenge; the great One of the Fair laughing still at all that befell them:

* They are put in the Cage.

† But the Men being patient, and not rendring Railing for Railing, but contrariwise blessing, and giving good Words for bad, and Kindness for Injuries done; || some

† Their Behaviour in the Cage.

Men in the Fair that were more observing, and less prejudiced than the rest, began to check and blame the baser sort for their continual Abuses done by them to the Men: They therefore in angry manner let fly at them again; counting them as bad as the Men in the Cage, and telling them that they seemed Confederates, and should be made partakers of their Misfortunes.

|| The Men of the Fair do fall out among themselves about these two Men.

The others replied, that for ought they could see, the Men were quiet and sober, and intended no Body any Harm: And that there were many that traded in their Fair, that were more worthy to be put into the Cage, yea, and Pillory too, than were

were the Men that they had abused. Thus, after divers Words had passed on both sides, (the Men behaving themselves all the while very wisely and soberly before them) they fell to some Blows among themselves, and did Harm one to another.

* They are made the Authors of this Disturbance.

† They are led up and down the Fair in Chains, for a Terror to others.

* Then were these two poor Men brought before their Examiners again, and there charged as being guilty of the late Hubbub that had been in the Fair. So † they beat them pitifully, and hanged Irons upon them, and led them in Chains up and down the Fair, for an Example and Terror to others, lest any should speak in their behalf, or join themselves unto them. But

Christian and Faithful behaved themselves yet more wisely, and received the Ignominy and Shame that was cast upon them, with so much Meekness and Patience, that it * won to their side (though but few in Comparison of the rest) several of the Men in the Fair. This put the other Party yet into a greater Rage, insomuch that they concluded the Death of these † two Men. Wherefore they threatened, That neither Cage nor Irons should serve their turn, but that they should die for the Abuse they had done, and for deluding the Men of the Fair.

* Some Men of the Fair won over to them.

† Their Adversaries resolve to kill them.

* They are again put into the Cage, and after brought to Trial.

Then * were they remanded to the Cage again, until further Order should be taken with them. So they put them in, and made their Feet fast in the Stocks.

Here therefore they called again to mind what they had heard from their faithful Friend Evangelist, and were the more confirmed in their Ways and Sufferings, by what he told them would happen to them. They also now comforted each other, that whose Lot it was to suffer, even he should have the best on't; therefore each Man secretly wished that he might have that Preferment: But committing themselves to the All-wise Disposal of Him that ruleth all Things, with much Content they abode in the Condition in which they were, until they should be otherwise disposed of.

Then a convenient Time being appointed, they brought them forth to their Trial, in order to their Condemnation. When the Time was come, they were brought before their Enemies, and arraigned. The Judge's Name was Lord Hate-Good: Their Indictment was one and the same in Substance, though somewhat varying in Form; the Contents whereof was this:

† Their Indictment.

† That they were Enemies to, and Disturbers of their Trade: That they had made Commotions and Divisions in the Town, and had won a Party to their own most dangerous Opinions, in Contempt of the Law of their Prince.

* Faithful's Answer for himself.

Then * Faithful began to answer, That he had only set himself against that which had set itself against him that is higher than the highest. And, said he, as for Disturbance, I make none, being myself a Man of Peace; the Parties that were won to us, were won by beholding our Truth and Innocence, and they are only turned from the worse to the better. And as to the King you talk of, since he is Beelzebub, the Enemy of our Lord, I defy him and all his Angels.

Then Proclamation was made, That they that had ought to say for their Lord the King against the Prisoner at the Bar, should forthwith appear, and give in their Evidence. So there came in Three Witnesses, to wit, Envy, Superstition, and Pickthank: They were then asked, if they knew the Prisoner at the Bar; and what they had to say for their Lord the King against him.

Then stood forth * Envy, and said to this * Envy begins. Effect: My Lord, I have known this Man a long Time, and will attest upon my Oath before this honourable Bench, That he is ---

Judge. Hold --- Give him his Oath.

So they swore him: Then he said, My Lord, this Man, notwithstanding his plausible Name, is one of the vilest Men in our Country; he neither regardeth Prince nor People, Law nor Custom; but doth all that he can to possess all Men with certain of his Disloyal Notions, which he in the general calls Principles of Faith and Holiness. And in particular, I heard him once myself affirm, That Christianity and the Customs of our Town of Vanity, were diametrically opposite, and could not be reconciled. By which Saying, my Lord, he doth, at once, not only condemn all our laudable Doings, but Us in the doing of them.

Judge. Then did the Judge say to him, Hast thou any more to say?

Envy. My Lord, I could say much more, only I would not be tedious to the Court. Yet if need be, when the other Gentlemen have given in their Evidence, rather than any thing shall be wanting that will dispatch him, I will enlarge my Testimony against him. So he was bid stand by.

Then they called Superstition, and bid him look upon the Prisoner: They also asked, what he could say for their Lord the King against him? Then they swore him; so he began:

Super. * My Lord, I have no great Acquaintance with this Man, nor do I desire * Superstition follows. to have further Knowledge of him; however, this I know, That he is a very pestilent Fellow, from some Discourse that the other Day I had with him in this Town; for then talking with him, I heard him say, that our Religion was naught, and such by which a Man could by no Means please God. Which Saying of his, my Lord, your Lordship very well knows what necessarily thence will follow, to wit, that that we still do worship in vain, are yet in our Sins, and finally shall be damned: And this it that which I have to say.

Then was Pick-thank sworn, and bid say what he knew in the Behalf of their Lord the King, against the Prisoner at the Bar.

Pick. * My Lord, and you Gentlemen all; this Fellow I have known of a long Time, and have heard him speak Things that ought not to be spoke; for he hath railed on our noble Prince Beelzebub, and hath spoke contemptibly of his honourable Friends, whose Names are, the † Lord Old-Man, the Lord Carnal Delight, the Lord Luxurious, the Lord Desire of Vain-Glory, my old Lord Leachery, Sir Having Greedy, with all the rest of our Nobility; and he hath said moreover, That if all Men were of his Mind, if possible, there is not one of these Noblemen should have any longer a Being in this Town. Besides, he hath not been afraid to rail on you, my Lord, who are now appointed to be his Judge, calling you an ungodly Villain, with many other such like vilifying Terms, with which he hath bespattered most of the Gentry of our Town.

When this Pick-thank had told his Tale, the Judge directed his Speech to the Prisoner at the Bar, saying, thou Renegade, Heretick, and Traitor, hast thou heard what these honest Gentlemen have witnessed against thee?

Faith. May I speak a few Words in my own Defence?

Judge. Sirrah, Sirrah, thou deservest to live no longer, but to be slain immediately upon the Place; yet that all Men may see our Gentleness towards thee, let us see what thou hast to say.

Faith. 1. * I say then, in Answer to what Mr. Envy hath spoken, I never said ought but this, That what Rule, or Laws, or Custom, or People, were flat against the Word of God, are diametrically opposite to Christianity. If I have said amiss in this, convince me of my Error, and I am ready here before you to make my Recantation.

2. As to the Second, to wit, Mr. Superstition, and his Charge against me, I said only this, That in the Worship of God there is required a Divine Faith; but there can be no Divine Faith without a Divine Revelation of the Will of God. Therefore, whatever is thrust into the Worship of God, that is not agreeable to Divine Revelation, cannot be done but by an humane Faith, which Faith will not be profitable to eternal Life.

3. As to what Mr. Pick-thank hath said, I say (avoiding Terms, as that I am said to rail, and the like) that the Prince of this Town, with all the Rabblement, his Attendants, by this Gentleman named, are more fit for being in Hell, than in this Town and Country; and so the Lord have N^o XI. Vol. II.

Mercy upon me.

Then the Judge called to the Jury (who all this while stood by to hear and observe) † Gentlemen of the Jury, you see this Man about whom so great an Uproar hath been made in this Town: You have also heard what these worthy Gentlemen have witnessed against him: Also you have heard his Reply and Confession: It lieth now in your Breasts to hang him, or save his Life; but yet I think meet to instruct you into our Law.

There was an Act made in the Days of Pharaoh the Great, Servant to our Prince, that lest those of a contrary Religion should multiply, and grow too strong for him, their Males should be thrown into the River. There was also an Act made in the Days of Nebuchadnezzar the Great, another of his Servants, that whoever would not fall down and worship his Golden Image, should be thrown into a fiery Furnace. There was also an Act made in the Days of Darius, That whoso for some Time called upon any God but him, should be cast into the Lion's Den. Now the Substance of these Laws this Rebel has broken, not only in Thought (which is not to be born) but also in Word and Deed; which must therefore needs be intolerable.

For that of Pharaoh, his Law was made upon a Supposition, to prevent Mischief, no Crime being yet apparent; but here is a Crime apparent. For the second and third, you see he disputeth against our Religion; and for the Treason he hath confessed, he deserveth to die the Death.

Then went the Jury out, whose Names were Mr. Blind-man, Mr. No-good, Mr. Malice, Mr. Love-lust, Mr. Live-loose, Mr. Heady, Mr. High-mind, Mr. Enmity, Mr. Lyer, Mr. Cruelty, Mr. Hate-light, and Mr. Implacable; who every one gave in his private Verdict against him among themselves, and afterwards unanimously concluded to bring him in guilty before the Judge. And first among themselves, Mr. Blind-man the Fore-man said, I see clearly that this Man is an Heretick. Then said Mr. No-good, Away with such a Fellow from the Earth. Ay, said Mr. Malice, for I hate the very Looks of him. Then said Mr. Love-lust, I could never endure him. Nor I, said Mr. Live-loose, for he would always be condemning my Way. Hang him, hang him, said Mr. Heady. A sorry Scrub, said Mr. High-mind. My Heart riseth against him, said Mr. Enmity. He is a Rogue, said Mr. Lyer. Hanging is too good for him, said Mr. Cruelty. Let us dispatch him out of the Way, said Mr. Hate-light. Then said Mr. Implacable, might I have all the World given me, I could not be reconciled to him, therefore let us forthwith bring him in guilty of Death. † And so they did; therefore he was presently condemned condemned to be had from the Place where he was, to the Place from whence he came, and there to be put to the most cruel Death that could be invented.

 The cruel Death of Faithful.* They therefore brought him out, to do with him according to their Law;  and first they scourged him, then they buffeted him; then they launced his Flesh with Knives; after that they stoned him with Stones, then pricked him with their Swords, and last of all, they burnt him to Ashes at the Stake. Thus came Faithful to his End.

 Chariot and Horses take away Faithful.*  Now I saw, that there stood behind the Multitude a Chariot and a Couple of Horses waiting for Faithful, who (so soon as his Adversaries had dispatch'd him) was taken up into it, and straitway was carried up through the Clouds with Sound of Trumpet, the nearest Way to the Cœlestial Gate.

 Christian still a Prisoner.*  But as for Christian, he had some Respite, and was remanded back to Prison; so he there remained for a Space: But he that over-rules all Things, having the Power of their Rage in his own Hand, so wrought it about, that Christian for that time escaped them, and went his Way.

And as he went he sang, saying;

† The Song that Christian made of Faithful after his Death. † Well, Faithful, thou hast faithfully profest Unto thy Lord, with whom thou shalt be blest;
When Faithless ones, with all their vain Delights,
Are crying out under their hellish Plights:
Sing, Faithful, sing, and let thy Name survive;
For tho' they kill'd thee, thou art yet alive.

 Christian has another Companion.* Now I saw in my Dream, that Christian went not forth alone; for there was one whose Name was  Hopeful*, (being so made by the beholding of Christian and Faithful in their Words and Behaviour, in their Sufferings at the Fair) who joined himself unto him, and entering into a brotherly Covenant, told him, that he would be his Companion. Thus one died to bear Testimony to the Truth, and another rises out of his Ashes to be a Companion with Christian in his Pilgrimage. † This Hopeful also told Christian, that there were many more of the Men in the Fair that would take their Time, and follow after.

† There are more of the Men in the Fair will follow. So I saw, that quickly after they were got out of the Fair, they overtook one that was going before them, whose Name was  By-ends*; so they said to him, What Countryman, Sir? and how far go you this Way? He told them, that he came from the Town of Fair-Speech, and he was going to the Cœlestial City, (but told them not his Name.)

Prov. 26. 25. From Fair-Speech, said Christian? is there any Good that lives there?

By-ends. Yes, said By-ends, I hope.

Chr. Pray, Sir, what may I call you.

By-ends. I am a Stranger to you, and you to me: If you be going this Way, I shall be glad of your Company, If not, I must be content. By-ends loth to tell his Name.

Chr. This Town of Fair-Speech, said Christian, I have heard of, and, as I remember, they say it's a wealthy Place.

By-ends. Yes, I will assure you that it is, and I have very many rich Kindred there.

Chr. Pray, who are your Kindred there, if a Man may be so bold?

By-ends. Almost the whole Town: And in particular my Lord Turn-about, my Lord Time-server, my Lord Fair-Speech, (from whose Ancestors that Town first took its Name:) Also Mr. Smooth-man, Mr. Facing-both-ways, Mr. Any-thing, and the Parson of our Parish, Mr. Two-Tongues, was my Mother's own Brother by Father's Side: And, to tell you the Truth, I am become a Gentleman of good Quality, yet my Great Grandfather was but a Waterman, looking one Way and rowing another, and I got most of my Estate by the same Occupation.

Chr. Are you a marry'd Man?

By-ends. Yes, † and my Wife is a very † The virtuous Woman, the Daughter of a Wife and Kindred virtuous Woman: she was my Lady Feign-ing's Daughter, therefore she came of a ends. very honourable Family, and is arrived to such a Pitch of Breeding, that she knows how to carry it to all, even to Prince and Peasant.  'Tis true, we somewhat differ* in Religion from those of the Stricter Sort,  Where By-ends differs from others in Religion.* yet but in two small Points: First, We never strive against Wind and Tide. Secondly, We are always most zealous when Religion goes in his Silver Slippers; we love much to walk with him in the Street, if the Sun shines and the People applaud him.

Then Christian stept a little aside to his Fellow Hopeful, saying, It runs in my Mind that this is one By-ends of Fair-Speech; and, if it be he, we have as very a Knave in our Company as dwelleth in all these Parts. Then said Hopeful, Ask him, methinks he should not be ashamed of his Name. So Christian came up with him again, and said, Sir, You talk as if you knew something more than all the World doth; and, if I take not my Mark amiss, I deem I have half a Guess of you: Is not your Name Mr. By-ends of Fair-Speech?

By-ends. This is not my Name, but indeed it is a Nick-name that is given me by some that cannot abide me, and I must be content to bear it as a Reproach, as other good Men have born theirs before me.

Chr. But did you never give an Occasion to Men to call you by this Name?

By-Ends.

How By-ends got his Name.

By-ends. Never! never! The worst that ever I did to give them an Occasion to give me this Name was, that I had always the Luck to jump in my Judgment with the present Way of the Times, whatever it was, and my Chance was to get thereby; but if Things are thus cast upon me, let me count them a Blessing; But let not the Malicious load me therefore with Reproach.

Chr. I thought indeed that you were the Man that I heard of; and, to tell you what I think, I fear this Name belongs to you more properly than you are willing we should think it doth.

* He desires to keep Company with Christian.

By-ends. Well, if you will thus imagine, I cannot help it: * You shall find me a fair Company-keeper, if you will still admit me your Associate.

Chr. If you will go with us, you must go against Wind and Tide; the which, I perceive, is against your Opinion: You must also own Religion in his Rags as well as when in his Silver Slippers; and stand by him too when bound in Irons, as well as when he walketh the Streets with Applause.

By-ends. You must not impose, nor lord it over my Faith; leave me to my Liberty, and let me go with you.

Chr. Not a step farther, unless you will do in what I propound, as we.

† By-ends and Christian part.

Then said By-ends, I shall never desert my old Principles, since they are harmless and profitable. † If I may not go with you, I must do as I did before you overtook me, even go by my self, until some overtake me that will be glad of my Company.

† He has new Companions.

Then I saw in my Dream, that Christian and Hopeful forsook him, and kept their Distance before him; but one of them looking back, saw three Men following Mr. By-ends, and behold, as they came up with him, he made them a very low Congee; and they also gave him a Compliment. † The Mens Names were Mr. Hold-the-World, Mr. Money-love, and Mr. Save-all; Men that Mr. By-ends had formerly been acquainted with; for in their Minority they were School-Fellows, and taught by one Mr. Gripe-man, a School-master in Love-gain, which is a Market-Town in the County of Coveting, in the North. This School-master taught them the Art of Getting, either by Violence, Cozenage, Flattery, Lying, or by putting on a Guise of Religion; and these four Gentlemen had attained much of the Art of their Master, so that they could each of them have kept such a School themselves.

Well, when they had, as I said, thus saluted each other, Mr. Money-love said to Mr. By-ends, Who are they upon the Road before us? For Christian and Hopeful were yet within View.

By-ends. * They are a Couple of fair Country-men, that after their Mode are going on Pilgrimage. * By-ends Character of the Pilgrims.

Money-love. Alas! why did they not stay, that we might have had their good Company; for they, and we, and you, Sir, I hope, are all going on Pilgrimage?

By-ends. We are so, indeed; but the Men before us are so rigid, and love so much their own Notions, and do also so lightly esteem the Opinions of others, that let a Man be never so godly, yet if he jumps not with them in all Things, they thrust him quite out of their Company.

Mr. Save-all. That's bad; but we read of some that are righteous over-much, and such Mens Rigidness prevails with them to judge and condemn all but themselves; but I pray what, and how many were the Things wherein you differed?

By-ends. Why they, after their headstrong Manner, conclude, that it is their Duty to rush on their Journey all Weathers, and I am for waiting for Wind and Tide. They are for hazarding all for God at a Clap, and I am for taking all Advantages to secure my Life and Estate. They are for holding their Notions, tho' all other Men be against them; but I am for Religion, in what, and so far as the Times and my Safety will bear it. They are for Religion when in Rags and Contempt, but I am for him, when he walks in his Golden Slippers in the Sun-shine, and with Applause.

Mr. Hold-the-World. Ay, and hold you there still, good Mr. By-ends; for, for my part, I can count him but a Fool, that having the Liberty to keep what he has, shall be so unwise as to lose it. Let us be wise as Serpents; it's best to make Hay while the Sun shines; you see how the Bee lieth still all Winter, and bestirs her only when she can have Profit with Pleasure. God sends sometimes Rain, and sometimes Sun-shine: If they be such Fools to go through the first, yet let us be content to take fair Weather along with us. For my part, I like that Religion best, that will stand with the Security of God's good Blessings unto us: For who can imagine, that is ruled by his Reason, since God has bestowed upon us the good Things of this Life, but that he would have us keep them for his Sake. Abraham and Solomon grew rich in Religion. And Job says, That a good Man shall lay up Gold as Dust. But he must not be such as the Men before us, if they be as you have described them.

Mr. Save-all. I think that we are all agreed in this Matter, and therefore there needs no more Words about it.

Mr. Money-love. No, there needs no more Words about this Matter indeed; for he that believes neither Scripture nor Reason, (and you see we have both on our side) neither neither knows his own Liberty, nor seeks his own Safety.

Mr. By-ends. My Brethren, we are, as you see, going all on Pilgrimage, and for our better Diversion from Things that are bad, give me Leave to propound unto you this Question:

Suppose a Man, a Minister, or a Tradesman, &c. should have an Advantage lie before him, to get the good Blessings of this Life, yet so as that he can by no Means come by them, except in Appearance, at least, he becomes extraordinary zealous in some Points of Religion that he meddled not with before; May he not use this Means to attain his End, and yet be a right honest Man?

Mr. Money-love. I see the Bottom of your Question; and, with these Gentlemen's good Leave, I will endeavour to shape you an Answer: And first, to speak to your Question as it concerns a Minister himself, Suppose a Minister a worthy Man, possess'd but of a very small Benefice, and has in his Eye a greater, more fat and plump by far; he has also now an Opportunity of getting it, yet so as by being more studious, by preaching more frequently and zealously, and, because the Temper of the People requires it, by altering of some of his Principles; for my part, I see no Reason but a Man may do this; (provided he has a Call) ay, and more a great deal besides, and yet be an honest Man. For why?

1. His Desire of a greater Benefice is lawful, (this cannot be contradicted) since it is set before him by Providence; so then he may get it if he can, making no Question for Conscience sake.

2. Besides, his Desire after that Benefice makes him more studious, a more zealous Preacher, &c. and so makes him a better Man, yea, makes him better improve his Parts, which is according to the Mind of God.

3. Now as for his complying with the Temper of his People, by deserting, to serve them, some of his Principles, this argueth, 1. That he is of a Self-denying Temper. 2. Of a sweet and winning Deportment. 3. And so more fit for the Ministerial Function.

4. I conclude then, that a Minister that changes a Small for a Great, should not, for so doing, be judged as Covetous; but rather, since he is improved in his Parts and Industry hereby, be counted as one that pursues his Call, and the Opportunity put into his Hand to do Good.

And now to the second Part of the Question, which concerns the Tradesman you mentioned: Suppose such a one to have but a poor Employ in the World, but, by becoming Religious, he may mend his Market, perhaps get a rich Wife, or more and far better Customers to his Shop. For my part, I see no Reason but this may be lawfully done. For why?

1. To become Religious is a Vertue, by what Means soever a Man becomes so.

2. Nor is it unlawful to get a rich Wife, or more Custom to my Shop.

3. Besides, the Man that gets these by becoming Religious, gets that which is good of them that are good, by becoming good himself; so then here is a good Wife, and good Customers, and good Gain, and all these by becoming Religious, which is good: Therefore, to become Religious to get all these, is a good and profitable Design.

This Answer thus made by this Mr. Money-love to Mr. By-ends's Question, was highly applauded by them all; wherefore they concluded upon the whole, that it was most wholesome and advantageous. And because, as they thought, no Man was able to contradict it, and because Christian and Hopeful were yet within Call, they jointly agreed to assault them with the Question as soon as they overtook them; and the rather, because they had opposed Mr. By-ends before. So they called after them, and they stopt and stood still till they came up to them; but they concluded, as they went, that not Mr. By-ends, but old Mr. Hold-the-World should propound the Question to them, because, as they supposed, their Answer to him would be without the Remainder of that Heat that was kindled between Mr. By-ends and them, at their parting a little before.

So they came up to each other, and after a short Salutation, Mr. Hold-the-World propounded the Question to Christian and his Fellow, and bid them to answer it if they could.

Chr. Then said Christian, Even a Babe in Religion may answer Ten Thousand such Questions. For, if it be unlawful to follow Christ for Loaves, as it is John 6. how much more abominable is it to make of him and Religion a Stalking-horse to get and enjoy the World? Nor do we find any other than Heathens, Hypocrites, Devils, and Witches, that are of this Opinion.

1. Heathens; for when Hamor and Sechem had a Mind to the Daughter and Cattle of Jacob, and saw that there was no Way for them to come at them, but by becoming circumcised; they said to their Companions, If every Male of us be circumcised, as they are circumcised, shall not their Cattle, and their Substance, and every Beast of theirs be ours? Their Daughters and their Cattle were that which they sought to obtain, and their Religion the Stalking-horse they made use of to come at them. Read the whole Story, Gen. 34. 20, to 24.

2. The Hypocritical Pharisees were also of this Religion: Long Prayers were their Pretence; but to get Widows Houses was their Intent, and greater Damnation was from from God their Judgment, Luke 20. 46, 47.

3. Judas the Devil was also of this Religion; he was Religious for the Bag, that he might be possessed of what was therein; but he was lost, cast away, and the very Son of Perdition.

4. Simon the Wizard was of this Religion too, for he would have had the Holy Ghost, that he might have got Money therewith, and his Sentence from Peter's Mouth was according, Acts 8. 19, 20, 21, 22.

5. Neither will it out of my Mind, but that the Man that takes up Religion for the World, will throw away Religion for the World; for so surely as Judas designed the World in becoming Religious, so surely did he also sell Religion and his Master for the same. To answer the Question therefore affirmatively, as I perceive you have done; and to accept of, as authentick, such Answer, is both Heathenish, Hypocritical, and Devilish; and your Reward will be according to your Works. Then they stood staring one upon another, but had not wherewith to answer Christian. Hopeful also approved of the Soundness of Christian's Answer, so there was a great Silence among them. Mr. By-ends and his Company also staggered and kept behind, that Christian and Hopeful might out-go them. Then said Christian to his Fellow, If these Men cannot stand before the Sentence of Men, what will they do with the Sentence of God? And if they are mute when dealt with by Vessels of Clay, what will they do when they shall be rebuked by the Flames of a Devouring Fire?

Then Christian* and Hopeful out-went them again, and went till they came at a delicate Plain, called Ease, where they went with much Content, but that Plain was but narrow, so they were quickly got over it. Now at the farther Side of that Plain was a little †Hill called Lucre, and in that Hill a Silver Mine, which some of them that had formerly gone that way, because of the Rarity of it, had turned aside to see; but going too near the Brink of the Pit, the Ground, being deceitful under them, broke, and they were slain: Some also had been maimed there, and could not, to their Dying-Day, be their own Men again.

Then I saw in my Dream, that a little off the Road, over-against the Silver Mine, stood Demas* (Gentleman-like) to call Passengers to come and see; who said to Christian and his Fellow, †Ho! turn aside hither, and I will shew you a Thing.

Chr. What Thing so deserving, as to turn us out of the Way?

Demas. Here is a Silver Mine, and some digging in it for Treasure; if you will come, with a little Pains, you may richly provide for yourselves.

Hope. † Then said Hopeful, Let us go see.

Vol. II.

Chr. Not I, said Christian, I have heard of this Place before now, and how many have there been slain; and besides, that Treasure is a Snare to those that seek it; for it hindreth them in their Pilgrimage.

Then Christian called to Demas, saying, Is not the Place dangerous? Hath it not hindered many in their Pilgrimage?

Demas. Not very dangerous, except to those that are careless; but withal, he blushed as he spake.

Chr. Then said Christian to Hopeful, Let us not stir a Step, but still keep on our Way.

Hope. I will warrant you, when By-ends comes up, if he hath the same Invitation as we, he will turn in thither to see.

Chr. No doubt thereof, for his Principles lead him that Way, and a hundred to one but he dies there.

Demas. Then Demas called again, saying, But will you not come over and see?

Chr. Then Christian* roundly answered, Christian* saying Demas, Thou art an Enemy to the right Ways of the Lord of this Way, and hast been already condemned for thine own turning aside, by one of his Majesty's Judges: And why seekest thou to bring us into the like Condemnation? Besides, if we at all turn aside, our Lord the King will certainly hear thereof, and will there put us to Shame, where we would stand with Boldness before him.

Demas cried again, That he also was one of their Fraternity; and that if they would tarry a little, he also himself would walk with them.

Chr. Then said Christian, What is thy Name? Is it not the same by the which I have called thee?

Demas. Yes, my Name is Demas, I am the Son of Abraham.

Chr. I know you; Gehazi was your Great Grandfather, and Judas your Father, and you have trod in their Steps; it is but a Devilish Prank that thou usest: Thy Father was hang'd for a Traytor, and thou deservest no better Reward. Assure thyself, that when we come to the King, we will tell him of this thy Behaviour. Thus they went their Way.

By this Time By-ends and his Companions were come again within Sight, and they at the *first Beck went over to Demas. Now, whether they fell into the Pit by looking over the Brink thereof, or whether they went down to dig, or whether they were smother'd in the Bottom by the Damps that commonly arise, of these Things I am not certain; but this I observed, that they never were seen again in the Way. Then sang Christian:

By-ends and Silver Demas both agree;
One calls, the other runs, that he may be
A Sharer in his Lucre, so these do
Take up in this World, and no farther go.

They see a strange
ment.

Now I saw, that just on the other Side of this Plain, The Pilgrims came to a Place where stood an old Monument, hard-by the Highway Side, at the Sight of which they were both concern'd, because of the Strangeness of the Form thereof, for it seemed to them as if it had been a Woman transformed into the Shape of a Pillar; here therefore they stood looking, and looking upon it, but could not for a Time tell what they should make thereof: At last Hopeful espied written upon the Head thereof, a Writing in an unusual Hand; but he being no Scholar, called to Christian (for he was learned) to see if he could pick out the Meaning; so he came, and after a little laying of the Letters together, he found the same to be this, Remember Lot's Wife. So he read it to his Fellow; after which they both concluded that that was the * Pillar of Salt into which Lot's Wife was turned for looking back with a covetous Heart, when she was going from Sodom for Safety. Which sudden and amazing Sight, gave them Occasion of this Discourse.

* Gen. 19.

Chr. Ah, my Brother! this is a seasonable Sight; it came opportunely to us after the Invitation which Demas gave us to come over to view the Hill Lucre; and had we gone over, as he desired us, and as as thou wast inclined to do, (my Brother) we had, for ought I know, been made, like this Woman, a Spectacle for those that shall come after, to behold.

Hope. I am sorry that I was so foolish, and am made to wonder that I am not now as Lot's Wife; for wherein was the Difference betwixt her Sin and mine? She only looked back, and I had a Desire to go see: Let Grace be adored, and let me be ashamed, that ever such a Thing should be in mine Heart.

Chr. Let us take Notice of what we see here, for our Help for Time to come: This Woman escaped one Judgment, for she fell not by the Destruction of Sodom; yet she was destroy'd by another; as we see, she is turned into a Pillar of Salt.

Hope. True, and she may be to us both Caution, and Example; Caution, that we should shun her Sin; or a Sign of what Judgment will overtake such as shall not be prevented by this Caution: So Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, with the Two hundred and fifty Men that perished in their Sin, did also become * a Sign or Example to beware. But above all, I muse at one Thing, to wit, how Demas and his Fellows can stand so confidently yonder to look for that Treasure, which this Woman, but for looking behind her after, (for we read not that she slept one Foot out of the Way) was turned into a Pillar of Salt; especially since the Judgment which overtook her did make her an Example, within Sight of where they are: For they cannot choose but see her, did they but lift up their Eyes.

* Numb.
26. 9, 10.

Chr. It is a Thing to be wondred at, and it argueth that their Hearts are grown desperate in the Case; and I cannot tell who to compare them to so fitly, as to them that pick Pockets in the Presence of the Judge, or that will cut Purse under the Gallows. It is said of the Men of Sodom, Gen. 13. that they were Sinners exceedingly, because 13. 7 they were Sinners before the Lord, that is, in his Eye-sight, and notwithstanding the Kindnesses that he had shewed them; for the Land of Sodom was now like the * Garden of Eden heretofore. * Ver. 10. This therefore provoked him the more to Jealousy, and made their Plague as hot as the Fire of the Lord out of Heaven could make it. And it is most rationally to be concluded, That such, even such as these are, that shall sin in the Sight, yea, and that too in Despight of such Examples, that are set continually before them to caution them to the contrary, must be partakers of the severest Judgments.

Hope. Doubtless thou hast said the Truth; but what a Mercy is it, that neither thou, but especially I, am not made myself this Example? This ministreth Occasion to us to thank God, to fear before him, and always, to remember Lot's Wife.

I saw then, that they went on their way to a pleasant River; which David the King called the River of God; but John, the River of the Water of Life. A River. Psal. 65. 9. Rev. 22. 9. Ezek. 47. Now their way lay just upon the Bank of this River: Here therefore Christian and his Companion walked with great Delight; they drank also of the Water of the River which was pleasant and enlivening to their weary Spirits: Besides, on the Banks of this River, on either side, were Trees by the River. The Fruit and Leaves of the Trees. green Trees, for all manner of Fruit; and the leaves they eat to prevent Surfeits, and other Diseases that are incident to those that heat their Blood by Travels. On either side of the River was also a Meadow, curiously beautified with Lillies; and it was green all the Year long. A Meadow in which they lie down to sleep. Psal. 22. Isa. 14. 30. In this Meadow they lay down and slept; for here they might lie down safely. When they awoke, they gathered again of the Fruit of the Trees, and drank again of the Water of the River, and then lay down again to sleep. Thus they did several Days and Nights. Then they sang:

Behold ye, how these Crystal Streams do glide
(To comfort Pilgrims) by the High-way side.
The Meadows green, besides their fragrant Smell,
Yield Dainties for them: And he that can tell
What pleasant Fruit, yea, Leaves, these Trees do yield,
Will soon sell all, that he may buy this Field.

So when they were disposed to go on,
(for

(for they were not as yet at their Journey's End) they eat and drank, and departed.

Now I beheld in my Dream, that they had not journeyed far, but the River and the Way for a time parted, at which they were not a little sorry, yet they durst not go out of the Way. Now the Way from the River was rough, and their Feet tender by reason of their Travels: So the Souls of the Pilgrims were much discouraged, because of the Way. Wherefore still as they went on, they wished for better Way. Now a little before them, there was on the Left Hand of the Road a Meadow, and a Stile to go over into it, and that Meadow is called By-Path-Meadow. Then said Christian to his Fellow, If this Meadow lieth along by our Way-side, let us go over into it. Then he went to the Stile to see, and behold a Path lay along by the Way on the other Side of the Fence. 'Tis according to my Wish, said Christian, here is the easiest going; come, good Hopeful and let us go over.

Hope. But how if this Path should lead us out of the Way?

Chr. That's not likely, said the other; look, doth it not go along by the Way-side? So Hopeful, being persuaded by his Fellow, went after him over the Stile. When they were gone over, and were got into the Path, they found it very easy for their Feet; and withal, they looking before them, espied a Man walking as they did, (and his Name was Vain-Confidence) so they called after him, and asked him, whither that Way led? He said, to the Celestial Gate:

* See what it is too

to fall in with Strangers.

* Look, said Christian, did not I tell you so? By this you may see we are right; so they followed, and he went before them. But behold, the Night came on, and it grew very dark; so that they that were behind lost the Sight of him that went before.

He therefore that went before (Vain-Confidence by Name) not seeing the Way before him, fell into a deep Pit, which was on purpose there made by the Prince of those Grounds, to catch Vain-glorious Fools withal, and was dashed in Pieces with his Fall.

Reasoning between Christian and Hopeful.

Now Christian and his Fellow heard him fall. So they called to know the Matter, but there was none to answer, only they heard a Groaning. Then said Hopeful, Where are we now? Then was his Fellow silent, as mistrusting that he had led him out of the Way; and now it began to rain, and thunder and lighten in a most dreadful manner; and the Waters rose again.

Then Hopeful groaned in himself, saying, Oh, that I had kept on my Way!

Chr. Who would have thought that this Path should have led us out of the Way?

Hope. I was afraid on't at the very first, and therefore gave you that gentle Caution.

I would have spoke plainer; but that you are older than I.

Chr. Good Brother, be not offended, I am sorry I have brought thee out of the way, and that I have put thee into such imminent Danger; pray, my Brother, for give me; I did not do it of an evil Intent.

Christian's
Repentance

his Brother out of the way.

Hope. Be comforted, my Brother, for I forgive thee; and believe too, that this shall be for our good.

Chr. I am glad I have with me a merciful Brother: But we must not stand thus; let's try to go back again.

Hope. But, good Brother, let me go before.

Chr. No, if you please, let me go first; that if there be any Danger, I may be first therein, because by my Means we are both gone out of the way.

Hope. No, said Hopeful, you shall not go first; for your Mind being troubled, may lead you out of the Way again. Then for their Encouragement, they heard the Voice of one, saying, Let thine Heart be towards the High-way; even the Way that thou wentest, turn again. But by this time the Waters were greatly risen, by reason of which, the Way of going back was very dangerous. (Then I thought that it is easier going out of the Way when we are in, than going in when we are out.) Yet they adventured to go back, but it was so dark, and the Flood was so high, that in their going back, they had like to have been drowned nine or ten times.

Neither could they, with all the Skill they had, get again to the Stile that Night; wherefore at last, lighting under a little Shelter, they sat down there 'till the Day break: But being weary, they fell asleep. Now there was, not far from the Place where they lay, a Castle, called Doubting-Castle, the Owner whereof was Giant Despair, and it was in his Grounds they now were sleeping; wherefore he getting up in the Morning early, and walking up and down in his Fields, caught Christian and Hopeful asleep in his Grounds: Then with a grim and surly Voice, he bid them awake, and asked them whence they were, and what they did in his Grounds. They told him they were Pilgrims, and that they had lost their Way. Then said the Giant, You have this Night trespassed on me, by trampling in and lying on my Ground, and therefore you must go along with me. So they were forced to go, because he was stronger than they. They also had but little to say, for they knew themselves in a Fault. The Giant therefore drove them before him and put them into his Castle, in a very dark Dungeon, nasty and stinking to the Spirits of these two Men: Here then they lay from Wednesday Morning 'till Saturday

Cafe, and were far from Friends and Acquaintance. Now in this Place Christian had double Sorrow, because 'twas through his unadvised Haste that they were brought into this Distress.

Now Giant Despair had a Wife, and her Name was Diffidence: So when he was gone to bed, he told his Wife what he had done, to wit, That he had taken a Couple of Prisoners, and cast them into his Dungeon, for trespassing on his Grounds. Then he asked her also, what he had best to do further to them. So she asked him what they were, whence they came, and whither they were bound? and he told her. Then she counselled him, that when he arose in the Morning, he should beat them without Mercy: So when he arose, he getteth him a grievous Crab-tree Cudgel, and goes down into the Dungeon to them, and there first falls to rating of them as if they were Dogs, altho' they gave him never a Word of Distaste; Then he falls upon them, and beat them fearfully, in such Sort, that they were not able to help themselves, or to turn them upon the Floor. This done, he withdraws, and leaves them there to condole their Misery, and to mourn under their Distress: So all that Day they spent their Time in nothing but Sighs and bitter Lamentations. The next Night she talked with her Husband about them further, and understanding that they were yet alive, did advise him, to counsel them to make away with themselves: So when Morning was come, he goes to them in a furlly Manner, as before, and perceiving them to be very sore with the Stripes that he had given them the Day before, he told them, that since they were never like to come out of that Place, their only Way would be forthwith to make an End of themselves, either with Knife, Halter, or Poison: For why, said he, should you choose Life, seeing it is attended with so much Bitterness? But they desired him to let them go; with that he looked ugly upon them, and rushing to them had doubtless made an End of them himself, but that he fell into one of his * Fitts (for he sometimes in sun-shiny Weather fell into Fitts) and lost for a Time the Use of his Hand: Wherefore he withdrew, and left them as before, to consider what to do. Then did the Prisoners consult between themselves, whether it was best to take his Counsel or no; and thus they began to discourse:

* The Gi-

Fitts.

Chr. Brother, said Christian, † what shall we do? The Life that we now live is miserable! For my Part, I know not whether 'tis best to live thus, or die out of Hand. * My Soul chooseth Strangling rather than Life, and the Grave is more easy for me than this Dungeon! Shall we be ruled by the Giant?

him.

Hope. Indeed our present Condition is dreadful, and Death would be far more welcome to me, than thus for ever to abide: But yet let us consider, the Lord of the Country to which we are going, hath said, Thou shalt do no Murder, no not to another Man's Person; much more then are we forbidden to take his Counsel, to kill ourselves. Besides, he that kills another, can but commit Murther upon his Body: But for one to kill himself, is to kill Body and Soul at once. And moreover, my Brother, thou talkest of Ease in the Grave, but hast thou forgotten the Hell, whither for certain the Murderers go? For no Murderer hath eternal Life, &c. And let us consider again, That all the Law is not in the Hand of Giant Despair: others, so far as I can understand, have been taken by him, as well as we; and yet have escaped out of his Hands. Who knows, but that God who made the World, may cause that Giant Despair may die, or that, at some Time or other, he may forget to lock us in; or that he may in a short Time have another of his Fitts before us, and may loose the use of his Limbs? And if ever that should come to pass again, for my Part I am resolved to pluck up the Heart of a Man, and to try my utmost to get from under his Hand. I was a Fool that I did not try to do it before; but however, my Brother, let's be patient, and endure a while, the Time may come that may give us a happy Release: But let us not be our own Murderers. With these Words Hopeful at present did moderate the Mind of his Brother; so they continued together (in the Dark) that Day in their sad and doleful Condition.

Well, towards Evening the Giant goes down into the Dungeon again, to see if his Prisoners had taken his Counsel; but when he came there, he found them alive; and truly alive was all; for now, what for Want of Bread and Water, and by Reason of the Wounds they received when he beat them, they could do little but breathe. But I say, he found them alive; at which he fell into a grievous Rage, and told them, That seeing they had disobey'd his Counsel, it should be worse with them than if they had never been born.

At this they trembled greatly, and I think that Christian fell into a Swoon; but coming a little to himself again, they renew'd their Discourse about the Giant's Counsel, and whether yet they had best take it or no. * Now Christian again seem'd for doing it, but Hopeful made his second Reply as followeth.

Hope. † My Brother, said he, rememberest thou not, how valiant thou hast been heretofore? Apollyon could not crush thee, nor could all that thou didst hear, or see, or feel in the Valley of the Shadow of Death; what Hardship, Terror, and Amazement hast thou already gone through, and art thou now nothing but Fear? that I am in the Dungeon with thee, a far weaker Man by Nature than thou art; also this Giant has wounded me as well as thee, and hath also cut off the Bread and Water from my Mouth, and with thee I mourn without the Light. But let us exercise a little more Patience: Remember how thou playd'st the Man at Vanity Fair, and was neither afraid of the Chain nor Cage, nor yet of Bloody Death; wherefore let us (at least to avoid the Shame that becomes not a Christian to be found in) bear up with Patience as well as we can.

Now Night being come again, and the Giant and his Wife being in Bed, she asked him concerning the Prisoners, and if they had taken his Counsel: To which he reply'd; They are sturdy Rogues, they choose rather to bear all Hardships, than to make away with themselves. Then said she; take them into the Castle-yard to-morrow, and shew them the Bones and Skulls of those that thou hast already dispatch'd, and make them believe e're a Week comes to an End, thou also wilt tear them in Pieces, as thou hast done their Fellows before them.

So when the Morning was come, the Giant goes to them again, and takes them into the Castle-Yard, and shews them as his Wife had bidden him: These, said he, were Pilgrims as you are, once, and they trespassed on my Grounds, as you have done, and when I thought fit, I tore them in Pieces, and so within ten Days I will do you; go, get you down to your Den again, and with that he beat them all the Way thither. They lay therefore all Day of Saturday in lamentable Case, as before. Now when Night was come, and when Mrs. Diffidence and her Husband the Giant were got to Bed, they began to renew their Discourse of their Prisoners; and withal, the old Giant wondered that he could neither by his Blows nor Counsel bring them to an End. And with that his Wife reply'd; I fear, said she, that they live in Hopes that some will come to relieve them, or that they have Pick-locks about them, by the Means of which they hope to escape. And say'st thou so, my Dear, said the Giant; I will therefore search them in the Morning.

On Saturday the Giant threatened, that shortly he would pull them in Pieces.

Well, on Saturday about Midnight they began to pray, and continued in Prayer till almost Break of Day.

Now, a little before it was Day, good Christian, as one half amaz'd, brake out in this passionate Speech; What a Fool (quoth he) am I, thus to lie in a stinking Dungeon, when I may as well walk at Liberty?

A Key in Christian's Bosom called Promise, opens any Lock in Doubting-Castle.

I have a Key in my Bosom, called Promise, that will (I am persuaded) open any Lock in Doubting-Castle. Then said Hopeful, That's good News, good Brother, pluck it out of thy Bosom and try.

Then Christian pulled it out of his Bosom, and began to try at the Dungeon Door, whose Bolt (as he turned the Key) gave back, and the Door flew open with Ease, and Christian and Hopeful both came out. Then he went to the outward Door that leads into the Castle-yard, and with his Key opened that Door also. After he went to the Iron Gate, for that must be opened too, but that Lock went very hard, yet the Key did open it. Then they thrust open the Gate to make their Escape with Speed; but that Gate as it opened made such a Cracking, that it waked Giant Despair, who hastily rising to pursue his Prisoners, felt his Limbs to fail, for his Fitts took him again, so that he could by no Means go after them. Then they went on, and came to the King's Highway, and so were safe, because they were out of his Jurisdiction.

Now, when they were gone over the Stile, they began to contrive with themselves what they should do at that Stile, to prevent those that shall come after from falling into the Hands of Giant Despair. So they consented to erect there a * Pillar, and to engrave upon the Side thereof this Sentence; 'Over this Stile is the Way to Doubting-Castle, which is kept by Giant Despair, who despiseth the King of the Cœlestial Country, and seeks to destroy his Holy Pilgrims.' Many therefore that followed after, read what was written, and escaped the Danger. This done, they sang as follows:

* A Pillar erected by Christian and his Fellow.

Out of the Way we went, and then we found
What 'twas to tread upon forbidden Ground.
And let them that come after have a Care,
Lest they for trespassing, his Prisoners are,
Whose Castle's Doubting, and whose Name's Despair.

They went then till they came to the Delectable Mountains; which Mountains belong to the Lord of that Hill, of which we have spoken before; so they went up to the Mountains, to behold the Gardens and Orchards, the Vineyards, and Fountains of Water; where also they drank and washed themselves, and did freely eat of the Vineyards. Now there was on the Tops of those Mountains, Shepherds feeding their Flocks, and they stood by the Highway Side. The Pilgrims therefore went to them, and leaning upon their Staffs, (as is common with weary Pilgrims, when they stand to talk with any by the Way) they asked, * Whose Delectable Mountains are these? And whose be the Sheep that feed upon them?

The Delectable Mountains They are refreshed in the Mountains

* Talk with the Shepherd

Shep. These Mountains are Emanuel's Land, and they are within Sight of his City; and the Sheep also are his, and he laid down his Life for them.

Chr. Is this the Way to the Cœlestial City?

Shep. You are just in the Way.

Chr. How far is it thither?

Shep. Too far for any, but those that shall get thither indeed.

Chr. Is the Way safe or dangerous?

Shep. Safe for those for whom it is to be safe, but Transgressors shall fall therein?

Chr. Is there in this Place any Relief for Pilgrims, that are weary and faint in the Way?

Shep. The Lord of these Mountains hath given us a Charge not to be forgetful to entertain Strangers, therefore the Good of the Place is before you.

I saw also in my Dream, That when the Shepherds perceived that they were way-faring Men, they also put Questions to them, (to which they made Answer as in other Places) as, Whence came you? And how got you into the Way? And by what Means have you so persevered therein? For, but few of them that begin to come hither, do shew their Face on these Mountains. But when the Shepherds heard their Answers, being pleased therewith, they looked very lovingly upon them, and said, † Welcome to the Delectable Mountains.

The Shepherds, I say, whose Names were Knowledge, Experience, Watchful, and Sincere, took them by the Hand, and had them to their Tents, and made them partake of what was ready at present. They said, moreover, We would that you should stay here a while, to be acquainted with us, and yet more to solace yourselves with the Good of the Delectable Mountains. They then told them, That they were content to stay; so they went to their Rest that Night, because it was very late.

Then I saw in my Dream, That in the Morning the Shepherds called up Christian and Hopeful to walk with them upon the Mountains: So they went forth with them, and walked a while, having a pleasant Prospect on every Side. Then said the Shepherds one to another, Shall we shew these Pilgrims some * Wonders? So when they had concluded to do it, they had them first to the Top of an Hill, called † Error, which was very steep on the farthest Side, and bid them look down to the Bottom. So Christian and Hopeful looked down, and saw at the Bottom several Men dash'd all to Pieces by a Fall that they had from the Top. Then said Christian, What meaneth this? The Shepherds answer'd, Have you not heard of them that were made to err, by hearkning to * Hymeneus and Philetus, as concerning the Faith of the Resurrection of the Body? They answered, Yes. Then said the Shepherds, Those that you see dash'd in Pieces at the Bottom of this Mountain are they; and they have continued to this Day unburied, (as you see) for an Example for others to take Heed how they clamber too high, or how they come too near to the Brink of this Mountain.

Then I saw that they had them to the Top of another Mountain, and the Name of that is * Caution, and bid them look ^{* Mount Caution.} afar off: Which when they did, they perceived, as they thought, several Men walking up and down among the Tombs that were there: And they perceived that the Men were blind, because they stumbled sometimes upon the Tombs, and because they could not get out from among them. Then said Christian, What means this?

The Shepherds then answered, Did you not see a little below these Mountains a Stile that led into a Meadow, on the Left Hand of this Way? They answered, Yes. Then said the Shepherds, From that Stile there goes a Path that leads directly to Doubting-Castle, which is kept by Giant Despair, and these Men (pointing to them among the Tombs) came once on Pilgrimage, as you do now, even till they came to that same Stile. And because the right Way was rough in that Place, they chose to go out of it into that Meadow, and there were taken by Giant Despair, and cast into Doubting-Castle; where, after they had a while been kept in the Dungeon, he at last did put out their Eyes, and led them among those Tombs, where he has left them to wander to this very Day, that the Saying of the Wise Man might be fulfilled, He that wandreth out of ^{Prov. 21.} the Way of Understanding, shall remain in ^{26.} the Congregation of the Dead. Then Christian and Hopeful looked upon one another, with Tears gushing out, but yet said nothing to the Shepherds.

Then I saw in my Dream, That the Shepherds had them to another Place in a Bottom, where was a Door in the side of an Hill, and they opened the Door, and bid them look in: They looked in therefore, and saw that within it was very dark and smoaky; they also thought that they heard there a rumbling Noise, as of Fire, and a Cry of some tormented, and that they smelt the Scent of Brimstone. Then said Christian, What means this? The Shepherds told them, This is a By-way to Hell, ^{A By-way to Hell.} a Way that Hypocrites go in at; namely, such as sell their Birth-right with Esau; such as sell their Master, with Judas; such as blaspheme the Gospel, with Alexander; and that lie and dissemble, with Ananias and Sapphira his Wife.

Then said Hopeful to the Shepherds, I perceive that these had on them, even every one, a Shew of Pilgrimage, as we have now, had they not?

Shep.

Shep. Yes, and held it a long Time too.

Hope. How far might they go on Pilgrimage in their Days, since they notwithstanding were thus miserably cast away.

Shep. Some farther, and some not so far as these Mountains.

Then said the Pilgrims one to another, We have need to cry to the Strong for Strength.

Shep. Ay, and you will have need to use it, when you have it, too.

By this Time the Pilgrims had a Desire to go forwards, and the Shepherds a Desire they should; so they walk'd together towards the End of the Mountains. Then said the Shepherds one to another, Let us here shew the Pilgrims the Gates to the Cœlestial City, if they have Skill to look through our * Perspective-Glass. The Pilgrims then lovingly accepted the Motion: So they had them to the Top of an high Hill, called † Clear, and gave them the Glass to look.

Then they tried to look, but the Remembrance of that last Thing that the Shepherds had shewed them, made their Hands shake; by Means of which Impediment, they could not look steddily thro' the Glass; yet they thought they saw something like the Gate, and also some of the Glory of the Place. Then they went away and fang,

*Thus by the Shepherds Secrets are reveal'd,
Which from all other Men are kept conceal'd.*

Come to the Shepherds then, if you would see Things deep, Things hid, and that mysterious be.

When they were about to depart, one of the Shepherds gave them a Note of the Way. Another of them bid them * Beware of the Flatterer. The third bid them Take heed that they sleep not upon the Incharmed Ground. And the fourth bid them God Speed. So I awoke from my Dream.

And I slept, and dreamed again, and saw the same two Pilgrims going down the Mountains along the Highway towards the City. Now a little below these Mountains on the Left Hand, lieth the Country of Conceit; from which Country there comes into the Way in which the Pilgrims walked, a little crooked Lane. Here therefore, they met with a very brisk Lad, that came out of that Country; and his Name was Ignorance. So Christian asked him from what Parts he came, and whither he was going.

Ignor. Sir, I was born in the Country that lieth off there, a little on the Left Hand, and am going to the Cœlestial City.

Chr. But how do you think to get in at the Gate? for you may find some Difficulty there.

Ignor. As other good People do, said he.

Chr. But what have you to shew at that Gate, that the Gate should be opened to you?

Ignor. I know my Lord's Will, and have been a good Liver; I pay every Man^{The} his own; I pray, fast, pay Tithes, and^{Grounds} give Alms, and have left my Country, for^{of Ignorance's} whither I am going.^{Hope.}

Chr. But thou camest not in at the Wicket-Gate that is at the Head of this Way; thou camest in hither through that same crooked Lane, and therefore I fear, however thou may'st think of thyself, when the Reckoning-day shall come, thou wilt have laid to thy Charge, that thou art a Thief and a Robber, instead of getting Admittance into the City.

Ignor. Gentlemen, Ye be utter Strangers^{He telleth} to me, I know you not; be content to follow the Religion of your Country, and I^{every one} will follow the Religion of mine. I hope all^{he is but} will be well. And as for the Gate that you talk of, all the World knows that that is a great Way off our Country; I cannot think that any Men in all our Parts, do so much as know the Way to it; nor need they matter whether they do or no, since we have, as you see, a fine pleasant green Lane, that comes down from our Country the next Way into it.

When Christian saw that the Man was wise in his own Conceit, he said to Hopeful whisperingly, There is more Hopes of a^{Prov. 26.} Fool than of him. And said moreover,^{12.} When he that is a Fool walketh by the Way,^{Eccles. 10.} his Wisdom faileth him, and he saith to every^{3.} one, that he is a Fool. What, shall we^{How to} talk farther with him, or out-go him at^{carry it to} present, and so leave him to think of what he hath heard already; and then stop again for him afterwards, and see if by Degrees we can do any Good of him? Then said Hopeful,

*Let Ignorance a little while now muse
On what is said, and let him not refuse
Good Counsel to embrace, lest he remain
Still ignorant of what's the chiefest Gain.
God saith, Those that no Understanding
have,
(Altho' he made them) them he will not save.*

Hope. He farther added, It is not good, I think, to say to him all at once; let us pass him by, if you will, and talk to him anon, even as he is able to bear it.

So they both went on, and Ignorance he came after. Now when they had passed him a little Way, they entered into a very^{Matt. 12.} dark Lane, where they met a Man whom^{46.} seven Devils had bound with seven strong^{Prov. 5.} Cords, and were carrying of him back to the Door that they saw on the Side of the Hill: Now good Christian began to tremble, and so did Hopeful his Companion: Yet, as^{22.} the the Devils led away the Man, Christian looked to see if he knew him; and he thought it might be one Turn-away that dwelt in the Town of Apostasy. But he did not perfectly see his Face; for he did hang his Head like a Thief that is found. But being gone past, Hopeful looked after him, and espied on his Back a Paper, with this Inscription, Wanton Professor, and damnable Apostate. Then said Christian to his Fellow, Now I call to remembrance that which was told me, of a thing that happened to a good Man hereabout. The Name of the Man was Little-Faith, but a good Man, and he dwelt in the Town of Sincere. The Thing was this: At the entering in at this Passage, there comes down from Broad-Way-Gate, a Lane called Dead-Man's-Lane; so called, because of the Murders that are commonly done there: And this Little-Faith going on Pilgrimage, as we do now, chanced to sit down there and slept: Now there happened at that time to come down the Lane from Broad-way-Gate, three sturdy Rogues, and their Names were Faint-heart, Mistrust, and Guilt, (three Brothers) and they espying Little-Faith where he was, came galloping up with Speed. Now the good Man was just awakened from his Sleep, and was getting up to go on his Journey. So they came up all to him, and with threatening Language bid him stand. At this Little-Faith looked as white as a Clout, and had neither Power to fight nor fly. Then said Faint-Heart, Deliver thy Purse; but he making no Hast to do it, (for he was loth to lose his Money) Mistrust ran up to him, and thrusting his Hand into his Pocket, pulled out thence a Bag of Silver. Then he cried out Thieves, Thieves. With that Guilt, with a great Club that was in his Hand, struck Little-Faith on the Head, and with that Blow fell'd him flat to the Ground; where he lay bleeding as one that would bleed to Death. All this while, the Thieves stood by. But at last, they hearing that some were upon the Road, and fearing lest it should be one Great Grace, that dwells in the City of Good-Confidence, they betook themselves to their Heels, and left this good Man to shift for himself. Now after a while, Little-Faith came to himself, and getting up, made shift to scabble on his Way. This was the Story.

Hope. But did they take from him all that ever he had?

Chr. No, The Place where his Jewels were, they never ransack'd; so those he kept still. But, as I was told, the good Man was much afflicted for his Loss; for the Thieves got most of his Spending-Money. That which they got not, (as I said) were Jewels; also he had a little odd Money left, but scarce enough to bring him to his Journey's End; nay, (if I was not misinformed) he was forced to beg as he went, to keep himself alive; (for his Jewels he might not sell.) But beg and do what he could, he went (as we say) with many a Hungry Belly, the most Part of the rest of the Way.

Hope. But is it not a Wonder they got not from him his Certificate, by which he was to receive his Admittance at the Celestial Gate?

Chr. 'Tis a Wonder; but they got not that; though they missed it not through any good Cunning of his; for he being dismay'd with their coming upon him, had neither Power nor Skill to hide any thing, so it was more by good Providence than by his Endeavour, that they miss'd of that good Thing.

Hope. But it must needs be a Comfort to him, that they got not his Jewels from him.

Chr. It might have been great Comfort to him, had he used it as he should: But they that told me the Story, said, That he made but little use of it all the rest of the Way; and that because of the Dismay that he had in the taking away his Money: Indeed he forgot it a great Part of the rest of his Journey; and besides, when at any time it came into his Mind, and he began to be comforted therewith, then would fresh Thoughts of his Loss come again upon him, and those Thoughts would swallow up all.

Hope. Alas, poor Man! This could not but be a great Grief unto him!

Chr. Grief! Ay, a Grief indeed. Would it not have been so to any of us, had we been used as he, to be robbed and wounded too, and that in a strange Place, as he was? 'Tis a wonder he did not die with Grief, poor Heart: I was told that he scattered almost all the rest of the Way with nothing but doleful and bitter Complaints. Telling also to all that overtook him, or that he overtook in the Way as he went, where he was robbed, and how, who they were that did it, and what he lost; how he was wounded, and that he hardly escaped with his Life.

Hope. But 'tis a wonder that his Necessity did not put him upon selling or pawning some of his Jewels, that he might have wherewithal to relieve himself in his Journey.

Chr. Thou talkest like one upon whose Head is the Shell to this very day: For what should he pawn them? or to whom should he sell them? In all that Country where he was robbed, his Jewels were not accounted of; nor did he want that Relief which could from thence be administered to him. Besides, had his Jewels been missing at the Gate of the Celestial City, he had (and that he knew well enough) been excluded from an Inheritance there, and that would have been worse to him than the Appearance and Villany of Ten thousand Thieves.

Hope. Why art thou so tart, my Brother?

Heb. 12. Esau sold his Birth-right, and that for a Mess of Pottage, and that Birth-right was his greatest Jewel; and if he, why might not Little-Faith do so too?

Discourse about Esau and Little-Faith. Chr. Esau did sell his Birth-right indeed, and so do many besides, and by so doing exclude themselves from the chief Blessing, as also that Caitiff did; but you must put a difference betwixt Esau and Little-Faith, and also betwixt their Estates. Esau's Birth-right was Typical, but Little-Faith's Jewels were not so. Esau's Belly was his God, but Little-Faith's Belly was not so. Esau's Want lay in his fleshly Appetite, Little-Faith's did not so: Besides, Esau could see no farther than to the fulfilling of his Lusts; For I am at the point to die, said he, and what good will this Birth-right do me? But Little-Faith, tho' it was his Lot to have but a Little Faith, was by his Little Faith kept from such Extravagancies, and made to see and prize his Jewels more, than to sell them as Esau did his Birth-right. You read not any where that Esau had Faith, no, not so much as a little; therefore no marvel if where the Flesh only bears sway, (as it will in that Man where no Faith is to resist) if he sells his Birth-right, and his Soul and all, and that to the Devil of Hell; for it is with such, as it is with the Ass, who in her Occasions cannot be turned away. When their Minds are set upon their Lusts, they will have them, whatever they cost; but Little-Faith was of another Temper, his Mind was on Things divine; his Livelihood was upon Things that were Spiritual and from Above; therefore, to what end should he that is of such a Temper sell his Jewels, (had there been any that would have bought them) to fill his Mind with empty Things? Will a Man give a penny to fill his Belly with Hay? or can you persuade the Turtle-Dove to live upon Carrion like the Crow? Tho' Faithless ones can for Carnal Lusts, pawn, or mortgage, or sell what they have, and themselves outright to boot; yet they that have Faith, Saving Faith, tho' but a little of it, cannot do so. Here, therefore, my Brother, is thy Mistake.

Esau was ruled by his Lusts, Gen. 25. 32.

Esau never had Faith.

Jer. 2. 24.

Little-Faith could not live upon Esau's Pottage.

Comparison between the Turtle-Dove and the Crow.

Hope. I acknowledge it; but yet your severe Reflexion had almost made me angry.

Chr. Why, I did but compare thee to some of the Birds that are of the brisker sort, who will run to and fro in untrodden Paths with the Shell upon their Heads: But pass by that, and consider the Matter under Debate, and all shall be well betwixt thee and me.

Hope. But, Christian, these three Fellows, I am persuaded in my Heart, are but a Company of Cowards: Would they have run else, think you, as they did, at the Noise of one that was coming on the Road? Why did not Little-Faith pluck up a greater Heart? He might, methinks, have stood Hopeful swaggers.

Vol. II.

one Brush with them, and have yielded when there had been no Remedy.

Chr. That they are Cowards, many have said, but few have found it so in the time of Trial. As for a great Heart, Little-Faith had none; and I perceive by thee, my Brother, hadst thou been the Man concerned, that art but for a Brush, and then to yield. And verily, since this is the Height of thy Stomach, now they are at a Distance from us, should they appear to thee, as they did to him, they might put thee to second Thoughts.

But consider again, they are but Journey-men Thieves, they serve under the King of the bottomless Pit; who, if need be, will come in to their Aid himself, and his Voice is as the Roaring of a Lion. I myself have been engaged as this Little-Faith was, and I found it a terrible Thing. These three Villains set upon me, and I beginning like a Christian to resist, they gave but a Call, and in came their Master; I would, (as the Saying is) have given my Life for a Penny; but that, as God would have it, I was cloathed with Armour of Proof. Ay, and yet, tho' I was so harnessed, I found it hard Work to quit myself like a Man; no Man can tell what in that Combat attends us, but he that hath been in the Battle himself.

Hope. Well, but they ran, you see, when they did but suppose that one Great-Grace was in the Way.

Chr. True, they have often fled, both they and their Master, when Great-Grace hath but appeared; and no marvel, for he is the King's Champion: But I tro, you will put some Difference betwixt Little-Faith and the King's Champion. All the King's Subjects are not his Champions, nor can they, when tried, do such Feats of War as he. Is it meet to think, that a little Child should handle Goliath as David did? Or, that there should be the Strength of an Oxe in a Wren? Some are strong, some are weak; some have great Faith, some have little; this Man was one of the weak, and therefore he went to the Wall.

Hope. I would it had been Great-Grace for their Sakes.

Chr. If it had been he, he might have had his Hands full: For I must tell you, that though Great-Grace is excellent good at his Weapons, and has and can, so long as he keeps them at Sword's Point, do well enough with them; yet, if they get within him, even Faint-Heart, Mistrust, or the other, it shall go hard, but they will throw up his Heels. And when a Man is down, you know, what can he do?

Who so looks well upon Great-Grace's Face, shall see those Scars and Cuts there, that shall easily give Demonstration of what I say. Yea, once I heard that he should say, (and that when he was in the Combat) We despaired even of Life. How did these sturdy Rogues and their Fellows make David groan, mourn, and roar? Yea, Haman and Hezekiah too, though Champions in their Day, were forced to bestir them, when by these assaulted; and yet notwithstanding they had their Coats soundly brushed by them. Peter, upon a Time, would go try what he could do; but tho' some do say of him, that he is the Prince of the Apostles, they handled him so, that they made him at last afraid of a sorry Girl.

Besides, their King is at their Whistle; he is never out of Hearing; and if at any Time they be put to the worst, he, if possible, comes in to help them: And of him it is said, The Sword of him that layeth at him cannot hold; the Spear, the Dart, nor the Habergeon; he esteemeth Iron as Straw, and Brass as rotten Wood. The Arrow cannot make him fly; Sling-stones are turned, with him, into Stubble; Darts are counted as Stubble; he laugheth at the shaking of a Spear. What can a Man do in this Case?

'Tis true, if a Man could at every Turn have Job's Horse, and had Skill and Courage to ride him, he might do notable Things. For his Neck is cloathed with Thunder; he will not be afraid as the Grasshopper; the Glory of his Nostrils is terrible; he paweth in the Valley, rejoiceth in his Strength, and goeth out to meet the armed Men. He mocketh at Fear; and is not affrighted, neither turneth back from the Sword. The Quiver rattleth against him, the glittering Spear, and the Shield. He swalloweth the Ground with Fierceness and Rage, neither believeth he that it is the Sound of the Trumpet. He saith among the Trumpets, Ha, ha; and he smelleth the Battle afar off, the Thundering of the Captains and the Shoutings.

But for such Footmen as thee and I are, let us never desire to meet with an Enemy, nor vaunt as if we could do better, when we hear of others that they have been foiled, nor be tickled at the Thoughts of our own Manhood, for such commonly come by the worst when tried. Witness Peter, of whom I made mention before; he would swagger, ay, he would; he would, as his vain Mind prompted him to say, do better, and stand more for his Master than all Men; but who so foiled and run down by these Villains as he?

When therefore we hear that such Robberies are done on the King's Highway, two Things become us to do: First, to go out harnessed, and to be sure to take a Shield with us; for it was for Want of that that he that laid so lustily at Leviathan could not make him yield; and indeed, if that be wanting, he fears us not at all. Therefore, he that had Skill, hath said, Above all, take the Shield of Faith, where-with ye shall be able to quench all the fiery Darts of the Wicked.

It is good also that we desire of the King a Convoy, yea that he will go with us himself. This made David rejoyce when in the Valley of the Shadow of Death; and Moses was rather for dying where he stood, than to go one Step without his God. O, my Brother, if he will but go along with us, what need we be afraid of ten Thousands that shall set themselves against us? but without him, the proud Helpers fall under the Slain.

I, for my Part, have been in the Fray before now; and though (through the Goodness of him that is best) I am, as you see, alive, yet I cannot boast of my Manhood. Glad shall I be, if I meet with no more such Brunts; though I fear we are not got beyond all Danger. However, since the Lion and the Bear have not as yet devour'd me, I hope God will also deliver us from the next uncircumcised Philistine. Then sang Christian:

*Poor Little-Faith! Hast been among the Thieves!
Wast robb'd! Remember this, who so believes,
And get more Faith, then shall you Victors be Over ten Thousand, else scarce over three.*

So they went on, and Ignorance follow'd. They went then till they came at a Place where they saw a Way put itself into their Way, and seemed withal to lie as strait as the Way which they should go; and here they knew not which of the two to take, for both seemed strait before them; therefore here they stood still to consider. And as they were thinking about the Way, behold a Man black of Flesh, but covered with a very light Robe; came to them, and asked them why they stood there? They answered, They were going to the Celestial City, but knew not which of these Ways to take. Follow me, said the Man, it is thither that I am going. So they followed him in the Way that but now came into the Road, which by Degrees turned, and turned them so from the City, that they desired to go to, that in a little Time their Faces were turned away from it; yet they followed him. But, by and by, before they were aware, he led them both within the Compass of a Net, in which they were both so entangl'd, that they knew not what to do; and with that, the white Robe fell off the black Man's Back: Then they saw where they were. Wherefore there they lay crying some Time, for they could not get themselves out.

Chr. Then said Christian to his Fellow, now do I see myself in an Error. Did not the Shepherds bid us beware of the Flatterers? As is the Saying of the wise Man, so we have found it this Day: A Man

They also gave us a Note of Directions about the Way, for our more certain finding thereof; but therein we have also forgotten to read, and have not kept ourselves from the Paths of the Destroyer. Here David was wiser than we; for, saith he, Concerning the Works of Men, by the Word of thy Lips, I have kept me from the Paths of the Destroyer. Thus they lay

When he was come to the Place where they were, he asked them whence they came, and what they did there. They told him, that they were poor Pilgrims going to Zion, but were led out of their Way by a black Man, cloathed in white, who bid us, said they, follow him, for he was going thither too. Then said he with the

They are examined, and convicted of Forgetfulness. he asked them, saying, Where did you lie the last Night? They said, With the Shepherds, upon the Delectable Mountains. He asked them then, if they had not a Note of Directions for the Way? They answered, Yes. But, did you, said he, when you were at a Stand, pluck out and read your Note? They answered, No. He asked them, Why? They said, They forgot. He asked moreover, If the Shepherds did not bid them beware of the Flatterer? They answered, Yes. But we did not imagine, said they, that this fine-spoken Man had been he.

Deceivers fine spoken, Rom 6. 18. Deut. 25. 2. 2 Chron. 6. 26, 27. Rev. 3. 19. Then I saw in my Dream, That he commanded them to lie down; which when they did, he chastized them sore, to teach them the good Way wherein they should walk: And as he chastized them, he said, As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten; be zealous, therefore, and repent. This done, he bid them go on their Way, and take good Heed to the other Directions of the Shepherds. So they thanked him for all his Kindness, and went softly along the right Way, singing;

They are whipt and sent on their Way. Come hither, you that walk along the Way, See how the Pilgrims fare that go astray: They caught are in an entangl'd Net, 'Cause they good Counsel lightly did forget: 'Tis true, they rescu'd were, but yet you see They're scourg'd to boot. Let this your Caution be.

Now, after a while, they perceived a far off, one coming softly, and alone, all along the Highway to meet them. Then said Christian to his Fellow, Yonder is a Man with his Back towards Zion, and he is coming to meet us.

Hope. I see him, let us take Heed to ourselves now, lest he should prove a Flatterer also. So he drew nearer and nearer, and at last came up to them. His Name was The Atheist, and he asked them whither they were going.

Chr. We are going to the Mount Zion. Then Atheist fell into a very great Laughter?

Chr. What is the Meaning of your Laughter?

Atheist. I laugh to see what ignorant Persons you are, to take upon you so tedious a Journey, and yet are like to have nothing but your Travel for your Pains.

Chr. Why, Man? Do you think we shall not be received?

Atheist. Received! There is no such Place as you dream of in all this World.

Chr. But there is in the World to come.

Atheist. When I was at home in mine own Country, I heard as you now affirm, and from that Hearing went out to see, and have been seeking this City these Twenty Years, but find no more of it than I did the first Day I set out.

Chr. We have both heard, and believe that there is such a Place to be found.

Atheist. Had not I, when at home, believed, I had not come thus far to seek; but finding none, (and yet I should, had there been such a Place to be found, for I have gone to seek it farther than you) I am going back again, and will seek to refresh myself with the Things that I then cast away, for Hopes of that which I now see is not.

Chr. Then said Christian to Hopeful, his Companion, Is it true which this Man hath said?

Hope. Take Heed, he is one of the Flatterers; remember what it hath cost us once already for our hearkening to such kind of Fellows. What! No Mount Zion? Did we not see from the Delectable Mountains, the Gate of the City? Also, are we not now to walk by Faith? * Let us go on, * said Hopeful, lest the Man with the Whip over-take us again.

You should have taught me that Lesson, which I will round you in the Ears withal; Cease, my Son, to hear the Instruction that causeth to err from the Words of Knowledge: I say, my Brother, cease to hear him, and let us believe to the Saving of the Soul.

Chr. My Brother, I did not put the Question to thee, for that I doubted of the Truth of your Belief myself, but to prove thee, and to fetch from thee a Fruit of the Honesty of thy Heart. As for this Man, I know that he is blinded by the God of this World. Let thee and I go on, knowing that that we have Belief of the Truth, and no Lye is of the Truth.

Hope. Now I do rejoice in hope of the Glory of God: So they turned away from the Man; and he laughing at them, went his Way.

They are come to the Enchanted Ground.

Hopeful begins to be drowsy. Christian keeps him awake.

I saw then in my Dream, that they went 'till they came into a certain Country, whose Air naturally tended to make one drowzy, if he came a Stranger into it. And here Hopeful began to be very dull and heavy to sleep; wherefore he said unto Christian, I do now begin to grow so drowzy, that I can scarcely hold open mine Eyes; Let us lye down here, and take one Nap.

Chr. By no means, (said the other) lest sleeping we never awake more.

Hope. Why, my Brother? Sleep is sweet to the labouring Man; we may be refreshed if we take a Nap.

1 Thel. 5. 6.

Chr. Do you not remember, that one of the Shepherds bid us beware of the enchanted Ground? He meant by that, that we should beware of Sleeping; wherefore let us not sleep as others do, but let us watch and be sober.

He is thankful.

Hope. I acknowledge myself in a Fault; and had I been here alone, I had by sleeping run the Danger of Death. I see it is true, that the wise Man saith, Two are better than one. Hitherto hath thy Company been my Mercy; And thou shalt have a good Reward for thy Labour.

To prevent Drowziness they fall to good Discourse. Good Discourse preventeth Drowziness.

Chr. Now then, said Christian, to prevent Drowziness in this Place, let us fall into good Discourse.

Hope. With all my Heart said the other.

Chr. Where shall we begin?

Hope. Where God began with us, but do you begin if you please.

Chr. I will sing you first the Song.

The Dreamer's Note.

*When Saints do sleepy grow, let them come hither,
And hear how these two Pilgrims talk together,
Tea, let them learn of them in any wise
Thus to keep ope' their drowzy slumb'ring Eyes;
Saints Fellowship, if it be manag'd well,
Keeps them awake, and that in spite of Hell.*

They begin at the beginning of their Conversion.

Chr. Then Christian began, and said, I will ask you a Question. How came you to think at first of so doing as you do now?

Hope. Do you mean, how came I at first to look after the Good of my Soul?

Chr. Yes, that is my Meaning.

Hope. I continued a great while in the Delight of those things which were seen and sold at our Fair; things which I believe now would have, had I continued in them still, drowned me in Perdition and Destruction.

Chr. What things were they?

Hope. All the Treasures and Riches of the World. * Also I delighted much in ^{* Hopeful's Life before Conversion.} Rioting, Revelling, Drinking, Swearing, Lying, Uncleaness, Sabbath-Breaking, and what not, that tended to destroy the Soul. But I found at last, by hearing and considering of Things that are Divine, which indeed I heard of you, as also of beloved Faithful, that was put to Death for his Faith and good Living in Vanity-Fair, That the end of these Things is Death. ^{Rom. 6. 21, 22, 23. Eph. 5. 6.} And that for these Things Sake, the Wrath of God cometh upon the Children of Disobedience.

Chr. And did you presently fall under the Power of this Conviction?

Hope. No, I was not willing presently to know the Evil of Sin, nor the Damnation that follows upon the Commission of it; but endeavoured, when my Mind at first began to be shaken with the Word, to shut mine Eyes against the Light there-^{Hopeful at first shuts his Eyes against the Light.} of.

Chr. But what was the Cause of your carrying of it thus to the first Workings of God's Blessed Spirit upon you?

Hope. The Causes were, 1. I was ignorant that this was the Work of God upon me. I never thought that by Awakenings ^{Reasons of his resisting the Light.} for Sin, God at first begins the Conversion of a Sinner. 2. Sin was yet very sweet to my Flesh, and I was loth to leave it. 3. I could not tell how to part with mine old Companions, their Presence and Actions were so desirable unto me. 4. The Hours in which Convictions were upon me, were such troublefome and such Heart-affrighting Hours, that I could not bear, no not so much as the Remembrance of them upon my Heart.

Chr. Then, as it seems, sometimes you got rid of your Trouble.

Hope. Yes, verily, but it would come into my Mind again, and then I should be as bad, nay worse than I was before.

Chr. Why, what was it that brought your Sins to Mind again?

Hope. Many Things; as,

1. * If I did but meet a good Man in the Streets; or, ^{* When he had lost his Sense of Sin, what brought it again.}
2. If I have heard any read in the Bible; or,
3. If mine Head did begin to ache; or,
4. If I were told that some of my Neighbours were sick; or,
5. If I heard the Bell toll for some that were dead; or,
6. If I thought of Dying myself; or,
7. If I heard that sudden Death happened to others.
8. But especially when I thought of myself, that I must quickly come to Judgment.

Chr. And could you at any time, with Ease,

Ease, get off the Guilt of Sin, when by any of these ways it came upon you?

Hope. No, not I; for then they got faster Hold of my Conscience; and then, if I did but think of going back to Sin, (though my Mind was turned against it) it would be double Torment to me.

Chr. And how did you then?

Hope. † I thought I must endeavour to mend my Life; for else, thought I, I am sure to be damned.

Chr. And did you endeavour to mend?

Hope. Yes; and fled from, not only my Sins, but sinful Company too, and betook me to Religious Duties; as Praying, Reading, weeping for Sin, speaking Truth to my Neighbours, &c. These Things did I, with many others, too much here to relate.

Chr. And did you think yourself well then?

Hope. Yes, for a while; but at the last my Trouble came tumbling upon me again, and that over the Neck of all my Reformations.

Chr. How came that about, since you were now reform'd?

Hope. There were several things brought it upon me, especially such Sayings as these: All our Righteousnesses are as filthy Rags. By the Works of the Law, no Man shall be justified. When ye have done all these Things, say, We are unprofitable: With many more such like. From whence I began to reason with myself thus: If All my Righteousnesses are filthy Rags; if by the Deeds of the Law No Man can be justified; and if when we have done All we are unprofitable, then 'tis but Folly to think of Heaven by the Law. I farther thought thus: * If a Man runs a Hundred Pounds into the Shop-keepers Debt, and after that shall pay for all that he shall fetch; yet if this old Debt stands still in the Book uncross'd, the Shop-keeper may sue him for it, and cast him into Prison, till he shall pay the Debt.

Chr. Well, and how did you apply this to yourself?

Hope. Why, I thought thus with myself; I have by my Sins run a great Way into God's Book, and that my now Reforming will not pay off that Score; therefore I should think still, under all my present Amendments, But how shall I be freed from that Damnation that I brought myself in Danger of by my former Transgressions?

Chr. A very good Application; but pray go on.

Hope. Another Thing that hath troubled me ever since my late Amendments is, that if I look narrowly into the best of what I do now, I still see Sin, new Sin, mixing itself with the best of that I do; so that now I am forced to conclude, that notwithstanding my former fond Conceits of myself and Duties, I have committed Sin enough in one Day to send me to Hell, tho' my former Life had been faultless.

Chr. And what did you then?

Hope. Do! I could not tell what to do, 'till I brake my Mind to Faithful, for he and I were well acquainted. And he told me, that unless I could obtain the Righteousness of a Man that never had sinned, neither mine own, nor all the Righteousness of the World could save me.

Chr. And did you think he spake true?

Hope. Had he told me so when I was pleased and satisfied with mine own Amendments, I had called him Fool for his Pains; but now, since I see mine own Infirmary, and the Sin which cleaves to my best Performance, I have been forced to be of his Opinion.

Chr. But did you think, when at first he suggested it to you, that there was such a Man to be found, of whom it might justly be said, That he never committed Sin?

Hope. I must confess the Words at first sounded strangely, but after a little more Talk and Company with him, I had full Conviction about it.

Chr. And did you ask him what Man this was, and how you must be justified by him?

Hope. Yes, and he told me it was the Lord Jesus, that dwelleth on the Right Hand of the Most High: * And thus, said he, you must be justified by him, even by trusting to what he hath done by himself in the Days of his Flesh, and suffered when he did hang on the Tree. I ask'd him further, how that Man's Righteousness could be of that Efficacy, as to justify another before GOD? And he told me, He was the Mighty GOD, and did what he did, and died the Death also, not for himself, but for me; to whom his Doings, and the Worthiness of them, should be imputed, if I believed on him.

Chr. And what did you do then?

Hope. I made my Objections against my Believing, for that I thought he was not willing to save me.

Chr. And what said Faithful to you then?

Hope. He bid me go to him and see; Then I said it was Presumption. † He said No, for I was invited to come. Then he gave me a Book of Jesus's inditing, to encourage me the more freely to come; and he said concerning that Book, that every Jot and Tittle thereof stood firmer than Heaven and Earth. Then I asked him what I must do when I came: And he told me, I must entreat upon my Knees, with all my Heart and Soul, the Father to reveal him to me. Then I asked him further, how I must make my Supplication to him? And he said, Go, and thou shalt find him upon a Mercy-seat, where he sits all the Year long, to give Pardon and Forgiveness to them that come. I told him, Lord, I have heard that thou art a merciful God, and hast ordained that thy Son Jesus Christ should be the Saviour of the World: And moreover, that thou art willing to bestow upon such a poor Sinner as I am, (and I am a Sinner indeed) Lord, take therefore this Opportunity, and magnify thy Grace in the Salvation of my Soul, through thy Son Jesus Christ. Amen.

Chr. And did you do as you were bidden?

He prays. Hope. Yes, over and over, and over.

Chr. And did the Father reveal the Son to you?

Hope. Not at first, nor second, nor third, nor fourth, nor fifth; no, nor at the sixth Time neither.

Chr. What did you do then?

Hope. What! Why I could not tell what to do.

Chr. Had you not Thoughts of leaving off Praying?

He thought to leave off praying. Hope. Yes; and a hundred Times twice told.

Chr. And what was the Reason you did not?

* Durst not leave praying, and why. Hope. * I believed that it was true, which hath been told me, to wit, That without the Righteousness of this Christ, all the World could not save me; and therefore thought I with myself, if I leave off, I die, and I can but die at the Throne of Grace. And withal, this came into my Heb. 2. 3. Mind, if it tarry, wait for it, because it will surely come, and will not tarry. So I continued praying, until the Father shewed me his Son.

Chr. And how was he revealed unto you?

Eph. 1. 18, 19. Hope. I did not see him with my bodily Eyes, but with the Eyes of my Understanding; and thus it was. One Day I was very sad, I think sadder than at any one Time of my Life; and this Sadness was through a fresh Sight of the Greatness and Vileness of my Sins. And as I was then looking for nothing but Hell, and the everlasting Damnation of my Soul, suddenly, as I thought, I saw the Lord Jesus look down from Heaven upon me, and saying, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved.

2 Cor. 12. 8. But I replied, Lord I am a great, a very great Sinner: And he answered, My Grace is sufficient for thee. Then I said, but Lord, What is Believing? And then I saw Joh. 6. 35. from that Saying, [He that cometh to me shall never hunger, and he that believeth on me shall never thirst] that Believing and Coming was all one; and that he that came, that is, ran out in his Heart and Affections after Salvation by Christ, he indeed believed in Christ. Then the Water stood in mine Eyes, and I asked further, But, Lord, may such a great Sinner as I am, be indeed accepted of thee, and be saved by thee? And I heard him say, And Joh. 6. 15. him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out. Then I said, But how, Lord, must I consider of thee in my coming to thee, that my Faith may be placed aright upon thee? Then he said, Christ came into the World to save Sinners. He is the End of the Law for Righteousness to every one that believes. He dyed for our Sins, and rose again for our Justification: He loved Rom. 10. 4. Chap. 4. Heb. 7. 24, 25. us, and washed us from our Sins in his own Blood: He is Mediator betwixt God and us: He ever liveth to make Intercession for us. From all which I gathered, That I must look for Righteousness in his Person, and for Satisfaction for my Sins by his Blood; that what he did in Obedience to his Father's Law, and in submitting to the Penalty thereof, was not for himself, but for him that will accept it for his Salvation, and be thankful. And now was my Heart full of Joy, mine Eyes full of Tears, and mine Affections running over with Love to the Name, People, and Ways of Jesus Christ.

Chr. This was a Revelation of Christ to your Soul indeed: But tell me particularly what Effect this had upon your Spirit?

Hope. It made me see that all the World, notwithstanding all the Righteousness thereof, is in a State of Condemnation. It made me see that God the Father, though he be just, can justly justify the coming Sinner: It made me greatly ashamed of the Vileness of my former Life, and confounded me with the Sense of mine own Ignorance; for there never came a thought into my Heart before now, that shewed me so the Beauty of Jesus Christ: It made me love a Holy Life, and long to do something for the Honour and Glory of the Name of the Lord Jesus: Yea, I thought that had I now a thousand Gallons of Blood in my Body, I could spill it all for the Sake of the Lord Jesus.

I saw then in my Dream, that Hopeful looked back and saw Ignorance, whom they had left behind, coming after: Look, said he to Christian, how far yonder Youngster loitereth behind?

Chr. Ay, ay, I see him; he careth not for our Company.

Hope. But I trow it would not have hurt him, had he kept Pace with us hitherto.

Chr. That's true, but I'll warrant you he thinketh otherwise.

Hope. That I think he doth; but how ever, let us tarry for him. [So they did.] Then Christian said to him, Come away Man, Why do you stay so behind? Young Ignorance comes up again. Their talk.

Ignor.

Ignor. I take my Pleasure in walking alone, even more a great deal than in Company, unless I like it better.

Then said Christian to Hopeful, (but softly) Did I not tell you he cared not for our Company: But however, said he, come up, and let us talk away the Time in this solitary Place. Then directing his Speech to Ignorance, he said, Come, How do you? How stands it between God and your Soul now?

Ignorance's Hope, and the ground of it. Ignor. I hope well, for I am always full of good Motions, that come into my Mind, to comfort me as I walk.

Chr. What good Motions? Pray tell us.

Ignor. Why, I think of God and Heaven.

Chr. So do the Devils and damned Souls.

Ignor. But I think of them, and desire them.

Chr. So do many that are never like to come there. The Soul of the Sluggard desires, and hath nothing.

Ignor. But I think of them, and leave all for them.

Chr. That I doubt; for to leave all is a very hard Matter; yea, a harder Matter than many are aware of. But why, or by what, art thou persuaded that thou hast left all for God and Heaven?

Ignor. My Heart tells me so.

Chr. The wise Man says, He that trusts his own Heart, is a Fool.

Ignor. This is spoken of an evil Heart, but mine is a good one.

Chr. But how dost thou prove that?

Ignor. It comforts me in Hopes of Heaven.

Chr. That may be through its Deceitfulness; for a Man's Heart may minister Comfort to him in the Hopes of that Thing for which he has yet no Ground to hope.

Ignor. But my Heart and Life agree together, and therefore my Hope is well grounded.

Chr. Who told thee that thy Heart and Life agree together?

Ignor. My Heart tells me so.

Chr. Ask my Fellow, if I be a Thief? Thy Heart tells thee so! Except the Word of God beareth witness in this Matter, other Testimony is of no Value.

Ignor. But is it not a good Heart that has good Thoughts? and is not that a good Life, that is according to God's Commandments?

Chr. Yes, that is a good Heart that hath good Thoughts; and that is a good Life that is according to God's Commandments: But it is one Thing indeed to have these, and another Thing to think so.

Ignor. Pray what count you good Thoughts, and a Life according to God's Commandments?

Chr. There are good Thoughts of divers Kinds; some respecting ourselves, some God, some CHRIST, and some other Things.

Ignor. What be good Thoughts respecting ourselves?

Chr. Such as agree with the Word of God. What are good Thoughts.

Ignor. When do our Thoughts of ourselves agree with the Word of God?

Chr. When we pass the same Judgment upon ourselves which the Word passes. To explain myself: The Word of God saith Rom. 3. Gen. 6. 8. of Persons in a natural Condition, There is none righteous, there is none that doth good.

It saith also, That every Imagination of the Heart of a Man is only evil, and that continually. And again, The Imagination of Man's Heart is Evil from his Youth. Now then, when we think thus of ourselves, having Sense thereof, then are our Thoughts good ones, because according to the Word of God.

Ignor. I will never believe that my Heart is thus bad.

Chr. Therefore thou never hadst one good Thought concerning thyself in thy Life. But let me go on. As the Word passeth a Judgment upon our Heart, so it passeth a Judgment upon our Ways; and when the Thoughts of our Hearts and Ways agree with the Judgment which the Word giveth of both, then are both good, because agreeing thereto.

Ignor. Make out your Meaning.

Chr. Why the Word of God saith, That Man's Ways are crooked Ways, not good, Psal. 125. but perverse: It saith, They are naturally Prov. 2. out of the good Way, that they have not known it. Now when a Man thus thinketh of his Ways, I say, when he doth sensibly, and with Heart-humiliation thus think, then hath he good Thoughts of his own Ways, because his Thoughts now agree with the Judgment of the Word of God.

Ignor. What are good Thoughts concerning God?

Chr. Even (as I have said concerning ourselves) when our Thoughts of God do agree with what the Word saith of him; and that is, when we think of his Being and Attributes as the Word hath taught; of which I cannot now discourse at large: But to speak of Him in reference to us, then we have right Thoughts of God, when we think that he knows us better than we know ourselves, and can see Sin in us when and where we can see none in ourselves: When we think He knows our inmost Thoughts, and that our Hearts with all its Depths, is always open unto his Eyes: Also when we think that all our Righteousness stinks in his Nostrils, and that therefore he cannot abide to see us stand before him in any Confidence, even of all our best Performances.

Ignor. Do you think that I am such a Fool

Fool as to think God can see no farther than I? Or, that I would come to God in the best of my Performances?

Chr. Why, how dost thou think in this Matter?

Ignor. Why, to be short, I think I must believe in Christ for Justification.

Chr. How! Think thou must believe in Christ, when thou feest not thy need of him! Thou neither feest thy Original nor Actual Infirmities, but hast such an Opinion of thyself, and of what thou dost, as plainly renders thee to be one that did never see a Necessity of Christ's Personal Righteousness to justify thee before God. How then dost thou say, I believe in Christ?

Ignor. I believe well enough for all that.

Chr. How dost thou believe?

The Faith of Ignorance.

Ignor. I believe that Christ died for Sinners, and that I shall be justified before God from the Curse, thro' his gracious Acceptance of my Obedience to his Law. Or thus, Christ makes my Duties, that are Religious, acceptable to his Father by virtue of his Merits, and so shall I be justified.

Chr. Let me give an Answer to this Confession of thy Faith.

1. Thou believest with a Fantastical Faith; for this Faith is no where described in the Word.

2. Thou believest with a False Faith, because it taketh Justification from the Personal Righteousness of Christ, and applies it to thy own.

3. This Faith maketh not Christ a Justifier of thy Person, but of thy Actions; and of thy Person, for thy Actions Sake, which is false.

4. Therefore this Faith is deceitful, even such as will leave thee under Wrath in the Day of God Almighty: For true Justifying Faith puts the Soul (as sensible of its lost Condition by the Law) upon flying for Refuge unto Christ's Righteousness: (Which Righteousness of his is not an Act of Grace, by which he maketh, for Justification, thy Obedience accepted with God; but this Personal Obedience to the Law, in doing and suffering for us what that required at our Hands.) This Righteousness, I say, true Faith accepteth; under the Skirt of which, the Soul being shrouded, and by it presented as spotless before God, it is accepted, and acquitted from Condemnation.

Ignor. What, would you have us trust to what Christ in his own Person hath done without us? This Conceit would loosen the Reins of our Lust, and tolerate us to live as we list: For, what Matter how we live, if we may be justify'd by Christ's Personal Righteousness, from all, when we believe it?

Chr. Ignorance is thy Name: and as thy Name is, so art thou; even this thy Answer demonstrateth what I say. Ignorant thou art of what Justifying Righteousness is, and as Ignorant how to secure thy Soul through the Faith of it from the heavy Wrath of God. Yea, thou also art ignorant of the true Effects of Saving Faith in this Righteousness of Christ, which is to bow and win over the Heart to God in Christ, to love his Name, his Word, Ways, and People, and not as thou ignorantly imaginest.

Hope. Ask him if ever he had Christ revealed to him from Heaven?

Ignor. What! You are a Man for Revelation! I do believe that what both you and all the rest of you say about that Matter, is but the Fruit of distracted Brains.

Ignorance jangles with them.

Hope. Why Man! Christ is so hid in God from the natural Apprehensions of the Flesh, that he cannot by any Man be savingly known, unless God the Father reveals him to them.

Ignor. That is your Faith, but not mine; yet mine, I doubt not, is as good as yours, though I have not in my Head so many Whimsies as you. He speaks reproachfully of what he knows not.

Chr. Give me Leave to put in a Word: You ought not to speak so slightly of this Matter: For this I will boldly affirm, (even as my good Companion hath done) Matt. 11. that no Man can know Jesus Christ but by 28. the Revelation of the Father; yea, and Faith too, by which the Soul layeth hold 1 Cor. 11. upon Christ, (if it be right) must be 3. wrought by the exceeding Greatness of his Eph. 1. mighty Power; the Working of which 18, 19. Faith, I perceive, poor Ignorance! thou art ignorant of. Be awakened then, see thine own Wretchedness, and fly to the Lord Jesus; and by his Righteousness, which is the Righteousness of God, (for he himself is God) thou shalt be delivered from Condemnation.

Ignor. You go fast, I cannot keep Pace with you: Do you go on before; I must stay a while behind. The Talk broke up.

Then they said

*Well, Ignorance, wilt thou yet foolish be
To slight good Counsel, ten times given thee?
And if thou yet refuse it, thou shalt know,
E're long, the Evil of thy doing so.
Remember, Man, in time; stoop, do not fear;
Good Council taken well secures; therefore bear.*

But if thou yet shalt slight it, thou wilt be The Loser, Ignorance, I'll warrant thee.

Then Christian address'd himself thus to his Fellow:

Chr. Well, come my good Hopeful, I perceive that thou and I must walk by ourselves again.

So I saw in my Dream, That they went on apace before, and Ignorance he came hobbling after. Then said Christian to his Companion, I am much grieved for this poor poor

poor Man; it will certainly go hard with him at last.

Hope. Alas! there are abundance in our Town in this Condition, whole Families, yea, whole Streets, and that of Pilgrims too; and if there be so many in our Parts; how many, think you, must there be in the Place where he was born?

Chr. Indeed the Word saith, He hath blinded their Eyes, lest they should see, &c.

But now we are by ourselves, What do you think of such Men? Have they at no Time, think you, Convictions of Sin, so consequently Fears that their State is dangerous?

Hope. Nay, do you answer that Question yourself, for you are the elder Man.

Chr. Then, I say, sometimes (as I think) they may, but they being naturally ignorant, understand not that such Convictions tend to their Good; and therefore they do desperately seek to stifle them, and presumptuously continue to flatter themselves in the Way of their own Hearts.

The good Use of Fear.

Hope. I do believe, as you say, that Fear tends much to Men's good, and to make them right at their Beginning to go on Pilgrimage.

Job 28.

Psal. 111.

Prov. 17

ch. 9. 10.

Chr. Without all Doubt it doth, if it be right: For so says the Word, The Fear of the Lord is the Beginning of Wisdom.

Hope. How will you describe right Fear?

Right Fear.

Chr. True or right Fear is discover'd by Three Things:

1. By its Rise, It is caused by Saving Convictions for Sin.

2. It driveth the Soul to lay fast hold of Christ for Salvation.

3. It begetteth and continueth in the Soul a great Reverence of GOD, his Word and Ways, keeping it tender; and making it afraid to turn from them, to the Right Hand or to the Left, to any thing that may dishonour GOD, break its Peace, grieve the Spirit, or cause the Enemy to speak reproachfully.

Hope. Well said; I believe you have said the Truth. Are we now almost got past the Enchanted Ground?

Chr. Why, art thou weary of this Discourse?

Hope. No, verily, but that I would know where we are.

Chr. We have not now above two Miles farther to go thereon. But let us return to our Matter. * Now the Ignorant know not that such Convictions as tend to put them in Fear, are for their Good, and therefore they seek to stifle them.

* Why ignorant Persons do stifle Convictions.

1. In general.

2. In particular.

Hope. How do they seek to stifle them?

Chr. 1. They think that those Fears are wrought by the Devil; (tho' indeed they are wrought of GOD) and thinking so, they resist them, as Things that directly tend to their Overthrow. 2. They also think that these Fears tend to the Spoiling of their Faith, when, alas! for them, poor Men that they are, they have none at all! and therefore they harden their Hearts against them. 3. They presume they ought not to fear, and therefore in Despite of them wax presumptuously Confident. 4. They see that those Fears tend to take away from them their pitiful old Self-holiness, and therefore they resist them with all their Might.

Hope. I know something of this myself; before I knew myself, it was so with me.

Chr. Well, we will leave, at this Time, our Neighbour Ignorance by himself, and fall upon another profitable Question. Talk about one Temporary.

Hope. With all my Heart, but you shall still begin.

Chr. Well then, did you know, about ten Years ago, one Temporary in your Parts, who was a forward Man in Religion then?

Hope. Know him! yes, he dwelt in Grace, Where he dwelt. a Town about two Miles off of Honesty, and he dwelt next Door to one Turn-back.

Chr. Right, he dwelt under the same Roof with him. Well, that Man was much awaken'd once; I believe that then he had some Sight of his Sins, and of the Wages that were due thereto. He was towards once.

Hope. I am of your Mind, for (my House not being above three Miles from him) he would often-times come to me, and that with many Tears. Truly I pitied the Man, and was not altogether without Hope of him: But one may see, it is not every one that cries, Lord, Lord.

Chr. He told me once, That he was resolved to go on Pilgrimage, as we go now; but all on a Sudden he grew acquainted with one Save-self, and then he became a Stranger to me.

Hope. Now, since we are talking about him, let us a little enquire into the Reason of the sudden Backsliding of him and such others.

Chr. It may be very profitable, but do you begin.

Hope. Well then, there are, in my Judgment, four Reasons for it.

1. Tho' the Consciences of such Men are awakened, yet their Minds are not changed: Reasons why they towards ones go back. Therefore, when the Power of Guilt wear-eth away, that which provoketh them to be religious ceaseth: Wherefore they naturally return to their own Course again:

even as we see the Dog that is sick of what is eaten, so long as his Sickness prevails, he vomits and casts up all: Not that he doth this of a free Mind (if we may say a Dog has a Mind) but because it troubleth his Stomach; but now, when his Sickness is over, and so his Stomach eased, his Desires being not at all alienated from his Vomit, he turns him about and licks up all; and so it is true which is written, The Dog is turn'd to his own Vomit again. 2 Pet. 2. 2. Thus I say, being hot for Heaven by virtue only of the Sense and Fear of the Torments of Hell; as that Sense of Hell and Fear of Damnation chills and cools, so their Desires for Heaven and Salvation cool also. So then it comes to pass, that when their Guilt and Fear is gone, their Desires for Heaven and Happiness die, and they return to their Course again.

2. Another Reason is, they have slavish Fears that do over-master them; I speak now of the Fears that they have of Men: For the Fear of Men bringeth a Snare. So then tho' they seem to be hot for Heaven so long as the Flames of Hell are about their Ears, yet when that Terror is a little over, they betake themselves to Second Thoughts, namely, that 'tis good to be wise, and not to run (for they know not what) the Hazard of losing all, or at least of bringing themselves into unavoidable and unnecessary Troubles, and so they fall in with the World again.

3. The Shame that attends Religion lies also as a Block in their Way; they are proud and haughty, and Religion in their Eye is low and contemptible: Therefore when they have lost their Sense of Hell, and Wrath to come, they return again to their former Course.

4. Guilt, and to meditate Terror, are grievous to them, they like not to see their Misery before they come into it, tho' perhaps the Sight of it first, if they lov'd that Sight, might make them fly whither the righteous fly and are safe; but because they do, as I hinted before, even shun the Thoughts of Guilt and Terror, therefore when once they are rid of their Awakenings about the Terrors and Wrath of God, they harden their Hearts gladly, and chuse such Ways as will harden them more and more.

Chr. You are pretty near the Business, for the Bottom of all is, for want of a Change in their Mind and Will. And therefore they are but like the Felon that standeth before the Judge; he quakes and trembles, and seems to repent most heartily: but the Bottom of all is, the Fear of the Halter; not that he hath any Detestation of the Offence, as is evident, because, let but this Man have his Liberty, and he will be a Thief, and so a Rogue still; whereas, if his Mind was changed, he would be otherwise.

Hope. Now I have shewed you the Reasons of their going back, do you shew me the Manner thereof.

Chr. So I will willingly.

*How the
goes back.*

1. They draw off their Thoughts, all that they may, from the Remembrance of God, Death, and Judgment to come.

2. Then they cast off by Degrees private Duties, as Closet-Prayer, Curbing their Lusts, Watching, Sorrow for Sin, &c.

3. Then they shun the Company of lively and warm Christians.

4. After that they grow cold to publick

Duty, as Hearing, Reading, Godly Conference, and the like.

5. Then they begin to pick Holes, as we say, in the Coats of some of the Godly, and that devilishly, that they may have a seeming Colour to throw Religion (for the sake of some Infirmities they have 'spied in them) behind their Backs.

6. Then they begin to adhere to, and associate themselves with carnal, loose, and wanton Men.

7. Then they give way to carnal and wanton Discourses in secret; and glad are they if they can see such Things in any that are counted honest, that they may the more boldly do it thro' their Example.

8. After this, they begin to play with little Sins openly.

9. And then being harden'd, they shew themselves as they are. Thus being launched again into the Gulph of Misery, unless a Miracle of Grace prevent it, they everlastingly perish in their own Deceivings.

Now I saw in my Dream, that by this Time the Pilgrims were got over the enchanted Ground, and entering into the Country of * Beulah, whose Air was very sweet and pleasant, the Way lying directly through it, they solaced themselves there for a Season. Yea, here they heard continually the Singing of Birds, and saw every Day the Flowers appear in the Earth, and heard the Voice of the Turtle in the Land. In this Country the Sun shineth Night and Day; wherefore it was beyond the Valley of the Shadow of Death, and also out of the Reach of Giant Despair, neither could they from this Place so much as see Doubting-Castle. Here they were within Sight of the City they were going to; also here met them some of the Inhabitants thereof: For in this Land the Shining Ones commonly walked, because it was upon the Borders of Heaven. In this Land also the Contract between the Bride and the Bridegroom was renewed: Yea, here, as the Bridegroom rejoiceth over the Bride, so did their God rejoyce over them. Here they had no Want of Corn and Wine; for in this Place they met Abundance of what they had sought for in all their Pilgrimage. Here they heard Voices from out of the City, loud Voices, saying, Say ye to the Daughter of Zion, Behold thy Salvation cometh! Behold his Reward is with him! Here all the Inhabitants of the Country called them, The holy People, the Redeemed of the Lord, Sought out, &c.

Now, as they walked in this Land, they had more Rejoycing than in Parts more remote from the Kingdom to which they were bound; and drawing near to the City, yet they had a more perfect View thereof: It was builded of Pearls and precious Stones, also the Streets thereof were paved with Gold; so that by reason of the natural Glory of the City, and the Reflexion flexion of the Sun-beams upon it, Christian with Desire fell sick; Hopeful also had a fit or two of the same Disease: Wherefore here they lay by it a while, crying out because of their Pangs; If you see my Beloved, tell him that I am sick of Love.

But being a little strengthened, and better able to bear their Sickness, they walked on their Way, and came yet nearer and nearer, where were Orchards, Vineyards and Gardens, and their Gates opened into the Highway. Now as they came up to these Places, behold the Gardener stood in the Way, to whom the Pilgrims said, whose goodly Vineyards and Gardens are these? He answer'd, They are the King's, and are planted here for his own Delight, and also for the solace of Pilgrims: So the Gardener had them into the Vineyards, and bid them refresh themselves with Dainties; He also shewed them there the King's Walks and Arbours, where he delighted to be: And here they tarried and slept.

Now I beheld in my Dream, that they talked more in their Sleep at this time, than ever they did in all their Journey; and being in a Muse thereabout, the Gardener said even to me, Wherefore musest thou at the Matter? It is the Nature of the Fruit of the Grapes of these Vineyards to go down so sweetly, as to cause the Lips of them that are asleep to speak.

So I saw that when they awoke, they addressed themselves to go up to the City. But as I said the Reflections of the Sun upon the City (for the City was pure Gold) was so extremely glorious, that they could not as yet with open Face behold it, but through an Instrument made for that purpose. So I saw that as they went on, there met them two Men in Raiment that shone like Gold, also their Faces shone as the Light.

These Men asked the Pilgrims whence they came? and they told them. They also asked them where they had lodged, what Difficulties and Dangers, what Comforts and Pleasures they had met with in the Way? And they told them. Then said the Men that met them, You have but two more Difficulties to meet with, and then you are in the City.

Christian then and his Companion asked the Men to go along with them, so they told them they would: But, said they, you must obtain it by your own Faith. So I saw in my Dream that they went on together 'till they came in Sight of the Gate.

Now I further saw, that betwixt them and the Gate was a River, but there was no Bridge to go over, and the River was very deep. At the Sight therefore of this River, the Pilgrims were much stunned, but the Men that went with them, said, You must go through, or you cannot come at the Gate.

The Pilgrims then began to enquire if there was no other Way to the Gate; to which they answered, Yes, but there hath not any, save two, to wit, Enoch and Elijah, been permitted to tread that Path, since the Foundation of the World, nor shall until the last Trumpet shall sound. The Pilgrims then (especially Christian) began to despond in his Mind, and looked this Way and that, but no Way could be found by them, by which they might escape the River. Then they asked the Men if the Waters were all of a Depth? They said, No, yet they could not help them in that Case: For, said they, you shall find it deeper or shallower, as you believe in the King of the Place.

They then addressed themselves to the Water, and entering, Christian began to sink, and crying out to his good Friend Hopeful, he said, I sink in deep Waters; the Billows go over my Head, all the Waves go over me. Selah.

Then said the other, Be of good Cheer, my Brother, I feel the Bottom, and it is good. Then said Christian, Ah! my Friend, the Sorrow of Death hath compassed me about, I shall not see the Land that flows with Milk and Honey. And with that a great Darkness and Horror fell upon Christian, so that he could not see before him.

Also here he in a great Measure lost his Senses, so that he could neither remember nor orderly talk of any of those sweet Refreshments that he had met with in the Way of his Pilgrimage. But all the Words that he spake still tended to discover, that he had Horror of Mind, and Heart-Fears that he should die in that River, and never obtain Entrance in at the Gate. Here also, as they that stood by perceived, he was much in the troublesome Thoughts of the Sins that he had committed, both since and before he began to be a Pilgrim. 'Twas also observed, that he was troubled with Apparitions of Hobgoblins and evil Spirits; for, ever and anon he would intimate so much by Words. Hopeful therefore here had much ado to keep his Brother's Head above Water, yea sometimes he would be quite gone down, and then e're a while he would rise up again half dead. Hopeful did also endeavour to comfort him, saying, Brother, I see the Gate, and Men standing by to receive us; but Christian would answer, 'Tis you, 'tis you they wait for; you have been Hopeful ever since I knew you. And so have you, said he to Christian. Ah, Brother! said he, surely if I was right, he would now rise to help me, but for my Sins he hath brought me into the Snare, and left me. Then said Hopeful, my Brother, you have quite forgot the Text, where it is said of the wicked, there is no Bands in their Death, but their Strength is firm, they are not troubled as other Men, neither are they plagued like other Men. These Troubles and

Then I saw in my Dream, That Christian was in a Muse a while. To whom also Hopeful added these Words, Be of good Cheer, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: And with that Christian brake out with a loud Voice, Oh, I see him again! and he tells me, When thou passest thro' the Waters, I will be with thee; and through the Rivers, they shall not overflow thee. Then they both took Courage, and the Enemy was after that as still as a Stone, untill they were gone over. Christian therefore presently found Ground to stand upon, and so it followed, that the rest of the River was but shallow; but thus they got over. Now upon the Bank of the River on the other Side, they saw the two shining Men again, who there waited for them: Wherefore being come out of the River, they saluted them, saying, We are ministring Spirits sent forth to minister to those that shall be Heirs of Salvation. Thus they went along toward the Gate. Now you must note, that the City stood upon a mighty Hill, but the Pilgrims went up that Hill with Ease, because they had these two Men to lead them up by the Arms; they had likewise left their mortal Garments behind them in the River: For tho' they went in with them, they came out without them. They therefore went up here with much Agility and Speed, though the Foundation upon which the City was fram'd was higher than the Clouds: They therefore went up through the Region of the Air, sweetly talking as they went, being comforted, because they safely got over the River, and had such glorious Companions to attend them.

The Angels do wait for them so soon as they are pass'd out of this World.

The Talk that they had with the shining Ones was about the Glory of the Place, who told them, that the Beauty and Glory of it was inexpressible. There, said they, is Mount Sion, the heavenly Jerusalem, the innumerable Company of Angels, and the Spirits of just Men made perfect. You are going now, said they, to the Paradise of God, wherein you shall see the Tree of Life, and eat of the never-fading Fruits thereof; and when you come there you shall have white Robes given you, and your Walk and Talk shall be every Day with the KING, even all the Days of Eternity. There you shall not see again such Things as you saw when you were in the lower Region upon the Earth, to wit, Sorrow, Sicknes, Affliction, and Death, for the former Things are passed away. You are going now to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and to the Prophets, Men that God hath taken away from the Evil to come, and that are now resting upon their Beds, each one walking in his Righteousness. The Men then asked, What must we do in the Holy Place? To whom it was answer'd, You must there receive the Comforts of all your Toil, and have Joy for all your Sorrow; you must reap what you have sown, even the Fruit of all your Prayers and Tears, and Sufferings for the King by the Way. In that Place you must wear Crowns of Gold, and enjoy the perpetual Sight and Vision of the Holy ONE, for there you shall see him as he is. There also you shall serve him continually with Praise, with Shouting, and Thanksgiving, whom you desired to serve in the World, though with much Difficulty, because of the Infirmary of your Flesh. There your Eyes shall be delighted with seeing, and your Ears with hearing the pleasant Voice of the mighty ONE. There you shall enjoy your Friends again, that are gone thither before you; and there you shall with Joy receive even every one that follows into the Holy Places after you. There also you shall be cloathed with Glory and Majesty, and put into an Equipage fit to ride out with the KING of Glory. When he shall come with Sound of Trumpet in the Clouds, as upon the Wings of the Wind, you shall come with him; and when he shall sit upon the Throne of Judgment, you shall sit by him; yea, and when he shall pass Sentence upon all the Workers of Iniquity, let them be Angels or Men; you also shall have a Voice in that Judgment, because they were his and your Enemies. Also when he shall again return to the City, you shall go too with Sound of Trumpet, and be ever with him.

1 Cor. 6. 2, 3.

Now while they were thus drawing towards the Gate, behold a Company of the Heavenly Host came out to meet them; to whom it was said by the other two shining ones, These are the Men that have loved our Lord, when they were in the World, and that have left all for his holy Name, and he hath sent us to fetch them, and we have brought them thus far on their desired Journey, that they may go in and look their Redeemer in the Face with Joy. Then the Heavenly Host gave a great Shout, saying, Blessed are they that are called to the Marriage Supper of the Lamb. There came out also at this time, to meet them, several of the King's Trumpeters, cloathed in white and shining Raiment, who with melodious Noises and loud, made even the Heavens to eccho with their Sound. These Trumpeters saluted Christian and his Fellow with ten thousand Welcomes from the World; and this they did with Shouting and Sound of Trumpet.

Rev. 19.

This done, they compassed them round about on every Side; some went before, some some behind, and some on the right Hand, some on the Left, (as it were to guard them through the upper Regions) continually founding as they went with melodious Noise, in Notes on high; so that the very Sight was to them that could behold it, as if Heaven itself was come down to meet them. Thus therefore they walked on together; and as they walked ever and anon these Trumpeters, even with joyful Sound, would, by mixing their Musick with Looks and Gestures, still signify to Christian and his Brother how welcome they were into their Company, and with what Gladness they came to meet them: And now were these two Men, as it were, in Heaven before they came at it; being swallowed up with the Sight of Angels, and with hearing their melodious Notes. Here also they had the City itself in View, and thought they heard all the Bells therein to ring, to welcome them thereto. But above all, the warm and joyful thoughts that they had about their own dwelling there with such Company, and that for ever and ever; Oh! by what Tongue or Pen can their glorious Joy be expressed! Thus they came up to the Gate.

Now, when they were come up to the Gate, there was written over it in Letters of Gold, Blessed are they that do his Commandments, that they may have Right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the Gates into the City.

Then I saw in my Dream, that the shining Men bid them call at the Gate; the which when they did, some from above looked over the Gate, to wit, Enoch, Moses, and Elijah, &c. to whom it was said, These Pilgrims are come from the City of Destruction, for the Love that they bear to the King of this Place; and then the Pilgrims gave in unto them each Man his Certificate, which they had received in the Beginning; those therefore were carried in to the King, who when he had read them, said, Where are the Men? To whom it was answer'd, They are standing without the Gate. The King then commanded to open the Gate, that the righteous Nation, said he, that keepeth Truth, may enter in.

Isa. 26. 2.

Now I saw in my Dream, that these two Men went in at the Gate; and lo, as they enter'd, they were transfigur'd; and they had Raiment put on that shone like Gold. There was also that met them, with Harps and Crowns, and gave them to them, the Harps to praise withal, and the Crowns in Token of Honour. Then I heard in my Dream, that all the Bells in the City rang again for Joy; and that it was said unto them, Enter ye in to the Joy of our Lord. I also heard the Men themselves sing with a loud Voice, saying, Blessing, Honour, Glory and Power, be to him that sitteth upon the Throne, and to the Lamb for ever and ever.

Now, just as the Gates were opened to let in the Men, I looked in after them, and behold the City shone like the Sun; the Streets also were paved with Gold; and in them walked many Men with Crowns upon their Heads, Palms in their Hands, and Golden Harps to sing Praises withal.

There were also of them that had Wings, and they answer'd one another without Intermission, saying, Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord. And after that, they shut up the Gates; which when I had seen, I wished myself among them.

Now, while I was gazing upon all these Things, I turned my Head to look back, and saw Ignorance coming up to the River-side; but he soon got over, and that without half the Difficulty which the other two Men met with. For it happened that there was then in that Place one Vain-hope, a Ferryman, that with his Boat helped him over; so he, as the other, I saw did ascend the Hill, to come up to the Gate, only he came alone; neither did any Man meet him with the least Encouragement. When he was come up to the Gate, he looked up to the Writing that was above, and then began to knock, supposing that Entrance should have been quickly administered to him: But he was asked by the Men that looked over the Top of the Gate, Whence come you? And what he would have? He answered, I have eat and drank in the Presence of the King, and he has taught in our Streets. Then they asked him for his Certificate, that they might go in and shew it to the King; so he fumbled in his Bosom for one, and found none. Then, said they, Have you none? but the Man answered never a Word. So they told the King, but he would not come down to see him, but commanded the two shining ones that conducted Christian and Hopeful to the City, to go out and take Ignorance and bind him Hand and Foot, and have him away. Then they took him up, and carried him through the Air to the Door that I saw in the Side of the Hill, and put him in there. Then I saw that there was a Way to Hell, even from the Gates of Heaven, as well as from the City of Destruction. So I awoke, and behold it was a Dream.

Ignorance comes up to the River, and Vain-Hope ferries him over.

The CONCLUSION.

NOW, Reader, I have told my Dream to thee,
See if thou can'st interpret it to me,
Or to thyself, or Neighbour; but take Heed
Of misinterpreting; for that, instead
Of doing good, will but thyself abuse:
By Misinterpreting, Evil ensues.
Take Heed also that thou be not extreme
In playing with the Out-side of my Dream:
U u u Nor

Nor let my Figure or Similitude
Put thee into a Laughter, or a Feud;
Leave this to Boys and Fools; but as for thee,
Do thou the Substance of my Matter see.
Put by the Curtains, look within my Veil,
Turn up my Metaphors, and do not fail;
There, if thou seekest them, such Things thou'lt find
As will be helpful to an honest Mind.

What of my Droß thou findest here, be bold
To throw away, but yet preserve the Gold.
What if my Gold be wrapped up in Ore?
None throws away the Apple for the Core.
But if thou shalt cast all away as vain,
I know not but 'twill make me dream again.

THE PILGRIM's Progress:
FROM THIS
World, to that which is to Come.

PART II.

Delivered under the SIMILITUDE of a
D R E A M.

Wherein is set forth,

The Manner of the Setting out of Christian's
Wife and Children;

Their dangerous Journey, and Safe Arrival at the Desired Country.

I have used SIMILITUDES, Hosea XII. 10.

The Author's Way of sending forth His Second Part of the Pilgrim.

GO now, my little BOOK, to every Place,
Where my First Pilgrim has but shewn his Face:

Call at their Door: If any say, Who's there?

Then answer thou, CHRISTIANA is here.

If they bid thee Come in, then enter thou,
With all thy Boys: And then thou knowest how;
Tell who they are, also from whence they came;

Perhaps they know them by their Looks or Name:

But

But if they could not, ask them yet again,
If formerly they did not entertain
One Christian a Pilgrim? If they say,
They did, and were delighted in his Way,
Then let them know, that those related were Unto him: Yea, his Wife and Children are.

Tell them that they have left their House and Home;
Are turned Pilgrims, seek a World to come:
That they have met with Hardships in the Way,
That they do meet with Troubles Night and Day:
That they have trod on Serpents, fought with Devils,
Have also overcome a many Evils.

Yea, tell them also of the next, who have
Of Love to Pilgrimage, been stout and brave Defenders of that Way, and how they still Refuse this World, to do their Father's Will.

Go tell them also of those dainty Things,
That Pilgrimage unto the Pilgrims brings:
Let them acquainted be too, how they are Beloved of their King under his Care;
What goodly Mansions he for them provides,
Tho' they meet with rough Winds and swelling Tides.
How brave a Calm they will enjoy at last,
Who to the Lord, and by his Ways hold fast.

Perhaps with Heart and Hand they will embrace
Thee, as they did my Firstling, and will grace Thee, and thy Fellows, with good Cheer and Fare,
As shew will, they of Pilgrims Lovers are.

1. OBJECTION.

But how, if they will not believe of me
That I am truly thine; 'cause some there be
That counterfeit the Pilgrim, and his Name,
Seek, by Disguise, to seem the very same,
And by that Means have brought themselves into
The Hands and Houses of I know not who.

ANSWER.

'Tis true, some have of late to counterfeit
My Pilgrim, to their own, my Title set;
Yea, others half my Name and Title too
Have stitched to their Book, to make them do;
But yet they by their Features do declare Themselves not mine to be, whose e'er they are.

If such thou meet'st with, then thine only Way
Before them all, is to Say out thy Say,
In thine own Native Language, which no Man
Now useth, nor with Ease dissemble can.
If, after all, they still of you shall doubt,
Thinking that you, like Gypsies, go about
In naughty wise, the Country to defile,
Or that you seek good People to beguile

With Things unwarrantable, then send for me,
And I will testify you Pilgrims be;
Yea, I will testify that only you
My Pilgrims are, and that alone will do.

2. OBJECT.

But yet, perhaps, I may enquire for him,
Of those that with him damned Life and Limb.
What shall I do, when I at such a Door
For Pilgrims ask, and they shall rage the more.

ANSWER.

Fright not thyself, my Book, for such Bugbears
Are nothing else but Ground for groundless Fears,
My Pilgrim's Book has travelled Sea and Land,
Yet could I never come to understand
That it was slighted or turn'd out of Door
By any Kingdom, were they Rich or Poor.

In France and Flanders, where Men kill each other.
My Pilgrim is esteem'd a Friend, a Brother.

In Holland too, 'tis said, as I am told,
My Pilgrim is with some worth more than Gold.

Highlanders and Wild-Irish can agree,
My Pilgrim should familiar with them be.
'Tis in New England under such Advance,
Receives there so much loving Countenance,
As to be trim'd, new-cloath'd, and deck'd with Gems.

That it might shew its Features and its Limbs.
Yet more; so commonly doth my Pilgrim walk,
That of him Thousands daily Sing and Talk.

If you draw nearer Home, it will appear,
My Pilgrim knows no Ground of Shame or Fear;

City and Country will him entertain With, Welcome, Pilgrim, yea, they can't refrain,
From Smiling, if my Pilgrim be but by,
Or shews his Head in any Company.

Brave Gallants do my Pilgrim hug and love,
Esteem it much, yea, value it above
Things of a greater Bulk; yea, with Delight,
Say, my Lark's Leg is better than a Kite.

Young Ladies, and young Gentlemen too,
Do not small Kindness to my Pilgrim shew;
Their Cabinets, their Bosoms, and their Hearts;
My Pilgrim has, 'cause he to them imparts
His pretty Riddles, in such wholesome Strains,
As yields them Profit double to their Pains
Of

Of Reading; yea, I think I may be bold
To say, some prize him far above their Gold.

The very Children that do walk the Street,
If they do but my Holy Pilgrim meet,
Salute him will, will wish him well, and say,
He is the holy Stripling of the Day.

They that have never seen him, yet admire
What they have heard of him, and much desire
To have his Company, and hear him tell
Those Pilgrim Stories, which he knows so well.

Yea, some that did not love him at the first,
But call him Fool and Noddy, say they must Now they have seen and heard him, him commend;
And to those whom they love they do him send.

Wherefore, my Second Part, thou need'st not be Afraid to shew thy Head; none can hurt thee,
That wish but well to him that went before,
'Cause thou com'st after with a Second Store,
Of Things as good, as rich, as profitable,
For Young, for Old, for Stagging, and for Stable.

3. O B J E C T.

But some there be that say, He laughs too loud;
And some do say, His Head is in a Cloud.
Some say, His Words and Stories are so dark,
They know not how by them to find his Mark.

A N S W E R.

One may (I think) say, Both his Laughs and Cries
May well be guess'd at by his wat'ry Eyes.
Some Things are of that Nature, as to make One's Fancy checkle, while his Heart doth ache;
When Jacob saw his Rachel with the Sheep,
He did at the same time both kiss and weep.

Whereas some say, A Cloud is in his Head,
That doth but shew his Wisdom's covered
With his own Mantle, and to stir the Mind
To search well after what it fain would find.
Things that seem to be hid in Words obscure,
Do but the Godly Mind the more allure,
To Study what those Sayings should contain,
That speak to us in such a cloudy Strain.

I also know a dark Similitude
Will on the curious Fancy more intrude,
And will stick faster in the Heart and Head,
Than Things from Similies not borrowed.

Wherefore, my Book, let no Discouragement
Hinder thy Travels: Behold, thou art sent To Friends, not Foes, to Friends that will give Place
To thee, thy Pilgrims, and thy Words embrace.

Besides, what my first Pilgrim left con-ceal'd;

Thou, my brave Second Pilgrim hast reveal'd,
What Christian left lock'd up, and went his Way,
Sweet Christiana opens with her Key.

4. O B J E C T.

But some love not the Method of your first;
Romance they count it, throw't away as Dust.
If I should meet with such, What should I say?
Must I slight them as they slight me, or nay?

A N S W E R.

My Christiana, if with such thou meet,
By all Means in all loving-wise them greet;
Render them not Reviling for Revile;
But if they frown, I prithee on them smile:
Perhaps 'tis Nature, or some ill Report,
Has made them thus despise, or thus retort.

Some love no Fish, some love no Cheese, and some
Love not their Friends, nor their own House or Home.

Some start at Pig, slight Chicken, love not Fowl,
More than they love a Cuckow, or an Owl.
Leave such, my Christiana, to their Choice,
And seek those, who to find thee will rejoice;
By no Means strive, but in all humble wise,
Present thee to them in thy Pilgrim's Guise.

Go then, my little Book, and shew to all
That entertain, and bid thee Welcome shall,
What thou shalt keep close, shut up from the rest,
And wish what thou shalt shew them, may be blest
To them for Good, and make them choose to be Pilgrims by better far, than thee and me.

Go then, I say, tell all Men who thou art,
Say, I am Christiana, and my Part
Is now with my four Sons to tell you what
It is for Men to take a Pilgrim's Lot.

Go also, tell them who and what they be,
That now do go on Pilgrimage with thee:
Say, Here's my Neighbour Mercy, she is one,
That has long Time with me a Pilgrim gone:
Come, see her in her Virgin Face, and learn
'Twixt idle ones, and Pilgrims, to discern.
Yea, let young Damsels learn of her to prize
The World which is to come in any wise:
When little tripping Maidens follow God,
And leave all doting Sinners to his Rod;
'Tis like those Days wherein the young Ones
cry'd
Hosanna, whom the old Ones did deride.

Next

Next tell them of old Honest, who you found
With his white Hairs treading the Pilgrim's Ground;
Yea, tell them how plain hearted this Man was,
How after his good Lord he bare the Cross:
Perhaps with some gray Head this may prevail
With Christ to fall in love, and Sin bewail.

Tell them also, how Master Fearing went On Pilgrimage, and how the Time he spent
In Solitariness, with Fears and Cries;
And how, at last, he won the joyful Prize.
He was a good Man, tho' much down in Spirit,
He is a good Man, and doth Life inherit.

Tell them of Master Feeble-mind also,
Who, not before, but still behind would go;
Shew them also how he'd like to have been slain,
And how one Great Heart did his Life regain:
This Man was true of Heart, though weak in Grace,
One might true Godliness read in his Face.

Then tell them of Master Ready-to-halt,
A Man with Crutches, but much without Fault.
Tell them how Master Feeble-mind and he Did love, and in Opinion much agree.
And let all know, tho' Weakness was their Chance,
Yet sometimes one would sing, the other dance.

Forget not Master Valiant-for-the-Truth,
That Man of Courage, tho' a very Youth:
Tell every one his Spirit was so stout,
No Man could ever make him face about;

And how Great Heart and he could not for-
bear,
But put down Doubting-Castle, stay Despair.

Overlook not Master Despondency,
Nor Much-afraid his Daughter, tho' they lie
Under such Mantles, as may make them look (With some) as if their God had them for sook.
They softly went, but sure, and at the End Found that the Lord of Pilgrims was their Friend.

When thou hast told the World of all these Things,
Then turn about, my Book, and touch these Strings;
Which, if but touched, will such Musick make,
They'll make a Cripple dance, a Giant quake!

Those Riddles that lie couch'd within thy Breast,
Freely propound, expound: and for the rest
Of thy mysterious Lines, let them remain
For those whose nimble Fancies shall them gain.

Now may this Little Book a Blessing be
To those that love this Little Book, and me:
And may its Buyer have no Cause to say,
His Money is but lost, or thrown away;
Yea, may this Second Pilgrim yield that fruit
As may with each good Pilgrim's Fancy suit;
And may it some persuade that go astray,
To turn their Foot and Heart to the right way,

Is the Hearty PRAYER of

The AUTHOR,

John Bunyan.

THE PILGRIM's Progress:

In the SIMILITUDE of a

DREAM.

Courteous Companions,

SOME Time since, to tell you my DREAM that I had of Christian the Pilgrim, and of his dangerous Journey towards the Cœlestial Country, was pleasant to me, and profitable to you. I told you then also what I saw concerning his Wife and Children, and how unwilling they were to go with him on Pilgrimage;

Vol. II.

insomuch, that he was forced to go on his Progress without them; for he durst not run the Danger of that Destruction, which he feared would come, by staying with them in the City of Destruction. Wherefore, as I then shewed you, he left them and departed.

Now, it hath so happened, through the Multiplicity of Business, that I have been much hindered and kept back from my wonted Travels into those Parts where he went, and so could not, till now, obtain an Opportunity to make farther Enquiry after whom he left behind, that I might give you an Account of them. But having had some Concerns that Way of late, I went down again thitherward. Now having taken up my Lodgings in a Wood, about a Mile off the Place, as I slept, I dreamed again.

And as I was in my Dream, behold an aged Gentleman came by where I lay; and because he was to go some Part of the Way that I was travelling, methought I got up and went with him. So as we walked, and as Travellers usually do, I was as if we fell into a Discourse, and our Talk happened to be about Christian, and his Travels: For thus I began with the Old Man.

Sir, said I, What Town is that there below, that lieth on the Left Hand of our Way?

Then said Mr. Sagacity, for that was his Name, it is the City of Destruction, a populous Place, but possess'd with a very ill-condition'd and idle Sort of People.

I thought that was that City, quoth I: I went once myself through that Town; and therefore I know that this Report you give of it is true.

Sag. Too true; I wish I could speak Truth in speaking better of them that dwell therein.

Well, Sir, quoth I, then I perceive you to be a well-meaning Man, and so one that takes Pleasure to hear and tell of that which is good: Pray, did you never hear what happen'd to a Man some Time ago in this Town, (whose Name was Christian) that went on a Pilgrimage up towards the higher Regions?

Sag. Hear of him! Ay; and I also heard of the Molestations, Troubles, Wars, Captivities, Cries, Groans, Frights, and Fears that he met with and had in his Journey; besides, I must tell you, all our Country rings of him; there are but few Houses that have heard of him and his Doings, but have sought after, and got the Records of his Pilgrimage; yea, I think I may say, That this hazardous Journey has got many Well-wishers to his Ways: For though when he was here, he was Fool in every Man's Mouth, yet now he is gone, he is highly commended of all. For 'tis said, he lives bravely where he is: Yea, many of them that are resolved never to run his Hazards, yet have their Mouths water at his Gains.

They may, quoth I, well think, if they think any Thing that is true, that he liveth well where he is; for he now lives at, and in the Fountain of Life, and has what he has without Labour and Sorrow, for there is no Grief mixed therewith.

Sag. Talk! The People talk strangely about him: Some say, that he now walks In white! that he has a Chain of Gold about his Neck, that he has a Crown of Gold, beset with Pearls, upon his Head: Others say, That the shining Ones that sometimes shewed themselves to him in his Journey, are become his Companions, and that he is as familiar with them in the Place where he is, as here one Neighbour is with another. Besides, 'tis confidently affirmed, concerning him, that the King of the Place where he is, has bestowed upon him already, a very rich and pleasant dwelling at Court, and that he every Day eateth and drinketh, and walketh and talketh with him, and receiveth the Smiles and Favours of him that is Judge of all there. Moreover, it is expected of some, that his Prince the Lord of that Country, will shortly come into these Parts, and will know the Reason, if they can give any, why his Neighbours set so little by him, and had him so much in Derision, when they perceived that he would be a Pilgrim.

* For they say, That now he is so in the Affections of his Prince, and that his Sovereign is so much concern'd with the Indignities that were cast upon Christian, when he became a Pilgrim, that he will look upon all as done to himself; and no Marvel, for 'twas for the Love that he had to his Prince, that he ventured as he did.

I dare say, quoth I, I am glad on't; I am glad for the poor Man's Sake, for that he now he has Rest from his Labour, and for that he now reaps the Benefits of his Tears with Joy: And for that he has got beyond the Gun-shot of his Enemies, and is out of the Reach of them that hate him. I also am glad, for that a Rumour of these Things is noised abroad in this Country; who can tell but that it may work some good Effect on some that are left behind? But, pray, Sir, while it is fresh in my Mind, do you hear any Thing of his Wife and Children? Poor Hearts, I wonder in my Mind what they do!

Sag. Who? Christiana and her Sons! † They are like to do as well as did Christian himself; for tho' they all played the Fool at first, and would by no Means be persuaded by either the Tears or Entreaties of Christian, yet second Thoughts have wrought wonderfully with them, so they have pack'd up, and are also gone after him.

Better and better, quoth I: But, what! Wife and Children and all?

Sag. 'Tis true, I can give you an Account of the Matter, for I was upon the Spot at the instant, and was thoroughly acquainted with the whole Affair.

Then, said I, a Man may report it for a Truth?

Sag. You need not fear to affirm it; I mean, that they are all gone on Pilgrimage, both the good Woman and her four Boys. And being we are, as I perceive, going Christians are well spoken of when gone, tho' called Fools while they are here.

Part I.
pag. 256.

This Christiana (for that was her Name) from the Day that she with her Children betook themselves to a Pilgrim's Life, after her Husband was gone over the River, and she could hear of him no more, her Thoughts began to work in her Mind. First, for that she had lost her Husband, and for that the loving Bond of that Relation was utterly broken betwixt them. For you know, said he to me, Nature can do no less but entertain the Living with many a heavy Cogitation in the Remembrance of the Loss of loving Relations. This therefore of her Husband did cost her many a Tear. But this was not all, for Mark this, you that are church-lips to your godly Relations.

Christiana did also begin to consider with herself, Whether her unbecoming Behaviour towards her Husband was not one Cause that she saw him no more; and that in such sort he was taken away from her. And upon this, came into her Mind by Swarms, all her Unkind, Unnatural, and Ungodly Carriage to her dear Friend; which also clogg'd her Conscience, and did load her with Guilt. She was moreover much broken with calling to Remembrance the restless Groans, the brinish Tears, and Self-bemoaning of her Husband, and how she did harden her heart against all his Entreaties, and loving Persuasions (of her and her Sons) to go with him; yea, there was not any thing that Christian either said to her, or did before her, all the while that his Burden did hang on his Back, but it returned upon her like a Flash of Lightning, and rent the Caul of her Heart in sunder; especially that bitter Outcry of his, What shall I do to be saved? did ring in her Ears most dolefully.

Part I.

Then said she to her Children, Sons, we are all undone. I have sinned away your Father, and he is gone; he would have had us with him, but I would not go myself; I also hindered you of Life. With that the Boys fell into Tears, and cry'd to go after their Father. Oh! said Christiana, that it had been but our Loss to go with him, then it had fared well with us, beyond what 'tis like to do now. For tho' I formerly foolishly imagined concerning the Troubles of your Father, that they proceeded of a foolish Fancy that he had, or for that he was over-run with melancholy Humours; yet now it will not out of my Mind, but that they sprang from another Cause, to wit, for that the Light of Life was given him; by the Help of which, as I perceive, he has escaped the Snares of Death. Then they wept all again, and cry'd out, Oh, Wo worth the Day!

Christiana's
Dream.
Luk. 18.
13.

The next Night, Christiana had a Dream; and behold, she saw as if a broad Parchment was opened before her, in which were recorded the Sum of her Ways, and the Crimes, as she thought, look'd very black upon her. Then she cry'd out aloud in her Sleep, Lord have Mercy upon me, a Sinner, and the little Children heard her.

After this, she thought she saw two very ill-favour'd Ones standing by her Bed-side and saying, * What shall we do with this Woman? For she cries out for Mercy * Mark this, his is the Quintessence of Hell. waking and sleeping: If she be suffer'd to go on as she begins, we shall lose her as we have lost her Husband. Wherefore we must, by some way, seek to take her off from the Thoughts of what shall be hereafter, else all the World cannot help but she will become a Pilgrim.

Now she awoke in a great Sweat, also a Trembling was upon her; but after a while she fell to sleeping again. * And then she thought she saw Christian her Husband in a Place of Bliss among many Immortals, with a Harp in his Hand, standing and playing upon it before one that sat on a Throne, with a Rainbow about his Head. She saw also as if he bowed his Head with his Face to the Paved-Work that was under his Prince's Feet, saying, I heartily thank my Lord and King for bringing me into this Place. Then shouted a Company of them that stood round about and harped with their Harps: But no Man living could tell what they said, but Christian and his Companions.

* Help against Discouragement.

Next Morning, when she was up, had pray'd to God, and talked with her Children a while, one knocked hard at the Door; to whom she spake out, saying, If thou comest in God's Name, come in. So he said, Amen; and opened the Door and saluted her with Peace on this House. The which, when he had done, he said, Christiana, knowest thou wherefore I am come? Then she blushed and trembled, also her Heart began to wax warm with Desires to know from whence he came, and what his Errand was to her. So he said unto her, My Name is Secret, I dwell with those that are high. It is talked of where I dwell, as if thou hadst a Desire to go thither; also there is a Report that thou art aware of the Evil thou hast formerly done to thy Husband, in hardning of thy Heart against his Way, and in keeping of these Babes in their Ignorance. Christiana, the Merciful One has sent me to tell thee, That he is a God ready to forgive, and that he taketh Delight to multiply the Pardon of Offences. He also would have thee to know, That he inviteth thee to come into his Presence, to his Table, and that he will feed thee with the Fat of his House, and with the Heritage of Jacob thy Father.

Conversions seconded with fresh Tidings of God's Readiness to pardon.

There is Christian thy Husband, that was, with Legions more, his Companions, ever beholding that Face that doth minister Life to Beholders: And they will all be glad when they shall hear the Sound of thy Feet step over thy Father's Threshold.

Christiana

Christiana at this was greatly abashed in herself, and bowed her Head to the Ground. This Vision proceeded, and said, Christiana, Here is also a Letter for thee, which I have brought from thy Husband's King; so she took it and opened it, but it smelt after the manner of the best Perfume. Also it was written in Letters of Gold. The Contents of the Letter was this; That the King would have her to do as did Christian her Husband, for that was the way to come to his City, and to dwell in his Presence with Joy for ever. At this the good Woman was quite overcome: So she cried out to her Visiter, Sir, will you carry me and my Children with you, that we may also go and worship the King?

Christiana quite overcome.

Then said the Visiter, Christiana! the Bitter is before the Sweet. Thou must through Troubles, as did he that went before thee, enter this Cœlestial City. Wherefore I advise thee to do as did Christian thy Husband: Go to the Wicket Gate yonder over the Plain, for that stands in the Head of the Way up which thou must go, and I wish thee all good Speed. Also I advise thee, that thou put this Letter in thy Bosom: That thou read therein to thyself, and to thy Children, until they have got it by Heart: For it is one of the Songs that thou must sing while thou art in this House of thy Pilgrimage: Also this thou must deliver in at the farther Gate.

Psal. 119. 55.

 Christiana prays well for her Journey.*

Now I saw in my Dream, that this old Gentleman, as he told me this Story, did himself seem to be greatly affected therewith. He moreover proceeded, and said: So Christiana called her Sons together, and began to address herself unto them: * My Sons, I have, as you may perceive, been of late under much Exercise in my Soul, about the Death of your Father; not for that I doubt at all of his Happiness; for I am satisfied now that he is well. I have been also much affected with the Thoughts of mine own State and yours, which I verily believe is by Nature miserable. My Carriage also to your Father in his Distress, is a great Load to my Conscience: For I harden'd both my own Heart and yours against him, and refused to go with him on Pilgrimage.

The Thoughts of these Things would now kill me outright, but that for a Dream which I had last Night, and but that for the Encouragement that this Stranger has given me this Morning. Come, my Children, let us pack up, and be gone to the Gate that leads to that Cœlestial Country, that we may see your Father, and be with him and his Companions in Peace according to the Laws of that Land.

Then did her Children burst out into Tears, for Joy that the Heart of their Mother was so inclined: So that Visiter bid them farewell: And they began to prepare to set out for their Journey.

But while they were thus about to be gone, two of the Women that were Christiana's Neighbours, came up to her House, and knocked at the Door. To whom she said as before. * At this the Women were Christiana's new Language stunn'd; for this kind of Language they used not to hear, or to perceive to drop from the Lips of Christiana. Yet they came in: But behold, they found the good Woman preparing to be gone from her House.

So they began, and said, Neighbour, pray what is your Meaning by this?

Christiana answered, and said to the eldest of them, whose Name was Mrs. Timorous, I am preparing for a Journey. (This Timorous was Daughter to him that met Christian upon the Hill of Difficulty, and would have had him gone back for fear of the Lions.)

Tim. For what Journey, I pray you?

Christ. Even to go after my old Husband; and with that she fell a weeping.

Tim. I hope not so, good Neighbour; pray, for your poor Children's Sake, do not so unwomanly cast away yourself.

Christ. Nay, my Children shall go with me, not one of them is willing to stay behind.

Tim. I wonder in my Heart, what or who has brought you into this Mind.

Christ. Oh, Neighbour, knew you but as much as I do, I doubt not but that you would go along with me.

Tim. Prithee, what new Knowledge hast thou got, that so worketh off thy Mind from thy Friends, and that tempteth thee to go no body knows where?

Christ. Then Christiana reply'd, I have been sorely afflicted since my Husband's Departure from me; but especially since he went over the River. But that which troubleth me most, is my churlish Carriage to him, when he was under his Distress. Besides I am now, as he was then; nothing will serve me, but going on Pilgrimage. I was dreaming last Night, that I saw him. O that my Soul was with him! He dwelleth in the Presence of the King of the Country; he sits and eats with him at his Table; he is become a Companion of Immortals, and has a House now given him to dwell in, to which the best Palaces on Earth, if compared, seem to me but as a Dunghill. The Prince of the Palace has also sent for me, with Promises of Entertainment, if I shall come to him; his Messenger was here even now, and brought me a Letter, which invites me to come. And with that she pluck'd out her Letter, and read it, and said to them, what now will you say to this?

Tim. Oh! the Madness that has possessed thee and thy Husband! to run yourselves upon such Difficulties; You have heard, I am sure, what your Husband did meet with, even in a manner at the first Step that he like Wise-men, were afraid to go any farther.

 We also heard over and above, how he met with the Lions, Apollyon, the Shadows of The Rea- Death, and many other Things. Nor is to be forgotten by thee. For if he, tho' a Man, was so hard put to it, what canst thou, being but a poor Woman, do? Consider also, that these four sweet Babes are thy Children, thy Flesh, and thy Bones.

 Therefore, tho' thou shouldst be so rash as to cast away thyself; yet for the sake of the Fruit of thy Body, keep thou at home.

But Christiana said unto her, Tempt me not, my Neighbour: I have now a Prize put into my Hand to get again, and I should be a Fool of the greatest sort, if I should have no Heart to strike in with the Opportunity. And for that you tell me of all these Troubles that I am like to meet with in the Way, they are so far from being to me a Discouragement, that they shew I am in the right. The Bitter must come before the Sweet, and that also will make the Sweet the Sweeter. Wherefore since you came not to my House in God's Name, as I said;
 I pray you be gone, and do not disquiet me farther.

Then Timorous also reviled her, and said to her Fellow, Come, Neighbour Mercy, let's leave her in her own Hands, she scorns
 our Counsel and Company. But Mercy was at a stand, and could not so readily comply with her Neighbour, and that for a twofold Reason, 1st, Her Bowels yearned over Christiana. So she said within herself, If my Neighbour will be gone, I will go a little way with her, and help her. 2dly,
 Her Bowels yearned over her own Soul (for what Christiana had said, had taken some hold upon her Mind.) Wherefore she said within herself again, I will yet have more Talk with this Christiana, and if I find Truth and Life in what she shall say, myself with my Heart shall also go with her. Wherefore Mercy began thus to reply to her Neighbour Timorous.

Mercy. Neighbour, I did indeed come with you to see Christiana this Morning; and since she is, as you see, a taking her last Farewell of the Country, I think to walk this Sun-shine Morning, a little with her, to help her on her Way. But she told her not of the second Reason, but kept it to herself.

Tim. Well, I see you have a Mind to go a Fooling too; but take Heed in Time and be wise; while we are out of Danger, we are out; but when we are in, we are in.
 So Mrs. Timorous returned to her House, and Christiana betook herself to her Journey. But when Timorous was got home to her House, she sends for some of her Neighbours, to wit, Mrs. Bat's Eyes, Mrs. In- considerate, Mrs. Light-mind, and Mrs. Timorous Know-nothing. So when they were come acquaints to her House, she falls to telling of the Story of Christiana, and of her intended Jour- what the ney. And thus she began her Tale. good Christiana intends to do.

Tim. Neighbours, having but little to do this Morning, I went to give Christiana a Visit; and when I came at the Door, I knocked, as you know it is our Custom:
 And she answered, If you come in God's Name, come in. So in I went, thinking all was well: But when I came in, I found her preparing herself to depart the Town, she and also her Children. So I asked her, what was her Meaning by that? And she told me in short, That she was now of a Mind to go on Pilgrimage, as did her Husband. She told me also, a Dream that she had, and how the King of the Country where her Husband was, had sent her an inviting Letter to come thither.

Then said Mrs. Know-nothing, and what do you think she will go? Mrs. Know- nothing.

Tim. Ay, go she will, whatever comes on't; and methinks I know it by this; for that which was my great Argument to persuade her to stay at home, (to wit, the Troubles she was like to meet with in the Way) is one great Argument with her, to put her forward on her Journey.
 For she told me in so many Words, The Bitter goes before the Sweet: Yea, and foras-much as it doth, it makes the Sweet the Sweeter.

Mrs. Bat's-Eyes. Oh, this blind and foo- Mrs. Bat's take Warning by her Husband's Afflictions?

 For my Part, I see, if he were here again, he would rest him content in a whole Skin, and never run so many Hazards for Nothing.

Mrs. Inconsiderate also replied, saying, Mrs. In- considerate.
 Away with such fantastical Fools from the Town; a good Riddance, for my Part, I say, of her; should she stay where she dwells, and retain this Mind, who could live quietly by her; for she will either be dumpish or unneighbourly, to talk of such Matters as no wife Body can abide: wherefore, for my Part, I shall never be sorry for her Departure; let her go, and let better come in her Room: It was never a good World since these whimsical Fools dwelt in it.

Then Mrs. Lightmind added as follow- Mrs. Light-

 we were as merry as the Maids. For who ton, she do you think should be there, but I and that had Fellow. By this Time Christiana was got on

Discourse between Mercy and good Christiana on her Way, and Mercy went along with her: So as they went, her Children being there also, Christiana began to discourse. And Mercy, said Christiana, I take this as an unexpected Favour, that thou should'st set Foot out of Doors with me, to accompany me a little in my Way.

Mercy inclines to go. Mercy. Then said young Mercy (for she was but young) if I thought it would be to purpose to go with you, I would never go near the Town.

Christiana would have her Neighbour with her. Chr. Well, Mercy, said Christiana, cast in thy Lot with me, I well know what will be the End of our Pilgrimage; my Husband is where he would not but be for all the Gold in the Spanish Mines. Nor shalt thou be rejected, tho' thou goest but upon my Invitation. The King who hath sent for me and my Children, is one that delighteth in Mercy. Besides, if thou wilt, I will hire thee, and thou shalt go along with me as my Servant. Yet we will have all Things in common betwixt thee and me, only go along with me.

Mercy doubts of acceptance. Mercy. But how shall I be ascertained that I also should be entertained? Had I this Hope from one that can tell, I would make no Stick at all, but would go, being helped by him that can help, though the Way was never so tedious.

Christiana allures her to the gate, which is Christ, and promises there to enquire for her. Chr. Well, loving Mercy, I will tell thee what thou shalt do; go with me to the Wicket-Gate, and there I will further enquire for thee; and if there thou shalt not meet with Encouragement, I will be content that thou return to thy Place; I will also pay thee for thy Kindness which thou shewest to me and my Children, in the accompanying of us in our Way as thou dost.

Mercy prays. Mercy. Then will I go thither, and will take what shall follow, and the Lord grant that my Lot may there fall, even as the King of Heaven shall have his Heart upon me.

Christiana glad of Mercy's Company. Christiana then was glad at her Heart, not only that she had a Companion, but also for that she had prevailed with this poor Maid to fall in love with her own Salvation. So they went on together, and Mercy began to weep. Then said Christiana, Wherefore weepeth my Sister so?

Mercy grieves for her carnal Relations. Mercy. Alas! said she, who can but lament, that shall but rightly consider what a State and Condition my poor Relations are in, that yet remain in our sinful Town; And that which makes my Grief the more, is because they have no Instruction, nor any to tell them what is to come.

Christiana's Prayers were answered for his Relations, after he was dead. Chr. Bowels become Pilgrims: And thou dost for thy Friends, as my good Christian did for me when he left me; he mourn'd for that I would not heed nor regard him, but his Lord and ours did gather up his Tears, and put them into his Bottle, and now both I and thou, and these my sweet Babes, are reaping the Fruit and Benefit of them. I hope, Mercy, that these Tears of thine will not be lost; for the Truth hath said, that they that sow in Tears, shall reap in Joy and Singing. And he that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious Seed, shall doubtless come again with Rejoycing, bringing his Sheaves with him. Psal. 126. 5. 6.

Then said Mercy.

*Let the most Blessed be my Guide,
If it be his blessed Will,
Unto his Gate, into his Fold,
Up to his Holy Hill:
And let him never suffer me
To swerve or turn aside
From his Free-Grace, and Holy Ways,
Whate're shall me betide.
And let him gather them of mine,
That I have left behind;
Lord, make them pray they may be thine,
With all their Heart and Mind.*

Now my old Friend proceeded, and said, Part I. pag. 204. Their own carnal Conclusions instead of the Word of Life. ---But when Christiana came to the Slough of Despond, she began to be at a Stand; for, said she, This is the Place in which my dear Husband had like to have been smother'd with Mud. She perceived also, that notwithstanding the Command of the King to make this Place for Pilgrims good, yet it was rather worse than formerly: So I asked if that was true? Yes, said the old Gentleman, too true: for many there be, that pretend to be the King's Labourers, and say, They are for mending the King's Highways, that bring Dirt and Dung instead of Stones, and so marr instead of mending. Here Christiana therefore, and her Boys, did make a Stand: But said Mercy, * Come let us venture, only let us be wary. Then they looked well to their Steps, and made a Shift to get staggering over. * Mercy the boldest at the Slough of Despond, Luke 1.

Yet Christiana had like to have been in, and that not once or twice. Now they had no sooner got over, but they thought they heard Words, that said unto them, Blessed is she that believeth, for there shall be a Performance of what has been told her from the Lord.

Then they went on again, and said Mercy to Christiana, had I as good Ground to hope for a loving Reception at the Wicket-Gate, as you, I think no Slough of Despond would discourage me.

Well, said the other, you know your Sore, and I know mine; and, good Friend, we shall all have enough Evil before we come to our Journey's End.

For it cannot be imagined, that the People that design to attain such excellent Glories as we do, and that are so envied that Happiness as we are; but that we shall meet with what Fears and Snares, with what Troubles and Afflictions they can possibly assault us with, that hate us.

And now Mr. Sagacity left me to dream out out my Dream by myself. Wherefore, me thought I saw Christiana and Mercy, and the Boys, go all of them up to the Gate: To which, when they came, they betook themselves to a short Debate, about how they must manage their Calling at the Gate; and what should be said unto him that did open unto them. So it was concluded, since Christiana was the Eldest, That she should knock for Entrance, and that she should speak to him that did open, for the rest. So Christiana began to knock, and as her poor Husband did, she knocked, and knocked again. But instead of any that answered, they all thought that they heard as if a Dog came barking upon them. A Dog, and a great one too, and this made the Women and Children afraid. Nor durst they for a while to knock any more, for fear the Master should fly upon them. Now therefore they were greatly tumbled up and down in their Minds, and knew not what to do: Knock they durst not, for fear of the Dog; Go back they durst not, for fear the Keeper of that Gate should espy them as they so went, and be offended with them: At last they thought of knocking again, and knocking more vehemently than they did at first. Then said the Keeper of the Gate, Who is there? So the Dog left off to bark, and he opened unto them.

Then Christiana made low Obeisance, and said, Let not our Lord be offended with his Hand-maidens, for that we have knocked at his Princely Gate. Then said the Keeper, Whence come ye? And what is that you would have?

Christiana answered, We are come from whence Christian did come, and upon the same Errand as he; to wit, to be, if it shall please you, graciously admitted, by this Gate, into the Way that leads into the Celestial City. And I answer, my Lord, in the next place, that I am Christiana, once the Wife of Christian, that now is gotten above.

With that the Keeper of the Gate did marvel, saying, What is she now become a Pilgrim, that but a while ago abhorred that Life? Then she bowed her Head, and said, Yea, and so are these my Sweet Babes also.

How Christiana is entertained at the Gate.

Then he took her by the Hand and let her in, and said also, Suffer the little Children to come unto me, and with that he shut up the Gate. This done, he called to a Trumpeter that was above, over the Gate, to entertain Christiana with Shouting, and Sound of Trumpet, for Joy. So he obey'd and sounded, and fill'd the Air with his Melodious Notes.

Now all this while poor Mercy did stand without, trembling and crying, for fear that she was rejected. But when Christiana had gotten Admittance for herself and her Boys, then she began to make Intercession for Mercy.

Christ. And she said, My Lord, I have a Companion of mine that stands yet without, that is come hither upon the same Account as myself: One that is much dejected in her Mind, for that she comes, as she thinks, without sending for; whereas I was sent to by my Husband's King to come.

Now Mercy began to be very impatient; and each Minute was as long to her as an Hour; wherefore she prevented Christiana from a fuller Interceding for her, by knocking at the Gate herself. And she knocked then so loud, that she made Christiana to start. Then said the Keeper of the Gate, Who is there? And Christiana said, It is my Friend.

So he opened the Gate and looked out, but Mercy was fallen down without in a Swoon, for she fainted, and was afraid that no Gate would be opened to her.

Then he took her by the Hand, and said, Damsel, I bid thee arise.

O, Sir, said she, I am faint; there is scarce Life left in me. But he answer'd, that one said, When my Soul fainted within me, I remembered the Lord, and my Prayer came unto thee, into thy Holy Temple. Fear not, but stand upon thy Feet, and tell me wherefore thou art come.

Jonah 2:7

Mercy. I am come for that unto which I was never invited, as my Friend Christiana was. Hers was from the King, and mine was but from her. Wherefore I presume.

The Cause of her Fainting.

Did she desire thee to come with her to this Place?

Mercy. Yes; and as my Lord sees, I am come. And if there is any Grace and Forgiveness of Sins to spare, I beseech that thy poor Hand-maid may be Partaker thereof.

Then he took her again by the Hand, and led her gently in, and said, I pray for all them that believe on me, by what Means soever they come unto me. Then said he to those that stood by, fetch something and give it Mercy to smell on, thereby to stay her faintings: So they fetch'd her a Bundle of Myrrh; a while after, she was revived.

Mark 16:18

And now was Christiana and her Boys, and Mercy, received of the Lord at the Head of the Way, and spoke kindly unto by him. Then said they yet farther unto him, we are sorry for our Sins, and beg of our Lord his Pardon and farther Information what we must do.

I grant Pardon, said he, by Word and Deed; by Word in the Promise of Forgiveness; by Deed, in the Way I obtained it. Take the first from my Lips with a Kiss, and the other as it shall be revealed.

John 20:20

Now I saw in my Dream, that he spake many good Words unto them, whereby they were greatly glad. He also had them up to the Top of the Gate, and shewed shew'd them by what Deed they were saved; and told them withal, That that Sight they would have again as they went along in the Way, to their Comfort.

Christ Crucified seen afar off.

So he left them a while in a Summer Parlour below, where they entered into Talk by themselves; and thus Christiana began: O Lord! how glad am I, that we are got in hither!

Talk between the Christians.

Mercy. So you well may; but I of all have Cause to leap for Joy.

Chr. I thought one time as I stood at the Gate, (because I had knocked and none did answer) that all our Labour had been lost, especially when that ugly Cur made such a heavy Barking at us.

Mercy. But my worst Fear was, after I saw that you was taken into his Favour, and that I was left behind: Now, thought I, it is fulfilled which is written; Two Women shall be grinding together, the one shall be taken, and the other left. I had much ado to forbear crying out, Undone!

Mat. 24. 41.

And afraid I was to knock any more; but when I looked up to what was written over the Gate, I took Courage. I also thought that I must either knock again, or die: So I knocked, but I cannot tell how; for my Spirit now struggled between Life and Death.

Part I. p. 207.

Chr. Can you not tell how you knocked? I am sure your Knocks were so earnest, that the very Sound made me start; I thought I never heard such Knocking in all my Life; I thought you would come in by a violent Hand, or take the Kingdom by Storm.

Christiana thinks her Companion prays better than she. Matt. 11. 12.

Mercy. Alas! to be in my Case, who that so was, could but have done so? You saw that the Door was shut upon me, and that there was a most cruel Dog thereabout. Who, I say, that was so faint-hearted as I, would not have knocked with all their Might? But pray, What said my Lord unto my Rudeness? Was he not angry with me?

Chr. When he heard your lumbring Noise, he gave a wonderful innocent Smile: I believe what you did, pleased him well, for he shewed no Sign to the contrary. But I marvel in my Heart why he keeps such a Dog; had I known that before, I should not have had Heart enough to have ventured myself in this Manner. But now we are in, we are in, and I am glad with all my Heart.

Christ pleased with loud and restless Prayer.

Mercy. I will ask, if you please, next time he comes down, why he keeps such a filthy Cur in his Yard; I hope he will not take it amiss.

Do so, said the Children, and persuade him to hang him, for we are afraid he will bite us when we go hence.

The Children are afraid of the Dog.

So at last he came down to them again, and Mercy fell to the Ground on her Face, before him, and worshipped, and said, Let my Lord accept the Sacrifice of Praise which I now offer unto him with the Calves of my Lips.

So he said unto her, Peace be to thee, stand up. But she continued upon her Face, and said, Righteous art thou, O Lord, when I plead with thee, yet let me talk with thee of thy Judgments: Wherefore dost thou keep so cruel a Dog in thy Yard, at the Sight of which, such Women and Children, as we, are ready to fly from the Gate for Fear? Jer. 12. 1, Mercy expostulates about the Dog.

He answered and said, That Dog has another Owner; he also is kept close in another Man's Ground, only my Pilgrims hear his Barking: He belongs to the Castle which you see there at a Distance, but can come up to the Walls of this Place. Part I. p. 208.

He has frightened many an honest Pilgrim from Worse to Better, by the great Voice of his Roaring. Indeed he that owneth him, doth not keep him out of any Good-will to me or mine; but with Intent to keep the Pilgrims from coming to me, and that they may be afraid to come and knock at this Gate for Entrance. Sometimes also he has broken out, and has worried some that I loved; but I take all at present patiently. I also give my Pilgrims timely Help, so that they are not delivered up to his Power, to do to them what his doggish Nature would prompt him to. But what! my purchased One, I tro, hadst thou known never so much before Hand, thou wouldest not have been afraid of a Dog. A Check to the carnal Fear of the Pilgrims.

The Beggars that go from Door to Door, will, rather than they will loose a supposed Alms, run the Hazard of the Bawling, Barking, and Biting too of a Dog: And shall a Dog in another Man's Yard, a Dog, whose Barking I turn to the Profit of Pilgrims, keep any from coming to me? I deliver them from the Lions, and my Darling from the Power of the Dog?

Mercy. Then said Mercy, I confess my Ignorance, I speak what I understand not; I acknowledge that thou dost all Things well. Christians when wise enough, acquiesce in the Wisdom of their Lord. Part I. pag. 208.

Chr. Then Christiana began to talk of their Journey, and to enquire after the Way. So he fed them, and washed their Feet, and set them in the Way of his Steps, according as he had dealt with her Husband before. So I saw in my Dream, that they went on their Way, and the Weather was comfortable to them.

Then Christiana began to sing, saying,

*Bless'd be the Day that I began A Pilgrim for to be;
And blessed also be that Man,
That thereunto mov'd me.
'Tis true, 'twas long e're I began
To seek to live for ever:
But now I run fast as I can:
'Tis better late, than never.
'Tis Tears to Joy, our Fears to Faith,
Are turned as we see;
That our Beginning (as one saith) Shews what our End will be.*

Now

The Devil's Garden.

The Children eat of the Enemy's Fruit.

Two ill-favoured ones assault Christiana.

The Pilgrims struggle with them.

She cries out.

Now there was on the other Side of the Wall, that fenced in the Way up which Christiana and her Companions were to go, a Garden, and that belong'd to him whose was that Barking Dog, of whom Mention was made before. And some of the Fruit-Trees that grew in the Garden, shot their Branches upon the Wall; and being mellow, they that found them did gather them up, and eat of them to their Hurt. So Christiana's Boys, as Boys are apt to do, being pleased with the Trees, and with the Fruit that did hang thereon, did pluck them and began to eat. Their Mother did also chide them for so doing, but still the Boys went on.

Well, said she, my Sons, you transgress, for that Fruit is none of ours; but she did not know that they did belong to the Enemy: I'll warrant you, if she had, she would have been ready to die for Fear. But that passed, and they went on their Way. Now, by that they were gone about two Bows-shot from the Place that led them into the Way, they espied two very ill-favoured Ones coming down apace to meet them. With that Christiana, and Mercy her Friend, covered themselves with their Veils, and kept also on their Journey: The Children also went on before; so that at last they met together. Then they that came down to meet them, came just up to the Women, as if they would embrace them; but Christiana said, Stand back, or go peaceably as you should. Yet these two, as Men that are deaf, regarded not Christiana's Words, but began to lay Hands upon them, at that Christiana waxed very wroth, and spurned at them with her Feet. Mercy also, as well as she could, did what she could to shift them. Christiana again said to them, Stand back, and be gone, for we have no Money to lose, being Pilgrims as you see, and such too as live upon the Charity of our Friends.

Ill-Fav. Then said one of the two Men, we make no Assault upon you for Money, but are come out to tell you, that if you will but grant one small Request which we shall ask, we will make Women of you for ever.

Chr. Now Christiana imagining what they should mean, made Answer again, We will neither hear, nor regard, nor yield to what you shall ask. We are in Haste, and cannot stay, our Business is of Life and Death: So again, she and her Companions made a fresh Essay to go past them: But they letted them in their Way.

Ill-Fav. And they said, We intend no Hurt to your Lives, 'tis another Thing we would have!

Chr. Ay, quoth Christiana, you would have us Body and Soul, for I know 'tis for that you are come; but we will die rather upon the Spot, than to suffer ourselves to be brought into such Snares as shall hazard our Well-being hereafter. And with that they both shrieked out, and cry'd, Murder, Murder: And so put themselves under those Laws that are provided for the Protection of Women. But the Men still made their Approach upon them, with Design to prevail against them. They therefore cry'd out again.

Now, they being, as I said, not far from the Gate, in at which they came, their Voice was heard from where they was, thither: Wherefore some of the House came out, and knowing that it was Christiana's Tongue, they made Haste to her Relief. But by that they were got within Sight of them, the Women were in a very great Scuffle, the Children also stood crying by. Then did he that came in for their Relief, call out to the Ruffians, saying, What is that Thing you do? Would you make my Lord's People to transgress? He also attempted to take them, but they did make their Escape over the Wall into the Garden of the Man to whom the great Dog belonged; so the Dog became their Protector. This Reliever then came up to the Women, and asked them how they did. So they answered, we thank thy Prince, pretty well, only we have been somewhat affrighted; we thank thee also, for that thou camest in to our Help, for otherwise we had been overcome.

Reliever. So after a few more Words, this Reliever said, as followeth: I marvelled much when you was entertained at the Gate above, being ye know that ye were but weak Women, that you petition'd not the Lord for a Conductor: Then might you have avoided these Troubles and Dangers; he would have granted you one.

Chr. Alas! said Christiana, We were so taken with our present Blessing, that Dangers to come were forgotten by us: beside, who could have thought, that so near the King's Palace, there should have lurked such naughty ones? Indeed, it had been well for us, had we asked our Lord for one; but since our Lord knew it would be for our Profit, I wonder he sent not one along with us!

Rel. It is not always necessary to grant Things not asked for, lest by so doing, they become of little Esteem; but when the Want of a Thing is felt, it then comes under, in the Eyes of him that feels it, that Estimate, that properly is its Due, and so consequently will be hereafter used. Had my Lord granted you a Conductor, you would not neither so have bewailed that Oversight of yours, in not asking for one, as now you have Occasion to do. So all Things work for Good, and tend to make you more wary.

Chr. Shall we go back again to my Lord, and confess our Folly, and ask one?

Rel. Your Confession of your Folly I will present him with: To go back again, you need need

need not; for in all Places where you shall come, you will find no Want at all; for every of my Lord's Lodgings, which he has prepared for the Reception of his Pilgrims, there is sufficient to furnish them against all Attempts whatsoever. But as I said, he will be enquired of by them to do it for them. And it is a poor Thing that is not worth asking for. When he had thus said, he went back to his Place, and the Pilgrims went on their Way.

The Mistake of Mercy.

Mer. Then said Mercy, What a sudden Blank is here? I made Account we had been past all Danger, and that we should never sorrow more.

Christiana's
Guilt.

Chr. Thy Innocency, my Sister, said Christiana to Mercy, may excuse thee much; but as for me, my Fault is so much the greater, for that I saw this Danger before I came out of the Doors, and yet did not provide for it where Provision might have been had. I am much to be blamed.

Mercy. Then said Mercy, How knew you this before you came from Home? Pray open to me this Riddle?

Christiana's
dream repeated.

Chr. Why, I will tell you; Before I set Foot out of Doors, one Night, as I lay in my Bed, I had a Dream about this: For methought I saw two Men, as like these as ever the World they could look, stand at my Bed's Feet, plotting how they might prevent my Salvation. I will tell you their very Words: They said, (it was when I was in my Troubles) What shall we do with this Woman? For she cries out waking and sleeping for Forgiveness; if she be suffered to go on as she begins, we shall lose her as we have lost her Husband. This you know might have made me take Heed, and have provided when Provision might have been had.

Mercy makes good Use of their Neglect of Duty.

Mercy. Well, said Mercy, as by this Neglect we have an Occasion ministred unto us, to behold our Imperfections: So our Lord has taken Occasion thereby to make manifest the Riches of his Grace; for he, as we see, has followed us with unasked Kindness, and has delivered us from their Hands that were stronger than we, of his meer good Pleasure.

Talk in the Interpreter's
House about Christiana's going on Pilgrimage.

Thus now when they had talked away a little more Time, they drew near to a House which stood in the Way, which House was built for the Relief of Pilgrims, as you will find more fully related in the first Part of the Records of the Pilgrim's Progress: So they drew on towards the House, (the House of the Interpreter) and when they came to the Door, they heard a great Talk in the House, when they gave ear, and heard, as they thought, Christiana mentioned by Name. For you must know, that there went along even before her, a Talk of her and her Children going on Pilgrimage. And this was the more pleasing to them, because they had heard that she was Christian's Wife. That Woman who was some Time ago so unwilling to hear of going on Pilgrimage. Thus, therefore, they stood still, and heard the good People within commending her, who they little thought stood at the Door. At last, Christiana knock'd, as she had done at the Gate before. Now when she had knocked, there came to the Door, a young Damsel nam'd Innocent, and opened the Door, and looked, and behold, two Women were there.

She knock'd at the door.

Damsel. Then said the Damsel to them, with whom would you speak in this Place?

Chr. Christiana answered, We understand that this is a privileged Place for those that are become Pilgrims, and we now at this Door are such: Wherefore we pray that we may be Partakers of that for which we at this Time are come; for the Day, as thou seest, is very far spent, and we are loth, to Night, to go any farther.

The Door is opened to them by Innocent.

Damsel. Pray what may I call your Name, than I may tell it to my Lord within?

Chr. My Name is Christiana; I was the Wife of that Pilgrim that some Years ago did travel this Way, and these be his four Children. This Maiden is also my Companion, and is going on Pilgrimage too.

Innocent. Then ran Innocent in (for that was her Name) and said to those within, Can you think who is at the Door? There is Christiana and her Children, and her Companion, all waiting for Entertainment here. Then they leaped for Joy, and went and told their Master. So he came to the Door, and looking upon her, he said, Art thou that Christiana whom Christian the good Man left behind him, when he betook himself to a Pilgrim's Life.

Joy in the House of the Interpreter, that Christiana is turned Pilgrim.

Christ. I am that Woman that was so hard-hearted as to slight my Husband's Troubles, and that left him to go on his Journey alone, and these are his four Children; but now I also am come, for I am convinced that no Way is right but this.

Interp. Then is fulfilled that which is written of the Man that said to his Son, Go work to Day in my Vineyard; and he said to his Father, I will not; but afterwards repented and went.

Matt. 21.

Christ. Then said Christiana, So be it, Amen. God make it a true Saying upon me, and grant that I may be found at the last of him in Peace, without Spot, and Blameless.

Interp. But why standest thou at the Door? Come in, thou Daughter of Abraham; we were talking of thee, but now, for Tidings have come to us before, how thou art become a Pilgrim. Come, Children, come in; come, Maiden, come: to he had them all into the House.

So when they were within, they were bidden to sit down and rest them; the which, when they had done, those that attended upon the Pilgrims in the House, came came into the Room to see them. And one smiled, and another smiled, and another smiled, and they all smiled, for Joy that Christiana was become a Pilgrim: They also looked upon the Boys; they stroked them over their Faces, with their Hand, in Token of their kind Reception of them: They also carried it lovingly to Mercy, and bid them all welcome into their Master's House.

 The Significant Rooms.* After a while, because Supper was not ready, the  Interpreter* took them into his Significant Rooms, and shewed them what Christian, Christiana's Husband, had seen some time before. Here therefore they saw the Man in the Cage, the Man and his Dream, the Man that cut his Way through his Enemies, and the Picture of the biggest of all, together with the rest of those Things that were then so profitable to Christian.

The Man with the Muckrake expounded. This done, and after those Things had been somewhat digested by Christiana and her Company, the Interpreter takes them apart again, and has them first into a Room, where was a Man that could look no ways but downwards, with a Muck-rake in his Hand: There stood also one over his Head, with a Celestial Crown in his Hand, and proffered him that Crown for his Muck-rake; but the Man did neither look up, nor regard, but raked to himself the Straws, the small Sticks, and Dust of the Floor.

Then said Christiana, I persuade myself, that I know somewhat the Meaning of this: For this is the Figure of a Man in this World: Is it not, good Sir?

Inter. Thou hast said right, said he, and his Muck-rake doth shew his Carnal Mind. And whereas thou seest him rather give heed to rake up Straws and Sticks, and the Dust of the Floor, than do what he says that calls to him from above, with the Celestial Crown in his Hand; it is to shew, That Heaven is but as a Fable to some, and that Things here are counted the only Things substantial. Now, whereas, it was also shewed thee, that the Man could look no Way but downwards: It is to let thee know, That earthly Things, when they are with Power upon Men's Minds, quite carry their Hearts away from God.

Christiana's Prayer against the Muckrake Prov. 30. 8. Christ. Then said Christiana, Oh! deliver me from this Muck-rake.

Inter. That Prayer, said the Interpreter, has lain by 'till it is almost rusty; Give me not Riches, is scarce the Prayer of one of Ten Thousand. Straws and Sticks, and Dust, with most, are the great Things now looked after.

With that Mercy and Christiana wept, and said, It is, alas! too true.

When the Interpreter had shewed them this, he had them into the very best Room in the House; (a very brave Room it was) so he bid them look round about, and see if they could find any thing profitable there.

Then they looked round and round: For there was nothing to be seen but a very great Spider on the Wall; and that they over-look'd. Of the Spider.

Mercy. Then said Mercy, Sir, I see nothing: But Christiana held her Peace.

Inter. But said the Interpreter, look again; she therefore looked again, and said, Here is not any Thing but an ugly Spider, who hangs by his Hands upon the Wall. Then said he, is there but one Spider in all this spacious Room? Then the Water stood in Christiana's Eyes, for she was a Woman quick of Apprehension: And she said, Yea Lord, there is more here than one. Yea, and Spiders, whose Venom is far more destructive than that which is in her. Talk about the Spider. The Interpreter then looked pleasantly on her, and said, Thou hast said the Truth. This made Mercy blush, and the Boys to cover their Faces; for they all began now to understand the Riddle.

Then said the Interpreter again, The Spider taketh hold with her Hands, as you see, and is in King's Palaces. The Interpreter. And wherefore is this recorded, but to shew you, That how full of the Venom of Sin soever you be, yet you may, by the Hand of Faith, lay hold of and dwell in the best Room that belongs to the King's House above.

Christ. I thought, said Christiana, of something of this; but I could not imagine it all. I thought, that we were like Spiders, and that we look'd like ugly Creatures, in what fine Rooms soever we were: But that by this Spider, this venomous and ill-favour'd Creature, we were to learn how to act Faith, that came not into my Thoughts. That she worketh with Hands, and, as I see, dwells in the best Room in the House. God has made nothing in vain.

Then they seemed all to be glad; but the Water stood in their Eyes: Yet they looked one upon another, and also bowed before the Interpreter.

He had them then into another Room, where was a Hen and Chickens, and bid them observe a While. So one of the Chickens went to the Trough to drink, and every time she drank, she lifted up her Head and her Eyes towards Heaven. See, said he, what this little Chick doth, and learn of her to acknowledge whence your Mercies come, by receiving them with looking up. Yet again, said he, observe and look; so they gave heed, and perceived that the Hen did walk in a fourfold Method towards her Chickens. Of the Hen and Chickens. 1. She had a common Call, and that she hath all the Day long. 2. She had a special Call, and that she had but sometimes. 3. She had a brooding Note. And 4. She had an Out-cry. Mat. 23. 27.

Now, said he, compare this Hen to your King, and these Chickens to his obedient ones. For answerable to her, himself has his Methods, which he walketh in towards his his People; by his common Call, he gives nothing; by his special Call, he always has something to give; he has also a brooding Voice, for them that are under his Wing. And he has an Out-cry, to give the Alarm when he seeth the Enemy come. I chose, my Darlings, to lead you into the Room where such Things are, because you are Women, and they are easy for you.

Christ. And, Sir, said Christiana, pray let us see some more: So he had them into the Slaughter-House, where was a Butcher killing a Sheep: And behold the Sheep was quiet, and took her Death patiently. Then said the Interpreter, You must learn of this Sheep to suffer, and to put up Wrongs without Murmurings and Complaints. Behold how quietly she takes her Death, and without objecting, she suffereth her Skin to be pulled over her Ears. Your King doth call you his Sheep.

After this, he led them into his Garden, where was great Variety of Flowers: And he said, Do you see all these? So Christiana said, Yes. Then said he again, Behold the Flowers are divers in Stature, in Quality, and Colour, and Smell, and Virtue; and some are better than some: Also where the Gardener hath set them, there they stand, and quarrel not one with another.

Again, he had them into his Field, which he had sowed with Wheat and Corn: But when they beheld the Tops of all was cut off, only the Straw remained, he said again, This Ground was dinged, and ploughed, and sowed, but what shall we do with the Crop? Then said Christiana, burn some and make Muck of the rest. Then said the Interpreter again, Fruit, you see, is that Thing you look for, and for Want of that you condemn it to the Fire, and to be trodden under Foot of Men: Beware that in this you condemn not yourselves.

Then as they were coming in from abroad, they espied a Robin with a great Spider in his Mouth: So the Interpreter said, look here: So they looked, and Mercy wondered: but Christiana said, What a Disparagement is it to such a little pretty Bird as the Robin-red-breast is, he being also a Bird above many, that loveth to maintain a kind of Sociableness with Men; I had thought they had lived upon Crums of Bread, or upon other such harmless Matter; I like him worse than I did.

The Interpreter then reply'd, This Robin is an Emblem, very apt to set forth some Professors by; for to Sight they are, as this Robin, pretty of Note, Colour and Carriage: They seem also to have a very great Love for Professors that are sincere; and above all other to desire to sociate with them, and to be in their Company, as if they could live upon the good Man's Crums, they pretend also, that therefore it is, that they frequent the House of the godly, and the Appointments of the Lord: But when they are by themselves, as the Robin, they can catch and gobble up Spiders, they can change their Diet, drink and swallow down Sin like Water.

So when they were come again into the House, because Supper as yet was not ready, Christiana again desired that the Interpreter would either shew or tell of some other Things that are profitable. Pray, and you will get at that which yet lies unrevealed.

Then the Interpreter began and said: The fatter the Sow is, the more she desires the Mire; the fatter the Ox is, the more gamefully he goes to the Slaughter; and the more healthy the lustful Man is, the more prone he is unto Evil.

There is a Desire in Women to go neat and fine, and it is a comely Thing to be adorned with that, which in God's Sight is of great Price.

'Tis easier watching a Night or two, than to sit up a whole Year together: So 'tis easier for one to begin to profess well, than to hold out as he should to the End.

Every Ship-Master, when in a Storm, will willingly cast that over-board that is of the smallest Value in the Vessel; but who will throw the best out first? None but he that feareth not God.

One Leak will sink a Ship, and one Sin will destroy a Sinner.

He that forgets his Friend, is ungrateful unto him; but he that forgets his Saviour is unmerciful to himself.

He that lives in Sin, and looks for Happiness hereafter, is like him that soweth Cockle, and thinks to fill his Barn with Wheat or Barley.

If a Man would live well, let him fetch his last Day to him, and make it always his Company-keeper.

Whispering and Change of Thoughts, prove that Sin is in the World.

If the World, which God sets light by, is counted a Thing of that Worth with Men, What is Heaven that God commendeth?

If the Life that is attended with so many Troubles, is so loth to be let go by us, what is the Life above?

Every Body will cry up the Goodness of Men; but who is there, that is, as he should be, affected with the Goodness of God?

We seldom set down to Meat, but we eat, and leave. So there is in Jesus Christ, more Merit and Righteousness, than the whole World has Need of.

When the Interpreter had done, he takes them out into his Garden again, and had them to a Tree, whose Inside was all rotten and gone, and yet it grew and had Leaves. Then said Mercy, What means this? This Tree, said he, whose Outside is fair, and whose Inside is rotten, it is, to which many may be compared that are in the Garden of God: Who with their Mouths speak high in Behalf of God, but indeed will do nothing for him; whose Leaves are fair, but their Heart good for nothing. Of the Tree that is rotten at Heart.

nothing but to be Tinder for the Devil's Tinder-Box.

They are at Supper. Now Supper was ready, the Table spread, and all Things set on Board, so they sat down and did eat, when one had given Thanks. And the Interpreter did usually entertain those that lodg'd with him with Musick at Meals; so the Minstrels play'd. There was also one that did sing, and a very fine Voice he had. His Song was this:

*The Lord is only my Support,
And he that doth me feed;
How can I then want any Thing
Whereof I stand in Need.*

Talk at Supper. A Repetition of Christiana's Experience. When the Song and Musick was ended, the Interpreter asked Christiana, What it was that at first did move her thus to betake herself to a Pilgrim's Life? Christiana answered, First, the Loss of my Husband came into my Mind, at which I was heartily grieved: But all that was natural Affection. Then, after that came the Troubles and Pilgrimage of my Husband into my Mind, and also how like a Churl I had carried it to him as to that. So Guilt took Hold of my Mind, and would have drawn me into the Pond; but that Opportunity I had a Dream of the Well-being of my Husband, and a Letter sent by the King of that Country where my Husband dwells to come to him. The Dream and the Letter together so wrought upon my Mind, that they forced me to this Way.

Int. But met you with no Opposition before you set out of Doors?

Chr. Yes a Neighbour of mine, one Mrs. Timorous, (she was akin to him that would have persuaded my Husband to go back, for Fear of the Lions.) She also so befool'd me, for, as she called it, my intended desperate Adventure; she also urged what she could to dishearten me from it, the Hardship and Troubles that my Husband met with in the Way; but all this I got over pretty well. But a Dream that I had of two ill-looking Ones, that I thought did plot how to make me miscarry in my Journey, that hath troubled me: Yea, it still runs in my Mind, and makes me afraid of every one that I meet, lest they should meet me to do me a Mischief, and to turn me out of my Way. Yea, I may tell my Lord, tho' I would not every Body know it, that between this and the Gate by which we got into the Way, we were both so sorely assaulted, that we were made to cry out Murder; and the two that made this Assault upon us, were like the two that I saw in my Dream.

A Question put to Mercy. Then said the Interpreter, Thy Beginning is good, thy latter End shall greatly increase. So he addressed himself to Mercy, and said unto her, And what moved thee to come hither, Sweet-heart?

Mer. Then Mercy blushed and trembled, and for a while continued silent.

Int. Then said he, be not afraid, only believe, and speak thy Mind.

Mer. Then she began, and said, truly Mercy's Answer. Sir, my Want of Experience is that which makes me covet to be in Silence, and that also that fills me with Fears of coming short at last. I cannot tell of Visions and Dreams, as my Friend Christiana can: Nor know I what it is to mourn for my refusing of the Counsel of those that were good Relations.

Int. What was it then, Dear Heart, that hath prevailed with thee to do as thou hast done?

Mer. Why, when our Friend here was packing up to be gone from our Town; I and another went accidentally to see her. So we knocked at the Door, and went in. When we were within, and seeing what she was doing, we asked her what was her Meaning? She said, she was sent for to go to her Husband and then she up and told us how she had seen him in a Dream, dwelling in a curious Place, among Immortals, wearing a Crown, playing upon a Harp, eating and drinking at his Prince's Table, and singing Praises to him for bringing him thither, &c. Now methought while she was telling these Things unto us, my Heart burned within me, and I said in my Heart, If this be true, I will leave my Father and my Mother, and the Land of my Nativity, and will, if I may, go along with Christiana.

So I asked her farther of the Truth of these Things, and if she would let me go with her; for I saw now, that there was no dwelling, but with the Danger of Ruin, any longer in our Town. But yet I came away with a heavy Heart, not for that I was unwilling to come away, but for that so many of my Relations were left behind.

And I am come with all the Desire of my Heart, and will go, if I may, with Christiana, unto her Husband, and his King.

Int. Thy setting out is good, for thou hast given Credit to the Truth; thou art a Ruth, who did for the Love she bare to Naomi, and to the Lord her God, leave Father and Mother, and the Land of her Nativity, to come out and go with a People that she knew not before, Ruth 2. 11, 12. The Lord recompense thy Work, and full Reward be given thee of the Lord God of Israel, under whose Wings thou art come to trust.

Now Supper was ended, and Preparation was made for Bed, the Women were laid singly alone, and the Boys by themselves. They undress themselves for Bed. Now when Mercy was in Bed, she could not sleep for Joy, for that now her Doubts of missing at last, were removed farther from her than ever they were before. Mercy's good Night's Rest. So she the lay blessing and praising God, who had such Favour for her.

The Bath of Sanctification.
 In the Morning they rose with the Sun, and prepared themselves for their Departure; but the Interpreter would have them tarry a while, for, said he, you must orderly go from hence. Then said he to the Damsel that first opened unto them, Take them and have them into the Garden to the Bath, and there wash them, and make them clean from the Soil, which they have gathered by travelling. Then Innocent the Damsel took them, and led them into the Garden, and brought them to the Bath; so she told them, That there they must wash and be clean, for so her Master would have the Women to do, that called at his House as they were going on Pilgrimage. Then they went in and washed, yea, they and the Boys and all; and they came out of that Bath, not only sweet and clean, but also much enlivened and strengthened in their Joints. So when they came in, they looked fairer a deal, than when they went out to the Washing.

They wash in it.

When they were returned out of the Garden from the Bath, the Interpreter took them, and looked upon them, and said unto them, Fair as the Moon. Then he called for the Seal, wherewith they used to be sealed that are washed in his Bath. So the Seal was brought, and he set his Mark upon them, that they might be known in the Places whither they were yet to go: Now the Seal was the Contents and Sum of the Passover which the Children of Israel did eat, Exod. 13. 8, 9, 10. when they came out of the Land of Egypt: and the Mark was set between their Eyes. This Seal greatly added to their Beauty, for it was an Ornament to their Faces. It also added to their Gravity, and made their Countenance more like that of Angels.

They are clothed.

Then said the Interpreter again to the Damsel that waited upon the Women, Go into the Vestry, and fetch out Garments for these People: So he went and fetch'd out white Raiment, and laid it down before him; so he commanded them to put it on. It was fine Linnen white and clean. When the Women were thus adorned, they seem'd to be a Terror one to the other; for that they could not see that Glory each one in herself, which they could see in each other. Now therefore they began to esteem each other better than themselves. For you are fairer than I am, said one; and you are more comely than I am, said another. The Children also stood amazed, to see into what Fashion they were brought.

True Humility.

The Interpreter then called for a Manservant of his, one Great-heart, and bid him take Sword and Helmet, and Shield, and take these my Daughters, said he, conduct them to the House called Beautiful, at which Place they will rest next. So he took his Weapons and went before them; and the Interpreter said, God Speed. Those also that belong'd to the Family, sent them away with many a good Wish. So they went on their Way, and sang;

*This Place has been our Second Stage,
 Here we have heard, and seen
 Those good Things, that from Age to Age
 To others hid have been.
 The Dunghill-raker, Spider, Hen,
 The Chicken too, to me,
 Hath taught a Lesson, let me then Conformed to it be.
 The Butcher, Garden, and the Field,
 The Robin, and his Bait,
 Also the Rotten Tree doth yield
 Me Argument of Weight;
 To move me for to Watch and Pray,
 To strive to be Sincere;
 To take my Cross up Day by Day,
 And serve the Lord with Fear.*

Now I saw in my Dream, That those went on, and Great-heart before them; so they went and came to the Place where Christian's Burden fell off his Back, and tumbled into a Sepulchre. Here then they made a Pause; here also they blessed God. Now, said Christiana, it comes to my Mind, what was said to us at the Gate, to wit, That we should have Pardon by Word and Deed; by Word, that is, by the Promise; by Deed, to wit, in the Way it was obtained. What the Promise is, of that I know something: But what it is to have Pardon by Deed, or in the Way that it was obtained, Mr. Great-heart, I suppose you know; which, if you please, let us hear you discourse thereof.

Great-heart. Pardon by the Deed done, is Pardon obtained by some one for another that hath Need thereof: Not by the Person pardoned, but in the Way, saith another, in which I have obtained it. So then to speak to the Question more at large, the Pardon that you and Mercy, and these Boys have attained, was obtained by another, to wit, by him that let you in at that Gate: and he hath obtained it in this double Way: He has performed Righteousness to cover you, and spilt his Blood to wash you in.

Chr. But if he parts with his Righteousness to us, what will he have for himself?

Great-heart. He has more Righteousness than you have Need of, or than he needeth himself?

Chr. Pray make that appear.

Great-heart. With all my Heart; but first I must premise, That he of whom we are now about to speak, is One that has not his Fellow. He has two Natures in one Person, plain to be distinguish'd, impossible to be divided. Unto each of these Natures

Part I.
 pag. 212.

A Comment upon what was said at the Gate, or a Discourse of our being justified by Christ.

Natures a Righteousness belongeth, and each Righteousness is Essential to that Nature. So that one may as easily cause the Nature to be extinct, as to separate its Justice or Righteousness from it. Of these Righteousnesses therefore we are not made Partakers, so as that they, or any of them should be put upon us, that we might be made Just, and live thereby. Besides these, there is a Righteousness which this Person has, as these two Natures are joined in one. And this is not the Righteousness of the God-head, as distinguish'd from the Manhood; nor the Righteousness of the Manhood, as distinguish'd from the God-head, but a Righteousness which standeth in the Union of both Natures; and may properly be called the Righteousness that is essential to his being prepared of God to the Capacity of the Mediatory Office, which he was entrusted with. If he parts with his first Righteousness, he parts with his God-head: If he parts with his second Righteousness, he parts with the Purity of his Manhood: If he parts with his third, he parts with that Perfection which capacitates him to the Office of Mediation. He has therefore another Righteousness, which standeth in Performance, or Obedience to a revealed Will: And that is that he puts upon Sinners, and that by which their Sins are covered. Wherefore he saith, As by one Man's Disobedience, many were made Sinners: So by the Obedience of one, shall many be made Righteous, Rom. 5. 19.

Chr. But are the other Righteousnesses of no Use to us?

Great-heart. Yes; for tho' they are essential to his Natures and Offices, and cannot be communicated unto another, yet it is by virtue of them, that the Righteousness that justifies, is for that Purpose efficacious. The Righteousness of his Godhead gives Virtue to his Obedience; the Righteousness of his Manhood giveth Capability to his Obedience to justify, and the Righteousness that standeth in the Union of these two Natures to his Office, giveth Authority to that Righteousness to do the Work for which it was ordained.

So then here is a Righteousness that Christ, as God, has no Need of; for he is God without it: Here is a Righteousness, that Christ, as Man, has no need of to make him so, for he is perfect Man without it. Again, here is a Righteousness, that Christ, as God-Man, has no Need of; for he is perfectly so without it. Here then is a Righteousness, that Christ, as God, and as God-Man, has no Need of, with Reference to himself, and therefore he can spare it as a justifying Righteousness, that he for himself wanteth not, and therefore giveth it away. Hence it is called the Gift of Righteousness. This Righteousness, since Christ Jesus the Lord has made himself under the Law, must be given away; for the Law doth not only bind him that is under it, to do justly, but to use Charity; Rom. 5. 17. Wherefore he must, or ought by the Law, if he hath two Coats, to give one to him that hath none. Now our Lord indeed hath two Coats, one for himself, and one to spare: Wherefore he freely bestows one upon those that have none. And thus, Christiana and Mercy, and the rest of you that are here, doth your Pardon come by Deed, or by the Work of another Man. Your Lord Christ is he that worked, and hath given away what he wrought for, to the next poor Beggar he meets.

But again, in order to pardon by Deed, there must something be paid to God as a Price, as well as something prepared to cover us withal. Sin has delivered us up to the just Course of a Righteous Law: Now from this Course we must be justified by way of Redemption, a Price being paid for the Harms we have done; and this is by the Blood of your Lord, who came and stood in your Place and Stead, and died your Death for your Transgressions. Thus has he ransomed you from your Transgressions, by Blood, and covered your polluted and deformed Souls with Righteousness, Rom. 8. 34. For the Sake of which, God passeth by you, and will not hurt you, when he comes to judge the World, Gal. 3. 13.

Chr. This is brave: Now I see that there was something to be learned by our being pardoned by Word and Deed. Good Mercy, let us labour to keep this in Mind; and, my Children, do you remember it also. But, Sir, was not this it that made my good Christian's Burden fall from off his Shoulder, and that made him give three Leaps for Joy?

Great-heart. Yes, it was the Belief of this that cut those Strings, that could not be cut by other Means; and it was to give him a Proof of the Virtue of this, that he was suffer'd to carry his Burden to the Cross.

Chr. I thought so; for tho' my Heart was lightful and joyous before, yet it is ten times more lightsome and joyous now. And I am persuaded by what I have felt, tho' I have felt but little as yet, that if the most burden'd Man in the World was here, and did see and believe as I now do, it would make his Heart the more merry and blithe.

Great-heart. There is not only Comfort, and the Ease of a Burden brought to us, by the Sight and Consideration of these; but an endear'd Affection begot in us by it: For who can (if he doth but once think that Pardon comes not only by Promise, but thus) but be affected with the Way and Means of his Redemption, and so with the Man that hath wrought it for him?

Cause of
tion.

Chr. True; methinks it makes my Heart bleed to think that he should bleed for me. Oh! thou loving One: Oh! thou blessed One. Thou deservest to have me; thou hast bought me: Thou deservest to have me all; thou hast paid for me ten thousand times more than I am worth. No Marvel that this made the Water stand in my Husband's Eyes, and that it made him trudge so nimbly on: I am persuaded he wished me with him; but vile Wretch that I was, I let him come all alone. O Mercy, that thy Father and Mother were here; yea, and Mrs. Timorous also: Nay, I wish now with all my Heart, that here was Madam Wanton too. Surely, surely, their Hearts would be affected; nor could the Fear of the one, nor the powerful Lusts of the other, prevail with them to go Home again, and refuse to become good Pilgrims.

To be affected with Christ, and with what he has done, is a Thing Special.

Great-heart. You speak now in the Warmth of your Affections: Will it, think you, be always thus with you? Besides, this is not communicated to every one, nor to every one that did see your JESUS bleed. There were that stood by, and that saw the Blood run from the Heart to the Ground, and yet were so far off this, that instead of lamenting, they laugh'd at him; and instead of becoming his Disciples, did harden their Hearts against him. So that all that you have, my Daughters, you have by peculiar Impression made by a divine contemplating upon what I have spoken to you. Remember that 'twas told you, That the Hen, by her common Call, gives no Meat to her Chickens. This you have therefore by a Special Grace.

Simple
Sloth and

tion hang'd, and why.

Now I saw still in my Dream, That they went on until they were come to the Place, that Simple, and Sloth, and Presumption, lay and slept in, when Christian went by on Pilgrimage: And behold they were hanged up in Irons a little Way off on the other side.

Mercy. Then said Mercy to him that was their Guide and Conductor, What are these three Men? And for what are they hanged there?

Great-heart. These three Men were Men of bad Qualities; they had no Mind to be Pilgrims themselves, and whomsoever they could, they hinder'd; they were for Sloth and Folly themselves, and whomsoever they could persuade, they made so too; and withal taught them to presume that they should do well at last. They were asleep when Christian went by, and now you go by, they are hang'd.

Mercy. But could they persuade any one to be of their Opinion?

Their Crime whom they prevailed upon to turn out of the Way.

Great-heart. Yes, they turned several out of the Way. There was Slow-pace that they persuaded to do as they. They also prevailed with one Short-wind, with one No-heart, with one Linger-after-Last, and and with one Sleepy-head, and with a young Woman, her Name was Dull, to turn out of the Way and become as they. Besides, they brought up an ill Report of your Lord, persuading others that he was a hard Task-Master. They also brought up an Evil Report of the good Land, saying, It was not half so good as some pretended it was. They also began to vilify his Servants, and to count the best of them meddlesome, troublesome, busy-bodies: Farther, They would call the Bread of God Husks; the Comforts of his Children Fancies; the Travel and Labour of Pilgrims, Things to no Purpose.

Christ. Nay, said Christiana, if they were such, they shall never be bewailed by me; they have but what they deserve; and I think it well that they stand so near the Highway, that others may see and take Warning. But had it not been well if their Crimes had been engraven on some Pillar of Iron or Brass, and left here, where they did their Mischiefs, for a Caution to other bad Men?

Great-heart. So it is, as you may well perceive, if you will go a little to the Wall.

Mercy. No, no; let them hang, and their Names rot, and their Crimes live for ever against them: I think it is a high Favour that they are hanged before we came hither; Who knows else what they might have done to such poor Women as we are? Then she turned it into a Song, saying,

Now then you three hang there, and be a Sign
To all that shall against the Truth combine.
And let him that comes after, fear this End,
If unto Pilgrims he is not a Friend.
And thou, my Soul, of all such Men beware,
That unto Holiness Opposers are.

Thus they went on, till they came at the Part I.

there when Christian himself went by. So he had them first to the Spring; Lo, saith he, This is the Spring that Christian drank of before he went up this Hill, and then it was clear and good, but now it is dirty with the Feet of some that are not desirous that Pilgrims here should quench their Thirst: Thereat Mercy said, And why so en-if taken up and put into a Vessel that is sweet and good; for then the Dirt will sink to the Bottom, and the Water come out by itself more clear. Thus therefore Christiana and her Companions were compelled to do. They took it up, and put it into an Earthen Pot, and so let it stand till the Dirt was gone to the Bottom, and then they drank thereof. Next

Next he shew'd them the two By-ways that were at the Foot of the Hill, where Formality and Hypocrisy lost themselves. And, said he, these are dangerous Paths: Two were here cast away when Christian came by. And altho' you see these Ways are since stopped up with Chains, Posts, and a Ditch, yet there are those that will choose to adventure here, rather than take the Pains to go up this Hill.

By-Paths, tho' barred up, will not keep all from going in them.

Christ. The Way of Transgressors is hard, Prov. 13. 15. It is a Wonder that they can get into those Ways without Danger of breaking their Necks.

Great-heart. They will venture, yea, if at any time any of the King's Servants do happen to see them, and doth call upon them, and tell them, That they are in the wrong Ways, and do bid them beware of the Danger; then they will railingly return them Answer, and say, As for the Word that thou hast spoken unto us in the Name of the King, we will not hearken unto thee; but we will certainly do whatsoever Thing goeth out of our Mouths, &c. Jer. 44. 16, 17. Nay, if you look a little farther, you shall see that these Ways are made Cautionary enough, not only by these Posts, and Ditch, and Chain, but also by being hedged up, yet they will choose to go there.

The Reason why some do choose to go in By-ways. Prov. 15. 19.

Christ. They are idle; they love not to take Pains, up hill Way is unpleasant to them. So it is fulfilled unto them as it is written, The Way of the Slothful Man is a Hedge of Thorns: Yea, they will rather choose to walk upon a Snare, than to go up this Hill, and the rest of this Way to the City.

The Hill puts the Pilgrims to it.

Then they set forward, and began to go up the Hill, and up the Hill they went; but before they got up to the Top, Christiana began to pant, and said, I dare say, this is a Breathing Hill; no marvel if they that love their Ease more than their Souls, choose to themselves a smoother Way. Then said Mercy, I must sit down; also the least of the Children began to cry; Come, come, said Great-Heart, sit not down here, for a little above is the Prince's Arbour. Then he took the little Boy by the Hand, and led him up thereto.

They sit in the Arbour. Part I. p. 214. Mat. 11. 28.

When they were come to the Arbour, they were very willing to sit down, for they were all in a pelting Heat. Then said Mercy, How sweet is Rest to them that labour? And how good is the Prince of Pilgrims to provide such Resting Places for them? Of this Arbour I have heard much: but I never saw it before. But here let us beware of Sleeping: For as I have heard, that it cost poor Christian dear.

The little Boy's Answer to the Guide, and also to Mercy.

Then said Mr. Great-Heart to the little Ones, Come, my pretty Boys, how do you do? What think you now of going on Pilgrimage? Sir, said the least, I was almost beat out of Heart; but I thank you for lending me a Hand at my Need. And I remember now what my Mother hath told me, namely, That the Way to Heaven is as a Ladder, and the Way to Hell is as down a Hill. But I had rather go up the Ladder to Life, then down the Hill to Death.

Then said Mercy, But the Proverb is, To go down the Hill is easy: But James said, (for that was his Name) The Day is coming, when in my Opinion, going down the Hill will be the hardest of all. 'Tis a good Boy, said his Master, thou hast given her a right Answer. Then Mercy smiled, but the little Boy did blush.

Which is hardest, up Hill or down Hill.

Christ. Come, said Christiana, will you eat a Bit, to sweeten your Mouths while you sit here to rest your Legs?

They refresh themselves.

For I have here a piece of Pomegranate, which Mr. Interpreter put into my Hand just when I came out of his Doors; he gave me also a Piece of an Honey-Comb, and a little Bottle of Spirits; I thought he gave you something, said Mercy, because he call'd you aside. Yes, so he did, said the other: But, said Christiana, it shall be still as I said it should, when at first we came from Home; thou shalt be a Sharer in all the Good that I have, because thou so willingly didst become my Companion. Then she gave to them, and they did eat, both Mercy and the Boys. And said Christiana to Mr. Great-Heart, Sir, Will you do as we? But he answered, You are going on Pilgrimage, and presently I shall return: Much Good may what you have do to you. At Home I eat the same every Day. Now, when they had eaten and drank, and had chatted a little longer, their Guide said to them, The Day wears away, if you think good, let us prepare to be going. So they got up to go, and the little Boys went before: But Christiana forgot to take her Bottle of Spirits with her; so she sent her little Boy back to fetch it. Then said Mercy, I think this is a losing Place. Here Christian lost his Roll: and here Christiana left her Bottle behind her; Sir, What is the Cause of this? So their Guide made Answer, and said, the Cause is Sleep or Forgetfulness; some sleep when they should keep awake, and some forget when they should remember; and this is the very Cause, why often at the Resting Places, some Pilgrims, in some Things, come off Losers. Pilgrims should watch, and remember what they have already received under their greatest Enjoyments; but for want of doing so, oftentimes, their Rejoicing ends in Tears, and their Sun-shine in a Cloud, witness the Story of Christian at this Place.

Christiana forgets her Bottle of Spirits.

Mark this. Part I. p. 214.

When they were come to the Place where Mistrust and Timorous met Christian to persuade him to go back for fear of the Lions, they perceived as it were a Stage, and before it, towards the Road, a broad Plate, with a Copy of Verses written thereon, and underneath, the Reason of of raising up of that Stage in that Place, render'd. The Verses were these:

*Let him that sees this Stage, take heed
Unto his Heart and Tongue:
Lest if he do not, here he speed
As some have long ago.*

The Words underneath the Verses were, This Stage was built to punish such upon, who, through Timorousness or Mistrust, shall be afraid to go farther on Pilgrimage: Also on this Stage, both Mistrust and Timorous were burnt through the Tongue with a hot Iron, for endeavouring to hinder Christian on his Journey.

Then said Mercy, This is much like to the Saying of the Beloved, Psal. 120. 3, 4. What shall be given unto thee? Or what shall be done unto thee, thou false Tongue? Sharp Arrows of the Mighty, with Coals of Juniper.

So they went on, till they came within Sight of the Lions. Now Mr. Great-heart was a strong Man, so he was not afraid of a Lion: But yet, when they were come up to the Place where the Lions were, the Boys that went before, were glad to cringe behind, for they were afraid of the Lions, so they stept back, and went behind. At this, their Guide smiled, and said; How now, my Boys, do you love to go before when no Danger doth approach, and love to come behind so soon as the Lions appear?

Of Grim
the Giant, and of his backing
the Lions.

Now, as they went on, Mr. Great-heart drew his Sword, with Intent to make a Way for the Pilgrims in Spight of the Lions. Then there appeared one, that, it seems, had taken upon him to back the Lions; and he said to the Pilgrims Guide, What is the Cause of your coming hither? Now the Name of that Man was Grim, or Bloody-Man, because of his slaying of Pilgrims, and he was of the Race of the Giants.

Great-heart. Then said the Pilgrim's Guide, These Women and Children are going on Pilgrimage, and this is the Way they must go, and go it they shall, in spight of thee and the Lions.

Grim. This is not their Way, neither shall they go therein. I am come forth to withstand them, and to that end will back the Lions.

Now, to say the Truth, by reason of the Fierceness of the Lions, and of the Grim Carriage of him that did back them, this Way had of late lain much unoccupied, and was almost all grown over with Grass.

Chr. Then said Christiana, though the Highways have been unoccupied heretofore, and tho' the Travellers have been made in Times past to walk through By-paths, it must not be so now I am risen, Now I am risen a Mother in Israel, Judges 5. 6, 7.

Grim. Then he swore by the Lions, but it should, and therefore bid them turn aside, for they should not have Passage there.

Great-heart. But their Guide made first his Approach unto Grim, and laid so heavily at him with his Sword, that he forced him to retreat. A Fight betwixt Grim and Great-heart.

Grim. Then said he, (that attempted to back the Lions) Will you slay me upon mine own Ground?

Great-heart. It is the King's High-way that we are in, and in this Way it is that thou hast placed the Lions; but these Women, and these Children, tho' weak, shall hold on their Way in spight of thy Lions. And with that he gave him again a downright Blow, and brought him upon his Knees. With this Blow he also broke his Helmet, and with the next cut off an Arm. Then did the Giant roar so hideously, that his Voice frightened the Women, and yet they were glad to see him lie sprawling upon the Ground. Now the Lions were chained, and so of themselves could do nothing. Wherefore, when old Grim, that intended to back them, was dead, Mr. Great-heart said to the Pilgrims, Come now, and follow me, and no Hurt shall happen to you from the Lions. They therefore went on, but the Women trembled as they passed by them; the Boys also looked as if they would die, but they all got by without further Hurt. The Victory.

Now, when they were within Sight of the Porter's Lodge, they soon came up unto it; but they made the more Haste after this to go thither, because it is dangerous Travelling there in the Night. So when they were come to the Gate, the Guide knocked, and the Porter cry'd, Who is there? But as soon as the Guide had said, It is I, he knew his Voice, and came down; (for the Guide had oft before that come thither as a Conductor of Pilgrims) when he was come down, he opened the Gate, and seeing the Guide standing just before it, (for he saw not the Women, for they were behind him) he said unto him, How now, Mr. Great-heart, what is your Business here so late at Night? I have brought, said he, some Pilgrims hither, where, by my Lord's Commandment, they must lodge: I had been here some time ago, had I not been opposed by the Giant that did use to back the Lions. But I, after a long and tedious Combat with him, have cut him off, and have brought the Pilgrims hither in Safety. They come to the Porter's Lodge.

Porter. Will you not go in, and stay till Morning?

Great-heart. No, I will return to my Lord to Night. Great-heart attempts to go back.

Chr. Oh, Sir, I know not how to be willing you should leave us in our Pilgrimage, you have been so faithful and so loving to us, you have fought so stoutly for us, The Pilgrims implore his Company still.

us, you have been so hearty in counselling of us, that I shall never forget your Favour towards us.

Mercy. Then said Mercy, O that we might have thy Company to our Journey's End! How can such poor Women as we, hold out in a Way so full of Troubles as this Way is, without a Friend and Defender?

James. Then said James, the youngest of the Boys, Pray, Sir, be persuaded to go with us, and help us, because we are so weak, and the Way so dangerous as it is.

Great-heart. I am at my Lord's Commandment: If he shall allot me to be your Guide quite through, I will willingly wait upon you; but here you failed at first; for when he bid me come thus far with you, then you should have begged me of him to have gone quite through with you, and he would have granted your Request. However at present I must withdraw, and so, good Christiana, Mercy, and my brave Children, Adieu.

Then the Porter, Mr. Watchful, asked Christiana of her Country, and of her Kindred, and she said, I am come from the City of Destruction; I am a Widow Woman, and my Husband is dead, his Name was Christian the Pilgrim. How, said the Porter, was he your Husband? Yes, said she, and these are his Children; and this, pointing to Mercy, is one of my Town's Women. Then the Porter rang his Bell, as at such Times he is wont, and there came to the Door one of the Damsels, whose Name was Humble-mind. And to her the Porter said, Go tell it within, That Christiana, the Wife of Christian, and her Children are come hither on Pilgrimage. She went in therefore, and told it. But, oh, what Noise for Gladness was there, when the Damsel did but drop that Word out of her Mouth!

So they came with Haste to the Porter, for Christiana stood still at the Door. Then some of the most Grave said unto her, Come in, Christiana, come in, thou Wife of that good Man; come in, thou blessed Woman, come in, with all that are with thee. So she went in, and they follow'd her that were her Children and her Companions. Now, when they were gone in, they were had into a very large Room, where they were bidden to sit down: So they sat down, and the Chief of the House was called to see and welcome the Guests. Then they came in, and understanding who they were, did salute each other with a Kiss, and said, Welcome, ye Vessels of the Grace of God; Welcome to us your faithful Friends.

Now, because it was somewhat late, and because the Pilgrims were weary with their Journey, and also made faint with the Sight of the Fight, and of the terrible Lions, therefore they desired, as soon as might be, to prepare to go to Rest, Exod. 12. 31. Nay, said those of the Family refresh yourselves with a Morfel of Meat: for they had prepared for them a Lamb, with the accustomed Sauce belonging thereto, John 1. 29. For the Porter had heard before of their Coming, and had told it to them within. So when they had supped, and ended their Prayer with a Psalm, they desired they might go to Rest. But let us, said Christiana, if we may be so bold as to choose, be in that Chamber that was my Husband's, when he was here; so they had them up thither, and they lay all in a Room. When they were at Rest, Christiana and Mercy entered into Discourse about Things that were convenient.

Chr. Little did I think once, when my Husband went on Pilgrimage, that I should ever have followed him.

Mercy. And you as little thought of lying in his Bed, and in his Chamber to rest, as you do now.

Chr. And much less did I ever think of seeing his Face with Comfort, and of worshipping the Lord the King with him, and yet now I believe I shall.

Mercy. Hark! Don't you hear a Noise?

Chr. Yes, it is, as I believe, a Noise of Musick, for Joy that we are here.

Mercy. Wonderful Musick in the House, Musick in the Heart, and Musick also in Heaven, for Joy that we are here.

Thus they talked a while, and then betook themselves to Sleep. So in the Morning, when they were awaked, Christiana said to Mercy.

Chr. What was the Matter that you did laugh in your Sleep to Night? I suppose you was in a Dream.

Mercy. So I was, and a sweet Dream it was; but are you sure I laughed?

Chr. Yes; you laughed heartily; but prithee, Mercy, tell me thy Dream.

Mercy. I was a dreaming that I sat all alone in a solitary Place, and was bemoaning of the Hardness of my Heart.

Now I had not sat there long, but methought many were gathered about me to see me, and to hear what it was that I said. So they hearkened, and I went on bemoaning the Hardness of my Heart. At this some of them laughed at me, some called me Fool, and some began to thrust me about. With that, methought I looked up, and saw one coming with Wings towards me. So he came directly to me, and said Mercy, What aileth thee? Now when he had heard me make my Complaint, he said, Peace be to thee; He also wip'd mine Eyes with his Handkerchief, and clad me in Silver and Gold, Ezek. 16. 8, 9, 10, 11. He put a Chain about my Neck, and Ear-rings in mine Ears, and a beautiful Crown upon my Head. Then he took me by the Hand, and said, Mercy, come after me. So he went went up, and I follow'd, till we came at a golden Gate. Then he knocked, and when they within had opened, the Man went in, and I followed him up to a Throne, upon which one sat; and he said to me, Welcome, Daughter. The Place looked bright and twinkling, like the Stars, or rather like the Sun, and I thought that I saw your Husband there; so I awoke from my Dream. But did I laugh?

Chr. Laugh! ay, and well you might, to see yourself so well. For you must give me leave to tell you, that it was a good Dream; and that as you have begun to find the first Part true, so you shall find the second at last. God speaks once, yea twice, yet Man perceiveth it not, in a Dream, in a Vision of the Night, when deep Sleep falleth upon Men, in slumbering upon the Bed, Job 33. 14, 15. We need not, when a-bed, to lie awake to talk with God, he can visit us while we sleep, and cause us then to hear his Voice. Our Heart oft-times wakes when we sleep, and God can speak to that, either by Words, by Proverbs, by Signs and Similitudes, as well as if one was awake.

Mercy Well, I am glad of my Dream, for I hope, ere long, to see it fulfilled, to the making me laugh again.

Chr. I think it is now high Time to rise, and to know what we must do.

Mercy. Pray, if they invite us to stay a while, let us willingly accept of the Proffer. I am the willingest to stay a while here, to grow better acquainted with these Maids; methinks Prudence, Piety and Charity, have very comely and sober Countenances.

Chr. We shall see what they will do. So when they were up and ready, they came down, and they ask'd one another of their Rest, and if it was comfortable or not.

Mercy. Very good, said Mercy, it was one of the best Night's Lodgings that ever I had in my Life.

Then said Prudence and Piety, if you will be persuaded to stay here a while, you shall have what the House will afford.

Cha. Ay, and that with a very good Will, said Charity. So they consented and staid there about a Month or above, and became very profitable one to another.

And because Prudence would see how Christiana had brought up her Children, she asked Leave of her to catechise them: So she gave her free Consent. Then she began with the youngest, whose Name was James.

Prudence. And she said, Come, James, canst thou tell me who made thee?

James. God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost.

Prud. Good Boy. And canst thou tell who saved thee?

James. God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost.

Prud. Good Boy still. But how doth God the Father save thee?

James. By his Grace.

Prud. How doth God the Son save thee?

James. By his Righteousness, Death, and Blood, and Life.

Prud. And how doth God the Holy Ghost save thee?

James. By his Illumination, by his Renovation, and by his Preservation.

Then said Prudence to Christiana, You are to be commended for thus bringing up your Children. I suppose I need not ask the rest these Questions, since the youngest of them can answer them so well. I will therefore now apply myself to the next youngest.

Prud. Then she said, Come, Joseph, (for his Name was Joseph) will you let me catechise you?

Joseph. With all my Heart.

Prud. What is Man?

Joseph. A reasonable Creature, made so by God, as my Brother said.

Prud. What is supposed by this Word Saved?

Joseph. That Man, by Sin, has brought himself into a State of Captivity and Misery.

Prud. What is supposed by his being saved by the Trinity?

Joseph. That Sin is so great and mighty a Tyrant, that none can pull us out of its Clutches, but God; and that God is so good and loving to Man, as to pull him indeed out of this miserable State.

Prud. What is God's Design in saving poor Man?

Joseph. The Glorifying of his Name, of his Grace, and Justice, &c. and the everlasting Happiness of his Creature.

Prudence. Who are they that must be saved?

Joseph. Those that accept of his Salvation.

Prud. Good Boy, Joseph, thy Mother hath taught thee well, and thou hast hearkened to what she has said unto thee.

Then said Prudence to Samuel, who was the eldest Son but one:

Prud. Come, Samuel, are you willing that I should catechise you also?

Samuel. Yes, forsooth, if you please.

Prud. What is Heaven?

Sam. A Place and State most blessed, because God dwelleth there.

Prud. What is Hell?

Sam. A Place and State most woful, because it is the Dwelling-Place of Sin, the Devil, and Death.

Prud. Why wouldst thou go to Heaven?

Samuel. That I may see God, and serve him without Weariness; that I may see Christ, and love him everlastingly; that I may have that Fulness of the Holy Spirit rit in me, that I can by no Means here enjoy.

Prud. A very good Boy also, and one that has learned well.

Then she addressed herself to the eldest whose Name was Matthew; and she said to him, come, Matthew, shall I also catechise you?

Matthew catechised.

Matt. With a very good Will.

Prud. I ask then, if there was ever any Thing that had a Being antecedent to or before God?

Matt. No, for God is eternal; nor is there any Thing, excepting himself, that had a Being, until the Beginning of the First Day. For in six Days the Lord made Heaven and Earth, the Sea, and all that in them is.

Prudence. What do you think of the Bible?

Matt. It is the Holy Word of God.

Prud. Is there nothing written therein, but what you understand?

Matt. Yes, a great deal.

Prud. What do you do when you meet with Places therein that you do not understand?

Matt. I think God is wiser than I. I pray also that he will please to let me know all therein that he knows will be for my Good.

Prud. How believe you as touching the Resurrection of the Dead?

Matt. I believe they shall rise, the same that was buried; the same in Nature, tho' not in Corruption. And I believe this upon a double Account. First, Because God has promised it. Secondly, Because he is able to perform it.

Prudence's Conclusion upon the catechising of the Boys.

Then said Prudence to the Boys, You must still hearken to your Mother, for she can learn you more. You must also diligently give ear to what good Talk you shall hear from others; for your Sakes do they speak good Things. Observe also, and that with Carefulness, what the Heavens and the Earth do teach you; but especially be much in the Meditation of that Book that was the Cause of your Father's becoming a Pilgrim. I, for my Part, my Children, will teach you what I can while you are here, and shall be glad if you will ask me Questions that tend to Godly Edifying.

Mercy has a Sweet-heart.

Now, by that these Pilgrims had been at this Place a Week, Mercy had a Visiter that pretended some good Will unto her, and his Name was Mr. Brisk, a Man of some Breeding, and that pretended to Religion, but a Man that stuck very close to the World. So he came once or twice, or more, to Mercy, and offered Love unto her. Now Mercy was of a fair Countenance, and therefore the more alluring.

Mercy's Temper.

Her Mind also was, To be always busying herself in doing, for when she had nothing to do for herself, she would be making of Hosiery and Garments for others, and would bestow them upon them that had Need. And Mr. Brisk not knowing where, or how she disposed of what she made, seemed to be greatly taken, for that he found her never idle. I will warrant her a good Housewife, quoth he to himself.

Mercy then revealed the Business to the Maidens that were of the House, and enquired of them concerning him, for they did know him better than she. So they told her, That he was a very busy young Man, and one that pretended to Religion: but was, as they feared, a Stranger to the Power of that which is good.

Nay then, said Mercy, I will look no more on him; for I purpose never to have a Clog to my Soul.

Prudence then replied, That there needed no great Matter of Discouragement to be given to him, her continuing so as she had begun to do for the Poor, would quickly cool his Courage.

So the next Time he comes, he finds her at her old Work, a making of Things for the Poor. Then said he, What, always at it? Yes, said she, either for myself or for others: And what canst thou earn a Day, quoth he? I do these Things, said she, That I may be rich in good Works, laying a good Foundation against the Time to come, that I may lay hold of Eternal Life, 1 Tim. 6. 17, 18, 19. Why, Prithee, What dost thou with them? said he. Cloath the Naked, said she. With that his Countenance fell. So he forbore to come at her again. And when he was asked the Reason why, he said, That Mercy was a pretty Lass, but troubled with ill Conditions.

Talk betwixt Mercy and Mr. Brisk.

He forsakes her, and why.

When he had left her, Prudence said, Did I not tell thee, that Mr. Brisk would soon forsake thee? Yea, he will raise up an ill Report of thee: For notwithstanding his Pretence to Religion, and his seeming Love to Mercy, yet Mercy and he are of Tempers so different, that I believe they will never come together.

Mercy in the Practice of Mercy rejected, while Mercy in the Name of Mercy is liked.

Mercy. I might have had Husbands before now, tho' I spoke not of it to any; but they were such as did not like my Conditions, tho' never did any of them find Fault with my Person. So they and I could not agree.

Prud. Mercy in our Days is little set by, any further than as to its Name: The Practice, which is set forth by thy Conditions, there are but few that can abide.

Mercy. Well, said Mercy, if nobody will have me, I will die a Maid, or my Conditions shall be to me as a Husband. For I cannot change my Nature; and to have one that lies cross to me in this, that I purpose never to admit of as long as I live. I had a Sister named Countess, married to one of these Churls; but he and she could never agree; but because my Sister was resolved to do as she had begun, that is, to Prud. And yet he was a Professor, I warrant you.

Mercy. Yes, such a one as he was, and of such as the World is now full; but I am for none of them all.

Matthew falls sick. Now Matthew, the eldest Son of Christiana, fell sick, and his Sickness was fore upon him, for he was much pained in his Bowels, so that he was with it, at Times, pulled as it were both Ends together. There dwelt also, not far from thence, one Mr. Skill, an ancient and well-approved Physician. So Christiana desired it, and they sent for him, and he came: When he was entered the Room, and had a little observed the Boy, he concluded that he was sick of the Gripes. Then he said to his Mother, What Diet has Matthew of late fed upon? Diet, said Christiana, nothing but what is wholesome. The Physician answered, this Boy has been tampering with something that lies in his Maw undigested, and that will not away without Means. And I tell you he must be purged, or else he will die.

Samuel puts his Mother in mind of the Fruit his Brother did eat. Samuel. Then said Samuel, Mother, what was that which my Brother did gather and eat, so soon as we were come from the Gate that is at the Head of this Way? You know that there was an Orchard on the Left-Hand, on the other Side of the Wall, and some of the Trees hung over the Wall, and my Brother did pluck and did eat.

Christiana. True, my Child, said Christiana, he did take thereof and did eat; naughty Boy as he was, I chid him, and yet he would eat thereof.

Skill. I know he had eaten something that was not wholesome Food, and that Food, to wit, that Fruit, is even the most hurtful of all. It is the Fruit of Beelzebub's Orchard. I do marvel that none did warn you of it; many have died thereof.

Chr. Then Christiana began to cry, and she said, O naughty Boy, and O careless Mother, What shall I do for my Son?

Skill. Come, do not be too much dejected; the Boy may do well again, but he must purge and vomit.

Chr. Pray, Sir, try the utmost of your Skill with him, whatever it costs.

Skill. Nay, I hope I shall be reasonable, Heb. 10. 1, 2, 3, 4. So he made him a Purge, but it was too weak; it was said it was made of the Blood of a Goat, the Ashes of a Heifer, and with some of the Juice of Hysop, &c. When Mr. Skill had seen that that Purge was too weak, he made him one to the Purpose: It was made Ex Carne, & Sanguine Christi, Joh. 6. 54, 55, 56, 57. Mark 9. 49. Heb. 9. 14. (you know Physicians give strange Medicines to their Patients) and it was made up into Pills, with a Promise or two, and a pro-portionable Quantity of Salt. Now he was to take them three at a Time fasting, in half a Quarter of a Pint of the Tears of Repentance. When this Potion was prepared, and brought to the Boy, he was loth to take it, tho' torn with the Gripes, as if he should be pulled in Pieces. Come, come, said the Physician, you must take it. It goes against my Stomach, said the Boy. I must have you take it, said his Mother, Zech. 12. 10. I shall vomit it up again, said the Boy. Pray, Sir, said Christiana to Mr. Skill, how does it taste? It has no ill Taste, said the Doctor; and with that she touched one of the Pills with the Tip of her Tongue. Oh, Matthew, said she, this Potion is sweeter than Honey. If thou lovest thy Mother, if thou lovest thy Brothers, if thou lovest Mercy, if thou lovest thy Life, take it. So with much ado, after a short Prayer for the Blessing of God upon it, he took it, and it wrought kindly with him. It caused him to purge, to sleep, and rest quietly; it put him into a fine Heat, and breathing Sweat, and rid him of his Gripes.

So in a little Time he got up, and walked about with a Staff, and would go from Room to Room, and talk with Prudence Piety and Charity, of his Distemper, and how he was healed.

So when the Boy was healed, Christiana asked Mr. Skill, saying, Sir, what will content you for your Pains and Care to me, and of my Child? And he said, you must pay the Master of the College of Physicians, Heb. 13. 11, 12, 13, 14, 15. according to Rules made in that Case and provided.

Chr. But, Sir, said she, what is this Pill good for else?

Skill. It is an universal Pill; it is good against all Diseases that Pilgrims are incident to; and when it is well prepared, will keep good Time out of Mind.

Chr. Pray, Sir, make me up twelve Boxes of them: For if I can get these, I will never take other Physick.

Skill. These Pills are good to prevent Diseases, as well as to cure when one is sick. Yea, I dare say it, and stand to it, That if a Man will but use this Physick as he should, it will make him live for ever, Joh. 6. 50. But good Christiana, thou must give these Pills no other Way, but as I have prescribed: For if you do, they will do no good. So he gave unto Christiana Physick for herself, and her Boys, and for Mercy, and bid Matthew take Heed how he eat any more Green Plums, and kiss'd them, and went his Way.

It was told you before, that Prudence bid the Boys, that if at any Time they would, they should ask her some Questions that might be profitable, and she would say something to them.

Matt. Then Matthew who had been sick, asked

The Boy loth to take the Physick.

The Mother tastes it, and persuades him.

This Pill an universal Remedy.

Potion prepared. The Latin I borrow.

*Of Phy-
sick.* asked her, why for the most Part Physick should be bitter to our Palates?

Prud. To shew how unwelcome the Word of God, and the Effects thereof, are to a carnal Heart.

Of the Effect of Physick. Matt. Why does Physick, if it does good, purge, and cause to vomit?

Prud. To shew that the Word, when it works effectually, cleanseth the Heart and Mind. For look what the one doth to the Body, the other doth to the Soul.

*Of Fire,
and of the Sun.* Matt. What should we learn by seeing the Flame of our Fire go upwards? And by seeing the Beams and sweet Influences of the Sun strike downwards?

Prud. By the going up of the Fire, we are taught to ascend to Heaven, by fervent and hot Desires. And by the Sun his sending his Heat, Beams, and sweet Influences downward, we are taught, That the Saviour of the World, tho' high, reacheth down with his Grace and Love to us below.

Of the Clouds. Matt. Where have the Clouds their Water?

Prud. Out of the Sea.

Matt. What may we learn from that?

Prud. That Ministers should fetch their Doctrine from God.

Matt. Why do they empty themselves upon the Earth?

Prud. To shew that Ministers should give out what they know of God to the World.

Of the Rainbow. Matt. Why is the Rainbow caused by the Sun?

Prud. To shew that the Covenant of God's Grace is confirmed to us in Christ.

Matt. Why do the Springs come from the Sea to us, through the Earth?

Prud. To shew, that the Grace of God comes to us through the Body of Christ.

Of the Springs. Matt. Why do some of the Springs rise out of the Top of high Hills?

Prud. To shew, That the Spirit of Grace shall spring up in some that are great and mighty, as well as in many that are poor and low.

Of the Candle. Matt. Why doth the Fire fasten upon the Candlewick?

Prud. To shew that unless Grace doth kindle upon the Heart, there will be no true Light of Life in us.

Matt. Why is the Wick, and Tallow, and all spent, to maintain the Light of the Candle?

Prud. To shew that Body and Soul, and all should be at the Service of, and spend themselves to maintain in good Condition, that Grace of God that is in us.

Of the Pelican. Matt. Why doth the Pelican pierce her own Breast with her Bill?

Prud. To nourish her young Ones with her Blood, and thereby to shew that Christ the Blessed so loveth his Young, his People, as to save them from Death by his Blood.

Matt. What may one learn by hearing Of the Cock. of the Cock crow?

Prud. Learn to remember Peter's Sin, and Peter's Repentance. The Cock's Crowing shews also, that Day is coming on; let then the Crowing of the Cock put thee in Mind of that last and terrible Day of Judgment.

Now about this Time their Month was out; wherefore they signified to those of the House, that it was convenient for them to up and be going. Then said Joseph to The Weak may call the Strong sometimes to Prayers. his Mother, it is convenient that you forget not to send to the House of Mr. Interpreter, to pray him to grant that Mr. Great-heart should be sent unto us, that he may be our Conductor the rest of our Way. Good Boy, said she, I had almost forgot. So she drew up a Petition, and prayed Mr.
Watchful the Porter, to send it by some fit Man, to her good Friend Mr. Interpreter; who when it was come, and he had seen the Contents of the Petition, said to the Messenger, Go tell them that I will send him.

When the Family where Christiana was, saw that they had a Purpose to go forward, They provide to be gone on their way. they called the whole House together, to give Thanks to their King for sending of them such profitable Guests as these. Which done, they said unto Christiana, And shall we not shew thee something, according as our Custom is to Pilgrims, on which thou may'st meditate, when thou art on the Way? So they took Christiana, her Children, and Mercy into the Closet, and shew'd them one of the Apples that Eve Eve's Apple. eat of, and that she also did give to her Husband; and that for the eating of which, they were both turned out of Paradise, and asked her what she thought that was?
Then Christiana said, It is Food or Poison, I know not which. So they opened the Matter to her, and she held up her Hands and wondered, Gen. 3. 6. Rom. 7. 24. A Sight of Sin is amazing.

Then they had her to a Place, and shewed her Jacob's Ladder. Now at that Jacob's Ladder. Time there were some Angels ascending upon it. So Christiana look'd and look'd to see the Angels go up, so did the rest of the Company. Then they were going into another Place, to shew them something else: But James said to his Mother, Pray bid them stay a little longer, for this is A Sight of Christ is taking. a curious Sight. So they turned again, and stood feeding their Eyes with this so pleasant a Prospect. After this they had them into a Place where did hang up a Golden Anchor, so they bid Christiana take Golden Anchor. it down; for, said they, you shall have it with you, Gen. 28. 12. for it is of absolute Necessity that you should, that you may lay hold of that within the Veil, and stand stedfast in case you should meet with turbulent Weather: So they were glad thereof, *John 1. 15. Heb. 6. 19. Gen. 28.
12.* Then they took them, and had them
to

to the Mount upon which Abraham our Father had offered up Isaac his Son, and shewed them the Altar, the Wood, the Fire, and the Knife, for they remain to be seen to this very Day. When they had seen it, they held up their Hands, and blest themselves, and said, Oh! What a Man for Love to his Master, and for Denial to himself was Abraham? After they had shewed them all these Things, Prudence took them into a Dining-Room, where stood a Pair of excellent Virginals, so she played upon them, and turned what she had shewed them into this excellent Song, saying, Prudence's Virginals.

*Eve's Apple we have shew'd you;
Of that be you aware:
You have seen Jacob's Ladder too,
Upon which Angels are.
An Anchor you received have,
But let not this suffice,
Until with Abra'm you have gave Your Best of Sacrifice.*

Now about this Time one knock'd at the Door: So the Porter open'd, and behold Mr. Great-heart was there; but when he was come in, what Joy was there! For it came now fresh again into their Minds, how but a while ago he had slain Old Grim Bloody-man, the Giant, and had delivered them from the Lions.

Mr. Great-heart comes again.

Then said Mr. Great-heart to Christiana, and to Mercy, My Lord has sent each of you a Bottle of Wine, and also some parched Corn, together with a Couple of Pomgranates: He also sent the Boys some Figs and Raisins, to refresh you in your Way.

He brings a Token from his Lord with him.

Then they addressed themselves to their Journey; and Prudence and Piety went along with them. When they came at the Gate, Christiana asked the Porter, if any of late went by. He said, No, only one some time since, who also told me, that of late there had been a great Robbery committed on the King's Highway as you go: But, faith he, the Thieves are taken, and will shortly be tried for their Lives. Then Christiana and Mercy were afraid; but Matthew said, Mother, Fear nothing, as long as Mr. Great-heart is to go with us, and to be our Conductor.

Robbery.

Then said Christiana to the Porter, Sir, I am much obliged to you for all the Kindnesses that you have shewed to me since I came hither; and also that you have been so Loving and Kind to my Children; I know not how to gratify your Kindness: Wherefore, pray, as a Token of my Respects to you, accept of this small Mite: So she put a Gold Angel in his Hand, and he made her a low Obeysance, and said, Let thy Garments be always white, and let thy Head want no Ointment. Let Mercy live and not die, and let not her Works be few. And to the Boys he said, Do you fly Youthful Lusts, and follow after Godliness with them that are Grave and Wise; so shall you put Gladness into your Mother's Heart, and obtain Praise of all that are Sober-minded: So they thanked the Porter, and departed.

Now I saw in my Dream, that they went forward until they were come to the Brow of the Hill, where Piety bethinking herself, cry'd out, Alas! I have forgot what I intended to bestow upon Christiana and her Companions; I will go back and fetch it; so she ran and fetched it. When she was gone, Christiana thought she heard in a Grove a little way off on the Right Hand, a most curious melodious Note, with Words much like these:

*Thro' all my whole Life thy Favour is So frankly shew'd to me,
That in thy House for evermore
My Dwelling-place shall be.*

And listening still, she thought she heard another Answer, saying,

*For why? The Lord our God is Good;
His Mercy is for ever sure:
His Truth at all Times firmly stood,
And shall from Age to Age endure.*

So Christiana asked Prudence what it was that made those curious Notes, Song. 2. 11, 12. They are, said she, our Country Birds: They sing these Notes but seldom, except it be at the Spring, when the Flowers appear, and the Sun shines warm, and then you may hear them all the Day long. I often, said she, go to hear them; we also oft-times keep them tame in our House. They are very fine Company for us when we are Melancholy; also they make the Woods and Groves and Solitary Places, Places desirous to be in.

By this Time Piety was come again; so she said to Christiana, Look here, I have brought thee a Scheme of all those Things that thou hast seen at our House, upon which thou may'st look when thou findest thyself forgetful, and call those Things again to Remembrance for thy Edification and Comfort.

Now they began to go down the Hill into the Valley of Humiliation. It was a steep Hill, and the Way was slippery; but they were very careful, so they got down pretty well. When they were down in the Valley, Piety said to Christiana, this is the Place where your Husband met with the foul Fiend Apollyon, and where they had the great Fight that they had: I know you cannot but have heard thereof. But be of good Courage, as long as you have here Mr. Great-heart to be your Guide and Conductor, we hope you will fare the better. So when these two had committed the Pilgrims unto the Conduct of their Guide, Piety bestoweth something on them at Parting.

Guide, he went forward and they went after.

Mr. Great-heart at the Valley of Humiliation.

Part I. pag. 218.

Great-Heart. Then said Mr. Great-heart, We need not be so afraid of this Valley, for here is nothing to hurt us, unless we procure it ourselves. It is true, Christian did here meet with Apollyon, with whom he had also a fore Combat; but that Fray was the Fruit of those Slips that he got in his going down the Hill: For they that get Slips there, must look for Combats here. And hence it is, that this Valley has got so hard a Name. For the common People, when they hear that some frightful Thing has befallen such a One in such a Place, are of Opinion that that Place is haunted with some foul Fiend, or Evil Spirit; when, alas: it is for the Fruit of their Doing, that such Things do befall them there.

The Reason why Christian was so beset here.

This Valley of Humiliation is of itself as fruitful a Place, as any the Crow flies over; and I am persuaded, if we could hit upon it, we might find somewhere hereabout somewhat that might give us an Account why Christian was so hardly beset in this Place.

A Pillar with an Inscription on it.

Then James said to his Mother, Lo, yonder stands a Pillar, and it looks as if something was written thereon; let us go and see what it is. So they went and found there written, Let Christian's Slips, before he came hither, and the Burden that he met with in this Place, be a Warning to those that come after. Lo, said their Guide, Did I not tell you that there was something hereabouts that would give Intimation of the Reason why Christian was so hard beset in this Place: Then turning to Christiana, he said, No Disparagement to Christian more than to many others whose Hap and Lot it was. For it is easier going up than down this Hill, and that can be said but of few Hills in all these Parts of the World. But we will leave the good Man, he is at Rest, he also had a brave Victory over his Enemy: Let him grant that dwelleth above, that we fare no worse when we come to be try'd than he.

This Valley a brave Place.

But we will come again to this Valley of Humiliation. It is the best and most useful Piece of Ground in all these Parts. It is a fat Ground, and, as you see, consisteth much in Meadows; and if a Man was to come here in the Summer Time, as we do now, if he knew not any thing before thereof, and if he also delighted himself in the Sight of his Eyes, he might see that which would be delightful to him. Behold how green this Valley is, also how beautified with Lillies, Song 2: 1 Jam. 4. 6. 1 Pet. 5. 5. I have also known many labouring Men that have got good Estates in this Valley of Humiliation. (For God resisteth the Proud, but gives more Grace to the Humble); for indeed it is a very fruitful Soil, and doth bring forth by Handfuls. Some also have wished, that the next way to their Father's House were here, that they might be troubled no more with either Hills or Mountains to go over; but the Way is the Way, and there is an End.

Now as they were going along, and talking, they espied a Boy feeding his Father's Sheep. The Boy was in very mean Cloaths, but of a fresh and well-favour'd Countenance; and as he set by himself, he sung. Hark, said Mr. Great-heart, to what the Shepherd's Boy saith; so they hearken'd, and he said,

*He that is down, needs fear no Fall;
He that is low, no Pride:
He that is Humble, ever shall Have God to be his Guide.*

Phil. 4.
12, 13.

*I am content with what I have,
Little be it or much:
And, Lord, Contentment still I crave, Because thou savest such.*

*Fulness to such a Burden is,
That go on Pilgrimage:
Here little, and hereafter Bliss,
Is best from Age to Age.*

Heb. 13. 5.

Then said the Guide, Do you hear him? I will dare to say, this Boy lives a merrier Life, and wears more of the Herb call'd Heart's-Ease in his Bosom, than he that is clad in Silk and Velvet; but we will proceed in our Discourse.

In this Valley our Lord formerly had his Country House, he loved much to be here: He loved also to walk in these Meadows, and he found the Air was pleasant: Besides, here a Man shall be free from the Noise, and from the Hurryings of this Life: All States are full of Noise and Confusion, only the Valley of Humiliation is that empty and solitary Place. Here a Man shall not be let and hinder'd in his Contemplation, as in other Places he is apt to be. This is a Valley that no body walks in, but those that love a Pilgrim's Life. And tho' Christian had the hard Hap to meet with Apollyon, and to enter with him a brisk Encounter, yet I must tell you, that in former Times Men have met with Angels here, have found Pearls here, and have in this Place found the Words of Life. Hos. 12. 4, 5.

Did I say our Lord had here in former Days his Country-House, and that he loved here to walk? I will add, in this Place, and to the People that live and trace these Grounds, he has left a yearly Revenue to be faithfully paid them at certain Seasons for their Maintenance by the Way, and for their farther Encouragement to go on their Pilgrimage, Matt. 11. 19.

Samuel. Now as they went on, Samuel said to Mr. Great-heart: Sir, I perceive that in this Valley, my Father and Apollyon had their Battle; but whereabouts was the

the

the Fight, for I perceive this Valley is large?

Forgetful
Green.

Great-heart. Your Father had the Battle with Apollyon, at a Place yonder before us, in a narrow Passage, just beyond Forgetful Green, And indeed that Place is the most dangerous Place in all these Parts. For if at any time Pilgrims meet with any Brunt, it is when they forget what Favours they have received, and how unworthy they are of them: This is the place also where others have been hard put to it: But more of the Place when we are come to it; for I persuade myself, that to this Day there remains either some Sign of the Battle, or some Monument to testify that such a Battle there was fought.

Humility
a sweet
Grace.

Mercy. Then said Mercy, I think I am as well in this Valley as I have been any where else in all our Journey: The Place, methinks, suits with my Spirit. I love to be in such Places where there is no Rattling with Coaches, nor Rumbling with Wheels: Methinks here one may, without much Molestation, be thinking what he is, whence he came, what he has done, and to what the King has call'd him: Here one may think and break at Heart, and melt in one's Spirit, until one's Eyes become as the Fish-Pools of Heshbon, Song 7. 5. Psal. 84. 5, 6, 7. Hof. 2. 15. They that go rightly through this Valley of Bacha, make it a Well, the Rain that God sends down from Heaven upon them that are here also, filleth the Pools. This Valley is that from whence also the King will give to them Vineyards, and they that go through it, shall sing, as Christian did, for all he met with Apollyon.

An Experience of
it.

Great-heart. It is true, said their Guide, I have gone through this Valley many a Time, and never was better than when here.

I have also been a Conductor to several Pilgrims, and they have confessed the same: To this Man will I look, saith the King, even to him that is Poor, and of a Contrite Spirit, and that trembles at my Word.

Signs of the Battle remain.

Now they were come to the Place where the afore-mention'd Battle was fought. Then said the Guide to Christiana, her Children and Mercy, This is the Place, on this Ground Christian stood, and up there came Apollyon against him: And look, did not I tell you, Here is some of your Husband's Blood upon these Stones to this Day: Behold, also, how here and there are yet to be seen upon the Place, some of the Shivers of Apollyon's broken Darts: See also how they did beat the Ground with their Feet as they fought, to make good their Places against each other; how also with their By-blows, they did split the very Stones in Pieces, verily Christian did here play the Man, and shewed himself as stout as Hercules could, had he been there, even he himself. When Apollyon was beat, he made his Retreat to the next Valley, that is call'd,

The Valley of the Shadow of Death, unto which we shall come anon.

Lo, yonder also stands a Monument, on which is engraven this Battle, and Christian's Victory, to his Fame, throughout all Ages: So, because it stood just on the Way-side before them, they stept to it, and read the Writing, which Word for Word was this:

*Hard-by here was a Battle fought,
Most strange, and yet most true;
Christian and Apollyon fought
Each other to subdue.
The Man so bravely play'd the Man,
He made the Fiend to fly:
Of which a Monument I stand,
The same to testify.*

When they had passed by this Place, they came upon the Borders of the Shadow of Death, and this Valley was longer than the other, a Place also most strangely haunted with evil Things, as many are able to testify: But these Women and Children went the better through it, because they had Day-light, and because Mr. Great-Heart was their Conductor.

When they were enter'd upon this Valley, they thought that they heard a Groaning, as of dead Men; a very great Groaning. They thought also they did hear Words of Lamentation, spoken as of some in extreme Torment. These Things made the Boys to quake, the Women also looked pale and wan; but their Guide bid them be of good Comfort.

Groanings heard.

So they went on a little farther, and they thought that they felt the Ground begin to shake under them, as if some hollow Place was there; they heard also a Kind of Hissing, as of Serpents, but nothing as yet appear'd. Then said the Boys, Are we not yet at the End of this doleful Place? But the Guide also bid them be of good Courage, and look well to their Feet, lest haply, said he, you be taken in some Snare.

The ground
shakes.

Now James began to be sick, but I think the Cause thereof was Fear; so his Mother gave him some of that Glafs of Spirits that she had given her at the Interpreter's House, and three of the Pills that Mr. Skill had prepared, and the Boy began to revive. Thus they went on, till they came to about the Middle of the Valley; and then Christiana said, Methinks, I see something yonder upon the Road before us, a Thing of such a Shape as I have not seen. Then said Joseph, Mother, What is it? An ugly Thing, Child; an ugly Thing said she. But Mother, What is it like? said he. 'Tis like I cannot tell what, said she. And now it is but a little Way off: Then said she, it is nigh.

A Fiend

The Pil-

Well, said Mr. Great-Heart, Let them that are most afraid, keep close to me: So the the Fiend came on, and the Conductor met it; but when it was just come to him, it vanished to all their Sights: Then remembered they what had been said some Time ago; Resist the Devil, and he will flee from you.

Great-Heart encourages them. A Lion. They went therefore on, as being a little refresh'd; but they had not gone far, before Mercy, looking behind her, saw, as she thought, something almost like a Lion, and it came a great padding Pace after; and it had a hollow Voice of roaring; and at every Roar that it gave, it made the Valley eccho, and all their Hearts to ake, save the Heart of him that was their Guide. So it came up, and Mr. Great-Heart went behind, and put the Pilgrims all before him. The Lion also came on apace, and Mr. Great-Heart addressed himself to give him Battle, 1 Pet. 5. 8. But when he saw that it was determined, that Resistance should be made, he also drew back, and came no farther.

A Pit and Darknefs. Then they went on again, and their Conductor did go before them, till they came to a Place where was cast up a Pit, the whole Breadth of the Way, and before they could be prepared to go over that, a great Mist and a Darknefs fell upon them, so that they could not see. Then said the Pilgrims, alas! Now what shall we do? But their Guide made Answer, Fear not, stand still, and see what an End will be put to this also; so they staid there, because their Path was marr'd. They then also thought that they did hear more apparently the Noise and Rushing of the Enemies; the Fire also, and Smoak of the Pit, was much easier to be discerned. Then said Christiana to Mercy, Now I see what my poor Husband went through; I have heard much of this Place, but I never was here afore now; poor Man, he went here all alone in the Night; he had Night almost quite through the Way; also these Fiends were busy about him, as if they would have torn him in Pieces. Many have spoke of it, but none can tell what the Valley of The Shadow of Death should mean, until they come in themselves. The Heart knows its own Bitterness, a Stranger intermeddleth not with its Joy. To be here, is a fearful Thing.

Great-Heart's Reply. Great-heart. This is like doing Business in great Waters, or like going down into the Deep; this is like being in the Heart of the Sea, and like going down to the Bottoms of the Mountains: Now it seems as if the Earth, with its Bars, were about us for ever. But let them that walk in Darknefs, and have no Light, trust in the Name of the Lord, and stay upon their God. For my Part, as I have told you already, I have gone often through this Valley, and have been much harder put to it than now I am; and yet you see I am alive. I would not boast, for that I am not my own Saviour. But I trust we shall have a good Deliverance. Come, pray for Light to him that can lighten our Darknefs, and that can rebuke, not only these, but all the Satan's in Hell.

They pray. So they cried and prayed, and God sent Light and Deliverance, for there was now no Lett in their Way; no not there, where but now they were stopt with a Pit. Yet they were not got through the Valley; so they went on still, and behold great Stinks and loathsome Smells, to the great Annoyance of them. Then said Mercy to Christiana, There is not such pleasant being here as at the Gate, or at the Interpreter's, or at the House where we lay last.

One of the Boy's Reply. O but, said one of the Boys, it is not so bad to go thro' here, as it is to abide here always; and for ought I know, one Reason why we must go this Way to the House prepared for us, is, That our Home might be made the sweeter to us.

Well said, Samuel, quoth the Guide, thou hast now spoke like a Man. Why, if ever I get out here again, said the Boy, I think I shall prize Light and good Way, better than ever I did in all my Life. Then said the Guide, We shall be out by and by.

So on they went, and Joseph said, Cannot we see to the End of this Valley as yet? Then said the Guide, Look to your Feet, for we shall presently be among Snares: So they looked to their Feet, and went on; but they were troubled much with the Snares. Now when they were come among the Snares, they espied a Man cast into the Ditch on the Left Hand, with his Flesh all rent and torn. Then said the Guide, That is one Heedless, that was going this Way; he has lain there a great while: There was one Takeheed with him, when he was taken and slain; but he escaped their Hands. You cannot imagine how many are killed hereabouts, and yet Men are so foolishly venturous, as to set out lightly on Pilgrimage, and to come without a Guide. Poor Christian! it was a Wonder that he here escaped; but he was beloved of his God: Also he had a good Heart of his own, or else he could never have done it. Now they drew towards the End of the Way, and just there where Christian had seen the Cave when he went by, out thence came forth Maul a Giant. This Maul did use to spoil young Pilgrims with Sophistry, and he called Great-heart by his Name, and said unto him, How many Times have you been forbidden to do these Things? Then said Mr. Great-heart, What Things? What Things? quoth the Giant; You know what Things; but I will put an End to your Trade. But, pray, said Mr. Great-heart, before we fall to it, let us understand wherefore we must fight. (Now the Women and Children stood trembling, and knew not what to do.) Quoth Part I. pag. 222. Maul a Giant.

He quarrels with Great-Heart.

Quoth the Giant, you rob the Country, and rob it with the worst of Thieves. These are but Generals, said Mr. Great-heart; come to Particulars, Man.

God's Ministers counted as Kidnappers. Then said the Giant, Thou practisest the Craft of a Kidnapper, thou gatherest up Women and Children, and carriest them into a strange Country, to the weakening of my Master's Kingdom. But now Great-heart reply'd, I am a Servant of the God of Heaven; my Business is to persuade Sinners to Repentance: I am commanded to do my Endeavour to turn Men, Women, and Children, from Darkness to Light, and from the Power of Satan to God; and if this be indeed the Ground of thy Quarrel, let us fall to it as soon as thou wilt.

The Giant and Mr. Great-heart must fight. Then the Giant came up, and Mr. Great-heart went to meet him; and as he went, he drew his Sword, but the Giant had a Club. So without more ado they fell to it, and at the first Blow the Giant struck Mr. Great-heart down upon one of his Knees; with that the Women and Children cried: So Mr. Great-heart recovering himself laid about him in full lusty manner, and gave the Giant a Wound in his Arm; thus he fought for the Space of an Hour, to that Height of Heat, that the Breath came out of the Giant's Nostrils, as the Heat doth out of a boiling Cauldron.

Weak Folks Prayers at some Times help strong Folks Cries. Then they sat down to rest them, but Mr. Great-heart betook himself to Prayer; also the Women and Children did nothing but sigh and cry all the time that the Battle did last.

When they had rested them, and taken Breath, they both fell to it again, and Mr. Great-heart with a full Blow fetch'd the Giant down to the Ground: Nay, hold, let me recover, quoth he. So Mr. Great-heart let him fairly get up: So to it they went again, and the Giant missed but little of breaking Mr. Great-heart's Skull with his Club.

The Giant struck down. Mr. Great-heart seeing that, runs to him in the full Heat of his Spirit, and pierced him under the fifth Rib; with that the Giant began to faint, and could hold up his Club no longer. Then Mr. Great-heart seconded his Blow, and smit the Head of the Giant from his Shoulders. Then the Women and Children rejoiced, and Mr. Great-heart also praised God, for the Deliverance he had wrought.

He is slain, and his Head dispeised of. When this was done, they among themselves erected a Pillar, and fastened the Giant's Head thereon, and wrote under it in Letters that Passengers might read:

He that did wear this Head, was one
That Pilgrims did misuse;
He stop't their Way, he spared none,
But did them all abuse:

Until that I Great-heart arose,
The Pilgrims Guide to be;
Until that I did him oppose,
That was their Enemy.

Now I saw that they went to the Ascent that was a little way off cast up to be a Prospect for Pilgrims, (that was the Place from whence Christian had the first Sight of Faithful his Brother.) Wherefore here they sat down, and rested, they also here did eat and drink, and make merry; for that they had gotten Deliverance from this so dangerous an Enemy. As they sat thus and did eat, Christiana ask'd the Guide, If he had caught no Hurt in the Battle? Then said Mr. Great-heart, No, save a little on my Flesh; yet that also shall be so far from being to my Detriment, that it is at present a Proof of my Love to my Master and you, and shall be a Means, by Grace, to increase my Reward at last.

But was you not afraid, good Sir, when you saw him come with his Club?

It is my Duty, said he, to mistrust mine own Ability, that I may have Reliance on him that is Stronger than all. But what did you think, when he fetch'd you down to the Ground at the first Blow? Why, I thought, quoth he, that so my Master himself was served, and yet he it was that conquered at last.

Matt. When you all have thought what you please, I think God has been wonderful good unto us, both in bringing us out of this Valley, and in delivering us out of the Hand of this Enemy; for my part, I see no Reason why we should distrust our God any more, since he has Now, and in Such a Place as this, given us such Testimony of his Love as this.

Then they got up, and went forward: Now a little before them stood an Oak, and under it when they came to it, they found an old Pilgrim fast asleep, they knew that he was a Pilgrim by his Cloaths, and his Staff, and his Girdle.

So the Guide, Mr. Great-heart, awaked him, and the old Gentleman, as he lift up his Eyes, cried out, What's the Matter? Who are you? And what is your Business here?

Great-heart. Come, Man, be not so hot, here is none but Friends: Yet the old Man gets up, and stands upon his Guard, and will know of them what they were. Then said the Guide, my Name is Great-heart, I am the Guide of these Pilgrims, which are going to the Celestial Country.

Honest. Then said Mr. Honest, I cry you Mercy; I fear'd that you had been of the Company of those that some time ago did rob Little-Faith of his Money: but now I look better about me, I perceive you are honestest People.

Great-heart. Why what would, or could you you have done, or have help'd yourself, if we indeed had been of that Company?

Hon. Done! Why, I would have fought as long as Breath had been in me; and had I so done, I am sure you could never have given me the worst on't; for a Christian can never be overcome, unless he should yield of himself.

Great-heart. Well said, Father Honest, quoth the Guide; for by this I know thou art a Cock of the right Kind, for thou hast said the Truth.

Hon. And by this also I know that thou knowest what true Pilgrimage is; for all others do think, that we are the soonest overcome of any.

Great-heart. Well, now we are happily met, pray let me crave your Name, and the Name of the Place you came from?

Hon. My Name I cannot, but I came from the Town of Stupidity; it lieth about four Degrees beyond the City of Destruction.

Great-heart. Oh! Are you that Country-man? Then I deem I have half a guess of you, your Name is old Honesty, is it not? So the old Gentleman blush'd, and said, Not Honesty in the Abstract, but Honest is my Name, and I wish that my Nature may agree to what I am called.

Hon. But, Sir, said the old Gentleman, how could you guess that I am such a Man, since I came from such a Place?

Great-heart. I had heard of you before, by my Master; for he knows all Things that are done on the Earth: But I have often wondered that any should come from your Place, for your Town is worse than is the City of Destruction itself.

Hon. Yes, we lie more off from the Sun, and so are more cold and senseless; but was a Man in a Mountain of Ice, yet if the Son of Righteousness will arise upon him, his frozen Heart shall feel a Thaw; and thus it has been with me.

Great-heart. I believe it, Father Honesty, I believe it; for I know the Thing is true.

Then the Old Gentleman saluted all the Pilgrims with a Holy Kiss of Charity, and asked them of their Names, and how they had fared since they set out on their Pilgrimage.

Chr. Then said Christiana, My Name I suppose you have heard of; good Christian was my Husband, and these Four were his Children. But can you think how the Old Gentleman was taken, when she told him who she was! He skipped, he smiled, and blessed them with a thousand good Wishes, saying:

Hon. I have heard much of your Husband, and of his Travels and Wars, which he underwent in his Days. Be it spoken to your Comfort, the Name of your Husband rings all over these Parts of the World; his Faith, his Courage, his Enduring, and his Sincerity under all, has made his Name Famous. Then he turned to the Boys, and asked them of their Names, which they told him: And then said he unto them, Matthew, be thou like Matthew the Publican, not in Vice but in Verue. Samuel, saith he, be thou like Samuel the Prophet, a Man of Faith and Prayer. Joseph, saith he, be thou like Joseph in Potiphar's House, Chaste, and one that flies from Temptation. And James, be thou like James the Just, and like James the Brother of our Lord. Then they told him of Mercy, and how she had left her Town and her Kindred to come along with Christiana, and with her Sons. At that the old Honest Man said, Mercy is thy Name: By Mercy shalt thou be sustain'd, and carried through all those Difficulties that shall assault thee in thy Way, till thou shalt come thither, where thou shalt look the Fountain of Mercy in the Face with Comfort.

All this while the Guide, Mr. Great-heart, was very well pleased, and smiled upon his Companion.

Now, as they walked together, the Guide asked the old Gentleman, If he did not know one Mr. Fearing, that came on Pilgrimage out of his Parts?

Hon. Yes, very well, said he? He was a Man that had the Root of the Matter in him, but he was one of the most troublesome Pilgrims that I ever met with in all my Days.

Great-heart. I perceive you knew him, for you have given a very right Character of him.

Hon. Knew him! I was a great Companion of his; I was with him most an end; when he first began to think of what would come upon us hereafter, I was with him.

Great-heart. I was his Guide from my Master's House to the Gate of the Celestial City.

Hon. Then you knew him to be a troublesome one.

Great-heart. I did so; but I could very well bear it; for Men of my Calling are oftentimes intrusted with the Conduct of such as he was.

Hon. Well then, pray let us hear a little of him, and how he managed himself under your Conduct.

Great-heart. Why, he was always afraid that he should come short whither he had a Desire to go. Every thing frightened him that he heard any body speak of, that had but the least Appearance of Opposition in it.

I hear that he lay roaring at the Slough of Despond, for above a Month together; nor durst he, for all he saw several go over before him, venture, tho' they many of them offered to lend him their Hands. He would not go back neither. The Celestial City, he said he should die if he came not to it, and yet was ejected at every Difficulty, and stumbled at every Straw that any body cast in his Way. Well, after he had lain at the Slough of Despond a great while, as I have told you, one Sun-shine Morning, I don't know how, he ventured, and so got over: But when he was over, he would scarce believe it. He had, I think, a Slough of Despond in his Mind, a Slough that he carry'd every where with him, or else he could never have been as he was. So he came up to the Gate, you know what I mean, that stands at the Head of this Way, and there also he stood a good While before he would venture to knock. When the Gate was opened, he would give back and give Place to others, and say, that he was not worthy: For all he got before some to the Gate, yet many of them went in before him. There the poor Man would stand shaking and shrinking; I dare say, it would have pitied one's Heart to have seen him: Nor would he go back again. At last he took the Hammer that hang'd at the Gate in his Hand, and gave a small Rap or two; then one opened to him, but he shrunk back as before. He that open'd, stept out after him, and said, Thou trembling One, what wantest thou? With that he fell down to the Ground. He that spoke to him wonder'd to see him so faint. He said to him, Peace to thee, up, for I have set open the Door to thee, come in, for thou art blest. With that he got up, and went in trembling; and when that he was in, he was ashamed to shew his Face. Well, after he had been entertained there a while, as you know how the Manner is, he was bid go on his Way, and also told the Way he should take. So he came till he came to our House, but as he behaved himself at the Gate, so he did at my Master the Interpreter's Door. He lay thereabouts in the Cold a good while, before he would adventure to call, yet he would not go back. And the Nights were long and cold then. Nay, he had a Note of Necessity in his Bosom to my Master to receive him, and grant him the Comfort of his House, and also to allow him a stout and valiant Conductor, because he was himself so Chicken-hearted a Man; and yet for all that, he was afraid to call at the Door. So he lay up and down thereabouts, till, poor Man, he was almost starv'd; yea, so great was his Dejection, that tho' he saw several others for knocking got in, yet he was afraid to venture. At last I think, I looked out of the Window, and perceiving a Man to be up and down about the Door, I went out to him, and asked what he was; but poor Man the Water stood in his Eyes: So I perceived what he wanted. I went therefore in, and told it in the House, and we shewed the Things to our Lord: So he sent me out again, to entreat him to come in; but I dare say,

His Behaviour at the Gate.

His Behaviour at the Interpreter's Door.

I had hard Work to do it. At last he came in, and I will say that for my Lord, he carry'd it wonderful loving to him. There were but a few good Bits at the Table, but some of it was laid upon his Trencher. Then he presented the Note, and my Lord looked thereon, and said, his Desire should be granted. So when he had been there a good While, he seemed to get some Heart, and to be a little more comforted. For my Master, you must know, is one of very tender Bowels, especially to them that are afraid; wherefore he carried it so towards him, as might tend most to his Encouragement. Well, when he had a Sight of the Things of the Place, and was ready to take his Journey to go to the City, my Lord, as he did to Christian before, gave him a Bottle of Spirits, and some comfortable Things to eat. Thus we set forward, and I went before him, but the Man was but of few Words, only he would sigh aloud.

How he was entertained there.

He is a little encouraged at the Interpreter's House.

When we were come to where the three Fellows were hanged, he said, That he doubted that that would be his end also. Only he seemed glad when he saw the Cross and the Sepulchre. There I confess he desired to stay a little to look; and he seemed for a while after to be a little comforted. When we came at the Hill Difficulty he made no Stick at that, nor did he much fear the Lions: For you must know, That his Troubles were not about such Things as these, his Fear was about his Acceptance at last.

He was frightened at the Gibbet, comforted at the Cross.

I got him in at the House Beautiful, I think before he was willing; also when he was in, I brought him acquainted with the Damsels that were of the Place, but he was ashamed to make himself much known in Company; he desired much to be alone, yet he always loved good Talk, and often would get behind the Skreen to hear it: He also loved much to see Ancient Things, and to be pondering them in his Mind. He told me afterward, That he loved to be in those two Houses from which he came last, to wit, at the Gate, and that of the Interpreter, but that he durst not be so bold as to ask.

Dumps at the House Beautiful.

When we went also from the House Beautiful, down the Hill, into the Valley of Humiliation, he went down as well as ever I saw a Man in my Life, for he cared not how mean he was, so he might be happy at last. Yea, I think there was a kind of Sympathy betwixt that Valley and him: For I never saw him better in all his Pilgrimage, than he was in that Valley.

He went down into, and was very pleasant in the Valley of Humiliation.

Here he would lie down, embrace the Ground, and kiss the very Flowers that grew in this Valley, Lam. 3. 27, 28, 29. He would now be up every Morning by Break of Day, tracing and walking to and fro in the Valley.

But when he was come to the Entrance of

of the Valley of the Shadow of Death, I thought I should have lost my Man; not for that he had any Inclination to go back, that he always abhorred, but he was ready to die for Fear. O, the Hobgoblins will have me, the Hobgoblins will have me, cried he; and I could not beat him out on't. He made such a Noise, and such an Out-cry here, that had they but heard him, 'twas enough to encourage them to come and fall upon us.

But this I took very great Notice of, That this Valley was as quiet when we went through it, as ever I knew it before or since. I suppose those Enemies here had now a special Check from our Lord, and a Command not to meddle until Mr. Fearing was passed over it.

His Behaviour at Vanity-Fair.

It would be too tedious to tell you of all; we will therefore only mention a Passage or two more. When he was come to Vanity-Fair, I thought he would have fought with all the Men in the Fair; I feared there we should both have been knocked on the Head, so hot was he against their Fooleries: upon the enchanted Ground he was also very wakeful. But when he was come at the River, where was no Bridge, there again he was in a heavy Case: Now, now, he said, he should be drowned for ever, and so never see that Face with Comfort, that he had come so many Miles to behold.

His Boldness at last

And here also I took Notice of what was very remarkable; The Water of that River was lower at this Time, than ever I saw it in all my Life; so he went over at last, not much above wet-shod. When he was going up to the Gate, Mr. Great-heart began to take his Leave of him, and so with him a good Reception above, so he said, I shall, I shall. Then parted we asunder, and I saw him no more.

Honest. Then it seems he was well at last.

Great-heart. Yes, yes, I never had doubt about him, he was a Man of a choice Spirit, only he was always kept very low, and that made his Life so burdensome to himself, and so very troublesome to others. Psal. 83. Rom. 14. 21. 1 Cor. 8. 13. He was above many, tender of Sin; he was so afraid of doing Injuries to others, that he often would deny himself of that which was lawful, because he would not offend.

Hon. But what should be the Reason that such a good Man should be all his Days so much in the Dark?

Reason good Men are so in the dark. Matt. 11. 15, 17, 18.

Great-Heart. There are two Sorts of Reasons for it; one is, The wise God will have it so, some must Pipe, and some must Weep: Now Mr. Fearing was one that play'd upon the Bass. He and his Fellows found the Sackbut, whose Notes are more doleful than the Notes of other Musick are: Though indeed some say, The Bass is the Ground of Musick. And for my Part, I care not at all for that Profession, that begins not in Heaviness of Mind. The first String that the Musician usually touches, is the Bass, when he intends to put all in Tune; God also plays upon this String first, when he sets the Soul in Tune for himself. Only there was the Imperfection of Mr. Fearing, he could play upon no other Musick but this, till towards his latter End.

I make bold to talk thus metaphorically, for the Ripening of the Wits of Young Readers, and because in the Book of the Revelations, the Saved are compared to a Company of Musicians that play upon their Trumpets and Harps, and sing their Songs before the Throne, Rev. 8. Chap. 14. 2, 3.

Honest. He was a very zealous Man, as one may see by what Relation you have given of him; Difficulties, Lions, or Vanity-Fair, he feared not at all; it was only Sin, Death, and Hell, that was to him a Terror; because he had some Doubts about his Interest in that Celestial Country.

Great-heart. You say right: Those were the Things that were his Troubles, and they as you have well observed, arose from the Weakness of his Mind thereabout, not from Weakness of Spirit as to the practical Part of a Pilgrim's Life. I dare believe, that as the Proverb is, He could have lit a Firebrand, had it stood in his Way. But those Things with which he was oppress'd, no Man ever yet could shake off with Ease.

Chr. Then said Christiana, This Relation of Mr. Fearing has done me good: I thought no Body had been like me: but I see there was some Semblance 'twixt this good Man and I, only we differ in two Things. His Troubles were so great, that they brake out, but mine I kept within. His also lay so hard upon him, they made him that he could not knock at the Houses provided for Entertainment; but my Troubles were always such, as made me knock the louder.

Mercy. If I might also speak my Mind, I must say, that something of him has also dwelt in me. For I have ever been more afraid of the Lake, and the Loss of a Place in Paradise, than I have been at the Loss of other Things. O, thought I, may I have the Happiness to have a Habitation there, 'tis enough, though I part with all the World to win it.

Matt. Then said Matthew, Fear was one Thing that made me think that I was far from having that within me that accompanies Salvation; but if it was so, with such a good Man as he, why may it not also go well with me?

James. No Fears, no Grace, said James. Though there is not always Grace where there is the Fear of Hell, yet to be sure there is no Grace where there is no Fear of God.

Great-heart. Well said, James, thou hast hit hit the Mark; for the Fear of God is the Beginning of Wisdom; and to be sure they that want the Beginning, have neither Middle nor End. But we will here conclude our Discourse of Mr. Fearing, after we have sent after him his Farewell.

Their Farewell
about him.

*Whilst, Master Fearing, thou didst fear
Thy God, and wast afraid
Of doing any Thing, while here,
That would have thee betray'd.
And didst thou fear the Lake and Pit?
Would others do so to!
For, as for them that want thy Wit,
They do themselves undo.*

Of Mr.
Self-will.

Now I saw, That they all went on in their Talk. For after Mr. Great-heart had made an End with Mr. Fearing, Mr. Honest began to tell them of another, but his Name was Mr. Self-will. He pretended himself to be a Pilgrim, said Mr. Honest; but I persuade myself, he never came in at the Gate that stands at the Head of the Way.

Great-heart. Had you ever any Talk with him about it?

Old Honest had walked with him.

Hon. Yes, more than once or twice; but he would always be like himself, Self-willed. He neither cared for Man, nor Argument, nor Example; what his Mind prompted him to, that he would do, and nothing else could he be got to.

Great-heart. Pray what Principles did he hold? For I suppose you can tell.

Self-will's Opinion.

Hon. He held, That a Man might follow the Vices as well as the Vertues of the Pilgrims; and that if he did both, he should be certainly saved.

Great-heart. How! If he had said, it is possible for the best to be guilty of the Vices, as well as partake of the Vertues of Pilgrims, he could not much have been blamed. For indeed we are exempted from no Vice absolutely, but on Condition that we watch and strive. But this I perceive is not the Thing: But if I understand you right, your Meaning is, That he was of that Opinion, That it was allowable so to be.

Hon. Ay, ay, so I mean, and so he believed and practised.

Great-heart. But what Grounds had he for his so saying?

Hon. Why, he said he had the Scripture for his Warrant.

Great-heart. Prithee Mr. Honest, present us with a few Particulars.

Honest. So I will. He said, To have to do with other Mens Wives, had been practised by David, God's Beloved, and therefore he could do it. He said to have more Women than one, was a Thing that Solomon practised, and therefore he could do it. He said, that Sarah and the godly Midwives of Egypt lyed, and so did Rahab, and therefore he could do it. He said, That the Disciples went at the Bidding of their Master, and took away the Owner's Ass, and therefore he could do so to. He said, That Jacob got the Inheritance of his Father, in a Way of Guile and Dissimulation, and therefore he could do so too.

Great-heart. High Base! indeed. And are you sure he was of this Opinion?

Hon. I have heard him plead for it, bring Scripture for it, bring Arguments for it, &c.

Great-heart. An Opinion that is not fit to be with any Allowance in the World.

Hon. You must understand me rightly: He did not say that any Man might do this; but, that those that had the Vertues of those that did such Things, might also do the same.

Great-heart. But what more false than such a Conclusion? For this is as much as to say, That because good Men heretofore have sinned of Infirmary, therefore he had an Allowance to do it of a presumptuous Mind: Or if because a Child, by the Blast of the Wind, or for that it stumbled at a Stone, fell down and defiled itself in Mire, therefore he might wilfully lie down and wallow like a Boar therein. Who could have thought that any one could so far have been blinded by the Power of Lust? But what is written must be true: They stumble at the Word, being disobedient, whereunto also they were appointed, 1 Peter 2. 8.

His supposing that such may have the godly Mens Vertues, who addict themselves to their Vices, is also a Delusion as strong as the other. It is just as if the Dog should say, I have, or may have the Qualities of the Child, because I lick up its stinking Excrements. To eat up the Sin of God's People, Hos. 4. 8. is no Sign of one that is possessed with their Vertues. Nor can I believe, that one that is of this Opinion, can at present have Faith or Love in him. But I know you have made some strong Objections against him, Prithee what can he say for himself?

Honest. Why, he says, To do this by Way of Opinion, seems abundant more honest than to do it, and yet hold contrary to it in Opinion.

Great-heart. A very wicked Answer; for though to let loose the Bridle to Lusts, while our Opinions are against such Things, is bad; yet, to sin, and plead a Toleration so to do, is worse; the one stumbles Beholders accidentally, the other pleads them into the Snare.

Honest. There are many of this Man's Mind, that have not this Man's Mouth, and that makes going on Pilgrimage of so little Esteem as it is.

Great-heart. You have said the Truth, and it is to be lamented: But he that feareth the King of Paradise, shall come out of them all.

Chr.

Chri. There are strange Opinions in the World. I know one that said, It was Time enough to repent when they came to die.

Great-heart. Such are not over wise: That Man would have been loth, might he have had a Week to run twenty Miles in his Life, to have deferred that Journey to the last Hour of that Week.

Honest. You say right, and yet the Generality of them that count themselves Pilgrims, do indeed do thus. I am, as you see, an old Man, and have been a Traveler in this Road many a Day; and I have taken Notice of many Things.

I have seen some that have set out as if they would drive all the World afore them, who yet have in few Days died as they in the Wilderness, and so never got Sight of the Promised Land.

I have seen some that have promised nothing at first setting out to be Pilgrims, and that one would have thought could not have lived a Day, that have yet proved very good Pilgrims.

I have seen some who have run hastily forward, that again have, after a little Time, run as fast just back again.

I have seen some who have spoke very well of a Pilgrim's Life at first, that after a while have spoken as much against it.

I have heard some, when they first set out for Paradise, say positively, There is such a Place, who when they have been almost there, have come back again, and said there was none.

I have heard some vaunt what they would do in Case they should be opposed; that have even at a false Alarm fled Faith, the Pilgrim's Way, and all.

Fresh News of Trouble. Now as they were thus in their Way, there came one running to meet them, and said, Gentlemen, and you of the weaker Sort, if you love Life, shift for yourselves, for the Robbers are before you.

Great-heart. Then said Mr. Great-heart, they be the Three that set upon Little-Faith heretofore. Well, said he, we are ready for them; so they went on their way: Now they looked at every Turning when they should have met with the Villains: But whether they heard of Mr. Great-heart, or whether they had some other Game, they came not up to the Pilgrims.

Christiana Chr. Christiana then wished for an Inn for herself and her Children, because they were weary. Then said Mr. Honest, There is one a little before us, where a very honourable Disciple, one Gaius, dwells. So they all concluded to turn in thither, Rom. 16. 23. and the rather, because the old Gentleman gave him so good a Report. So when they came to the Door, they went in, not knocking, for Folks use not to knock at the Door of an Inn. Then they called for the Master of the House, and he came to them: So they asked if they might lie there that Night?

Gaius. Yes, Gentlemen, if you be true Men, for my House is for none but Pilgrims. Then was Christiana, Mercy, and the Boys, the more glad, for that the Inn-keeper was a Lover of Pilgrims. So they called for Rooms, and he shew'd them one for Christiana and her Children, and Mercy, and another for Mr. Great-heart and the old Gentleman.

Great-heart. Then said Mr. Great-heart, good Gaius, What hast thou for Supper? for these Pilgrims are come far to Day, and are weary.

Gaius. It is late said Gaius, so we cannot conveniently go out to seek Food; but such as we have you shall be welcome to, if that will content you.

Great-heart. We will be content with what thou hast in the House; forasmuch as I have proved thee, thou art never destitute of that which is convenient.

Then he went down and spake to the Cook, whose Name was, Taste that which is good, to get ready Supper for so many Pilgrims. This done, he comes up again, saying, Come, my good Friends, you are welcome to me, and I am glad that I have a House to entertain you; and while Supper is making ready, if you please, let us entertain one another with some good Discourse: So they all said, Content.

Gaius. Then said Gaius, Whose Wife is this aged Matron? and whose Daughter is this young Damsel?

Great-heart. The Woman is the Wife of one Christian, a Pilgrim of former times; and these are his four Children. The Maid is one of her Acquaintance; one that she hath persuaded to come with her on Pilgrimage. The Boys take all after their Father, and covet to tread in his Steps: Yea, if they do but see any Place where the old Pilgrim hath lain, or any Print of his Foot, it ministreth Joy to their Hearts, and they covet to lie or tread in the same.

Gaius. Then said Gaius, Is this Christian's Wife, and are these Christian's Children? I knew your Husband's Father, yea, also his Father's Father. Many have been good of this Stock, their Ancestors dwelt first at Antioch. Christian's Progenitors (I suppose you have heard your Husband talk of them) were very worthy Men. They have, above any that I know, shewed themselves Men of great Vertue and Courage, for the Lord of the Pilgrims, his Ways, and them that loved him. I have heard of many of your Husband's Relations that have stood all Trials for the Sake of the Truth. Stephen, that was one of the first of the Family from whence your Husband sprang, was knocked on the Head with Stones, Acts 7. 59, 60. Chap. 12. 8. James, another of this Generation, was slain with the Edge of the Sword. To say nothing of Paul and Peter, Men anciently of the Family mily from whence your Husband came: There was Ignatius, who was cast to the Lions: Romanus, whose Flesh was cut to Pieces from his Bones; and Polycarp, that play'd the Man in the Fire. There was he that was hang'd up in a Basket in the Sun, for the Wasps to eat; and he who they put into a Sack, and cast him into the Sea to be drowned. It would be impossible, utterly to count up all that Family that have suffer'd Injuries and Death, for the Love of a Pilgrim's Life. Nor can I but be glad, to see that thy Husband has left behind him four such Boys as these. I hope they will bear up their Father's Name, and tread in their Father's Steps, and come to their Father's End.

Great-heart. Indeed, Sir, they are likely Lads; they seem to choose heartily their Father's Ways.

Advice to Christiana about her Boys. Gaius. That is it that I said, wherefore Christiana's Family is like still to spread abroad upon the Face of the Ground, and yet to be numerous upon the Face of the Earth: Wherefore, let Christiana look out some Damsels for her Sons, to whom they may be betrothed, &c. that the Name of their Father, and the House of his Progenitors may never be forgotten in the World.

Hon. It is pity his Family should fall and be extinct.

Gaius. Fall it cannot, but be diminished it may; but let Christiana take my Advice, and that's the Way to uphold it.

Mercy and Matthew. And Christiana, said this Inn-keeper, I am glad to see thee and thy Friend Mercy together here, a lovely Couple. And may I advise, Take Mercy into a nearer Relation to thee: If she will, let her be given to Matthew thy eldest Son: It is the Way to preserve a Posterity in the Earth. So this Match was concluded, and in Process of Time they were married: But more of that hereafter.

Why Women of old so much desired Children. Gaius also proceeded, and said, I will now speak on the Behalf of Women, to take away their Reproach. For as Death and the Curse came into the World by a Woman, Gen. 3. so also did Life and Health. God sent forth his Son, made of a Woman, Gal. 4. Yea, to shew how much those that came after did abhor the Act of the Mother, this Sex in the Old Testament coveted Children, if happily this or that Woman might be the Mother of the Saviour of the World. I will say again, That when the Saviour was come, Women rejoiced in him, before either Man or Angel, Luke 2. Chap. 8. 2, 3. Chap. 7. 37, 50. John 11. 2. Chap. 2. 3. Luke 23. 27. Mat. 27. 55, 56, 60. Luke 24. 22, 23. I read not, ever Man did give unto Christ so much as one Groat, but the Women followed him, and ministered to him of their Substance. It was a Woman that washed his Feet with Tears, and a Woman that anointed his Body to the Burial. They were Women that wept when he was going to the Cross; and Women that followed him from the Cross, and that sat by his Sepulchre when he was buried: They were Women that were first with him at his Resurrection-Morn; and Women that brought Tidings first to his Disciples, that he was risen from the Dead: Women therefore are highly favoured, and shew by these Things, that they are Sharers with us in the Grace of Life.

Now the Cook sent up to signify that Supper was almost ready, and sent one to lay the Cloth, and the Trenchers, and to set the Salt and Bread in Order.

Then said Matthew, The Sight of this Cloth, and of this Fore-runner of the Supper, begetteth in me a greater Appetite to my Food than I had before.

Gaius. So let all ministering Doctrines to thee in this Life, beget in thee a greater Desire to sit at the Supper of the great King in his Kingdom; for all Preaching, Books and Ordinances here, are but as the laying of the Trenchers, and as setting of Salt upon the Board, when compared with the Feast that our Lord will make for us when we come to his House.

So Supper came up, and first a Heave-Shoulder, and a Wave-Breast were set on the Table before them: to shew that they must begin the Meal with Prayer and Praise to God. The Heave-Shoulder David lifted his Heart up to God with, and with the Wave-Breast, where his Heart lay, with that he used to lean upon his Harp, when he play'd. These two Dishes were very fresh and good, and they all eat heartily thereof.

The next they brought up, was a Bottle of Wine, as red as Blood. So Gaius said to them, Drink freely, this is the true Juice of the Vine, that makes glad the Heart of God and Man. So they drank and were merry.

The next was a Dish of Milk well crumbled: But Gaius said, Let the Boys have that, that they may grow thereby, 1 Pet. 2. 1, 2.

Then they brought up in Course a Dish of Butter and Honey. Then said Gaius, Eat freely of this, for this is good to cheer up, and strengthen your Judgments and Understandings: This was our Lord's Dish when he was a Child: Butter and Honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the Evil, and choose the Good.

Then they brought him up a Dish of Apples, and they were very good tasted Fruit. Then said Matthew, may we eat Apples, since they were such, by and with which the Serpent beguiled our first Mother?

Then

Then said Gaius.

*Apples were they with which we were be-guil'd,
Yet Sin, not Apples, hath our Souls defil'd;
Apples forbid, if eat, corrupt the Blood:
To eat such, when commanded, does us good;
Drink of his Flaggons then, thou Church, his Dove,
And eat his Apples, who are sick of Love.*

Then said Matthew, I made the Scruple, because I a while since was sick with eating Fruit.

*Song 6. 11.
A Dish of Nuts.* Gaius. Forbidden Fruit will make you sick, but not what our Lord has tolerated.

While they were thus talking, they were presented with another Dish, and it was a Dish of Nuts. Then said some at the Table, Nuts spoil tender Teeth, especially the Teeth of the Children: Which when Gai-us heard, he said:

*Hard Texts are Nuts, (I will not call them Cheaters)
Whose Shells do keep their Kernels from the Eaters.
Open then the Shells, and you shall have the Meat,
They here are brought, for you to crack and eat.*

Then were they very merry, and sat at the Table a long Time, talking of many Things: Then said the old Gentleman,
My good Landlord, while ye are here cracking your Nuts, if you please, do you open this Riddle.

[A Riddle put forth by Old Honest]

*A Man there was, tho' some did count him mad,
The more he cast away, the more he had.*

Then they all gave good Heed, wondering what good Gaius would say; so he sat still a while, and then thus reply'd:

[Gaius opens it.]

He who thus bestows his Goods upon the Poor, Shall have as much again, and ten Times more.

*Joseph
wonders.* Then said Joseph, I dare say, Sir, I did not think you could have found it out.

Oh! said Gaius, I have been trained up in this Way a great while: Nothing teaches like Experience; I have learned of my Lord to be kind, and have found by Experience, that I have gained thereby. There is that scattereth, yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to Poverty There is that maketh himself rich, yet hath nothing; there is that maketh himself poor, yet hath great Riches.

Then Samuel whispered to Christiana his Mother, and said, Mother, This is a very good Man's House, let us stay here a good while, and let my Brother Matthew be married here to Mercy, before we go any farther.

The which Gaius the Host over-hearing, said, With a very good Will, my Child.

So they stayed here more than a month, and Mercy was given to Matthew to Wife. Matthew and Mercy are marry'd.

While they stayed here, Mercy, as her Custom was, would be making Coats and Garments to give to the poor, by which she brought a very good Report upon Pilgrims.

But to return again to our Story: After Supper, the Lads desired a Bed, for they The Boys go to bed,
were weary with Travelling: Then Gaius the rest sit up.
called to shew them their Chamber; but said Mercy, I will have them to bed. So she had them to bed, and they slept well, but the rest sat up all Night: For Gaius and they were such suitable Company, that they could not tell how to part. Then after much Talk of their Lord, themselves, and their Journey, Old Mr. Honest, he that put forth the Riddle to Gaius, began to Old Honest n ds.
nod. Then said Great-heart, What, Sir, you begin to be drowsy; Come, rub up, now here is a Riddle for you. Then said
Mr. Honest, Let us hear it.

Then said Mr. Great-heart,

[A Riddle]

*He that will kill, must first be overcome:
Who live abroad would, first must die at home.*

Ha! said Mr. Honest, it is a hard One,
hard to expound, and harder to practise.
But, come, Landlord, said he, I will if you please, leave my Part to you, do you expound it, and I will hear what you say.

No, said Gaius, it was put to you, and it is expected you should answer it.

Then said the old Gentleman,

[The Riddle opened.]

*He first by Grace must conquer'd be,
That Sin would mortify:
Who, that he lives, would convince me,
Unto himself must die.*

It is right, said Gaius, good Doctrine and Experience teach this. For first, until Grace displays itself, and overcomes the Soul with its Glory, it is altogether without Heart to oppose Sin; besides if Sin is Satan's Cords, by which the Soul lies bound, how should it make Resistance, before it is loosed from that Infirmary?

Secondly,

Secondly, Nor will any, that knows either Reason or Grace, believe that such a Man can be a living Monument of Grace, that is a Slave to his own Corruption.

A Question worth the minding.

And now it comes in my Mind, I will tell you a Story worth the hearing. There were two Men that went on Pilgrimage, the one began when he was Young, the other when he was Old: The Young Man had strong Corruptions to grapple with, the Old Man's were weak with the Decays of Nature: The Young Man trod his Steps as even as did the old One, and was every way as light as he: Who now, or which of them had their Graces shining clearest, since both seem'd to be alike?

A Comparison.

Hon. The Young Man's, doubtless. For that which heads it against the greatest Opposition, gives best Demonstration that it is strongest; especially when it also holdeth Peace with That which meets not with half so much; as to be sure old Age does not.

A Mistake.

Besides, I have observed, That old Men have blessed themselves with this Mistake; Namely, taking the Decays of Nature for a gracious Conquest over Corruptions, and so have been apt to beguile themselves. Indeed old Men that are Gracious, are best able to give Advice to them that are Young, because they have seen most of the Emptiness of Things: But yet, for an Old and a Young Man to set out both together, the Young one has the Advantage of the fairest Discovery of a Work of Grace within him, though the old Man's Corruptions are naturally the weakest.

Thus they sat talking till Break of Day. Now when the Family was up, Christiana bid her Son James that he should read a Chapter, so he read the 53d of Isaiah: When he had done, Mr. Honest asked why it was said, That the Saviour is said to come out of a dry Ground, and also that he had no Form or Comeliness in Him?

Another Question

Great-heart. Then said Mr. Great-heart; To the first I answer; Because the Church of the Jews, of which Christ came, had then almost lost the Sap, and Spirit of Religion. To the second I say, the Words are spoken in the Person of Unbelievers, who because they want the Eye that can see into our Prince's Heart, therefore they judge of him by the Meanness of his Outside.

Just like those, that know not that Precious Stones are covered over with a homely Crust; who when they have found one, because they know not what they have found, cast it again away, as Men do a common Stone.

Well, said Gaius, now you are here, and since, as I know, Mr. Great-heart is good at his Weapons, if you please, after we have refreshed ourselves, we will walk into the Fields, to see if we can do any Good. About a Mile from hence, there is one Slay- good, a Giant, that does much annoy the King's High-way in these Parts: And I know whereabouts his Haunt is, he is Master of a Number of Thieves; it would be well if we could clear these Parts of him.

So they consented and went, Mr. Great-heart with his Sword, Helmet, and Shield; and the rest with Spears and Staves.

When they came to the Place where he was, they found him with one Feeble-mind in his Hand, whom his Servants had brought unto him, having taken him in the Way; now the Giant was rifling him, with a purpose, after that, to pick his Bones; for he was of the Nature of Flesh-Eaters.

Well, so soon as he saw Mr. Great-heart and his Friends at the Mouth of his Cave, with their Weapons, he demanded what they wanted.

Great. We want thee; for we are come to revenge the Quarrels of the many that thou hast slain of the Pilgrims, when thou hast dragged them out of the King's High-way; wherefore come out of thy Cave. So he armed himself and came out, and to Battle they went, and fought for above an Hour, and then stood still to take Wind.

Slay. Then said the Giant, Why are you here on my Ground?

Great-heart. To revenge the Blood of Pilgrims, as I also told thee before; so they went to it again, and the Giant made Mr. Great-heart give back; but he came up again, and in the Greatness of his Mind he let fly with such Stoutness at the Giant's Head and Sides, that he made him let his Weapon fall out of his Hand; so he smote him, and slew him, and cut off his Head, and brought it away to the Inn. He also took Feeble-mind the Pilgrim, and brought him with him to his Lodgings. When they were come Home, they shewed his Head to the Family, and set it up as they had done others before, for a Terror to those that shall attempt to do as he, hereafter.

Then they asked Mr. Feeble-mind, how he fell into his Hands?

Feeble-mind. Then said the poor Man, I am a sickly Man, as you see, and because Death did usually once a Day knock at my Door, I thought I should never be well at Home: So I betook myself to a Pilgrim's Life; and have travelled hither from the Town of Uncertain, where I and my Father were born. I am a Man of no Strength at all of Body, nor yet of Mind, but would, if I could, though I can but crawl, spend my Life in the Pilgrim's Way. When I came at the Gate that is at the Head of the Way, the Lord of that Place did entertain me freely; neither objected he against my weakly Looks, nor against my Feeble-mind; but gave me such Things that were necessary for my Journey, and bid me hope to

to the End. When I came to the House of the Interpreter, I received much Kindness there; and because the Hill of Difficulty was judged too hard for me, I was carried up that by one of his Servants. Indeed I have found much Relief from Pilgrims, though none was willing to go so softly as I am forced to do: Yet still as they came on, they bid me be of good Cheer, and said, That it was the Will of their Lord, that Comfort should be given to the Feeble-minded, and so went on their own Pace. When I was come to Affault-Lane, then this Giant met with me, and bid me prepare for an Encounter: But alas! feeble one that I was, I had more need of a Cordial: So he came up and took me: I conceited he should not kill me: Also when he had got me into his Den, since I went not with him willingly, I believed I should come out alive again: For I have heard, That not any Pilgrim that is taken Captive by violent Hands, if he keeps Heart-whole towards his Master, is, by the Laws of Providence, to die by the Hand of the Enemy. Robb'd I look'd to be, and robb'd to be sure I am; but I am as you see escaped with Life, for the which I thank my King as Author, and you as the Means. Other Brunts I also look for, but this I have resolved on, to wit, to run when I can, to go when I cannot run, and to creep when I cannot go. As to the main, I thank him that loved me, I am fix'd; my Way is before me, my Mind is beyond the River that has no Bridge, tho' I am, as you see, but of a feeble-Mind.

Hon. Then said old Mr. Honest, Have not you some time ago, been acquainted with one Mr. Fearing a Pilgrim.

Feebl. Acquainted with him, Yes; he came from the Town of Stupidity, which lieth four Degrees Northward of the City of Destruction, and as many off, of where I was born; yet we were well acquainted, for indeed he was my Uncle, my Father's Brother; he and I have been much of a Temper, he was a little shorter than I, but yet we were much of a Complexion.

Hon. I perceive you know him, and I am apt to believe also, That you were related one to another; for you have his whitely Look, a Cast like his with your Eye, and your Speech is much alike.

Feebl. Most have said so, that have known us both; and besides, what I have read in him, I have for the most part found in myself.

Gaius. Come, Sir, said good Gaius, be of good Cheer, you are welcome to me, and to my House, and what thou hast a Mind to, call for freely; and what thou would'st have my Servants do for thee, they will do it with a ready Mind.

Then said Mr. Feeble-mind, This is an unexpected Favour, and as the Sun shining out of a very dark Cloud: Did Giant Slay- good intend me this Favour when he stopped me, and resolved to let me go no farther? Did he intend, that after he had rifled my Pocket, I should go to Gaius mine Host? Yet so it is.

Now, just as Mr. Feeble-mind and Gaius were thus in Talk, there comes one running, and called at the Door, and told, That about a Mile and a half off, there was one Mr. Not-right a Pilgrim struck Dead upon the Place where he was, with a Thunder-bolt.

Feebl. Alas! said Mr. Feeble-mind, is he slain? He overtook me some Days before I came so far as hither, and would be my Company-keeper: He also was with me when Slay-good the Giant took me, but he was nimble of his Heels, and escaped: But it seems, he escaped to die, and I was took to live.

*What, one would think, doth seek to slay outright,
Oft-times delivers from the saddest Plight.
That very Providence, whose Face is Death,
Doth oft-times to the lowly, Life bequeath:
I taken was, he did escape and flee;
Hands cross'd, gives Death to him, and Life to me.*

Now about this Time, Matthew and Mercy were married; also Gaius gave his Daughter Phebe to James, Matthew's Brother, to Wife; after which Time, they yet staid about ten Days at Gaius's House; spending their Time, and the Seasons, like as Pilgrims used to do.

When they were to depart, Gaius made them a Feast, and they did eat and drink, and were merry. Now the Hour was come that they must be gone; wherefore Mr. Great-heart called for a Reckoning. But Gaius told him, That at his House it was not the Custom of Pilgrims to pay for their Entertainment. He boarded them by the Year, but looked for his Pay from the good Samaritan, who had promised him, at his Return, whatsoever Charge he was at with them, faithfully to repay him. Then said Mr. Great-heart to him.

Great-heart. Beloved, thou dost faithfully whatsoever thou dost, to the Brethren and to Strangers, which have born witness of thy Charity before the Church, whom if thou (yet) bring forward on their Journey, after a godly Sort, thou shalt do well.

Then Gaius took his Leave of them all, and of his Children, and particularly of Mr. Feeble-mind. He also gave him something to drink by the Way.

Now Mr. Feeble-mind, when they were going out of the Door, made as if he intended to linger. The which when Mr. Great-heart espied, he said, Come, Mr. Feeble-mind, pray do you go along with us, I will be your Conductor, and you shall fare as the rest.

Feeb. Alas! I want a suitable Companion; you are all lusty and strong, but I, as you see, am weak; I choose therefore rather to come behind, lest by Reason of my many Infirmities, I should be both a Burden to myself and to you. I am as I said, a Man of a weak and a feeble Mind, and shall be offended and made weak at that which others can bear. I shall like no Laughing: I shall like no gay Attire: I shall like no unprofitable Questions. Nay, I am so weak a Man, as to be offended with that which others have a Liberty to do. I do not yet know all the Truth: I am a very ignorant Christian Man: Sometimes, if I hear any rejoice in the Lord, it troubles me, because I cannot do so too. It is with me, as it is with a weak Man among the strong, or as a Lamp despised, (he that is ready to slip with his Feet, is as a Lamp despised in the Thought of him that is at ease;) so that I know not what to do.

Great-heart. But Brother, said Mr. Great-heart, I have it in Commission to comfort the Feeble-minded, and to support the Weak. You must needs go along with us; we will wait for you, we will lend you our Help; we will deny ourselves of some Things both Opiniative and Practical, for your Sake: We will not enter into doubtful Disputations before you; we will be made all Things to you, rather than you shall be left behind.

Now all this while they were at Gaius's Door; and behold as they were thus in the Heat of their Discourse, Mr. Ready-to-halt came by, with his Crutches in his Hand, and he also was going on Pilgrimage.

Feeb. Then said Mr. Feeble-mind to him, How camest thou hither? I was but now complaining that I had not a suitable Companion, but thou art according to my Wish. Welcome, welcome, good Mr. Ready-to-halt, I hope thou and I may be some Help.

by.

Ready-to-halt. I shall be glad of thy Company, said the other; and good Mr. Feeble-mind, rather than we will part, since we are thus happily met, I will lend thee one of my Crutches.

Feeb. Nay, said he, tho' I thank thee for thy Good-will, I am not inclined to halt before I am lame. Howbeit, I think, when Occasion is, it may help me against a Dog.

Ready-to-halt. If either myself, or my Crutches can do thee a Pleasure, we are both at thy Command, good Mr. Feeble-mind.

Thus therefore they went on. Mr. Great-heart and Mr. Honest went before, Christiana and her Children went next, and Mr. Feeble-mind and Mr. Ready-to-halt came behind with his Crutches. Then said Mr. Honest:

New Talk.

Hon. Pray, Sir, now we are upon the Road, tell us some profitable Things of some that have gone on Pilgrimage before us.

Great-heart. With a good Will; I suppose you have heard how Christian of old did meet with Apollyon in the Valley of Humiliation, and also what hard Work he had to go thorow the Valley of the Shadow of Death. Also I think you cannot but have heard how Faithful was put to it by Madam Wanton, with Adam the first, with one Discontent and Shame: Four as deceitful Villains, as a Man can meet with upon the Road.

Hon. Yes, I believe I heard of all this; but indeed good Faithful was hardest put to it with Shame; he was an unwearied one.

Great-heart. Ay, for as the Pilgrim well said, He of all Men had the wrong Name.

Hon. But pray, Sir, where was it that Christian and Faithful met Talkative? That same was also a Notable One.

Great-heart. He was a confident Fool, yet many follow his Ways.

Hon. He had like to have beguiled Faithful.

Great-heart. Ay, but Christian put him into a Way quickly to find him out. Thus they went on till they came at the Place where the Evangelist met with Christian and Faithful, and prophesied to them what should befall them at Vanity-Fair.

Great-heart. Then said their Guide, Hereabouts did Christian and Faithful meet with Evangelist, who prophesied to them what Troubles they should meet with at Vanity-Fair.

Hon. Say you so! I dare say it was a hard Chapter that then he did read unto them.

Great-heart. It was so, but he gave them Encouragement withal. But what do we talk of them, they were a Couple of Lion-like Men; they had set their Faces like Flints. Do not you remember how undaunted they were when they stood before the Judge?

Hon. Well, Faithful bravely suffer'd.

Great-heart. So he did, and as brave Things came on't: For Hopeful and some others, as the Story relates it, were converted by his Death.

Hon. Well, but pray go on; for you are well acquainted with Things.

Great-heart. Above all that Christian met with after he had passed thro' Vanity-Fair, one By-Ends was the arch one.

Hon. By-Ends, what was he?

Great-heart. A very Arch Fellow, a downright Hypocrite; one that would be religious which Way ever the World went; but so Cunning, that he would be sure never to lose or suffer for it.

He had his Mode of Religion for every fresh Occasion, and his Wife was as good at it as he. He would turn from Opinion to Opinion; yea, and plead for so doing too. But as far as I could learn, he came to an ill End with his By-Ends; nor did I ever hear that any of his Children were ever of any Esteem with any that truly feared God.

to

They come with in Sight of Vanity-Fair.
Psalm 21.
15.

Now by this Time they were come within Sight of the Town of Vanity, where Vanity-Fair is kept. So when they saw that they were so near the Town, they consulted with one another how they should pass through the Town, and some said one Thing, and some another. At last Mr. Great-heart said, I have, as you may understand, often been a Conductor of Pilgrims thorow this Town; now I am acquainted with one Mr. Mnason a Cyprusian by Nation, an old Disciple, at whose House we may lodge. If you think good, said he, we will turn in there.

They enter into Mr.
Mnason's to lodge.

Content, said Old Honest; Content, said Christiana; Content, said Mr. Feeble-mind; and so they said all. Now, you must think, it was Even-tide by that they got to the Out-side of the Town; but Mr. Great-heart knew the Way to the old Man's House. So thither they came; and he called at the Door, and the old Man within knew his Tongue so soon as ever he heard it; so he opened, and they all came in. Then said Mnason, their Host, How far have ye come to Day? So they said, from the House of Gaius our Friend. I promise you, said he, you have gone a good Stitch, you may well be weary; sit down. So they sat down.

Great-heart. Then said their Guide, Come, What Chear, good Sirs, I dare say you are welcome to my Friend.

They are glad of Entertainment.

Mnason. I also, said Mr. Mnason, do bid you welcome; and whatever you want, do but say, and we will do what we can to get it for you.

Honest. Our great Want, a while since, was Harbour and good Company, and now I hope we have both.

Mnason. For Harbour, you see what it is; but for good Company, that will appear in the Tryal.

Great-heart. Well, said Mr. Great-heart, will you have the Pilgrims into their Lodging?

Mnason. I will, said Mr. Mnason. So he had them to their respective Places; and also shewed them a very fair Dining-Room, where they might be, and sup together until Time was come to go to Rest.

Now when they were set in their Places, and were a little Cheary after their Journey, Mr. Honest asked his Landlord, if there were any Store of good People in the Town?

Mnason. We have a few, for indeed they are but a few, when compared with them on the other side.

They desire to see some of the good People in the Town.

Honest. But how should we do to see some of them? For the Sight of good Men to them that are going on Pilgrimage, is like to the Appearing of the Moon and Stars to them that are going a Journey.

Mnason. Then Mr. Mnason stamped with his Foot, and his Daughter Grace came up: So he said unto her, Grace, go you, ^{Some sent} tell my Friends, Mr. Contrite, Mr. Holy-fer- man, Mr. Love-saints, Mr. Dare-not-lye, and Mr. Penitent, that I have a Friend or two at my House that have a mind this Evening to see them.

So Grace went to call them, and they came; and after Salutation made, they sat down together at the Table.

Then said Mr. Mnason, their Landlord, My Neighbours, I have, as you see, a Company of Strangers come to my House; they are Pilgrims: They come from afar, and are going to Mount Sion. But who, quoth he, do you think this is? pointing his Finger at Christiana: It is Christiana, the Wife of Christian, that famous Pilgrim, who with Faithful his Bother, were so shamefully handled in our Town. At that they stood amazed, saying, We little thought to see Christiana, when Grace came to call us, wherefore this is a very comfortable Surprize. Then they asked her about her Welfare, and if these young Men were her Husband's Sons. And when she had told them they were, they said, The King whom you love and serve, make you as your Father, and bring you where he is in Peace.

Hon. Then Mr. Honest (when they were ^{Some Talk} all sat down) asked Mr. Contrite and the ^{betwixt} rest, in what Posture their Town was ^{Mr. Hon-} at present. ^{nest and}
^{Mr. Con-}

Contrite. You may be sure we are full of Hurry in Fair-Time. It is hard keeping our Hearts and Spirits in good Order, when ^{The Fruit} we are in a cumber'd Condition. He that ^{of Watch-} lives in such a Place as this, and that has ^{fulness.} to do with such as we have, has need of an Item to caution him to take Heed every Moment of the Day.

Honest. But how are your Neighbours now for Quietness?

Contrite. They are much more moderate ^{Perfection} now than formerly. You know how Chri- stian and Faithful were used at our Town: ^{tion not so} But of late, I say, they have been far more ^{bet at Va-} moderate. I think the Blood of Faithful ^{nity-Fair} ^{as former-} lieth with Load upon them till now; for since they burned him, they have been ashamed to burn any more; in those Days we were afraid to walk the Streets, but now we can shew our Heads. Then the Name of a Professor was odious; now, especially in some Parts of our Town, (for you know our Town is large) Religion is counted honourable.

Then said Mr. Contrite to them, Pray how fareth it with you in your Pilgrimage? How stands the Country affected towards you?

Hon. It happens to us, as it happeneth to to Way-faring Men; sometimes our Way is clean, sometimes foul; sometimes up Hill, sometimes down Hill; we are seldom at a Certainty: The Wind is not always on our Backs, nor is every one a Friend that we meet with in the Way. We have met with some notable Rubs already; and what are yet behind we know not; but for the most part we find it true, that has been talked of Old: A good Man must suffer Trouble.

Contrite. You talk of Rubs, What Rubs have you met withal?

Hon. Nay, ask Mr. Great-heart, our Guide, for he can give the best Account of that.

Great-heart. We have been beset three or four times already. First, Christiana and her Children were beset with two Ruffians, that they feared would take away their Lives. We were beset with Giant Bloody-man, Giant Maul, and Giant Slay-good. Indeed we did rather beset the last, than were beset of him. And thus it was: After we had been some time at the House of Gaius, mine Host, and of the whole Church, we were minded upon a Time to take our Weapons with us, and so go see if we could light upon any of those that were Enemies to Pilgrims; (for we heard that there was a notable One thereabouts.) Now Gaius knew his Haunt better than I, because he dwelt thereabout; so we looked and looked, till at last we discerned the Mouth of his Cave; then were we glad, and plucked up our Spirits. So we approached up to his Den, and lo, when we came there, he had dragged, by mere Force, into his Net, this poor Man, Mr. Feeble-mind, and was about to bring him to his End. But when he saw us, supposing, as we thought, he had another Prey; he left the poor Man in his House, and came out. So we fell to it full sore, and he lustily laid about him; but, in Conclusion, he was brought down to the Ground, and his Head cut off, and set up by the Way-side, for a Terror to such as should after practise such Ungodliness. That I tell you the Truth, here is the Man himself to affirm it, who was as a Lamb taken out of the Mouth of the Lion.

Feeble-mind. Then said Mr. Feeble-mind, I found this true, to my Cost and Comfort; to my Cost, when he threaten'd to pick my Bones every Moment; and to my Comfort, when I saw Mr. Great-heart and his Friends, with their Weapons, approach so near for my Deliverance.

Holy-man. Then said Mr. Holy-man, there are two Things that they have need to be possessed with that go on Pilgrimage, Courage, and an Unspotted Life. If they have not Courage, they can never hold on their Way: and if their Lives be loose, they will make the very Name of a Pilgrim stink.

Love-saint. Then said Mr. Love-saint,^{Mr. Love-saint's Speech.} I hope this Caution is not needful among you. But truly there any many that go upon the Road, that rather declare themselves Strangers to Pilgrimage, than Strangers and Pilgrims in the Earth.

Dare-not-lye. Then said Mr. Dare-not-lye,^{Mr. Dare-not-lye's Speech.} It is true, they neither have the Pilgrim's Weed, nor the Pilgrim's Courage; they go not uprightly, but all a-wry with their Feet; one Shoe goeth inward, another outward, and their Hofen out behind; here a Rag, and their a Rent, to the Disparagement of their Lord.

Penitent. These Things, said Mr. Penitent,^{Mr. Penitent's Speech.} they ought to be troubled for; nor are the Pilgrims like to have that Grace upon them and their Pilgrim's Progress, as they desire, until the Way is clear'd of such Spots and Blemishes.

Thus they sat talking and spending the Time, until Supper was set upon the Table. Unto which they went, and refreshed their weary Bodies; so they went to Rest. Now they staid in the Fair a great while, at the House of Mr. Mnason, who, in Process of time, gave his Daughter Grace unto Samuel, Christian's Son, to Wife, and his Daughter Martha to Joseph.

The Time, as I said, that they lay here, was long, (for it was not now as in former Times.) Wherefore the Pilgrims grew acquainted with many of the good People of the Town, and did them what Service they could. Mercy, as she was wont, laboured much for the Poor, wherefore their Bellies and Backs blessed her, and she was there an Ornament to her Profession. And, to say the Truth for Grace, Phebe, and Martha, they were all of a very good Nature, and did much Good in their Places. They were also all of them very fruitful; so that Christian's Name, as was said before, was like to live in the World.

While they lay here, there came a Monster out of the Woods, and slew many of the People of the Town. It would also carry away their Children, and teach them to suck its Whelps. Now no Man in the Town durst so much as face this Monster; but all Men fled when they heard of the Noise of his Coming.

The Monster was like unto no one Beast upon the Earth; Its Body was like a Dragon, and it had seven Heads and ten Horns. It made great Havock of Children,^{Rev. 13.3.} and yet it was governed by a Woman. This Monster propounded Conditions to Men;^{His Shape. His Nature.} and such Men as loved their Lives more than their Souls, accepted of those Conditions.

Now this Mr. Great-heart, together with these that came to visit the Pilgrims at Mr. Mnason's House, enter'd into a Covenant to go and engage this Beast, if perhaps they they might deliver the People of this Town from the Paws and Mouth of this so devouring a Serpent.

Then did Mr. Great-heart, Mr. Contrite, Mr. Holy-man, Mr. Dare-not-lye, and Mr. Penitent, with their Weapons, go forth to meet him. Now the Monster at first was very Rampant, and looked upon these Enemies with great Disdain; but they so belabour'd him, being sturdy Men at Arms, that they made him make a Retreat: So they came home to Mr. Mnason's House again.

The Monster, you must know, had his certain Seasons to come out in, and to make his Attempts upon the Children of the People of the Town: Also these Seasons did these Valiant Worthies watch him in, and did continually assault him; inso-much, that in process of Time he became not only wounded, but lame; also he did not make the Havock of the Towns-Men's Children, as formerly he had done. And it is verily believed by some, that this Beast will certainly die of his Wounds.

This therefore made Mr. Great-heart and his Fellows of great Fame in this Town; so that many of the People that wanted their Taste of Things, yet had a Reverend Esteem and Respect for them. Upon this Account therefore it was, that these Pilgrims got not much Hurt here. True, there were some of the baser Sort, that could see no more than a Mole, nor understand no more than a Beast; these had no Reverence for these Men, nor took they Notice of their Valour and Adventures.

Well, the Time grew on that the Pilgrims must go on their Way, wherefore they prepared for their Journey. They sent for their Friends, they conferr'd with them, they had some Time set apart therein to commit each other to the Protection of their Prince. There were again, that brought them of such Things as they had, that were fit for the Weak and the Strong, for the Women and the Men, and so laded them with such Things as were necessary, Acts 18. 10.

Then they set forwards on their Way, and their Friends accompanying them so far as was convenient, they again committed each other to the Protection of their King, and departed.

They therefore that were of the Pilgrims Company, went on, and Mr. Great-heart went before them; now the Women and Children being weakly, they were forced to go as they could bear; by this Means Mr. Ready-to-halt, and Mr. Feeble-mind had more to sympathize with their Condition.

When they were gone from the Townsmen, and when their Friends had bid them farewell, they quickly came to the Place where Faithful was put to Death:

Vol. II.

Therefore they made a Stand, and thanked him that had enabled him to bear his Cross so well; and the rather, because they now found that they had a Benefit by such a Man's Sufferings as his was.

They went on therefore after this, a good Way further talking of Christian and Faithful, and how Hopeful joined himself to Christian, after that Faithful was dead. Part I. pag. 234.

Now, they were come up with the Hill Lucre, where the Silver-Mine was, which took Demas off from his Pilgrimage, and into which, as some think, By-Ends fell and perished; wherefore they considered that. But when they were come to the Old Monument that stood over-against the Hill Lucre, to wit, to the Pillar of Salt that stood also within View of Sodom, and its stinking Lake; they marvelled, as did Christian before, that Men of that Knowledge and Ripeness of Wit as they were, should be so blind as to turn aside here. Only they considered again, that Nature is not affected with the Harms that others have met with, especially if that Thing, upon which they look, has an attracting Vertue upon the foolish Eye. Part I. pag. 237.

I saw now that they went on till they came to the River that was on this Side of the Delectable Mountains. Part I. pag. 238.

To the River where the fine Trees grow on both Sides; and whose Leaves, if taken inwardly, are good against Surfeits, Psalms 23. where the Meadows are green all the Year long, and where they might lie down safely.

By this River Side, in the Meadows, there were Cotes and Holds for Sheep, a House built for the nourishing and bringing up of those Lambs, the Babes of those Women that go on Pilgrimage, Heb. 5. 2. Isa. 40. 11. Also there was here one that was entrusted with them, who could have Compassion, and that could gather these Lambs with his Arm, and carry them in his Bosom, and that could gently lead those that were with Young. Now to the Care of this Man, Christiana admonished her four Daughters to commit their little Ones, that by these Waters they might be Housed, Harboured, Succoured, and Nourished, and that none of them might be lacking in Time to come. This Man, if any of them go astray, or be lost, he will bring them again; he will also bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen them that are sick. Here they will never want Meat, Drink and Cloathing: here they will be kept from Thieves and Robbers; for this Man will die before one of those committed to his Trust shall be lost. Besides, here they shall be sure to have Good Nurture and Admonition, and shall be taught to walk in right Paths, and that you know is a Favour of no small Account.

H h h h

Account. Also here, as you see, are delicate Waters, pleasant Meadows, dainty Flowers, Variety of Trees, and such as bear wholesome Fruit: Fruit not like that which Matthew eat of, that fell over the Wall, out of Beelzebub's Garden: But Fruit that procureth Health where there is none, and that continueth and increaseth, where it is.

So they were content to commit their little Ones to him; and that which was also an Encouragement to them so to do, was, for that all this was to be at the Charge of the King, and so was an Hospital to young Children and Orphans.

Now they went on; and when they were come to By-Bath Meadow, to the Stile over which Christian went with his Fellow Hopeful, when they were taken by Giant Despair, and put into Doubting Castle; they sat down, and consulted what was best to be done; to wit, now they were so strong, and had got such a Man as Mr. Great-heart for their Conductor, whether they had not best to make an attempt upon the Giant, demolish his Castle, and if there were any Pilgrims in it, to set them at Liberty, before they went any farther. So one said one Thing, another said to the contrary. One questioned, if it was lawful to go upon unconsecrated Ground; another said they might, provided their End was good: But Mr. Great-heart said, though that Assertion offered last, cannot be universally true, yet I have a Commandment to resist Sin, to overcome Evil, to fight the good Fight of Faith: And I pray, with whom should I fight this good Fight, if not with Giant Despair? I will therefore attempt the taking away of his Life, and the demolishing of Doubting Castle. Then, said he, who will go with me? Then said old Honest, I will; and so will we too, said Christiana's Four Sons, Matthew, Samuel, James, and Joseph, for they were Young Men and strong.

So they left the Women in the Road, and with them Mr. Feeble-mind and Mr. Ready-to-halt, with his Crutches, to be their Guard, until they came back; for in that Place the Giant Despair dwelt so near, they keeping in the Road, a little Child might lead them.

So Mr. Great-heart, old Honest, and the four young Men, went to go up to Doubting-Castle, to look for Giant Despair. When they came at the Castle-Gate, they knocked for Entrance with an unusual Noise. With that the old Giant comes to the Gate, and Diffidence his Wife follows: Then said he, Who and what is he, that is so hardy, as after this manner to molest the Giant Despair? Mr. Great-heart reply'd, It is I, Great-heart, one of the King of the Celestial Country Conductors of Pilgrims to their Place: And I demand of thee, that thou open thy Gates for my Entrance; prepare thyself also to fight, for I am come to take away thy Head, and to demolish Doubting-Castle.

Now Giant Despair, because he was a Giant, thought no Man could overcome him; and again, thought he, since heretofore I have made a Conquest of Angels, shall Great-heart make me afraid? So he harnessed himself, and went out: He had a Cap of Steel upon his Head, a Breast-Plate of Fire girded to him, and he came out in Iron-Shoes, with a great Club in his Hand. Then these six Men made up to him, and beset him behind and before: Also when Diffidence the Giantess came up to help him, old Mr. Honest cut her down at one Blow. Then they fought for their Lives, and Giant Despair was brought down to the Ground, but was very loth to die: He struggled hard, and had, as they say, as many Lives as a Cat; but Great-heart was his Death, for he left him not till he had severed his Head from his Shoulders.

Then they fell to demolishing Doubting-Castle, and that you know might with Ease be done, since Giant Despair was dead. They were seven Days in destroying of that, and in it of Pilgrims they found one Mr. Despondency, almost starved to Death, and one Much-afraid his Daughter; these two they saved alive. But it would have made you have wondered, to have seen the Dead Bodies that lay here and there in the Castle-Yard, and how full of dead Men's Bones the Dungeon was.

When Mr. Great-heart and his Companions had performed this Exploit, they took Mr. Despondency, and his Daughter Much-afraid into their Protection, for they were honest People, though they were Prisoners in Doubting-Castle to that Giant Despair. They therefore, I say, took with them the Head of the Giant, (for his Body they had buried under a Heap of Stones) and down to the Road, and to their Companions they came, and shewed them what they had done. Now when Feeble-mind and Ready-to-halt saw that it was the Head of the Giant Despair indeed, they were very jocund and merry. Now Christiana, if need was, could play upon the Viol, and her Daughter Mercy upon the Lute: So since they were so merry disposed, she played them a Lesson, and Ready-to-halt would dance. So he took Despondency's Daughter Much-afraid by the Hand, and to Dancing they went in the Road. True, he could not Dance without one Crutch in his Hand; but I promise you he footed it well; also the Girl was to be commended, for she answered the Musick handsomely.

As for Mr. Despondency, the Musick was not much to him, he was for Feeding rather than Dancing, for that he was almost starved. So Christiana gave him some of her Bottle of Spirits, for present Relief, and

They being come to By-Path Stile, have a Mind to have a Pluck with Giant Despair. Part I. p. 239.

and then prepared him something to eat, and in little Time the old Gentleman came to himself, and began to be finely revived.

Now I saw in my Dream, when all these Things were finished, Mr. Great-heart took the Head of Giant Despair, and set it upon a Pole by the Highway-side, right over against the Pillar that Christian erected for a Caution to Pilgrims that came after, to take heed of entering into his Grounds.

[A Monument of Deliverance.]

Then he writ under it upon a Marble-Stone, these Verses following :

*This is the Head of him, whose Name only
In former Times did Pilgrims terrify.
His Castle's down, and Diffidence his Wife Brave Master Great-heart has bereft of Life.*

Despondency, his Daughter Much-afraid, Great-heart for them also the Man has play'd.

*Who hereof doubts, if he'll but cast his Eye,
Up hither, may his Scruples satisfy.*

This Head also, when doubting Cripples dance,

Doth shew from Fears they have Deliverance.

When those Men had thus bravely shewed themselves against Doubting-Castle, and had slain Giant Despair, they went forward, and went on till they came to the Delectable Mountains, where Christian and Hopeful refreshed themselves with the Varieties of the Place. They also acquainted themselves with the Shepherds there, who welcomed them, as they had done Christian before, unto the Delectable Mountains.

Now the Shepherds seeing so great a Train follow Mr. Great-heart, (for with him they were well acquainted) they said unto him, Good Sir, you have got a goodly Company here; pray where did you find all these?

[The Guide's Speech to the Shepherds.]

*First, here is Christiana and her Train,
Her Sons, and her Sons Wives, who, like the Wain,*

*Keep by the Pole, and do by Compass steer,
From Sin to Grace, else they had not been here:*

*Next here's old Honest come on Pilgrimage,
Ready-to-halt too, who I dare engage,
True hearted is, and so is Feeble-mind,
Who willing was not to be left behind.*

*Despondency, good Man, is coming after,
And so also is Much-afraid his Daughter,
May we have Entertainment here, or must
We farther go? Let's know whereon to trust.*

Then said the Shepherds, this is a comfortable Company; you are welcome to us, for we have for the Feeble, as for the Strong; our Prince has an Eye to what is done to the least of these. Therefore Infir-^{Their Entertain-ment.} mity must not be a Block to our Enter-^{Mat. 25. 40.} tainment. So they had them to the Palace Doors, and then said unto them, Come in Mr. Feeble-mind, come in Mr. Ready-to-halt, come in Mr. Despondency, and Mrs. Much-afraid his Daughter. These, Mr. Great-heart, said the Shepherds to the Guide, we call in by Name, for that they are most subject to draw back; but as for you, and the rest that are strong, we leave you to your wonted Liberty. Then said Mr. Great-heart, This Day I see that Grace doth shine in your Faces, and that you are my Lord's Shepherds indeed; for that you have not pushed these Diseased neither with Side nor Shoulder, but have rather strewed their Way into the Palace with Flowers, as you should. ^{A Description of false Shepherds. Ezek. 34. 21.}

So the Feeble and Weak went in, and Mr. Great-heart and the rest did follow. When they were also set down, the Shepherds said to those of the weaker Sort, What is that you would have? For, said they, all Things must be managed here to the supporting of the Weak, as well as the Warning of the Unruly.

So they made them a Feast of Things easy of Digestion, and that were pleasant to the Palate, and nourishing: The which when they had received, they went to their Rest, each one respectively unto his proper Place. When Morning was come, because the Mountains were high, and the Day clear; and because it was the Custom of the Shepherds to shew the Pilgrims, before their Departure, some Rarities; therefore, after they were ready, and had refreshed themselves, the Shepherds took them out into the Fields, and shewed them first what they had shewed to Christian before. ^{Part I. p. 242, 243.}

Then they had them to some new Places. The first was Mount Marvel, where they looked, and behold a Man at a Distance, ^{Mount Marvel.} that tumbled the Hills about with Words. Then they asked the Shepherds what that should mean? So they told them, that that Man was the Son of one Mr. Great-grace, of whom you read in the first Part of the Records of the Pilgrim's Progress. And he is set there to teach Pilgrims how to believe down, or to tumble out of their Ways, what Difficulties they should meet with by Faith. Then said Mr. Great-heart, I know him he is a Man above many. ^{Mark 11. 23, 24.}

Then they had them to another Place, called Mount Innocence; and there they saw a Man cloathed all in white; and two Men, Prejudice and Ill-will, continually casting Dirt upon him. Now behold the Dirt, whatsoever they cast at him, would in a little Time fall off again, and his Garment ^{Mount Innocence}

ment would look as clear as if no Dirt had been cast thereat.

Then said the Pilgrims, what means this? The Shepherds answered; this Man is named Godly-man, and the Garment is to shew the Innocency of his Life. Now those that throw Dirt at him, are such as hate his Well-doing; but, as you see, the Dirt will not stick upon his Cloaths, so it shall be with him that lives innocently in the World. Whoever they be that would make such Men dirty, they labour all in vain; for God, by that a little Time is spent, will cause that their Innocence shall break forth as the Light, and their Righteousness as the Noon-Day.

Mount Charity. Then they took them, and had them to Mount Charity, where they shewed them a Man that had a Bundle of Cloth lying before him, out of which he cut Coats and Garments for the Poor that stood about him; yet his Bundle, or Roll of Cloth was never the less.

Then said they, What should this be? This is, said the Shepherds, to shew you, That he that has a Heart to give of his Labour to the Poor, shall never want wherewithal. He that watereth, shall be watered himself. And the Cake that the Widow gave to the Prophet, did not cause that she had ever the less in her Barrel.

The Work of one Fool, and one Want-wit. They had them also to the Place, where they saw one Fool, and one Want-wit, washing of an Ethiopian, with an Intention to make him white; but the more they washed him, the blacker he was. Then they asked the Shepherds what that should mean? So they told them, saying, Thus it was with the vile Person; all Means used to get such a one a good Name, shall in Conclusion tend but to make him more abominable. Thus it was with the Pharisees, and so it shall be with all Hypocrites.

Part I. p. 242. Mercy has a Mind to see the Hole in the Hill. Then said Mercy, the Wife of Matthew, to Christiana her Mother, I would, if it might be, see the Hole in the Hill; or that commonly called the By-way to Hell. So her Mother brake her Mind to the Shepherds. Then they went to the Door, it was on the Side of an Hill, and they opened it, and bid Mercy hearken a while. So she hearkened, and heard one saying, Cursed be my Father for holding of my Feet back from the Way of Peace and Life; and another said, O that I had been torn in Pieces, before I had, to save my Life, lost my Soul; and another said, If I were to live again, how would I deny myself, rather than come to this Place. Then there was, as if the very Earth groaned and quaked under the Feet of this young Woman for Fear; so she looked white, and came trembling away, saying, Blessed be he, and she that is delivered from this Place.

Now when the Shepherds had shewn them all these Things, then they had them back to the Palace, and entertained them with what the House would afford: But Mercy being a young and breeding Woman, longed for something that she saw ^{longed for} there, but was ashamed to ask. Her Mother-in-law then asked her what she ailed, for she looked as one not well. Then said Mercy, There is a Looking-Glass hangs up in the Dining-Room, off which I cannot take my Mind; if therefore I have it not, I think I shall miscarry. Then said her Mother, I will mention thy Wants to the Shepherds, and they will not deny it thee. But she said, I am ashamed that these Men should know that I longed. Nay, my Daughter, said she, it is no Shame, but a Vertue, to long for such a Thing as that; so Mercy said, then Mother, if you please, ask the Shepherds, if they are willing to sell it.

Now the Glass was one of a Thousand. ^{It was the Word of God.} It would present a Man, one Way with his own Features exactly; and turn it but another Way, and it would shew one the very Face and Similitude of the Prince of Pilgrims himself. Yes, I have talked with them that can tell, and they have said, that they have seen the very Crown of Thorns ^{James 1. 33.} upon his Head, by looking in that Glass; ^{1 Cor. 13. 12.} They have therein also seen the Holes in his Hands, in his Feet, and his Side. Yea ^{2 Cor. 3. 18.} such an Excellency is there in that Glass, that it will shew him to one, where they have a Mind to see him; whether Living or Dead, whether in Earth or Heaven; whether in a State of Humiliation, or in his Exaltation; whether coming to Suffer, or coming to Reign.

Christiana therefore went to the Shepherds apart, (Now the Names of the Shepherds were Knowledge, Experience, Watchful, and Sincere) and said unto them, there is one of my Daughters a Breeding Woman; that, I think, doth long for something that she hath seen in this House, and she thinks she shall miscarry, if she should by you be denied. ^{Part I. p. 242.}

Experience. Call her, call her, she shall assuredly have what we can help her to. So they called her, and said to her, Mercy, ^{She doth not lose her Longing.} What is that Thing thou wouldst have? Then she blushed and said, The great Glass that hangs up in the Dining-room: So Sincere ran and fetched it, and, with a joyful Consent, it was given her. Then she bowed her Head and gave Thanks, and said, by this, I know that I have obtained Favour in your Eyes.

They also gave to the other young Women such Things as they desired, and to their Husbands great Commendations, for that they had joined with Mr. Great-heart, to the slaying of Giant Despair, and the demolishing of Doubting-Castle.

About Christiana's Neck the Shepherds ^{How the Shepherds adorned the Pilgrims.} put a Bracelet, and so they did about the Necks of her four Daughters; also they put Ear-rings in their Ears, and Jewels on their Foreheads.

Part I. p.
243.

When they were minded to go hence, they let them go in Peace, but gave not to them those certain Cautions which before were given to Christian and his Companion. The Reason was, for that these had Great-heart to be their Guide, who was one that was well acquainted with Things, and so could give them their Cautions more seasonable; to wit, even then when the Danger was nigh the approaching.

Part I. p.
245.

What Cautions Christian and his Companion had received of the Shepherds, they had also lost by that the Time was come that they had need to put them in Practice. Wherefore, here was the Advantage that this Company had over the other.

From hence they went on singing, and they said,

Behold how fitly are the Stages set!

For their Relief, that Pilgrims are become;

*And how they us receive without one Let,
That make the other Life our Mark and Home.*

*What Novelties they have, to us they give,
That we tho' Pilgrims, joyful Lives may live.*

*They do upon us too, such Things bestow,
That shew we Pilgrims are, where-e'er we go.*

Part I. p.
244.

When they were gone from the Shepherds, they quickly came to the Place where Christian met with one Turn-away, that dwelt in the Town of Apostacy. Wherefore of him Mr. Great-heart, their Guide, did now put them in Mind, saying, This is the Place where Christian met with one Turn-away, who carried with him the Character of his Rebellion at his Back. And this I have to say concerning this Man, he would hearken to no Counsel, but once a falling, Persuasion could not stop him.

When he came to the Place where the Cross and Sepulchre was, he did meet with one that did bid him look there, but he gnashed with his Teeth, and stamped, and said, He was resolved to go back to his own Town. Before he came to the Gate, he met with Evangelist, who offered to lay Hands on him, to turn him into the Way again. But this Turn-away resisted him, and having done much Despite unto him, he got away over the Wall, and so escaped his Hand.

One Valiant-for-truth be-set with thieves.

Then they went on, and just at the Place where Little-Faith formerly was robbed, there stood a Man with his Sword drawn, and his Face all bloody. Then said Mr. Great-heart, What art thou? The Man made Answer, saying, I am one whose Name is Valiant-for-Truth. I am a Pilgrim, and am going to the Celestial City. Now, as I was in my Way, there were three Men that did beset me, and propounded unto me these three Things: 1. Whether I would become one of them? 2. Or go back from whence I came? 3. Or die upon the Place? To the first I answered, I had been a true Man a long Season, and therefore it could not be expected that I now should cast in my Lot with Thieves. Then they demanded what I would say to the second. So I told them the Place from whence I came, had I not found Incommodity there, I had not forsaken it at all; but finding it altogether unfuitable to me, and very unprofitable for me, I forsook it for this Way. Then they asked me what I said to the third. And I told them, my Life cost more dear far, than that I should lightly give it away. Besides, you have nothing to do thus to put Things to my Choice; Wherefore at your Peril be it, if you meddle. Then these three, to wit, Wild-head, Inconsiderate and Pragmatick, drew upon me, and I also drew upon them.

Vol. II.

Prov. i.
10, 11, 13;
14.

So we fell to it, one against three, for the Space of three Hours. They have left upon me, as you see, some of the Marks of their Valour, and have also carried away with them some of mine. They are but just now gone: I suppose they might, as the Saying is, hear your Horse dash, and so they betook themselves to flight.

Great-heart. But here was great Odds, Three against One.

Valiant. 'Tis true; but Little or More are nothing to him that has the Truth on his Side: Though an Host should encamp against me, said one, my Heart shall not fear: Though War should rise against me, in this will I be confident, &c. Besides, said he, I have read in some Records, that one Man has fought an Army: And how many did Sampson slay with the Jaw-Bone of an Ass?

Great-heart. Then said the Guide, Why did you not cry out, that some might have come in for your Succour?

Valiant. So I did to my King, who I knew could hear me, and afford invisible Help, and that was enough for me.

Great-heart. Then said Mr. Great-heart to Mr. Valiant-for-Truth, thou hast worthily behaved thyself; let me see thy Sword, so he shewed it him.

When he had taken it in his Hand, and looked thereon a while, he said, Ha! It is a right Jerusalem Blade.

Valiant. It is so. Let a Man have one of these Blades, with a Hand to wield it, and Skill to use it, and he may venture upon an Angel with it. He need not fear its holding, if he can but tell how to lay on. Its Edge will never blunt. It will cut Flesh, and Bones, and Soul, and Spirit and all.

Great-heart. But you fought a great while I wonder you was not weary.

Valiant. I fought till my Sword did cleave

I i i i

to

to my Hand, and then they were joined together, as if a Sword grew out of my Arm, and when the Blood run through my Fingers, then I fought with most Courage.

Great-heart. Thou hast done well, thou hast resisted unto Blood, striving against Sin; thou shalt abide by us, come in, and go out with us, for we are thy Companions.

Then they took him and washed his Wounds, and gave him of what they had to refresh him; and so they went together. Now as they went on, because Mr. Great-heart was delighted in him (for he loved one greatly, that he found to be a Man of his Hands) and because there were in Company them that were feeble and weak: Therefore he question'd with him about many Things; as first, What Country Man he was?

Valiant. I am of Dark-land, for there I was born, and there my Father and Mother are still.

Great-heart. Dark-Land, said the Guide, Doth not that lie on the same Coast with the City of Destruction?

Valiant. Yes, It doth. Now that which caused me to come on Pilgrimage was this; we had Mr. Tell-true came in our Parts, and he told it about what Christian had done, that went from the City of Destruction. Namely, how he had forsaken his Wife and Children, and had betaken himself to a Pilgrim's Life. It was also confidently reported, How he had killed a Serpent, that did come out to resist him in his Journey; and how he got through to whither he intended. It was also told, what Welcome he had to all his Lord's Lodgings, especially when he came to the Gates of the Celestial City: For there, said the Man, he was received with Sound of Trumpet, by a Company of shining Ones. He told it also, How all the Bells in the City did ring for Joy at his Reception, and what Golden Garments he was cloathed with; with many other Things that now I shall forbear to relate. In a Word, That Man so told the Story of Christian and his Travels, that my Heart fell into a burning Heat, to be gone after him; nor could Father or Mother stay me! So I got from them, and am come thus far on my Way.

Great-heart. You came in at the Gate, did you not?

Valiant. Yes, yes, for the same Man also told us, that all would be nothing, if we did not begin to enter this Way at the Gate.

Great-heart. Look you, said the Guide to Christiana, the Pilgrimage of your Husband, and what he has gotten thereby, is spread abroad far and near.

Valiant. Why, is this Christian's Wife?

Great-heart. Yes, that it is; and these also are his four Children.

Valiant. What! and going on Pilgrimage too?

Great-heart. Yes verily, they are following after.

Valiant. It glads me at Heart! good Man. How joyful will he be, when he shall see them that would not go with him, yet to enter after him, in at the Gates into the Celestial City?

Great-heart. Without Doubt it will be a Comfort to him; for next to the Joy of seeing himself there, it will be a Joy to meet there his Wife and Children.

Valiant. But now you are upon that, pray, let me hear your Opinion about it. Some make a Question, Whether we shall know one another when we are there?

Great-heart. Do they think they shall know themselves then, or that they shall rejoice to see themselves in that Bliss? And if they think they shall know and do this, why not know others, and rejoyce in their Welfare also?

Again, Since Relations are our second self, though that State will be dissolved, yet why may it not be rationally concluded, that we shall be more glad to see them there, than to see they are wanting?

Valiant. Well, I perceive whereabouts you are as to this. Have you any more Things to ask me about my Beginning to come on Pilgrimage?

Great-heart. Yes; Was your Father and Mother willing that you should become a Pilgrim?

Valiant. Oh! no, they used all Means imaginable to persuade me to stay at Home.

Great-heart. What could they say against it?

Valiant. They said, it was an idle Life; and if I myself were not inclined to Sloth and Laziness, I would never countenance a Pilgrim's Condition.

Great-heart. And what did they say else?

Valiant. Why, they told me that it was a dangerous Way, yea, the most dangerous Way in the World, said they, is that which the Pilgrims go.

Great-heart. Did they shew you where in this Way is dangerous?

Valiant. Yes; and that in many Particulars.

Great-heart. Name some of them.

Valiant. They told me of the Slough of Despond, where Christian was well nigh smother'd. They told me, That there were Archers standing ready in Beelzebub-Castle, to shoot them who should knock at the Wicket-Gate for Entrance. They told me also of the Wood, and dark Mountains, of the Hill Difficulty; of the Lions, and also of the three Giants, Bloody-Man, Maul, and Slay-good: They said moreover, that there was a foul Fiend haunted the Valley of Humiliation: and that Christian was by him him almost bereft of Life. Besides, said they, you must go over the Valley of the Shadow of Death, where the Hobgoblins are, where the Light is Darkness, where the Way is full of Snares, Pits, Traps, and Gins. They told me also of Giant Despair, of Doubting-Castle, and of the Ruin that the Pilgrims met with there. Farther, they said, I must go over the Enchanted Ground, which was dangerous. And that, after all this, I should find a River, over which I should find no Bridge; and that that River did lie betwixt me and the Celestial Country.

Great-heart. And was this all?

Valiant. No. They also told me, that this Way was full of Deceivers, and of Persons that lay in Wait there to turn good Men out of their Path.

Great-heart. But how did they make that out?

Valiant. They told me, that Mr. Worldly-wise-man did lie there in wait to deceive.

They also said, that there was Formality and Hypocrisy continually on the Road. They said also, that By-Ends, Talkative, or Demas, would go near to gather me up: That the Flatterer would catch me in his Net; or that, with Green-headed Ignorance, I would presume to go on to the Gate, from whence he was always sent back to the Hole that was in the Side of the Hill, and made to go the By-way to Hell.

Great-heart. I promise you, This was enough to discourage thee; but did they make an End here?

Valiant. No, stay. They told me also of many that tried that Way of Old, and that had gone a great way therein, to see if they could find something of the Glory then, that so many had so much talked of from time to time; and how they came back again, and befooled themselves for setting a Foot out of Doors in that Path, to the Satisfaction of the Country. And they named several that did so, as Obstinate and Pliable, Mistrust and Timorous, Turn-away and old Atheist, with several more; who, they said, had some of them gone far to see what they could find, but not one of them found so much Advantage by going, as amounted to the Weight of a Feather.

Great-heart. Said they any thing more to discourage you?

Valiant. Yes, they told me of one Mr. Fearing, who was a Pilgrim; and how he found his Way so solitary, that he never had a comfortable Hour therein: Also that Mr. Despondency had like to have been starved therein: Yea, and also (which I had almost forgot) Christian himself, about whom there has been such a Noise, after all his Ventures for a Celestial Crown, was certainly drown'd in the Black River, and never went a Foot farther; however, it was smother'd up.

Great-heart. And did none of these Things discourage you?

Valiant. No, they seemed as so many Nothings to me.

Great-heart. How came that about?

Valiant. Why, I still believed what Mr. Tell-true had said, and that carried me beyond them all. How he got over these stumbling Blocks.

Great-heart. Then this was your Victory, even your Faith?

Valiant. It was so, I believed, and therefore came out, got into the Way, fought all that set themselves against me, and by believing, am come to this Place:

*Who would true Valour see,
Let him come hither;
One here will constant be,
Come Wind, come Weather:*

*There's no Discouragement
Shall make him once relent,
His first avow'd Intent,
To be a Pilgrim.*

*Whoso beset him round
With dismal Stories,
Do but themselves confound;
His Strength the more is.*

*No Lion can him fright;
He'll with a Giant fight,
But he will have a Right,
To be a Pilgrim.*

*Hobgoblin, nor foul Fiend
Can daunt his Spirit;
He knows, he at the End Shall Life inherit.*

*Then Fancies fly away,
He'll not fear what Men say,
He'll labour Night and Day
To be a Pilgrim.*

By this Time they were got to the Inchanted Ground, where the Air naturally tended to make one Drowzy: And that Place was all grown over with Briars and Thorns, excepting here and there, where was an Inchanted Arbour, upon which if a Man sits, or in which if a Man sleeps, 'tis a Question, say some, Whether ever he shall Rise or Wake again in this World? Over this Forest therefore they went, both one and another, and Mr. Great-heart went before, for that he was the Guide, and Mr. Valiant-for-truth, he came behind, being Rear-Guard, for fear, lest peradventure some Fiend, or Dragon, or Giant, or Thief, should fall upon their Rear, and so do Mischief. They went on here, each Man with his Sword drawn in his Hand, for they knew it was a dangerous Place. Also they cheered up one another, as well as they could; Feeblemind, Mr. Great-heart commanded should come up after him, and Mr.

Mr. Despondency was under the Eye of Mr. Valiant.

Now they had not gone far, but a great Mist and Darknes fell upon them all; so that they could scarce, for a great while, one see the other. Wherefore they were forced, for some Time, to feel for one another, by Words; for they walked not by Sight.

But any one must think, that here was but sorry going for the best of them all; but how much worse for the Women and Children, who both of Feet and Heart were but tender. Yet so it was, that through the encouraging Words of him that led in the Front, and of him that brought them up behind, they made a pretty good Shift to wag along.

The Way was also here very wearisome, through Dirt and Slabbiness. Nor was there on all this Ground, so much as one Inn, or Victualling-house, wherein to refresh the Feebler Sort. Here therefore was Grunting, and Puffing, and Sighing: While one tumbleth over a Bush, another sticks fast in the Dirt; and the Children, some of them, lost their Shoes in the Mire: While one cries out, I am down; and another, Ho, where are you? And a third, The Bushes have got such fast hold on me, I think I cannot get away from them.

*An Arbour on the In-chanted
Ground.* Then they came at an Arbour, warm, and promising much Refreshing to the Pilgrims: For it was finely wrought above-head, beautify'd with Greens, furnish'd with Benches and Settles. It had in it a soft Couch, where the Weary might lean. This, you must think, all Things consider'd, was tempting; for the Pilgrims already began to be foiled with the Badness of the Way; but there was not one of them that made so much as a Motion to stop there. Yea, for ought I could perceive, they continually gave so good Heed to the Advice of their Guide, and he did so faithfully tell them of Dangers, and of the Nature of Dangers when they were at them, that usually when they were nearest to them, they did most pluck up their Spirits, and hearten one another to deny the Flesh. This Arbour was call'd, The Slothful's Friend, on purpose to allure, if it might be, some of the Pilgrims there, to take up their Rest, when weary.

The Way is difficult to find. I saw then in my Dream, that they went on in this their solitary Ground, till they came to a Place at which a Man is apt to lose his Way. Now, tho' when it was Light, their Guide could well enough tell how to miss those Ways that led wrong, yet in the Dark he was put to a Stand: But he had in his Pocket a Map of all ways leading to or from the Celestial City; wherefore he struck a Light, (for he never goes also without his Tinder-Box) and takes a View of his Book or Map, which bids him be careful in that Place, to turn to the Right-hand. And had he not here been careful to look in his Map, they had in all Probability been smother'd in the Mud; for just a little before them, and that at the End of the cleanest Way too, was a Pit, none knows how deep, full of nothing but Mud; there made on Purpose to destroy the Pilgrims in.

Then thought I with myself, who, that goeth on Pilgrimage, but would have one God's Book. of these Maps about him, that he may look when he is at a Stand, which is the Way he must take.

They went on then in this Inchanted Ground, till they came to where there was another Arbour, and it was built by the High-way-Side. And in that Arbour there lay Two Men, whose Names were Heedless and Too-Bold. These Two went thus far on Pilgrimage; but here, being wearied with their Journey, sat down to rest themselves, and so fell fast asleep. When the Pilgrims saw them, they stood still, and shook their Heads; for they knew that the Sleepers were in a pitiful Case. Then they consulted what to do, whether to go on, and leave them in their Sleep, or step to them, and try to awake them. So they concluded to go to them, and awake them; that is, if they could; but with this Caution, namely to take Heed that themselves did not sit down nor embrace the offered Benefit of that Arbour. An Arbour, and two asleep therein.

So they went in, and spake to the Men, and called each by his Name, (for the Guide it seems did know them) but there was no Voice, nor Answer. Then the Guide did shake them, and do what he could to disturb them. Then said one of them, I will pay you when I take my Money. At which the Guide shook his Head. *The Pilgrims try to
them.* I will fight so long as I can hold my Sword in my Hand, said the other. At that, one of the Children laughed.

Then said Christiana, What is the Meaning of this? The Guide said, They talk in their Sleep; if you strike them, beat them, or whatever else you do to them, they will answer you, after this Fashion; or as one of them said in old Time, when the Waves of the Sea did beat upon him, and he slept as one upon the Mast of a Ship; When I awake, I will seek it again. You know, when Men talk in their Sleep, they say any Thing, but their Words are not governed either by Faith or Reason. There is an Incoherency in their Words now, as there was before betwixt their going on Pilgrimage, and sitting down here. This then is the Mischief on't, when heedless Ones go on Pilgrimage, twenty to one but they are served thus. For this Inchanted Ground is one of the last Refuges that the Enemy to Pilgrims has; wherefore it is, as you see, placed almost at the End of the Way, and so it standeth against us with the more Advantage. *Their Endeavour is fruitless.
Prov. 23.
34, 35.*

Advantage. For when, thinks the Enemy, will these Fools be so desirous to sit down, as when they are weary? and when so like to be weary, as when almost at their Journey's End? Therefore it is, I say, that the Inchanted Ground is placed so nigh to the Land Beulah, and so near the End of their Race. Wherefore, let Pilgrims look to themselves, lest it happen to them, as it has done to these, that, as you see, are fallen asleep, and none can awake them.

The Light of the World.
2 Pet. 1.
19.

Then the Pilgrims desired with Trembling to go forward, only they prayed their Guide to strike a Light, that they might go the rest of their Way by the help of the Light of a Lantern. So he struck a Light, and they went by the Help of that through the rest of this Way, though the Darkness was very great.

The Children cry for Weariness.

But the Children began to be sorely weary, and they cried out unto him that loveth Pilgrims, to make their Way more comfortable. So by that they had gone a little farther, a Wind arose, that drove away the Fog, so the Air became more clear.

Yet they were not off (by much) of the Inchanted Ground, only now they could see one another better, and the Way wherein they should walk.

Ground.

Now, when they were almost at the End of this Ground, they perceived that a little before them was a solemn Noise, of one that was much concerned. So they went on, and looked before them: And behold they saw, as they thought, a Man upon his Knees, with Hands and Eyes lift up, and speaking, as they thought, earnestly to one that was above; they drew nigh, but could not tell what he said; so they went softly till he had done. When he had done, he got up, and began to run towards the Celestial City. Then Mr. Great-heart called after him, saying, Soho, Friend, let us have your Company, if you go, as I suppose you do, to the Celestial City. So the Man stopped, and they came up to him. But so soon as Mr. Honest saw him, he said I know this Man. Then said Mr. Valiant-for-Truth, Prithee, who is it? 'Tis one, said he, that comes from whereabouts I dwell, his Name is Standfast; he is certainly a right good Pilgrim.

and Mr.
Honest.

So they came up to one another, and presently Standfast said to old Honest, Ho, Father Honest, are you there? Ay, said he, that I am, as sure as you are there. Right glad I am, said Mr. Standfast, that I have found you on this Road. And as glad am I, said the other, that I espied you upon your Knees. Then Mr. Standfast blushed, and said; But why, did you see me? Yes, that I did, quoth the other, and with my Heart was glad at the Sight. Why, what did you think, said Standfast? Think, said old Honest, What should I think? I thought we had an Honest Man upon the Road, therefore should have his Company by and by. If you thought not amiss, how happy am I? But if I be not as I should, 'tis I alone must bear it. That is true, said the other; but your Fear doth farther confirm me, That Things are right betwixt the Prince of Pilgrims and your Soul: For he saith, Blessed is the Man that feareth always.

Valiant. Well, but Brother, I pray thee tell us. What was it that was the Cause of thy being upon thy Knees even now? Was it for some Obligations laid by special Mercies upon thee, or how?

Standfast. Why, we are, as you see, upon the Inchanted Ground; and as I was coming along, I was musing with myself of what a dangerous Nature the Road in this Place was, and how many that had come even thus far on Pilgrimage, had here been stopt, and been destroy'd. I thought also of the Manner of Death, with which this Place destroyeth Men. Those that die here, die of no violent Distemper: The Death which such die, is not greivous to them. For he that goeth away in a Sleep, begins that Journey with Desire and Pleasure. Yea, such acquiesce in the Will of that Disease.

Hon. Then Mr. Honest interrupting of him, said, Did you see the Two Men asleep in the Arbour?

Standfast. Ay, ay, I saw Heedless and Too-bold there; and for ought I know, there they will lie till they rot: But let me go on with my Tale: As I was thus musing, as I said, there was one in very pleasant Attire, but Old, who presented herself unto me, and offered me Three Things, to wit, Her Body, her Purse, and her Bed. Now the Truth is, I was both weary and sleepy: I am also as poor as a Howlet, and that perhaps the Witch knew. Well, I repulsed her once and twice, but she put by my Repulses, and smiled. Then I began to be angry, but she mattered that nothing at all. Then she made Offers again, and said, If I would be ruled by her, she would make me Great and Happy. For, said she, I am the Mistress of the World, and Men are made happy by me. Then I asked her Name, and she told me it was Madam Bubble. This set me farther from her; but she still followed me with Inticements. Then I betook me, as you see, to my Knees, and with Hands lifted up, and Cries, I prayed to him that had said he would help. So just as you came up, the Gentlewoman went her Way. Then I continued to give Thanks for this great Deliverance; for I verily believe she intended no Good, but rather sought to make a Stop of me in my Journey.

Hon. Without Doubt her Designs were bad. But stay, now you talk of her, methink I either have seen her, or have read some Story of her.

K k k k

Standfast.

Standfast. Perhaps you have done both.

Hon. Madam Bubble! is she not a tall, comely Dame, something of a swarthy Complexion?

Standfast. Right, you hit it, she is just such a one.

Hon. Doth she not speak very smoothly, and give you a Smile at the End of every Sentence?

Standfast. You fall right upon it again, for these are her very Actions.

Hon. Doth she not wear a great Purse by her Side, and is not her Hand often in it, fingering her Money, as if that was her Heart's Delight?

Standfast. 'Tis just so; had she stood by all this while, you could not more amply have set her forth before me, and have better described her Features.

Hon. Then he that drew her Picture was a good Limner, and he that wrote of her said true.

Great-heart. This Woman is a Witch, and it is by virtue of her Sorceries, that The World. this Ground is enchanted: Whoever doth lay their Head down in her Lap, had as good lay it down upon that Block over which the Axe doth hang; and whoever lays their Eyes upon her Beauty, are counted the Enemies of God. This is she that maintaineth in their Splendor, all those that are the Enemies of Pilgrims. Yea, Jam. 4. 4. this is she that hath brought off many a John 2. 15. Man from a Pilgrim's Life. She is a great Gossipper; she is always, both she and her Daughters, at one Pilgrim's Heels or another, now commending, and then preferring the Excellencies of this Life. She is a bold and impudent Slut; she will talk with any Man. She always laugheth poor Pilgrims to Scorn, but highly commends the Rich. If there be one cunning to get Money in a Place, she will speak well of him from House to House; she loveth Banqueting and Feasting mainly well: She is always at one full Table or another. She has given it out at some Places, That she is a Goddess, and therefore some do worship her. She has her Time, and open Places of Cheating; and she will say, and avow it, That none can shew a Good comparable to hers. She promiseth to dwell with Children's Children, if they would but love and make much of her. She will cast out of her Purse Gold, like Dust, in some Places, and to some Persons. She loves to be sought after, spoken well of, and to lie in the Bosoms of Men. She is never weary of commending her Commodities, and she loves them most that think best of her. She will promise Crowns and Kingdoms, if they will but take her Advice; yet many hath she brought to the Halter, and Ten Thousand Times more to Hell.

Standfast. Oh? said Standfast, What a Mercy is it that I did resist her; for whither might she have drawn me?

Great-heart. Whither! nay, none but God knows. But in general, to be sure she would have drawn thee into many foolish and hurtful Lusts, which drown Men in Destruction and Perdition. Tim. 6.

It was she that set Absalom against his Father, and Jeroboam against his Master. It was she that persuaded Judas to sell his Lord; and that prevailed with Demas to forsake the Godly Pilgrim's Life; none can tell of the Mischief that she doth. She makes Variance betwixt Rulers and Subjects, betwixt Parents and Children, betwixt Neighbour and Neighbour, betwixt a Man and his Wife, between a Man and himself, betwixt Flesh and the Spirit.

Wherefore, good Master Standfast, be as your Name is, and when you have done all, Stand.

At this Discourse there was, among the Pilgrims, a Mixture of Joy and Trembling; but at length they brake out and sang:

What Danger is the Pilgrim in?

How many are his Foes?

How many Ways there are to sin?

No living Mortal knows.

Some in the Ditch spoil'd are, yea can Lie tumbling on the Mire.

Some, though they shun the Frying-Pan,

Do leap into the Fire.

After this, I beheld until they were come unto the Land of Beulah, where the Sun shineth Night and Day. Here, because they were weary, they betook themselves a while to rest. And because this Country was common for Pilgrims, and because the Orchards and Vineyards that were here, belonged to the King of the Celestial Country, therefore they were licensed to make bold with any of his Things. But a little while soon refreshed them here; for the Bells did so ring, and the Trumpets continually sounding so melodiously, that they could not sleep, and yet they received as much Refreshing, as if they slept their Sleep never so soundly. Here also all the Noise of them that walked in the Streets, was, More Pilgrims are come to Town. And another would answer, saying, And so many went over the Water, and were let in at the Golden Gates to Day. They would cry again, There is now a Legion of shining Ones just come to Town: By which, we know, that there are more Pilgrims upon the Road; for here they come to wait for them, and to comfort them after their Sorrow. Then the Pilgrims got up, and walked to and fro: But how were their Eyes now filled with Celestial Visions? In this Land they heard nothing, saw nothing, felt nothing, smelt nothing, tasted nothing, that was offensive to their Stomach or Mind; only when they tasted of the Water of the River, over which they were to go, they thought Death bitter to the Flesh, but sweet to the Soul. thought that tasted a little Bitterish to the Palate, but it proved Sweet when it was down.

In this Place there was a Record kept of the Names of them that had been Pilgrims of old, and a History of all the famous Acts that they had done. It was here also much discoursed, How the River to some has its Flowings, and what Ebbings it has had while others have gone over. It has been in a Manner dry for some, while it has overflowed its Banks for others.

In this Place the Children of the Town would go into the King's Gardens, and gather Nougats for the Pilgrims, and bring them to them with Affection, here also grew Camphire, and Spikenard, Saffron, Calamus, and Cinnamon, with all its Trees of Frankincense, Myrrh, and Aloes, with all chief Spices. With these the Pilgrim's Chambers were perfumed while they staid here; and with these were their Bodies anointed, to prepare them to go over the River, when the Time appointed was come.

Now while they lay here, and waited for the good Hour, there was a Noise in the Town, That there was a Post come from the Celestial City, with Matters of great Importance to one Christiana, the Wife of Christian the Pilgrim. So Enquiry was made for her, and the House was found out where she was, so the Post presented her with a Letter: The Contents were, Hail good Woman! I bring thee Tidings, That the Master calleth for thee, and expecteth that thou shouldest stand in his Presence, in Cloaths of Immortality, within these Ten Days.

When he had read this Letter to her, he gave her therewith a true Token that he was a true Messenger, and was come to bid her make Haste to be gone. The Token was, An Arrow sharpened with Love, let easily into her Heart, which by Degrees wrought so effectually with her, that at the Time appointed she must be gone.

When Christiana saw that her Time was come, and that she was the first of this Company that was to go over, she called for Mr. Great-heart her Guide, and told him how Matters were. So he told her, he was heartily glad of the News, and could have been glad, had the Post come for him. Then he bid that he should give Advice how all Things should be prepared for her Journey.

So he told her, saying, Thus and thus it must be, and we that survive, will accompany you to the River Side.

Then she called for her Children, and gave them her Blessing, and told them, that she had read with Comfort, the Mark that was set in their Foreheads, and was glad to see them with her there, and that they had kept their Garments so white. Lastly, she bequeathed to the Poor, that Little she had, and commanded her Sons and Daughters to be ready against the Messenger should come for them.

When she had spoken these Words to her Guide, and to her Children, she called for Mr. Valiant-for-Truth, and said unto him, Sir, you have in all Places shewed yourself true-hearted, be Faithful unto Death, and my King will give a Crown of Glory. I would also intreat you to have an Eye to my Children; and if at any Time you see them Faint, speak comfortably to them. For my Daughters, my Son's Wives, they have been faithful, and a Fulfilling of the Promise upon them will be their End. But she gave Mr. Standfast a Ring.

Then she called for old Mr. Honest, and said of him, Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom is no Guile. Then said he, I wish you a fair Day, when you set out for Mount Sion, and shall be glad to see that you go over the River dry-shod. But she answered, come wet, come dry, I long to be gone, for however the Weather is in my Journey, I shall have Time enough when I come there, to sit down and rest me, and dry me.

Then came in that good Man Mr. Ready-to-halt, to see her. So she said to him, thy Travel hitherto has been with Difficulty; but that will make thy Rest the sweeter. But watch and be ready; for at an Hour when you think not, the Messenger may come.

After him came in Mr. Despondency, and his Daughter Much-afraid; to whom she said, you ought with Thankfulness, for ever to remember your Deliverance from the Hand of Giant Despair, and out of Doubting-Castle. The Effect of that Mercy, that you are brought with Safety hither. Be yet watchful, and cast away Fear; be sober, and hope to the End.

Then she said to Mr. Feeble-mind, Thou wast delivered from the Mouth of Giant Slay-Good, that thou mightest live in the Light of the Living for ever, and see the King with Comfort: Only I advise thee to repent thee of thy Aptness to fear and doubt of his Goodness, before he sends for thee; lest thou shouldest, when he comes, be forced to stand before him for that Fault, with Blushing.

Now the Day drew on, that Christiana must be gone. So the Road was full of People, to see her take her Journey. But behold! all the Banks beyond the River were full of Horses and Chariots, which were come down from above, to accompany her to the City Gate. So she came forth, and entered the River, with a Beckon of Farewell, to those that followed her to the River-Side. The last Words that she was heard to say, were, I come, Lord, to be with thee, and bless thee.

So her Children and Friends returned to their Place, for that those that waited for Christiana had carried her out of their Sight.

Sight. So she went and called, and entered in at the Gate with all the Ceremonies of Joy, that her Husband Christian had entered with before her.

At her Departure the Children wept. But Mr. Great-heart and Mr. Valiant play'd upon the well-tuned Cymbal and Harp for Joy. So all departed to their respective Places.

In Process of Time, there came a Post to the Town again, and his Business was with Mr. Ready-to-halt. So he enquired him out, and said, I am come to thee in the Name of him whom thou hast loved and followed, tho' upon Crutches: And my Message is to tell thee, That he expects thee at his Table to Sup with him in his Kingdom, the next Day after Easter: Wherefore prepare thyself for thy Journey.

Then he also gave him a Token that he was a true Messenger, saying, I have broken the Golden Bowl, and loosed the Silver Cord.

After this, Mr. Ready-to-halt called for his Fellow Pilgrims, and told them, saying, I am sent for, and God shall surely visit you also. So he desired Mr. Valiant to make his Will. And because he had nothing to bequeath to them that should survive him, but his Crutches, and his Good Wishes, therefore thus he said: These Crutches I bequeath to my Son, that shall tread in my Steps, with an hundred warm Wishes, that he may prove better than I have been.

Then he thanked Mr. Great-heart for his Conduct and Kindness, and so addressed himself to his Journey. When he came to the Brink of the River, he said, Now I shall have no more need of these Crutches, since yonder are Chariots and Horses for me to ride on: The last Words he was heard to say, was, Welcome Life. So he went his Way.

After this, Mr. Feeble-mind had Tidings brought him, that the Post sounded his Horn at his Chamber-Door. Then he came in, and told him, saying, I am come to tell thee that thy Master hath need of thee; and that in a very little Time thou must behold his Face in Brightness: And take this as a Token of the Truth of my Message: Those that look out at the Windows, shall be darkened.

Then Mr. Feeble-mind called for his Friends, and told them what Errand had been brought unto him, and what Token he had received of the Truth of the Message. Then he said, Since I have nothing to bequeath to any, to what purpose should I make a Will? As for my Feeble-mind, that I will leave behind, for that I shall have no need of it in the Place whither I go; nor is it worth bestowing upon the poorest Pilgrims: Wherefore, when I am gone, I desire, that you, Mr. Valiant, would bury it in a Dunghill. This done, and the Day being come in which he was to depart, he entered the River as the rest: His last Words were, Hold out, Faith and Patience. So he went over to the other Side. His last Words.

When Days had many of them passed away, Mr. Despondency was sent for; for a Post was come, and brought this Message to him: Trembling Man, these are to summon thee to be ready with the King by the next Lord's Day, to shout for Joy, for thy Deliverance from all thy Doubtings. Mr. Despondency's Summons.

And, said the Messenger, that my Message is true, take this for a Proof. So he gave him a Grasshopper to be a Burthen unto him. Now Mr. Despondency's Daughter, whose Name was Much-afraid, said, when she heard what was done, that she would go with her Father. Then Mr. Despondency said to his Friends, myself and my Daughter, you know what we have been, and how troublesomely we have behaved ourselves in every Company. My Will, and my Daughter's is, That our Desponds and slavish Fears be by no Man ever received, from the Day of our Departure, for ever: For I know, that after my Death they will offer themselves to others. For, to be plain with you, they are Guests, which we entertained when we first began to be Pilgrims, and could never shakethem off after: And they will walk about, and seek Entertainment of the Pilgrims; but for our Sakes, shut the Doors upon them. Eccles. 12. His Will.

When the Time was come for them to depart, they went up to the Brink of the River. The last Words of Mr. Despondency were, Farewel Night, Welcome Day. His Daughter went through the River singing, but none could understand what she said. His Words.

Then it came to pass a while after, that there was a Post in the Town, that enquired for Mr. Honest. So he came to his House, where he was, and delivered to his Hands these Lines: Thou art commanded to be ready against this Day Sevensnight, to present thyself before thy Lord, at his Father's House. And for a Token that my Message is true, All the Daughters of Musick shall be brought low. Then Mr. Honest called for his Friends, and said unto them, I die, but shall make no Will. As for my Honesty, it shall go with me; let him that comes after be told of this. When the Day that he was to be gone was come, he addressed himself to go over the River. Now the River at that Time overflow'd the Banks in some Places; but Mr. Honest in his Lifetime had spoken to one Good-Conscience to meet him there, the which he also did, and lent him his Hand, and so helped him over. The last Words of Mr. Honest were, Grace reigns: So he left the World. Eccles. 12. He makes no Will. Good-Conscience helps Mr. Honest over the River.

After

Mr. Valiant-for-Truth summoned
Ecclef. 12. 6. After this, it was noised abroad, that Mr. Valiant-for-Truth was taken with a Summons by the same Post as the other; and had this for a Token that the Summons was true, That his Pitcher was broken at the Fountain. When he understood it, he called for his Friends, and told them of it. Then, said he, I am going to my Father's, and tho' with great Difficulty I have got hither, yet now I do not repent me of all the Trouble I have been at to arrive where I am. My Sword I give to him that shall succeed me in my Pilgrimage, and my Courage and Skill to him that can get it. My Marks and Scars I carry with me, to be a Witness for me, that I have fought his Battles, who now will be my Rewarder. When the Day that he must go hence was come, many accompanied him to the River Side, into which as he went, he said, Death, Where is thy Sting? And as he went down deeper, he said, Grave, Where is thy Victory? So he passed over, and all the Trumpets sounded for him on the other Side.

His last Words.

Mr. Standfast is summoned.

Ecc. 12. 6. He calls for Mr. Great-heart.

His Speech to him.

His Errand to his Family.

Then there came forth a Summons for Mr. Standfast. This Mr. Standfast was he that the Pilgrims found upon his Knees in the enchanted Ground. And the Post brought it him open in his Hands. The Contents whereof were, That he must prepare for a Change of Life, for his Master was not willing that he should be so far from him any longer. At this Mr. Standfast was put into a Mule: Nay, saith the Messenger, you need not doubt of the Truth of my Message; for here is a Token of the Truth thereof: Thy Wheel is broken at the Cistern. Then he called to him Mr. Great-heart, who was their Guide, and said unto him, Sir, although it was not my Hap to be much in your good Company in the Days of my Pilgrimage, yet, since the Time I knew you, you have been profitable to me. When I came from home, I left behind me a Wife, and five small Children; let me intreat you, at your Return, (for I know that you go and return to your Master's House, in Hopes that you may be a Conductor to more of the Holy Pilgrims) that you send to my Family, and let them be acquainted with all that hath, and shall happen unto me. Tell them moreover of my happy Arrival to this Place, and of the present and late blessed Condition that I am in. Tell them also of Christiana and Christiana his Wife, and how she and her Children came after her Husband. Tell them also, of what a happy End she made, and whither she is gone. I have little or nothing to send to my Family, except it be my Prayers and Tears for them; of which it will suffice, if you acquaint them, if peradventure they may prevail.

When Mr. Standfast had thus set Things in Order, and the Time being come for him to haste him away, he also went down to the River. Now there was a great Calm at that Time in the River; wherefore Mr. Standfast, when he was about half Way in, stood a while, and talked to his Companions that had waited upon him thither: And he said,

This River has been a Terror to many, yea, the Thoughts of it also have often frightened me; now methinks I stand easy, my Foot is fixed upon that on which the Feet of the Priests that bare the Ark of the Covenant stood, while Israel went over this Jordan. The Waters indeed are to the Palate bitter, and to the Stomach cold; yet the Thoughts of what I am going to, and of the Conduct that waits for me on the other Side, doth lie as a glowing Coal at my Heart.

His last Words. Jol. 3. 17.

I see myself now at the End of my Journey; my Toilsome Days are ended. I am going to see that Head, that was crowned with Thorns, and that Face, that was spit upon for me.

I have formerly lived by Hear-say and Faith; but now I shall go where I shall live by Sight, and shall be with him in whose Company I delight myself.

I have loved to hear my Lord spoken of, and where-ever I have seen the Print of his Shoe in the Earth, there I have coveted to set my Foot too.

His Name has been to me as a Civet-Box; yea, sweeter than all Perfumes. His Voice to me has been most sweet; and his Countenance I have more desired than they that have most desired the Light of the Sun. His Words I did use to gather for my Food, and for Antidotes against my Faintings. He has held me, and hath kept me from mine Iniquities; yea, my Steps have been strengthened in his Way.

Now, while he was thus in Discourse, his Countenance changed, his Strong Man bowed under him: And after he had said, Take me, for I come unto thee, he ceased to be seen of them.

But glorious it was to see, how the open Region was filled with Horses and Chariots, with Trumpeters and Pipers, with Singers and Players on stringed Instruments, to welcome the Pilgrims as they went up, and followed one another in at the beautiful Gate of the City.

As for Christiana's Children, the Four Boys that Christiana brought, with their Wives and Children, I did not stay where I was till they were gone over. Also since I came away, I heard one say, they were yet alive, and so would be for the Increase of the Church in that Place where they were, for a Time.

Shall it be my Lot to go that Way again, I may give those that desire it, an Account of what I here am silent about; mean Time I bid my Reader offered to the BIGGEST SINNERS.

To which is added,
 An ANSWER to those GRAND OBJECTIONS that lie in the Way of them that would believe: For the Comfort of those that fear they have sinned against the HOLY GHOST.

To the R E A D E R.

COURTEOUS READER,

ONE reason which moved me to Write and Print this Little Book, was, because, though there are many Excellent Heart-affecting Discourses in the World that tends to Convert the Sinner; yet I had a desire to try this simple Method of mine: Wherefore I Make bold thus to Invite and Encourage the Worst to come to Christ for Life.

I have been Vile myself, but have obtained Mercy, and I would have my Companions in Sin partake of Mercy too, and therefore I have writ this Little Book.

The Nation doth swarm with Vile ones now, as ever it did since it was a Nation. My Little Book in some places can scarce go from House to House, but 'twill find a suitable Subject to spend itself upon. Now since Christ Jesus is willing to save the Vilest, why should they not by Name be somewhat acquainted with it, and bid come to him under that Name.

A great Sinner, when Converted, seems a Booty to Jesus Christ; he gets by saving such an one; why then should both Jesus lose his Glory, and the Sinner lose his Soul at once, and that for want of an Invitation?

I have found through God's grace, good success in Preaching upon this Subject, and perhaps so I may, by my writing upon it too, I have, as you see, let down this Net for a draught, the Lord catch some great Fishes by it, for the magnifying of his Truth. There are some most Vile in all Mens eyes, and some are so in their own eyes too; but some have their Paintings to shroud their vileness under, yet they are naked and open unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do: And for all these, God hath sent a Saviour Jesus: and to all these the Door is opened.

Wherefore prithee, Profane Man, give this little Book the reading. Come; Pardon, and a part in Heaven and Glory, cannot be hurtful to thee. Let not thy Lusts and Folly drive thee beyond the door of Mercy, since it is not lockt nor bolted up against thee. Manasseh was a bad Man, and Magdalen a bad Woman: To say nothing of the Thief upon the Cross, or of the Murderers of Christ; yet they obtained Mercy; Christ willingly received them.

And dost thou think that those once so bad, now they are in Heaven, repent them there, because they left their sins for Christ when they were in the World? I cannot believe but that thou thinkest they have verily got the best on't. Why Sinner, do thou likewise: Christ at Heaven Gates, says to thee, come hither; and the Devil at the Gates of Hell does call thee to come to him, Sinner, what sayest thou? Whither wilt thou go? Don't go into the Fire, there thou wilt be burned! Don't let Jesus lose his longing, since 'tis for thy Salvation; but come to him and live.

One word more and so I have done. Sinner, here thou dost hear of Love, prithee don't provoke it, by turning it into wantonness. He that dies for slighting Love, sinks deepest into Hell, and will there be tormented by the remembrance of that evil, more than by the deepest cogitation of all his other sins. Take heed therefore, do not make Love thy Tormenter, Sinner.

FAREWELL.

Good News for the Vilest of Men,

O R,

A HELP for DESPAIRING SOULS.

LUKE XXIV. 47. ----- Beginning at Jerusalem.

THE whole Verse runs thus: And that Repentance and Remission of Sins should be preached in his Name among all Nations, beginning at Jerusalem.

The Words were spoken by Christ, after he rose from the Dead, and they are here rehearsed after an Historical manner, but do contain in them a formal Commission, with a special Clause, therein. The Commission is, as you see, for the Preaching of the Gospel, and is very distinctly inserted in the Holy Record by Matthew and Mark. Go teach all Nations, &c. Go ye into all the World and preach the Gospel unto every Creature, Mat. 28. 19. Mark 16. 15. Only this Clause is in special mentioned by Luke, who saith, That as Christ would have the Doctrine of Repentance and Remission of Sins preached in his Name among all Nations, so he would have the People of Jerusalem to have the first Proffer thereof. Preach it, saith Christ, in all Nations: but begin at Jerusalem.

The Apostles then, though they had a Commission so large as to give them Warrant to go and preach the Gospel in all the World, yet by this Clause they were limited, as to the beginning of their Ministry: They were to begin this Work at Jerusalem. Beginning at Jerusalem.

Before I proceed to an Observation upon the Words, I must (but briefly) touch upon two things: Namely,

1. Shew you what Jerusalem now was.
2. Shew you what it was to preach the Gospel to them.

For the first, Jerusalem is to be considered, either,

1. With respect to the descent of her People: Or,
2. With respect to her Preference and Exaltation: Or,
3. With respect to her present State, as to her Decays.

First, As to her Descent: She was from Abraham, the Sons of Jacob, a People that God singled out from the rest of the Nations to set his love upon them.

Secondly, As to her Preference, or Exaltation, she was the Place of God's Worship, and that which had in, and with her, the special Tokens and Signs of God's Favour and Presence, above any other People in the World. Hence the Tribes went up to Jerusalem to Worship, there was God's House, God's High Priest, God's Sacrifices accepted, and God's Eye, and God's Heart perpetually, Psal. 76. 1, 2. Psal. 122. 1, to 9. 1 Kings 9. 3. But,

Thirdly, We are to consider Jerusalem also in her Decays; for as she is so considered, she is the proper Object of our Text, as will be further shewed by and by.

Jerusalem, as I told you, was the Place and Seat of God's Worship, but now decayed, degenerated, and apostatized. The Word, the Rule of Worship, was rejected of them, and in its Place they had put and set up their own Traditions: They had rejected also the most weighty Ordinances, and put in the room thereof their own little things, (Mat. 15. Mark 7.) Jerusalem was therefore now greatly backslidden, and become the Place where Truth and true Religion was much defaced.

It was also now become the very Sink of Sin, and Seat of Hypocrisy, and Gulf where true Religion was drowned. Here also now reigned Presumption, and groundless Confidence in God, which is the bane of Souls. Amongst its Rulers, Doctors, and Leaders, Envy, Malice and Blasphemy vented it self against the Power of Godliness, in all Places where it was espied: As also against the Promoters of it; yea, their Lord and Maker could not escape them.

In a Word, Jerusalem was now become the Shambles, the very Slaughter-shop for Saints.

Saints. This was the Place wherein the Prophets, Christ, and his People, were most horribly persecuted and murdered. Yea, so hardened at this time was this Jerusalem in her Sins, that she feared not to commit the biggest, and to bind her self by Wish under the guilt and damning Evil of it; saying, when she had murdered the Son of God, His Blood be upon us and our Children.

And though Jesus Christ did both by Doctrine, Miracles, and Holiness of Life, seek to put a stop to their Villanies; yet they shut their Eyes, stoppt their Ears, and rested not, till, as was hinted before, they had driven him out of the World. Yea, that they might, if possible, have extinguished his Name, and exploded his Doctrine out of the World, they against all Argument, and in despite of Heaven, its mighty Hand, and undeniable Proof of his Resurrection, did hire Soldiers to invent a Lye, saying, His Disciples stole him away from the Grave; on purpose that Men might not count him the Saviour of the World, nor trust in him for the Remission of Sins.

They were faith Paul, contrary to all Men: For they did not only shut up the Door of Life against themselves, but forbad that it should be opened to any else. Forbidding us, faith he, to preach to the Gentiles, that they might be saved, to fill up their Sin alway, Mat. 23. 35. chap. 15. 7, 8, 9. Mar. 7. 6, 7, 8. Mat. 3. 7, 8, 9. Job. 8. 33, 41. Mat. 27. 18. Mar. 3. 30. Luke 2. 6, 5. Mat. 23. 37. Luke 13. 33, 34. Psal. 2. 22, 23. chap. 4. 10. Mat. 27. 25. chap. 20. 11, to 16. 1 Thes. 2. 14, 15, 16.

This is the City, and these are the People: This is their Character, and these are their Sins. Nor can there be produced their parallel in all this World. Nay, what World! what People! what Nation, for Sin, and Transgression, could, or can be compared to Jerusalem! Especially if you joyn to the matter of Fact, the Light they sinned against, and the Patience which they abused. Infinite was the Wickedness upon this Account which they committed.

After all their abusings of wise Men, and Prophets, God sent unto them John Baptist, to reduce them, and then his Son to redeem them; but they would be neither reduced nor redeemed, but persecuted both to the Death. Nor did they, as I said, stop here; the Holy Apostles they afterwards persecuted also to Death, even so many as they could, the rest they drove from them unto the utmost Corners.

Secondly, I come now to shew you what it was to preach the Gospel to them. It was, faith Luke, to preach to them Repentance and Remission of Sins in Christ's Name. Or as Mark has it, to bid them repent and believe the Gospel, Mar. 1. 15. Not that Repentance is a cause of Remission, but a sign of our hearty Reception thereof. Repentance is therefore here put to intimate, that no pretended Faith of the Gospel is good, that is not accompanied with it. And this he doth on Purpose, 'cause he would not have them deceive themselves: For with what Faith can he expect Remission of Sins in the Name of Christ, that is not heartily sorry for them? Or how shall a Man be able to give to others a satisfactory Account of his unfeigned Subjection to the Gospel, that yet abides in his impenitency?

Wherefore Repentance is here joined with Faith in the Way of receiving the Gospel. Faith is that without which it cannot be received at all: And Repentance that without which it cannot be received unfeignedly. When therefore Christ says, he would have Repentance and Remission of Sins preached in his Name among all Nations; it is as much as to say, I will that all Men every where be sorry for their Sins, and accept of Mercy at God's Hand thorow me, lest they fall under his Wrath in the Judgment. For as I had said, without Repentance, what Pretence soever Men have of Faith, they cannot escape the Wrath to come. Wherefore Paul faith, God commands all Men every where to repent (in Order to their Salvation) because he hath appointed a Day in the which he will Judge the World in Righteousness by that Man whom he hath ordained, Acts 17. 30.

And now to come to this Clause, Beginning at Jerusalem. That is, that Christ would have Jerusalem have the first Offer of the Gospel.

1. This cannot be so commanded, because they had now any more right of themselves thereto than had any of the Nations of the World; for their Sins had divested them of all self-deservings.

2. Nor yet, because they stood upon the advance Ground with the worst of the Sinners of the Nations. Nay, rather the Sinners of the Nations had the advance-Ground of them. For Jerusalem was long, before she had added this Iniquity to her Sin, worse than the very Nations that God cast out before the Children of Israel, 2 Chron. 33.

3. It must therefore follow that this Clause, Begin at Jerusalem, was put into this Commission of meer Grace and Compassion; Even from the overflowings of the Bowels of Mercy. For indeed they were the worst, and so in the most deplorable Condition of any People under the Heavens.

Whatever therefore their Relation was to Abraham, Isaac, or Jacob, however they formerly had been the People among whom God had placed his Name and Worship, they were now degenerated from God, more than the Nations were from their Idols, and were become guilty of the highest highest Sins which the People of the World were capable of committing. Nay, none can be capable of committing of such pardonable Sins as they committed against their God, when they slew his Son, and persecuted his Name and Word.

From these Words therefore thus explained, we gain this Observation;

That Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners.

That these Jerusalem Sinners were the biggest Sinners that ever were in the World, I think none will deny, that believes that Christ was the best Man that ever was in the World, and also was their Lord God. And that they were to have the first offer of his Grace, the Text is as clear as the Sun: for it saith, Begin at Jerusalem. Preach, saith he, Repentance and Remission of Sins to the Jerusalem-Sinners; to the Jerusalem-Sinners in the first place.

One would a-thought, Since the Jerusalem-Sinners were the worst, and greatest Sinners, Christ's greatest Enemies, and those that not only despised his Person, Doctrine, and Miracles, but that a little before had had their Hands up to the Elbows in his Heart-blood, That he should rather have said, Go into all the World, and preach Repentance and Remission of Sins among all Nations; and after that offer the same to Jerusalem. Yea, it had been infinite Grace, if he had said so. But what Grace is this? Or what Name shall we give it, when he commands that this Repentance and Remission of Sins, which is designed to be preached in all Nations, should first be offered to Jerusalem, in the first place to the worst of Sinners.

Nor was this the first time that the Grace which was in the Heart of Christ, thus shewed itself to the World. For while he was yet alive, even while he was yet in Jerusalem, and perceived even among these Jerusalem-Sinners, which was the most vile amongst them, he still in his preaching did signify that he had a desire that the worst of these worst should in the first place come unto him. The which he sheweth where he saith to the better sort of them, The Publicans and Harlots enter into the Kingdom of God before you, Matt. 21. 31. Also when he compared Jerusalem with the Sinners of the Nations, then he commands that the Jerusalem-Sinners should have the Gospel at present confined to them. Go not, saith he, into the way of the Gentiles, and into any of the Cities of the Samaritans enter ye not: but go rather to the lost Sheep of the House of Israel, Matt. 10. 5, 6. chap. 23. 37. But go rather to them, for they were in the most fearful plight.

These therefore must have the Cream of the Gospel, namely, the first offer thereof in his Life-time: Yea, when he departed out of the World, he left this as part of his last Will with his Preachers, that they also should offer it first to Jerusalem. He had a mind, a careful mind, as it seems, to privilege the worst of Sinners with the first offer of Mercy, and to take from among them a People to be the first Fruits unto God and to the Lamb.

The fifteenth of Luke also is famous for this, where the Lord Jesus takes more care, as appears there by three Parables, for the lost Sheep, lost Groat, and the Prodigal Son, than for the other Sheep, the other Pence, or for the Son that said he had never transgressed. Yea, he shews that there is Joy in Heaven, among the Angels of God, at the Repentance of one Sinner, more than over Ninety and nine Just Persons, which need no Repentance, Luke 15.

After this manner therefore the mind of Christ was set on the Salvation of the biggest Sinners in his Life-time. But joyn to this, this Clause, which he carefully put into the Apostles Commission to preach, when he departed hence to the Father; and then you shall see that his Heart was vehemently set upon it, for these were part of his last words with them, Preach my Gospel to all Nations, but see that you begin at Jerusalem.

Nor did the Apostles overlook this Clause when their Lord was gone into Heaven: They went first to them of Jerusalem, and preached Christ's Gospel to them. They abode also there for a Season and Time, and preached it to no Body else, for they had regard to the Commandment of their Lord.

And it is to be observed, namely, that the first Sermon which they preached after the Ascension of Christ, it was preached to the very worst of these Jerusalem-Sinners; even to those that were the Murderers of Jesus Christ, Acts 2. 23. For these are part of the Sermon: Ye took him, and by wicked Hands have Crucified and slain him. Yea, the next Sermon, and the next, and also the next to that, was preached to the self-same Murderers, to the end they might be saved, Acts 3. 14, 15, 16. chap. 4. 10, 11. chap. 5. 30. chap. 7. 52.

But we will return to the first Sermon that was preached to these Jerusalem-Sinners, by which will be manifest more than great Grace, if it be duly considered.

For after that Peter and the rest of the Apostles, had in their Exhortation perswaded these Wretches to believe that they had killed the Prince of Life, and after they had duly fallen under the Guilt of their Murder, saying, Men and Brethren, what shall we do? He replies by an universal Tender to them all in General, considering them as Christ killers. That if they were Sorry for what they had done, and would be Baptized for the Remission of their Sins in his Name, they should receive the Gift of the Holy Ghost, Acts 2. 37, 38.

This he said to them all, though he knew that that they were such Sinners. Yea, he said it without the least Stick, or Stop, or Pause of Spirit, as to whether he had best to say so or no. Nay, so far off was Peter from making an Objection against one of them, that by a particular Clause in his Exhortation, he endeavours, that not one of them may escape the Salvation offered. Repent, saith he, and be Baptized every one of you. I shut out never a-one of you. For I am commanded by my Lord, to deal with you, as it were, one by one, by the Word of his Salvation. But why speaks he so particularly? Oh! there was Reasons for it. The people with whom the Apostles were now to deal, as they were Murderers of our Lord, and to be charged in the general with his Blood, so they had their various and particular Acts of Villany in the Guilt thereof, now lying upon their Consciences. And the Guilt of these their various and particular Acts of Wickedness, could not perhaps, be reached to a removal thereof, but by this particular Application. Repent every one of you; be Baptized every one of you, in his Name, for the Remission of Sins, and you shall, every one of you, receive the Gift of the Holy Ghost.

Object. But I was one of them that plotted to take away his Life: May I be saved by him?

Peter. Every one of you.

Object. But I was one of them that bare false Witness against him: Is there Grace for me?

Peter. For every one of you.

Object. But I was one of them that cried out, Crucifie, Crucifie him; and that desired that Barabas the Murderer might live, rather than him. What will become of me think you?

Peter. I am to preach Repentance and Remission of Sins to every one of you, says Peter.

Object. But I was one of them that did spit in his Face when he stood before his Accusers. I also was one that mocked him, when in Anguish he hanged bleeding on the tree. Is there room for me?

Peter. For every one of you; says Peter.

Object. But I was one of them that in his extremity said, Give him Gall and Vinegar to drink, why may not I expect the same when Anguish and Guilt is upon me?

Peter. Repent of these your Wickednesses, and here is Remission of Sins for every one of you.

Object. But I railed on him, I reviled him, I hated him, I rejoiced to see him mocked at by others. Can there be hopes for me?

Peter. There is for every one of you. Repent and be Baptized every one of you in the Name of Jesus Christ, for the Remission of Sins, and ye shall receive the Gift of the Holy Ghost. Oh! what a blessed Every one of you, is here! How willing was Peter, and the Lord Jesus, by his Ministry, to catch these Murderers with the Word of the Gospel, that they might be made Monuments of the Grace of God! How unwilling, I say, was he, that any of these should escape the hand of Mercy! Yea, what an amazing wonder is it, to think, that above all the World, and above every Body in it, These should have the first offer of Mercy! Beginning at Jerusalem.

But was there not something of moment in this Clause of the Commission? Did not Peter, think you, see a great deal in it, that he should thus begin with these men, and thus offer, so particularly, this Grace to each particular man of them?

But, as I told you, This is not all. These Jerusalem-Sinners must have this offer again and again; Every one of them, must be offered it over and over. Christ would not take their first Rejection for a denial; nor their second repulse for a denial: But he will have Grace offered once, and twice, and thrice, to these Jerusalem-Sinners. Is not this amazing Grace! Christ will not be put off. These are the Sinners, that are Sinners indeed. They are Sinners of the biggest sort, consequently such as Christ can, if they convert and be saved, best serve his Ends and Designs upon. Of which more anon.

But what a pitch of Grace is this! Christ is minded to amaze the World, and to shew that he acteth not like the Children of men. This is that which he said of old, I will not execute the fierceness of my Wrath, I will not return to destroy Ephraim, for I am God and not Man, Hol. 11. 9. This is not the manner of Men; Men are shorter winded; Men are soon moved to take Vengeance, and to right themselves in a way of Wrath and Indignation. But God is full of Grace, full of Patience, ready to forgive, and one that delights in Mercy. All this is seen in our Text. The biggest Sinners must First be offered Mercy. They must, I say, have the Cream of the Gospel offered unto them.

But we will a little proceed. In the Third Chapter we find, that they who escaped Converting by the first Sermon, are called upon again, to accept of Grace and Forgiveness, for their Murder committed upon this Son of God. You have killed; yea, you have denied the Holy one and the Just, and desired a Murderer to be granted unto you. And killed the Prince of Life. Mark, He falls again upon the very Men that actually were, as you have it in the Chapters following, his very Betrayers and Murderers, Acts 3. 14, 15. As being loth that they should escape the Mercy of Forgiveness. And exhorts them again to repent, that their Sins might be blotted out, Ver. 19. 20.

Again, in the fourth Chapter, he charges them afresh with this Murder, Ver. 10. But withal tells them, Salvation is in no other.

ther. Then like a heavenly Decoy, he puts himself also among them, to draw them the better under the Net of the Gospel; saying, There is none other Name under Heaven given among Men, whereby we must be saved, Ver. 12.

In the fifth Chapter you find them railing at him, because he continued preaching among them Salvation in the Name of Jesus. But he tells them, That that very Jesus whom they had slain and hanged on a Tree, him God had raised up, and exalted to be a Prince and a Saviour, to give Repentance to Israel, and Forgiveness of Sins, Ver. 29. 30, 31. Still insinuating, that tho' they had killed him, and to this Day rejected him, yet his Business was to bestow upon them, Repentance and Forgiveness of Sins.

'Tis true, after they began to kill again, and when Nothing but Killing would serve their Turn; then they that were scattered abroad, went every where preaching the Word. Yet, even some of them so hankered after the Conversion of the Jews, that they preached the Gospel only to them. Also the Apostles still made their Abode at Jerusalem, in Hopes that they might yet let down their Net for another Draught of these Jerusalem Sinners. Neither did Paul and Barnabas, who were the Ministers of God to the Gentiles, but offer the Gospel in the first Place to those of them that for their Wickedness were scattered like Vagabonds among the Nations. Yea, and when they rendered Rebellion and Blasphemy for their Service and Love; they replied, It was necessary that the Word of God should first have been spoken to them, Acts 1. 8. Chap. 13. 46, 47.

Nor was this their Preaching unsuccessful among these People: But the Lord Jesus so wrought with the Word thus spoken, that thousands of them came flocking to him for Mercy. Three thousand of them clofed with him at the first; and afterwards two Thousand more; for now they were in Number about five Thousand; whereas before Sermons was preached to these Murderers, the Number of the Disciples were not above a hundred and twenty, Acts 1. 15. chap. 2. 41. chap. 4. 4.

Also among these People that thus flock- ed to him for Mercy, there was a great Company of the Priests, chap. 6. 7. Now the Priests were they that were the greatest of these biggest Sinners; they were the Ringleaders, they were the Inventors and Ringleaders in the Mischief. 'Twas they that set the People against the Lord Jesus, and that was the Cause why the Uproar increased, until Pilate had given Sentence upon him. The chief Priests and Elders, says the Text, persuaded (the People) the Multitude, that they should ask Barabas, and destroy Jesus, Mat. 27. 20. And yet behold, the Priests, yea, a great Company of the Priests became obedient to the Faith.

Oh the Greatness of the Grace of Christ! That he should be thus in love with the Souls of Jerusalem Sinners! That he should be thus delighted with the Salvation of the Jerusalem Sinners! That he should not only will that his Gospel should be offered them, but that it should be offered unto them first, and before other Sinners were admitted to a Hearing of it; Begin at Jerusalem.

Was this Doctrine well believed, where would there be a Place for a Doubt, or a Fear of the Damnation of the Soul, if the Sinner be penitent; how bad a Life soever he has lived, how many soever in Number are his Sins!

But this Grace is hid from the Eyes of Men, the Devil hides it from them? for he knows it is alluring; he knows it has an attracting Vertue in it. For this is it, that above all Arguments can draw the Soul to God.

I cannot help it, but must let drop another Word: The first Church, the Jerusalem-Church, from whence the Gospel was to be sent into all the World; was a Church made up of Jerusalem Sinners. These great Sinners were here the most shining Monuments of the exceeding Grace of God.

Thus you see, I have proved the Doctrine; and that, not only by shewing you, that this was the Practice of the Lord Jesus Christ in his Life-time; but his last Will, when he went up to God; saying, Begin to preach at Jerusalem.

Yea, it is yet further manifested, in that when his Ministers first began to preach there, he joined his Power to the Word, to the converting of Thousands of his Betrayers and Murderers; and also many of the ringleading Priests, to the Faith.

I shall now proceed, and shall shew you,

1. The Reasons of the Point.

2. And then make some Application of the whole.

The Observation you know, is this, Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, to the Jerusalem-Sinners; preach Repentance, and Remission of Sins, in my Name, among all Nations, Beginning at Jerusalem.

The Reasons of the Point are,

First, Because the biggest Sinners have most need thereof. He that has most need, Reason says, should be helped first. I mean, when a helping Hand is offered, and now it is. For the Gospel of the Grace of God is sent to help the World, Acts 16. 9. But the biggest Sinner has most need. Therefore in Reason, when Mercy is sent down from Heaven to Men, the worst of Men should have the first offer of it. Begin at Jerusalem. This is the Reason which the Lord Christ himself renders, why

in

in his Life-time he left the Best, and turned him to the Worst; why he sat so loose from the Righteous, and stuck so close to the Wicked. The whole, saith he, have no need of the Physician, but the Sick. I came not to call the Righteous, but Sinners to Repentance, Mark 2. 15, 16, 17.

Above, you read, that the Scribes and Pharisees said to his Disciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with Publicans and Sinners? Alas, they did not know the Reason. But the Lord renders them one, and such an one as is both natural and cogent; Saying, These have need, most need. Their great necessity requires that I should be most friendly, and shew my grace first to them.

Not that the other were sinless, and so had no need of a Saviour: But the Publicans and their Companions, were the biggest Sinners, they were, as to view, worse than the Scribes, and therefore in Reason should be helped first, because they had most need of a Saviour.

Men that are at the Point to dye, have more need of the Physician, than they that are but now and then troubled with an Heart-fainting-qualm. The Publicans and Sinners were as it were, in the mouth of Death, Death was swallowing of them down; and therefore the Lord Jesus receives them first, offers them Mercy first. The whole have no need of the Physician, but the Sick. I came not to call the Righteous, but Sinners to Repentance. The Sick, as I said, is the biggest Sinner, whether he sees his Disease or not. He is stained from Head to Foot, from Heart to Life and Conversation. This Man in every Man's Judgment, has the most need of Mercy. There is nothing attends him from Bed to Board, and from Board to Bed again, but the visible Characters, and obvious Symptoms of eternal Damnation. This therefore is the Man that has need, most need, and therefore in Reason should be helped in the first Place. Thus 'twas with the People concerned in the Text, they were the worst of Sinners, Jerusalem-Sinners, Sinners of the biggest Size, and therefore such as had the greatest need: Wherefore they must have Mercy offered to them, before it be offered any where else in the World. Begin at Jerusalem, offer Mercy first to a Jerusalem-sinner: This Man has most need, he is farthest from God, nearest to Hell, and so one that has most need. This Man's Sins are in number the most, in cry the loudest, in weight the heaviest, and consequently will sink him soonest: Wherefore he has most need of Mercy. This Man is shut up in Satans hand, fastest bound in the Cords of his Sins; one that Justice is whetting his Sword to cut off, and therefore has most need, not only of mercy, but that it should be extended to him in the first Place.

But a little further to shew you the true Nature of this Reason, to wit, That Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners.

First, Mercy ariseth from Bowels and Compassion, from Pity, and from a Feeling of the Condition of those in Misery. In his Love, and in his Pity, he saveth us. And again, The Lord is pitiful, very pitiful, and of great Mercy, Isa. 63. 9. Jam. 5. 11.

Now where Pity and Compassion is, there is Yearning of Bowels; and where there is that, there is a Readiness to help. And, I say again, The more deplorable and dreadful the Condition is, the more directly doth Bowels and Compassion turn themselves to such, and offer Help and Deliverance. All this flows from our first Scripture Proof, I came to call them that have Need; to call them first, while the rest look on, and murmur.

How shall I give thee up, Ephraim? Ephraim was a Revolter from God, a Man that had given himself up to Devilism: a Company of Men, the ten Tribes, that worshipped Devils, while Judah kept with his God. But how shall I give thee up, Ephraim? How shall I deliver thee Israel? How shall I make thee as Admah? How shall I set thee as Zeboim? (and yet thou art worse than they: nor has Samaria committed half thy Sins, Ezek. 16. 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51.) My Heart is turned within me, and my Repentings are kindled together, Hos. 11. 8.

But where do you find that ever the Lord did thus rowl in his Bowels for, and after any self-righteous Man? No, no, they are the Publicans and Harlots, Idolaters, and Jerusalem-Sinners, for whom his Bowels thus yearn and tumble about within him. For alas! poor Worms, they have most Need of Mercy.

Had not the good Samaritan more Compassion for that Man that fell among Thieves, (though that Fall was occasioned by his going from the Place where they worshipped God, to Jericho, the cursed City) than we read he had for any other besides? His Wine was for him, his Oyl was for him, his Beast for him; his Penny, his Care, and his Swadling-Bands for him; for alas, Wretch! he had most Need, Luke 10. 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35.

Zacheus the Publican, the chief of the Publicans, one that had made himself the richer by wronging of others; the Lord at that Time singled him out from all the rest of his brother Publicans, and that in the Face of many Pharisees, and proclaimed in the Audience of them all, that That Day Salvation was come to his House, Luke 19. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.

The Woman also that had been bound down by Satan for eighteen Years together, his Compassions putting him upon it, he loosed her, though those that stood by snarled sharled at him for so doing, Luke 13. 11, 12, 13.

And why the Woman of Sarepta, and why Naaman the Syrian, rather than Widows and Lepers in Israel; but because their Conditions were more deplorable, (for that) they were most forlorn, and farthest from Help, Luke 4. 25, 27.

But I say, why all these, thus named? why have we not a Catalogue of some Holy Men that were so in their own Eyes, and in the Judgment of the World? Alas! if at any Time any of them are mentioned, how seemingly coldly doth the Record of Scripture present them to us? Nicodemus a Night Professor, and Simon the Pharisee, with his Fifty Pence; and their great Ignorance of the Methods of Grace, we have now and then touched upon.

Mercy seems to be out of his proper Channel, when it deals with Self-righteous Men; but then it runs with a full Stream when it extends itself to the biggest Sinners. As God's Mercy is not regulated by Man's Goodness, nor obtained by Man's Worthiness; so not much set out by saving of any such. But more of this anon.

And here let me ask my Reader a Question: Suppose that as thou art walking by some Pond-side, thou shouldst espy in it, four or five Children all in Danger of drowning, and one in more Danger than all the rest; judge which has most need to be helped out first? I know thou wilt say, he that is nearest drowning. Why, this is the Case; the bigger Sinner, the nearer drowning; therefore the bigger Sinner the more need of Mercy; yea, of Help by Mercy in the first Place. And to this our Text agrees, when it saith, Beginning at Jerusalem. Let the Jerusalem Sinner, says Christ, have the first Offer, the first Invitation, the first Tender of my Grace and Mercy, for he is the biggest Sinner, and so has most Need thereof.

Secondly, Christ Jesus would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, because when they, any of them, receive it, it redounds most to the Fame of his Name.

Christ Jesus, as you may perceive, has put himself under the Term of a Physician, a Doctor for curing of Diseases: And you know that Applause, and a Fame, is a Thing that Physicians much desire. That is it that helps them to Patients, and that also that will help their Patients to commit themselves to their Skill for Cure, with the more Confidence and Repose of Spirit. And the best Way for a Doctor or Physician to get themselves a Name, is in the first Place to take in Hand, and cure some such as all others have given off for lost and dead. Physicians get neither Name nor Fame by pricking of Wheals, or picking out Thistles, or by laying of Plaisters to the Scratch of a Pin. Every old Woman can do this. But if they would have a Name and a Fame, if they will have it quickly, they must, as I said, do some great and desperate Cures. Let them fetch one to Life that was dead; let them recover one to his Wits, that was mad; let them make one that was born blind, to see; or let them give ripe Wits to a Fool; these are notable Cures, and he that can do thus, and if he doth thus first, he shall have the Name and Fame he desires, he may lye a bed till Noon.

Why, Christ Jesus forgiveth Sins for a Name, and so begets of himself a good Report in the Hearts of the Children of Men. And therefore in Reason, he must be willing, as also he did command, that his Mercy should be offered first to the biggest Sinners.

I will forgive their Sins, Iniquities, and Transgressions, says he, and it shall turn to me for a Name of Joy, and a Praise, and an Honour, before all the Nations of the Earth, Jer. 33. 8, 9.

And hence it is, that at his first Appearing he took upon him to do such mighty Works. He got a Fame thereby; he got a Name thereby, Mat. 4. 23, 24.

When Christ had cast the Legion of Devils out of the Man of whom you read, Mark 5. He bid him go Home to his Friends and tell it. Go home, saith he, to thy Friends, and tell them how great Things God has done for thee, and has had Compassion on thee, Mark 5. 19. Christ Jesus seeks a Name, and desireth a Fame in the World; and therefore, or the better to obtain that, he commands that Mercy should first be proffered to the biggest Sinners, because by the saving of one of them, he makes all Men marvel. As 'tis said of the Man last mentioned, whom Christ cured toward the Beginning of his Ministry: And he departed, says the Text, and began to publish in Decapolis, how great Things Jesus had done for him, and all Men did marvel, Ver. 20.

When John told Christ, that they saw one casting out Devils in his Name, and they forbade him because he followed not with them: What is the Answer of Christ? Forbid him not, for there is no Man which shall do a Miracle in my Name, that can lightly speak Evil of me. No, they will rather cause his Praise to be heard, and his Name to be magnified, and so put Glory on the Head of Christ.

But we will follow a little our Metaphor: Christ, as I said, has put himself under the Term of a Physician; consequently he desireth that his Fame, as to the Salvation of Sinners, may spread abroad, that the World may see what he can do. And to this End, has not only commanded that the biggest Sinners should have the first Offer of his Mercy; but has, as Physicians do, put out his Bills, and published his Doings, that Things may be read and talked of. Yea,

he

he has moreover in these his blessed Bills, the Holy Scriptures, I mean, inferred the very Names of Persons, the Places of their Abode, and the great Cures that by the Means of his Salvations he has wrought upon them to this very End. Here is, Item, Such a one by my Grace, and redeeming Blood, was made a Monument of everlasting Life: And such a one by my perfect Obedience, became an Heir of Glory. And then he produceth their Names.

Item, I saved Lot from the Guilt and Damnation that he had procured to himself by his Incest.

Item, I saved David from the Vengeance that belonged to him for committing of Adultery and Murder.

Here is also Solomon, Manasseh, Peter, Magdalen, and many others made Mention of in this Book. Yea, here, are their Names, their Sins, and their Salvations recorded together, that you may read, and know what a Saviour he is, and do him Honour in the World. For why are these Things thus recorded, but to shew to Sinners what he can do, to the Praise and Glory of his Grace?

And it is observable, as I said before, we have but very little of the Salvation of little Sinners mentioned in God's Book, because that would not have answered the Design, to wit, to bring Glory and Fame to the Name of the Son of God.

What should be the Reason, think you, why Christ should so easily take a Denial of the great Ones, that were the Grandeur of the World, and struggle so hard for Hedge Creepers and Highwaymen, (as that Parable, Luke 14. seems to import he doth) but to shew forth the Riches of the Glory of his Grace to his Praise. This, I say, is one Reason to be sure.

They that had their Grounds, their Yoke of Oxen, and their Marriage Joys, were invited to come; but they made their Excuse, and that served the Turn. But when he comes to deal with the worst, he saith to his Servants, Go ye out and bring them in hither. Go out quickly and bring in hither the Poor, the Maimed, the Halt, and the Blind. And they did so. And he said again, Go out into the Highways, and Hedges, and compel them to come in, that my House may be filled, Luke 14. 18, 19, 23. These poor, lame, maimed, blind, hedge-creepers, and highwaymen, must come in, must be forced in. These, if saved, will make his Merits shine.

When Christ was crucified, and hanged up between the Earth and Heavens, there was two Thieves crucified with him; and behold, he lays hold of one of them, and will have him away with him to Glory. Was not this a strange Act, and a Display of unthought of Grace? Were there none but Thieves there, or were the rest of that Company out of his Reach? Could he not, think you, have stooped from the Cross to the Ground, and have laid Hold on some honestest Man if he would? Yes, doubtless. Oh, but then he would not have displayed his Grace, nor so have pursued his own Designs; namely, to get to himself a Praise and a Name; but now he has done it to Purpose. For who that shall read this Story, but must confess, that the Son of God is full of Grace; for a Proof of the Riches thereof, he left behind him, when upon the Cross, he took the Thief away with him to Glory. Nor can this one Act of his be buried: It will be talked of to the End of the World to his Praise. Men shall speak of the Might of thy terrible Acts; and will declare thy Greatness. They shall abundantly utter the Memory of thy great Goodness, and shall sing of thy Righteousness. They shall speak of the Glory of thy Kingdom, and talk of thy Power. To make known to the Sons of Men his mighty Acts, and the glorious Majesty of his Kingdom, Psal. 145. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.

When the Word of God came among the Conjurers, and those Sooth-sayers, that you read of Acts 19. and had prevailed with some of them to accept of the Grace of Christ, the Holy Ghost records it with a Boast, for that it would redound to his Praise; saying,

And many of them that used curious Arts, brought their Books together and burned them before all Men, and counted the Price of them, and found it fifty Thousand Pieces of Silver. So mightily grew the Word of God and prevailed, Acts 19. 19, 20. It wrenched out of the Clutches of Satan, some of those of whom he thought himself most sure. So mightily grew the Word of God. It grew mightily, it incroached upon the Kingdom of the Devil! It pursued him, and took the Prey: It forced him to let go his Hold! It brought away captive, as Prisoners taken by Force of Arms, some of the most valiant of his Army. It fetcht back from, as it were, the Confines of Hell, some of those that were his most trusty, and that with Hell had been at an Agreement. It made them come and confess their Deeds, and burn their Books before all Men: So mightily grew the Word of God, and prevailed.

Thus therefore you see why Christ will have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners. They have most need thereof; and this is the most ready Way to extol his Name that rideth upon the Heavens to our Help. But,

Thirdly, Christ Jesus would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, Because by their Forgiveness and Salvation, others hearing of it, will be encouraged the more to come to him for Life.

For the Physician by curing the most desperate at the first, doth not only get himself a Name, but legets Encouragement ment in the Minds of other diseased Folk to come to him for Help. Hence you read of our Lord, that after, through his tender Mercy, he had cured many of great Diseases, his Fame was spread abroad: They brought unto him all sick People that were taken with divers Diseases and Torments, and those which were possessed with Devils, and those which were Lunatick, and those that had the Palsie, and he healed them; and there followed him great Multitudes of People from Galilee, and Decapolis, and Jerusalem, and Judea, and from beyond Jordan, Mat. 4. 24, 25.

See here, He first by Working, gets himself a Fame, a Name, and Renown, and now Men take Encouragement, and bring from all Quarters their Diseased to him, being helped by what they had heard, to believe that their Diseased should be healed.

Now, as he did with those outward Cures, so he does in the Proffers of his Grace and Mercy; he proffers that in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, that others may take Heart to come to him to be saved. I will give you a Scripture or two, I mean, to shew you that Christ by commanding that his Mercy should in the first Place be offered to the biggest of Sinners, has a Design, thereby to encourage and provoke others to come also to him for Mercy.

God, saith Paul, who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in our Sins, hath quickened us together with Christ, (by Grace ye are saved) and hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly Places in Christ Jesus. But why did he do all this? That in the Ages to come he might shew the exceeding Riches of his Grace in his Kindness towards us thorow Christ Jesus, Eph. 2. 4, 5, 6, 7.

See, here's a Design, God lets out his Mercy to Ephesus of Design, even to shew to the Ages to come, the exceeding Riches of his Grace in his Kindness to them thorow Christ Jesus. And why to shew by these, the exceeding Riches of his Grace to the Ages to come thorow Christ Jesus? But to allure them, and their Children also to come to him, and to partake of the same Grace thorow Christ Jesus.

But what was Paul, and the Ephesian-Sinners? (of Paul we will speak anon) These Ephesian-Sinners, they were Men dead in Sins, Men that walked according to the Dictates and Motions of the Devil, Worshipers of Diana, that effeminate Goddess: Men far off from God, Aliens and Strangers to all good Things, such as were far off from that, as I said, and consequently in a most deplorable Condition. As the Jerusalem-Sinners were of the highest Sort among the Jews, so these Ephesian-Sinners were of the highest Sort among the Gentiles, (Ephes. 2. 1, 2, 3. Acts 19. 35. Ephes. 2. 11, 12.)

Wherefore as by the Jerusalem-Sinners, in saving them first, he had a Design to provoke others to come to him for Mercy, so, the same Design is here set on foot again, in his calling and converting the Ephesian-Sinners; that in the Ages to come he might shew the exceeding Riches of his Grace, says he, in his Kindness towards us thorow Christ Jesus. There is yet one Hint behind. 'Tis said that God saved these FOR his Love. That is, as I think, for the setting forth, for the Commendations of his Love, for the Advance of his Love in the Hearts and Minds of them that should come after. As who should say, God has had Mercy upon, and been gracious to you, that he might shew to others for their Encouragement, that they have Ground to come to him to be saved. When God saves one great Sinner, 'tis to encourage another great Sinner to come to him for Mercy.

He saved the Thief, to encourage Thieves to come to him for Mercy. He saved Magdalen, to encourage other Magdalens to come to him for Mercy. He saved Saul, to encourage Sauls to come to him for Mercy. And this Paul himself doth say, For this Cause, saith he, I obtained Mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might shew forth all long Suffering for a Pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to Life everlasting, 1 Tim. 1. 16.

How plain are the Words! Christ in saving of me, has given to the World a Pattern of his Grace, that they might see, and believe, and come, and be saved. That they that are to be born hereafter, might believe on Jesus Christ to Life everlasting.

But what was Paul? Why he tells you himself, I am, says he, the chief of Sinners; I was, says he, a Blasphemer, a Persecutor, an injurious Person; but I obtained Mercy, 1 Tim. 1. 14, 15. Ay, that's well for you Paul; but what Advantage have we thereby? Oh very much, saith he; for, for this Cause I obtained Mercy, That in me First, Jesus Christ might shew all long Suffering for a Pattern to them which shall believe on him to Life everlasting.

Thus therefore you see that this third Reason is of Strength, namely, That Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, because, by their Forgiveness and Salvation, others, hearing of it, will be encouraged the more to come to him for Mercy.

It may well therefore be said to God, Thou delightest in Mercy, and Mercy pleases thee, Mich. 7. 18.

But who believes that this was God's Design in shewing Mercy of old? Namely, that we that come after might take Courage to come to him for Mercy; or that Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, to stir up others to come to him for Life. This is not the Manner of Men! O God.

But David saw this betimes, therefore he makes this one Argument with God, that he would blot out his Transgressions, that he would forgive his Adultery, his Murders, and horrible Hypocrisy. Do it, O Lord, saith he, do it, And then will I teach Transgressors thy Ways, and Sinners shall be converted unto thee, Psal. 51. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13.

He knew that the Conversion of Sinners would be a Work highly pleasing to God, as being that which he had designed before he made Mountain or Hill: Wherefore he comes, and he saith, Save me, O Lord, if thou wilt but save me, I will fall in with thy Design. I will help to bring what Sinners to thee I can. And Lord, I am willing to be made a Preacher myself, for that I have been a horrible Sinner; wherefore, if thou shalt forgive my great Transgressions, I shall be a fit Man to tell of thy wondrous Grace to others. Yea, Lord, I dare promise, that if thou wilt have Mercy upon me, it shall tend to the Glory of thy Grace, and also to the Increase of thy Kingdom; for I will tell it, and Sinners will hear on't. And there is nothing so suiteth with the Hearing Sinner, as Mercy: and to be inform'd, that God is willing to bestow it upon him. I will teach Transgressors thy Ways, and Sinners shall be converted unto thee.

Nor will Christ Jesus miss of his design in profering of Mercy in the first Place to the biggest Sinners. You know what work the Lord, by laying hold of the Woman of Samaria, made among the People there. They knew that she was a Town-Sinner, an Adulteress. Yea, one that after the most audacious manner, lived in Uncleanness with a Man that was not her Husband. But when she, from a turn upon her Heart, went into the City, and said to her Neighbours, Come: Oh how they came! how they flocked out of the City to Jesus Christ! Then they went out of the City, and came to him, and many of the Samaritans (People perhaps as bad as her self) believed on him, for the saying of the Woman, which testified, saying, He told me all that ever I did (John 4. 39.)

That word, He told me all that ever I did, was a great Argument with them; for by that they gathered, That tho' he knew her to be vile, yet he did not despise her, nor refuse to shew how willing he was to communicate his Grace unto her: And this fetched over, first, her, then them.

This Woman, as I said, was a Samaritan-Sinner, a Sinner of the worst Complexion. For the Jews abhorred to have ought to do with them (vers. 9.) wherefore none more fit than she to be made one of the Decoys of Heaven, to bring others of these Sama- ritan Wild-Fowls under the Net of the Grace of Christ. And she did the Work to purpose. Many, and many more of the Samaritans believed on him, Verse 40, 41, 42. The Heart of Man, tho' set on Sin, will, when it comes once to a Perswasion that God is willing to have Mercy upon us, incline to come to Jesus Christ for Life; Witness those turn-a-ways from God, that you also read of in Jeremiah; for after they had heard three or four times over, that God had Mercy for Backsliders, they broke out and said, Behold, we come unto thee, for thou art the Lord our God. Or as those in Hosea did, For in thee the Fatherless find Mercy. (Jer. 3. 22. Hos. 14. 1, 2, 3.)

Mercy, and the Revelation thereof, is the only Antidote against Sin. 'Tis of a thawing Nature: 'twill lose the Heart that is frozen up in Sin: yea, 'twill make the Unwilling willing to come to Jesus Christ for Life.

Wherefore do you think was it that Jesus Christ told the Adulterous Woman, and that before so many Sinners, That he had not condemned her, but to allure her, with them there present, to hope to find favour at his Hands. (As he also saith in another Place, I came not to Judge, but to Save the World) for might they not thence most rationally conclude, That if Jesus Christ had rather save, than damn an Harlot, there was Encouragement for them to come to him for Mercy.

I heard once a Story from a Soldier, who with his Company had laid Siege against a Fort, that so long as the Besieged were perswaded their Foes would show them no favour, they fought like Madmen; but when they saw one of their Fellows taken, and received to favour, they all came tumbling down from their Fortrefs, and delivered themselves into their Enemies Hands.

I am perswaded, did Men believe that there is that Grace and Willingness in the Heart of Christ to save Sinners, as the Word imports there is, they would come tumbling into his Arms: But Satan has blinded their Minds, that they cannot see this thing. Howbeit the Lord Jesus has, as I said, that others might take Heart and come to him, given out a commandment that Mercy should in the first Place be offered to the biggest Sinners. Begin, saith he, at Jerusalem. And thus I end the third Reason.

Fourthly, Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, Because that is the Way, if they receive it, most to weaken the Kingdom of Satan, and to keep it lowest in every Age of the World. The biggest Sinners, they are Satans Colonels, and Captains, the Leaders of his People, and they that most stoutly make Head against the Son of God. Wherefore fore let these first be conquered, and his Kingdom will be weak. When Ishbosheth had lost his Abner, his Kingdom was made weak, nor did he sit but tottering then upon his Throne. So when Satan loseth his strong Men, them that are mighty to work Iniquity, and dexterous to manage others in the same, then is his Kingdom weak (2 Sam. 3.) Therefore I say, Christ doth offer Mercy in the first Place to such, the more to weaken his Kingdom. Christ Jesus was glad to see Satan fall like Lightning from Heaven, that is suddenly or headlong; and it was, surely, by casting of him out of strong Possessions, and by recovering of some notorious Sinners out of his Clutches, (Luke 10. 17, 18, 19.)

Sampson, when he would pull down the Philistines Temple, took hold of the two main Pillars of it, and breaking them, down came the House. Christ came to destroy the Works of the Devil, and to destroy by converting Grace, as well as by redeeming Blood. Now Sin swarms and lieth by Legions, and whole Armies, in the Souls of the biggest Sinners, as in Garrisons: Wherefore the Way, the most direct Way to destroy it, is first to deal with such Sinners, by the Word of his Gospel, and by the Merits of his Passion.

For Example, tho' I shall give you but a homely one; Suppose a Family to be very Lowzy, and one or two of the Family to be in chief the Breeders; the Way, the quickest Way, to clear that Family, or at least to weaken the so swarming of those Vermin, is, in the first Place to sweeten the Skin, Head, and Cloaths of the chief Breeders: And then, though all the Family should be apt to breed them, the Number of them, and so the Greatness of that Plague there, will be the more impaired.

Why, there are some People that are in chief the Devils Sin-Breeders in the Towns and Places where they live. The Place, Town, or Family where they live, must needs be horribly lowzy, and as it were, eaten up with Vermin: Now let the Lord Jesus in the first Place cleanse these great Breeders, and there will be given a nip to those swarms of Sins that use to be committed in such places throughout the Town, House, or Family where such Sin-breeding Persons used to be.

I speak by Experience; I was one of these lowzy Ones, one of these great Sin-breeders; I infected all the Youth of the Town where I was born, with all manner of youthful Vanities. The Neighbours counted me so, my Practice proved me so: Wherefore Christ Jesus took me first; and taking me first, the Contagion was much allayed all the Town over. When God made me Sigh, they would hearken, and enquiringly say, What's the matter with John? They also gave their various Opinions of me: But as I said, Sin cooled, and failed, as to his full carrier. When I went out to seek the Bread of Life, some of them would follow, and the rest be put into a muse at home. Yea, almost the Town, at first, at times would go out to hear at the Place where I found good: Yea, young and old for a while had some Reformation on them; also some of them perceiving that God had Mercy upon me, came crying to him for Mercy too.

But what need I give you an Instance of poor I; I will come to Manasseh the King: So long as he was a ringleading Sinner, the great Idolater, and chief for Devilism, the whole Land flowed with Wick- edness; For he made them to Sin, and do worse than the Heathen that dwelt round about them, or that was cast out from before them. But when God converted him, the whole Land was reformed. Down went the Groves, the Idols, and Altars of Baal, and up went true Religion in much of the Power and Purity of it. You'll say, The King reformed by Power. I answer, doubtless, and by Example too; for People observe their Leaders; as their Fathers did, so did they, 2 Chron. 33. 2 King. 17. 41.

This therefore is another Reason, why Jesus would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, because that is the best Way, if they receive it, most to weaken the Kingdom of Satan, and to keep it poor and low.

And do you not think now, that if God would but take hold of the Hearts of some of the most notorious in your Town, in your Family, or Country, that this Thing would be verified before your Faces? It would, it would, to the Joy of you that are godly, to the making of Hell to Sigh, to the great suppressing of Sin, the Glory of Christ, and the Joy of the Angels of God. And Ministers should therefore, that this Work might go on, take Advantages to persuade with the biggest Sinners to come into Christ, according to my Text, and their Commissions: Beginning at Jerusalem.

Fifthly, Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners. Because such, when converted, are usually the best helps in the Church against Temptations, and fittest for the support of the Feeble minded there. Hence, usually, you have some such in the first Plantation of Churches; or quickly upon it. Churches would do but forrily, if Christ Jesus did not put such Converts among them; they are the Monuments and Mirrors of Mercy. The very sight of such a Sinner in God's House, yea, the very thought of him, where the Sight of him cannot be had, is oft-times greatly for the Help of the Faith of the Feeble.

When the Churches (said Paul) that were in Judea, heard this concerning me, that he O o o o which

which persecuted them in time past, now preached the Faith which once he destroyed. They glorified God in me, Gal. 1. 20, 21, 22, 23, 24.

Glorified God] How is that? Why, they praised him, and took courage to believe the more in the Mercy of God: For that he had had Mercy on such a great Sinner as he. They glorified God [in me.] They wondered that Grace should be so rich, as to take hold of such a Wretch as I was; and for my sake believed in Christ the more.

There are two things that great Sinners are acquainted with, when they come to divulge them to the Saints, that are a great relief to their Faith.

1. The Contests that they usually have with the Devil at their parting with him.

2. Their Knowledge of his Secrets in his workings.

For the First, The biggest Sinners have usually great Contests with the Devil at their partings; and this is an help to Saints. For ordinary Saints find afterwards what the vile Ones find at first; but when at the opening of Hearts the one finds himself to be as the other, the one is a comfort to the other. The lesser sort of Sinners find but little of this, till after they have been some time in Profession; but the Vile Man meets with his at the Beginning. Wherefore he, when the other is down, is ready to tell that he has met with the same before. For I say, he has had it before. Satan is loth to part with a great Sinner. What, my true Servant (quoth he) my old Servant, wilt thou forsake me now? Having so often sold thy self to me to work Wickedness, wilt thou forsake me now? Thou horrible Wretch, dost not know, that thou hast sinned thy self beyond the reach of Grace, and dost think to find Mercy now? Art not thou a Murderer, a Thief, a Harlot, a Witch, a Sinner of the greatest Size, and dost thou look for Mercy now? Dost thou think that Christ will foul his Fingers with thee?

'Tis enough to make Angels blush, saith Satan, to see so vile a One knock at Heaven gates for Mercy, and wilt thou be so abominable bold to do it? Thus Satan dealt with me, says the great Sinner, when at first I came to Jesus Christ. And what did you reply, saith the Tempted? Why, I granted the whole Charge to be true, says the other. And what, did you despair? or how? No (saith he) I said, I am Magdalen, I am Zacheus, I am the Thief, I am the Harlot, I am the Publican, I am the Prodigal, and one of Christ's Murderers: Yea, worse than any of these, and yet God was so far off from rejecting of me (as I found afterwards) that there was musick and dancing in his House for me, and for Joy that I was come home unto him. Oh blessed be God for Grace, (says the other) for then I hope there is favour for me. Yea, as I told you, such a one is a continual Spectacle in the Church, for every one, to behold God's Grace, and wonder by.

Secondly, And as for the Secrets of Satan, such as are Suggestions to question the Being of God, the Truth of his Word, and to be annoyed with devilish Blasphemies: None more acquainted with these than the biggest Sinners at their Conversion; wherefore thus also they are prepared to be helps in the Church to relieve and comfort the other.

I might also here tell you of the Contests and Battels that such are engaged in, wherein they find the Besettings of Satan, above any other of the Saints. At which times Satan assaults the Soul with Darkness, Fears, frightful Thoughts of Apparitions; now they sweat, pant, cry out, and struggle for Life.

The Angels now come down to behold the Sight, and rejoyce to see a bit of Dust and Ashes to overcome Principalities and Powers, and Might, and Dominions. But, as I said, when these come a little to be settled, they are prepared for helping others, and are great Comforts unto them. Their great Sins give Encouragement to the Devil to assault them, and by these Temptations Christ takes advantage to make them the more helpful to the Churches.

The biggest Sinner, when he is converted and comes into the Church, says to them all, by his very coming in, Behold me, all you that are Men and Women of a low and timorous Spirit; you whose Hearts are narrow, for that you never had the Advantage to know, because your Sins are few, the Largeness of the Grace of God. Behold, I say, in me, the exceeding Riches of his Grace! I am a Pattern set forth before your Faces, on whom you may look and take heart. This, I say, the great Sinner can say, to the exceeding Comfort of all the rest.

Wherefore, as I have hinted before, when God intends to stock a Place with Saints, and to make that Place excellently to flourish with the Riches of his Grace; he usually begins with the Conversion of some of the most notorious thereabouts, and lays them as an Example to allure others, and to build up when they are converted.

'Twas Paul that must go to the Gentiles, because Paul was the most outrageous of all the Apostles, in the time of his unregeneracy: Yea, Peter must be he that after his horrible fall, was thought fittest, when recovered again, to comfort and strengthen his Brethren. See Luke 22. 31, 32.

Some must be Pillars in God's House, and if they be Pillars of Cedar, they must stand while they are stout and sturdy Sticks in the Forrest, before they are cut down, and planted or placed there.

No

No Man, when he buildeth his House, makes the principal Parts thereof, of weak or feeble Timber; for how could such bear up the Rest; but of great and able Wood. Christ Jesus also goeth this Way to work, he makes of the biggest Sinners, Bearers and Supporters to the rest. This then may serve for another Reason, why Jesus Christ gives out in Commandment, that Mercy should in the first Place be offered to the biggest Sinners, Because such when converted, are usually the best helps in the Church against Temptations, and fittest for the support of the Feeble-minded there.

Sixthly, Another reason, why Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, is, Because They, when converted, are apt to love him most.

This agrees both with Scripture, and Reason. Scripture says so. To whom much is forgiven, the same loveth much. To whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little, Luke 7. 47. Reason says so. For as it would be the unreasonablest thing in the World, to render hatred for love, and contempt for forgiveness; so 'twould be as ridiculous to think that the Reception of a little kindness should lay the same Obligations upon the Heart to love, as the Reception of a great deal. I would not disparage the Love of Christ; I know the least dram of it, when it reaches to Forgiveness, is great above all the World; But comparatively, there is greater Extentions of the Love of Christ, to one, than to another: He that has most Sin, if forgiven, is Partaker of the greatest Love, of the greatest Forgiveness.

I know also, that there are some, that from this very Doctrine, say, Let us do evil, that good may come; and that turn the Grace of our God into Lasciviousness. But I speak not of these, These will neither be ruled by Grace nor Reason. Grace would teach them, if they know it, to deny Ungodly Courses; and so would Reason too, if it could truly sense the Love of God, Tim. 2. 11, 12. Rom. 11. 1.

Doth it look like what hath any Coherence with Reason or Mercy, for a Man to abuse his Friend? Because Christ died for Men, shall I therefore Spit in his Face? The Bread and Water that was given by Elisba to his Enemies, that came into the Land of Israel to take him, had so much influence upon their Minds, tho' Heathens, that they returned to their homes without hurting him: Yea, it kept them from coming again in a hostile manner into the Coasts of Israel, 2 Kings 6. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23.

But to forbear to illustrate till anon; one Reason why Christ Jesus shews Mercy to Sinners, is that he might obtain their Love, that he may remove their base Affections from base Objects, to himself. Now if he loves to be loved a little, he loves to be loved much; but there is not any that are capable of loving much, save those that have much forgiven them. Hence 'tis said of Paul, That he laboured more than them all, to wit, with a Labour of Love, because he had been by Sin more vile against Christ than they all, 1 Cor. 15. He it was that persecuted the Church of God, and wasted it, Gal. 1. 13. He, of them all, was the only raving Bedlam against the Saints: And being exceeding mad, says he, against them, I persecuted them even to strange Cities, Acts 26. 11.

This raving Bedlam, that once was so, is he that now says, I laboured more than them all; more for Christ than them all.

But Paul, what moved thee thus to do? The Love of Christ, says he. It was not I, but the Grace of God that was with me. As who should say; O Grace! 'Twas such Grace to save me! 'Twas such marvellous Grace for God to look down from Heaven upon me, and that secured me from the Wrath to come, that I am captivated with the Sense of the Riches of it. Hence I act, hence I labour; For how can I otherwise do, since God not only separated me from my Sins, and Companions, but separated all the Powers of my Soul and Body to his Service? I am therefore prompted on by this exceeding Love to labour as I have done; yet not I, but the Grace of God with me.

Oh! I shall never forget his Love, nor the Circumstances under which I was; when his Love laid Hold upon me. I was going to Damascus with Letters from the High Priest, to make Havock of God's People there, as I had made Havock of them in other Places. These bloody Letters was not imposed upon me. I went to the High Priest and desired them of him, Acts 9. 1, 2. And yet he saved me! I was one of the Men, of the chief Men that had a Hand in the Blood of his Martyr Stephen, yet he had Mercy on me! When I was at Damascus, I stunk so horribly like a Blood-sucker, that I became a Terror to all thereabout. Yea, Ananias (good Man) made Intercession to my Lord against me, yet he would have Mercy upon me! Yea, joined Mercy to Mercy, until he had made me a Monument of Grace. He made a Saint of me, and persuaded me, that my Transgressions were forgiven me.

When I began to preach, those that heard me were amazed; and said, Is not this he that destroyed them that called on this Name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that Intent, that he might bring them bound to the High-Priest? Hell doth know that I was a Sinner, Heaven doth know that I was a Sinner; The World also knows that I was a Sinner; a Sinner of the greatest Size; but I obtained Mercy, Acts 9. 20, 21.

Shall

Shall not this lay Obligation upon me? Is not Love of the greatest Force to oblige? Is it not strong as Death? Cruel as the Grave? And hotter than the Coals of Juniper? Hath it not a most vehement Flame? Can the Waters quench it? Can the Floods drown it? I am under the Force of it, and this is my continual Cry, What shall I render to the Lord for all the Benefits which he has bestowed upon me?

Ay! Paul, this is something, thou speakest like a Man, like a Man affected, and carried away with the Love and Grace of God. Now this Sense, and this Affection, and this Labour, giveth to Christ the Love that he looks for. But he might have converted twenty little Sinners, and yet not found, for Grace bestowed, so much Love in them all.

I wonder how far a Man might go among the converted Sinners of the smaller Size, before one could find one that so much as look any Thing this wayward. Where is he that is thus under Pangs of Love for the Grace bestowed upon him by Jesus Christ? Excepting only some few; you may walk to the World's End and find none. But, as I said, some there are, and so there has been in every Age of the Church, great Sinners, that have had much forgiven them. And they love much upon this Account.

Jesus Christ therefore knows what he doth, when he lays hold on the Hearts of Sinners of the biggest Size. He knows that such an one will love more than many that have not sinned half their Sins.

I will tell you a Story that I have read of Martha and Mary; the Name of the Book I have forgot. I mean of the Book in which I found the Relation; but the thing was thus:

Martha, saith my Author, was a very holy Woman, much like Lazarus, her Brother; but Mary was a loose and wanton Creature. Martha did seldom miss good Sermons, and Lectures, when she could come at them in Jerusalem; but Mary would frequent the House of Sports, and the Company of the vilest of Men for Lust. And tho' Martha had often desired that her Sister would go with her to hear her Preachers: Yea, had often intreated her with Tears, to do it, yet could she never prevail; for still Mary would make her Excuse, or reject her with Disdain for her Zeal and Preciseness in Religion.

After Martha had waited long, tried many Ways to bring her Sister to Good, and all proved ineffectual. At last, she comes upon her thus: Sister, quoth she, I pray thee go with me to the Temple to Day, to hear one preach a Sermon. What Kind of Preacher, is he, said she? Martha replied, It is one Jesus of Nazareth, he is the handsomest Man that ever you saw with your Eyes. Oh! he shines in Beauty, and is a most excellent Preacher.

Now what does Mary? After a little Pause, but goes up into her Chamber, and with her Pins and her Clouts, decks up herself as fine as her Fingers could make her. This done, away she goes, not with her Sister Martha, but as much unobserved as she could, to the Sermon, or rather to see the Preacher.

The Hour and Preacher being come, and she having observed whereabouts the Preacher would stand, goes and sets herself so in the Temple, that she might be sure to have the full View of this excellent Person. So he comes in, and she looks, and the first Glimpse of his Person pleased her. Well, Jesus addresseth himself to his Sermon, and she looks earnestly on him.

Now at that Time, saith my Author, Jesus preached about the lost Sheep, the lost Groat, and the prodigal Child. And when he came to shew what Care the Shepherd took for one lost Sheep, and how the Woman swept to find her Piece which was lost, and what Joy there was at their finding; she began to be taken by the Ears, and forgot what she came about, musing what the Preacher would make on't: But when he came to the Application, and shewed that by the lost Sheep was meant a great Sinner: by the Shepherd's Care, was meant God's Love for great Sinners; and that by the Joy of the Neighbours, was shewed what Joy there was among the Angels in Heaven over one great Sinner that repenteth; She began to be taken by the Heart. And as he spake these last Words, she thought he pitched his innocent Eyes just upon her, and looked as if he spake what was now said, to her. Wherefore her Heart began to tremble, being shaken with Affection and Fear; then her Eyes run down with Tears apace; wherefore she was forced to hide her Face with her Handkerchief, and so sat sobbing and crying all the rest of the Sermon.

Sermon being done, up she gets, and away she goes, and withal, enquired where this Jesus the Preacher dined that Day? And one told her, at the House of Simon the Pharisee. So away goes she, first to her Chamber, and there strips herself of her wanton Attire; then falls upon her Knees to ask God Forgiveness for all her wicked Life. This done, in a modest Dress she goes to Simon's House, where she finds Jesus sat at Dinner. So she gets behind him, and weeps, and drops her Tears upon his Feet like Rain, and washes them and wipes them with the Hair of her Head. She also kissed his Feet with her Lips, and anointed them with Ointment. When Simon the Pharisee perceived what the Woman did, and being ignorant of what it was to be forgiven much (for he never was forgiven more than fifty Pence.) He began to think within himself, that he had been been mistaken about Jesus Christ, because he suffered such a Sinner as this Woman was, to touch him. Surely, quoth he, this Man, if he were a Prophet, would not let this Woman come near him, for she is a Town Sinner, (so ignorant are all self-righteous Men of the Way of Christ with Sinners) But lest Mary should be discouraged with some clownish Carriage of this Pharisee, and so desert her good Beginnings, and her new Steps which she now had began to take towards eternal Life, Jesus began thus with Simon. Simon, saith he, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he saith, Master, say on. There was, said Jesus, a certain Creditor had two Debtors, the one owed him five hundred Pence, and the other, fifty. And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore which of them will love him most? Simon answered and said, I suppose he to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged. And he turned to the Woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this Woman? I entered into thy House, thou gavest me no Water for my Feet: But she hath washed my Feet with Tears, and wiped them with the Hairs of her Head. Thou gavest me no Kiss, but this Woman, since the Time I came in, hath not ceased to kiss my Feet. My Head with Oyl thou didst not anoint, but this Woman hath anointed my Feet with Ointment. Wherefore I say unto thee, Her Sins which are many, are forgiven, for she loved much; but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little. And he said unto her, Thy Sins are forgiven, Luke 7. 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50.

Thus you have the Story. If I come short in any Circumstance, I beg Pardon of those that can correct me. 'Tis three or four and twenty Years since I saw the Book, yet I have, as far as my Memory will admit, given you the Relation of the Matter. However, Luke, as you see, doth here present you with the Substance of the whole.

Alas! Christ Jesus has but little Thanks for the saving of little Sinners. To whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little. He gets not Water for his Feet, by his saving of such Sinners. There are Abundance of dry-ey'd Christians in the World, and Abundance of dry-ey'd Duties too: Duties that never was wetted with the Tears of Contrition and Repentance, nor ever sweetened with the great Sinners Box of Ointment. And the Reason is, such Sinners have not great Sins to be saved from; or if they have, they look upon them in the diminishing Glass of the Holy Law of God. But I rather believe that the Professors of our Days want a due Sense of what they are; for verily, for the generality of them, both before and since Conversion they have been Sinners of a lusty Size. But if their

Vol. II.

Eyes be holden, if Convictions are not shewn, if their Knowledge of their Sins is but like to the Eye-sight in Twilight, the Heart cannot be affected with that Grace that has laid hold on the Man, and so Christ Jesus sows much, and has little coming in.

Wherefore his Way is oft-times to step out of the Way, to Jericho, to Samaria, to the Countrey of the Gaddarens, to the Coast of Tyre and Sidon, and also to Mount Calvary, that he may lay Hold of such Kind of Sinners as will love him to his Liking, Luke 19. 1, to 11. John 4. 3, to 11. Mark 5. 1, to 21. Matt. 15. 21, to 29. Luke 23. 33, to 44.

But thus much for the sixth Reason, why Christ Jesus would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners; to wit, because such Sinners when converted, are apt to love him most. The Jerusalem-Sinners were they that out-stript, when they were converted, in some Things, all the Churches of the Gentiles. They were of one Heart, and of one Soul, neither said any of them, that ought of the Things that they possessed was their own; neither was there any among them that lacked, for as many as were Possessors of Lands, or Houses, sold them, and brought the Price of the Things that were sold, and laid them down at the Apostles Feet, &c. Acts 4. 32, 33, 34, 35. Now shew me such another Pattern if you can. But why did these do thus? Oh! they were Jerusalem-Sinners. These were the Men that but a little before, had killed the Prince of Life, and thole to whom he did, that notwithstanding, send the first Offer of Grace and Mercy. And the Sense of this, took them up betwixt the Earth and the Heaven, and carried them on in such Ways and Methods, as could never be trodden by any since. They talk of the Church of Rome, and set her in her primitive State, as a Pattern, and Mother of Churches; when the Truth is, they were the Jerusalem-Sinners, when Converts, that out-did all the Churches that ever was.

Seventhly, Christ Jesus would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, because Grace, when it is received by such, finds Matter to kindle upon more freely than it finds in other Sinners. Great Sinners are like the dry Wood, or like great Candles, which burns best and shines with biggest Light. I lay not this down, as I did those Reasons before, to shew, that when great Sinners are converted, they will be Encouragement to others, though that is true; but to shew that Christ has a Delight to see Grace, the Grace we receive to shine. We love to see Things that bear a good Gloss, yea, we chuse to buy such Kind of Matter to work upon, as will, if wrought up to what we intend, cast that Lustre that we desire. Candles that burn not bright, we like not; Wood that is green will rather smother, and sputter, and smoak, and crack, and flounce, than cast a brave Light and a pleasant Heat. Wherefore great Folks care not much, not so much for such Kind of Things, as for them that will better answer their Ends.

Hence Christ desires the biggest Sinner, in him there is Matter to work by, to wit, a great Deal of Sin; for as by the Tallow of the Candle, the Fire takes Occasion to burn the brighter; so by the Sin of the Soul, Grace takes Occasion to shine the clearer. Little Candles shine but little, for there wanteth Matter for the Fire to work upon; but in the great Sinner, here is more Matter for Grace to work by. Faith shines, when it worketh towards Christ, through the Sides of many and great Transgressors, and so does Love, for that much is forgiven. And what Matter can be found in the Soul for Humility to work by so well, as by a Sight that I have been, and am an abominable Sinner? And the same is to be said of Patience, Meekness, Gentleness, Self-denial, or of any other Grace. Grace takes Occasion by the Vileness of the Man, to shine the more; even as by the Ruggidness of a very strong Distemper, or Disease, the Vertue of the Medicine is best made manifest. Where Sin abounds, Grace much more abounds, Rom. 5. 20. A black String makes the Neck look whiter; great Sins makes Grace burn clear. Some say when Grace and a good Nature meet together, they do make shining Christians; but I say, when Grace and a great Sinner meets, and when Grace shall subdue that great Sinner to itself, and shall operate after its Kind in the Soul of that great Sinner, then we have a shining Christian; Witness all those of whom Mention was made before.

Abraham was among the Idolaters when in the Land of Assyria, and served Idols with his Kindred on the other Side of the Flood, Jos. 24. 2. Gen. 11. 31. But who when called, was there in the World, in whom Grace shone so bright as in him?

The Thessalonians were Idolaters, before the Word of God came to them; but when they had received it, they became Examples to all that did believe, in Macedonia, and Achaia, 1 Thes. 1. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10.

God the Father, and Jesus Christ his Son, are for having Things seen, for having the Word of Life held forth. They light not a Candle that it might be put under a Bushel, or under a Bed, but on a Candlestick, that all that come in may see the Light, Mat. 5. 15. Mar. 4. 21. Luke 8. 16. chap. 11. 33.

And, I say, as I said before, in whom is it like so to shine, as in the Souls of great Sinners?

When the Jewish Pharisees dallied with the Gospel, Christ threatned to take it from them, and to give it to the barbarous Hea- thens, and Idolaters. Why so? For they, saith he, will bring forth the Fruits thereof in their Season. Therefore I say unto you, The Kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a Nation bringing forth the Fruits thereof, Mat. 21. 41, 43.

I have often marvelled at our Youth, and said in my Heart, What should be the Reason that they should be so generally at this Day debauched as they are! For they are now profane to Amazement: And sometimes I have thought one Thing, and sometimes another: That is, why God should suffer it so to be. At last I have thought of this: How if the God whose Ways are past finding out, should suffer it so to be now, that he might make of some of them the more glorious Saints hereafter. I know Sin is of the Devil, but it cannot work in the World without Permission: and if it happens to be as I have thought, it will not be the first Time that God the Lord, hath caught Satan in his own Design. For my Part, I believe that the Time is at Hand, that we shall see better Saints in the World, than has been seen in it this many a Day. And this Vileness that at present does so much swallow up our Youth, is one Cause of my thinking so: For out of them, for from among them, when God sets to his Hand, as of old, you shall see what penitent Ones, what trembling Ones, and what Admirers of Grace, will be found to profess the Gospel, to the Glory of God by Christ.

Alas! We are a Company of worn-out Christians, our Moon is in the Wane; we are much more black than white, more dark than light; we shine but a little; Grace in the most of us, is decayed. But I say, when they of these debauched ones that are to be saved, shall be brought in, when these that look more like Devils than Men shall be converted to Christ, (and I believe several of them will) then will Christ be exalted, Grace adored, the Word prized, Sions Paths better trodden, and Men in the Pursuit of their own Salvation, to the Amazement of them that are left behind.

Just before Christ came into the Flesh, the World was degenerated as it is now; The Generality of the Men in Jerusalem were become either high and famous for Hypocrisy, or filthy base in their Lives. The Devil also was broke loose in hideous Manner, and had taken Possession of many: Yea, I believe that there was never Generation before nor since, that could produce so many possessed with Devils, deformed, lame, blind, and infected with monstrous Diseases, as that Generation could. But what was the Reason thereof? I mean the Reason from God? Why one (and we may sum up more in that Answer that Christ gave to his Disciples concerning him that was born blind) was, that the Works of God

God might be made manifest in them, and that the Son of God might be glorified thereby, John 9. 2, 3. chap. 11. 4.

Now if these Devils and Diseases, as they possessed Men then, were to make way and work for an approaching Christ in Person, and for the declaring of his Power, why may we not think that now, even now also, he is ready to come by his Spirit in the Gospel to heal many of the Debaucheries of our Age? I cannot believe that Grace will take them all, for there are but few that are saved: But yet it will take some, even some of the worst of Men, and make Blessed Ones of them. But O! how these Ringleaders in Vice, will then shine in Vertue! They will be the very Pillars in Churches, they will be as an Ensign in the Land; The Lord their God shall save them in that Day, as the Flock of his People, for they shall be as the Stones of a Crown, lift up as an Ensign upon the Land, Zech. 9. 16. But who are these? Even Idolatrous Ephraim, and Backsliding Judah, Ver. 13.

I know there is ground to fear, that the Iniquity of this Generation will be pursued with heavy Judgments: But that will not hinder what we have supposed: God took him a glorious Church out of Bloody Jerusalem, yea, out of the chief of the Sinners there, and left the rest to be taken and spoiled, and sold Thirty for a Penny, in the Nations where they were Captives. The Gospel working gloriously in a Place, to the seizing upon many of the Ringleading Sinners thereof, promiseth no Security to the rest, but rather threatneth them with the heaviest and smartest Judgments; as in the Instance now given, we have a full Demonstration; but in defending, the Lord will defend his People; and in saving, he will save his Inheritance.

Nor does this speak any great comfort to a decayed and backsliding sort of Christians, for the next time God rides Post with his Gospel, he will leave such Christians behind him. But I say, Christ is resolved to set up his Light in the World; yea, he is delighted to see his Graces shine, and therefore he commands that his Gospel should to that end, be offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners; for by great Sins it shineth most: Therefore he saith, Begin at Jerusalem.

Eighthly, And lastly, Christ Jesus will have Mercy to be offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, For that by that means the Impenitent that are left behind, will be at the Judgment the more left without excuse.

God's Word has two edges, it can cut back-stroke and fore-stroke. If it doth thee no good, it will do thee hurt; 'Tis the favour of Life unto Life to those that receive it, but of Death unto Death to them that refuse it, 2 Cor. 2. 15, 16. But this is not all, the tender of Grace to he biggest Sinners, in the first Place, will not only leave the rest, or those that refuse it, in a deplorable Condition, but will also stop their Mouths, and cut off all pretence to Excuse at that Day. If I had not come and spoken unto them, saith Christ, they had not had Sin; but now they have no cloak for their sin, for their sin of persevering in Impenitence, Job 15. 22.

But what did he speak to them? Why even that which I have told you; to wit, That he has in special, a Delight in saving the biggest Sinners. He spake this in the Way of his Doctrine, he spake this in the Way of his Practice, even to the pouring out of his last Breath before them, Luke 23. 34.

Now since this is so, what can the Condemned at the Judgment say for themselves, why Sentence of Death should not be passed upon them? I say, what Excuse can they make for themselves, when they shall be asked why they did not in the Day of Salvation come to Christ to be saved? Will they have ground to say to the Lord, Thou wast only for saving of little Sinners, and therefore because they were great Ones, they durst not come unto him; Or that thou hadst not Compassion for the biggest Sinners, therefore I died in Despair; will these be Excuses for them as the Case now standeth with them? Is there not every where in God's Book a flat Contradiction to this, in multitudes of Promises, of Invitations, of Examples, and the like? Alas, alas! there will then be there Millions of Souls to confute this Plea; ready I say, to stand up and say, O! deceived World, Heaven swarms with such, as was, when they were in the World, to the full as bad as you.

Now this will kill all Plea or Excuse, why they should perish in their Sins; yea, the Text says, they shall see them there; There shall be weeping, when you shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the Prophets in the Kingdom of Heaven, and you your selves thrust out. And they shall come from the East, and from the West, and from the North, and from the South, and shall sit down in the Kingdom of God, Luke 13. 28, 29. Out of which company it is easy to pick such, as sometimes were as bad People as any now breath on the Face of the Earth. What think you of the first Man, by whose Sins there are Millions now in Hell? And so I may say, what think you of ten thousand more besides?

But if the World will not stifle and gag them up, I speak now for Amplification sake, the view of those who are saved shall.

There comes an Incestuous Person to the Barr, and pleads that the Bigness of his Sins was a Bar to his receiving the Promise; But will not his Mouth be stopt as to that, when Lot and the Incestuous Corinthian rinthian shall be set before him, Gen. 19, 33, to 37. 1 Cor. 5. 1, 2.

There comes a Thief and says, Lord! my Sin of Theft, I thought, was such as could not be pardoned by thee! But when he shall see the Thief that was saved on the Cross, stand by, as clothed with beauteous Glory, what further can he be able to object? Yea, the Lord will produce ten thousand of his Saints at his coming, who shall after this manner execute Judgment upon all, and so convince all that are ungodly among them, of all their hard speeches which ungodly Sinners have spoken against him, Jude 15, 16. And these are hard speeches against him, To say that he was not able or willing to save Men, because of the Greatness of their Sins, or to say that they were discouraged by his Word from Repentance, because of the Heinousness of their Offences.

These things, I say, shall then be confuted; He comes with ten thousand of his Saints to confute them, and to stop their Mouths from making Objections against their own eternal Damnation.

Here is Adam the Destroyer of the World; here is Lot that lay with both his Daughters; here is Abraham that was sometimes an Idolater, and Jacob that was a Supplanter, and Ruben that lay with his Father's Concubine, and Judah that lay with his Daughter in Law, and Levi and Simeon that wickedly slew the Sechemites; and Aaron that made an Idol to be Worshipped, and that proclaimed a Religious Feast unto it. Here is also Rahab the Harlot, and Bathsheba that bare a Bastard to David. Here is Solomon that great Backslider, and Manasseh that Man of Blood, and a Witch. Time would fail to tell you of the Woman of Canaan's Daughter, of Mary Magdalen, of Matthew the Publican, and of Gideon and Sampson, and many thousands more.

Alas, alas! I say, what will these Sinners do, that have, through their Unbelief, eclipsed the glorious Largeness of the Mercy of God, and gave way to despair of Salvation because of the Bigness of their Sins.

For all these, though now glorious Saints in Light, were sometimes Sinners of the biggest Size, who had Sins that were of a notorious hue; Yet now, I say, they are in their shining and heavenly Robes before the Throne of God and of the Lamb, Blessing for ever and ever, that Son of God for their Salvation, who died for them upon the Tree; admiring that ever it should come into their Hearts once to think of coming to God by Christ: But above all, blessing God for granting of them Light to see those encouragements in his Testament; without which, without doubt, they had been daunted and sunk down under guilt of Sin and Despair, as their fellow sinners have done.

But now they also are all Witnesses for God and for his Grace against an unbelieving World; for as I said, they shall come to convince the World of their Speeches, their hard and unbelieving Words, that they have spoken concerning the Mercy of God, and the Merits of the Passion of his blessed Son Jesus Christ.

But will it not, think you, strangely put to silence all such Thoughts, and Words, and Reasonings of the Ungodly before the Barr of God? doubtless it will; yea, and will send them away from his Presence also, with the greatest Guilt that possibly can fasten upon the Consciences of Men.

For what will sting like this? I have through mine own foolish, narrow, unworthy, undervaluing Thoughts of the Love and Ability of Christ to save me, brought my self to everlasting Ruine. 'Tis true, I was a horrible Sinner, not one in a hundred did live so vile a Life as I, but this should not have kept me from closing with Jesus Christ: I see now that there are abundance in Glory that once were as bad as I have been, but they were saved by Faith, and I am damned by Unbelief.

Wretch that I am! why did not I give glory to the Redeeming Blood of Jesus? Why did I not humbly cast my Soul at his blessed Foot-stool for Mercy? Why did I judge of his Ability to save me by the Voice of my shallow Reason, and the Voice of a guilty Conscience? Why betook not I my self to the holy Word of God? Why did I not read and pray that I might understand, since now I perceive that God said then, He giveth liberally to them that pray, and upbraideth not, Jam. 1. 5.

'Tis rational to think, that by such Cogitations as these, the unbelieving World will be torn in pieces before the Judgment of Christ: Especially those that have lived where they did or might have heard the Gospel of the Grace of God. Oh! that Saying, It shall be more tolerable for Sodom at the Judgment, than for them, will be better understood. See Luke 10. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.

This Reason therefore standeth fast; Namely, That Christ, by offering Mercy in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, now, will stop all Mouths of the impenitent at the Day of Judgment, and cut off all Excuse that shall be attempted to be made (from the thoughts of the Greatness of their Sins) why they came not to him.

I have often thought of the Day of Judgment, and how God will deal with Sinners at that Day: And I believe it will be managed with that Sweetness, with that Equitableness, with that excellent Righteousness, as to every Sin, and Circumstance, and Aggravation thereof, that Men that are damned, before the Judgment is over, shall receive such Conviction of the Righteous Judgment of God upon them, and

and of their deserts of Hell Fire, that they shall in themselves conclude, that there is all the Reason in the World that they should be shut out of Heaven, and go to Hell Fire; These shall go away into everlasting Fire, Matt. 25. 46.

Only this will tare them, That they have mist of Mercy and Glory, and obtained everlasting Damnation through their Unbelief. But it will tare but themselves, but their own Souls; they will gnash upon themselves: For in that, Mercy was offered to the chief of them in the first Place, and yet they were damned for rejecting of it: They were damned for forsaking what they had a sort of Propriety in; for, forsaking their Own Mercy.

And thus much for the Reasons. I will conclude with a Word of Application.

The APPLICATION.

First, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners; then this shews us how to make a right Judgment of the Heart of Christ to Men. Indeed we have advantage to guess at the Goodness of his Heart, by many Things; as by his taking our Nature upon him, his dying for us; his sending his Word and Ministers to us, and all that we might be saved. But this of beginning to offer Mercy to Jerusalem, is that which heightens all the rest; for this doth not only confirm to us, that Love was the cause of his dying for us; but it shews us yet more the depth of that Love: He might have dyed for us, and yet have extended the benefit of his Death to a few, as one might call them, of the best-conditioned Sinners, to those who (though they were weak, and could not but sin) yet made not a Trade of sinning; To those that sinned not lavishly. There are in the World, as one may call them, the moderate Sinners; the Sinners that mix Righteousness with their Pollutions; the Sinners that, though they be Sinners, do what on their part lies, (some that are blind would think so) that they might be saved. I say, it had been Love, great Love, if he had died for none but such, and sent his Love to such: But that he should send out Conditions of Peace to the biggest of Sinners! yea, that they should be offered to them first of all! (for so he means when he says, Begin at Jerusalem.) This is wonderful! this shews his Heart to purpose, as also the Heart of God his Father who sent him to do thus.

There is nothing more incident to Men that are awake in their Souls, than to have wrong Thoughts of God; Thoughts that are narrow, and that pinch and pen up his Mercy to scanty and beggarly Conclusions, and rigid legal Conditions; supposing that it is rude and an intrenching upon his Majesty, to come our selves, or to invite others, until we have scraped and washed, and rubbed off as much of our Dirt from us as we think is convenient, to make us somewhat orderly and handsome in his Sight. Such never knew what these Words meant, Begin at Jerusalem. Yea, such in their Hearts have compared the Father and his Son to niggardly rich Men whose Money comes from them like drops of Blood. True, says such, God has Mercy, but he is loth to part with it. You must please him well, if you get any from him: He is not so free as many suppose, nor is he so willing to save as some pretended Gospelers imagine: But I ask such, If the Father and Son be not unspeakably free to shew Mercy, why was this Clause put into our Commission to preach the Gospel? Yea, why did he say, Begin at Jerusalem? For when Men, through the weakness of their wits, have attempted to shew other Reasons why they should have the first proffer of Mercy, yet I can prove (by many undeniable Reasons) that they of Jerusalem (to whom the Apostles made the First offer, according as they were commanded) were the biggest Sinners that ever did breath upon the Face of God's earth (set the unpardonable Sin aside) upon which my Doctrine stands like a Rock, That Jesus the Son of God would have Mercy in the first Place offered to the biggest Sinners: And if this doth not shew the Heart of the Father and the Son to be infinitely free in bestowing Forgiveness of Sins, I confess my self mistaken.

Neither is there, set this aside, another Argument like it, to shew us the Willingness of Christ to save Sinners; For, as was said before, all the rest of the Signs of Christ's Mercifulness might have been limited to Sinners that are so and so qualified; but when he says, Begin at Jerusalem, the Line is stretched out to the utmost, no Man can imagine beyond it, and it is Folly here to pinch and pare, to narrow, and seek to bring it within scanty bounds, for he plainly saith, Begin at Jerusalem. The biggest Sinner, is the biggest Sinner; the biggest is the Jerusalem-sinner.

'Tis true, he saith that Repentance and Remission of Sins must go together; but yet Remission is sent to the chief, the Jerusalem Sinner; nor doth Repentance lessen at all the Jerusalem-sinners crimes; it diminisheth none of his Sins, nor causes that there should be so much as half a one the fewer: It only puts a stop to the Jerusalem Sinners course, and makes him willing to be saved freely by Grace; and for time to come to be governed by that blessed Word, that has brought the Tidings of good Things to him.

Besides, no Man shews himself willing to be saved that repenteth not of his Deeds, for he that goes on still in his Trespases, declares that he is resolved to pursue his own Damnation further.

Learn then to judge of the Largeness of God's Heart, and of the Heart of his Son Jesus Christ, by the Word: Judge not thereof by feeling, nor by the Reports of thy Conscience; Conscience is often-times here befooled and made to go quite besides the Word: 'Twas judging without the Word that made David say, I am cast off from God's Eyes, and shall perish one Day by the hand of Saul, Psal. 31. 22. 1 Sam. 27. 1.

The Word had told him another Thing; namely, that he should be King in his stead. Our Text says also, that Jesus Christ bids Preachers in their preaching Repentance and Remission of Sins, Begin first at Jerusalem; Thereby declaring most truly, the infinite Largeness of the Merciful Heart of God and his Son, to the Sinful Children of Men.

Judge thou, I say therefore of the Goodness of the Heart of God and his Son, by this Text, and by other of the same import; so shalt thou not dishonour the Grace of God, nor needlessly fright thy self, nor give away thy Faith, nor gratify the Devil, nor lose the Benefit of his Word: I speak now to weak Believers.

Secondly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, to the Jerusalem Sinners? Then by this also, you must learn to judge of the sufficiency of the Merits of Christ; not that the Merits of Christ can be comprehended, for that they are beyond the Conceptions of the whole World, being called The unsearchable Riches of Christ; but yet they may be apprehended to a considerable degree. Now the Way to apprehend them most, is to consider what Offers, after his Resurrection, he makes of his Grace to Sinners; for to be sure he will not offer beyond the Vertue of his Merits; because as Grace is the cause of his Merits, so his Merits are the basis and bounds, upon and by which his Grace stands good, and is let out to Sinners. Doth he then command that his Mercy should be offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners? It declares that there is sufficiency in his Blood to save the biggest Sinners. The Blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all Sin. And again, Be it known unto you Men and Brethren, That through this Man (this Man's Merits) is preached to you the Forgiveness of Sins, and by him All that believe are justified from All things from which they could not be justified by the Law of Moses, Acts 13. 38.

Observe then thy Rule to make Judgment of the Sufficiency of the Blessed Merits of thy Saviour; if he had not been able to have reconciled the biggest Sinners to his Father by his Blood, he would not have sent to them; have sent to them in the first Place the Doctrine of Remission of Sins; for Remission of Sins is through Faith in his Blood: We are justified freely by the Grace of God, through the Redemption that is in the Blood of Christ. Upon the square, as I may call it, of the Worthiness of the Blood of Christ, Grace acts, and offers Forgiveness of Sin to Men, Ephes. 1. 7. chap. 2. 13, 14. Colos. 1. 20, 21, 22.

Hence therefore we must gather, That the Blood of Christ is of infinite value, for that he offereth Mercy to the biggest of Sinners: Nay further, since he offereth Mercy in the first Place to the biggest Sinners; Considering also that this first act of his, is that which the World will take notice of, and expect it should be continued unto the end; Also it is a Disparagement to a Man that seeks his own Glory in what he undertakes, to do that for a spurt, which he cannot continue and hold out in: This is our Lord's own Argument, He began to build, saith he, but was not able to finish, Luke 14. 28, 29, 30.

Shouldest thou hear a Man say, I am resolved to be kind to the Poor, and should begin giving with handfuls of Guineas, you would conclude that either he is wonderful Rich, or must straighten his hand, or will soon be at the bottom of his Riches. Why this is the Case, Christ at his Resurrection gave it out that he would be good to the World; and first sends to the biggest Sinners, with an intent to have Mercy on them. Now the biggest Sinners cannot be saved but by abundance of Grace, 'tis not a little that will save great Sinners, Rom. 5. 17. And I say again, since the Lord Jesus mounts thus high at the first, and sends to the Jerusalem-Sinners, that they may come first to partake of his Mercy; it follows that either he has unsearchable Riches of Grace and Worth in himself, or else he must straighten his Hand, or his Grace and Merits will be spent before the World's at an end. But let it be believed, as surely as spoken, he is still as full as ever! He is not a Jot the Poorer for all the Forgivenesses that he has given away to great Sinners; Also he is still as free as at first, for he never yet called back this Word, Begin at the Jerusalem Sinners. And as I said, since his Grace is extended according to the Worth of his Merits; I conclude, that there is the same Vertue in his Merits to save now, as there was at the very Beginning.

O the Riches of the Grace of Christ! Oh the Riches of the Blood of Christ!

Thirdly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, Then here is Encouragement for you that think, for wicked Hearts and Lives, you have not your Fellows in the World; yet to come to him.

There is a People that therefore fear lest they should be rejected of Jesus Christ, because cause of the Greatness of their Sins; when as you see here, such are sent to, sent to by Jesus Christ to come to him for Mercy, Begin at Jerusalem: Never did one Thing answer another more fitly in this World, than this Text fitteth such Kind of Sinners. As Face answereth Face in a Glass, so this Text answereth the Necessities of such Sinners. What can a Man say more, but that he stands in the Rank of the biggest Sinners; let him stretch himself whether he can, and think of himself to the utmost, he can but conclude himself to be one of the biggest Sinners: And what then? Why the Text meets him in the very Face, and saith, Christ offereth Mercy to the biggest Sinners, to the very Jerusalem-Sinners. What more can be objected? Nay, he doth not only offer to such his Mercy, but to them 'tis commanded to be offered in the first Place; Begin at Jerusalem. Preach Repentance and Remission of Sins among all Nations, beginning at Jerusalem. Is not here Encouragement for those that think, for wicked Hearts and Lives, they have not their Fellows in the World?

Objection. But I have a Heart as hard as a Rock.

Ans. Well, but this doth but prove thee a bigger Sinner.

Object. But my Heart continually frets against the Lord.

Ans. Well, this doth but prove thee a bigger Sinner.

Object. But I have been desperate in sinful Courses.

Ans. Well, stand thou with the Number of the biggest Sinners.

Object. But my gray Head is found in the Way of Wickedness.

Ans. Well, thou art in the Rank of the biggest Sinners.

Object. But I have not only a base Heart, but I have lived a debauched Life.

Ans. Stand thou also among those that are called the biggest Sinners. And what then? Why the Text swoops you all; you cannot object yourselves beyond the Text: It has a particular Message to the biggest Sinners. I say, it swoops you all.

Object. But I am a Reprobate.

Ans. Now thou talkest like a Fool, and of that thou understandest not: No Sin; but the Sin of final Impenitence, can prove a Man a Reprobate. And I am sure thou hast not arrived as yet unto that; therefore thou understandest not what thou sayest, and makest groundless Conclusions against thyself. Say thou art a Sinner, and I will hold with thee. Say thou art a great Sinner, and I will say so too. Yea, say thou art one of the biggest Sinners and spare not, for the Text yet is beyond thee, is yet betwixt Hell and thee; Begin at Jerusalem, has yet a Smile upon thee: And thou talkest as if thou wast a Reprobate, and that the Greatness of thy Sins do prove thee so to be; when yet they of Jerusalem were not such, whose Sins I dare say, were such, both for Bigness and Heinousness, as thou art not capable of committing beyond them; unless now, after thou hast received Conviction that the Lord Jesus is the only Saviour of the World, thou shouldest wickedly and despitefully turn thyself from him, and conclude he is not to be trusted to for Life, and so crucify him for a Cheat afresh. This I must confess, will bring a Man under the Black Rod, and set him in Danger of eternal Damnation, Heb. 6. 6. chap. 10. 29. This is trampling under Foot the Son of God, and counting his Blood an unholy Thing. This did they of Jerusalem; but they did it ignorantly in Unbelief, and so were yet capable of Mercy: But to do this against professed Light, and to stand to it, puts a Man beyond the Text indeed, Acts 3. 14, 15, 16, 17. 1 Tim. 1. 13.

But I say, what is this to him, that would fain be saved by Christ? His Sins did, as to Greatness, never yet reach to the Nature of the Sins that the Sinners intended by the Text, had made themselves guilty of. He that would be saved by Christ, has an honourable Esteem of him, but they of Jerusalem preferred a Murderer before him; but as for him, they cried, away away with him, 'tis not fit that he should live. Perhaps thou wilt object, That thyself hast a thousand Times preferred a stinking Lust before him. I answer, Be it so, it is but what is common to Men to do; nor doth the Lord Jesus make such a foolish Life a Bar to thee, to forbid thy coming to him, or a Bond to his Grace, that it might be kept from thee; but admits of thy Repentance, and offereth himself unto thee freely, as thou standest among the Jerusalem-Sinners.

Take therefore Encouragement, Man, Mercy is, by the Text, held forth to the biggest Sinners. Yea, put thyself into the Number of the worst by Reckoning, that thou mayest be one of the first, and mayest not be put off till the biggest Sinners are served: For the biggest Sinners are first invited; consequently, if they come, they are like to be the first that shall be served. 'Twas so with Jerusalem; Jerusalem-Sinners were they that was first invited, and those of them that came first (and there came three thousand of them the first Day they were invited, how many came afterwards, none can tell) they were first served.

Put in thy Name, Man, among the biggest, lest thou art made to wait till they are served. You have some Men that think themselves very cunning, because they put up their Names in their Prayers among them that feign it, saying, God, I thank thee, I am not so bad as the worst. But believe lieve it, if they be saved at all, they shall be saved in the last Place. The first in their own Eyes shall be served last, and the last, or worst, shall be first. The Text insinuates it, Begin at Jerusalem; and Reason backs it, for they have most Need. Behold ye therefore, how God's Ways are above ours; we are for serving the worst last, God is for serving the worst first. The Man at the Pool, that to my thinking, was longest in his Disease, and most helpless as to his Cure, was first healed, yea, he only was healed; for we read that Christ healed him, but we read not then that he healed one more there, John 5. 1, to 10.

Wherefore if thou wouldest soonest be served, put in thy Name among the very worst of Sinners. Say, when thou art upon thy Knees, Lord! here is a Jerusalem-Sinner! a Sinner of the biggest Size! one whose Burthen is of the greatest Bulk and heaviest Weight! one that cannot stand long without sinking into Hell, without thy supporting Hand! Be not thou far from me, O Lord: O my Strength, haste thou to help me.

I say, put in thy Name with Magdalen, with Manasseh, that thou mayest fare as the Magdalen and the Manasseh-Sinners do. The Man in the Gospel made the desperate Condition of his Child, an Argument with Christ to haste his Cure: Sir, come down, saith he, e're my Child die, Joh. 4. 49. And Christ regarded his Haste, saying, Go thy Way, thy Son liveth, Ver. 50. Haste requires Haste. David was for Speed; deliver me speedily; hear me speedily, answer me speedily, Psal. 31. 2. Psal. 69. 17. Psal. 102. 2. But why speedily? I am in the Net, I am in Trouble, my Days consume like Smoak, Psal. 31. 4. Psal. 69. 17. Psal. 102. 3. Deep calleth unto Deep, Necessity calls for Help; great necessity for present help.

Wherefore I say, be ruled by me in this Matter; feign not thyself another Man, if thou hast been a filthy Sinner, but go in thy Colours to Jesus Christ, and put thyself among the most Vile, and let him alone to put thee among the Children, Jer. 3. 19. Confess all that thou knowest of thyself; I know thou wilt find it hard Work to do thus; especially if thy Mind be legal; but do it, lest thou stay, and be deferred with the little Sinners, until the great Ones have had their Alms. What do you think David intended when he said, his Wounds stunk and were corrupted, but to hasten God to have Mercy upon him, and not to defer his Cure. Lord, says he, I am troubled, I am bowed down greatly, I go mourning all the Day long. I am feeble, and sore broken, by Reason of the Disquietment of my Heart, Psal. 38. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.

David knew what he did by all this, he knew that his making the worst of his Case, was the Way to speedy Help, and that a feigning and dissembling the Matter with God, was the next Way to a Demurr, as to his Forgiveness.

I have one Thing more to offer for thy Encouragement who deemest thyself one of the biggest Sinners; And that is, Thou art as it were, called by thy Name, in the first Place, to come in for Mercy. Thou Man of Jerusalem, hearken to thy Call; Men do so in Courts of Judicature, and presently cry out, Here, Sir; and then they shoulder and croud, and say, Pray give Way, I am called into the Court. Why this is thy Case, thou great, thou Jerusalem-Sinner; be of good Cheer, he calleth thee, Mark 10. 46, 47, 48, 49. Why sittest thou still? arise: why standest thou still? Come Man. Thy Call should give thee Authority to come. Begin at Jerusalem, is thy Call and Authority to come; Wherefore up, and shoulder it, Man: Say, Stand away Devil, Christ calls me, stand away Unbelief, Christ calls me: Stand away all ye my discouraging Apprehensions, for my Saviour calls me to him to receive of his Mercy. Men will do thus, as I said, in Courts below: and why shouldst not thou approach thus to the Court above. The Jerusalem-Sinner is first in Thought, first in Commission, first in the Record of Names, and therefore should give Attendance with Expectation, that he is first to receive Mercy of God.

Is not this an Encouragement to the biggest Sinners to make their Application to Christ for Mercy. Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, doth also confirm this Thing, that is, that the biggest Sinner, and he that has the biggest Burden, is he who is first invited. Christ pointeth over the Heads of Thousands, as he sits on the Throne of Grace, directly to such a Man; and says, bring in hither the maimed, the halt, and the blind; Let the Jerusalem-Sinner that stands there behind, come to me. Wherefore since Christ says come, to thee, let the Angels make a Lane, and let all Men give Place, that the Jerusalem-Sinner may come to Jesus Christ for Mercy.

Fourthly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners? Then come thou profane Wretch, and let me a little enter into an Argument with thee; Why wilt thou not come to Jesus Christ, since thou art a Jerusalem-Sinner? How canst thou find in thy Heart to set thyself against Grace, against such Grace as offereth Mercy to thee? What Spirit possesseth thee, and holds thee back from a sincere Closure with thy Saviour? Behold God groaningly complains of thee, saying, But Israel would none of me. When I called, none did answer, Psal. 81. 11. Isa. 66. 4.

Shall God enter this Complaint against thee? Why dost thou put him off? Why dost thou stop thine Ear? Canst thou defend thyself? When thou art called to an Account for thy Neglects of so great Salvation, vation, what canst thou answer? or dost thou think thou shalt escape the Judgment? Heb. 2. 3.

No more such Christs! There will be no more such Christs, Sinner! Oh, put not the Day, the Day of Grace, away from thee! if it be once gone, 'twill never come again, Sinner.

But what is it that has got thy Heart, and that keeps it from thy Saviour? Who in the Heavens can be compared unto the Lord? Who among the Sons of the mighty can be likened unto the Lord? Psal. 89. 6. Hast thou, thinkest thou, found any Thing so good as Jesus Christ? Is there any among thy Sins, thy Companions, and foolish Delights, that like Christ, can help thee in the Day of thy Distress? Behold, the Greatness of thy Sins cannot hinder; let not the Stubbornness of thy Heart hinder thee, Sinner.

Objection. But I am ashamed.

Answer. Oh! Don't be ashamed to be saved, Sinner.

Object. But my old Companions will mock me.

Answer. Oh! Don't be mocked out of Eternal Life, Sinner.

Thy Stubbornness affects, afflicts the Heart of thy Saviour. Carest thou not for this? Of old, He beheld the City, and wept over it. Canst thou hear this, and not be concerned? Luke 19. 41, 42. Shall Christ weep to see thy Soul going on to Destruction, and wilt thou sport thy self in that Way? Yea, shall Christ, that can be eternally happy without thee, be more afflicted at the Thoughts of the Loss of thy Soul, than thyself, who art certainly eternally miserable if thou neglectest to come to him.

Those Things that keep thee and thy Saviour, on thy Part, asunder, are but Bubbles; the least Prick of an Affliction, will let out, as to thee, what now thou thinkest is worth the Venture of Heaven to enjoy.

Hast thou not Reason? Canst thou not so much as once soberly think of thy dying Hour? or of, whither thy sinful Life will drive thee then? Hast thou no Conscience? or having one, is it rocked so fast asleep by Sin, or made so weary with an unsuccessful Calling upon thee, that it is laid down, and cares for thee no more? Poor Man, thy State is to be lamented. Hast no Judgment? Art not able to conclude, that to be saved, is better than to burn in Hell; and that eternal Life, with God's Favour, is better than a temporal Life in God's Displeasure? Hast no Affection but what is brutish? what, none at all? No Affection for the God that made thee? What, none for his loving Son that has shewed his Love, and dyed for thee? Is not Heaven worth thy Affection? O poor Man! which is strongest thinkest thou,

Vol. II.

God or thee? If thou art not able to overcome him, thou art a Fool for standing out against him; Mat. 5. 25, 26. It is a fearful Thing to fall into the Hands of the Living God. He will gripe hard, his Fist is stronger than a Lion's Paw; take Heed of him, he will be angry if you despise his Son; and will you stand guilty in your Trespases, when he offereth you his Grace and Favour? Exod. 34. 6, 7. Heb. 10. 29, 30, 31.

Now we come to the Text, Beginning at Jerusalem. This Text, though it be now one of the brightest Stars that shineth in the Bible, because there is in it, as full, if not the fullest Offer of Grace that can be imagined, to the Sons of Men; yet to them that shall perish from under this Word, even this Text will be to such, one of the hottest Coals in Hell.

This Text therefore will save thee, or sink thee: there is no shifting of it: If it saves thee, it will set thee high; if it sinks thee, it will set thee low.

But, I say, Why so unconcerned? Hast no Soul? Or dost think thou mayest lose thy Soul, and save thyself? Is it not Pity, had it otherwise been the Will of God, that ever thou wast made a Man, for that thou settest so little by thy Soul?

Sinner, Take the Invitation; thou art called upon to come to Christ: Nor art thou called upon but by Order from the Son of God, though thou shouldest happen to come of the biggest Sinners: For he has bid us offer Mercy, as to all the World in General, so in the first Place, To the Sinners of Jerusalem; or to the biggest Sinners.

Firstly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, Then this shews how unreasonable a Thing it is, for Men to despair of Mercy. For those that presume, I shall say something to them afterward.

I now speak to them that despair.

There are four Sorts of Despair. There is the Despair of Devils; There is the Despair of Souls in Hell; There is the Despair that is grounded upon Men's Deficiency; And there is the Despair that they are perplexed with that are willing to be saved, but are too strongly born down with the Burthen of their Sins.

The Despair of Devils, the Damned's Despair, and that Despair that a Man has of attaining of Life, because of his own Deficiency, are all unreasonable. Why should not Devils and damned Souls despair? Yea, Why should not Man despair of getting to Heaven by his own Abilities? I therefore am concern'd only with the fourth Sort of Despair, to wit, with the Despair of those that would be saved, but are too strongly born down with the Burden of their Sins.

I say therefore, to thee that art thus, And why Despair? Thy Despair, if it was reasonable, should flow from thee, because found in the Land that is beyond the Grave, or because thou certainly knowest that Christ will not, or cannot save thee.

But for the first, thou art yet in the Land of the Living; and for the second, thou hast Ground to believe the quite contrary; Christ is able to save to the uttermost, them that come to God by him; and if he were not willing, he would not have commanded that Mercy in the first Place should be offered to the biggest Sinners. Besides, he hath said, And let him that is a-thirst come, and whosoever will, let him take the Water of Life freely; that is, with all my Heart. What Ground now is here for Despair? If thou sayest, The Number and Burden of my Sins. I answer, nay: That is rather a Ground for Faith; because such an one above all others, is invited by Christ to come unto him, yea, promised Rest and Forgiveness if they come, Mat. 11. 28. What Ground then to despair? Verily none at all. Thy Despair then is a Thing unreasonable, and without Footing in the Word.

But I have no Experience of God's Love, God hath given me no Comfort, or Ground of Hope, though I have waited upon him for it many a Day.

Thou hast Experience of God's Love, for that he has opened thine Eyes to see thy Sins; and for that he has given thee Desires to be saved by Jesus Christ. For by thy Sense of Sin thou art made to see the Poverty of Spirit, and that has laid thee under a sure Ground to hope that Heaven shall be thine hereafter.

Also thy Desires to be saved by Christ, has put thee under another Promise, so there is two to hold thee up in them, tho' thy present Burden be never so heavy, Mat. 5. 3, 6. As for what thou sayest, as to God's Silence to thee, perhaps he has spoken to thee once or twice already, but thou hast not perceived it, Job 33. 14, 15.

However thou hast Christ crucified, set forth before thine Eyes in the Bible, and an Invitation to come unto him, though thou be a Jerusalem-Sinner, though thou be the biggest Sinner; and so no Ground to despair. What if God will be silent to thee, is that Ground of Despair? Not at all, so long as there is a Promise in the Bible that God will in no wise cast away the coming Sinner, and so long as he invites the Jerusalem-Sinner to come unto him, John 6. 37.

Build not therefore Despair upon these Things, they are no sufficient Foundations for it, such Plenty of Promises being in the Bible; and such a Discovery of his Mercy to great Sinners of old, especially since we have withal a Clause in the Commission given to Ministers to preach, that they should begin with the Jerusalem-Sinners in their offering of Mercy to the World.

Besides, God says, They that wait upon the Lord, shall renew their Strength, they shall mount up with wings like Eagles; but perhaps it may be long first. I waited long, saith David, and did seek the Lord, and at length his Cry was heard: Wherefore he bids his Soul wait on God, and says, for it is good so to do before thy Saints, Psal. 40. 1. Psal. 62. 5. Psalm 52. 9.

And what if thou waitest upon God all thy Days? Is it below thee? And what if God will cross his Book, and blot out the Hand-writting that is against thee, and not let thee know it as yet? Is it fit to say unto God, Thou art hard hearted? Despair not. Thou hast no ground to despair, so long as thou livest in this World. 'Tis a Sin to begin to despair before one sets his Foot over the Threshold of Hell gates. For them that are there, let them Despair and spare not; but as for thee, thou hast no ground to do it. What! Despair of Bread, in a Land that is full of Corn! Despair of Mercy when our God is full of Mercy! Despair of Mercy, when God goes about by his Ministers, beseeching of Sinners to be reconciled unto him! 2 Cor. 5. 18, 19, 20.

Thou scrupulous Fool, where canst thou find that God was ever false to his Promise, or that he ever deceived the Soul that ventured it self upon him? He often calls upon Sinners to trust him, though they walk in Darkness and have no Light, Isa. 50. 10.

They have his Promise and Oath for their Salvation, that flee for Refuge to the Hope set before them, Heb. 6. 17. 18.

Despair! When we have a God of Mercy, and a Redeeming Christ Alive! For shame forbear: Let them despair that dwell where there is no God, and that are confined to those Chambers of Death, which can be reached by no Redemption.

A Living Man despair! When he is chid for murmuring and complaining! Lam. 3. 39. Oh! so long as we are where Promises swarm, where Mercy is proclaimed, where Grace reigns, and where Jerusalem-Sinners are privileged with the first Offer of Mercy, it is a base Thing to Despair!

Despair undervalues the Promise, undervalues the Invitation, undervalues the Proffer of Grace. Despair undervalues the Ability of God the Father, and the redeeming Blood of Christ his Son: Oh unreasonable Despair!

Despair makes Man God's Judge; 'tis a Controller of the Promise, a Contradictor of Christ in his large Offers of Mercy: And one that undertakes to make Unbelief the great Manager of our Reason and Judgment, in determining about what God can and will do for Sinners.

Despair! It is the Devil's fellow, the Devil's

Devil's Master; yea, the Chains with which he is captivated and held under Darkness for ever: And to give way thereto in a Land, in a State and Time that flows with Milk and Honey, is an uncomely thing.

I would say to my Soul; O my Soul! this is not the place of Despair, this is not the Time to despair in: As long as mine Eyes can find a Promise in the Bible; as long as there is the least mention of Grace, as long as there is a Moment left me of Breath or Life in this World; so long will I wait or look for Mercy; so long will I fight against Unbelief and Despair.

This is the Way to Honour God and Christ: this is the Way to set the Crown on the Promise; this is the Way to welcome the Invitation and Inviter; and this is the Way to thrust thy self under the Shelter and Protection of the Word of Grace. Never despair so long as our Text is alive, for that doth sound it out, That Mercy by Christ is offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinner.

Despair is an unprofitable Thing, 'twill make a Man weary of waiting upon God, 2 King. 6. 33. 'Twill make a Man forsake God, and seek his Heaven in the good Things of this World, Gen. 4. 13, to 18. 'Twill make a Man his own Tormenter, and flounce and fling like a wild Bull in a Net, Isa. 51. 20.

Despair! It drives a Man to the Study of his own Ruine, and brings him at last to be his own Executioner, 2 Sam. 17. 23. Matt. 27. 3, 4, 5.

Besides, I am perswaded also, that Despair is the cause that there are so many that would fain be Atheists in the World: For because they have entertained a Conceit that God will never be merciful to them; therefore they labour to perswade themselves that there is no God at all, as if their misbelief would kill God, or cause him to cease to be. A poor shift for an Immortal Soul, for a Soul who liketh not to retain God in its Knowledge! If this be the best that Despair can do, let it go, Man; and betake thy self to Faith, to Prayer, to wait for God, and to hope, in despite of ten thousand doubts. And for thy encouragement, take yet (as an Addition to what has already been said) these following Scriptures; The Lord takes pleasure in them that fear him, in them that hope in his Mercy, Psal. 147. 11.

Whence note, They fear not God, that hope not in his Mercy. Also, God is angry with them that hope not in his Mercy; for he only taketh pleasure in them that hope. He that believeth, or hath received his Testimony, hath set to his Seal that God is true, Joh. 3. 33. But he that receiveth it not, hath made him a Liar, and that is a very unworthy Thing, 1 John 5. 10, 11. Let the Wicked forsake his Ways, and the Unrighteous Man his Thoughts; and let him return to the Lord, and he will have Mercy on him; and to our God, for he will abundantly multiply Pardons, Isa. 55. 7. Perhaps thou art weary of thy Ways, but art not weary of thy Thoughts; of thy unbelieving and despairing Thoughts: Now God also would have thee cast away these Thoughts, as such which he deserveth not at thy Hands, For he will have Mercy upon thee, and he will abundantly Pardon.

O Fools! and slow of Heart to believe all that the Prophets have spoken, Luke 24. 25. Mark you here, Slowness to believe is a Piece of Folly. Ay! but sayest thou, I do believe some, and I believe what can make against me. Ay, but Sinner, Christ Jesus here calls thee Fool for not believing All. Believe All, and despair if thou canst. He that believes All, believeth that Text that saith, Christ would have Mercy preached first to the Jerusalem-Sinners. He that believeth All, believeth all the Promises and Consolations of the Word; and the Promises and Consolations of the Word, weigh heavier than do all the Curses and Threatnings of the Law. And Mercy rejoiceth against Judgement. Wherefore believe All, and Mercy will to thy Conscience, weigh Judgment down, and so minister Comfort to thy Soul. The Lord take the Yoke from off thy Jaws, since he has set Meat before thee, Hos. 11. 4. And help thee to remember that he is pleased in the first Place to offer Mercy to the biggest Sinners.

Sixthly, Since Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners, Let Souls see that they lay right hold thereof; lest they, notwithstanding, indeed come short thereof. Faith only knows how to deal with Mercy; wherefore put not in the Place thereof Presumption. I have observed, that as there are Herbs and Flowers in our Gardens, so there are their Counterfeits in the Field; only they are distinguished from the other by the Name of Wild Ones. Why, there is Faith, and Wild Faith; and Wild Faith is this Presumption? I call it Wild Faith, because God never placed it in his Garden, his Church; 'tis only to be found in the Field, the World. I also call it Wild Faith, because it only grows up, and is nourished where other Wild Notions abounds. Wherefore take heed of this, and all may be well: For this Presumptuousness is a very heinous Thing in the Eyes of God: The Soul, saith he, that shall do ought presumptuously (whether born in the Land or a Stranger) the same reproacheth the Lord; And that Soul shall be cut off from among his People, Numb. 15. 30.

The Thoughts of this made David tremble, and pray, That God would hold him back from presumptuous Sins, and not suffer them to have dominion over him, Psalm 19. 13.

Now

Now this Presumption, Then puts it self in the Place of Faith, when it tampereth with the Promise for Life, while the Soul is a Stranger to Repentance. Wherefore you have in the Text, to prevent doing thus, both Repentance and Remission of Sins to be offered to Jerusalem, not Remission without Repentance: For all that repent not shall perish, let them presume on Grace and the Promise while they will, Luke 13. 1, 2, 3.

Presumption then is that which severeth Faith and Repentance, concluding that the Soul shall be saved by Grace, though the Man was never made sorry for his Sins, nor the Love of the Heart turned therefrom. This is to be selfwilled, as Peter has it. And this is a despising the Word of the Lord, for that has put Repentance and Faith together, Mark 1. 15. And because he hath despised the Word of the Lord, and hath broken the Commandment, that Soul shall utterly be cut off: his iniquities shall be upon him, Numb. 15. 31.

Let such therefore look to it, who yet are, and abide in their Sins; for such, if they Hope, as they are, to be saved, presume upon the Grace of God. Wherefore Presumption and not hearkning to God's Word, are put together, Deut. 17. 12.

Again, Then Men presume when they are resolved to abide in their Sins, and yet expect to be saved by God's Grace through Christ. This is as much as to say, God liketh of Sin as well as I do, and careth not how Men live, if so be they lean upon his Son. Of this sort are they that build up Zion with Blood, and Jerusalem with Iniquity; That judge for reward, and teach for hire, and divine for Money, and lean upon the Lord, Mic. 3. 10, 11. This is doing Things with an high Hand against the Lord our God, and a taking him, as it were, at the Catch! This is, as we say among Men, to seek to put a Trick upon God, as if he had not sufficiently fortified his Proposals of Grace by his holy Word, against all such kind of Fools as these. But look to it,

Such will be found at the Day of God, not among that great company of Jerusalem-Sinners, that shall be saved by Grace, but among those that have been the great Abusers of the Grace of God in the World. These that say, Let us Sin that Grace may abound, and let us do Evil that Good may come, their Damnation is just. And if so, they are a great Way off of that Salvation that is by Jesus Christ presented to the Jerusalem-Sinners.

I have therefore these Things to propound to that Jerusalem-Sinner that would know, if he may be so bold to venture himself upon this Grace.

First, Dost thou see thy Sins?

Secondly, Art thou weary of them?

Thirdly, Wouldst thy with all thy heart be saved by Jesus Christ? I dare say no less, I dare say no more. But if it be truly thus with thee, how great soever thy Sins have been, how bad soever thou feelest thy Heart, how far soever thou art from thinking that God has Mercy for thee; thou art the Man, the Jerusalem-Sinner, that the Word of God has conquered, and to whom it offereth free Remission of Sins, by the Redemption that is in Jesus Christ.

When the Jayler cried out, Sirs, What must I do to be saved? The answer was, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. He that sees his Sins aright, is brought to his wits-end by them, and he that is so, is willing to part from them, and to be saved by the Grace of God.

If this be thy Case, fear not, give no way to Despair, thou presumest not, if thou believest to Life everlasting in Jesus Christ. Yea, Christ is prepared for such as thou art.

Therefore take good Courage and believe. The design of Satan is to tell the Presumptuous, that their presuming on Mercy is good; but to perswade the Believer, that his believing is impudent bold dealing with God. I never heard a presumptuous Man in my Life, say that he was afraid that he presumed; but I have heard many an honest humble Soul say, that they have been afraid that their Faith has been Presumption. Why should Satan molest those whose Ways he knows will bring them to him? And who can think that he should be quiet when Men take the right course to escape his hellish snares. This therefore is the reason why the truly humbled is opposed, while the presumptuous goes on by Wind and Tide. The truly humble, Satan hates, but he laughs to see the Foolery of the other.

Does thy Hand and Heart tremble? Upon thee the Promise smiles; To this Man will I look, says God, even to him that is Poor, and of a contrite Spirit, and trembles at my Word, Isa. 66. 2.

What therefore I have said of Presumption, concerns not the humble in Spirit at all. I therefore am for gathering up the Stones, and for taking the Stumbling-blocks out of the Way of God's People; and fore-warning of them that they lay the stumbling Block of their Iniquity before their Faces, and that are for presuming upon God's Mercy; and let them look to themselves, Ezek. 14. 6, 7, 8.

Also our Text stands firm as ever it did, and our Observation is still of force, That Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners. So then, let none Despair, let none Presume; Let none Despair that are sorry for their Sins, and would be saved by Jesus Christ: Let none Presume, that abide in the liking of their Sins, though they seem to know the exceeding exceeding Grace of Christ; for though the Doors stand wide open for the Reception of the Penitent, yet 'tis fast enough barr'd and bolted against the presumptuous Sinner. Be not deceived, God is not mocked, whatsoever a Man sows, that he shall reap. It cannot be that God should be wheadled out of his Mercy, or prevailed upon by Lips of Dissimulation; He knows them that trust in him, and that sincerely come to him by Christ for Mercy, Nahum 1. 7.

It is then, not the abundance of Sins committed, but the not coming heartily to God by Christ for Mercy, that shuts Men out of Doors: And though their not coming heartily may be said to be but a Sin; yet 'tis Such a Sin, as causeth that all thy other Sins abide upon thee unforgiven.

God complains of this. They have not cried unto me with their Heart; They turned, but not to the most High. They turned feignedly, Jer. 3. 10. Hol. 7. 14, 16.

Thus doing, his Soul hates; but the penitent, humble, broken-hearted Sinner, be his Transgressions red as Scarlet, red like Crimson, in number as the Sand; though his Transgressions cry to Heaven against him for Vengeance, and seem there to cry louder than do his Prayers, or Tears, or Groans for Mercy; yet he is safe. To this Man God will look, Isa. 1. 18, chap. 66. 2.

Seventhly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners? Then here is ground for those, that as to practice, have not been such, to come to him for Mercy.

Although there is no Sin little of it self, because it is a Contradiction of the Nature and Majesty of God; yet we must admit of divers Numbers, and also of Aggravations. Two Sins are not so many as three; nor are three, that are done in ignorance, so big as One that is done against Light, against Knowledge, and Conscience. Also there is the Child in Sin, and a Man in Sin that has his Hairs gray, and his Skin wrinkled for very Age. And we must put a difference betwixt these Sinners also. For can it be, that a Child of seven, or ten, or sixteen years old, should be such a Sinner, a Sinner so vile in the Eye of the Law, as he is who has walked according to the course of this World, forty, fifty, sixty, or seventy Years? Now the Youth, this Stripling, though he is a Sinner, is but a little Sinner, when compared with such.

Now I say, If there be room for the first sort, for those of the biggest Size; certainly there is room for the lesser Size? If there be a Door wide enough for a Giant to go in at, there is certainly room for a Dwarf. If Christ Jesus has Grace enough to save great Sinners, he has surely Grace enough to save little ones. If he can forgive five hundred Pence, for certain he can forgive fifty, Luke 7. 41, 42.

But you said before, that the little Sinners must stand by, until the great Ones have received their grace, and that's discouraging!

I answer, There are two sorts of little Sinners, such as are so, such as feign themselves so. There are those that feign themselves so, that I intended there, and not those that are indeed comparatively so. Such as feign themselves so, may wait long enough before they obtain Forgiveness.

But again, A Sinner may be comparatively a little Sinner, and sensibly a great One. There is then two sorts of Greatness in Sin; Greatness by reason of Number, Greatness by reason of thoroughness of Conviction of the horrible Nature of Sin. In this last sense, he that has but one Sin, if such a one could be found, may in his own Eyes find himself the biggest Sinner in the World. Let this Man, or this Child, therefore put himself among the great Sinners, and plead with God as great Sinners do, and expect to be saved with the great Sinners, and as soon, and as heartily as they.

Yea, a little Sinner, that comparatively is truly so, if he shall graciously give way to Conviction, and shall in God's Light, diligently weigh the horrible Nature of his own Sins, may yet sooner obtain Forgiveness for them at the Hands of the heavenly Father, than he that has ten times his Sins, and so cause to cry ten times harder to God for Mercy.

For the Grievousness of the Cry is a great Thing with God; for if he will hear the Widow, if she cries at all, how much more if she cries most grievously? Exod. 22, 22, 23.

It is not the Number, but the true Sense of the abominable Nature of Sin, that makes the Cry for Pardon lamentable. He, as I said, that has many Sins, may not cry so loud in the Ears of God, as he that has far fewer; he in our present sense that is in his own Eyes the biggest Sinner, is he that soonest findeth Mercy.

The offer then is to the biggest Sinner, to the biggest Sinner First, and the Mercy is first obtained by him that first confesseth himself to be such an one.

There are Men that strive at the Throne of Grace for Mercy, by pleading the Greatness of their Necessity. Now their Plea, as to the Prevalency of it, lieth not in their counting up of the Numbers, but in the sense of the Greatness of their Sins, and in the vehemency of their cry for Pardon. And it is observable, that though the Birth-right was Ruben's, and for his Foolishness, given to the Sons of Joseph; yet Judah prevailed above his Brethren, and of him came the Messias, 1 Chron. 5. 1, 2.

There is a heavenly subtilty to be managed in this matter. Thy Brother came with subtilty and hath taken away thy Blessing.

sing. The Blessing belonged to Esau, but Jacob by his Diligence made it his own, Gen. 27. 33. The offer is to the biggest Sinner, to the biggest Sinner first, but if he forbears to cry, the Sinner that is a Sinner less by far than he, both as to Number and the Nature of Transgression, may get the Blessing first, if he shall have Grace to bestir himself well; for the loudest Cry is heard furthest, and the most lamentable, pierces soonest.

I therefore urge this Head, not because I would have little Sinners go and tell God that they are little Sinners, thereby to think to obtain Mercy; for verily, so they are never like to have it: For such Words declare, that such a one hath no true sense at all of the Nature of his Sins.

Sin, as I said, in the Nature of it, is horrible; though it be but one single Sin as to act; yea, though it be but a sinful Thought; and so worthily calls for the Damnation of the Soul.

The Comparison then, of little and great Sinners, is to go for good Sense among Men: But to plead the Fewness of thy Sins, or the comparative Harmlessness of their Quantity before God, argueth no found Knowledge of the Nature of thy Sin, and so no true Sense of the Nature or Need of Mercy.

Little Sinner when therefore thou goest to God, though thou knowest in thy Conscience, that thou, as to Acts, art no Thief, no Murderer, no Whore, no Liar, no false Swearer, or the like, and in Reason must needs understand, that thus thou art not so profanely vile as others; yet when thou goest to God for Mercy, know no Man's Sins but thine own, make Mention of no Man's Sins but thine own. Also labour not to lessen thy own, but magnify and greaten them by all just Circumstances, and be as if there was never a Sinner in the World but thyself. Also cry out as if thou wast the only undone Man; and that is the Way to obtain God's Mercy.

It is one of the comeliest Sightings in the World, to see a little Sinner commenting upon the Greatness of his Sins; multiplying and multiplying them to himself; till he makes them in his own Eyes bigger and higher than he seeth any other Man's Sins to be in the World; and as base a Thing it is to see a Man do otherwise, and as basely will come on't, Luke 18. 10, 11, 12, 13.

As therefore I said to the great Sinner before, let him take Heed lest he presume: I say now to the little Sinner, let him take Heed that he don't dissemble: For there is as great an Aptness in the little Sinner to dissemble, as there is in the great one. He that hideth his Sins shall not prosper, be he a Sinner little or great, Prov. 28. 13.

Eighthly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners? Then this shews the true Cause why Satan makes such Head as he doth against him.

The Father and the Holy Spirit are well spoken of by all Deluders and deceived Persons; Christ only is the Rock of Offence. Behold I lay in Zion a stumbling Stone and a Rock of Offence, Rom. 9. 33. Not that Satan careth for the Father or the Spirit more than he careth for the Son, but he can let Men alone with their Notions of the Father and the Spirit, for he knows they shall never enjoy the Father or the Spirit, if indeed they receive not the Merits of the Son. He that hath the Son, hath Life; he that hath not the Son of God hath not Life, however they may boast themselves of the Father and the Spirit, 1 John 5. 12. Again, whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the Doctrine of Christ, hath not God: He that abideth in the Doctrine of Christ, hath both the Father and the Son, 2 John 9.

Christ, and Christ only is he that can make us capable to enjoy God with Life and Joy to all Eternity. Hence he calls himself the Way to the Father; the true and living Way, John 14. 6. Heb. 10. 19, 20. For we cannot come to the Father but by him. Satan knows this, therefore he hates him. Deluded Persons are ignorant of this, and therefore they are so led up and down by Satan by the Nose, as they are.

There are many Things by which Satan has taken Occasion to greaten his Rage against Jesus Christ.

As first, his Love to Man, and then the many Expressions of that Love. He hath taken Man's Nature upon him; he hath in that Nature fulfilled the Law to bring in Righteousness for Man; and hath spilt his Blood for the reconciling of Man to God; he hath broke the Neck of Death, put away Sin, destroyed the Works of the Devil, and got into his own Hands the Keys of Death: And all these are heinous Things to Satan. He cannot abide Christ for this. Besides, he hath eternal Life in himself, and that to bestow upon us; and we in all Likelihood are to possess the very Places, from which the Satans by Transgression fell, if not Places more glorious. Wherefore he must needs be angry. And is it not a vexatious Thing to him, that we should be admitted to the Throne of Grace by Christ, while he stands bound over in Chains of Darkness, to answer for his Rebelions against God and his Son, at the terrible Day of Judgment. Yea, we poor Dust and Ashes must become his Judges, and triumph over him for ever; and all this, long of Jesus Christ; for he is the meritorious Cause of all this.

Now though Satan seeks to be revenged for this, yet he knows it is in vain to attack the Person of Christ, he has overcome him; therefore he tampers with a company pany of silly Men, that he may vilify him by them. And they, bold Fools as they are, will not spare to spit in his Face. They will rail at his Person, and deny the very Being of it; they will rail at his Blood, and deny the Merit and Worth of it. They will deny the very End, why he accomplished the Law, and by Jiggs, and Tricks, and Quirks, which he helpeth them to, they set up fond Names and Images in his Place, and give the Glory of a Saviour to them: Thus Satan worketh under the Name of Christ; and his Ministers under the Name of the Ministers of Righteousness.

And by his Wiles and Stratagems he undoes a World of Men; But there is a Seed and they shall serve him, and it shall be counted to the Lord for a Generation. These shall see their Sins, and that Christ is the Way to Happiness. These shall venture themselves both Body and Soul upon his Worthiness.

All this Satan knows, and therefore his Rage is kindled the more. Wherefore according to his Ability and Allowance, he assaulteth, tempteth, abuseth, and stirs up what he can to be hurtful to these poor People, that he may, while his Time shall last; make it as hard and difficult for them to go to eternal Glory as he can. Oftentimes he abuses them with wrong Apprehensions of God, and with wrong Apprehensions of Christ. He also casts them into the Mire, to the Reproach of Religion, the Shame of their Brethren, the Derision of the World, and Dishonour of God. He holds our Hands while the World buffets us; he puts Bear-skins upon us, and then sets the Dogs at us. He bedaubeth us with his own Fume, and then tempts us to believe, that that Bedaubing comes from ourselves.

Oh! the Rage and the Roaring of this Lion! and the Hatred that he manifests against the Lord Jesus, and against them that are purchased with his Blood! But yet in the Midst of all this, the Lord Jesus sends forth his Herald to proclaim in the Nations, his Love to the World; and to invite them to come in to him for Life. Yea his Invitation is so large, that it offereth his Mercy in the first Place to the biggest Sinners of every Age, which augments the Devil's Rage the more.

Wherefore, as I said before, fret he, fume he, the Lord Jesus will divide the Spoil with this great One; yea, he shall divide the Spoil with the Strong; because he hath poured out his Soul unto Death, and was numbred with the Transgressors, and bare the Sin of many, and made Intercession for the Transgressors, Isa. 53. 12.

Ninthly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners? Let the Tempted harp upon this String for their Help and Consolation. The Tempted wherever he dwells, always thinks himself the biggest Sinner, one most unworthy of Eternal Life.

This is Satan's master Argument: Thou art a horrible Sinner, a Hypocrite, one that has a profane Heart, and one that is an utter Stranger to a Work of Grace. I say, this is his Maul, his Club, his Master-piece; He doth with this, as some do by their most enchanting Songs, sings them every where. I believe there are but few Saints in the World that have not had this Temptation sounding in their Ears. But were they but aware, Satan by all this, does but drive them to the Gap out at which they should go, and so escape his Roaring.

Saith he, thou art a great Sinner, a horrible Sinner, a profane hearted Wretch, one that cannot be matcht for a vile One in the Country.

And all this while Christ says to his Ministers, offer Mercy in the first Place to the biggest Sinners. So that this Temptation drives thee directly into the Arms of Jesus Christ.

Was therefore the Tempted but aware, he might say, Ay Satan, so I am, I am a Sinner of the biggest Size, and therefore have most Need of Jesus Christ: Yea, because I am such a Wretch, therefore Jesus Christ calls me; yea, he calls me first: The first Proffer of the Gospel is to be made to the Jerusalem-Sinner: I am he, wherefore stand back Satan, make a Lane, my Right is first to come to Jesus Christ.

This now will be like for like. This would foil the Devil: This would make him say, I must not deal with this Man thus; for then I put a Sword into his Hand to cut off my Head.

And this is the Meaning of Peter, when he saith, Resist him stedfast in the Faith, 1 Pet. 5. 9. And of Paul when he saith, Take the Shield of Faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery Darts of the Wicked, Ephes. 6. 16.

Wherefore is it said, Begin at Jerusalem, if the Jerusalem-Sinner is not to have the Benefit of it? And if I am to have the Benefit of it, let me call it to mind when Satan haunts me with the continual Remembrance of my Sins, of my Jerusalem Sins. Satan and my Conscience says, I am the biggest Sinner, Christ offereth Mercy in the first Place to the biggest Sinners. Nor is the Manner of the Offer other but such as suiteth with my Mind. I am sorry for my Sin; yea, sorry at my Heart that ever sinful Thought did enter, or find the least Entertainment in my wicked Mind: And might I obtain my Wish, I would never more that my Heart should be a Place for ought but the Grace, and Spirit, and Faith of the Lord Jesus.

I speak not this to lessen my Wickedness, I would

I would not for all the World, but be placed by mine own Conscience in the very Front of the biggest Sinners, that I might be one of the first that are beckoned by the gracious Hand of Jesus the Saviour, to come to him for Mercy.

Well Sinner, thou now speakest like a Christian, but say thus in a strong Spirit in the Hour of Temptation, and then thou wilt, to thy Commendation and Comfort, quit thyself well.

This improving of Christ in dark Hours, is the Life, though the hardest Part of our Christianity. We should neither stop at Darkness, nor at the Raging of our Lusts, but go on in a Way of venturing and casting the whole of our Affair for the next World, at the Foot of Jesus Christ. This is the Way to make the Darkness Light, and also to allay the Raging of our Corruption.

The first Time the Passover was eaten, was in the Night; and when Israel took Courage to go forward, though the Sea stood in their Way like a devouring Gulf, and the Host of the Egyptians follow them at the Heels; yet the Sea gives Place, and their Enemies were as still as a Stone till they were gone over, Exod. 12. 8. chap. 14. 13, 14, 21, 22. chap. 15. 16.

There is nothing like Faith to help at a Pinch; Faith dissolves Doubts, as the Sun drives away the Mists. And that you may not be put out, know your Time, as I said, of Believing is always. There are Times when some Graces may be out of Use, but there is no Time wherein Faith can be said to be so. Wherefore Faith must be always in Exercise.

Faith is the Eye, is the Mouth, is the Hand, and one of these is of Use all Day long. Faith is to see, to receive, to work, or to eat; and a Christian should be seeing or receiving, or working, or feeding all Day long. Let it rain, let it blow, let it thunder, let it lighten, a Christian must still believe: At what Time, said the good Man, I am afraid, I will trust in thee, Psalms 56. 2, 3.

Nor can we have a better Encouragement to do this, than is by the Text set before us, even an open Heart for a Jerusalem-Sinner. And if for a Jerusalem-Sinner to come, then for such an one when come. If such a one to be saved, then for such a one that is saved? If for such a one to be pardoned his great Transgressions, then for such a one who is pardoned these, to come daily to Jesus Christ too, to be cleansed and set free from his common Infirmities, and from the Iniquities of his holy Things.

Therefore let the poor Sinner that would be saved, labour for Skill to make the best Improvement of the Grace of Christ to help him against the Temptations of the Devil and his Sins.

Tenthly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners? Let those Men consider this, that (have, or) may in a Day of Trial have spoken or done what their Profession or Conscience told them they should not, and that have the Guilt and Burden thereof upon their Consciences.

Whether a Thing be wrong or right, Guilt may pursue him that doth contrary to his Conscience. But suppose a Man should deny his God, or his Christ, or relinquish a good Profession, and be under the real Guilt thereof? Shall he therefore conclude he is gone for ever? Let him come again with Peter's Tears, and no doubt but he shall obtain Peter's Forgiveness. For the Text includes the biggest Sinners.

And 'tis observable, That before this Clause was put into this Commission, Peter was pardoned his horrible Revolt from his Master. He that revolteth in the Day of Trial, if he is not shot quite dead upon the Place, but is sensible of his Wound, and calls out for a Surgeon, shall find his Lord at hand to pour Wine and Oyl into his Wounds, that he may again be healed. And to encourage him to think that there may be Mercy for him: Besides what we find recorded of Peter, you read in the Acts, some was through the Violence of their Trials, compelled to Blaspheme, and yet are called Saints, Acts 26. 9, 10, 11.

Hence you have a Promise or two that speaks concerning such kind of Men, to encourage us to think that at least some of them shall come back to the Lord their God. Shall they fall, faith he, and not arise? Shall they turn away, and not return? Jer. 8. 4. And in that Day I will assemble her that halteth, and I will gather her that was driven out, and her that I have Afflicted. And I will make her that halteth a Remnant, and her that was cast off, a strong Nation; And the Lord shall reign over them in Mount Zion for ever. What we are to understand by her that halteth, is best expressed by the Prophet Elijah, Mic. 4. 6, 7. Zeph. 3. 19. 1 Kings 18. 21.

I will conclude then, that for them that have halted, or may halt, the Lord has Mercy in the Bank, and is willing to accept them if they return to him again.

Perhaps they may never be after that of any great Esteem in the House of God, but if the Lord will admit them to Favour and Forgiveness: O exceeding and undeserved Mercy! See Ezekiel 44. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14.

Thou then that mayest be the Man, Remember this, that there is Mercy also for thee. Return therefore to God, and to his Son, who hath yet in Store for thee, and who will do thee Good.

But perhaps thou wilt say, He doth not save all Revolters, and therefore perhaps not me.

Answer.

Answer. Art thou returning to God? If thou art returning, thou art the Man. Return ye backsliding Children, and I will heal your Backslidings, Jer. 3. 22.

Some, as I said, that revolt, are shot dead upon the Place, and for them, who can help them? But for them that cry out of their Wounds, 'tis a Sign they are yet alive, and if they use the Means in Time, doubtless they may be healed.

Christ Jesus has Bags of Mercy that was never yet broken up or unsealed. Hence it is said, he has Goodness laid up; Things reserved in Heaven for his. And if he breaks up one of these Bags, who can tell what he can do!

Hence his Love is said to be such as passeth Knowledge, and that his Riches are unsearchable. He has, no body knows what; for no body knows who; He has by him in Store for such as seem in the View of all Men to be gone beyond Recovery. For this the Text is plain. What Man or Angel could have thought that the Jerusalem-Sinners had been yet on this Side of an Impossibility of enjoying Life and Mercy? Hadst thou seen their Actions, and what horrible Things they did to the Son of God: Yea, how stoutly they backed what they did with Resolves and Endeavours to persevere, when they had killed his Person, against his Name and Doctrine: And that there was not found among them all that while as we read of, the least Remorse or Regret for these their Doings: Couldst thou have imagined that Mercy would ever have took Hold of them, at least so soon! Nay, that they should, of all the World be counted those only meet to have it offered to them in the very first Place! For so my Text commands, saying, Preach Repentance and Remission of Sins among all Nations, beginning at Jerusalem.

I tell you the Thing is a Wonder, and must for ever stand for a Wonder among the Sons of Men. It stands also for an everlasting Invitation and Allurement to the biggest Sinners to come to Christ for Mercy.

Now since in the Opinion of all Men, the Revolter is such a one; if he has, as I said before, any Life in him, let him take Encouragement to come again, that he may live by Christ.

Eleventhly, Would Jesus Christ have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners? Then let God's Ministers tell them so. There is an Incidence in us, I know not how it doth come about, when we are converted, to condemn them that are left behind. Poor Fools as we are, we forget that we ourselves were so, Tit. 3. 2, 3.

But would it not become us better, since we have tasted that the Lord is gracious, to carry it towards them so, that we may give them convincing Ground to believe, that we have found that Mercy which also sets open the Door for them to come and partake with us.

Ministers, I say, should do thus, both by their Doctrine, and in all other Respects.

Austerity doth not become us, neither in Doctrine nor in Conversation: We ourselves live by Grace; Let us give as we receive, and labour to persuade our Fellow-Sinners which God has left behind us, to follow after that they may partake with us of Grace. We are saved by Grace, let us live like them that are gracious. Let all our Things (to the World) be done in Charity towards them, Pity them, Pray for them, be familiar with them for their Good. Let us lay aside our foolish, worldly, carnal Grandeur; Let us not walk the Streets, and have such Behaviours as signify we are scarce for touching of the poor Ones that are left behind, no not with a Pair of Tongs. It becomes not thus to do.

Remember your Lord, he was familiar with Publicans and Sinners to a Proverb: Behold a gluttonous Man, and a Wine-bibber, a Friend of Publicans and Sinners, Mat. 11. 19. The first Part, concerning his gluttonous eating and drinking, to be sure, was an horrible Slander; but for the other, nothing was ever spoke truer of him by the World. Now why should we lay Hands cross on this Text, that is, choose good Victuals, and love the sweet Wine better than the Salvation of the poor Publican? Why not familiar with Sinners provided we hate their Spots and Blemishes, and seek that they may be healed of them?

Why not fellowly with our carnal Neighbours? If we do take Occasion to do so, that we may drop, and be yet distilling some good Doctrine upon their Souls? Why not go to the poor Man's House, and give him a Penny, and a Scripture to think upon? Why not send for the Poor to fetch away, at least, the Fragments of thy Table, that the Bowels of thy Fellow-Sinner may be refreshed as well as thine?

Ministers should be exemplary: But I am an inferior Man, and must take Heed of too much Medling. But might I, I would meddle with them, with their Wives, and with their Children too. I mean not this of all, but of them that deserve it, though I may not name them.

But, I say, let Ministers follow the Steps of their blessed Lord, who by Word and Deed shewed his Love to the Salvation of the World, in such a Carriage as declared him to prefer their Salvation before his own private Concern. For we are commanded to follow his Steps, who did no Sin, neither was Guile found in his Mouth.

And as I have said concerning Ministers, so I say to all the Brethren, carry it it so, that all the World may see, that indeed you are the Sons of Love.

Love your Saviour; Yea, shew one to another that you love him, not only by a seeming Love of Affection, but with the Love of Duty. Practical Love is best. Many love Christ with nothing but the Lick of the Tongue. Alas! Christ Jesus the Lord, must not be put off thus: He that hath my Commandments, and keepeth them, saith he, he it is that loveth me, John 14. 21.

Practical Love, which stands in Self-denial, in Charity to my Neighbour, and a Patient enduring of Affliction for his Name: This is counted Love.

Right Love to Christ, is that which carries in it a provoking Argument to others of the Brethren, Heb. 10. 24.

Should a Man ask me how he should know that he loveth the Children of God? The best Answer I could give him, would be in the Words of the Apostle John; By this, saith he, we know we love the Children of God, when we love God, and keep his Commandments, 1 John 5. 2.

Love to God and Christ, is then shewn, when we are tender of his Name; and then we shew our selves tender of his Name, when we are afraid to break any the least of his Commandments. And when we are here, then do we shew our Love to our Brother also.

Now we have Obligation sufficient thus to do, for that our Lord loved us, and gave himself for us, to deliver us from Death, that we might live through him.

The World, when they hear the Doctrine that I have asserted and handled in this little Book, to wit, That Jesus Christ would have Mercy offered in the first Place to the biggest Sinners; will be apt, because themselves are Unbelievers, to think that this is a Doctrine that leads to Looseness, and that gives Liberty to the Flesh; but if you that believe, love your Brethren, and your Neighbours truly, and as you should, you will put to Silence the Ignorance of such foolish Men, and stop their Mouths from speaking Evil of you.

And, I say, let the Love of Christ constrain us to this. Who deserveth our Heart, our Mouth, our Life, our Goods, so much as Jesus Christ, who has bought us to himself by his Blood, to this very End, that we should be a peculiar People, zealous of good Works?

There is nothing more seemly in the World, than to see a Christian walk as becomes the Gospel; nor any Thing more unbecoming a reasonable Creature, than to hear a Man say, I believe in Christ, and yet see in his Life Debauchery and Profaneness. Might I, such Men should be counted the basest of Men; such Men should be counted by all, unworthy of the Name of a Christian, and should be shunned by every good Man, as such who are the very Plague of Profession.

For so it is written, We should carry it towards them. Whoso have a Form of Godliness, and deny the Power thereof, from such we must turn away.

It has oft-times come into my Mind, to ask, by what Means it is, That the Gospel Profession should be so taunted with loose and carnal Gospellers? And I could never arrive to better Satisfaction in the Matter, than this, Such Men are made Professors by the Devil, and so by him put among the rest of the Godly. A certain Man had a fruitless Figg Tree planted in his Vineyard; but by whom was it planted there? Even by him that sowed the Tares, his own Children, among the Wheat, Luke 13. 6. Matt. 13. 37, 38, 39, 40. And that was the Devil. But why doth the Devil do thus? Not of Love to them, but to make of them Offences and Stumbling Blocks to others. For he knows that a loose Professor in the Church, does more Mischief to Religion, than ten can do to it that are in the World.

Was it not, think you, the Devil that stirred up the Damsel that you read of in Acts 16. to cry out, These are the Servants of the most high God, that shew unto us the Way of Salvation! Yes it was, as is evident, For Paul was grieved to hear it. But why did the Devil stir up her to cry so? But because that was the Way to blemish the Gospel, and to make the World think that it came from the same Hand as did her South-saying and Witchery, Ver. 16, 17, 18, Holiness, O Lord, becomes thy House for ever.

Let therefore, whoever they be that profess the Name of Christ, take Heed that they scandal not that Profession which they make of him, since he has so graciously offered us, as we are Sinners of the biggest Size, in the first Place, his Grace to save us.

Having thus far spoken of the Riches of the Grace of Christ, and of the Freeness of his Heart to imbrace the Jerusalem-Sinners; it may not be amiss to give you, yet, as a Caution, an intimation of one Thing, namely, That this Grace and Freeness of his Heart is limited to time and day; the which, whoso overstandeth, shall perish notwithstanding.

For as a King, who of Grace, sendeth out to his rebellious People an Offer of Pardon, if they accept thereof by such a Day, yet beheadeth, or hangeth those that come not in for Mercy until the Day or Time be past: So Christ Jesus has set the Sinner a Day, a Day of Salvation, an acceptable Time, but he who standeth out, or goeth on in Rebellion beyond that time, is like to come off with the loss of his Soul, 2 Cor. 6. 2.

6. 2. Heb. 3. 13, 16, 17, 18, 19. chap. 4. 7. Luke 19. 41, 42.

Since therefore Things are thus, it may be convenient here to touch a little upon these particulars.

First, That this Day, or Time, thus limited, when it is considered with reference to this or that Man; is, oft-times undiscerned by the Person concerned therein, and always is kept secret as to the shutting up thereof.

And this in the Wisdom of God is thus, to the End no Man, when called upon, should put off turning to God to another time: Now, and to Day, is that and only that which is revealed in Holy Writ, Psal. 50. 22. Eccles. 12. 1. Heb. 3. 13, 16.

And this shews us the desperate hazards which those Men run, who when Invitation, or Conviction attends them, put off turning to God to be saved till another, and as they think, a more fit Season and Time. For many by so doing, defer this to do, till the Day of God's patience and long-suffering is ended: and then, for their Prayers and Cries after Mercy, they receive nothing but Mocks, and are laughed at by the God of Heaven, Prov. 1. 20, 21 to 30. Isa. 65. 12, to 16. chap. 66. 4. Zech. 7. 11, 12, 13.

Secondly, Another Thing to be considered is this, namely, that the Day of God's Grace with some Men, begins sooner, and also sooner ends than it doth with others. Those at the first hour of the Day, had their Call sooner than they who were called upon to turn to God at the sixth hour of the Day; yea, and they who were hired at the third hour, had their Call sooner than they who were called at the eleventh, Mat. 20. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6.

1. The Day of God's Patience began with Ismael, and also ended, before he was twenty years old. At thirteen years of Age he was Circumcised; the next year after Isaac was born; and then Ismael was fourteen years old. Now that Day that Isaac was weaned, that Day was Ismael rejected: and suppose that Isaac was three years old before he was weaned; that was but the seventeenth year of Ismael; wherefore the Day of God's Grace was ended with him betimes, Gen. 17. 24, 25. chap. 21. 2 to 11. Gal. 4. 30.

2. Cain's Day ended with him betimes, for after God had rejected him, he lived to beget many Children, and build a City, and to do many other Things. But alas, all that while he was a Fugitive and a Vagabond. Nor carried he any Thing with him after the Day of his Rejection was come; but this doleful language in his Conscience, From God's Face shall I be hid, Gen. 4. 10, to 15.

3. Esau, Through his Extravagancies would needs go to sell his Birthright, not fearing (as other confident Fools) but that yet the Blessing would still be his, after which he lived many Years, but all of them under the Wrath of God, as was, when time came, made appear to his Destruction; for when he would have inherited the Blessing, he was rejected, for he found no place of Repentance, though he sought it carefully with Tears, Heb. 12. 14, 15, 16.

Many instances might be given, as to such tokens of the Displeasure of God against such as fool away, as the Wise Man has it, the Prize which is put into their Hand, Prov. 17. 16.

Let these Things therefore be a further Caution to those that sit under the glorious fount of the Gospel, and hear of the Riches of the Grace of God in Christ to poor Sinners.

To slight Grace, to despise Mercy, and to stop the Ear when God speaks, when he speaks such great Things, so much to our profit, is a great Provocation.

He offereth, he calls, he woes, he invites, he prays, he beseeches us in this Day of his Grace to be reconciled to him: yea, and has provided for us the means of Reconciliation himself: Now this despised, must needs be provoking; and it is a fearful Thing to fall into the Hands of the living God.

But some Man may say unto me, Fain I would be saved, fain I would be saved by Christ: But I fear this Day of Grace is past, and that I shall perish, notwithstanding the exceeding Riches of the Grace of God.

Answer. To this doubt I would answer several Things.

First, With respect to this Day.

Secondly, With respect to thy Desires.

Thirdly, With respect to thy Fears.

First, With respect to the Day; That is, whether it be ended with a Man, or no.

1. Art thou jogged, and shaken, and molested at the hearing of the Word? Is thy Conscience awakened and convinced then, that thou art at present in a perishing State, and that thou hast need to cry to God for Mercy? This is a hopeful Sign that this Day of Grace is not past with thee. For usually they that are past Grace, are also in their Conscience past feeling, being seared with an hot Iron. Eph. 4. 18, 19. 1 Tim. 4. 1, 2.

Consequently those past Grace, must be such as are denied the awakening Fruits of the Word preached. The dead that hear, says Christ, shall live; at least wise Christ has not quite done with them; the Day of God's Patience is not at an end with them, John 5. 25.

2. Is there in thy more retired condition, arguings, strugglings, and strivings with thy Spirit to persuade thee of the Vanity of what vain Things thou lovest, and to win thee in thy Soul to a Choice of Christ Jesus, and his heavenly Things? Take heed and rebel not, for the Day of God's God's Grace and Patience will not be past with thee, till he saith, His Spirit shall strive no more with thee; for then the Wo comes, when he shall depart from them; and when he says to the means of Grace, Let them alone, Hof. 4. 17. chap. 9. 12.

3. Art thou visited in the Night seasons with dreams about thy state, and that thou art in danger of being lost? Hast thou Heart-shaken Apprehensions when deep Sleep's upon thee, of Hell, Death, and Judgment to come? These are signs that God has not wholly left thee, or cast thee behind his back for ever. For God speaks once, yea twice, yet Man perceives it not; in a Dream, in a Vision of the Night, when deep sleep falls upon Man, in slumberings upon the Bed; then he openeth the Ears of Men, and sealeth their Instruction, that he may withdraw Man from his purpose (his sinful purposes) and hide Pride from Man, Job 33. 14, 15, 16, 17.

All this while God has not left the Sinner, nor is come to the end of his Patience towards him, but stands, at least, with the Door of Grace, a chair in his Hand, as being loth, as yet to bolt it against him.

4. Art thou followed with Affliction, and dost thou hear God's angry Voice in thy Afflictions? Doth he send with the Affliction an Interpreter to shew thee thy Vileness; and why, or wherefore the Hand of God is upon thee, and upon what thou hast; to wit, that it is for thy sinning against him, and that thou mightest be turned to him? If so, thy Summer is not quite ended; thy Harvest is not quite over and gone. Take heed, stand out no longer, lest he cause Darknes, and lest thy feet stumble upon the dark Mountains; and lest while you look for Light, he turn it into the shadow of Death, and make it gross Darknes, Jer. 8. 20. chap. 13. 15, 16, 17.

5. Art thou crossed, disappointed and waylaid, and overthrown in all thy foolish ways and doings? This is a Sign God has not quite left thee, but that he still waits upon thee to turn thee. Consider, I say, has he made a Hedge, and a Wall to stop thee? Has he crossed thee in all thou puttest thy Hand unto? Take it as a call to turn to him, for by his thus doing, he shews he has a mind to give thee a better Portion. For usually when God gives up Men, and resolves to let them alone in the Broad Way, he gives them Rope, and lets them have their Desires in all hurtful things, Hof. 2. 6 to 15. Psal. 73 3 to 13. Rom. 11. 9.

Therefore take heed to this also, that thou strive not against this Hand of God: but betake thy self to a serious enquiry into the causes of this Hand of God upon thee, and incline to think, 'tis because the Lord would have thee look to that, which is better than what thou wouldest satisfy thy self withal. When God had a mind to make the Prodigal go home to his Father, he sent a Famine upon him, and denied him a Belly full of the Husks which the Swine did eat. And observe it, now he was in his Strait, he betook him to Consideration of the Good that there was in his Father's House; yea, he resolved to go home to his Father, and his Father dealt well with him; he received him with Mufick and Dancing, because he had received him safe and sound, Luke 15. 14 to 33.

6. Hast thou any enticing touches of the Word of God upon thy Mind? Doth, as it were, some holy Word of God, give a Glance upon thee, cast a Smile upon thee, let fall, though it be but one drop of its favour upon thy Spirit; yea, though it stays but one Moment with thee? O! then the Day of Grace is not past! The Gate of Heaven is not shut! Nor God's Heart and Bowels withdrawn from thee as yet. Take heed therefore, and beware that thou make much of the Heavenly Gift, and of that good Word of God of the which he has made thee taste. Beware, I say, and take heed, there may be a falling away for all this; but, I say, as yet, God has not left thee, as yet he has not cast thee off, Heb. 6. 1, to 9.

Secondly, With respect to thy Desires, what are they? Wouldst thou be saved? Wouldst thou be saved with a thorow Salvation? Wouldst thou be saved from Guilt, and Filth too? Wouldst thou be the Servant of thy Saviour? Art thou indeed weary of the Service of thy old Master the Devil, Sin and the World? And has these Desires put thy Soul to the flight? Hast thou through desires betaken thy self to thy heels? Dost fly to him that is a Saviour from the Wrath to come, for Life; If these be thy Desires, and if they be unfeigned, fear not: Thou art one of those Runaways which God has commanded our Lord to receive, and not to send thee back to the Devil thy Master again, but to give thee a Place in his House, even the Place which liketh thee best. Thou shalt not deliver to his Master, says he, the Servant which is escaped from his Master unto thee. He shall dwell with thee, even among you in that Place which he shall chuse, in one of thy Gates where it liketh him best; thou shalt not oppress him, Deut. 23. 15, 16.

This is a Command to the Church, consequently to the Head of the Church; for all Commands from God come to her through her Head. Whence I conclude, that, that as Israel of old was to receive the Runaway-Servant who escaped from a Heathen Master to them, and should not dare to send him back to his Master again: So Christ's Church now, and consequently Christ himself may not, will not refuse that Soul that has made his escape from Sin, Satan, the World and Hell, unto him, but will will certainly let him dwell in his House, among his Saints, in that Place which he shall choose, even where it liketh him best. For he says in another Place, And him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out. In no wise, let his Crimes be what they will, either for nature, multitude, or the attendance of aggravating circumstances.

Wherefore if thy Desires be firm, sound, unfeigned, to become the saved of Christ, and his Servant: Fear not, he will not, he will in no wise put thee away, or turn thee over to thy old Master again.

Thirdly, As to thy Fears, whatever they are, let that be supposed which is supposed before, and they are groundless, and so of no weight.

Object. But I am afraid I am not elect, or chosen to Salvation, though you call me Fool a little before for so fearing.

Answer. Though Election is, in order, before Calling, as to God, yet the Knowledge of Calling must go before the Belief of my Election, as to my self. Wherefore Souls that doubt of the Truth of their effectual Calling, do but plunge themselves into a deeper Labyrinth of Confusion that concern themselves with their Election; I mean, while they labour to know it before they prove their Calling. Make your Calling, and so your Election sure, 2 Pet. 1. 4, to 11.

Wherefore, at present, lay the Thoughts of thy Election by, and ask thy self these Questions; Do I see my lost Condition? Do I see Salvation is no where but in Christ? Would I share in this Salvation by Faith of him? And would I, as was said afore, be thoroughly saved, to wit, from the Filth, as from the Guilt? Do I love Christ, his Father, his Saints, his Words and Ways? This is the Way to prove we are Elect. Wherefore, Sinner, when Satan, or thine own Heart seek to puzzle thee with Election; say thou, I cannot tend to talk of this point now, but stay till I know that I am called of God to the Fellowship of his Son, and then I will shew you that I am Elect, and that my Name is written in the Book of Life.

If poor distressed Souls would observe this Order, they might save themselves the Trouble of an unprofitable Labour under these unreasonable and Soul-sinking doubts.

Let us therefore, upon the sight of our Wretchedness, fly and venturously leap into the Arms of Christ, which are now as open to receive us into his Bosom, as they were when nailed to the Cross. This is coming to Christ for Life aright; this is right running away from thy Master to him, as was said before. And for this we have multitudes of Scriptures to support, encourage, and comfort us in our so doing.

But now let him that doth thus, be sure to look for it, for Satan will be with him to morrow, to see if he can get him again to his old service; and if he cannot do that, then will he enter into Dispute with him, to wit, about whether he be elect to Life, and called indeed to partake of this Christ, to whom he is fled for Succour, or whether he comes to him of his own presumptuous Mind. Therefore we are bid, as to come, so to arm our selves with that Armour which God has provided; that we may resist, quench, stand against, and withstand all the Fiery Darts of the Devil, Ephes. 6. 11, to 19.

If therefore thou findest Satan in this Order to march against thee, remember than thou hadst this Item about it; and be-take thy self to Faith and good Courage; and be sober, and hope to the End.

Object. But how if I should have sinned the Sin unpardonable, or that called the Sin against the Holy Ghost.

Answer. If thou hast, thou art lost for ever: But yet before it is concluded by thee that thou hast so sinned, know that they that would be saved by Jesus Christ thro' Faith in his Blood, cannot be counted for such.

1. Because of the Promise, for that must not be frustrate: And that says, And him that cometh to Christ, he will in no wise cast out. And again, Whoso will, let him take of the Water of Life freely, Joh. 6. 37. Rev. 21. 6, chap. 22. 17.

But I say, how can these Scriptures be fulfilled, if he that would indeed be saved, as before, has sinned the Sin unpardonable? The Scriptures must not be made void, nor their Truth be cast to the Ground. Here's a Promise, and here's a Sinner; a Promise, that says he shall not be cast out that comes; and the Sinner comes, wherefore he must be received: Consequently, he that comes to Christ for Life, has not, cannot have sinned that Sin for which there is no Forgiveness.

And this might suffice for an Answer to any coming Soul, that fears, though he comes, that he has sinned the Sin against the Holy Ghost.

2. But again, He that has sinned the Sin against the Holy Ghost cannot come, has no Heart to come; can by no Means be made willing to come to Jesus Christ for Life; for that he has received such an Opinion of him, and of his Things, as deters and holds him back.

1. He counteth this blessed Person, this Son of God, a Magician, a Conjurer, a Witch, or one that did, when he was in the World, what he did, by the Power and Spirit of the Devil, Mat. 9. 34. Mat. 12. 24, 25, &c. Mar. 3. 22, to 31. Now he that has this Opinion of this Jesus, cannot be willing to cast himself at his Foot for Life, or to come to him as the only Way to God, and to Salvation. And hence 'tis said again, that such an one puts him to open shame, and treadeth him under foot, that is, by contemning, reproaching, vilifying and despising of him, as if he were the vilest One, or the greatest Cheat in the World: and has therefore, as to his esteem of him, called him accursed, crucified him to himself, or counted him one hanged, as one of the worst of Malefactors, Heb. 6. 6. and chap. 10. 29. 1 Cor. 12. 3.

2. His Blood, which is the meritorious cause of Mans Redemption, even the Blood of the everlasting Covenant, he counteth an unholy Thing, or that which has no more vertue in it to save a Soul from Sin, than has the Blood of a Dog, Heb. 10. 29. For when the Apostle says, he counts it an unholy Thing; he means, he makes it of less value than that of a Sheep or Cow, which were clean according to the Law. And therefore must mean, that his Blood was of no more worth to him in his Account, than was the Blood of a Dog, an Ass, or a Swine, which always was, as to Sacrifices, rejected by the God of Heaven, as unholy, or unclean.

Now he who has no better Esteem of Jesus Christ, and of his Death and Blood, will not be persuaded to come to him for Life, or to trust in him for Salvation.

3. But further, all this must be done against manifest Tokens to prove the contrary, or after the Shining of Gospel Light upon the Soul, or some considerable Profession of him as the Messias, or that he was the Saviour of the World.

1. It must be done against manifest Tokens to prove the contrary: and thus the reprobate Jews committed it, when they saw the Works of God which put forth themselves in him, and called them the Works of the Devil and Beelzebub.

2. It must be done against some shining Light of the Gospel upon them. And thus it was with Judas, and with those, who after they were enlightened, and had tasted, and had felt something of the Powers of the World to come, fell away from the Faith of him, and put him to open Shame and Disgrace, Heb. 6. 5, 6.

3. It must also be done after, and in Opposition to ones own open Profession of him. For if after they have escaped the Pollution of the World, through the Knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome; the latter End is worse with them than the Beginning; for it had been better for them not to have known the Way of Righteousness, than after they have known it, to turn from the holy Commandment, (which is the Word of Faith) delivered unto them.

4. All this must be done openly, before Witnesses, in the Face, Sight, and View of the World, by Word, and Act. This is the Sin that is unpardonable; and he that hath thus done, can never, 'tis impossible he ever should be renewed again to Repentance, and that for a double Reason; for such an one doth say, he will not; and of him God says, he shall not have the Benefit of Salvation by him.

Object. But if this be the Sin unpardonable, why is it called the Sin against the Holy Ghost, and not rather the Sin against the Son of God?

Answer. It is called the Sin against the Holy Ghost, because such count the Works he did, which were done by the Spirit of God, the Works of the Spirit of the Devil. Also because all such as so reject Christ Jesus the Lord, they do it in Despight of that Testimony which the Holy Ghost has given of him in the Holy Scriptures; for the Scriptures are the Breathings of the Holy Ghost, as in all other Things, so in that Testimony they bear of the Person, of the Works, Sufferings, Resurrection, and Ascension of Jesus Christ.

Sinner, This is the Sin against the Holy Ghost. What sayest thou? Hast thou committed it? Nay, I know thou hast not, if thou wouldest be saved by Christ. Yea, 'tis impossible thou shouldest have done it, if indeed thou wouldest be saved by him.

No Man can desire to be saved by him, whom he yet judgeth to be an Impostor, a Magician, a Witch. No Man can hope for Redemption by that Blood which he yet counteth an unholy Thing. Nor will God ever suffer such an one to repent, who has after Light, and Profession of him, thus horribly, and Devil-like, contemned and trampled upon him.

True, Words, and Wars, and Blasphemies against this Son of Man are pardonable: but then they must be done ignorantly and in Unbelief. Also all blasphemous Thoughts are likewise such as may be passed by, if the Soul afflicted with them, indeed is sorry for them, 1 Tim. 1. 13, 14, 15. Mar. 3. 28.

All but this, Sinner, all but this! If God had said, he will forgive one Sin, it had been undeserved Grace: But when he says, he will pardon all but one, this is Grace to the Height. Nor is that one unpardonable otherwise, but because the Saviour that should save them is rejected and put away.

We read of Jacob's Ladder, Christ is Jacob's Ladder that reacheth up to Heaven, and he that refuseth to go by this Ladder thither, will scarce by other Means get up so high. There is none other name given under Heaven among Men, whereby we must be saved. There is none other Sacrifice for Sin than his; he also, and he only, is the Mediator that reconcileth Men to God. And Sinner, if thou wouldest be saved by him, his Benefits are thine; yea, though thou art a great and Jerusalem Transgressor.

And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth Abroad, that they said, Escape for thy Life, look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the Plain: Escape to the Mountain, lest thou be Consumed, Gen. 19. 17.

An Epistle to all the Slothful and Careless People.

FRIENDS:

SOLOMON saith, That the desire of the Slothful killeth him: And if so, what will Slothfulness itself do to those that entertain it? The Proverb is, He that sleepeth in Harvest is a Son that causeth shame: And this I dare be bold to say, no greater shame can befall a Man than to see that he hath fool'd away his Soul, and sinned away Eternal Life. And I am sure this is the next Way to do it; namely, to be slothful; slothful I say in the Work of Salvation. The Vineyard of the slothful Man, in reference to the Things of this Life, is not fuller of Briars, Nettles, and stinking Weeds, than he that is slothful for Heaven, hath his Heart full of Heart-choking and Soul-damning Sin. Prov. 21.
25.
Prov. 10.
5.

Slothfulness hath these two Evils, First, to neglect the Time in which it should be getting of Heaven; and by that means doth in the Second Place bring in untimely Repentance. I will warrant you, that he who should lose his Soul in this World through Slothfulness, will have no Cause to be glad thereat when he comes to Hell.

Slothfulness is usually accompanied with Carelessness, and Carelessness is for the most part begotten by Senslesness; and Senslesness doth again put fresh Strength into Slothfulness, and by this Means the Soul is left Remediless.

Slothfulness shutteth out Christ, Slothfulness shameth the Soul.

Slothfulness it is condemned even by the feeblest of all the Creatures. Go to the Ant thou Sluggard, consider her Ways and be Wise. The Sluggard will not Plow by reason of the Cold; (that is, he will not break up the Fallow Ground of his Heart because there must be some Pains taken by him that will do it,) therefore he shall beg in Harvest, (that is, when the Saints of God shall have their glorious Heaven and Happiness given to them;) but the Sluggard shall have nothing, that is, be never the better for his crying for Mercy, according to that in Mat. 25. 10, 11, 12. Cant. 5. 2, 3, 4.
Prov. 13.
4.
Prov. 6. 6.
Prov. 20.
4.

If you would know a Sluggard in the Things of Heaven, compare him with one that is slothful in the Things of this World. As,

I. He that is slothful is loth to set about the Work he should follow: So is he that is slothful for Heaven.

II. He

II. He that is slothful, is one that is willing to make delays: So is he that is slothful for Heaven.

III. He that is a Sluggard, any small Matter that cometh in between he will make it a sufficient Excuse to keep him off from plying his Works: So is it also with him that is slothful for Heaven.

IV. He that is slothful doth his Work by the halves: And so it is with him that is slothful for Heaven. He may almost, but he shall never altogether obtain, Perfection of Deliverance from Hell; he may almost, but he shall never, (without he mend) be altogether a Saint.

V. They that are slothful do usually lose the Season in which Things are to be done: And thus it is also with them that are slothful for Heaven, they miss the Seasons of Grace. And therefore,

VI. They that are slothful have seldom or never good Fruit: So also it will be with the Soul-sluggard.

VII. They that are slothful they are chid for the same: So also will Christ deal with those that are not active for him. Luke 19. 22, 23. Thou wicked or slothful Servant, out of thine own Mouth will I judge thee; thou said'st I was thus, and thus, wherefore then gavest not thou my Money to the Bank, &c. Mat. 25. 26, 30. Take the unprofitable Servant, and cast him into utter Darkness, where shall be Weeping and Gnashing of Teeth.

I. What shall I say? Time runs; and will ye be slothful.

II. Much of your Lives are past; and will ye be slothful?

III. Your Souls are worth a Thousand Worlds; and will you be slothful?

IV. The Day of Death and Judgment is at the Door; and will you be slothful?

V. The Curse of God hangs over your Heads; and will you be slothful?

VI. Besides the Devils are earnest, laborious, and seek by all Means every Day, by every Sin, to keep you out of Heaven, and hinder you of Salvation; and will you be slothful.

VII. Also your Neighbours are diligent for Things that will perish; and will you be slothful for Things that will endure for ever?

VIII. Would you be willing to be Damned for Slothfulness?

IX. Would you be willing the Angels of God should neglect to fetch your Souls away to Heaven when you lye a Dying, and the Devils stand by ready to scramble for them?

X. Was Christ slothful in the Work of your Redemption?

XI. Are his Ministers slothful in tendering this unto you?

XII. And lastly, if all this will not move, I tell you God will not be slothful or negligent to Damn you; (whose Damnation now of a long time slumbereth not;) nor the Devils will not neglect to fetch thee, nor Hell neglect to shute its Mouth upon thee.

Prov. 6. 11. Sluggard, art thou asleep still? Art thou resolved to sleep the Sleep of Death? Will neither Tydings from Heaven or Hell awake thee? Wilt thou say still, Yet a little Sleep, a little Slumber, and a little folding of the Arms to Sleep? Wilt thou yet turn thy self in thy sloth as the Door is turned upon the Hinges? O that I was one that was skilful in Lamentation, and had but a yearning Heart towards thee, how would I pity thee? How would I bemoan thee? O that I could with Jeremiah let my Eyes run down with Rivers of Waters for thee! Poor Soul, lost Soul, dying Soul, what a hard Heart have I that I cannot Mourn for thee? If thou shouldst lose but a Limb, a Child, or a Friend, it would not be so much, but poor Man 'tis thy Soul; if it was to lye in Hell but for a Day, but for a Year, nay, Ten Thousand Years, it would (in comparison) be nothing: But O! it is for ever; O this cutting ever, what a Soul-amazing Word will that be, which saith, Depart from me ye Cursed into EVERLASTING Fire? &c.

Object. But if I should set in, and run as you would have me, then I must run from all my Friends, for none of them are Running that Way.

Answ. And if thou dost thou wilt run into the Bosom of Christ, and of God, and then what harm will that do thee?

Object. But if I run this Way then I must run from all my Sins.

Answ. That's true indeed; yet if thou dost not thou wilt run into Hell Fire.

Object. But if I run this Way then I shall be hated, and lose the Love of my Friends and Relations, and of those that I expect Benefit from, or have Reliance on, and I shall be mocked of all my Neighbours.

Answ. And if thou dost not thou art sure to lose the Love and Favour of God and Christ, the Benefits of Heaven and Glory, and be mocked of God for thy Folly, (I will laugh at your Calamities, and mock when your Fear cometh;) and if thou wouldest not be hated and mocked, then take heed, thou by thy Folly dost not procure the Displeasure, and Mockings of the Great God; for his mocks and hatred will be Terrible, because they will fall upon thee in Terrible Times, even when Tribulation and Anguish taketh hold on thee; Prov. 1. 26, 27, 28. which will be when Death and Judgment comes, when all the Men in the Earth, and all the Angels in Heaven, cannot help thee.

Object. But surely I may begin this time enough, a Tear or two hence, may I not?

Answ.

Ans^r. First, Hast thou any Lease of thy Life? Did ever God tell thee thou shalt live half a Year, or two Months longer? Nay, it may be thou may'st not live so long. And therefore,

Secondly, Wilt thou be so sottish and unwise, as to venture thy Soul upon a little uncertain Time!

Thirdly, Dost thou know whether the Day of Grace will last a Week longer or no? For the Day of Grace is past with some before their Life is ended; and if it should be so with thee, wouldest thou not say, O that I had begun to run before the Day of Grace had been past, and the Gates of Heaven shut against me. But,

Fourthly, If thou shouldest see any of thy Neighbours neglect the making sure of either House or Land to themselves if they had it profered to them, saying, time enough hereafter, when the Time is uncertain: And besides, they do not know whether ever it will be profered to them again, or no; I say wouldest thou not then call them Fools! And if so, then dost thou think that thou art a Wise Man to let thy Immortal Soul hang over Hell by a Thread of uncertain Time, which may soon be cut asunder by Death?

But to speak plainly, all these are the Words of a slothful Spirit. Arise Man, be slothful no longer, set Foot, and Heart, and All into the Way of God, and run, the Crown is at the End of the Race; there also standeth the loving Fore-runner, even Jesus, who hath prepared Heavenly Provision to make thy Soul welcome, and he will give it thee with a willing Heart than ever thou canst desire it of him. O therefore do not delay the Time no longer, but put into practice the Words of the Men of Dan to their Brethren, after they had seen the Goodness of the Land of Canaan, Arise (say they) &c. for we have seen the Land, and behold it is very good; and are ye still, (or do you forbear Running?) Be not slothful to go, and to enter to possess the Land, Judges 18. 19. Farewel.

I wish our Souls may meet with Comfort at the Journey's End.

John Bunyan.

O R, A DESCRIPTION

O F The Man that gets to Heaven.

I COR. IX. 24. So Run that ye may Obtain.

H EAVEN and Happiness is that which every one desireth, insomuch that wicked Balaam could say, Let me die the Death of the Righteous, and let my last End be like his; yet for all this there are but very few that do obtain that ever-to-be-desired Glory, insomuch that many eminent Professors drop short of a Welcome from God into this pleasant Place. The Apostle therefore, because he did desire the Salvation of the Souls of the Corinthians, to whom he writes this Epistle, layeth them down in these Words, such Counsel, which if taken, would be for their Help and Advantage.

First, Not to be wicked, and sit still, and wish for Heaven, but to run for it.

Secondly, Not to content themselves with every Kind of Running; but, saith he, SO run that ye may obtain. As if he should say, Some, because they would not lose their Souls, they begin to run betimes, they run apace, they run with Patience, they run the right Way: Do you SO run. Some run from both Father, Mother, Friends and Companions, and this that they may have the Crown: Do you SO run. Some run through Temptations, Afflictions, good Report, evil Report, that they may win the Pearl: Do you so run. So run that ye may obtain.

These Words they are taken from Men's Running for a Wager: A very apt Similitude to set before the Eyes of the Saints of the Lord. Know you not that they which run in a Race run all, but one obtains the Prize? So run that ye may obtain. That is, do not only run, but be sure you win as well as run. So run that ye may obtain.

I shall not need to make any great ado in Opening the Words at this Time, but shall rather lay down one Doctrine that I do find in them; and in prosecuting that, I shall shew you, in some Measure, the Scope of the Words.

The Doctrine is this:

They that will have Heaven they must run for it; I say, they that will have Heaven they must run for it. I beseech you to heed it well. Know ye not that they which run in a Race run all, but one obtaineth the Prize? So run ye. The Prize is Heaven, and if you will have it you must run for it. You have another Scripture for this in the 12th of the Hebrews, the 1st, 2d and 3d Verses, Wherefore seeing also, saith the Apostle, that we are compassed about with so great a Cloud of Witnesses, let us lay aside every Weight, and the Sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with Patience the Race that is set before us. And let us run, saith he.

Again, saith Paul, I so run not as uncertainly, so Fight I, &c.

But before I go any farther:

1. Fleeing.

Observe, that this Running is not an ordinary, or any Sort of Running, but it is to be understood of the swiftest Sort of Running: And therefore in the 6th of the Hebrews it is called a Fleeing. That we might have strong Consolation, who have fled for Refuge, to lay hold on the Hope set before us; Mark, who have Fled. It is taken from that 20th of Joshua, concerning the Man that was to Flee to the City of Refuge, when the Avenger of Blood was hard at his Heels, to take Vengeance on him for the Offence he had committed; therefore it is a Running or Fleeing for one's Life. A Running with all might and main, as we use to say, so run.

2. Pressing.

Secondly, This Running in another Place is called a Pressing, I press towards the Mark; which signifieth, that they that will have Heaven, they must not stick at any Difficulties they meet with, but press, crowd and thrust through all that may stand between Heaven and their Souls. So run.

3. Continuing.

Thirdly, This Running is called in another Place a Continuing in the Way of Life. If you continue in the Faith grounded, and settled, and be not moved away from the Hope of the Gospel of Christ. Not to run a little now and then, by Fits, and Starts, or half Way, or almost thither, but to run for my Life, to run through all Difficulties, and to continue therein to the End of the Race, which must be to the End of my Life. So run that ye may obtain. And the Reasons for this Point are these.

First, Because all or every one that Runneth doth not obtain the Prize; there be many that do run, yea, and run far too, who yet miss of the Crown that standeth at the end of the Race. You know that all that run in a Race do not obtain the Victory; they all run, but one wins: And so it is here; it is not every one that runneth, nor every one that seeketh, nor every one that striveth for the Mastery, that hath it. Tho' a Man do strive for the Mastery, saith Paul, yet he is not crowned unless he strive lawfully; that is, unless he so run, and so strive, as to have God's Approbation. What, do ye think that every heavy-heel'd Professor will have Heaven? What every lazy one? Every wanton and foolish Professor, that will be stopped by any Thing, kept back by any Thing, that scarce runneth so fast Heavenward, as a Snail creepeth on the Ground? Nay, there are some Professors do not go on so fast in the Way of God, as a Snail doth go on the Wall, and yet these think that Heaven and Happiness is for them; but stay, there are many more that run than there be that obtain, therefore he that will have Heaven must run for it.

2dly, Because you know that though a Man do run, yet if he do not overcome, or win, as well as run, what will they be the better for their Running? They will get nothing. You know the Man that runneth, he doth do it that he may win the Prize; but if he doth not obtain it, he doth lose his Labour, spend his Pains and Time, and that to no Purpose; I say, he getteth nothing. And ah! How many such Runners will there be found in the Day of Judgment? Even Multitudes, Multitudes that have run, yea, run so far as to come to Heaven Gates, and not able to get any farther, but there stand knocking when it is too late, crying, Lord, Lord, when they have nothing but Rebukes for their Pains. Depart from me, you come not here, you come too late, you run too lazily, the Door is shut. When once the Master of the House is risen up, saith Christ, and hath shut to the Door, and ye begin to stand without and to knock, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us, I will say, I know you not, Depart, &c. O sad will the State of those be, that run and miss; therefore if you will have Heaven you must run for it; and So run that ye may obtain.

Thirdly, Because the Way is long, (I speak metaphorically) and there is many a dirty Step, many a high Hill, much Work to do, a wicked Heart, World and Devil, to overcome: I say, there are many Steps to be

be taken by those that intend to be saved, by running or walking in the Steps of that Faith of our Father Abraham. Out of Ægypt thou must go through the Red Sea; thou must run a long and tedious Journey, through the vast howling Wilderness before thou come to the Land of Promise.

Fourthly, They that will go to Heaven they must run for it; because as the Way is long, so the Time in which they are to get to the End of it is very uncertain; the Time present is the only Time; thou hast no more Time allotted thee than that thou now enjoyest. Boast not thyself of to Morrow, for thou knowest not what a Day may bring forth. Do not say, I have Time enough to get to Heaven seven Years hence: for I tell thee the Bell may toll for thee before seven Days more be ended; and when Death comes, away thou must go, whether thou art provided or not; and therefore look to it; make no Delays; it is not good dallying with Things of so great Concernment, as the Salvation or Damnation of thy Soul. You know he that hath a great Way to go in a little Time, and less by half than he thinks of, he had Need run for it.

Fifthly, They that will have Heaven they must run for it, because the Devil, the Law, Sin, Death and Hell followeth them. There is never a poor Soul that is going to Heaven, but the Devil, the Law, Sin, Death and Hell, makes after that Soul. The Devil your Adversary, as a roaring Lion, goeth about, seeking whom he may devour. And I will assure you the Devil is nimble, he can run apace, he is light of Foot, he hath overtaken many, he hath turned up their Heels, and hath given them an everlasting Fall. Also the Law, that can shoot a great Way, have a Care thou keep out of the Reach of those great Guns, the Ten Commandments. Hell also hath a wide Mouth, it can stretch itself farther than you are aware of: And as the Angel said to Lot, Take Heed, look not behind thee, neither tarry thou in all the Plain (that is, any where between this and Heaven) lest thou be consumed, so say I to thee, take Heed, tarry not, lest either the Devil, Hell, Death, or the fearful Curses of the Law of God, do overtake thee, and throw thee down in the Midst of thy Sins, so as never to rise and recover again. If this were well considered, then thou, as well as I, wouldst say, They that will Heaven must run for it.

Sixthly, They that will go to Heaven must run for it, because perchance the Gates of Heaven may be shut shortly. Sometimes Sinners have not Heaven Gates open to them so long as they suppose: And if they be once shut against a Man, they are so heavy, that all the Men in the World, nor all the Angels in Heaven, are not able to open them. I shut, and no Man can open, saith Christ. And how if thou shouldst come but one quarter of an Hour too late? I tell thee it will cost thee an Eternity to bewail thy Misery in: Francis Spira can tell thee what it is to stay till the Gate of Mercy be quite shut; or to run so lazily, that they be shut before thou get within them. What, to be shut out? What, out of Heaven! Sinner, rather than lose it, run for it; yea, and so run that thou mayest obtain.

Lastly, Because if thou lose, thou lovest all, thou lovest Soul, God, Christ, Heaven, Ease, Peace, &c. Besides, thou layest thyself open to all the Shame, Contempt and Reproach, that either God, Christ, Saints, the World, Sin, the Devil, and all can lay upon thee. As Christ saith of the foolish Builder, so will I say of thee, if thou be such a one who runs and missest; I say, even all that go by will begin to mock at thee, saying, this Man began to run well, but was not able to finish. But more of this anon.

Quest. But how should a poor Soul do to run? For this very Thing is that which afflicteth me sore (as you say) to think that I may run, and yet fall short. Methinks to fall short at last, O it fears me greatly! Pray tell me therefore how I should run?

Ans. That thou mayest indeed be satisfied in this Particular consider these following Things.

The first Direction.

If thou wouldest so run as to obtain the Kingdom of Heaven, then be sure that thou get into the Way that leadeth thither: For it is a vain Thing to think that ever thou shalt have the Prize, tho' thou runnest never so fast, unless thou art in the Way that leads to it. Set the Case that there should be a Man in London that was to run to Tork for a Wager; now though he run never so swiftly, yet if he run full South, he might run himself quickly out of Breath, and be never the nearer the Prize, but rather the farther off. Just so is it here, it is not simply the Runner, nor yet the hasty Runner, that winneth the Crown, unless he be in the Way that leadeth thereto. I have observed, that little Time which I have been a Professor, that there is a great Running to and fro, some this Way, and some that Way, yet it is to be feared most of them are out of the Way; and then, tho' they run as swift as the Eagle can fly, they are benefited nothing at all.

Here is one runs a Quaking, another a Ranting; one again runs after the Baptism, and another after the Independency: Here's one for Free-will, and another for Presbytery, and yet possibly most of all these Sects run quite the wrong Way, and yet every one is for his Life, his Soul, either for Heaven or Hell.

If thou now say, which is the Way? I tell thee it is CHRIST THE SON OF MARY, THE SON OF GOD.

Jesus

John 14. Jesus saith, I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life; no Man cometh to the Father but by me. So then thy Business is (if thou would'st have Salvation) to see if Christ be thine, with all his Benefits; whether he hath covered thee with his Righteousness, whether he hath shewed thee that thy Sins are washed away with his Heart-Blood, whether thou art planted into him, and whether thou have Faith in him, so as to make a Life out of him, and to conform thee to him; that is, such Faith as to conclude that thou art righteous, because Christ is thy Righteousness, and so constrained to walk with him as the Joy of thy Heart, because he saveth thy Soul. And for the Lord's Sake take Heed, and do not deceive thyself, and think thou art in the Way upon too slight Grounds; for if thou miss of the Way, thou wilt miss of the Prize, and if thou miss of that I am sure thou wilt lose thy Soul, even that Soul which is worth more than the whole World.

But I have treated more largely on this in my Book of The Two Covenants, and therefore shall pass it now; only I beseech thee to have a Care of thy Soul, and that thou mayest so do take this Counsel.

Mistrust thy own Strength, and throw it away; down on thy Knees in Prayer to the Lord for the Spirit of Truth; search his Word for Direction: flee Seducers Company; keep Company with the soundest Christians, that have most Experience of Christ; and be sure thou have a Care of Quakers, Ranters, Free-willers: Also do not have too much Company with some Anabaptists, tho' I go under that Name myself. I tell thee this is such a serious Matter, and I fear thou wilt so little regard it, that the Thoughts of the Worth of the Thing and of thy too light regarding of it, doth even make my Heart ache whilst I am a writing to thee. The Lord teach thee the Way by his Spirit, and then I am sure thou wilt know it. So Run.

Only by the Way let me bid thee have a Care of Two Things, and so I shall pass to the next Thing.

First, Have a Care of relying on the outward Obedience to any of God's Commands, or thinking thy self ever the better in the Sight of God for that.

Secondly, Take heed of fetching Peace for thy Soul from any Inherent Righteousness: But if thou canst believe, that as thou art a Sinner, so thou art justified freely by the Love of God, through the Redemption that is in Christ; and that God for Christ's Sake hath forgiven thee, not because he saw any thing done; or to be done, in or by thee to move him thereunto to do it; for that's the right Way; the Lord put thee into it, and keep thee in it.

The Second Direction.

As thou should'st get into the Way, so thou should'st also be much in studying, and musing on the Way. You know Men that would be expert in any Thing, they are usually much in studying of that Thing, and so likewise is it with those that quickly grow expert in any Way: This therefore thou should'st do; let thy Study be much exercised about Christ, which is the Way; what he is, what he hath done; and why he is what he is, and why he hath done what is done; as why he took upon him the Form of a Servant, Phil. 2. why he was made in the likeness of Men, why he ² cried, why he died, why he bare the Sin of ²¹ the World, why he was made Sin, and why he was made Righteousness, why he is in Heaven in the Nature of Man, and what he doth there; be much in musing and considering of these Things; be thinking also enough of those Places which thou must not come near, but leave some on this Hand, and some on that Hand; as it is with those that Travel into other Countries, they must leave such a Gate on this Hand, and such a Bush on that Hand, and go by such a Place, where standeth such a Thing: Thus therefore thou must do, Avoid such Things which are expressly forbidden in the Word of God. Withdraw thy Foot far from her, And come not nigh the Door of her House, for her steps take hold of Hell, going down to the Chambers of Death: And so of every Thing that is not in the Way, have a Care of it, that thou go not by it, come not near it, have nothing to do with it. So run.

The Third Direction.

Not only thus, but in the next Place, thou must strip thy self of those Things that may hang upon thee, to the hindering of thee in the Way to the Kingdom of Heaven, as Covetousness, Pride, Lust, or whatever else thy Heart may be inclining unto, which may hinder thee in this Heavenly Race. Men that run for a Wager, if they intend to win as well as run, they do not use to incumber themselves, or carry those Things about them that may be an hindrance to them in their Running. Every Man that striveth for the Mastery is temperate in all Things. That is, he layeth aside every Thing that would be any ways a Disadvantage to him; as saith the Apostle, Let us lay aside every Weight, and the Sin that doth so easily beset us, and let us run with Patience the Race that is set before us. It is but a vain Thing to talk of going to Heaven, if thou let thy Heart be incumbered with those Things that would hinder. Would you not say that such a Man would be in danger of losing, tho' he run, if he fill his Pockets with Stones, hang heavy Garments on his Shoulders, and great lumpish Shoes on his Feet? So it is here, thou talkest of going to Heaven, and yet fillest thy Pocket with Stones, (i. e.) fill'st thy Heart with this World, let'st that hang on thy Shoulders, with its Profits

Profits and Pleasures; alas, alas, thou art widely mistaken: If thou intendest to win thou must Strip, thou must lay aside every Weight, thou must be temperate in ALL Things. Thou must so run.

The Fourth Direction.

Beware of By-paths, take heed thou dost not turn into those Lanes which lead out of the Way. There are crooked Paths, Paths in which Men go astray, Paths that lead to Death and Damnation, but take heed of all those. Some of them are dangerous because of Practice, some because of Opinion, but mind them not; mind the Path before thee, look right before thee, turn neither to the Right Hand nor to the Left, but let thine Eyes look right on, even right before thee; Ponder the Path of thy feet, and let all thy Ways be established. Turn not to the Right Hand, nor to the Left: Remove thy Foot far from Evil. This Counsel being not so seriously taken as given, is the Reason of that starting from Opinion to Opinion, reeling this Way and that Way, out of this Lane into that Lane, and so missing the Way to the Kingdom. Tho' the Way to Heaven be but one, yet there are many crooked Lanes and By-paths shoot down upon it, as I may say. And again, notwithstanding the Kingdom of Heaven be the biggest City, yet usually those By-paths are the most beaten, most Travelers go those Ways; and therefore the Way to Heaven is hard to be found, and as hard to be kept in, by reason of these. Yet nevertheless it is in this Case, as it was with the Harlot of Jericho, she had One Scarlet thread tied in her Window, by which her House was known: So it is here, The Scarlet Streams of Christ's Blood run throughout the Way to the Kingdom of Heaven; therefore mind that, see if thou do find the besprinkling of the Blood of Christ in the Way, and if thou do, be of good Cheer, thou art in the right Way; but have a Care thou beguile not thy self with a Fancy; for then thou may'st light into any Lane, or Way; but that thou may'st not be mistaken, consider, tho' it seem never so pleasant, yet if thou do not find that in the very middle of the Road there is writing with the Heart Blood of Christ, that he came into the World to save Sinners; and that we are Justified, tho' we are Ungodly; shun that Way; for this it is which the Apostle meaneth when he saith, We have Boldness to enter into the Holiest by the Blood of Jesus, by a new and living Way which he hath consecrated for us, thro' the Vail, that is to say, his Flesh. How easy a Matter is it in this our Day for the Devil to be too cunning for poor Souls, by calling his By-paths the Way to the Kingdom? If such an Opinion or Fancy be but cried up by one or more, this Inscription being set upon it by the Devil, [This is the Way of God,] how speedily, greedily, and by Heaps, do poor simple Souls throw away themselves upon it; especially if it be daubed over with a few external Acts of Morality, if so good? But this is because Men do not know painted By-paths from the plain Way to the Kingdom of Heaven. They have not yet learned the true Christ, and what his Righteousness is, neither have they a Sense of their own Insufficiency; but are Bold, Proud, Presumptuous, Self-conceited. And therefore,

Vol. II.

The Fifth Direction.

Do not thou be too much in looking too High in thy Journey Heavenwards. You know Men that run a Race do not use to stare and gaze this Way and that, neither do they use to cast up their Eyes too high, left happily, through their too much gazing with their Eyes after other Things they in the mean Time stumble, and catch a fall. The very same Case is this, if thou gaze and stare after every Opinion and Way that comes into the World, also if thou be prying overmuch into God's Secret Decrees, or let thy Heart too much entertain Questions about some nice, foolish Curiosities, thou may'st stumble and fall, as many Hundreds in England have done, both in Ranting and Quakery, to their own eternal Overthrow, without the marvellous Operation of God's Grace be suddenly stretched forth to bring them back again. Take heed therefore, follow not that proud lofty Spirit, that, Devil-like, cannot be content with his own Station. David was of an excellent Spirit, where he saith, Lord, my Heart is not haughty, nor mine Eyes lofty, neither do I exercise my self in great Matters, or Things too high for me. Surely I have behaved and quieted my self as a Child that is weaned of his Mother: My Soul is even as a weaned Child. Do thou so run.

The Sixth Direction.

Take heed that you have not an Ear open to every one that calleth after you as you are in your Journey. Men that run, you know, if any do call after them, saying, I would speak with you, or go not too fast, and you shall have my Company with you, if they run for some great Matter they use to say, alas, I cannot stay, I am in haste, pray talk not to me now; neither can I stay for you, I am Running for a Wager; if I win I am made, if I lose I am undone, and therefore hinder me not. Thus wise are Men when they run for corruptible Things, and thus shouldest thou do; and thou hast more cause to do so than they, forasmuch as they run but for Things that last not, but thou for an incorruptible Glory. I give thee Notice of this betimes, knowing that thou shalt have enough call after thee, even the Devil, Sin, this World, vain Company, Pleasures, Profits, Esteem among Men, Ease, Pomp, Pride, together with an innumerable Company of such Companions; one crying, stay for me, the other other saying, do not leave me behind, a third saying, and take me along with you. What will you go, faith the Devil, without your Sins, Pleasures and Profits? Are you so hasty? Can you not stay and take these along with you? Will you leave your Friends and Companions behind you? Can you not do as your Neighbours do, carry the World, Sin, Lust, Pleasure, Profit, Esteem among Men, along with you? Have a Care thou do not let thy Ear now be open to the tempting, enticing, alluring, and soul-intangling flatteries of such sink-Souls as these are. My Son, faith Solomon, if Sinners intice thee consent thou not.

Prov. 1.
10.

You know what it cost the Young Man which Solomon speaks of in the 7th of the Proverbs, that was inticed by a Harlot, With much fair Speech she won him, and caused him to yield, with the flattering of her Lips she forced him, till he went after her as an Ox to the Slaughter, or as a Fool to the Correction of the Stocks; even so far, till the Dart struck thorough his Liver, and knew not that it was for his Life. Harken unto me now therefore, faith he, O ye Children, and attend to the Words of my Mouth, let not thine Heart decline to her Ways, go not astray in her Paths, for she hath cast down many, wounded, yea, many strong Men have been slain (that is, kept out of Heaven) by her House is the Way to Hell, going down to the Chambers of Death. Soul, take this Counsel, and say, Satan, Sin, Lust, Pleasure, Profit, Pride, Friends, Companions, and every thing else, let him alone, stand off, come not nigh me, for I am Running for Heaven, for my Soul, for God, for Christ, from Hell and Everlasting Damnation; if I win I win all, and if I lose I lose all; let me alone, for I will not hear. So run.

Prov. 7.

The Seventh Direction.

In the next Place, be not daunted though thou meet'st with never so many Discouragements in thy Journey thither. That Man that is resolv'd for Heaven, if Satan cannot win him by Flatteries, he will endeavour to weaken him by Discouragements; saying, thou art a Sinner, thou hast broke God's Law, thou art not elected, thou comest too late, the Day of Grace is past, God doth not care for thee, thy Heart is naught, thou art lazy, with a Hundred other discouraging Suggestions; and thus it was with David, where he faith, I had fainted unless I had believed to see the Loving-kindness of the Lord in the Land of the Living. As if he should say, the Devil did so rage, and my Heart was so base, that had I judged according to my own sense and feeling I had been absolutely distracted, but I trusted to Christ in the Promise, and looked that God would be as good as his Promise, in having Mercy upon me, an unworthy Sinner; and this is that which encourag'd me, and kept me from fainting. And thus must thou do when Satan, or the Law, or thy own Conscience, do go about to dishearten thee, either by the Greatness of thy Sins, the Wickedness of thy Heart, the Tedioufness of the Way, the Loss of outward Enjoyments, the Hatred that thou wilt procure from the World, or the like; then thou must encourage thy self with the Freeness of the Promises, the Tenderheartedness of Christ, the Merits of his Blood, the Freeness of his Invitations to come in, the Greatness of the Sin of others that have been pardoned, and that the same God, through the same Christ, holdeth forth the same Grace as free as ever. If these be not thy Meditations thou wilt draw very heavily in the Way to Heaven, if thou do not give up all for lost, and so knock off from following any farther; therefore I say, take Heart in thy Journey, and say to them that seek thy Destruction, Rejoyce not against me, O my Enemy, for when I fall I shall rise, when I sit in Darkness the Lord shall be a Light unto me. So run.

Pfal. 27.
13, 14.

Mich. 7.8.

The Eighth Direction.

Take heed of being offended at the Cross that thou must go by before thou come to Heaven. You must understand (as I have already touched) that there is no Man that goeth to Heaven but he must go by the Cross. The Cross is the standing Way-mark by which all they that go to Glory must pass by.

We must through much Tribulation enter in- to the Kingdom of Heaven. Yea, and all that will live Godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer Persecution. If thou art in thy Way to the Kingdom, my Life for thine thou wilt come at the Cross shortly, (the Lord grant thou dost not shrink at it, so as to turn thee back again.) If any Man will come after me, faith Christ, let him deny himself, and take up his Cross daily, and follow me. The Cross it stands, and hath stood, from the beginning as a Way-mark to the Kingdom of Heaven. You know if one ask you the Way to such and such a Place, you for the better Direction do not only say, this is the Way, but then also say, you must go by such a Gate, by such a Stile, such a Bush, Tree, Bridge, or such like: Why, so it is here; art thou enquiring the Way to Heaven? Why I tell thee, Christ is the Way, into him thou must get, into his Righteousness to be justified; and if thou art in him, thou wilt presently see the Cross, thou must go close by it, thou must touch it, nay, thou must take it up, or else thou wilt quickly go out of the Way that leads to Heaven, and turn up some of those crooked Lanes that lead down to the Chambers of Death.

Acts 14.

2 Tim. 3.
12.

Luke 9.

23.

How thou mayest know the Cross by these Six Things.

1. It's

1. It's known in the Doctrine of Justification. 2. In the Doctrine of Mortification. 3. In the Doctrine of Perseverance. 4. In Self-denial. 5. Patience. 6. Communion with poor Saints.

First, In the Doctrine of Justification, there is a great deal of the Cross in that; a Man is forced to suffer the Destruction of his own Righteousness for the Righteousness of another. This is no easy matter for a Man to do, I assure to you it stretcheth every Vein in his Heart before he will be brought to yield to it. What, for a Man to deny, reject, abhor, and throw away all his Prayers, Tears, Alms, keeping of Sabbaths, Hearing, Reading, with the rest, in the Point of Justification, and to count them accursed, and to be willing in the very midst of the sense of his Sins to throw himself wholly upon the Righteousness and Obedience of another Man, abhorring his own, counting it as deadly Sin, as the open Breach of the Law; I say, to do this in Deed and in Truth is the biggest piece of the Cross, and therefore Paul calleth this very Thing a Suffering; where he saith, And I have SUFFERED the loss of all Things (which principally was his Righteousness) that I might win Christ, and be found in him, not having (but rejecting) my own Righteousness. That's the First.

Phil. 3.

Secondly, In the Doctrine of Mortification is also much of the Cross. Is it nothing for a Man to lay Hands on his vile Opinions, on his vile Sins, of his bosom Sins, of his beloved, pleasant, darling Sins, that stick as close to him as the Flesh sticks to the Bones? What, to lose all these brave Things that my Eyes behold, for that which I never saw with my Eyes? What, to lose my Pride, my Covetousness, my vain Company, Sports and Pleasures, and the rest? I tell you this is no easie Matter, if it were, what need all those Prayers, Sighs, Watchings? What need we be so backward to it? Nay, do you not see, that some Men before they will set about this Work, they will even venture the Loss of their Souls, Heaven, God, Christ, and all? What means else all those Delays and Putt-offs, saying, Stay a little longer, I am loth to leave my Sins while I am so young, and in Health? Again, what is the Reason else that others do it so by the Halves, coldly, and seldom, notwithstanding they are convinced over and over; nay, and also promise to amend, and yet all's in vain. I will assure you, to cut off right Hands, and to pluck out right Eyes, is no Pleasure to the Flesh.

Thirdly, The Doctrine of Perseverance is also cross to the Flesh, which is not only to begin but to hold out, not only to bid fair, and to say, Would I had Heaven, but so to know Christ, to put on Christ, and walk with Christ so as to come to Heaven. Indeed it is no great Matter to begin to look for Heaven, to begin to seek the Lord, to begin to shun Sin; O but it is a very great Matter to continue with God's Approbation. My Servant Caleb, saith God, is a Man of another Spirit, he hath followed me (followed me always, he hath continually followed me,) fully, he shall possess the Land. Almost all the many Thousands of the Children of Israel in their Generation fell short of Perseverance when they walked from Egypt towards the Land of Canaan. Indeed they went to the Work at first pretty willingly, but they were very short-winded, they were quickly out of Breath, and in their Hearts they turned back again into Egypt.

It is an easy Matter for a Man to Run hard for a Spurt, for a Furlong, for a Mile or two; O but to hold out for a Hundred, for a Thousand, for ten thousand Miles, that Man that doth this he must look to meet with Cross, Pain, and Wearisomeness to the Flesh, especially if as he goeth he meeteth with Briars and Quagmires, and other Incumbrances, that makes his Journey so much the more painfuller.

Nay, do you not see with your Eyes daily that Perseverance is a very great Part of the Cross, why else do Men so soon grow weary? I could point out a many, that after they have followed the Ways of God about a Twelvemonth, others it may be Two, Three, or Four (some more, and some less) Years, they have been beat out of Wind, have taken up their Lodging and Rest before they have got half Way to Heaven, some in this, and some in that Sin, and have secretly, nay, sometimes openly said, that the Way is too strait, the Race too long, the Religion too holy, and cannot hold out, I can go no farther.

And so likewise of the other Three, (to wit) Patience, Self-denial, Communion, and Communication with and to the poor Saints: How hard are these Things? It is an easy Matter to deny another Man, but it is not so easy a Matter to deny one's self; to deny myself out of Love to God, to his Gospel, to his Saints, of this Advantage, and of that Gain, nay, of that which otherwise I might lawfully do, were it not for offending them. That Scripture is but seldom read, and seldom put in Practice, which saith, I will eat no Flesh while the World standeth, if it make my Brother to offend; again, We that are strong ought to bear the Infirmities of the Weak, and not to please ourselves. But how froward, how hasty, how peevish and self-resolved are the Generality of the Professors at this Day? Also how little considering the Poor, unless it be to say, Be thou warmed and filled? But to give is a seldom Work; also especially to give to any Poor; I tell you all Things are cross to Flesh and Blood; and that Man that hath but a watchful Eye over the Flesh, and also some considerable Measure sure of Strength against it, he shall find his Heart in these Things like unto a starting Horse, that is rid without a curbing Bridle, ready to start at every Thing that is offensive to him; yea, and ready to run away too, do what the Rider can.

It is the Cross which keepeth those that are kept from Heaven. I am persuaded were it not for the Cross, where we have one Professor we should have Twenty; but this Cross that is it which spoileth all.

Some Men, as I said before, when they come at the Cross they can go no farther, but back again to their Sins they must go. Others they tumble at it, and break their Necks; others again when they see the Cross is approaching, they turn aside to the Left Hand, or to the right Hand, and so think to get to Heaven another Way, but they will be deceived! For all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall, mark, shall be sure to suffer Persecution. There are but few when they come at the Cross, cry Welcome Cross, as some of the Martyrs did to the Stake they were burned at: Therefore if you meet with the Cross in thy Journey, in what Manner soever it be, be not daunted, and say, Alas, What shall I do now? But rather take Courage, knowing that by the Cross is the Way to the Kingdom. Can a Man believe in Christ, and not be hated by the Devil? Can he make a Profession of this Christ, and that sweetly and convincingly, and the Children of Satan hold their Tongue? Can Darkness agree with Light? Or the Devil endure that Christ Jesus should be honoured both by Faith and a heavenly Conversation, and let that Soul alone at quiet? Did you never read, that the Dragon persecuted the Woman? And that Christ saith, In the World you shall have Tribulations.

The Ninth Direction.

Beg of God that he would do these Two Things for thee; First, Enlighten thine Understanding: And, Secondly, Inflame thy Will. If these two be but effectually done, there is no Fear but thou wilt go safe to Heaven.

One of the great Reasons why Men and Women do so little regard the other World it is, because they see so little of it: And the Reason why they see so little of it is, because they have their Understandings darkened; And therefore saith Paul, Do not you Believers walk as do other Gentiles, even in the Vanity of their Minds, having their Understandings darkened, being alienated from the Life of God through the Ignorance (or Foolishness) that is in them, because of the Blindness of their Heart. Walk not as those, Run not with them; alas, poor Souls, they have their Understandings darkened, their Hearts blinded, and that's the Reason they have such Undervaluing Thoughts of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the Salvation of their Souls. For when Men do come to see the Things of another World, what a God, what a Christ, what a Heaven, and what an Eternal Glory there is to be enjoyed; also when they see that it is possible for them to have a Share in it, I tell you it will make them Run thorow thick and thin to enjoy it. Moses having a Sight of this, because his Understanding was enlightened, He feared not the Wrath of the King, but chose rather to suffer Afflictions with the People of God, than to enjoy the Pleasures of Sin for a Season. He refused to be called the Son of the King's Daughter; accounting it wonderful Riches to be counted worthy of so much as to suffer for Christ with the poor despised Saints; and that was because he saw him who was invisible, and had Respect unto the Recompence of Reward. And this is that which the Apostle usually prayeth for in his Epistles for the Saints, namely, That they might know what is the Hope of God's Calling, and the Riches of the Glory of his Inheritance in the Saints. And that they might be able to comprehend with all Saints, what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height, and know the Love of Christ, which passeth Knowledge. Pray therefore that God would enlighten thy Understanding, that will be a very great Help unto thee. It will make thee endure many a hard Brunt for Christ; as Paul saith, After you were illuminated, ye endured a great Fight of Afflictions, --- You took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing in your selves that ye have in Heaven a better and an enduring Substance. If there be never such a rare Jewel lye just in a Man's Way, yet if he sees it not, he will rather trample upon it than stoop for it, and it is because he sees not. Why so it is here, tho' Heaven be worth never so much, and thou hast never so much need of it, yet if thou see it not, that is, have not thy Understanding opened or enlightened to see, thou wilt not regard at all: therefore cry to the Lord for enlightning Grace, and say, Lord, open my blind Eyes; Lord, take the Vail off of my dark Heart, shew me the Things of the other World, and let me see the Sweetness, Glory, and Excellency of them for Christ his Sake. This is the first.

The Tenth Direction.

Cry to God that he would inflame thy Will also with the Things of the other World. For when a Man's Will is fully set to do such or such a Thing, then it must be a very hard Matter that shall hinder that Man from bringing about his End. When Paul's Will was set resolutely to go up to Jerusalem, (tho' it was signified to him before what he should there suffer,) he was not daunted at all; nay, saith he, I am ready (or willing) not only to be bound, but also to die at Jerusalem for the Name of the Lord Jesus. His Will was inflamed with Love to Christ, and therefore all the Perswasions that that could be used wrought nothing at all.

Your Self-will'd People no body knows what to do with them; we use to say, he will have his own Will do all what you can. Indeed to have such a Will for Heaven is an admirable Advantage to a Man that undertaketh a Race thither; a Man that is resolved, and hath his Will fixed, saith he, I will do my best to advantage myself; I will do my worst to hinder my Enemies; I will not give out as long as I can stand; I will have it or I will lose my Life; tho' he kill me yet will I trust in him. I will not let thee go except thou bless me. I will, I will, I will, O this blessed inflamed Will for Heaven! What is like it? If a Man be willing, then any Argument shall be Matter of Encouragement; but if unwilling, then any Argument shall give Discouragement; this is seen both in Saints and Sinners; in them that are the Children of God, and also those that are the Children of the Devil. As,

First, The Saints of Old, they being willing and resolved for Heaven, what could stop them? Could Fire and Faggot, Sword or Halter, stinking Dungeons, Whips, Bears, Bulls, Lions, cruel Rackings, Stoning, Starving, Nakedness, &c. and in all these things they were more than Conquerors, through him that loved them; who had also made them willing in the Day of his Power.

Secondly, See again on the other Side the Children of the Devil, because they are not willing, how many Shifts and Starting-holes will they have. I have married a Wife, I have a Farm, I shall offend my Landlord, I shall offend my Master, I shall lose my Trading, I shall lose my Pride, my Pleasures, I shall be mocked and scoffed, therefore I dare not come. I, saith another, will stay till I am older, till my Children are out, till I am got a little aforehand in the World, till I have done this, and that, and the other Business; but alas, the Thing is, they are not willing; for were they but soundly willing, these, and a thousand such as these, would hold them no faster than the Cords held Sampson, when he broke them like burnt Flax. I tell you the Will is all; that's one of the chief Things which turns the Wheel either backwards or forwards; and God knoweth that full well, and so likewise doth the Devil, and therefore they both endeavour very much to strengthen the Will of their Servants: God, he is for making of his a willing People to serve him; and the Devil he doth what he can to possess the Will and Affection of those that are his with Love to Sin; and therefore when Christ comes close to the Matter indeed, saith he, you will not come to me. How often would I have gathered you as a Hen doth her Chickens, but you would not. The Devil had possessed their Wills, and so long he was sure enough of them. O therefore cry hard to God to inflame thy Will for Heaven and Christ; thy Will, I say, if that be rightly set for Heaven, thou wilt not be beat off with Discouragements; and this was the Reason that when Jacob wrestled with the Angel, though he lost a Limb, as it were, and the Hollow of his Thigh was put out of Joint as he wrestled with him, yet, saith he, I will not, mark, I will not let thee go except thou bless me. Get thy Will tipt with the heavenly Grace and Resolution against all Discouragements, and then thou goest full Speed for Heaven; but if thou faultest in thy Will, and be not found there, thou wilt run hobbling and halting all the Way thou runnest, and also to be sure thou wilt fall short at last. The Lord give thee a Will and Courage.

Thus have I done with directing thee how to run to the Kingdom; be sure thou keep in Memory what I have said unto thee, lest thou lose thy Way: But because I would have thee think of them, take all in short in this little Bit of Paper.

First, Get into the Way. 2. Then Study on it. 3. Then strip, and lay aside every Thing that would hinder. 4. Beware of By-Paths. 5. Do not gaze and stare too much about thee, but be sure to ponder the Path of thy Feet. 6. Do not stop for any that call after thee, whether it be the World, the Flesh, or the Devil, for all these will hinder thy Journey, if possible. 7. Be not daunted with any Discouragements thou meet'st with as thou goest. 8. Take Heed of Stumbling at the Cross. 9. Cry hard to God for an enlighten'd Heart, and a willing Mind, and God give thee a prosperous Journey.

Yet before I do quite take my Leave of thee, let me give thee a few Motives along with thee. It may be they will be as good as a pair of Spurs to prick on thy lumpish Heart in this rich Journey.

The first Motive.

Consider there is no Way but this, thou must either win or lose: If thou winnest, then Heaven, God, Christ, Glory, Ease, Peace, Life, yea, Life eternal, is thine; thou shalt be made equal to the Angels in Heaven, thou shalt sorrow no more, sigh no more, feel no more Pain; thou shalt be out of the Reach of Sin, Hell, Death, the Devil, the Grave, and whatever else may endeavour thy Hurt: But contrariwise; and if thou lose, then thy Loss is Heaven, Glory, God, Christ, Ease, Peace, and whatever else which tendeth to make Eternity comfortable to the Saints; besides, thou procurest Eternal Death, Sorrow, Pain, Blackness, and Darkness, Fellowship with Devils, together with the everlasting Damnation of thy own Soul.

The Second Motive.

Consider that this Devil, this Hell, Death and Damnation, followeth after thee

as

as hard as they can drive, and have their Commission so to do by the Law, against which thou hast sinned, and therefore for the Lord's Sake make haste.

The Third Motive.

If they seize upon thee before thou get to the City of Refuge, they will put an everlasting Stop to thy Journey: This also cries, Run for it.

The Fourth Motive.

Know also, that now Heaven Gates, the Heart of Christ, with his Arms, are wide open to receive thee. O methinks that this Consideration, that the Devil followeth after to destroy, and that Christ standeth open-armed to receive, should make thee reach out and fly with all Haste and Speed. And therefore,

The Fifth Motive.

Keep thine Eye upon the Prize, be sure that thy Eyes be continually upon the Profit thou art like to get. The Reason why Men are so apt to faint in their Race for Heaven, it lieth chiefly in either of these Two Things.

First, They do not seriously consider the Worth of the Prize; or else if they do, they are afraid it is too good for them: But most lose Heaven for Want of considering the Price and the Worth of it. And therefore that thou may'st not do the like, keep thy Eye much upon the Excellency, the Sweetness, the Beauty, the Comfort, the Peace that is to be had there by those that win the Prize. This was that which made the Apostle run thorough any Thing; good Report, evil Report, Persecution, Affliction, Hunger, Nakedness, Peril by Sea, and Peril by Land, Bonds and Imprisonments: Also it made others endure to be stoned, sawn asunder, to have their Eyes bored out with Augers, their Bodies broiled on Gridirons, their Tongues cut out of their Mouths, boiled in Cauldrons, thrown to the wild Beasts, burned at the Stake, whipt at Posts, and a thousand other fearful Torments, while they looked not at the Things that are seen, (as the Things of this World,) but at the Things that are not seen; for the Things which are seen are Temporal, but the Things which are not seen are eternal. O this Word Eternal, that was it that made them, that when they might have had Deliverance they would not accept of it, for they knew in the World to come they should have a better Resurrection.

2. And do not let the Thoughts of the Rareness of the Place make thee say in thy Heart this is too good for me; for I tell thee, Heaven is prepared for whosoever will accept of it, and they shall be entertain'd with hearty good Welcome: Consider therefore, that as bad as thou have got thither; thither went scrubbed beggarly Lazarus, &c. Nay, it is prepared for the Poor; Hearken my Beloved Brethren, saith James, take Notice of it, hath not God chosen the Poor of this World Rich in Faith, and Heirs of the Kingdom? Therefore take Heart and Run, Man. And,

The Sixth Motive.

Think much of them that are gone before. First, How really they got into the Kingdom. Secondly, How safe they are in the Arms of Jesus; would they be here again for a Thousand Worlds? Or if they were, would they be afraid that God would not make them welcome? Thirdly, What they would judge of thee if they knew thy Heart began to fail thee in thy Journey, or thy Sins began to allure thee, and to persuade thee to stop thy Race; would they not call thee a thousand Fools? And say, O that he did but see what we see, feel what we feel, and taste of the Dainties that we taste of. O if he were one quarter of an Hour to behold, to see, to feel, to taste and enjoy, but the thousand Part of what we enjoy! what would he do? What would he suffer? What would he leave undone? Would he favour Sin? Would he love this World below? Would he be afraid of Friends, or shrink at the most fearful Threatnings that the greatest Tyrants could invent to give him? Nay, those who have had but a Sight of these Things by Faith, when they have been as far off from them as Heaven from Earth, yet they have been able to say with a comfortable and merry Heart as the Bird that sings in the Spring, That this and more shall not stop them from running to Heaven. Sometimes, when my base Heart hath been inclining to this World, and to loiter in my Journey towards Heaven, the very Consideration of the glorious Saints and Angels in Heaven, what they enjoy, and what low Thoughts they have of the Things of this World together, how they would befool me, if they did but know that my Heart was drawing back, hath caused me to rush forward, to disdain these poor, low, empty, beggarly Things, and to say to my Soul, come, Soul, let us not be weary; let us see what this Heaven is; let us even venture all for it, and try if that will quit the Cost. Surely Abraham, David, Paul, and the rest of the Saints of God, were as wise as any are now, and yet they lost all for this glorious Kingdom. O therefore throw away sinking Lusts, follow after Righteousness, love the Lord Jesus, devote thyself unto his Fear, I'll warrant thee he will give thee a goodly Recompence. Reader, What sayest thou to this? Art resolved to follow me? Nay, resolve if thou canst to get before me. So run, that ye may obtain.

The Seventh Motive.

To encourage thee a little farther, set to the Work, and when thou hast run thy self down weary, then the Lord Jesus will take thee up and carry thee; is not this enough to make any poor Soul begin his Race? Thou (perhaps) criest, O but I am feeble, I am

Cor. 4. 18

Rom. 11. 35.

Jam. 2. 5.

I am lame, &c. Well, but Christ hath a Bosom, consider therefore when thou hast run thy self down weary, he will put thee in his Bosom, He shall gather the Lambs with his Arms, and carry them in his Bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young. This is the Way that Fathers take to encourage their Children, saying, Run sweet Babe while thou art weary, and then I will take thee up and carry thee. He will gather his Lambs with his Arms, and carry them in his Bosom; when they are weary they shall ride.

The Eighth Motive.

Or else he will convey new Strength from Heaven into thy Soul, which will be as well. The Youths shall faint and be weary, and the young Men shall utterly fail; but they that wait upon the Lord shall RENEW their Strength; they shall mount up with Wings like Eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not be faint. What shall I say besides what hath already been said? Thou shalt have good and easy Lodging, good and wholesome Diet, the Bosom of Christ to lie in, the Joys of Heaven to feed on: Shall I speak of the Satiety and of the Duration of all these? Verily to describe them to the height is a Work too hard for me to do.

The Ninth Motive.

Again, methinks the very Industry of the Devil, and the Industry of his Servants, &c. should make you that have a Desire to Heaven and Happiness to run apace. Why the Devil, he will lose no Time, spare no Pains, also neither will his Servants; both to seek the Destruction of themselves and others; and shall not we be as Industrious for our own Salvation? Shall the World venture the Damnation of their Souls for a poor corruptible Crown; and shall not we venture the Loss of a few Trifles for an eternal Crown? Shall they venture the Loss of eternal Friends, as God to Love, Christ to Redeem, the Holy Spirit to Comfort, Heaven for Habitation, Saints and Angels for Company, and all this to get and hold Communion with Sin, and this World, and a few Base, Drunken, Swearing, Lying, Covetous Wretches, like themselves? And shall not we labour as hard, run as fast, seek as diligently, nay, a Hundred times more diligently, for the Company of these Glorious, Eternal Friends, tho' with the Loss of such as these, nay, with the Loss of ten thousand times better than these, poor, low, base, contemptible Things? Shall it be said at the last Day, That Wicked Men made more haste to Hell, than you did make to Heaven? That they spent more Hours, Days, and that early and late, for Hell, than you spent for that which is ten thousand thousand of thousand times better? O let it not be so, but run with all might and main.

Thus you see I have here spoken something, tho' but little. Now I shall come to make some Use and Application of what hath been said, and so conclude.

The First Use.

You see here, that he that will go to Heaven he must run for it: Yea, and not only run; but SO run, that is, (as I have said,) to run earnestly, to run continually, to Strip off every thing that would hinder in his Race, with the rest; well then, do you SO run.

1. And now let us examine a little. Art thou got into the Right Way? Art thou in Christ's Righteousness? Do not say yes in thy Heart, when in Truth there is no such Matter. It is a dangerous Thing, you know, for a Man to think he is in the right Way, when he is in the Wrong. It is the next Way for him to lose his Way, and not only so, but if he run for Heaven, as thou say'st thou dost, even to lose that too. O this is the Misery of most Men! To persuade themselves that they run right, when they never had one Foot in the Way! The Lord give thee Understanding here, or else thou art undone for ever. Prithce Soul search when wast thou turned out of thy Sins, and Righteousness, into the Righteousness of Jesus Christ? I say, dost thou see thy self in him? And is he more Precious to thee than the whole World? Is thy Mind always musing on him? And also to be walking with him? Dost thou count his Company more precious than the whole World? Dost thou count all Things but poor, lifeless, empty, vain Things, without Communion with him? Doth his Company sweeten all Things? And his Absence embitter all Things? Soul, I beseech thee be serious, and lay it to Heart, and do not take things of such weighty Concernment as the Salvation or Damnation of thy Soul without good Ground.

2. Art thou unladen of the Things of this World, as Pride, Pleasures, Profits, Lusts, Vanities? What dost thou think to run fast enough, with the World, thy Sins, and Lusts, in thy Heart? I tell thee, Soul, they that have laid all aside, every Weight, every Sin, and are got into the nimblest posture, they find Work enough to run; so to run as to hold out.

To run thorough all that Opposition, all the Jostles, all these Rubs, over all the Stumbling-blocks, over all the Snares, from all the Intanglements, that the Devil, Sin, the World, and their own Hearts, lay before them. I tell thee, if thou art going Heavenward, thou wilt find it no small, or easy Matter. Art thou therefore discharg'd and unladen of these Things? Never talk of going to Heaven if thou art not. It is to be feared thou wilt be found among them, Many that will seek to enter in, and shall not be able. Luke 13. 24.

The Second Use.

If so, then in the next Place, what will become become of them that are grown weary before they are got half Way thither? Why, Man, it is he that holdeth out to the End that must be saved; it is he that overcometh that shall inherit all things; 'tis not every one that begins. Agrippa gave a fair Sep for a sudden; he stept almost into the Bosom of Christ in less than half an Hour. Thou (saith he to Paul) hast almost persuaded me to be a Christian. Ah! But it was but almost; and so he had as good have been never a whit; he stept fair indeed, but yet he stept short; he was hot while he was at it, but he was quickly out of Wind. O this but almost! I tell you, this but almost it lost his Soul. Methinks I have seen sometimes how these poor Wretches that get but almost to Heaven, how fearfully their almost, and their but almost, will torment them in Hell. When they shall cry out in the Bitterness of their Souls, saying, almost a Christian, I was almost got into the Kingdom, almost out of the Hands of the Devil, almost out of my Sins, almost from under the Curse of God. Almost, and that was all, almost, but not altogether. O that I should be almost at Heaven, and should not go quite thorough! Friend, it is a sad Thing to sit down before we are in Heaven, and to grow weary before we come to the Place of Rest; and if it should be thy Case, I am sure thou dost not so run as to obtain. But again,

The Third Use.

In the next Place, What then will become of them that some time since were Running post-haste to Heaven, (inasmuch that they seemed to out-strip many,) but now are Running as fast back again? Do you think those will ever come thither? What to run back again, back again to Sin, to the World, to the Devil, back again to the Lust of the Flesh. Oh! It had been better for them not to have known the Way of Righteousness, than after they have known it, to turn (to turn back again) from the Holy Commandment. Those Men shall not only be damned for Sin, but for professing to all the World that Sin is better than Christ: For the Man that runs back again, he doth as good as say, I have tried Christ, and I have tried Sin, and I do not find so much Profit in Christ as in Sin. I say, this Man declareth this, even by his Running back again. O sad! What a Doom will they have, who were almost at Heaven Gates, and then run back again. If any draweth back, saith Christ, my Soul shall have no Pleasure in him. Again, No Man having put his Hand to the Plough, that is, set forward, (in the Ways of God,) and looking back, turning back again, is fit for the Kingdom of Heaven. And if not fit for the Kingdom of Heaven, then for certain he must needs be fit for the Fire of Hell: And therefore (saith the Apostle) those that bring forth these Apostatizing Fruits, as Priars and Thorns, are rejected, being nigh unto Cursing, whose End is to be burned. O there is never another Christ to save them by Bleeding and Dying for them! And if they shall not escape that neglect (then how shall they escape, that reject and turn their Backs upon) so great Salvation? And if the Righteous, that is, they that run for it, will find Work enough to get to Heaven, then where will the Ungodly, Backsliding Sinner appear? O if Judas the Traitor, or Francis Spira the Backslider, were but now alive in the World to whisper these Men in the Ear a little, and tell them what it hath cost their Souls for Backsliding, surely it would stick by them, and make them afraid of Running back again, so long as they had one Day to live in this World.

The Fourth Use.

So again, Fourthly, how like to these Mens Sufferings will those be, that have all this while sat still, and have not so much as set one Foot forward to the Kingdom of Heaven. Surely he that backslideth, and he that sitteth still in Sin, they are both of one Mind; the one he will not stir, because he loveth his Sins, and the Things of this World; the other he runs back again, because he loveth his Sins, and the Things of this World. Is it not one and the same Thing? They are all one here, and shall not one and the same Hell hold them hereafter? He is an ungodly one that never looked after Christ, and he is an ungodly one that did once look after him, and then ran quite back again; and therefore that Word must certainly drop out of the Mouth of Christ against them both, Depart from me ye Cursed into Everlasting Fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels.

The Fifth Use.

Again, here you may see in the next Place, that is, They that will have Heaven, must run for it; then this calls aloud to those who began but a while since to run, I say, for them, to mend their Pace if they intend to win; you know that they which come hindmost, had need run fastest. Friend, I tell thee, there be those that have run ten Years to thy one, nay, twenty to five, and yet if thou talk with them, sometimes they will say, they doubt they shall come late enough. How then will it be with thee? Look to it therefore that thou delay no time, not an Hours time, but part speedily with all, with every Thing that is an hindrance to thee in thy Journey, and run; yea, and so run, that thou mayest obtain.

The Sixth Use.

Again, Sixthly, You that are old Professors, take you heed that the young Striplings of Jesus, that began to strip but the other Day, do not out-run you, so as to have that Scripture fulfilled on you, The first shall be last, and the last first, which will be a shame to you, and a Credit for them.

But then,

The Seventh Use.

Again, How basely do they behave themselves, how unlike are they to win, that think it enough to keep Company with the hindmost? There are some Men, that profess themselves such as run for Heaven as well as any, yet if there be but any lazy, slothful, cold, half-hearted Professors in the Country, they will be sure to take Example by them; they think if they can but keep pace with them they shall do fair; but these do not consider that the hindmost lose the Prize. You may know it if you will, that it cost the foolish Virgins dear for their coming too late. They that were ready went in with him, and the Door was shut. Afterward, mark, Afterward came the other (the foolish) Virgins saying, Lord, open to us: But he answered and said, Depart, I know you not. Depart lazy Professors, cold Professors, slothful Professors. O! methinks the Word of God is so plain for the Overthrow of your lazy Professors, that it is to be wondred Men do take no more notice of it. How was Lot's Wife served for Running lazily, and for giving but one Look behind her, after the Things she left in Sodom? How was Esau served for staying too long before he came for the Blessing? And how was they served that are mentioned in the Thirteenth of Luke, for staying till the Door was shut? Also the foolish Virgins; a heavy After-groan will they give that have thus stayed too long. It turned Lot's Wife into a Pillar of Salt; it made Esau weep with an exceeding loud and bitter Cry; it made Judas hang himself; yea, and it will make thee Curse the Day in which thou wast Born, if thou miss of the Kingdom, as thou wilt certainly do if this be thy Course. But,

The Eighth Use.

Again, How and if thou by thy lazy Running shouldest not destroy thy self, but also thereby be the Cause of the Damnation of some others; for thou being a Professor, thou must think that others will take notice of thee; and because thou art but a poor, cold, lazy Runner, and one that seeks to drive the World and Pleasure along with thee: Why, thereby others will think of doing so too. Nay, say they, why may not we as well as he? He is a Professor, and yet he seeks for Pleasures, Riches, Profits;

Vol. II.

he loveth vain Company, and he is so and so, and professeth that he is going for Heaven; yea, and he saith also he doth not fear but he shall have Entertainment; let us therefore keep pace with him, we shall fare no worse than he. O how fearful a Thing will it be, if that thou shalt be Instrumental to the Ruin of others by thy halting in the Way of Righteousness! Look to it, thou wilt have Strength little enough to appear before God, to give an Account of the Loss of thy own Soul; thou needest not have to give an Account for others; why, thou didst stop them from entering in. How wilt thou answer that saying, You would not enter in your selves, and them that would you hinder; for that Saying will be eminently fulfilled on them that through their own Idleness do keep themselves out of Heaven, and by giving of others the same Example hinder them also.

The Ninth Use.

Therefore now to speak a Word to both of you, and so I shall conclude.

First, I beseech you in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that none of you do run so lazily in the Way to Heaven as to hinder either your selves or others. I know that even he which runs laziest, if he should see a Man Running for a Temporal Life, if he should so much neglect his own Well-being in this World, as to venture, when he is a Running for his Life, to pick up here and there a Lock of Wooll that hangeth by the Way side, or to step now and then aside out of the Way for to gather up a Straw or Two, or any rotten Stick; I say, if he should do this when he is a Running for his Life, thou wouldest condemn him; and dost thou not condemn thy self that dost the very same, in effect, nay, worse, that loiterest in thy Race, notwithstanding thy Soul, Heaven, Glory, and all is at stake. Have a care, have a care, poor wretched Sinner, have a care.

Secondly, If yet there shall be any, that notwithstanding this Advice, will still be flagging, and loitering in the Way to the Kingdom of Glory, be thou so wise as not to take Example by them. Learn of no Man farther than he followeth Christ. But look unto Jesus, who is not only the Author and Finisher of Faith, but who did, for the Joy that was set before him, endure the Cross, despise the Shame, and is now set down at the Right Hand of God; I say, look to no Man to learn of him no farther than he followeth Christ. Be ye followers of me (saith Paul) even as I am of Christ, 1 Cor. 11. 1. Though he was an Eminent Man, yet his Exhortation was, that none should follow him any farther than he followed Christ.

Provocation.

Now that you may be provoked to run with the foremost, take notice of this.

5 A

When

Mat. 25.

Heb. 12.
1, 2.

When Lot and his Wife was Running from cursed Sodom to the Mountains, to save their Lives, it is said, that his Wife looked back from behind him, and she became a Pillar of Salt; and yet you see that neither her Practice, nor the Judgment of God that fell upon her for the same, would cause Lot to look behind him. I have sometimes wondered at Lot in this Particular; his Wife looked behind her, and died immediately, but let what would become of her, Lot would not so much as look behind him to see her: We do not Read that he did so much as once look where she was, or what was become of her, his Heart was indeed upon his Journey, and well it might; there was the Mountain before him, and the Fire and Brimstone behind him; his Life lay at Stake, and he had lost it if he had but looked behind him. Do thou so run? And in thy Race remember Lot's Wife, and remember her Doom; and remember for what that Doom did overtake her; and remember that God made her an Example for all lazy Runners to the End of the World; and take heed thou fall not after the same Example. But

If this will not provoke thee, consider thus, 1. Thy Soul is thy own Soul, that is either to be saved or lost; thou shalt not lose my Soul by thy Laziness: It is thy own Soul, thy own Ease, thy own Peace, thy own Advantage or Disadvantage. If it were my own that thou art desired to be good unto, methinks Reason should move thee somewhat to pity it: But alas, it is thy own, thy own Soul. What shall it profit a Man if he shall gain the whole World, and lose his own Soul. God's People wish well to the Souls of others, and wilt not thou wish well to thy own? And if this will not provoke thee, then think Again, 2. If thou lose thy Soul, it is thou also that must bear the Blame. It made Cain stark mad to consider that he had not looked to his Brother Abel's Soul. How much more will it perplex thee to think that thou had'st not a Care of thy own? And if this will not provoke thee to bestir thy self, think again,

3. That if thou wilt not run, the People of God are resolved to deal with thee even as Lot dealt with his Wife, that is, leave thee behind them. It may be thou hast a Father, Mother, Brother, &c. going Post-haste to Heaven, wouldest thou be willing to be left behind them? Surely no!

Again, 4. Will it not be a Dishonour to thee to see the very Boys and Girls in the Country to have more Wit than thy self? It may be the Servants of some Men, as the Horse-keeper, Plow-man, Skullion, &c. is more looking after Heaven than their Masters. I am apt to think sometimes, that more Servants than Masters, that more Tenants than Landlords, will inherit the Kingdom of Heaven. But is not this a Shame for them that are such? I am perswaded you scorn that your Servants should say that they are wiser than you in the Things of this World; and yet I am bold to say, that many of them are wiser than you in the Things of the World to come, which are of greater Concernment.

Expostulation.

Well then, Sinner, what say'st thou? Where is thy Heart? Wilt thou run? Art thou resolved to strip? Or art thou not? Think quickly, Man, it is no dallying in this Matter. Confer not with Flesh and Blood; look up to Heaven, and see how thou likest it; also to Hell, (of which thou may'st understand something in my Book, called, A few Sighs from Hell, or the Groans of a damned Soul, which I wish thee to read seriously over,) and accordingly devote thy self. If thou dost not know the Way, inquire at the Word of God. If thou wantest Company, cry for God's Spirit. If thou wantest Incouragement, entertain the Promises. But be sure thou begin betimes; get into the Way; run apace, and hold out to the End, and the Lord give thee a Prosperous Journey.

Solomon's

Solomon's Temple Spiritualiz'd :

O R,

GOSPEL-LIGHT fetcht out of the Temple at JERUSALEM,

To let us more easily into

The Glory of New-Testament-Truths.

Thou Son of Man, shew the House to the House of Israel----- shew them the Form of the House, and the Fashion thereof, and the Goings out thereof, and the Comings in thereof, and all the Forms thereof, and all the Ordinances thereof, and all the Forms thereof, and all the Laws thereof, Ezek. 43. 10, 11.

To the Christian Reader.

COURTEOUS CHRISTIAN READER,

I Have, as thou by this little Book mayest see, adventured, at this Time, to do my Endeavour to shew thee something of the Gospel-Glory of Solomon's Temple. That is, of what it, with its Utensils, was a Type of; and, as such, how instructing it was to our Fathers, and also is to us their Children. The which, that I might do the more distinctly, I have handled Particulars one by one; to the Number of threescore and ten; namely, all that of them I could call to mind, because, as I believe, there was not one of them but had its Signification, and so something profitable for us to know.

For, though we are not now to worship God in those Methods, or by such Ordinances as once the Old Church did: Yet to know their Methods, and to understand the Nature and Signification of their Ordinances, when compared with the Gospel, may, even now, when themselves, as to what they once enjoyned on others, are dead, may minister Light to us. And hence the New-Testament Ministers, as the Apostles, made much Use of Old-Testament-Language, and Ceremonial Institutions, as to their Signification, to help the Faith of the Godly in their preaching of the Gospel of Christ.

I may say, that God did in a Manner tie up the Church of the Jews to Types, Figures and Similitudes, I mean to be butted and bounded by them in all external Parts of Worship. Yea, not only the Levitical Law and Temple, but as it seems to me, the whole Land of Canaan, the Place of their Lot to dwell in, was to them a Ceremonial, or a Figure. Their Land was a Type of * Heaven, their Passage over Jordan into it, a Similitude of our go-^{* Heb. 3.} ing to Heaven by Death. The Fruit of their Land was said to be uncircumcised, as being^{5, 6, 7, 8, 9,} at their first Entrance thither unclean, in which their Land was also a Figure of another^{10.} Thing, even as Heaven was a Type of Grace and Glory. ^{Levit. 19.}

Again, the very Land it self was said to keep Sabbath, and so to rest a holy Rest, ^{chap. 26.} even then when she lay desolate, and not possessed of those to whom she was given for them^{34. 35.} to dwell in. ^{Exod. 12,}

Yea, many of the Features of the then Church of God, were set forth, as in Figures and ^{15. Levit.} Shadows, so by Places, and Things in that Land. ^{6. 17.}

1. In general, she is said to be beautiful as Tirzah, (Song 6. 4.) and to be comely as ^{chap. 23.} Jerusalem. ^{17.}

2. In particular, Her Neck is compared to the Tower of David, builded for an Armory, (Song 4. 4.) Her Eyes to the Fishpools of Heshbon, by the Gate of Bethrabbim, (chap. 7. 4.) Her Nose is compared to the Tower of Lebanon, which looketh towards Damascus, (chap. 4. 1.) Yea, the Hair of her Head is compared to a Flock of Goats, which come ^{up}

up from Mount Gilead: And the Smell of her Garments to the Smell of Lebanon, (ver. 11.)

Nor was this Land altogether void of Shadows, even of her Lord and Saviour. Hence, he says of himself, I am the Rose of Sharon, and the Lilly of the Valleys; (Song. 2. 1.) Also she, his beloved, saith of him, His Countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the Cedars, (chap. 5. 15.) What shall I say? The two Cities, Sion, and Jerusalem, were such as sometimes set forth the two Churches (Gal. 4.) the true, and the false, and their Seed Isaac and Ishmael.

I might also here shew you, that even the Gifts and Graces of the true Church were set forth by the Spices, Nuts, Grapes, and Pomgranates that the Land of Canaan brought forth. Yea, that Hell itself was set forth by the Valley of the Sons of Hinnom, and Tophet, Places in this Country. Indeed the whole, in a Manner, was a Typical and a Figurative Thing.

But I have, in the ensuing Discourse, confined myself to the Temple, that immediate Place of God's Worship; of whose Utensils in particular, as I have said, I have spoken, (though to each with what Brevity I could) For that none of them are without a spiritual, and so a profitable Signification to us.

And here we may behold much of the Richness of the Wisdom and Grace of God; namely, That he, even in the very Place of Worship of Old, should ordain visible Forms, and Representations, for the Worshipers to learn to worship him by. Yea, the Temple itself was, as to this, to them a good Instruction.

But in my thus saying, I give no Encouragement to any now, to fetch out of their own Fancies, Figures of Similitudes to worship God by. What God provided to be an Help to the Weakness of his People of old, was one Thing, and what they invented without his Commandment was another. For though they had his Blessing when they worshipped him with such Types, Shadows, and Figures, which he had enjoined them for that Purpose, yet * he sorely punished and plagu'd them when they would add to these, Inventions of their own. Yea, he in the very Act of instituting their Way of worshipping him, forbade their giving, in any Thing, Way to their own Humours or Fancies, and bound them strictly to the Orders of Heaven.

Acts 7.

38, 39, 40,

41, 42, 43.

Look, said God to Moses, their first great Legislator, That thou make all Things, according to the Pattern shewed to thee in the Mount, (Exod. 25. 40. Heb. 8. 5.)

Nor doth our Apostle but take the same Measures, when he saith, If any Man thinketh himself a Prophet, or Spiritual: Let him acknowledge that the Things that I write unto you, are the Commandments of the Lord, 1 Cor. 14. 37.

When Solomon also was to build this Temple for the Worship of God, though he was wiser than all Men, yet God neither trusted to his Wisdom nor Memory, nor to any immediate Dictates from Heaven to him, as to how he would have him build it. No, he was to receive the whole Platform thereof, in Writing, by the Inspiration of God. Nor would God give this Platform of the Temple, and of its Utensils, immediately to this Wise Man, lest perhaps by others, his Wisdom should be idolized, or that some should object, that the whole Fashion thereof proceeded of his Fancy, only he made Pretensions of Divine Revelation, as a Cover for his Doings.

Therefore, I say, not to him, but to his Father David, was the whole Pattern of it given from Heaven, and so by David to Solomon his Son, in Writing, Then David, says the Text, gave to Solomon, his Son, the Pattern of the Porch, and of the Houses thereof, and of the Treasuries thereof, and of the upper Chambers thereof, and of the Inner Parlours thereof, and of the Place of the Mercy-Seat, (1 Chron. 28. 11.) And the Pattern of all that he had by the Spirit, of the Courts of the House of the Lord, and of all the Chambers round about, and of the Treasuries of the House of God, and of the Treasuries of the dedicated Things, (ver. 12.) Also for the Courses of the Priests and Levites, and for all the Work of the Service of the House of the Lord, and for all the Vessels of Service in the House of the Lord, (ver. 13.)

Yea, moreover, he had from Heaven, or by Divine Revelation, what the Candlesticks must be made of, and also how much was to go to each; the same Order and Commandment he also gave for the making of the Tables, Flesh-hooks, Cups, Basons, Altar of Incense; with the Pattern for the Chariot of the Cherubims, &c. ver. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19. All this, said David, the Lord made me understand by writing by his Hand upon me, even all the Work of this Pattern, (ver. 20.) So I say, He gave David the Pattern of the Temple, so David gave Solomon the Pattern of the Temple, and according to that Pattern did Solomon build the Temple and no otherwise.

Heb. 8.

5. chap. 9.

8, 9, 23.

chap. 10.

True, all these were but Figures, Patterns, and Shadows of Things in the Heavens, and not the very Image of the Things: But, as was said before, if God was so circumspect, and exact in these, as not to leave any Thing to the Dictates of the godly and wisest of Men; What? Can we suppose he will now admit of the Wit and Contrivance of Men in those Things that are, in Comparison to them, the Heavenly Things themselves.

It is also to be concluded, That since those Shadows of Things in the Heavens, are already committed by God to sacred Story; and since that sacred Story is said to be able to make the Man of God perfect in all Things, (2 Tim. 3. 15, 16, 17.) It is Duty to us to leave off to lean to common Understandings, and to enquire and search out by that very Holy Writ, and nought else, by what, and how we should worship God. David was for enquiring in his Temple, Psal. 27. 4.

And although the old Church Way of Worship, is laid aside as to us in New-Testament-Times: Yet since those very Ordinances were Figures of Things and Methods of Worship now, we may, yea, we ought to search out the spiritual Meaning of them, because they serve to confirm and illustrate Matters to our Understandings. Yea, they shew us the more exactly how the New and Old Testament, as to the Spiritualness of the Worship, was as one and the same; only the Old was clouded with Shadows, but ours is with more open Face.

Features to the Life, as we say, set out by a Picture, does excellently shew the Skill of the Artist. The Old Testament had the Shadow, nor have we but the very Image; both then are but Emblems of what is yet behind. We may find our Gospel clouded in their Ceremonies, and our spiritual Worship set out somewhat by their carnal Ordinances.

Now because, as I said, there lies, as wrapt up in a Mantle, much of the Glory of our Gospel-Matters in this Temple which Solomon builded; therefore, I have made, as well as I could, by comparing spiritual Things with Spiritual, this Book upon this Subject.

I dare not presume to say, That I know I have hit right in every Thing, but this I can say, I have endeavoured so to do. True, I have not for these Things fished in other Mens Waters, my Bible and Concordance are my only Library in my Writings. Wherefore, Courteous Reader, if thou findest any Thing, either in Word or Matter, that thou shalt judge doth vary from God's Truth, let it be counted no Man's else but mine: Pray God also to pardon my Fault: do thou also lovingly pass it by, and receive what thou findest will do thee Good.

THE Temple was built at Jerusalem, on Mount Moriah, in the Threshing-Floor of Arnon the Jebusite. Where about Abraham offered up Isaac, there where David met the Angel of the Lord when he came with his drawn Sword in his Hand, to cut off the People at Jerusalem, for the Sin which David committed in his disorderly numbering the People, Gen. 22. 3, 4, 5. 1 Chron. 21. 15. Chap. 22. 1. 2 Chron. 3. 1.

There Abraham received his Isaac from the Dead. There the Lord was intreated by David to take away the Plague, and to return to Israel again in Mercy: From whence also David gathered, that there God's Temple must be built. This (said he) is the House of the Lord God, and this is the Altar of the Burnt-Offering for Israel,

1 Chron. 21. 28. chap. 22. 1. chap. 3. 1.

This Mount Moriah therefore, was a Type of the Son of God, the Mountain of the Lord's House, the Rock against which the Gates of Hell cannot prevail.

II. Who built the Temple.

THE Temple was built by Solomon, a Man peaceable and quiet; and that in Name, by Nature, and in Governing. For so God had before told David, namely, that such a one the Builder of the Temple should be.

Behold, saith he, a Son shall be born unto thee, who shall be a Man of Rest; and I will give him Rest; from all his Enemies round about; for his Name shall be called Solomon, and I will give Peace and Quietness etneſſ to Israel in his days. He ſhall build an Houſe for my Name, and he ſhall be my Son, I will be his Father. 1 Chron. 22. 9, 10. Pſal. 72. 1, 2, 3, 4.

As therefore, Mount Moriah was a Type of Chriſt, as the Foundation: So Solomon was a Type of him, as the Builder of his Church. The Mount was ſignal, for that thereon the Lord God, before Abraham and David, did diſplay his Mercy. And as Solomon built this Temple, ſo Chriſt doth build his Houſe; Yea, He ſhall build the everlaſting Temple, and he ſhall bear the Glory, Heb. 3. 3, 4. Zach. 6. 12, 13.

And in that Solomon was called Peaceable, it was to ſhew with what peaceable Doctrine and Ways, Chriſt's Houſe, and Church ſhould be built, Iſa. 9. 6. Mich. 7. 2, 3, 4.

III. How the Temple was built.

THE Temple was built, not meerly by the Dictates of Solomon, though he was wiſer than Ethan, and Heman, and Calcol, and Darda, and all Men, 1 Kings 4. 31. But it was built by Rules, preſcribed by, or in a written Word; and as ſo, delivered to him by his Father David.

For when David gave to Solomon his Son, a Charge to build the Temple of God, with that Charge, he gave him alſo the Pattern of all in Writing; even a Pattern of the Porch, Houſe, Chambers, Treasuries, Parlours, &c. And of the Place for the Mercy-Seat, which Pattern David had of God: nor would God truſt his Memory with it. The Lord made me, ſaid he, underſtand in Writing, by his Hand upon me, even all the Work of this Pattern. Thus therefore David gave to Solomon his Son, the Pattern of all; and thus Solomon his Son built the Houſe of God. See 1 Chron. 28. from Verſe 9, to Verſe 20.

And answerable to this, Chriſt Jeſus the Builder of his own Houſe, whoſe Houſe are We, doth build his Holy Habitation for him to dwell in; even according to the Commandment of God the Father. For faith he, I have not ſpoken of myſelf, but the Father which ſent me, He gave me a Commandment, what I ſhould ſpeak. And hence 'tis ſaid, God gave him the Revelation, and again that he took the Book out of the hand of him that ſat on the throne, and ſo acted, as to the building up of his Church, John 12. 40, 41. Rev. 1. 1. chap. 5. 5.

IV. Of what the Temple was built.

THE Materials with which the Temple was built, was ſuch as were in their own Nature common to that which was left behind. Things that naturally were not fit without Art to be laid on ſo holy a Houſe. And this ſhews that thoſe of whom Chriſt Jeſus deſigns to build his Church, are by Nature no better than others: But as the Trees and Stones of which the Temple was built, was firſt hewed and ſquared before they were fit to be laid in that Houſe; ſo Sinners, of which the Church is to be built, muſt firſt be fitted, by the Word and Doctrine, and then fitly laid in their Place in the Church.

For though, as to Nature, there is no Difference betwixt thoſe made uſe of to build God's Houſe with, yet by Grace they differ from others; even as thoſe Trees and Stones that are hewed and ſquared for Building, by Art are made to differ from thoſe which abide in the Wood or Pit.

The Lord Jeſus therefore, while he ſeeketh Materials wherewith to build his houſe, he findeth them, The Clay of the ſame Lump that he rejecteth and leaves behind. Are we better than they? No, in no wiſe, Rom. 3. Chap. 9. Nay, I think, if any be beſt, 'tis they which are left behind: He came not to call the Righteous, but Sinners to Repentance, Mark 2. 17. And indeed in this he doth ſhew both the Greatneſs of his Grace and Workmanſhip. His Grace in taking ſuch; and his Workmanſhip, in that he makes them meet for his holy Habitation.

This the Current of Scripture maketh manifeſt: wherefore it is needleſs now to cite Particulars: Only we muſt remember, that none are laid in this Building, as they come out of the Wood or Pit; but as they firſt paſs under the Hand and Rule of this great Builder of the Temple of God.

V. Who was to fell thoſe Trees, and to dig thoſe Stones, with which Solomon built the Temple.

AS the Trees were to be felled, and Stones to be digged, ſo there was for that matter ſelect Workmen appointed.

Theſe were not of the Sons of Jacob, nor of the Houſe of Israel; they were the Servants of Hiram King of Tyre, and the Gibeonites, namely, their Children that made a League with Joſhua, in the Day that God gave the Land of Canaan to his People, Joſh. 9. 22 to 29. 1 Kings 5. 2 Chron. 27, 28.

And theſe were Types of our Gopel Miniſters, who are the Men appointed by Jeſus Chriſt to make Sinners, by their preaching, meet for the Houſe of God. Wherefore as he was famous of old who was ſtrong to lift up his Axe upon the thick Boughs, to ſquare Wood for the building of the Temple: So a Miniſter of the Gopel now is alſo famous, if much uſed by Chriſt for the converting of Sinners to himſelf, that he may build him a Temple with them, Pſal. 7. 4, 5. 6. Rom. 16. 7.

But why, may ſome ſay, do you make ſo homely a Compariſon? I answer, becauſe I believe it is true; for 'tis Grace, not Gifts, that that makes us Sons, and the beloved of God. Gifts make a Minister; and as a Minister, one is but a Servant to hew wood, and draw water for the house of my God. Yea Paul, though a Son, yet counted himself not a Son, but a Servant, purely as he was a Minister: A Servant of God, a Servant of Christ, a Servant of the Church, and your Servant for Jesus sake, Tit. 1. 1. Rom. 1. 1. 2 Cor. 4. 5.

A Man then is a Son, as he is begotten and born of God to himself, and a Servant as he is gifted for Work in the House of his Father: And though it is Truth, the Servant may be a Son, yet he is not a Son, because he is a Servant. Nor doth it follow, that because all Sons may be Servants, therefore all Servants are Sons; no, all the Servants of God are not Sons; and therefore when Time shall come, he that is only a Servant here, shall certainly be put out of the House, even out of that House himself did help to build. The servant abideth not in the house for ever. The Servant, that is, he that is only so, Ezek. 46. 16, 17. John 8. 35.

So then, as a Son, thou art an Israelite; as a Servant, a Gibeonite. The Consideration of this made Paul start; he knew that Gifts made him not a Son, 1 Cor. 12. 28, 29, 30, 31. Chap. 13. 1, 2.

The Sum then is, a Man may be a Servant and a Son; a Servant as he is employed by Christ in his house for the good of others: And a Son, as he is a Partaker of the Grace of Adoption: But all Servants are not Sons, and let this be for a Caution, and a Call to Ministers, to do all Acts of Service for God, and in his House, with Reverence and godly Fear. And with all humility let us desire to be Partakers ourselves of that Grace we preach to others, 1 Cor. 9. 25.

This is a great Saying, and written perhaps to keep Ministers humble; and Strangers shall stand and feed your Flocks, and the Sons of the Alien shall be your Plowmen, and your Vinedressers, Isaiah 61. 5.

To be a Plowman here, is to be a Preacher; and to be a Vinedresser here is to be a Preacher, Luke 9. 59, 60, 61, 62. and 1 Cor. 9. 27. Matt. 2. 1, 2, 3, 4, 8. Chap. 21. 28. 1 Cor. 9. 7.

And if he does this Work willingly, he has a Reward: if not, a Dispensation of the Gospel was committed to him, and that's all, 1 Cor. 9. 17.

VI. In what Condition the Timber and Stones were, when brought to be laid in the building of the Temple.

THE Timber and Stones with which the Temple was built, was squared and hewed at the Wood or Pit; and so there made every way fit for that Work, even before they were brought to the place where the House should be set up. So that there neither Hammer, nor Axe, nor any Tool of Iron was heard in the House while it was in building, 1 Kings 6. 7.

And this shews, as was said before, that the Materials of which the House was built, were (before the Hand of the Work-Man touched them) as unfit to be lay'd in the building, as was those that were left behind; consequently that themselves none otherwise but by the Art of others, were made fit to be laid in this Building.

To this our New-Testament Temple answers. For those of the Sons of Adam, who are counted worthy to be laid in this Building, are not by Nature, but by Grace made meet for it; not by their own Wisdom, but by the Word of God. Hence, He saith, I have hewed them by the Prophets. And again, Ministers are called God's Builders and Labourers, even as to this Work, Hos. 6. 5. 1 Cor. 3. 10. and 2 Cor. 6. 1. Col. 1. 28.

No Man will lay Trees, as they come from the Wood, for Beams and Rafter in his House; nor Stones, as digged, in the Walls. No, the Trees must be hewed and squared, and the Stones sawn and made fit, and so be lay'd in the House.

Yea, they must be so Sawn, and so Squared, that in coupling they may be joined exactly; else the Building will not be good, nor the Work-Man have credit of his doings.

Hence our Gospel-Church, of which the Temple was a Type, is said to be fitly-formed, and that there is a fit supply of every joynt for the securing of the whole, 1 Pet. 3. 5. Ephes. 4. 20, 21. Chap. 4. 16. Col. 2. 19.

As they therefore build like Children, that build with Wood, as it comes from the Wood or Forest; and with Stones as they come from the Pit, even so do they, who pretend to build God an House of Unconverted Sinners, unhewed, unsquared, unpolished. Wherefore God's Work-Men, according to God's Advice, prepare their Work without, and make it fit for themselves in the Field, and afterwards build the House, Prov. 24. 27.

Let Ministers therefore look to this, and take heed, lest instead of making their Notions stoop to the Word, they make the Scriptures stoop to their Notions.

VII. Of the Foundation of the Temple.

THE Foundation of the Temple is that upon which it stood, and it was twofold; First the hill Moriab, and then those great Stones upon which it was Erected. This Hill Moriab, as was said afore, did more properly typify Christ. Hence Moriab is called The Mountain of the House, it being the Rock on which it was built. Those great Stones called Foundation-Stones, were Types of the Prophets and Apostles, Matt.

Matt. 16. 18. Ephes. 2. 20, 21. Heb. 11. 10.

Wherefore, These Stones were Stones of the biggest Size, Stones of Eight Cubits; and Stones of Ten Cubits, 1 Kings 7. 10.

Now as the Temple had this double Foundation: So we must consider it respectively and distinctly. For Christ is the Foundation one way, the Prophets and Apostles a Foundation another; Christ is the Foundation personally and meritoriously, but the Prophets and Apostles by Doctrine ministerially. The Church then, which is God's New Testament Temple, is said to be built on Christ the Foundation: So none other is the Foundation but He, 1 Cor. 3. 11, 12. But as it is said to be built upon the Apostles: So it is said to have Twelve Foundations, and must have none but they, Rev. 21. 14.

What is it then? Why we must be building upon Christ, as he is our Priest, Sacrifice, Prophet, King and Advocate; and upon the other, as they are infallible Instructors and Preachers of him; not that any may be an Apostle that so shall esteem of himself, nor that any other Doctrine be administered, but what is the Doctrine of the Twelve; for they are set forth as the chief and last. These are also they, as Moses, which are to look over all the Building, and to see that all in this House be done according to the Pattern shewed to them in the Mount, Exod. 39. 43. John 20. 21, 22, 23. 1 Cor. 3. 9. Chap. 4. 9.

Let us then keep these Distinctions clear, and not put an Apostle in the room of Christ, nor Christ in the place of one of those Apostles. Let none but Christ be the High-Priest and Sacrifice for your Souls to God; and none but that Doctrine which is Apostolical be to you as the Mouth of Christ for Instruction to prepare you, and to prepare Materials for this Temple of God, and to build them upon this Foundation.

VIII. Of the Richness of the Stones which were laid for the Foundations of the Temple.

THESE Foundation Stones, as they were great, so they were costly Stones. Though, as I said, of themselves, of no more worth then they of their Nature that were left behind. Their Costliness therefore lay in those Additions which they received from the King's Charge.

First, In that Labour which was bestowed upon them in Sawing, Squaring and Carving. For the Servants, as they were cunning at this Work, so they bestowed much of their Art and Labour upon them, by which they put them into excellent Form, and added to their Bigness, Glory and Beauty, fit for Stones upon which so goodly a Fabrick was to be built.

Secondly, These Stones, as they were thus wrought within and without, so, as it seems to me, they were inlaid with other Stones, more precious than themselves. Inlaid, I say, with Stones of divers Colours. According as it is written, I will lay thy Foundations with Sapphires, Isa. 54. 11. Not that the Foundations were Sapphires, but they were laid, inlaid with them: Or as he saith in another place, They were adorned with goodly Stones and Gifts, Luke 21. 5.

This is still more amplified, where it is written of the New-Jerusalem (which is still the Testament-Church on Earth, and so the same in Substance with what is now) The Foundations of the Wall of the City, saith he, were garnished with all manner of precious Stones, Revel. 21. 19. True, these there are called, The Foundations of the Wall of the City, but it has respect to the matter in Hand, for that which is before called a Temple, for its comparative Smallness, is here called a City, for, or because of its great Increase: And both the Foundations of the Wall of the City as well as of the Temple, are the twelve Apostles of the Lamb, Rev. 21. 14.

For these Carvings and Inlayings, with all other Beautifications, were Types of the extraordinary Gifts and Graces of the Apostles. Hence the Apostle calls such Gifts, Signs of Apostleship, Rom. 15. 19. 2 Cor. 12. 21. Heb. 2. 4. For as the Foundation Stones of the Temple were thus garnished, so were the Apostles beautified with a Call, Gifts and Graces peculiar to themselves. Hence he says, First Apostles, for that they were First and Chief in the Church of Christ, 1 Cor. 12. 28.

Nor were these Stones only laid for a Foundation for the Temple, for the great Court, the inner Court, as also the Porch of the Temple, had round about them three rows of these Stones for their Foundation, 1 Kings 7. 12.

Signifying; as seems to me, that the more outward and external Part, as well as that more Internal Worship to be performed to God, should be grounded upon Apostolical Doctrine and Appointments, 1 Cor. 3. 10, 11, 12. 2 Thes. 2. 15. Chap. 3. 6. Heb. 6. 1, to 5.

IX. Which way the Face or Front of the Temple stood.

THE Temple was Built with its Face or Front towards the East, and that perhaps, because the Glory of the God of Israel was to come from the Way of the East unto it, Ezek. 43. 1, to 5. Chap. 47. 1. Wherefore in that its Front stood towards the East, it may be to shew that the true Gospel Church would have its Eye to, and Expectation from the Lord. We look said Paul, but whither? We have our Conversation, versation, said he, in Heaven from whence our Expectation is, 2 Cor. 4. 18. Phil. 3. 20, 21. Psal. 62. 5.

2. It was set also with its Face towards the East, to keep the People of God from committing of Idolatry, to wit, from worshipping the Host of Heaven, and the Sun whose rising is from the East. For since the Face of the Temple stood toward the East, and since the Worshippers were to worship at, or with their Faces towards the Temple, it follows, that both in their going to, and worshipping God towards that Place, their Faces must be from, and their Backs towards the Sun. The thus Building of the Temple, therefore was a Snare to Idolaters, and a Proof of the Zeal of those that were the true Worshippers: As also to this Day the true Gospel instituted Worship of Jesus Christ is: Hence he is said to Idolaters to be a Snare and Trap, but to the Godly a Glory, Isa. 8. 14. Chap. 60. 19.

3. Do but see how God catcht the Idolatrous Jews by this means in their Naughtiness; And he brought me, said the Prophet, into the inner Court of the Lord's House, and beheld at the Door of the Temple of the Lord, even between the Porch and the Altar, were about five and twenty Men with their Backs towards the Temple of the Lord, and their Faces towards the East, Ezek. 8. 16.

It was therefore, as I said, set with its Face towards the East, to prevent false Worships and detect Idolaters.

4. From the East also came the most Blasting Winds, Winds that are destructive to Man and Beasts; to Fruit and Trees; and Ships at Sea, Exod. 10. 13. Job 27. 21. Ezek. 17. 10. Chap. 19. 12. Psal. 48. 7. Ezek. 27. 26.

I say, The east Wind, or that which comes from thence, is the most hurtful; yet you see, the Temple hath set her Face against it, to shew that the true Church cannot be blasted or made turn back by any Affliction. 'Tis not East Winds, nor none of their blastings, that can make the Temple turn about. Hence he saith, That Jacob's Face shall not wax pale. And again, I have made thy Face strong against their Faces, and that the Gates of Hell shall not prevail against it. Isa. 29. 22. Ezek. 3. 8. Mat. 16. 18.

5. It might be also built with its Face towards the East, to shew that the true Church looketh, as afore I hinted, for her Lord and King from Heaven, knowing that at his coming he will bring healing in his Wings: For from the East he will appear when he comes the second Time without Sin unto Salvation, of which the Sun gives us a Memento in his rising there every Morning, For as the Lightning cometh out of the East, and shineth unto the West; So shall also the coming of the Son of Man be,

N^o XVIII. Vol. II.

Mal. 4. 2. Heb. 9. 28. Col. 3. 3. 2 Pet. 11. 12, 13, 14. Mat. 24. 27.

6. Christ, as the North-Pole, draws those touched with the Load-stone of his Word, with the Face of their Souls towards him, to look for, and hasten to his coming. And this also is signified by the Temple standing with its Face towards the East.

X. Of the Courts of the Temple.

I Perceive that there were two Courts belonging to the Temple. The first was called the outward Court, Ezek. 40. 17. Chap. 46. 21.

1. This was that into which the People of Necessity first entered, when they went to worship in the Temple, consequently that was it, in and by which the People did first shew their Desires to be the Worshippers of God. And this answers to those Badges and Signs of Love to Religion, that People have in face, or outward appearance, Mat. 25. 27. 2 Cor. 10. 7.

2. In this, though here may sometimes be truth, yet oftener Lies and Disimulation; wherefore commonly an outward appearance is set in opposition to Faith and Truth, as the outward is in opposition to the inner Court, and outward to the inner Man; and that is, when it is by it self, for then it profits nothing, Rom. 2. 28. 1 Cor. 13. 1, 2, 3. 2 Cor. 5. 12.

3. Hence, though the outward Court was something to the Jews, because by outward Bodies they were distinguished from the Gentiles; yet to us 'tis little, For now he is not a Jew who is one only outwardly. Therefore all the time of the Beasts Reign, this Court is given to be trodden under foot; for, as I said, outward shew will avail nothing, when the Beast comes to turn and toss up Professors with his Horns, Rev. 11. 12.

4. But as there was an outward, so there was an inner Court, a Court that stood nearer to the Temple, and so to the true practical Part of Worship, than that outward Court did, Ezek. 10. 13. Chap. 46. 1. Kings 6. 36.

5. This inner Court is that which is called the Court of the Priests, because it was it, in which they boiled the Trespass-Offerings, and in which they prepared the Sin-Offering for the People, 2 Cor. 4. 9. Ezek. 46. 20.

6. This Court therefore was the Place of Practice and of Preparation to appear before God, which is the first true Token of a sincere and honest Mind. Wherefore here, and not in the outward Court, stood the great Brazen-Altar, which was a Type of Christ, by whom alone true Worshippers make their Approach with Acceptance unto God. Also here stood the great Brazen-Scaffold, on which the King kneeled when

he

he prayed for the People, a Type of Christ's Prayers for his when he was in the World, 1 Kings 2. Chron. 6. 13. John 17.

7. Wherefore this Court was a Type of practical Worship, and so of our Praying, Hearing, and Eating, before God. There belonged to this Court several Gates, an East, a South, and a North Gate; and when the People of the Land went into this Court to worship, they were not to go out at the Gate by which they came in, but out of the Gate over against it, to shew the true Christians should persevere right on, and not turn back, whatever they meet with in the Way. He that entereth in by the Way of the North Gate to worship, shall go out by the Way of the South Gate: And he that entereth in by the Way of the North Gate, he shall not return by the Way of the Gate whereby he came in, but shall go forth over against it, Ezek. 46. 9.

8. These Courts were Places of great Delight to the Jews, as both feigned and sincere Profession is to those that practise therein. Wherefore when the Jews did enter into these, they did use to do it with Praise and Pipe; as do both Hypocrites and sincere ones. So then when a Man shall tread in both these Courts, and shall turn what he seems to be, into what he should be in Reality; then, and not till then, he treads them as he should. For then he makes the outward Court, and his treading there, but a Passage to that which is more inward and sincere. But he that stays in the outward one, is but such an one as pleases not God, for that he wants the Practice of what he professes with his Mouth.

XI. Of the great Brazen Altar that stood in the inner Court of the Temple.

IN the Inner Court stood the great brazen Altar which Solomon made. This is evident, for that when he kneeled upon the Scaffold there to pray, he kneeled before this Altar, see Exod. 40. 6, 29. 2 Chron. 6. 13. 2 Kings 16. 14. Joel 2. 17.

2. This Altar seems to be placed about the middle of this Court, over against the Porch of the House; and between it and the Temple was the Place where Zachariah was slain. This Altar was called the Altar of burnt Offering, and therefore it was a Type of Christ in his Dignity. For Christ's Body was our true burnt Offering, of which the Bodies of the Sacrificed Beasts were a Type: now that Altar upon which his Body was offered, was his Divinity or Godhead. For that and that only, could bear up that Offering in the whole of its sufferings, and that therefore, and that only, was to receive the Fat, the Glory. Hence it is said, He throw the Eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, Heb. 9. 14.

3. For Christ is Priest, and Sacrifice, and Altar, and All. And as a Priest he Offered, as a Sacrifice he Suffered, and as God he supported his Humanity, in that suffering of all the Pains it underwent, Gal. 1. 4. Chap. 2. 20. 1 Pet. 3. 18. Heb. 9. 14.

4. It was then Christ's God-head, not the Tree, that was the Altar of burnt Offering, or that by which Christ Offered himself an Offering and a Sacrifice to God for a sweet smelling Savour.

5. That it was not the Tree, is evident, for that could not Sanctify the Gift, to wit, his Body; but Christ affirmeth, That the Altar sanctifieth the Gift: And by so saying, he affirmeth, That the Altar on which he Offered his Offering, was greater than the Offering it self, Matt. 23. 19.

Now the Body of Christ was the Gift, for so he saith, I give my Flesh for the Life of the World, John 6.

But now, what Thing is that which is greater than his Body, save the Altar, his Divinity, on which it was offered? The Tree then was not the Altar which sanctified this Gift, to make it of Virtue enough to make Reconciliation for Iniquity, John 6. 15. Chap. 17. 19. Heb. 9. 14. Col. 1. 19, 20, 21.

Now since this Altar of Burnt-offering was thus placed in the inner Court, it teaches us several Things;

First, That those that come only into the outward Court, or that rest in a bare Appearance of Christianity, do not, by so doing, come to Jesus Christ; for this Altar stands not there. Hence John takes Notice only of the Temple and this Altar, and them that worship therein, and leaves out the outward Court, and so them that come no further, Rev. 11. 1, 2.

Secondly, This teaches us also, that we are to enter into that Temple of God, by Blood. The Altar, this Altar of Burnt-offering, stood as Men went into the Temple, they must go by it: Yea, there they must leave their Offering, and so go in and worship, even as a Token that they came thither, by Sacrifice and by Blood.

Thirdly, Upon this Altar Solomon at the Dedication of the Temple, offered Thousands, both of Oxen and of Sheep; to signify surely the abundant Worth, and Richness that would be in the Blood of Christ to save when it should be shed for us. For his Blood is spoken of with an how much more. For if the Blood of Bulls and Goats, and the Ashes of an Heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the Purifying of the Flesh, [how much more] shall the Blood of Christ, who throw the eternal Spirit offered himself without Spot to God, Purge your Conscience from dead Works, to serve the living God, Heb. 9. 14. 2 Chron. 7. 5, 6, 7, 8. Heb. 10. 1, 12.

Let us then, not dare to stop, or stay in the the outward Court, for there is not this Altar. Nor let us dare when we come into this Court, to be careless whether we look to this Altar or no. For 'tis by Blood we must enter; for without shedding of Blood is no Remission. Let us always then when we come hither, wash our Hands in Innocency, and so compass this Holy Altar: For that by Christ who is the Altar indeed, we are reconciled to God. This is looking to Jesus; this is coming to God by him, of whom this Altar and the Sacrifice thereon was a Type.

XII. Of the Pillars that were before the Porch of the Temple.

THERE was divers Pillars belonging to the Temple: But in this Place we are confined to speak of only two; Namely, those which stood before the Temple.

These Pillars stood before the Porch, or Entrance into the Temple, looking towards the Altar, the Court, and them that were the Worshippers there: Also they were a Grace and a Beauty to the Front of the House.

1. These Pillars stood one on the right Hand, and the other on the left, at the Door of the Porch of the Temple, and they had Names given them (you may be sure) to signify something. The Name of that on the right Hand was called Jachin; (God shall establish:) And the Name of that on the left Hand was Boaz, (in it is Strength) 1 Kings 7. 21. 2 Chron. 3. 17.

2. These two Pillars were Types of Christ's Apostles, of the Apostles of Circumcision, and of the Uncircumcision. Therefore, the Apostle Paul also calleth them Pillars, Gal. 2. And saith, that that Pillar on the right Hand was a Type of himself, and his Companions, who were to go to the Uncircumcised and teach the Gentiles the Way of Life. When James, Cephas, and John saith, He who seemed to be Pillars, perceived the Grace that was given unto me, they gave unto me and Barnabas the right Hand of Fellowship, that we should go unto the Heathen, and they unto the Circumcision, Gal. 2. 9.

So then, these two Pillars were Types of these two Orders of the Apostles in this their divers Service for God.

3. And that Paul and Barnabas was signified by those on the right Hand, to wit, To be the Apostles of the Gentiles, He sheweth again, where he saith, I am the Minister of Christ to the Gentiles, ministring the Grace of God, that the offering up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, being sanctified by the Holy Ghost, Rom. 11. 13. chap. 15. 16.

4. And since the Name of this Pillar was Jachin (God shall establish) as it sheweth that Opposition shall attend it: so also,

That God would bless his Word preached by them to the Gentiles, to the Conversion of Numbers of them, Maugre all the Opposition of the Enemy.

5. This is further imply'd, for that they were made of Brass; as he saith of the Prophet, I have made thee a fenced brazen Wall, an Iron Pillar; And their fighting against thee shall nothing at all prevail. Wherefore Paul says of himself, I am set for the Defence of the Gospel, That the Truth thereof might continue with you, Phil. 1. 17. Gal. 2. 5.

XIII. Of the Height of these Pillars, that thus stood before the Porch of the Door of the Temple.

THE Pillars were eighteen Cubits high a-peice, and that is as high, yea, as high again, as the highest Giant that ever we read of in the Word: For the highest of which we read, was but six Cubits and a Span.

True, the Bedstead of OG was nine Cubits long, but I trow, the Giant himself was shorter, Deut. 3. 11. 2 Chron. 3. 15. But put the longest to the longest, and set the one upon the Shoulders of the other, and yet each Pillar was higher than they.

We have now, as I know of, but few that remain of the Remnant of the Giants, and though they boast, as if they were higher than Agag, yet these Pillars are higher than they.

These Pillars are the highest, you may equal them; and an Inch above, is worth an Ell below. The Height therefore of these Pillars is, to shew us what high Dignity God did put upon those of his Saints, whom he did call to be Apostles of the Lamb: For their Office and Call thereto, is the highest in the Church of God. These Men, I say, were made thus high by their being cast in such a Mould: Of that which added yet further to their Height, we will speak anon: we only speak now of the high Call, by which they, and only they were made capable of Apostolical Authority. The Apostles were sent immediately, their Call was extraordinary, their Office was universal, they had alike Power in all Churches, and their Doctrine was infallible, Acts 26. 16. 1 Cor. 9. 1. Gal. 1. 1. 1 John 1. 1, 2, 3. John 2. 23.

And what can our pretended Giants do, or say, in Comparison of these? The Truth is, all other Men to these are Dwarfs, are low, dark, weak, and beneath them, not only as to Call and Office; but also as to Gifts and Grace. This Sentence, Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, drowneth all. What now are all other Titles of Grandeur and Greatness, when compared with this one Sentence.

True, the Men were but mean in themselves, for what is Paul, or Apollos, or what what was James or John? Yet by their Call to that Office, they were made highest of all in the Church. Christ did raise them eighteen Cubits high, not in Conceit, for so there are many higher than they, but in Office, and Calling, and Divine Authority.

And observe it, these stand at the Door, at the Entering into the Temple of God, at which they enter that go in thither to worship God, to shew that all right Worship, and that which will be acceptable to God, is by, or according to their Doctrine.

XIV. Of the Chapiters of the Pillars of the Temple.

THERE was also two Chapiters, made for the Pillars of the Temple: for each, one; and they were five Cubits high apace. These were for the adorning of the Pillars, and therefore were Types and Shadows of that Abundance of Grace which God did put upon the Apostles after the Resurrection of our Lord. Wherefore, as he saith here, the Chapiters were upon the Pillars; so it saith, that great Grace was upon all the Apostles, Acts 4. 33.

These Chapiters, had belonging to them a Bowl made Pumil-Fashion, and it was placed upon the Head of them, perhaps to signify their Aptness to receive, and Large-ness to contain of the Dew of Heaven, that Shadow of the Doctrine of the Gospel, which Doctrine the Apostles, as the chief, were to receive and hold forth to the World for their Conversion. Hence, as the Bowls were capable to receive the Dew of Heaven, these are said to receive Grace, an Apostleship for Obedience to the Faith among all Nations, for his Name, Rom. 1. 5. 1 Kings 7. 16, 42. 2 Chron. 4. 33. Deut. 32. 1. Rom. 15. 29.

There was also upon these Chapiters a Net-work or Nets like unto Checker-work, which still added to their Lustre. These Nets were they which shewed for what Intent the Apostolical Office was ordained; namely, that by their preaching they might bring many Souls to God. And hence Christ calls them Fishermen, saying, Ye shall catch Men, Mat. 4. 19. Mar. 1. 17. Luke 5. 10. and 2 Cor. 12. 16.

The World is compared, to a Sea; Men to Fishes; and the Gospel, to a Net, Ezek. 47. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14. Matt. 13. 47, 48, 49, 50. As therefore Men catch Fish with a Net, so the Apostles caught Men by their Word, which Word, as I told you, to me is signified by this Net-work, upon the Top of these Pillars. See therefore the Mystery of God in these Things.

XV. Of the Pomegranates adjoyned to these Nets on the Chapiters.

THERE was also joyned to these Nets upon the Top of these Pillars, Pomegranates in Abundance, four hundred for the Net-work: Pomegranates you know, are beautiful to look on, pleasant to the Palate, comfortable to the Stomach, and cheering by their Juice, 1 Kings 7. 42. Song 4. 3. chap. 8. 2. chap. 4. 13. chap. 6. 11. chap. 7. 12. There was to be two Rows of these Pomegranates, for one Net-work, and so two Rows of them for the other.

And this was to shew that the Net of the Gospel is not an empty Thing; but is sufficiently baited with such Varieties, as are apt to allure the World to be caught by them. The Law is but a sound of Words, but the Gospel is not so: that is baited with Pomegranates; with variety of excellent Things. Hence 'tis called the Gospel of the Kingdom; and the Gospel of the Grace of God; because it is, as it were, baited with Grace and Glory, that Sinners may be allured, and may be taken with it to their Eternal Salvation, Matt. 24. 14. Acts 20. 24.

Grace and Glory, Grace and Glory! these are the Pomegranates with which the Word of the Gospel is baited, that Sinners may be taken and saved thereby. The Argument of old was, Milk and Honey, that was, I say, the alluring bait, with which Moses drew six hundred thousand out of Egypt, into the Wilderness of old, Exod. 3. 8. But behold we have Pomegranates, two Rows of Pomegranates: Grace and a Kingdom, as the bait of the holy Gospel; no wonder then, if when Men of Skill did cast this Net into the Sea, such Numbers of Fish have been caught, even by one Sermon, Acts 2. They baited their Nets with taking Things, Things taking to the eye and taste.

Nets are truly instruments of Death, but the Net of the Gospel doth catch to draw from Death, wherefore this Net is contrary, Life and Immortality is brought to light thorough this. No marvel then, if Men are so glad, and that for Gladness they leap like Fishes in a Net, when they see themselves caught in this Drag of the holy Gospel of the Son of God. They are caught from Death and Hell, caught to live with God in Glory.

XVI. Of the Chains that were upon these Pillars that stood before the Temple.

AS there were Nets to catch, and Pomegranates to bait, so there were Chains belonging to these Chapiters on these Pillars. And he made Chains, as in the Oracle, and put them upon the Head of the Chapiters, 2 Chr. 3. 16.

But what were these Chains a Type of? I answer, They were (perhaps) a Type of those those Bonds which attend the Gospel, by which Souls are taken, and tied fast to the Horns of the Altar. Gospel Grace, and Gospel Obligations, are ties and binding Things: They can hold those that are entangled by the Word. Love is strong as Death, Bands of Love and the Cords of a Man, and Chains take hold on them that are taken by the Gospel, Hos. 11. Song. 8. 6.

But this Strength to bind, lieth not in outward Force, but in a sweet Constraint, by vertue of the displays of undeserved Love. The Love of Christ constraineth us: 2 Cor. 5. Wherefore as you find the Nets, so the Chains had Pomegranates on them. And he made an hundred Pomegranates, and put them upon the Chains, 2 Chr. 3. 16. The Chains then had Baits, as well as the Nets, to shew that the Bands of the Gospel are irresistible Goodnesses: Such with which Men love to be bound, and such as they pray they may hold fast by. He binds his Foal to the Vine, his Saint unto this Saviour, Gen. 49. 11.

By these Chains there is therefore shewed what Strength there is in Gospel-charms, if once the Adder doth but hear them; never Man yet was able to resist them that well did know the Meaning of them. They are mighty to make poor Men obedient, and that in Word and Deed.

These Chains were such as was in the Oracle, to shew that Gospel-bonds are strong, as the Joys of Heaven, and as the Glories there, can make them Chains as in the Oracle, as in the most holy Place. 'Tis Heaven that binds Sinners on Earth, to the Faith and Hope of the Gospel of Christ.

XVII. Of the Lilly-work which was upon the Chapiters, that were upon these Pillars of the Temple.

THESE Pillars were also adorned with Lilly-work, as well as with Pomegranates and Chains. Chapiters also which were upon the Top of the Pillars were of Lilly-work: so was the Work of the Pillars finished, see 1 Kings 7. 19, 20.

This Lilly-work is here put in on purpose, even to shew us how far off those that were to be the true Apostles of the Lamb should be from seeking carnal Things, or of making their preaching a stalking-horse to worldly Greatness, and that Preferment. There was Lilly-work upon them: That is, they lived upon the Bounty and Care of God, and was content with that Glory which he had put upon them. The Lillies, saith Christ, they toil not, neither do they spin, and yet Solomon in all his Glory was not arrayed like one of these, Matt. 6. 28, 29. Luke 12. 28, 29.

Thus therefore these Pillars shew, that as the Apostles should be fitted and qualified for their Work: They should be also from cares and worldly cumber, they should be content with God's providing for them, even as the goodly Lillies are. And as thus prepared, they were set in the front of the House, for all Ministers to see and learn, and take Example of them how to behave themselves as to this World, in the performing of their Office.

And that which gives us further light in this is, that this Lilly-work is said by divine Institution, to be placed over against the Belly, the Belly of the Pillars, a Type of ours: 1 Kings 7. 20.

The Belly is a craving Thing; and these Things, saith the Text, were placed over against the Belly, to teach that they should not humour, but put check unto the desires and cravings of the Belly, or to shew that they need not do it, for that he that calls to his work will himself provide for the Belly. 'Tis said of the Church, that her Belly is as a Heap of Wheat set about with Lillies, Song 7. 2. To shew that she should without Covetousness have sufficient, if she would cast all her Care upon God, her great Provider; This the Apostles did; and this is their Glory to this Day.

So was the Work of the Pillars finished. To live Lilly-lives, it seems is the Glory of an Apostle, and the compleating of their Office and Service for God. But this is directly opposite to the Belly, over against the Belly, and this makes it the harder Work. But yet so living is the Way to make all that is done sweet-scented, to those that be under this Care. Covetousness makes a Minister smell frowish, and look more like a greedy Dog, than an Apostle of Jesus Christ. Judas had none of this Lilly-work, so his Name stinks to this Day. He that grows like the Lilly shall cast forth his scent like Lebanon, his branches shall spread, and his beauty shall be as the Olive-Tree, and his Smell as Lebanon.

Thus lived Christ, first; and thus the Apostles, next; nor can any other, as to this, live like, or be compared to them. They covered no Man's Silver or Gold, or Apparel. They lived like Lillies in the World, and did send forth their scent as Lebanon.

Thus you see of whom these Pillars were a shadow, and what their Height, their Chapiters, their Bowles, their Nets, their Chains, their Pomegranates, and their Lilly-work did signifie, and how all was most sweetly answered in the Antitype. These were Men of the first Rate, the Apostles, I mean, were such.

XVIII. Of the Fashion of the Temple.

I. OF the Length and the Breadth of the Temple, I shall say nothing: But as to the Height thereof, there methinks I see something. The Temple was higher higher than the Pillars, and so is the Church than her Officers: I say, consider them singly as Officers, tho' inferior as to Gifts and Office; for, as I said before of Ministers in general, so now I say the same of the Apostles, tho' as to Office they were the highest, yet the Temple is above them. Gifts and Office make no Men Sons of God; as so, they are but Servants: Tho' these were Servants of the highest Form. 'Tis the Church as such, that is the Lady, a Queen, the Bride, the Lamb's Wife, and Prophets, Apostles and Ministers, &c. are but Servants, Stewards, Labourers, for her good, Psal. 45. 9. Rev. 19. 7. 1 Cor. 3. 5. chap. 4. 1, 2.

As therefore the Lady is above the Servant, the Queen above the Steward, or the Wife above all her Husband's Officers, so is the Church, as such above these Officers. The Temple was higher than the Pillars.

2. Again, as the Temple was highest, so it enlarged itself still upward; for as it ascended in height, so it still was wider and wider; even from the lowest Chambers to the Top.

The first Chambers were but five Cubits broad, the middle ones were six, but the highest were seven Cubits, 1 Kings 6. 5, 6. the Temple therefore was round about above, some Cubits wider than it was below: For there was an enlarging and ascending about still upward to the side Chambers, for the winding about was still upward round about the house; therefore the Breadth of the House was still upward, and so increased from the lowest Chambers to the highest by the midst, Ezek. 41. 7.

And this was to shew us, that God's true Gospel Temple, which is his Church, should have its Enlargedness of Heart still upward, or most for Spiritual and Eternal things; wherefore he saith, Thy Heart shall fear and be enlarged; that is, be most affected with things above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God, Isa. 60. 5. Col. 3. 2, 3. Indeed, it is the Nature of Grace to enlarge it self still upward, and to make the Heart widest for the Things that are above.

The Temple therefore was narrowest downwards, to shew that a little of Earth, or this World, should serve the Church of God. And having Food, and Raiment, let us be therewith content.

But now, upwards, and as to heavenly Things, we are commanded to be covetous, as to them, and after them to enlarge our selves, both by the Fashion of the Temple, as by express Words, 1 King. 4. 29. Isa. 60. 5. Philip. 3. 14. 1 Cor. 12. 31. 1 Tim. 6. 8. Psal. 119. 32.

Since then the Temple was widest upward, let us imitate it, and have our Conversation in Heaven. Let our Eyes, our Ears, our Hands, and Hearts, our Prayers, and Groans be most for Things above.

Let us open our Mouths, as the Ground that is chapt, doth for the latter Rain, for the Things that are Eternal, Job 29. 23. Psal. 81. 10.

Observe again, that the lowest Parts of the Temple were the narrowest Parts of the Temple: So those in the Church who are nearest, or most concerned with Earth, are the most narrowest spirited, as to the Things of God. But now let even such an one be taken up higher, to above, to the uppermost Parts of the Temple, and there he will be enlarged, and have his Heart stretcht out. For the Temple you see was widest upwards, the higher, the more it is enlarged. Paul being once caught up into Paradise, could not but be there enlarged, 2 Cor. 12.

One may say of the Fashion of the Temple, as some say of a lively Picture, it speaks. I say, its Form and Fashion speaks, it says to all Saints, to all the Churches of Christ, Open your Hearts for Heaven, be ye enlarged upwards.

I read not in Scripture of any House, but this that was thus enlarged upwards, nor is there any where, save only in the Church of God, that which doth answer this similitude.

All other are widest downward, and have the largest Heart for earthly Things: The Church only is widest upward, and has its greatest Enlargements towards Heaven.

XIX. Of the outward Glory of the Temple.

I Do also think, that as to this, there was a great Expression in it. I mean, a Voice of God, a Voice that teacheth the New Testament Church to carry even Conviction in her outward usages that I say might give Conviction to the World. And besides, this of its enlarging upwards, there was such an outward Beauty and Glory put upon it, as was alluring to beholders: The stones were curiously carved, and excellently joined together; its outward shew was white and glittering to the dazling of the Eyes of the Beholders; yea, the Disciples themselves were taken with it, 'twas so admirable to behold. Hence 'tis said they came to Christ to shew him the Building of the Temple: Master, said they, see what manner of Stones, and what buildings are here, Matt. 24. 1. Mark 13. 1. Luke 21. 5. And hence it is said that Kings, and the Mighty of the Earth, were taken with the Glory of it. Because of thy Temple at Jerusalem, shall Kings bring presents unto thee: as it is Psal. 68. 29, 31.

Kings; Gentile Kings, they shall be so taken with the Sight of the outward Glory of it; for they were not suffer'd to go into it: No uncircumcised were admitted in thither. It was therefore with the outward Glory of it, with which the Beholders were thus taken.

Her

Her enlarging upward, as that was to shew us what the inward Affections of Christians should be, Col. 3. 1, 2, 3. So her curious outward adorning and beauty, was a Figure of the beautiful and holy conversation of the Godly. And 'tis brave when the World are made to say of the Lives and Conversations of Saints, as they were made to say of the Stones and outward building of the Temple, Behold what Christians, and what goodly Conversations are here! I say 'tis brave, when our light so shines before men, that they seeing our good Works shall be forced to glorify our Father which is in Heaven, Matt. 5. 16.

Hence this is called our adorning where-with we adorn the Gospel, and that by which we beautify it, Tit. 2. 10.

This, I say, is taking to Beholders, as was this goodly outside of the Temple. And without this, what is to be seen in the Church of God? Her inside cannot be seen by the World, but her outside may. Now her outside is very homely and without all beauty, save that of the holy Life; this only is her visible goodliness. This puts to silence the ignorance of foolish men. This allureth others to fall in love with their own Salvation, and makes them fall in with Christ against the Devil and his Kingdom.

XX. Of the Porch of the Temple.

WE come next to the Porch of the Temple, that is commonly called Solomon's.

1. This Porch was in the Front of the House, and so became the common way into the Temple, 1 King. 6. 3. 2 Chron. 3. 4.

2. This Porch therefore was the place of reception in common for all, whether Jews or religious Profelites, who came to Jerusalem to worship, Acts 3. 11. chap. 5. 12.

3. This Porch had a Door or Gate belonging to it, but such as was seldom shut except in declining times, or when Men put themselves into a rage against those better than themselves, 2 Chron. 29. 7. Acts 21. 28, 29, 30.

4. This Gate of this Porch was called Beautiful, even the beautiful Gate of the Temple, and was that at which the lame man lay, to beg for an Alms of them that went in thither to worship, Acts 3. 1, 2, 10.

Now then, since this Porch was the common place of reception for all worshippers, and the place also where they laid the Beggars. It looks, as if it were to be a Type of the Churches bosom for Charity. Here the Profelites were entertained, here the Beggars were relieved, and received Alms. These Gates were seldom shut, and the Houses of Christian compassion should be always open. This therefore beautified this Gate, as Charity beautifies any of the Churches. Largeness of Heart, and tender Compassion at the Church-door, is excellent.

It is the bond of perfectness, 1 Cor. 12. ult. chap. 13. 1, 2, 3, 4. Heb. 13. 1, 2. 3 Job. 5. 6, 7. Col. 3. 14.

The Church-Porch to this day is a Place for Beggars, and perhaps this Practice at first was borrowed from the Beggars lying at the Temple-gate. This Porch was large, and so should the Charity of the Churches be. It was for length, the breadth of the Temple, and of the same size with the Holiest of all, 1 King 6. 3. 2 Chron. 3. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.

The first might be to teach us, in Charity we should not be niggardly, but according to the breadth of our ability, we should extend it to all the House, and that in our so doing the very emblem of Heaven is upon us, of which the Holiest was a Figure, As therefore we have opportunity, let us do good to all, &c.

It is a fine Ornament to a true Church, to have a large Church-porch, or a wide bosom for reception of all that come thither to worship. This was commanded to the Jews, and their Glory shone when they did accordingly. And it shall come to pass in what place the Stranger sojourneth, there shall ye give him his Inheritance, saith the Lord God, Ezek. 47. 23.

This Porch was as I said, not only for length, the breadth of the Temple, and so the length and breadth of the Holiest: But it was, if I mistake not, for height, far higher than them both. For the holy place was but thirty Cubits high, and the most Holy but twenty: but the Porch was in height an hundred and twenty Cubits. This beautiful Porch therefore was four times as high as was the Temple it self; 1 King. 6. 2, 20. 2 Chron. 3. 4.

One excellent Ornament therefore of this Temple was, for that it had a Porch so high, that is so famous for height: so high as to be seen afar off. Charity, if it be rich, runs up from the Church like a Steeple, and will be seen afar off; I say, if it be rich, large, and abounds. Christ's Charity was blazed abroad, 'twas so high no Man could hide it, and the Charity of the Churches will be seen from Church to Church, yea, and will be spoken of to their Commendations in every place, if it be warm, fervent, and high; Mark 7. 36. 2 Cor. 8. 24. chap. 9. 2, 13, 14.

XXI. Of the Ornaments of the Porch of the Temple.

TH E R E were three things belonging to the Porch, besides its height, that was an Ornament unto it.

I. It was over laid within with Gold.

II. It had the Pillars adjoyned unto it.

III. It was the inlet into the Temple.

First, It was over laid with Gold oft-times was a type of Grace, and particularly of the Grace of love. That in Solomon's Chariot riot called Gold, is yet again mentioned by the name, Love: Song 3. 9, 10. As it is in the Church, the Grace of Love is as Gold: 'Tis the greatest, the richest of Graces, and that which abides for ever; Hence they that shew much love to Saints, are said to be rich; 1 Tim. 6. 17, 18, 19. And hence Charity is called a Treasure, a Treasure in the Heavens, Luk. 12. 33, 34. Love is a golden Grace, let then the Churches, as the Porch of the Temple was, be in-laid with Love, as Gold.

Secondly, It had the Pillars adjoyning to it, the which, besides their Stateliness, seem to be there typically to teach Example. For there was seen by the space of four Cubits, their Lilly-work in the Porch, 1 King. 7. 19.

Of their Lilly-work I spake before, now that they were so placed, that they might be seen in the Porch of the House, it seems to be for example to teach the Church, that she should live without worldly care, as did the Apostles, the first Planters of the Church. And let Ministers do this, they are now the Pillars of the Churches, and they stand before the Porch of the House, let them also shew their Lilly-work to the House, that the Church may learn of them to be without carefulness, as to worldly things, and also to be rich in love, and charity towards the Brethren.

A covetous Minister is a base thing, a Pillar more symbolizing Lot's Wife, than an holy Apostle of Jesus Christ, let them, since they stand at the Door, and since the Eyes of all in the Porch are upon them, be Patterns, and Examples of good Works; 1 Tim. 6. 10, 11, 12. Tit. 2. 7.

Thirdly, Another Ornament unto this Porch, was, that it was an inlet into the Temple. Charity is it which receiveth Orphans, that receiveth the poor and afflicted into the Church; worldly love, or that which is carnal, shuts up Bowels, yea and the Church-doors too, against the poor of the Flock; Wherefore look that this kind of love be never countenanced by you. Crave that rather which is a fruit of the Spirit.

O Churches, let your Ministers be beautified with your love, that they may beautify you with their love, and also be an Ornament unto you, and to that Gospel they minister to you, for Jesus Christ's sake.

XXII. Of the Ascent, by which they went up into the Porch of the Temple.

1. THIS Porch also had certain steps, by which they went up into the House of the Lord. I know not directly the Number of them. Though Ezekiel speaks something about it, Ezek. 40. 38, 39. Hence when Men went to worship in the Temple, they were said, To go up into the house of the Lord, Isa. 38. 22.

These Steps which were the ascent to the
